HEAVY FROST BRINGS LOSS TO FRUIT MEN

Cherries and Pears Hard Hit By Mercury Drop On Friday Night

A 25 degree drop in the temperature Friday night worked havoc with the fruit and vegetable crops in Northville and surrounding community.

Fruit growers predict that almost three-quarters of the cherry and pear crops were destroyed, that the grape crop was badly damaged and that thousands of tomato plants will not blossom this year. Apple growers are divided in opinion. Some believe that the damage was slight, that only the early varieties were harmed while other apple growers are pessimistic concerning the apple crop for this year. They are all agreed, however, that if the frost had occurred two days later when the apples were just past the point of being "in the pink" the damages would have been extremely heavy.

Had not the frost killed them there would have been a few peaches this season as fruit growers report that a few blossoms had already appeared.

Shrubbery owners were also hit hard. Rose vines suffered as did many other varieties of vines.

Tillers of the soil and lawn growers everywhere are hoping for a plentiful rain to dispell some of the harm wrought by the frost and dry weather. Weather reports are predicting local showers for Friday which would be a real boon at this time.

"LELAWALA" WILL BE REPEATED TONIGHT

"Lelawala," the beautiful Indian operetta by Charles Wakefield Cadman will be repeated tonight (Friday) at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium.

Fifty Northville high school pupils will take part in this production which promises to be one of the most colorful and entertaining of the year. Leslie G. Lee will direct the operetta and Francis Alexander will play the accompaniment.

A great deal of time, effort, and money has been spent on producing this operetta. The costumes for most of the cast were made under the direction of Mrs. Mildred Zimmerman. Special costumes for some of the principals have been rented from Detroit. The special scenery for this occasion was painted by Mrs. Chapman and Robert Reed. Many others have also worked hard to help get this performance ready.

Despite the fact that the expenses are high the admission price has been set at 15c and 25c. It is hoped that a large audience will attend this operetta tonight and help support this worthwhile activity.

The cast for tonight's performance will be:

There is no charge whatsoever made by the village for the use of the parking lot.

MYRON C. GUNSELL BUYS HORTON STORE

Announcement of the purchase of the C. R. Horton Rexall drug store last week by Myron C. Gunsell, was made Thursday. Mr. Gunsell took possession of the store at the time of the announcement.

Formerly owned by Charles Ralph Horton, who passed away last summer, the store was taken over by Mrs. Horton, who has recently been assisted by Walter C. Peters.

"It will be my aim to continue to operate this store on the same high plane set by Mr. Horton," says Mr. Gunsell, "I contemplate making a number of changes in the interior as well as the exterior of the store. Good merchandise, right prices and courteous service will, I hope, make my venture a successful one."

LOCAL DOCTORS HEARD ON N. T. A. PROGRAM

Three Northville physicians have been honored during the past week, when Dr. H. S. Willis, Dr. J. P. Nalbant and Dr. D. H. Saley have appeared on the program of the National Tuberculosis association held in Cincinnati. Considering the fact that representatives from all parts of the country attended this convention of specialists in the treatment of tuberculosis Northville may feel just pride in having these men recognized.

Dr. Willis and Dr. Saley discussed various phases of the technique of modern treatment of the disease and Dr. Nalbant, a child specialist, spoke on "Tuberculosis in Childhood."

Mrs. Saley accompanied her husband Monday to Cincinnati, while Mrs. Willis and Mrs. Bruce H. Douglas joined the party at Richmond, Ind., where they stopped to attend the graduating exercises of the former's nephew, Dunbar Davis, at Earlham college.

EXPERT WILL TALK ON TROUBLES OF FARMERS

Dr. J. H. Muncie, research associate in plant pathology, will talk at the Belleville high school, Thursday evening, May 24, at 8.00 on some of the troubles which may be expected this summer.

Each season brings its problems and Dr. Muncie is well able to discuss the various plant diseases with which farmers and gardeners have to contend. Two years ago the county had Stewarts disease of sweet corn — maybe we will have a severe re-occurrence this season, and we should be prepared.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

The many friends of Mrs. W. H. White will be glad to know that she is recovering nicely after undergoing a major operation at the University hospital in Ann Arbor, Tuesday morning.

FAIR BOARD PLANS FOR A NEW BUILDING

Work Will Be Started Soon To Replace Burned Structure

Northville Wayne County Fair board officers and directors met last evening at the grounds to discuss the construction of a new main building to replace the one destroyed by fire May 2.

Dates for the 1934 fair have been set for August 22 through August 25 and the new building must be ready for use by that time to house the school and handicraft exhibitions, the fruit and vegetable shows and miscellaneous displays. The contract for the proposed construction work has not yet been let nor plans drawn up for the new building but officials stated that work will be started just as soon as possible.

The 1934 fair, according to Nelson C. Schrader, president of the fair association, will keep to the same high standard of past performances and by reason of the new main building and several additions to the fair not yet disclosed will be even better.

With their customary enterprise and ambition, fair officials are letting no "grass grow under their feet" to give this community one of the best fairs in the state. The fair has weathered their hardest years of its existence recently and is now in a position to be bigger and better than ever.

BAPTISTS DEDICATE RADIO TELEPHONE FOR THE EASTLAWN "SAN"

Mother's Day was observed during the services of the day at the First Baptist Church Sunday, May 13. The morning service was devoted to all mothers and the pastor spoke appropriately on "Mothers and Mothers." During this service recognition was made of both the oldest mother and the youngest mother present, each being the recipient of a lovely bouquet of flowers. Mrs. Susan Eaton had the honor of being the oldest mother and Mrs. George Morrison the youngest.

During the church school hour Mother's Day was observed in each department. In the beginners and primary departments, which were taxed to capacity, many mothers availed themselves of seeing just how the children are being taught. No special exercises were arranged, and the worship program was quiet, and the lesson stories taught in the usual way. During the expression period which followed the lesson story, each child lovingly decorated a little pot of violets for mother. There was a record attendance of 63 in this department alone. The junior and intermediate departments were also hosts and hostesses.

The evening service, which began at 7.00 o'clock with an organ recital by Louis Meisner, was the official dedication of the Eastlawn Radiotelephone. A spirited song service, led by C. Winter, followed the organ recital after which Dr. A. B. Wickham gave a very interesting address in the form of an autobiography of his early experiences and desires, which led finally to the culmination of his dream—Eastlawn Sanatorium. He spoke fittingly of the appreciation of both the patients and the workers for this service, and stated that it meant far more to them than we realize. Following Dr. Wickham's address, Rev. H. G. North delivered the Dedication Sermon. This entire service was transmitted to Eastlawn sanatorium and in the future all services of the Baptist Church will be likewise transmitted.

ROTARIANS REGISTER 100 PER CENT FOR INTERNATIONAL MEET

Members of the Northville Rotary club will register one hundred per cent for the big International Rotary convention to be held at Detroit June 25 to 29, inclusive.

Action to this effect was taken at the weekly meeting of the club Tuesday noon, following a talk by Alonzo Ewing of the Detroit Rotary, who explained in detail plans for caring for the 10,000 delegates who will come to Detroit from the 77 countries where Rotary is found.

LUTHERANS HOLD ANNUAL MOTHER-DAUGHTER EVENT

Over 90 mothers and daughters enjoyed the annual banquet of St. Paul's Lutheran church held Wednesday evening when an especially delicious dinner was served.

Mrs. Hester Waterman gave an interesting talk on "Troublesome Youngsters." Mrs. Elsie Gugel capably acted as toastmistress.

BOY SCOUTS GIVE EXCHANGE PROGRAM

Turning the clock backward, in some cases a good many years, Scoutmaster Orlow G. Owen transformed Northville Exchangites into Boy Scouts at the club's meeting held Wednesday noon at the Methodist church parlors.

Mr. Owen, in charge of the program, had six Scout bodies assist him and in the short time allowed him went through regular Scout meeting procedure. The "Scouts" were taught the correct form of giving the Scout oath, the Scout salute and the chant of the Scout benediction.

All in a short lesson on knots and how to tie them a contest was held in which Exchangites did well and poorly in varying degrees. Following this Scout Alfred Parmenter gave an exhibition of how to produce fire by friction, this is accomplished by rubbing wood pieces together to get enough heat to fan a piece of frayed rope into flame.

The six Scouts who assisted Mr. Owen in conducting the meeting were Robert Dove, Lawrence Parmenter, Scott Cole, Alfred Parmenter, Kenneth Bolton, and Roland Moore.

Previous to starting the program Mr. Owen made a touching appeal in which he presented a photograph to an incoming member of the club, Mr. Fordney, as a guest. Mr. Fordney accepted the gift in the spirit in which it was given and did a lively bit of applause.

Dr. H. L. Sperling, president of the club, made announcement of the fact that the Farmington Exchange club is holding Blossom Day on Saturday, May 19 and members of the local club are invited to attend festivities.

Guests present were E. R. Brown, Ann Arbor, Ned Millis, James Lyons, Wm. E. Forney, F. Aaron Peters and George Keeping. Scott Montgomery, honorary member, was present and played a capable accompaniment on the piano to the Exchange songs.

Pupils of the Waterford School Beautify Grounds With Trees and Shrubs Planted Four Years Ago

Thank the teacher and the pupils of the Waterford school on the heights overlooking Cass Benton Park and surrounding country for making a more beautiful community!

As landscape artists and lovers of the attractive life, this school has set us all an inspiring example.

Listen to the story:

Four years ago, under the direction of Miss Margaret Eckhardt, 4-H county agent, and the teacher of the school, Mrs. Jessie Wilson of Northville, a corner of the school yard was spaded and then planted with young shrubs and trees. The cost of these was just one dollar and a half. Good care was given the growing things with the result that two-thirds of them lived until spring.

Last Friday came the miracle! Under the supervision of Miss Eckhardt and Mrs. Wilson, the shrubs and trees were transplanted. All around the school they were placed everywhere except right in front of the school. The white school house took on a more dignified and attractive look as the trees and shrubs nestled close to the building. There are spireas, lilacs, evergreens, maples, elms and other varieties.

In a year or two the Waterford school grounds will look one hundred per cent better and ten years from now, some of the present pupils will come around and say with real pride, "I helped grow that tree."

These are the pupils who attend the school:

Virginia Kuehn, Claudine Waterman, Arthur Gotts, Mary Frese, Shirley George, Marjorie Gibson, Kenneth Richards.

Clare Ebersole, Myra Gibson, Wallace Whipple, Madeline Perkins, Dorothy Ebersole, Mary Gotts, John Gibson.

Charles George, Helen Van Sickle, Donald Waterman, Edith Whipple, Fred Whipple, Howard Ebersole and Robert Gotts.

M. O. LEAGUE OPENS SEASON HERE SATURDAY

Northville Will Meet Ann Arbor at the Fair Grounds

The only rainy Sunday in a month caused the postponement of the Northville-Hazel Park baseball game here at the fair grounds last week and caused the opening of the M. O. league to be delayed until Sunday, May 20, when the local team meets Ann Arbor.

Eager to get started Dr. Holcombe's team is practicing daily. Disappointed in not being able to start last Sunday the Wolverines plan to make it up against Ann Arbor, an opponent said to be capable of offering stiff opposition.

Northville has five pitchers, any one of whom may start, but it is certain that they will all see action. Injuries have been kept down and the team is in good physical condition.

Coaches Jack and Spencer have been working hard with their pitchers and catchers, the latter spending hours improving the local diamond on the fair grounds in preparation for the opening game.

Prices on parking are kept down to a minimum at North the baseball fans may see a real professional team this year, but have to a good team for the money.

DEMOCRATS WANT CHANGE

The battle is on between rival forces of the democratic party of Michigan. On one hand is Governor Comstock and his followers; on the other hand are such men as Judge Arthur J. Lacy, Auditor General Stack and others. There will be a real race for the nomination for governor.

The defeat of the governor's bond issue and his pardon of a son of one of his official family have aroused such widespread real condemnation of the state administration that it is certain that there will be a new deal on at Lansing. Out of the whole mess, it is certain that the people will get better government.

NATURE HELPS THE AAA IN CROP REDUCTION

The philosophy of "turning under every third row," or cutting down production of corn and wheat and of killing hogs before the normal time has been too deep for us to comprehend. With people hungry in the midst of abundance, with people cold in the midst of heat, the whole plan of the "Brain Trusters" in going against the laws of nature seems all wrong.

It reports from the West and Middle Western states indicate we need not worry over production this year. Grim drought has laid its heavy hand on the wheat fields, on the corn fields and unless there is a miracle to save the production, [illegible] will be the lowest of years. Any price advance of course, food will be a tragedy. It would be a miracle if the prices of farm products could be kept at a reasonable level. There is no [illegible] for farmers or the people.

THE DIFFERENCE IN HOUSES AND PEOPLE

There are two types of homes in Northville. One is attractive and inviting. The difference is made this week around the homes that have planted shrubs and flowers and have cared for the building and gone to work on the grounds. Around the other homes, there are no flowers or spires or hollyhocks. No one could keep father about getting the lawn out, so the house stands gaunt-like, like a lone tree out on the prairie.

And yet good people live in both these houses. But the one home has folks who love beauty and are willing to do a little work in the dirt to gain the attractive place. In the other home the folks didn't care or care and so the structure stands out in its gauntness.

Should these two families change houses, if you could go around in a year or two, you would find that the homes had completely changed their looks. The people make the homes they live in—inside and out.

THREE MILLION TULIP BULBS

If we had two things, the time and the money, this week we would see us over at Holland, Michigan, for a day or two to see the "Tulip Festival" in that bustling little city over on Michigan's western shore.

Three million of tulip bulbs are blossoming this week for the glory of that city and all of western Michigan. This is a half million more bulbs than were planted last year. Of course the festival will draw thousands of people and these thousands will see life through little brighter glasses for having witnessed the glory. No wonder the committee in its advertising uses this slogan: "Come, worship at our shrine." We don't know how a homely, muddy looking bulb can become transformed into a flower of magnificence and rare beauty but God makes flowers grow that way and no matter how scientific we become we shall never be able to solve this miracle.

Wouldn't it be fine if Northville could go on the Michigan map with some kind of a festival? We are not Hollanders and cannot compete with Holland, Mich., in a "Tulip Festival" but we have the beautiful hills and valleys, the setting for a glorious festival of some sort.

Who will show us the way how to do it? If we should become a city with some unique spectacle of beauty and charm, Detroit from its million and a half people would send thousands yearly to "worship at our shrine."

THE NRA SHOWS FIRST BREAKDOWN

The expected has happened. The NRA has started to "beat a retreat"—so the headlines of newspapers tell us.

According to the dispatches, General Hugh S. Johnson has found out that it is impossible to enforce a lot of the NRA codes and that, therefore, the government will back out as gracefully as it can.

General Johnson has come to this conclusion after his officials, following months of investigation, have concluded that you can't put policemen over every small business in the United States. This is the same conclusion that has been reached by thousands upon thousands of thoughtful and conscientious business men who have been trying to abide by the hand-tying plans of some of the greedy associations set up under the NRA.

Another big reason for the abandonment of the codes, as the headlines is that the interests of the consumer have been ignored, rather than helped, by the NRA. The plan to put more men to work and make costs lower for the buyer. It has worked out in actual practice that costs have soared and the consumer, with little or no increase in his purchasing power, has been hard hit in many of the things he has had to buy.

Another thing: There has been a lot of talk about "cracking down" on violators of the code but so far very, very few have been fined or have gone to jail. Most of the cases for violation have been where one firm charged a few cents less for milk, or cleaning and pressing a suit of clothes or a dress. And yet there are countless cases of "chiseling" on the codes all around. If all these violators paid fines or went to jail, we should have to double our court system and triple our jails. If we have codes, they must be enforced or they become a joke. If they can't be enforced, they must be discarded. This latter situation has come about and the NRA officials are wise to "beat their retreat" while the retreating is good.

The NRA for the small business man is un-American. It has hurt far more than it has helped and the sooner its funeral rites are over, the better it will be for all classes of people. Take off the fetters and let small business go.

WANDERING THOUGHTS

"Take it as a compliment if the world expects something of you."

Ever drive up on the Waterford elevation and take a look over the beautiful country around it?

Two Northville men were talking about why people commit suicide. "If I ever jump out of a window, it will be a cellar window," said one of the men.

A good advertisement for Northville: The fine improvements at the Pere Marquette springs. Hundreds come there every week from out of town.

Friends do friendly things. For example, we heard the other day of a Northville man who drew up a set of house plans for a friend. That makes life worth living.

We sat along with about 5,000 other folks Friday evening at Ann Arbor, and heard Lucrezia Bori, "the magnificent," (who once sang opposite Caruso) and the incomparable Chicago Symphony orchestra. With Ann Arbor only a half hour's ride away, we wonder why more Northville people don't take advantage of the great opportunity to hear the May Festival numbers. This year people come from several distant states.

Do you know any bigger gamble than farming? The morning of May 12, in Northville the mercury shot down to [illegible] degrees below freezing. Figure out what that did to grain, things like tender plants and fruit buds of certain kinds. Always with all of his sports, there is a period of days each year the farmer will get the "break" and should not go broke. But he must have his to be prepared to "take the bitter" with the sweet.

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION

Can you afford to be proud and poor?

SHOULD DIE OR LIVE

(Charles A. Bryce in Capital Leader Independent)

So Gen. Hugh S. Johnson doesn't know whether the NRA ought to die or certain parts of it ought to live. Well if he asks the big manufacturer it ought to live. If he asks the Government owned papers, it ought to live. If he asks the small business man who has been harnessed to death with this one that New Deal regulation which requires half his time figuring out what reports he has to make and the other half of his time scraping the dust to make his new payrolls there won't be any doubt as to the answer!

AFTER 2,000 YEARS

(Ray Conliss in The Parma News)

To me the most interesting bit of news for the week is the report of the American Bible Society, indicating that 7,800,000 Bibles and Testaments printed in 155 languages and dialects were sold in more than 40 countries during the year 1933. We read and hear frequently of books termed the "year's best seller," and we are amazed that 100,000 or 200,000—or in the case of Anthony Adverse—200,000 copies can be sold. Yet here is one of the oldest books known to man—the Bible—with sales running close to eight million in a single year, and 2,000 years after it was written.

It would seem that everyone must have a Bible, but there is still a tremendous market for publishers of the Good Book. American Bible Society workers calling upon nearly 3,000 American homes last year found practically 40 per cent of them without Bibles. In all the Bible has been translated into 941 dialects and languages. I didn't know there were so many different tongues on this planet, and probably you didn't either. The Scriptures have also been published in Braille for the blind and at present its passages are being translated into three adtional dialects used in the jungles of Africa.

TIME THE REMEDY

(Fred D. Keister in the Tonia County News).

We do not have much patience with the high school or college student who thinks it's worldly to absorb a lot of socialistic propaganda with which to impress the elders of the household, who are making it possible for him to gain an education.

If these youngsters desire to be consistent in their new vision of a world without capitalism, we would suggest that they refuse further aid from such sources. That would impress us with their sincerity.

It is an easy matter to condemn the system that has provided a way for dad to accumulate enough to give the family a start in life that he himself never enjoyed. Even the improvident can make out a pretty good case along those lines. Of course we are told that when capitalism is destroyed everybody will have equal opportunity for education without the necessity of making provision for it in advance. That sounds pretty, but somehow it never works out as pictured.

It has taken the world thousands of years to know that only the things for which we are willing to work and sacrifice to attain are the things of real value. That which comes to us on a silver platter is soon gone. The young people will find this out in time, so we should not condemn them too harshly because of their first beliefs. When they enjoy knowing the value of the dollar they have earned, many of those beliefs will undergo a change. That is the guarantee of the future. In the meantime, it will be just as well if we assume a more patient attitude.

ADVERTISING GRAFT

(Schuyler Marshall in Clinton Co. Republican News)

There used to come to St. Johns a man who sold so-called advertising space on a card. All in the world this had to recommend it was driving distances to other towns—information anyone could easily get for the asking. He used to clean up $50 in one forenoon. One time he told the writer two months of this graft put him on easy street for the rest of the year. Last week a man came into Carl LeBarron's grocery store and said "I've got a lot of five-dollar bills—can you let me have some cents for them?" Carl asked him why he didn't go to the banks to change his money, it was less than a half block away. That guy got out of the store in a hurry. Many commercial bills have been passed this way. The [illegible] another man was [illegible] a [illegible] book-lead cover racket in which he proposes to work the street for the cost of the covers [illegible] profit for him [illegible]

And so on. The head [illegible] the stock [illegible] the [illegible] for many variations of the [illegible] which often not advertising [illegible] of all grades and again plums from summer resorts. They prey on the gullible. They are excellent psychologists and have carefully rehearsed an answer to every argument against their schemes. About the only way to get rid of them is to get hard-nosed enough to be on their way. In the course of years this country has taken from and of dollars [illegible] St. Johns [illegible] people in the large [illegible] proportion [illegible] is [illegible] smaller places. It is warm weather. The rattle snakes are coming out of their holes.

PORTRAIT OF A COUNTRY TOWN

(Scott Lafferty in Mears News)

The sun rises on the forsaken village; the birds sing on the gables of the deserted depot where the telegraph no longer ticks; the snow melts on the foundation of the ruins of the old hotel which has lain ten years in its ashes; the baker rises to knead his bread; the hardware merchant comes down to feed his cat; the grocer brings an armful of pine wood down to his store; Chester Worth opens up the back door of the garage and spits under the fire engine; the postmaster marks up the first letter and counts number one; Alta Wright goes down the street with text books under her arm; Donna Read walks by with a swinging rhythm; the school bell rings and the day is started in Mears.

How shall we hold our little village together? How shall we persuade the hill tribes of Benona to ride down out of the hills and across the plains into Mears to trade? How can we build a network of human hearts along the street of the interlacing maples? Why don't people like each other and write more letters? Why don't we have more home talent plays in Frank Golt's theatre? Why don't the people color more Easter eggs? Why don't they hang up more sap pails? Why don't they raise more squashes? Why don't they build more hen roosts? Why don't they make more cowsheds? Why don't the people dig more horseradish? Why don't the people gaze at the wallpaper catalogs until they are fired with ambition and stirred to action? Why don't the people play their banjos on their couches more? Comes the evening and the sun sets on my forlorn village. The postmaster has closed the mail house and goes home. The frost bites at the pointless horses. Loneliness visits the people because they do not visit each other. The meek and the humble, the proud and the arrogant, the ambitious and the slothful, the kind and the hard-hearted have gone to sleep. There is a blackness and silence along the street of the quiet maples. It is night time in Mears.

Court Reporters

A court reporter must have many accomplishments. He must be able to catch every word of witnesses, lawyers, judge, for court record. Needs to be able to write shorthand at speed of 150 to 200 words a minute, strong to endure physical and nervous strain of working hour after hour at high tension, then remaining cool at still high writing speed; alert and to accomplishment of results quickly; wide reading to be familiar with all kinds of technical terms, medical, scientific, business, legal; speed of at recognition, training, if possible in law firm.

SENIORS WILL GRADUATE ON JUNE SEVENTH

48 Students To Receive Diplomas At Exercises Held in W. C. T. S.

As the school year rapidly draws to a close definite plans for the Baccalaureate, Class Night, and Commencement exercises are announced by the committees in charge.

Forty-eight seniors have made up the class of 1934 and have had for their officers: Jane Lester, president; Jack McLoughlin, vice president; Ruth Atwell, secretary; Marjorie Pierpont, treasurer, and Nelson Schrader, Jr., alderman.

Baccalaureate services will be held Sunday, evening, June 3 at the Presbyterian church house, where Father Schuler delivers the address.

An informal Class Night was decided upon and will be in the form of the final senior class meeting. This will take place Tuesday evening, June fifth. Peggy Blake starts it by giving the salutatory address and then introducing the president. Proceeding, the secretary reads the roll call and the minutes of the previous meeting. Following this Mary Harper will give the last will and testament of the members. Olin Fosgate the history of the group. Jack McLoughlin its prophecy and Catherine McKinney and Eleanor Eaton are to present a gift to each senior. Catherine Duguid will carry out the theme of the class which graduated ten years ago by reading its poem.

Commencement, to be on the following day, will be held Thursday evening, June seventh, at the Wayne County Training School. The orators of the class will be chosen by the entire class and the valedictory address by Lucille Rattenbury. The presentation of the Wolverine diploma will be made by the Wolverine Club. The awards of these scholarships will be made at this time. Invitations for the affair have been issued to the seniors and their friends.

'ROUND THE SCHOOL

FOR FRESHMAN ONLY

The red-letter days, the days on which the final examinations will be given are not far removed. Noticing the rapidly furrowing brows and the haunted eyes that the freshmen are acquiring, we thought that we would take this opportunity to give them a bit of fatherly—pardon—mothers advice. The seniors, juniors, and sophomores will please skip this and read the "Did You Notice." The freshies will sit up straight, feet on the floor, hands folded—that's right. Now listen closely, you sweet little kiddies.

Long long ago schools were invented. In the beginning they weren't much to write home about, but they gradually improved, improved, and improved until today perfection has been attained. Practically all fighting is done in the gymnasium and only the bold shoot paper wads. Text books of the better class are used and teachers of the better class are hired to use them.

But lurking behind all this is the Simon Legree of the modern high school. All year long you arrive at 8:30, work until 1:30, go home for lunch on, return at 12:30, and then work until 3:30. And what compensation do you get? What do you receive in return? Fine education, of course.

The first step in preparing for this is to do a lot of work, such as running skipping rope and driving Model T. That does your legs a world of good. Then in order that you may be a good factor in the baking of a pie. Then in order that you may be very sure of your [illegible] so be prepared during the [illegible] high school. After the [illegible] of Bell comes into the [illegible] and [illegible] with their [illegible] faces and [illegible] hair for all the world [illegible] Of course [illegible] a busy day you are rather tired, but pay no attention—you can rest by reading first with one eye and then with the other. Suddenly you will feel a violent shaking. Fire! It must be! No, you will be wrong. It's just mother rousing you from a peaceful sleep and telling you to go to bed because it's way past midnight. But before so doing, glance at your book lying on the desk and if it isn't still open on page one, you're a better man than we are, Gunga Din.

If those who attend the Commencement exercises see a dishevelled group of seniors instead of daintily gowned girls and well-groomed boys, they'll know it's because history is repeating itself. It seems that the idea of making them change their clothing six or eight times appealed to some imaginative (that word will do—the school is nearly out) committeeman, so the girls will pull themselves in and out of basques and long-waisted dresses which would be warm enough for a January snowstorm and the boys will don their best with high collars and narrow legged trousers. Then, on top of all that there are the white organdies or dotted swisses to don. When the sons of cloud gazers on a warm June night [illegible] might happen so probably a few items will be torn out and a few tears will be shed from the [illegible] And if some of the girls [illegible] to have been [illegible] fainting [illegible] to faint.

So be prepared dear [illegible] to be [illegible] and [illegible] with their [illegible] faces and [illegible] hair for all the world [illegible] Of course [illegible]

CORNER FOR BOOK LOVERS

(By Rita Spreuger)

Jane Hope Kennard lived in the old days of hoop-skirts and gallantry. But poor Jane, at twelve, was skinny and as unlike her "pretty sister, Mary Louise, as anyone could possibly be. Mary Louise had dark brown curly hair and sparkling brown eyes. Jane Hope looked like her Yankee father—straight yellow hair, big gray eyes and straight black brows. She really wouldn't have been bad-looking at all, if only her elbows and knees hadn't seemed so often to multiply and get in her way.

Molly Lou Hope, her mother, had lived in North Carolina out had married the Yankee, Kennard, and gone to live in Philadelphia. It was there that Mary Louise, Jane Hope and Pierce were born; and now at the ages of sixteen, twelve and nine respectively, they were going back to North Carolina. Mr. Kennard had died the year before.

To Jane Hope, her mother's girlhood home at Chapel Hill was a heavenly jumble of possum hunts, persimmons, jasmine, Magnolia, figs, winter honeysuckle, darkies, University students, and Commencement Balls. It did not disappoint her, however, even to the possum hunt. She, like the rest of the young people in Chapel Hill, was swayed at times by the fads of the University students. Once they all transplanted their names into Latin. Consequently Jane's was "Joanna Spes" and a young man named Anderson was called "Eius Filius Ard-her-son." And again they substituted big equivalents for the words of their favorite songs. Jane Hope's version of "Old Black Joe" went:

I am approaching, I am approaching.
For my pulmonarium is inclining downward.
I process with the angular organ those during a stranger's attendance.

And in Elmira Joseph's Saturday night songs, often ended in complete laughter—no world is [illegible] sadness, some sad or glorious, and some gloriously happy. But, oh, as Jenny (forget-me-not of the book's most important characters) [illegible] Who was Stephen Farthing and what did he have to do with the story? It took hard work finding out.

Life a Glory—Not a Grind

She was beating the rug so hard that she didn't have time to look up at the beauty of the spring morning nor even have time to stop to listen a bit to that robin who was singing so lustily in the tree just over her head.

That rug must be beaten—spring or no spring! The routine of house cleaning must be gone through. Weren't all the neighbors at it?

Clean houses are nice, we admit, but making them clean is not the end and aim of life.

In bold letters these words struck us in our reading the other day: "Make Your Life a Glory, Not a Grind." It is straining for the non-essentials that we lose all the joy of living.

Is your life a glory or a grind? It's up to you. The matter is in your own hands. It's a question of how you face life, how you face the world, how you face your job, what you put into your daily service, of honest, willing, joyous work.

The reason life is a grind for most of us is that we are trying to find happiness in things.

Joseph Hauf thought he would be happy when he had amassed a certain amount. He was sixty years old, the newspapers said, and lived in a lonely hut in New Jersey. He skimped and hoarded, pinched even on the necessities of life, for many, many years, hiding his savings in nooks and corners of his hut.

One night he counted his money over and found he had ten bags of currency. Name of the bags contained a thousand dollars each and the total a hundred and eighty-four dollars.

Good! In a few years more he would have ten thousand dollars. He put his treasure away carefully and dozed off to sleep before the fire. When he awoke his log hut was on fire, and every cent of the money for which he had slaved and endured privations for half a lifetime or more was lost to him!

You say the man was a miser, and that he was a fool, anyway, who didn't know how to take care of the money he had saved!

That is true. He didn't use good judgment, common sense in his management. If he had put it in a savings bank or invested it in good securities, it wouldn't have been quite so sad.

But the man's greatest loss was not the ten bags of currency, but the possible happiness he had lost in the terrible grind of the long, long years in which he had been saving it. He had closed up every avenue of joy had started and stunted his manhood, his spiritual and mental growth, strangled all that was fine in his nature. He had gone through life deaf and blind to the music and beauty of the universe without getting even a mess of pottage in exchange for all he had sacrificed so his avarice!

Life was meant to be sweet, beautiful, beautiful for all of us, a glory, not a grind. If it is not so, the trouble is with ourselves. We are in some way as foolish as this old man, our own minds are shifting us out from the joy and beauty which the Creator has surrounded us. Especially in this glorious Springtime when all Nature seems to us to rejoice and we should try to get away from our sordid, selfish interests in things and find God's purpose from us.

Somewhere, from across the years, which will expressed the sentiments by which anyone can live the life that is worth living, and all the world is singing it:

Teach us Delight in simple things,
And Mirth that has no bitter springs,
Forgiveness free of evil done,
And Love to all men 'neath the sun!

"Wanted—A Mother"

Miss Elizabeth Beard, as Polly, a 16-year-old modern girl in the playlet at the Mother and Daughter banquet sponsored for this kind of a mother: I want a mother who rather roast frankfurts with me down at the lake than to eat caviar with the Prince of Wales, a mother who will love all my friends without regard for their family tree or their bank account, a mother who will love me all the time—she can scold me then. I'm just spoiling for a little spoiling myself. I'm human, I'm lonesome.

For That Emergency Lunch

Hints for quick lunch dishes are always acceptable. Here's one that a friend says is very good, but different and easy to prepare: Have you heard of the new "Cream of Mushroom Soup" on the market? It is good. To a can of this add a can of tuna fish flaked. Heat through thoroughly and broken slightly. Serve on patty shells or on toast.

Rhubarb Conserve

Four pound rhubarb, 3 lbs granulated sugar, 3 oranges, cut crushed up, 1 lemon, 1 cup nuts. Cook to a thick consistency. Can. Delicious.

In our national life propaganda plays a very important part and often the thinking person is left in some doubt as to whether such means obtain the results expected or achieve a definite end. We have only to remember the phrase propaganda or the tree worn phrase and slogan during the recent world conflict, a war to end war.

Amongst the intellectuals of our land we find them ranting and raving concerning some new sociological magic that will be placed for all of our social ills causing a stalemate in the public mind of the failure of it all. Progress is usually made in realms where propaganda does not lend itself and one has only to turn to the arts and the sciences for verification.

Intended propaganda has some value and unmoubtedly the ends sought by such means often are good. But so with education, with primary social obligation to educate himself for we are not required to so occupy ourselves to the neglect of our own self improvement in education. We have mere pur compass and pledges and we go on the principle that our obligations to society extend beyond our knowledge of what is right and wrong.

Certainly one has only to look into the realms of social science to know that such agencies are the result of all the ages. The old philosophers sought knowledge in order that it might be of benefit to society of one's fellow men. We have the right to expect to find [illegible] to acquire.

electrically and at new low cost!

A new low rate is being offered for electric water heating. This is a flat annual rate for year 'round service. You can enjoy automatic electric hot water service for as little as $2.34 a month. You may buy or rent an electric water heater, whichever you choose. Rental rates are low, and if you prefer to buy the heater, convenient monthly terms may be arranged.

How often have you wanted hot water in a hurry, and found only lukewarm water in the pipes? How often have you gone up and down the cellar stairs to light a manually-operated tank, and then waited for the water to heat? How often have you been obliged to heat water on a stove?

You can end all this annoyance and inconvenience by installing an automatic ELECTRIC hot water heater. With an automatic electric heater, you are assured an abundant and constant supply of water, steaming hot, at a turn of the faucet. Day and night, summer and winter, you have hot water instantly when you need it—for bath and for shower, for shaving, for washing dishes, for the laundry, for housecleaning. There is no waiting, no inconvenience. And you do not need to depend on a furnace coil for hot water, which—contrary to general belief—is an expensive method of heating water, due to the coal burned in the process.

More LIVE POWER per gallon

More Live Power per dollar, too, for there's no extra charge for Standard Red Crown Superfuel

More Live Power per gallon means that your car will get off to a faster start, take tough hills more easily and hold high speed hour after hour without hard labor for your engine.

How more Live Power is made available and usable in Standard Red Crown Superfuel is a more involved story. It is accomplished in the refining. Heavier, slower parts of an already excellent gasoline are converted into faster, keener fractions. . . But you are most interested in the result. And the result, as evidenced in your car, will be better performance—markedly better.

May we suggest that you drive in where you see the familiar Red Crown? Make your usual outlay for a supply of gasoline—for Superfuel sells at the price of "regular". We believe this small investment will lead to a big return in your motoring enjoyment this summer.

NATURE STUDIED BY KINDERGARTEN

(By Ida Arman)

(From The Orange and Black)

Spring is here, and so is the kindergarten folks know it. There is a robin building her nest right outside the kindergarten window. She is getting a lot of attention too because all the children are watching what Mrs. Robin is using to build her nest with. The robin is the only bird they know for positive it they can recognize blue jays, cardinals, orioles, sparrows and red-headed woodpeckers.

Miss Richards took her class into the woods the other day. They learned all about the wild flowers, how to preserve them, the names of wild flowers, and just how many to pick.

Frog eggs and cocoons are also seen in this interesting room. They have five cocoons in all. The kindergarten folks are just as interested as they can be in nature study. They have enjoyed more drawing with crayons to express and portray the birds they like so well. They also sing songs about various birds and nature.

Outside the kindergarten building you see a garden—where radishes, lettuce, etc. are planted. Now the children can help their parents plant their gardens because they know just how deep to dig and the right sort of soil to dig in. They plan to have a party when all the things in the garden come up, sometime.

COACH AND BOYS ALREADY MAKING FOOTBALL PLANS

Three Men Are Lost, But Much Good Material Still Remains

(From The Orange and Black)

Even now, at this early date, the fellows are looking forward with keen anticipation to next fall's football season, hoping to win the Suburban League Championship and to make even a better showing than they did last year. Losing three valuable men, Schrader, Baldwin (who will have graduated) and Dundas (who has moved away), the line-up will probably be Nutter, left end; Strauss, left tackle; Boyd, left guard; D. Bray, center; McGee, right guard; Myers, right tackle; Porter, right end; Marquette, quarterback; Deal, left halfback; Bender, right halfback; and Richards, fullback.

Remembering that a team is no better than its substitutes, Coach Watts has an eye on those who will fill in when needed or who will possibly secure vacant positions. They are: Lyke, Martens, Owen, ends; Toussaint, Christensen, Gregory, Bauman, tackles; R. Angove, Cassidine, B. Bray, guards; Dutcod, Taylor, Himes, W. Dugald, E. Angove, Woodley, R. Arnold, center. Some of the game traders will be coming out and their possibilities are not known at the present time.

The schedule for next year's [illegible] league games has been made out as follows:

September 28 Van Dyke—Here
October 5 McKinnon—Here
October 12 Trenton—There
October 26 Berkley—There
November 2 Farmington—There

"OLD PEABODY PEW" REPEATED IN SALEM

Spurred on by the success of their first performance of "The Old Peabody Pew," the same cast of members of the Service League went to the Salem Congregational church Wednesday evening, where they repeated their play to the delight of a very appreciative but very small audience. Mrs. M. J. Kolb also sang two vocal numbers.

The cast plans to go to Farmington later.

SENIORS TO TAKE FINAL EXAMS AT AN EARLY DATE

Other Students Will Take Theirs On June Fourth And Fifth

(From The Orange and Black)

Due to the fact that many activities absorb a senior's time at the end of the year as twelfth grade final examinations will be given on May 31 and June 1. However, in the classes where both juniors and seniors are enrolled, if more than half of the group is made up of juniors the seniors are compelled to wait until the fourth or fifth June, but if it is not just the other three classes will have their meets.

The senior schedule for May 31:

First hour class 8:30—10:00
Second hour class, 10:00—11:30
Third hour class, 12:30—2:00
Fourth hour class, 2:00—3:30

The sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth periods will be repeated in June.

Students having a B average in the A on their records in any subject will be exempt from that particular subject. In any case where the student meets the requirements in all studies he will be required to take at least one test and may do the rest on his own.

Mrs. Norman Shearer who underwent a major operation at the University hospital in Ann Arbor is convalescing nicely.

A. ABRAMS DEFENDS STUDENT "RADICALS" AT THE UNIVERSITY

Mr. Richard Baldwin,
Editor, the Northville Record,
Northville, Mich.

May I be permitted to enter a note of an answer to your editorial of last week entitled: "SPANK THE OTHER RADICALS." Concerning the May Day demonstration on the part of the few U. of M. students and using the Detroit News as authority you indict the handful of "young bloods & upstarts" and "calling themselves radical" and draw the inference that behind these "the real culprits are the radical professors and instructors in our universities who encourage them." Final charges to sing the song of "Internationale" and demonstrate on May Day. Further it is alleged that these "foolish college boys and girls who have never earned an honest dollar are influenced by faculty people, much of whom are teaching doctrines that are a menace to American life and the public pays the cost."

In the same manner that the threat of a workers' May Day demonstration in Detroit, a threat which forced to materialize, was met with a show of armed force of hundreds of policemen and plain clothes men, so too the force which might better be employed in combating crime of the feeble effort of a handful of innocuous students singing a song or two is not only backed by the police but editors consider it worth while to pen crushing articles in a crutch at professional chairs to unseat the bewildered-at-a-loss [illegible] are [illegible] dread fear for their jobs [illegible] of radical ideas.

When I attended school I was taught that in the history books of America we had a form of government [illegible] Lord knows [illegible] of the people, by the people, for the people. Yet I find that [illegible] ships in order to establish a nation in which theirs might be a modicum of freedom, was engendered by the tyrant's efforts to stretch the mailed fist of feudalism across 3,000 miles of sea to crush their new-found liberties. Perhaps the teachers and the writers of those history books likewise should have been indicted as encouraging Soviet and un-American ideals.

When Thomas Paine published "The Crisis" and "Common Sense" and when Ben Franklin peddled these tracts in the streets of Philadelphia, when the more active of the colonists demonstrated as early as the famous Tea Party in Boston Harbor no doubt the cry was raised, "these are dangerous radicals."

When during the Revolutionary War Lafayette, Von Steuben and Kosciusko, patriots whom American children are taught to venerate, came to help the struggling republic, beset by odds, no doubt there were many Tories who cried, "These foreigners are here to no good purpose."

Statistics prove that wealth and with it power is concentrated in the hands of a tiny percentage of our population. Technocrats proved that our productive capacity is second to none in the world. An economic depression in the face of this productive power is the concentration of wealth is proof positive that this nation is constructed of a ridiculously small number. There is no logical reason why we should look upon these few individuals as constituting the American ideal. We believe each American citizen should partake of life with a fair and equal share which [illegible] shallowness of the real American [illegible] Morgan does not [illegible] America to [illegible] Communism [illegible] more what [illegible] of radical ideas.

[illegible] taught [illegible] America is in the hands of a group foreign to its spirit adopts in opinion. When youthful students set advice for the force that behavior which has resulted in glorifying a university as a football stadium surrounded by a few buildings" and despite the generally conservative and, even reactionary views of its faculty, seek to strike a blow, however feeble, at those institutions which permit the throttling of America by a few, let us learn to understand the meaning of it. In Europe and in the Orient students are forces to be reckoned with by the enemies of progress. American students will not forever be content with cheer leaders and football heroes, who get along with the beautiful girls, as substitutes for a thorough scientific education and prospects of earning a decent livelihood upon the completion of their study. In what is really one of the poorest countries in the world, Russia, students are paid wages and are maintained by the government during the period of their study. Upon graduation jobs are assured up to the limit of their capacity. The backbone of that nation today is its youth and Russia is forging ahead by leaps and bounds. With our prodigious heritage of machine civilization American youth scientifically trained and economically freed could create a fairyland. Are these un-American ideals? If they are, then we should burn every book and burn all memories of all our early patriots of the human spirit—Abraham Lincoln, Ben Franklin, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Thomas Paine, Patrick Henry and the leaders of American Revolution.

Sincerely yours,
A. Abrams.

Salem Union School

We have sixteen birds on our "Bird Arrival" chart. The third and fourth grade people have completed their graphs for the study habit scale.

The two spelling teams led by John Geraghty and Betty Buttermore, tied last week.

Our P. T. A. is May 18 at the school house. All parents and friends are invited.

We received an attractive new "Safety First" poster from the automobile club of Michigan.

Several of the school children took part in the annual field day at Ferry Field in Ann Arbor, Tuesday, May 8. The May Festival was the following evening, May 9, at Hill auditorium. The following people from the upper grades of our school took part in it: Ernestine Lewis, Ruth Pennell, Evelyn Bryant, Freeman Bryant and Charnelle Hardesty.

In art class each child made a Mother's Day card for his mother. They made poems and verses for them, too.

We made a new outdoor flower garden this week. The children brought plants from home for it and we sowed some flower seeds, too.

YOUNG POETESS FOUND IN DESMULLS FAMILY

Not surprising that a rising young poet should come to their home, Mr. and Mr. H. A. De Ayr have been all these years. And now comes the word that their thirteen-year-old granddaughter Dorothy, daughter of their son Frank of Detroit, has walked off with the first prize for writing the best poem in the eighth grade English class of the MacKenzie school. The prize was a book of poems.

The fact is that Dorothy herself is about equally surprised for this is her first effort in poetry and then spring time does strange things to folks' imagination. Here is Dorothy's poem:

SONGS

Down from the sky,
To make people happy,
[illegible]

[illegible]
[illegible] hall
And things that are worry
Seem to turn out [illegible]

They pulled the bird
And heard the tune
They glad in the heart
From first door to last.

So when things are gloomy
And seem to go wrong,
Just lessen the trouble
By singing a song.

PENTECOST

"Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me." Psalm 51:10.

One evening, the chief of the Iroquois Indians was sitting by his side with a friend. Both were looking into the fire. Suddenly the friend broke the silence by saying: "I have been thinking of a religion followed by the Author of the Christian religion which we call the Golden Rule. Stop! Save the breath, don't praise it—tell me what it means, and let me think for myself." He was told that the rule was for one man to do to another as he would have the other do to him. "That's impossible, it cannot be done," testily replied the Indian. Silence followed. In about fifteen minutes the Indian said: "Brother, I have been thoughtful of what you told me. If the Great Spirit who made man would give him a new heart, he could do as you say, but not else."

That is exactly what it means to become a Christian, to receive a new heart, to become a new creature.

When Sir Walter Raleigh had laid his head on the block, he was asked by the executioner whether it lay right. Whereupon with the calmness of a hero and the faith of a Christian, Raleigh replied, "It matters not little, my friend, how the head lies, provided the heart is right."

And this task of giving man a new heart is the work of the Holy Ghost. By means of the Word He changes man's whole being, turns him from sin to righteousness, from unbelief to faith. Luther rightly says: "I believe that I cannot by my own reason or strength believe in Jesus Christ, my Lord, or come to Him but the Holy Ghost has called me by the Gospel, enlightened me with His gifts and sanctified me in the true faith."

Create in me a new heart, Lord,
That gladly I obey Thy Word
And naught but what Thou wilt desire;
With such new life my soul inspire. Amen.

The hour for worship and Sunday School is 10 o'clock. This Sunday morning we will celebrate the festival of Pentecost, the outpouring of the Holy Spirit on the disciples. On this occasion the pastor will base his sermon on the text, Acts 2, 1-13, choosing as the theme of his discourse, "The Apostles of Jesus Christ—the excellent Models for all Christians."

On Sunday morning, May 27th, we will celebrate the festival of the Holy Trinity.

A cordial invitation is extended to all to worship with us.

"Mortals and Immortals" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, May 20.

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Job 14:1-2): "Man that is born of a woman is of few days, and full of trouble. He cometh forth like a flower, and is cut down: he fleeth also as a shadow, and continueth not."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 476): "Mortals will disappear, and immortals, or the children of God, will appear as the only and eternities of man. Mortals are not fallen children of God. They never had a perfect state of being which may subsequently be regained."

Obituary

CHARLES W. RICE

Charles W. Rice, formerly of Novi, died at his home in Alma, May 6. He was born in St. Johns, October 25, 1874, and was the youngest son of A. F. and Clara Rice.

Mr. Rice was married to Belle Hamilton of Lansing, where he worked for a number of years at the Olds factory. He was a member of the Methodist church of that city.

Mr. Rice had the distinction of being a graduate nurse of the State hospital of Pontiac.

One daughter, Thelma, a teacher of music, survives, together with a brother, Frank, and a sister, Mrs. Tina Simmons, of Plymouth.

The funeral was held at the Methodist church in Alma with the pastor, Rev. Marshall Braund, officiating and interment was made in Forest Home cemetery, Greenville.

MRS. MATILDA BURDEN

Mrs. Matilda Burden, a life-long resident of this vicinity, died at her home on Adams, near Plymouth Thursday evening, May 10, at the age of nearly 84 years.

Matilda Tafford was born in Livonia on [illegible]. She was the last surviving member of her family.

On January 1, 1868, she was married to John Burden and their early life was spent near Northville. Mr. Burden died in 1927. Nine children were born to them, all of whom survive: Mrs. Effie Thomas, Northville, Mrs. Jennie Ashton, of Detroit, Arthur and Ernest Burden, of Plymouth, Mrs. Cora DeGroff and Mrs. Myrtle Shipe, of Pontiac, Mrs. Lena Ringle, of Salem and Olney and Harvey Burden, of Plymouth.

For many years Mrs. Burden was an active member of the Methodist church, always a faithful attendant and conscientious worker. Training her children in the way they should go.

It was very fitting that the exemplary life of this mother of nine children should be used as the theme of the Mothers Day sermon by her pastor, Rev. R. Ray Norton, pastor of the First Methodist church, Plymouth. The funeral service was held in the afternoon in the church and interment was made in the Plymouth.

PLAY MOVEMENT IS NEEDED FOR HEALTH

(By Ted Watts)

(From The Orange and Black)

While some form of play has always existed, the present play movement is clearly a product of the twentieth century. Today, however, play exists as a highly organized institution which is being promoted by the public as a whole. Play has been until quite recently, an unorganized activity in which children and adults have engaged only on impulse or because certain holiday occasions have been associated with merriment. There are many people who think that the artificial stimulation of today is not in keeping with the play spirit; but the point is that this resort is needed to attract children to the play centers and to induce the adults to leave their ordinary cares and work, for once they become engaged in plays and games there is no loss of freedom whatsoever. This is an age of intense specialization with an almost total disregard for bodily abilities. The very devices that are termed labor-saving must be recognized at the same time as body-weakening forces. The opportunity for all-around work contributing to the development of the big muscles of the body had quite disappeared, until we were given C. W. A. and C. C. C. jobs.

So true is this that, until the present generation, physical education has been provided by the type of work in which a man was engaged. That frequently prominent older members of our society will possibly deride the present play movement; and, for an all concluding argument will point to themselves as having managed to grow up successfully without a gymnasium, a playground, or a play-teacher. Their argument is sound so far as it applies to themselves, but they forget that times have changed. Today we haven't the chores which they extol so highly. These chores have disappeared. The boys present apprenticeship lacks the good pile and other hundred sources of muscle building. Errands are scarce. Even when one does go down town for groceries he usually has access to a car.

In the schools it has been found that the healthy child makes better progress than the child who is subnormal in physique. The pupil who fails belongs largely, to the latter class. In the sense that play makes a positive contribution to health, it must be counted as an economic factor in the reduction of the enormous amount of money spent on "repairs."

The playground should and does have a magnetic force not only for the children during the day including vocational training and practice but also for the older people in the evening, in the form of baseball game. Badminton (a newer type of game) for all. Our playground proved to be a success last year and should be this year with a fair amount of cooperation from the townspeople in helping to get it started.

375 GATHER HERE AT WOMEN'S EVENTS

returned thanks at the close of the dinner. In his talk, Fr. Van Antwerp outlined the successful organization of the Catholic League of Women in his own church, describing its method of carrying on their mission work in Pontiac and its charitable enterprises. He strongly advocated the union of all Catholic women with the League for the purpose of broadening their horizon by affording a mutual exchange of experiences.

Mrs. Skae outlined the purposes plans and operating of the Catholic League of Women. As president of the League of Lower Michigan, Mrs. Skae was well informed and her talk gave inspiration to her hearers.

Very "breezy" was the impromtu talk of a guest, Mrs. Fink, who has for 30 years been treasurer of the League. Her remarks added fuel to the zeal kindled.

In charge of Miss Milliter who accompanied them, eight little girls sang "Mother" and "Bring Flowers of the Fairest." In the chorus were: Ruth Mary Millis, Marion Teatley, Doris Hubbard, Wanda Bender, Jane Stewart, Dorothy Heaton, Patsy McLoughlin, and Jean Marburger.

Alice Boelens read Edgar Guest's Mother's Day.

Altogether those present agreed that the occasion of their first annual Mother and Daughter banquet was very worthwhile.

Mrs. A. S. Reed had the honor of having with her, five daughters, Mrs. Edward Morast had the youngest, a little maid of two years. In the company were members from Novi, Walled Lake, and outlying territory in addition to those living in town.
