SKELETONS OF INDIANS ARE FOUND HERE

Burial Ground Is Discovered On Property of L. V. Yerkes

The discovery of an ancient Indian burial ground located at the corner of Haggerty highway and Nine Mile road has been announced by Dr. W. E. Hinsdale of the University of Michigan.

L. V. Yerkes, on whose property the cemetery is located, unearthed the finds. Besides bones of men, women and children, bits of pottery were in evidence.

There were none of the mysterious holes in the skulls, such as have baffled Dr. Hinsdale in other discoveries made in this section of the state.

Dr. Hinsdale announced that actual digging will be started in the spring and that he hopes to find the remnants of an Indian village nearby in addition to the bones.

NEW HOME READY MONDAY FOR THE PLYMOUTH MAIL

Congratulations to The Plymouth Mail on its new building!

The many Northville friends of Mr. and Mrs. Elton R Eaton will be pleased to learn that the former Record editor, now publisher of the Plymouth Mail, will move his plant into its new location at 271 South Main street, Plymouth, this week-end and will be ready to greet his customers in his new building Monday morning.

The new building has been made as completely fire-proof as it can be and is one of the most modern country weekly newspaper plants in the state of Michigan.

BAKERY IS OPENED HERE SATURDAY BY WALDO ELLIOT

The opening of the new Elliott bakery in what was formerly the Kroger grocery store on East Main street Saturday created a flurry among shoppers.

Waldo Elliott, in charge of the enterprise, is well-known in Northville, having worked many years here when his father, William Elliott, was in the grocery business on West Main street.

The new store is attractive and carries an assorted line of baked goods. Mr Elliott will welcome a visit from his many friends here.

LEGION AUXILIARY NOTES

On Armistice day, November 11, the Legion Auxiliary took 44 boxes of good things to eat, up to the Maybury Sanatorium for the ex-service men. Several of the Legion boys accompanied the ladies and helped to distribute the baskets.

At the regular meeting Tuesday evening it was decided to have an all-day sewing bee on Friday, November 23, at the Legion home for the purpose of making up material into nightgowns for children at the Maybury Sanatorium Unit. Bring your own dishes, needles, thread and scissors. The Auxiliary is asking the King's Daughters and W. R. C. to meet with them on that day.

EXCHANGITES HOLD SHORT MEETING ON CHRISTMAS FUNDS

Plans to raise money for a Christmas fund were brought up Wednesday at the noon meeting of the Exchange club at the Methodist church house.

A proposal to bring the University of Michigan Glee club here on its Christmas tour was made and will be given further consideration.

No regular program was held at the club's meeting and the meeting was adjourned early by President Robert G. Yerkes.

COMMITTEE IS ELECTED

Miss Corrin's fifth grade has elected a governing committee to help the room remember their duties as citizens in the high school building. They have chosen as Room President, Carrel Carlson; Room Monitor, Richard Parmalee; Hall Sentinel, JoAnne Vroman; Assistants, Murna Hubbard and Tommy Wagner.

YEAR AGO TODAY THREE ABOVE ZERO

With a warm autumn sun still shining on green Northville lawns and the remnants of late garden blooms, it is hard to recall that one year ago Northville was gripped in a cold spell of three above zero.

"A host of cars were stalled with frozen radiators" reads the Record of Nov. 17, "and a white mantle of snow covered the streets with more snow predicted."

Every day it holds off is so much easier on the coal bin.

FARMINGTON HAS EXTENSION COLLEGE

Farmington will have a "Freshman college."

Recognizing the difficulty of many young folks to continue their education this year, the privileges of the first year of a college work are to be extended to any graduate of a high school.

Through the efforts of Dr J. W. Norton, Mrs. Lyman Furrand and other Farmington citizens have secured a "Freshman college" for their town and its facilities for education will be extended to the outlying towns.

Those students of an accredited high school who can satisfy the college-entrance requirements and receive a proper recommendation to an accredited college or university will receive full college credit. Other students who do a high quality of work will receive such credit when they will have satisfied the college entrance requirements upon their presenting evidence of their work for matriculating in any one of the seven co-operating institutions.

The curricula offered includes general literary, premedical, predental, prelaw, preeducation, art, music, economics and business administration, accounting, social work, chemistry and fine arts. A wide range of subjects is available.

Classes are being held afternoons and evenings and arrangements may be made by seeing Superintendent of Schools Darrymple of Farmington. It is expected that a number of Northville students, both young folks and adults, will avail themselves of this opportunity at their very door. Otis Tewksbury, Jr., so far, is the only one from here who has enrolled. There is no tuition fee.

THAYER BOULEVARD GETS NEW WALK

Under direction of Street Supervisor Earl Montgomery a number of improvements are being worked out in the village.

A cement sidewalk is being laid on the north side of Thayer boulevard from Rogers street to Orchard drive, on petition of the residents.

On East street near St. Paul's Lutheran church a storm sewer will be finished this week.

The "wing walls" of a culvert on Hutton street will soon be completed, the village furnishing the material. All of this work is being done by the FERA.

SESSIONS HOSPITAL

Mrs. Neil Hannaford underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis Thursday night. She is making good recovery.

W. H. Corrin is recovering well from an emergency operation for appendicitis.

FIRE BURNS C. A. SESSIONS RESIDENCE

Former Village Assessor Discovers Blaze In Attic

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the attic of the Chas. A. Sessions home, 121 High street, Tuesday evening.

Mr. Sessions was home alone at the time that he discovered the fire. He immediately ran to the fire house a short distance from his home and called the firemen.

The larger part of the blaze was so located in the attic that the fire fighters were unable to reach it until it broke through the roof. Firemen then were able to pour water into the attic and extinguish the fire which completely destroyed the interior of the attic.

The Sessions, both father and son, Arthur, were unable to spend the night in their home and were forced to seek lodging with neighbors. The damage caused by the fire was covered by insurance.

ROTARIANS LISTEN TO TALK GIVEN BY CHIEF DAN PATCH

"The beer gardens of Wayne county are undermining the morals of the youth and will vitally affect the coming generations."

This was the substance of a speech given Tuesday noon at the Rotary meeting held at the Presbyterian church house by Chief of Police Dan Patch of Highland Park. The speaker was introduced by Charles Thornton, who had charge of the day's program.

"Every night we police officers see 'Ten Nights In a Bar-room' being enacted in the beer gardens of Wayne county. The public is not concerned. But, the hell-holes are breeding plenty of headaches for police officers."

The speaker went into the problem thoroughly and because of his wide experience in the police field was able to give a comprehensive survey of the situation.

Guests at the meeting of the club were, Robert Willoughby and Wm Lines of Plymouth, and Ad Schwenger of Northville.

Announcements were made of a nineteenth district meeting at the Prince Edward hotel at Windsor soon. Chas. Rogers and Rev Jos G Schuler were placed on the attendance committee.

SHIRLEY JEAN BOOTH SUFFERS LACERATION

Shirley Jean, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Booth, Seven Mile road, had the misfortune to fall upon a barb-wire fence while running in the woods near her home Sunday afternoon, lacerating her upper lip severely. It was necessary to take her to Redford Receiving hospital where stitches had to be taken.

The Booth family seems to have had more than its share of accidents lately. Miss Pearl, whose eye was seriously hurt in an auto accident four weeks ago, is now much improved.

New Ford Factory At Newburg Will Do Its Bit In Building One Million Cars During 1935

Newburg is to have a new Ford plant.

Work on the structure, which is located on the north side of the new dam, is now going on. The steel work was finished last week.

It is expected that the new plant will give employment to 20 or 30 workers. Like all the Ford plants in this area—at Northville, Waterford, and Phoenix, it will be the last word in modern factory construction.

The development is all a part of the tremendous expansion program Mr. Ford has announced for the ensuing year. A few days ago he stated that his company expected to build a million cars during 1935 and already there has been plenty of evidence about here as to his intention of carrying out his statement.

When asked whether 1935 will "end the depression," Ford replied:

"Why, the depression would be over for the whole country very soon if American industrialists would just forget the alphabet schemes and take hold of their industries and run them with good sound American business sense.

"They should take hold of their country, too, in the same way and run it with good, sound American common sense."

The Ford Motor Company has already passed the 600,000 mark in production this year, officials stated.

Belief that business conditions had improved sufficiently to warrant preparations for a great sales year in 1935 was likewise expressed by Ford managers, gathered at Dearborn from all over the country.

July 19 the 22,000,000th Ford ran off the assembly line. Of this number 15,000,000 were model T's and slightly more than a million were V-8's.

In 1930 officials announced 1,495,000 cars were produced.

Announcement of next year's production plans comes two months after Ford stated he was spending more than $13,000,000 in construction of a steel plant at Dearborn "to show confidence in President Roosevelt."

"I am for President Roosevelt, have confidence in his ability to lift us out of the depression and intend to support him for a second term," Ford said.

PASTORS TALK ON SCHOOLS

Cooperating with the National Educational movement, the pastors of Northville recognized the close relation between the church and the school and the folly of economizing on education of our youth, in their individual services Sunday morning.

Almost as if they had compared notes in the preparation of their discourses each of these preachers made eloquent appeal for the emphasis of character-training in our schools.

In answer to the statement of a college professor that his institution taught "not morals but classics," Rev. H. G. Whitfield, pastor of the Presbyterian church, asserted that "the ultimate purpose of all education is not the accumulation of facts but the forming of personality."

At the close of his sermon one of the local teachers present said: "You are placing a big responsibility upon us."

Fr. Jos G. Schuler, in addressing his audience at Our Lady of Victory church stressed the importance of education beginning at the mother's knee. Parents should not expect the schools to accomplish what they have neglected in molding character," he said.

"The world asks not 'What have you learned, but what have you become?' when a young person steps out from school," said Rev. H. H. Mallinson to the Methodists Sunday. "The scope of education is expressed not in knowledge but in character. That school is a failure that jams with facts and neglects creating character."

At the Baptist church on the previous Sunday the Educational theme had been stressed and last Sunday the spirit of Armistice Day was revived in a sermon by the pastor, Rev. K. S. North. As chaplain in the World war, Mr. North was ashamed to hear ministers praying for success in battle when the christian teachings of the church should be to encourage peace.

An appropriate number, "Bid the Din of Battle Cease," was sung by a male quartet: R. H. Amerman, Rev. K. S. North, C. C. Winters and Jas. Frost.

The regular service was carried out at the St. Paul's Lutheran church, the pastor, Rev. Leo Eickstaedt, speaking on a theme appropriate to the closing of the fiscal year of the church. With encouraging increase in membership and interest, Mr. Eickstaedt incited his hearers to still further zeal. Miss Adeline Kruger played several organ numbers.

QUARTET SINGS FOR 14 YEAR OLD "SAN" PATIENT SUNDAY

To cheer a little girl lying in the Eastlawn Sanatorium Sunday, a quartet of men broadcast a song from the Baptist Church by special request of the young patient.

Helen Winters, 14-year-old daughter of Mr and Mrs. Clifford C Winters, the former an employee in the sanatorium was taken to the "San" for an emergency operation for appendicitis Thursday and on the following day asked for the song which she had enjoyed in church on the previous Sunday. The quartet was composed of R H Amerman, C C Winters, Rev K S North and Jas Frost.

Not only Helen, but the Sanatorium enjoyed the men's singing, which is the service broadcast each Sunday morning to the patients on the hill.

CONCERT TO BE GIVEN BY H. S. CLUBS

Leslie G. Lee Will Direct Musical Event On Nov. 23

Choral music representing various periods of musical development will be heard Friday evening, Nov. 23, in the high school auditorium, when the Choir and Glee Clubs present the first concert of the season.

The program will open with a humming arrangement of a section of "Finlandia" by Sibelius, a living composer, sung by the choir. Then will come "Adoramus Te," by Palestrina, the most famous of early Italian composers. "Grant Us To Do With Zeal" by Bach will follow. Two numbers from the Russian school, "O Gladsome Light" and "Hospodi Pomilui" will conclude the first group.

A group of well known folk songs, "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," "Come with Thy Lute," "Loves Old Sweet Song," and "All Through the Night" will comprise the second group.

"In Old Madrid," "Murmuring Zephyrs," and "Gypsy Chorus" from the "Bohemian Girl" will close the program.

The Senior Girls' Glee Club will sing three very pleasing numbers, "The Butterfly," "Golden Glow" and "Cradle Song."

ATTORNEY LEONARD STRESSES CHARACTER EDUCATION IN SCHOOL

American Education Week was observed at the regular Parent-Teachers association Thursday evening at the high school with a good attendance. A chorus of 35 girls of the Junior high school made its first appearance in public and pleased the audience with two vocal numbers.

Speaker of the evening was Archie G. Leonard, former superintendent of Farmington schools, now an attorney in Pontiac. Mr. Leonard laid great emphasis on the education of character as well as of mind. Said he: "Of all the juvenile delinquents who come to court for offenses twelve out of fifty-seven have never finished high school."

Attorney Leonard attributes much of early crime to lack of training in the home as well as the school.

As evidence of the truth of his statements, three other speakers added their opinions to those of Mr. Leonard—when another attorney, Geo. H. Stalker, Superintendent R. H. Amerman and Mrs. E. W. Lester all emphasized the development of character as most essential in education. One listener afterward remarked that he heard no less than six times during the course of the program that "the school child of today is the citizen of tomorrow."

Mrs. P. W. Dolson presided.

DONDERO CALLS ON MRS. CHRISTENSEN

When Mrs. Mary Christensen answered a knock on her door Saturday evening she opened it to greet Congressman Geo. A. Dondero and Mrs. Dondero who called to pay their respects to this woman who, although in her eighties, had made the effort to go to the polls and cast her ballot.

Honored as Mrs. Christensen was by this visit, she enjoyed it no more than did her distinguished guests who were pleasantly aware of the warm hospitality of this home.

"SUN-UP" IS GIVEN AT HIGH SCHOOL

The play "Sun-Up", considered by critics as one of America's finest plays, was presented by members of the music department in the high school auditorium, Thursday, November 15 at 2:30 p. m.

This play had an extraordinary success on the professional stage a few years ago and has been extremely popular with amateur groups since that time.

The author, Lula Vollmer has very successfully placed into an appealing story the loves, hates, prejudices and feelings of the Carolina Mountain folk. Miss Vollmer is also the author of the radio serial "Moonshine and Honeysuckle" that has been so popular.

Widow Cagle (Peggy Blake) lives in a cabin in the Carolina mountains with her son, Rufe (Henry Hoffman). It is 1917, and news reaches them that there is a war. Rufe feels it is his duty to enlist. "Ma" Cagle tells him he is a fool to fight for a government that shot his father in the back just to cure him of distilling, but Rufe goes off to fight for his hills, his mother and Emmy (Marion Turnbull), the girl he has just married. Months pass. One night a stranger (Tom Carrington) seeks shelter at the cabin. Ma Cagle learns that her son is dead and that the stranger is a deserter and a member of a family who shot the Cagle's men-folk. She is on the point of shooting him when she hears in her heart the voice of her son urging mercy. Bert dies. She sends the stranger away unhurt.

Other members of the cast were Pap Todd (Jack Stuttervelt), Bud (Cecil Giles) Preacher (James Rockland), Sheriff (Maurice Giles) and Bob (Eddie Bender).

The admission to this play will be 35c and 25c.

MRS WHITE ENJOYS TRIP

Mrs Jennie White enjoyed a delightful motor trip in company with Mr and Mrs W. H. Yerkes and their guest, Mrs. E. J. Frost of Boston, Friday afternoon. This was the longest trip Mrs White has taken for some time and she was enthusiastic about it. Asked if she was well she replied with her customary humor, "Yes all but old age, and that I've noticed is apt to be fatal."

"We Are Educating For Tomorrow" Says Superintendent R. H. Amerman In Summing Up Goals of School

(By Russell H. Amerman, Supt.)

The schools of the state of Michigan and of every state are at the crossroads. They must carry on in the face of great curtailment of revenues, decreased teaching forces, and increased enrollments. They must also carry on in the face of stupendous social and economic changes.

The State Superintendent of Public Instruction for Michigan, Dr. Paul F. Voelker, has appointed a Michigan Educational Planning Commission to study the situation in this state and make recommendations to his department.

This commission has, among other things, set forth nine goals of education in Michigan. These goals point the way in which our public schools should endeavor to go in order that the boys and girls of the state will be prepared to take their places in this changing social and economic order.

The nine goals are:

1. To cultivate a deep regard for democracy and an intelligent appreciation of democratic institutions.

2. To develop those qualities of character which are of special significance in a democracy.

3. To develop the willingness and the ability to cooperate effectively in a democratic society.

4. To develop the ability to use the most effective and reliable methods in searching for truth as a basis for the discovery and solution of problems.

5. To develop the effective use of the fundamental knowledge and skill required by all.

6. To insure an abundant social and individual life in accordance with each individual's capacity and ambition.

7. To provide training in the specialized and professional services which are requisite for society.

8. To provide for the enrichment of adult life.

9. To plan for the continuous appraisal and readjustment of the educational program to fit changing conditions.

The responsibility of the school is greater than ever before. And we can see from a study of these goals, democracy and the schools are most intimately related. If our schools fail to instill the ideals of democracy, and an understanding of their meaning, in the minds and hearts of our children, democracy is doomed.

Let us all strive to get a new vision of the importance of our educational system. Let us make it possible for the children of Michigan to achieve all nine of these goals. In so doing we will be "Educating for Tomorrow."

LAST LINK OF PARKWAY IS NEAR FINISH

25 Workmen Clear Stretch From Center St. To Rogers St.

(By Mrs. R. T. Baldwin)

Progress makes its merciless march over tradition. The smoke of huge bon fires rises and the sound of axes and saws breaks the silence of the haunts of quail and wild rabbit as 25 workmen hew their way into the underbrush along the final stretch of the River Rouge Parkway system.

The last strokes are being taken in the completion of this parkway, which winds its way for miles out from the crowded city, through wood lands and along the river, as an outlet for folks who love the great out-of-doors.

With the last foot of paving completed, joining Center street with Rogers street, the shoulders of the roadway are being widened and leveled. Newly laid sod is to cover the bare earth where the mighty steam shovel recently gnawed its way ruthlessly through a riot of blooming golden rod and wild asters that had been growing undisturbed for untold years.

Fallen timbers along the River Rouge, where generations of small boys have sat in tattered overalls fishing in the summer stillness, are being heaped in piles and burned.

Shovels and rakes are clearing the neglected underbrush of the years and smoothing the hollows and secret paths where these same boys have played hide and seek, and wild Indians undisturbed by the restraints of civilization.

The lowlands where once was Ambler's Pond, and in late years the gardens of the thrifty Ford employees who raised prize cabbages and carrots in this fertile soil, all will be cleared. Instead of corn and potatoes growing in rows, a broad expanse of green lawn with carefully planned landscaping will please the eye of the passing motorist and lure him to recreation in its shade.

Could early settlers of Northville come back to at summer to visit the land where once they hauned their piles of logs to old Ambler's saw mill near the pond, they would be surprised to see crowds of strange city folks picnicking around tables and camp stoves.

If the parkway "bosses" have their way the old relic of the cement Ford dam will be removed and the river banks cleared and beautified with rustic bridges and wading pools.

The orders are "cut no live stuff, leave everything in its natural state as much as possible." Only the underbrush, weeds and fallen timbers are being destroyed. Wood that is fit for fuel is being utilized by those who need it.

Work will be continued until the ground freezes. When spring opens a new and surprisingly beautiful part of Northville will be available for the pleasure of its people and of the whole county.

OVER 100 WOMEN ARE PRESENT AT COOKING SCHOOL

Over 100 women were present at the cooking school demonstration held Friday afternoon at the Presbyterian church house.

Miss Dorothy K Harris, home economist of Detroit, was in charge of the demonstration. Various methods of baking and cooking were demonstrated and the best ways in which to economize on gas bills were also shown by the representative of the Consumers Power Co.

Food prizes were awarded as follows: Mrs. H. Blowers, Mrs. Sam Stremich, Mrs. Hannah McKee, Mrs. L. E. Shuart, Mrs. Ralph L. Hay, Mrs. Hattie Colman, Mrs. E. C. Wilson, Mrs. L. B. Lapham, and Mrs. I. W. Linton.

THE PRESIDENT'S GREAT POWER

When the next congress convenes, in January, 1935, President Franklin D. Roosevelt will have more power than any other of our chief executives have had. With an overwhelming majority of his own party in each house, and with the powers already granted him, he will be in supreme control.

None who knows what responsibilities this situation lays on the president will envy him. It is a sobering task that he faces—all this gigantic use of power in his hands. Well may we pray and hope that he will use it well.

It is, perhaps, for the best that President Roosevelt will have a solid wall of supporters back of him. He can do everything that he thinks will be for the interests of the country. In this respect he is very much unlike Herbert Hoover in the last two years of his administration. During that time a hostile congress tied his hands—in fact he was made the object of ridicule by many who should have been better citizens. No one will ever know what might have happened to this country of ours had Mr. Hoover been given even half the power that Roosevelt has had. Only a demagogue will say that either Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Hoover is anything less than a high-minded patriot.

One trembles when he contemplates what the president faces in the next two years. Part of his plans for recovery of material prosperity have failed; other parts have done some good. Yet the situation is still serious. The unemployed are numbered in millions and business lags because of fear and lack of confidence. Billions have been spent in the colossal effort to bring conditions back to normal. Must we go on to spend other billions in the effort to make this the happy and contented country it once was?

Our president occupies no seat of ease. His is a tremendous task. All good citizens will fervently hope that health, strength and vision be given him to lead the nation aright.

THE FOLKS IN FLORIDA

Some one writes from Florida that the tourists are already twice as many as they were last year. And the St. Petersburg daily papers are still given away free on the rare days when the sun doesn't shine.

What we got to thinking was this: Why isn't it good sense for folks who have a little money to go South in the winter months where they can get out doors and enjoy life? We have no Florida lots for sale (who wants a Michigan farm?) but the fact is that what you save on coal in a Michigan winter will go quite a way toward your expenses in Florida for several weeks. Contact with other folks is one of life's best tonics.

Many who move permanently to California or Florida are not happy in their new locations. Life's roots have gone down too deeply. There are no friends like the old friends and no ties like those of old associations. We hope the time will come when all of us, who so desire, can spend eight months in Michigan and the other four cold ones in the balmy climes where the orange and the lemon and the grapefruit grow alongside the bungalow.

THE SOLDIER BONUS

In spite of the protests of the president, the American Legion convention has demanded payment of the soldier bonus.

One could argue on either side of this question. The way our federal government has been spending millions and billions, it may not be all wrong to ask: "What difference will a few more billions make?" Pay the bonus now and watch prosperity come back as the ex-service men put these billions into circulation."

Those opposing payment may well say: "The bonus is not due for ten years and if paid now it will wreck all chances for balancing the national budget."

Personally, we think President Roosevelt is right in his stand. Our biggest reason is that it is a dangerous thing for any block of American voters to think that they are a privileged group. That doctrine is dangerous.

THE FUNNY SIDE OF LIFE

"You will get a laugh out of this," said a friend to us. And we did. And it wasn't a smutty story either.

The other day we had a tough time all through the hours until night swung down its November curtain. But the day was saved for us through the fact that several situations that looked menacing "struck us funny." We got to seeing the humorous angle and before we knew it, everything was moving smoothly.

You can lose a lot of things and still be well off, but don't make the serious error of losing your sense of humor. That, well used, will oil many a squeak in life's machinery.

HOW THE TELEPHONE HELPS

A true story: A Northville concern wanted an extra man and had the names of two applicants. It tried to locate the first one but found he had no phone. The other man had a telephone and in a few hours was on the job. The world is moving fast these days and few folks are going to do much walking if telephoning will turn the trick.

WANDERING THOUGHTS

"Now that the republicans have gotten rid of all the 'old guard' we can go ahead and build a new republican party that will be progressive and up-to-date" says a Northville young man who has been doing a lot of thinking.

* * *

The Detroit News doesn't envy the "New Dealers" either. In an editorial warning, it says: "Another day of judgment will come in two years." And it might be added that out-state democrats have found out how fickle the voting public is. If confidence is not built up in the next two years, another landslide may come.

The failure of the federal plans for building of new houses this year does not mean that this will not be carried out. There are rumors of a federal-financed plan that will run over five years and will require 25 billions for the project for the half-decade. Then we also hear that a National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer association has a scheme to spend 15 billions over a period of ten years for low-cost homes. One thing is sure: The folks who want to build will be financed by someone, public or private. Northville alone needs scores of new homes.

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION

How many new houses does Northville need and how many old homes should be modernized?

WHAT ADVERTISING DID

One man who had taken hold of a run-down business got up and told the crowd how advertising had doubled his business during a certain year.

Another man, who had had charge of the advertising of a large concern through the past five bad years, got up and said: "Advertising didn't double our business but it did save it." What a tribute to the power of newspaper space!

"THEY CAN'T TAKE IT"

(Ora Coffman in Dearborn Press)

I am ashamed to say that I cannot help but think I know that the American people have [illegible] streak of "yellow" and it [illegible] up in this set-back that they have met with in their economic structure. They "can't take it" to use the slang phrase of the day.

As I think back to the depression of 1893 when so far as this particular section is concerned, there was just as severe an unemployment as there is now in proportion to the people and the advantages, and how we faced those trying times with never a thought of government aid, how we got down and fought the depression from the bottom up; how we finally won after five years of privation and trial and when I contrast that struggle and the methods of combatting it with the present effort to "carry on as usual" I am led to wonder—wonder if the spirit of privation shown at Valley Forge, at Bennington, at Vicksburg at Petersburg and in the terrible struggles on the frontier in winning the west only the terrible depressions of 1857 and 1873 haven't faded from the picture, if we haven't become anemic from the absorption of the red corpuscles of patriotism and Americanism by ease, extravagance and the innoculation with foreign ways and deals.

I wonder if the protest against what is so glibly spoken of as "social injustices" isn't in a great measure, really the subordination of national stamina to ease and luxury?

SOLVING THE PROBLEM

(Hyman Levinson in the Farmington Enterprise)

The World Series (oh, you have forgotten there ever was one?) and the Tigers' winning of the American League championship brought forth one "best story" concerning the latter event, an actual occurrence too interesting to be allowed to go unrecorded before all the books are closed on the Detroit team's winning of the championship.

The event took place in a Detroit home, and involved two girls in the late teens and the father of one. On the day that the Tigers won the pennant, one of the young ladies rushed, immediately after a hasty dinner, to the home of her girl friend. Bursting in and without waiting to make salutation to the family, exclaimed, "Oh, did you hear about it—isn't it grand—the Tigers have won the pennant."

Excitedly the daughter of the house indicated in equally delighted tones just how marvelous she, too, thought it was. After a moment's pause came a remark from the father—a thoughtful man, born in the old country, he had come to America as a youth, worked his life through as a skilled hand at his trade, had reared a family, saved his money only to see the savings swept away, and now was bending all his efforts toward seeing that he had enough work at his trade to maintain the household; not yet had the family known want, nor was their position exactly precarious, yet there was enough of a problem to make this always thoughtful man ponder a bit more than he use to. And so, as his daughter's chum gushed out, "they won the pennant," he took his pipe from his mouth and said slowly, just as his own girl's gushing ceased: "So that solves all our problems, doesn't it?"

FARLEY'S BOSH

(The Detroit News)

Paraphrased for brevity's sake, this is what James A. Farley said about the election in Michigan:

If all the boys had played ball and stood by the Comstock-Abbott machine, the Democrats would have had a walkover in Michigan, too. Lacy's fight to raise the level and put democratic state administration, party anyway, on the basis of nonpartisan efficiency, was the deplorable cause of the loss of both of the governorship and the senatorship.

Secondary comment on Vandenberg led up to the other. Farley's Tammany trained view sees Vandenberg as another raw calculator, "much too smart" to lead a forlorn hope against Roosevelt in 1936. Farley may be in for a surprise about that. Though a republican, Vandenberg has shown himself more than a partisan schemer. He could remain in the Senate and gain prestige there after a defeat.

The theorization about Vandenberg's future motives reaches the [illegible] bloom in Farley's idea of the [illegible] mind on politics. It should [illegible] Had the Lacy revolt not occurred, we are told, the democrats [illegible] still hand in glove with the Comstock-Abbott applications of the [illegible] system would have won a [illegible] Roosevelt victory.

[illegible] not [illegible] all Farley said the Washington correspondents [illegible] down to sheer [illegible] That [illegible] impression of political [illegible] the better [illegible] the standpoint. The contrast between typical Michigan political thinking and Farley's is the more [illegible] brought out.

Farley doesn't know [illegible] the independence usually shown by a majority of the Michigan electorate at the polls. It may be needed for current evidence we refer again to the election of John K. Stack, not without admit he was a Comstock rebel too. One better than Farley, Roosevelt himself, will understand. If, as Farley intimates, the President expects to make it unanimous in 1936 by getting Michigan again, Farley should be muzzled.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church

"Examine me, O Lord, and prove me; try my reins and my heart. For Thy loving kindness is before mine eyes; and I have walked in Thy truth."—Psalm 26, 2, 3.

There is an essential difference between a true Christian and a non-Christian. When the all-knowing God examines a man, trying his reins and heart, the results in the vast majority are utterly negative and altogether shocking. Instead of real love toward God, the Lord finds self-admiration, greediness, and other idolatries; instead of true neighborly love, envious, murderous thoughts and adulterous, thieving desires.

The reason for this sad state of affairs is the lack of faith in Christ, the Savior. A repenting sinner, having found forgiveness and comfort in the divine Lamb slain for all transgressions, is a child of God and knows it. He has experienced the loving kindness of the Lord who, by His law, worked the knowledge and acknowledgment of sin and, by the Gospel, the assurance of God's grace and forgiveness.

How could the Christian forget such tenderness? It is before his eyes in good and evil ways, in temptation and afflictions. Child-like gratitude toward the heavenly Father moves the believer to walk in God's truth. His unregenerated flesh, to be sure, sets innumerable traps and causes many a slip day after day. But according to his new nature the Christian does not wish to sin. His love of God and the neighbor is earnest and sincere. He means exactly what he says: "Examine me, O Lord, and prove me!" These words are no idle boast in the believer's mouth. The richness of our Vicar amply covers our shortcomings.

"Handy Andy" Features Will Rogers Today and Tomorrow; "One More River" Is Wednesday Feature

His wife wanted him to retire and play a little . . . but all play and no work makes Will a wild boy.

That, in brief, is the story of Will Rogers' latest picture, "Handy Andy" coming to the Penniman-Allen theater on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 16 and 17. Advance reports from the previews say this is the funniest comedy of his career. And the highlights of the story bear this out. . .

Will is getting along comfortably in his drug store, when his wife, Peggy Wood, persuades him to sell out. First he takes up pigeon-raising, but he has to stop that when his pets fly all over the house. Next he takes up golf, with uproarious results. Then his wife and daughter, Mary Carlyle, persuade him to attend the Mardie Gras at New Orleans.

That's when things really begin to happen. Will begs off from attending the Comus costume ball. Wandering around alone, he gets acquainted with a fellow druggist and his dashing girl friend, Conchita Montenegro. A few cocktails make him change his mind about the ball, and he attends with Conchita, choosing a Tarzan leopar-skin costume. A few more cocktails help to persuade him to do an hilarious adagio dance with Conchita—and the ball breaks up in a riot.

Of course there's more to the story than that. Much more. Among other things, Will serves as cupid in his daughter's romance with a young man his wife doesn't approve, of. And there's a surprise ending that can't be tipped off in advance.

David Butler, who also directed Rogers in "The Connecticut Yankee," directed "Handy Andy" under the supervision of Producer Sol. M. Wurtzel. The screen play was written by William Conselman and Henry Johnson from the play, "Merry Andrew," by Lewis Beach.

"One More River"

Jane Wyatt had a most unusual introduction to motion pictures. Though she is an American, in her first screen production, just completed, she plays the part of an English born girl.

The picture which marks Miss Wyatt's film debut, is "One More River," Universal's John Galworthy drama, coming to the local theater on Wednesday, Nov. 21, with Diana Wynard in the starring role. In the picture the two young ladies are seen as sisters, and studio officials were impelled to cast the American girl in this characterization simply because Miss Wyatt registered on the screen as "exactly the type."

"I cannot say that the situation seemed especially strange," says Miss Wyatt. "In any play, whether on stage or screen, we are always playing a part, and in this one, I was merely playing the part of an English girl. That's all there was to it."

Before her entry into motion pictures the youthful Miss Wyatt had become a popular ingenue of the New York stage, appearing in such plays as "Dinner at Eight," "Joyous Season," and "Fatal Alibi."

"One More River" was directed by James Whale, and Miss Wynard's supporting cast also includes Colin Clive, Reginald Denny, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Frank Lawton, Alan Mowbray, and Lionel Atwill.

HOW TO DRIVE SAFELY

Ab Jenkins, the man who holds more American Automobile Association records for distance, speed and endurance driving than any other driver—and has never had an accident—gives six practical suggestions for safe driving in the current Rotarian Magazine. They are:

1. Keep both hands on the wheel. "The only two people I know who are competent to drive one-handed are Eddie Rickenbacker and Ralph de Palma—and both of them use two hands."

2. Keep the best tires on the front wheels. "The front-wheel blow-out is by far the more dangerous. When blow-outs do happen, danger can be averted by driving steadily to the steering wheel."

3. Always test your brakes. "During the first hundred yards of driving, I always test my brakes by pushing down the pedal. The brakes may have frozen, they may be greasy or need adjustment."

4. Be extremely careful at twilight. "You have three times the accident hazard at twilight that you have at 8 a. m. Deceptive visibility is, of course, the reason. Remember too, that night-time crashes have a forty-two per cent higher fatality rate than daylight accidents."

5. Don't use brakes on a skid. "To come out of a skid throw out your clutch and maneuver the steering-wheel so that the front wheels are in alignment with the rear ones. In other words, go in the skid! Braking is ineffectual. Your main concern is to equalize the traction on all four wheels which you do by throwing out your clutch; your next move is to get your wheels all in line. As soon as you feel the skid weakening, let in the clutch, 'gun' the motor, and resume forward progress."

6. Study the road. "Always reduce speed when passing from one type of road to another. Your right wheel should be approximately one and one-half feet from the outer edge of the highway. Running off the road is common. Thirty-one per cent of accidents are due to speeding, while thirty-four per cent are caused by cars going off the road."

P.H.S. TRIMS NORTHVILLE BY 13-0 SCORE

N. H. S. Fails To Click Until Last Few Minutes of Game

A record crowd of nearly 2,000 people watched a strong Plymouth squad hand a 13 to 0 defeat to a fighting Northville eleven here last Friday.

Plunging through a bewildered line for a touchdown in the first five minutes of play, Cline, Blue and White halfback, made the first score, which was followed by an accurate conversion.

Elliott, Plymouth half, caught a long pass from Williams, fullback, and ran with it to the ten-yard line. Then, though Northville held valiantly on the one foot line for two downs, Cline crashed across the line.

Throughout the rest of the first quarter, and the beginning of the second, the play was even, Marburger's punts being long and accurate, while Plymouth, playing safe, held the ball no longer than necessary. Northville's right side of the line appeared weak here as it did all through the game, although every man was giving everything he had battling to the bitter end.

Then, toward the middle of the second period, the Wattsmen perked up and began a series of end runs and line plunges that kept them repeatedly in Plymouth's territory. Deal's passes, long and straight into the arms of a waiting receiver, gained first down after first down.

Then, after the local team got within scoring distance on their fourth down, Marburger crashed across the goal, plunging through the wide hole that opened for him in the center of the line. Frenzied cheers went up, but died quickly when umpire James Brown, dean of men at Ypsilanti Normal, standing, called Eddie Bender, right halfback, "in motion," the touchdown not counting, and penalizing Northville five yards.

Plymouth took the ball and kicked out of the danger zone. The half ended, seven to nothing in favor of the Pilgrims.

When play was resumed, Plymouth took the ball into its territory and kept it there for nearly the remainder of the game. The tired Northville warriors were outplayed, though not outfought, for the rest of the game. Deal's passes were longer and accurate, but there were no uncovered receivers. Marburger still gained a yard or two through the line, but the end runs were smeared for losses.

As the third quarter opened Plymouth again neared the Northville goal. And again, while Northville battled vainly, Cline on a spinner, carried the ball around the left end for a touchdown, tearing across the goal line. This time, however, the conversion was not made.

Northville tried hard in the last period but of no avail. As time grew short, Quarterback Marburger used Deal more and more. But while interference gave him plenty of time, the Plymouth backfield left no receiver uncovered. The Plymouth team was also checked, but the damage had been done, and when the whistle blew, Northville found itself defeated by a greater score than an Orange and Black team has suffered at the hands of Plymouth in several years.

'ROUND THE SCHOOL

School Spirit

Do the so-called bonfires and snake dances settle the question of Northville's lousy school spirit; we seem to believe from the way Plymouth out-yelled Northville at the game Friday that these last minutes of celebrating does not accomplish what they are expected to.

Do you believe that this takes all of the people's pep away from them, and that when the time for them to yell comes they are all too hoarse. If not what does seem to be the trouble. We believe the school as a whole should be ashamed to admit that their strongest rivals should come over and out-yell them by twice as loud cheers. In Plymouth they do not have these events, yet when they go to the game they do not take the back seat even though they haven't such a strong cheering section as their opponents. We believe if the students would have yelled half as loud at the game Friday as they did at the bonfire the night before Plymouth would not have gotten out on the field and proved our better as rooters. But if thats the way you would rather do you will go on through the future being out-yelled as you were in most of your home games this year. We believe this not to be the fault of the cheer leaders but of the students as a whole.

We also believe that unless you perk up the other teams will take advantage of this fact when they meet us in the coming basketball games. Do we wish to be called a bunch of "Pansies," or do we wish to stay right up there with the rest of our opponents?

Debating Team

We wish to know why Northville does not have a debating team entered in the Debating League this year, it is surely not because we don't have the material. Is it because of the school's finances do not permit it, or is it because the majority of the students don't approve of sponsoring one. We know it isn't because Northville lacks the public speakers after the twelfth grade Civics class defended the different candidates which they sponsored last Monday.

Plymouth Game

It was one of the cleanest played battles that we have ever witnessed between these two schools who are the strongest rivals in this part of the country.

Northville lost but she took the defeat like we would expect her to, no sobbing, no profane language out with a smile. Yet it was not a game to lose without feeling upset over.

Each player struggled desperately to help overcome the lead which Plymouth held over them since the first touchdown of the game was scored.

Also we should not overlook the fact that Plymouth each year has almost twice as many candidates turn out for football than does Northville. (Here we wish to say that this is not crying over being beaten by Plymouth but just the circumstances N. H. S. encounters each year when she faces the Pilgrims of our neighboring city.)

N. H. S. also missed the player who was taken with appendicitis in the earlier part of the season, Charles Strautz. He proved a very good player against our rivals last year. Again we wish to say that the Orange and Black eleven played a clean game with every player giving everything he had throughout the game, and tried to win for their alma maters but fate proved too strong against them.

School Dances

The dances prove to be a very good way for the classes to make money. It surely does seem a shame that each class can give only two dances a year which means eight during the school year. The students are furnished with clean recreation at these dances and we feel sure that more dances would prove more beneficial than detrimental to the students as a whole. Wouldn't it be the best policy to have the children here than out attending the beer gardens or gambling joints in this vicinity. We now ask the public's general opinion on this or anyone interested in this matter.

SENIOR WHO'S WHO

Donald Maurice Bray

"Don" as everyone calls him, was born in Detroit on February 10, 1916, which makes him as old as his tongue and a little older than his teeth. From Detroit Don and the family moved to Union City, Michigan. A few years later they moved to Paw Paw, where he attended school through the fifth grade, after which they moved to Northville. He has lived and attended the schools here ever since.

He is fond of sports, football being his favorite. He has been out for football for four years; basketball, four years; baseball, one year; and track for four years. He is now co-captain of the track team.

Don was the leading character in the Junior play, and he was also on the J-Hop committee. His favorite hobby seems to be horseback riding.

Don has no definite plan for his future (although it seems that everyone knows who-not what-his past present and future is), but he hopes to attend college.

Edward J. Breitmeyer

The thirteenth may be an unlucky day for the Breitmeyer family, and it may not be, as the thirteenth of January, 1917 was the birth date of Edward. Maybe you do not know who I'm refering to when I say Edward, so I'll refer to him as "Rosie." He is also commonly known as "Rose Petals," and when you call him those names, he "can take it."

Rosie was born in Detroit and he attended schools there through the tenth grade. The family then moved to West Point where he now lives, although he has attended the Northville schools for the past two years.

After graduating he will have further education in the line of gardening.

THE VALUE OF LATIN

(By Miss Ione Palmer)

Ye worthy editor prevailed upon my good graces and persuaded me to "write an article" and from that time forth he has hounded my footsteps and will not leave me in peace until the manuscript (a good Latin word) is presented. I thought and thought in order to pick a worthwhile subject, an interesting subject, finally any subject, but the Muse of Inspiration failed me. At length the afore-mentioned ubiquitous, loquacious, pugnacious (very good Latin words) editor suggested I continue the discussion I had with Mr. H. Hoffman on "What's the use of Latin anyway?" He more than suggested. He hinted that should I procrastinate (excellent Latin word) longer, he would take my life." To reiterate his statement, he appeared personally at my domicile. (Pick out your own Latin words from now on). To describe him as persistent would be mild. Hence I take my pen in hand, not to write a lengthy dissertation on the value of the classics in modern education, but simply to exalt those who have successfully managed its shoals and reefs, to bolster the courage of those who are now wending their perilous way through its channels, and to encourage the uninitiated. I do not agree with the person who wrote:

"They're all dead who spoke it
They're all dead who wrote it
They'll all die who learn it
Happy death! they earn it."

Too many scores of people have survived and attested to its value in their lives. Of course, in the vernacular of the day it "gets some people down" as is proved by the conversation, I overheard in the hall the other day just before the tenth's test.

Wayne S.—What sort of a grade does Henry Hoffman expect to get on his test? Is he worried?

Stanley T.—Worried is right. Why, he's got so many wrinkles in his forehead he has to screw his hat on!

There's one reason for studying Latin! You can't bluff! It takes concentration, will power, day-by-day accumulation of facts to succeed. Excellent mental training! In translating from Latin to English the habits of suspense and of temporary judgments must be formed.

2. Latin affords us a first-hand acquaintance with the import of Roman civilization, which has had such an influence on our own. The modern civilization of Europe and America is largely the outgrowth of the Roman. American boys and girls play many games that Roman children played. American students read literature that was greatly influenced by the Roman. American citizens deal with political and legal ideas that are largely a Roman inheritance. To know something of this Roman civilization is an important reason for studying Latin.

3. Study Latin because of the large percentage of Latin words in the English language. The Romans handed down their language. This is used in its modern forms in Italy, France, Romania, Portugal, the islands between Italy and Spain, and even to a large extent in Great Britain and the Americas. About seventy per cent of our English words are derived from Latin. If you were to read a passage from the Constitution or any other important Latin and Greek origin, you would have very few words left. Most of the words which the small child learns are of Teutonic origin; almost all the new works which the high school boy or girl meets are of Latin or Greek origin. Therefore the study of Latin becomes all the more important.

4. The main reason to study Latin is to get a better knowledge of English. The study of Latin will make English grammar much easier to understand. It will increase your vocabulary and improve your general efficiency.

5. Latin will help you to enjoy the Latin words, phrases, and mottoes used in English, such as: e pluribus unum, per annum, alumnus, and Alma Mater. It will show you the meaning of such abbreviations as i. e. for id est and A. D. for Anno Domino.

6. Latin phrases are used in law, such as habeas corpus and ex post facto. Lawyers must know Latin.

N. B. Some parents think Latin is good for other vocations if not taken in too large doses. "Now I want Henry to have a thorough modern and up-to-date education," says his mother, "including Latin."

"Yes, of course," said Miss Palmer, "though Latin is considered, as you know, a dead language."

"Well, all the better. Henry's going to be an undertaker." Or was it a physical education teacher?

7. Latin presents a challenge to every wide-awake boy and girl. Will you take it?

8. Latin gives you, finally, a polish, a culture, a superiority which distinguishes you from the "common herd."

I close with a line from Horace—nil sine magno vita labore dedit mortalibus. (Life has given nothing to mankind without great labor.)

NORTHVILLE AND CLAWSON CLASH TODAY

Eleven Seniors Will Play In Their Last Grid Contest

After being defeated by the Plymouth eleven, 13-0, the Orange and Black journeys to Clawson today for their final game of the season.

Clawson was weak last year, but have gained in experience and strength. They are bound to prove a hard battle for the local gridders.

Eleven seniors end their grid career for N. H. S. today. They are as follows: Captain Eddie Bender, R. H.; Kenneth Porter, R. E.; Cloyce Meyers, L. T.; Don Bray, Center; Adelma Bond, R. G.; Dayton Deal, L. H.; Irvin Marburger, Q.; Nick Reechko, F.; Bill Dugald, Q.; and William Owen, L. H.

It is very likely that these eleven seniors will see service in this game. The line-up is doubtful as the paper goes to press.

PHYLLIS FLAHERTY VIEWS SENIOR DANCE

The first dance given by the senior class of 1935 was held Friday, November 9, 1934. The dance proved to be a financial success as well as a social success.

The music was furnished by Fenby and his Fascinators from Detroit.

Although everyone felt blue over the Plymouth-Northville football game they showed up splendidly at the dance.

The gym was decorated in a [illegible] way. One side of the room was decorated in Northville's school colors, Orange and Black, and the other bore the colors of the victorious Plymouth team, Blue and White.

It would take too much space to describe everyone that was there so I will just pick out a few.

The older generation acted as chaperones, among them being Mr. Thompson, Mr. Amerman, Mr. [illegible] B. Cooke, class sponsors, Mr. Richardson, and Mr. and Mrs. Ambler.

Flora Mae Coal [illegible] dressed in tan danced with Kenneth Porter.

Leona Coe, dressed in a [illegible] dress, was escorted by Stanley Taylor.

Ruth Campbell [illegible] home from the football game danced with Harry Roland [illegible].

Altha H[illegible] dressed in green, enjoyed the evening with Chick Whipple.

Jane Grosvenor looked charming in a brown skirt and a plaid blouse dancing with Irvin Marburger.

Violet Johnson dressed in the popular color of fall was escorted by Tom Carrington.

Tunics were also popular at this dance. Mary Louise Bojden looking very sweet dressed in a brown tunic and escorted by none other than Maurice Giles (the socialist).

Evelyn Ambler looked very exotic dressed in black and white and was claimed most of the evening by Paul Baldwin.

Marion Turnbull, dressed in a warm shade of brown, was escorted by Henry Hoffman.

Looking very sweet in black, Dorothy Richardson spent the evening with Don Bray.

Helen Christensen was escorted by Jack Flaherty.

Winnie McCardle dressed in two shades of blue, glided over the floor with Melvin Leland.

Barbara Phillips looked very pretty dressed in green, and danced often with Bob Lyke.

Catherine Bongiovanni was escorted by Kenneth Coe.

Gertrude Deal (home from college for the week-end) was escorted by Hugh Horton.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Cavell attended the dance. Lucille was very attractively dressed in black.

Leona Moffitt dressed in a tan skirt and brown blouse danced very often with Art Hill.

Peggy Blake was escorted to the dance by Bob Christensen.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Riley enjoyed the dance. Mrs. Riley looked pretty, dressed in green and white.

Beverly Stamman attended the dance with Art Cook.

The senior class was very disappointed that Mr. Watts, one of their sponsors, didn't attend the dance.

DICK JUNOD—"I think it is very good."

VERNA LITTLE—"I believe more reporters would help a great deal."

GERALDINE WARE—"I think if the O. & B. page had more articles it would be more successful."

MARION TURNBULL—"I don't want to criticize this page too severely, but honestly, it isn't what it used to be. It lacks interest and enthusiasm."

P.H.S. TRIMS NORTHVILLE BY 13-0 SCORE

N. H. S. Fails To Click Until Last Few Minutes of Game

A record crowd of nearly 2,000 people watched a strong Plymouth squad hand a 13 to 0 defeat to a fighting Northville eleven here last Friday.

Plunging through a bewildered line for a touchdown in the first five minutes of play, Cline, Blue and White, halfback, made the first score, which was followed by an accurate conversion.

Elliott, Plymouth half, caught a long pass from Williams, fullback, and ran with it to the ten yard line. Then, though Northville held valiantly on the one foot line for two downs, Cline crashed across the line.

Throughout the rest of the first quarter, and the beginning of the second, the play was even. Marburger's punts being long and accurate, while Plymouth, playing safe, held the ball no longer than necessary. Northville's right side of the line appeared weak here as it did all through the game, although every man was giving everything he had battling to the bitter end.

Then, toward the middle of the second period, the Wattsmen perked up and began a series of end runs and line plunges that kept them repeatedly in Plymouth's territory. Deal's passes, long and straight into the arms of a waiting receiver, gained first down after first down.

Then, after the local team got within scoring distance on their fourth down, Marburger crashed across the goal, plunging through the wide hole that opened for him in the center of the line. Frenzied cheers went up, but died quickly when umpire James Brown, dean of men at Ypsilanti Normal, umpiring, called Eddie Bender, right halfback, "in motion," the touchdown not counting, and penalizing Northville five yards.

Plymouth took the ball and kicked out of the danger zone. The half ended, seven to nothing in favor of the Pilgrims.

When play was resumed, Plymouth took the ball into its territory and kept it there for nearly the remainder of the game. The tired Northville warriors were outplayed, though not outfought, for the rest of the game. Deal's passes were longer and accurate, but there were no uncovered receivers. Marburger still gained a yard or two through the line, but the end runs were smeared for losses.

As the third quarter opened, Plymouth again neared the Northville goal. And again, while Northville battled vainly, Cline on a spinner, carried the ball around the left end for a touchdown, tearing across the goal line. This time, however, the conversion was not made.

Northville tried hard in the last period but of no avail. As time grew short, Quarterback Marburger used Deal more and more. But while interference gave him plenty of time, the Plymouth backfield left no receiver uncovered. The Plymouth team was also checked, but the damage had been done, and when the whistle blew, Northville found itself defeated by a greater score than an Orange and Black team has suffered at the hands of Plymouth in several years.

'ROUND THE SCHOOL

School Spirit

Do the so-called bonfires and snake dances settle the question of Northville's lousy school spirit; we seem to believe from the way Plymouth out-yelled Northville at the game Friday that these last minutes of celebrating does not accomplish what they are expected to.

Do you believe that this takes all of the people's pep away from them, and that when the time for them to yell comes they are all too hoarse. If not what does seem to be the trouble. We believe the school as a whole should be ashamed to admit that their strongest rivals should come over and out-yell them by twice as loud cheers. In Plymouth they do not have these events, yet when they go to the game they do not take the back seat even though they haven't such a strong cheering section as their opponents. We believe if the students would have yelled half as loud at the game Friday as they did at the bonfire the night before Plymouth would not have gotten out on the field and proved our better as rooters. But if that's the way you would rather do, you will go on through the future being out-yelled as you were in most of your home games this year. We believe this not to be the fault of the cheer leaders but of the students as a whole.

We also believe that unless you perk up the other teams will take advantage of this fact when they meet us in the coming basketball games. Do we wish to be called a bunch of 'Pansies,' or do we wish to stay right up there with the rest of our opponents?

Debating Team

We wish to know why Northville does not have a debating team entered in the Debating League this year. It is surely not because we don't have the material. Is it because of the school's finances does not permit it, or is it because the majority of the students don't approve of sponsoring one. We know it isn't because Northville lacks the public speakers after the twelfth grade Civics class defended the different candidates which they sponsored last Monday.

Plymouth Game

It was one of the cleanest played battles that we have ever witnessed between these two schools who are the strongest rivals in this part of the country.

Northville lost but she took the defeat like we would expect her to, no sobbing, no profane language but with a smile. Yet it was not a game to lose without feeling upset over.

Each player struggled desperately to help overcome the lead which Plymouth held over them since the first touchdown of the game was scored.

Also we should not overlook the fact that Plymouth each year has almost twice as many candidates turn out for football than does Northville. (Here we wish to say that this is not crying over being beaten by Plymouth but just the circumstances N. H. S. encounters each year when she faces the Pilgrims of our neighboring city.)

N. H. S. also missed the player who was taken with appendicitis in the earlier part of the season Charles Strautz. He proved a very good player against our rivals last year. Again we wish to say that the Orange and Black eleven played a clean game with every player giving everything he had throughout the game and tried to win for their alma mater but fate proved too strong against them.

School Dances

The dances prove to be a very good way for the classes to make money. It surely does seem a shame that each class can give only two dances a year which means eight during the school year. The students are furnished with clean recreation at these dances and we feel sure that more dances would prove more beneficial than detrimental to the students as a whole. Wouldn't it be far the best policy to have the children here than out attending the beer gardens or gambling joints in this vicinity. We now ask the public's general opinions on this or anyone interested in the matter.

SENIOR WHO'S WHO

Donald Maurice Bray

"Don" as everyone calls him, was born in Detroit on February 10, 1916, which makes him as old as his tongue and a little older than his teeth. From Detroit Don and the family moved to Union City, Michigan. A few years later they moved to Paw Paw, where he attended school through the fifth grade, after which, they moved to Northville. He has lived, and attended the schools, here ever since.

He is fond of sports, football being his favorite. He has been out for football for four years; basketball, four years; baseball, one year; and track for four years. He is now co-captain of the track team.

Don was the leading character in the Junior play, and he was also on the J-Hop committee. His favorite hobby seems to be horseback riding.

Don has no definite plan for his future (although it seems that everyone knows who—not what—his past present and future is), but he hopes to attend college.

Edward J. Breitmeyer

The thirteenth may be an unlucky day for the Breitmeyer family, and it may not be, as the thirteenth of January, 1917 was the birth date of Edward. Maybe you do not know who I'm referring to when I say Edward, so I'll refer to him as "Rose." He is also commonly known as "Rose Petals," and when you call him those names he "can take it."

Rose was born in Detroit and he attended schools there through the tenth grade. The family then moved to West Point where he now lives, although he has attended the Northville schools for the past two years.

After graduating, he will have further education in the line of gardening.

THE VALUE OF LATIN

(By Miss Ione Palmer)

Ye worthy editor prevailed upon my good graces and persuaded me to "write an article" and from that time forth he has hounded my footsteps and will not leave me in peace until the manuscript (a good Latin word) is presented. I thought and thought in order to pick a worthwhile subject, an interesting subject, finally any subject, but the Muse of Inspiration failed me. At length the afore-mentioned ubiquitous, loquacious, pugnacious (very good Latin words) editor suggested I continue the discussion I had with Mr. H. Hoffman on "What's the use of Latin anyway?" He more than suggested. He hinted that should I procrastinate (excellent Latin word) longer, he would "take my life." To reiterate his statement, he appeared personally at my domicile. (Pick out your own Latin words from now on). To describe him as persistent would be mild. Hence I take my pen in hand, not to write a lengthy dissertation on the value of the classics in modern education, but simply to exalt those who have successfully managed its shoals and reefs, to bolster the courage of those who are now wending their perilous way through its channels, and to encourage the uninitiated. I do not agree with the person who wrote:

"They're all dead who spoke it,
They're all dead who wrote it,
They'll all die who learn it,
Happy death! they earn it."

Too many scores of people have survived and attested to its value in their lives. Of course, in the vernacular of the day it "gets some people down," as is proved by the conversation I overheard in the hall the other day just before the months test.

Wayne S.—What sort of a grade does Henry Hoffman expect to get on his test? Is he worried?

Stanley T.—Worried is right. Why, he's got so many wrinkles in his forehead he has to screw his hat on!

There's one reason for studying Latin! You can't bluff! It takes concentration, will power, day-by-day accumulation of facts to succeed. Excellent mental training! In translating from Latin to English the habits of surprise and of temporary judgments must be formed.

2. Latin affords us a first-hand acquaintance with the important Roman civilization, which has had such an influence on our own. The modern civilization of Europe and America is largely the outgrowth of the Roman. American boys and girls play many games that Roman children played. American students read literature that was greatly influenced by the Roman. American citizens deal with political and legal ideas that are largely a Roman inheritance. To know something of this Roman civilization is an important reason for studying Latin.

3. Study Latin because of the large percentage of Latin words in the English language. The Romans handed down their language. This is used in its modern forms in Italy, France, Romania, Portugal, the islands between Italy and Spain, and even to a large extent, in Great Britain and the Americas. About seventy per cent of our English words are derived from Latin. If you were to read a passage from the Constitution or any other important Latin and Greek origin you would have very few words left. Most of the words which the small child learns are of Teutonic origin; almost all the new words which the high school boy or girl meets are of Latin or Greek origin. Therefore the study of Latin becomes all the more important.

4. The main reason to study Latin is to get a better knowledge of English. The study of Latin will make English grammar much easier to understand. It will increase your vocabulary and improve your general efficiency.

5. Latin will help you to enjoy the Latin words, phrases, and mottoes used in English such as: e pluribus unum, per annum, alumnus, and Alma Mater. It will show you the meaning of such abbreviations as i. e. for id est and A. D. for Anno Domino.

6. Latin phrases are used in law, such as habeas corpus and ex post facto. Lawyers must know Latin.

N. B. Some parents think Latin is good for other vocations if not taken in too large doses. "Now I want Henry to have a thorough modern and up-to-date education," says his mother, "including Latin."

"Yes, of course," said Miss Palmer, "though Latin is considered, as you know, a dead language."

"Well, all the better. Henry's going to be an undertaker." Or was it a physical education teacher?

7. Latin presents a challenge to every wide-awake boy and girl. Will you take it?

8. Latin gives you, finally, a polish, a culture, a superiority which distinguishes you from the "common herd."

I close with a line from Horace: nil sine magno vita labore dedit mortalibus. (Life has given nothing to mankind without great labor.)

NORTHVILLE AND CLAWSON CLASH TODAY

Eleven Seniors Will Play In Their Last Grid Contest

After being defeated by the Plymouth eleven, 13-0, the Orange and Black journies to Clawson today for their final game of the season.

Clawson was weak last year, but have gained in experience and strength. They are bound to prove a hard battle for the local gridders. Eleven seniors end their grid career for N. H. S. today. They are as follows: Captain Eddie Bender, R. H.; Kenneth Porter, R. E.; Clorce Meyers, L. T.; Don Bray, Center; Adelma Boyd, R. G.; Dayton Deal, L. H.; Irvin Marburger, Q.; Nick Reechko, F.; Bill Duguid, Q.; and William Owen, L. H.

It is very likely that these eleven seniors will see service in this game. The line-up is doubtful as the paper goes to press.

Marion Turnbull, dressed in a warm shade of brown was escorted by Henry Hoffman.

Looking very sweet in black Dorothy Richardson spent the evening with Don Bray.

Helen Christensen was escorted by Jack Flaherty.

Winnie McCardle dressed in two shades of blue, glided over the floor with Melvin Leland.

Barbara Phillips looked very pretty dressed in green and danced often with Bob Lyke.

GERALDINE WARE—"I think if the O. & B. page had more articles it would be more successful."

MARION TURNBULL—"I don't want to criticize this page too severely, but honestly, it isn't what it used to be. It lacks interest and enthusiasm."

ADA WHEATON—"It's not as good as it was last year. Some of the items appear to be long enough, but when one reads them, they don't contain much in thought."

JIM HARPER—"The Orange and Black this year, in my opinion, is very much improved over that of last year. I believe this to be true because there seems to be a wider variety of columns than last year."

HOW MANY YEARS AGO

was your

Store Lighting

INSTALLED?

How much chance would you have today if you were forced to sell merchandise ten years old while your competitors were selling up-to-the-minute styles? . . . You'd probably go out of business!

Yet many merchants are trying to sell goods under 10-year-old lighting that is woefully inadequate for present-day standards. You cannot display goods properly without good lighting . . . and poor lighting handicaps sales. Have you ever given any consideration to this important part of your business? How many years ago was your store lighting installed? The last five years have seen great forward steps in the art of lighting to increase sales. Is YOUR store lighting keeping pace with these changes?

• • •

Improving your lighting is not necessarily expensive. Often a few dollars will bring your lighting system up-to-date, and your increased sales will more than pay for the cost of alterations. Detroit Edison engineers will gladly check your lighting without charge or obligation, and submit recommendations. This is part of our service. Call any Detroit Edison office.

Instead of Mother

"I don't know whether I did right or not" said a modest little Northville mother recently.

"When my husband died, leaving me with small children I would not give them up to rich friends who offered to relieve me of the care of them. They would have had a much better education, a more beautiful home, nicer clothes, more comforts. But they never would have had more love.

"There were times when I had to work hard to keep them clothed and fed and often my heart smote me to think what they might have had instead of a mother."

"Instead of a mother?" What can we think of that could possibly be worth more than a mother to the life of a growing child?

Luxuries do not last, but the assurance that:

"I know whose love will follow me still, Mother O' Mine" has held many a wavering soul steady through storms.

"Where's mother?" is the first cry of the child when he comes home from school, and it's "mother" he calls from his little bed at night when fear of darkness grips his heart.

If given a chance to choose, now that they are grown men and women, we feel sure that the children of this woman would say without reserve, "Oh, mother, we're so glad you kept us near you! Nothing could take your place."

Mrs. Johnson Is Hostess at Old Hostelry Friday Afternoon—

Like a visit back to grandmother's old homestead was the delightful afternoon spent by about forty friends of Mrs. Waldo Johnson who greeted them hospitably at the old Botsford Inn near the intersection of the Eight Mile road and Grand River avenue Friday afternoon.

A tour was made through this old inn which was once a "half-way house" on the turnpike where travellers by stage coach stopped for a night's lodging on their way to the big city.

Restored by Henry Ford, as one of his sentiments, the inn is furnished throughout in much the same style as it was when hoop-skirted ladies danced the quadrille with silk-stockinged gentlemen in the great ball room on the second floor. (One of the visitors Friday made the discovery that the wide, satiny floor boards were laid with wooden pegs.)

Great fourposter beds with hand-woven coverlets and other furnishings of rare beauty called forth the wonder and admiration of the company who wandered at will up the wide stairway, now sagging with the years, and through the various rooms.

As if a very part of the scene, sat the gracious, silver-haired mother of the hostess, Mrs. Mary Christensen, visiting with her friend, Mrs. Sophia Benton, in their quaint chairs before the fireplace where kettles hung on a crane over the blaze.

Various games were interspersed with visiting informally. Three guests received prizes, beautiful boxes of chrysanthemums: Mrs. H. B. Clark, Mrs. Chas. E. Rogers and Mrs. Dayton B. Bunn.

Tea was served in the spacious dining room, the guests seated at small tables laid with china in early American design. Lingering leisurely over their teacups the ladies ate countless dainty sandwiches and small cakes as they enjoyed the atmosphere of past romance in this old hostelry.

Guests were present from Northville, Plymouth and Redford.

Miss Haack Is Hostess to Bridge Club Thursday Afternoon—

Miss Anna Haack was cordial hostess to the members of the Thursday Bridge club yesterday afternoon at the home of her sister, Mrs. Edward L. Millis.

Following a dainty dessert luncheon the afternoon was spent with cards.

Teachers Will Be Guests At Dinner—

The teachers of the public schools and the Board of Education will be guests of the Northville Woman's club at dinner this evening (Friday) at six-thirty o'clock, at the library.

Members are requested to bring their own table service and one passing dish.

Mrs. Knapp will give a travelogue describing her recent Mediterranean cruise.

Mr. and Mrs. Herrick Are Hosts To Get-Together Club—

Mr. and Mrs. Arch Herrick of Plymouth, were hosts Thursday evening to the Get-Together club at a co-operative dinner and evening of cards. About 40 were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Dickinson will entertain the club on Thursday evening, Nov. 22.

Mrs. Beard Is Hostess to Friends Honoring Visiting Ladies—

Honoring Mrs. E. J. Frost of Boston and Mrs. Chas. Allen of Columbus, O., Mrs. E. S. Beard entertained a company of 19 congenial friends Saturday evening at her home on the Baseline road.

A pleasant evening was spent with informal visiting. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Miss Elizabeth.

Miss Ella Nastich Entertains Friends On Her Birthday—

Miss Ella Nastich entertained on her fourteenth birthday Friday, Nov. 9, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Nastich, at 12 Mile and Grand River.

The rooms were decorated with beautiful giant mums and the table with pom poms. Refreshments were served.

Games and dancing were enjoyed by the guests. Those present were [illegible] Galen, Mona Wilson, [illegible] Wilson, Muriel Hardy, [illegible] [illegible]sworthy, Wilma Goldsworthy, [illegible] Goldsworthy, Ellen Aldrich, [illegible] Monteau, Reginald Hardy, [illegible] Bob Wilson, Steve Monteau, Mr. and Mrs. James Monteau.

Benefit Card Party for Children At San Is Pleasant Affair—

As evidence of the sympathy of [illegible] for sick children, the benefit card party held at the Childrens unit at the Maybury sanatorium Friday evening was a success financially as well as socially. Many who came to play generously forgot to take the change from their dollars paid for admission fee and as a result the fund for Christmas joy for these little ones was swelled to the sum of $33.

Many townspeople were present and their support is appreciated by those sponsoring this charity affair.

Miss Alta May Cooper and Benjamin H. Farr Are Married At Detroit—

Miss Alta May Cooper, daughter of Mrs. Mary Cooper, Eight Mile road near Farmington, was given in marriage to Benjamin H. Farr at six o'clock Thursday evening, Nov. 8, at Mt. Calvary church, Detroit. Rev. Ernest Keuchle performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a charming tailored gown of blue crepe trimmed in rhinestones, with lilies of the valley in her hair and carrying a bouquet of roses, mums and baby breath.

The maid of honor was Miss Bernice Ford of Battle Creek, who wore a lovely gown of black transparent velvet with a shoulder bouquet of pink roses, mums and baby breath. Mrs. Gurden Farr of Detroit, the bridesmaid, wore a dainty blue crepe gown with a similar bouquet. Gurden Farr was best man.

A dinner was served to a company of 90 intimate friends, 40 others joining the party later when the tables were cleared and a three-piece orchestra furnished music for dancing until a late hour.

At 12:30 a buffet lunch was served. After receiving hearty congratulations the bride and groom opened their many beautiful gifts.

Many of the bride's school friends were present. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. Murphy of Midland, a school friend of Mr. Farr, Mrs. Murray of Nebraska, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Luder of Flint, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ford of Battle Creek.

ADJUSTING BANKING TO CHANGING NEEDS

By ROBERT V. FLEMING
Vice President American Bankers Association

R. V. FLEMING

BANKERS recognize that changing conditions require new methods of doing business. However it is their responsibility to retain those essential and sound financial principles upon which this country was founded and has grown to be what is still the richest nation in the world.

Many of our difficulties have arisen from lack of confidence and from misunderstanding. Therefore it behooves the banker to bend every effort to create a better public understanding of sound banking and thereby bring about that united effort and cooperative spirit which will hasten the day of national recovery and restore to the banker the confidence of the public to which he is entitled.

As an approach to the realization of this ideal, bankers should carefully scrutinize every application for a loan to see if it is bankable and, if it is not in bankable form, then make further examination to see if the loan can be made so, in order to stimulate use of credit.

Explaining Loan Factors to Customers

We must not expect our customers to be bankers and understand all the factors which we must consider before granting a loan. If we find that a loan is not, and cannot be made, bankable, then I think we should take pains to explain the reasons why it cannot be granted.

There are other measures which I think it important for the banker to undertake in order to eliminate the misunderstandings which have arisen and overcome the sentiment which exists. Under present conditions we have to operate under many laws and regulations, and also much what further legislation is being proposed which affects our methods of operation and may not be in the best interest of the communities we serve. Nowadays it seems at times we must sit with a law book in one hand and a book of regulations in the other in order to make certain we are conducting ourduties and functioning strictly in accordance with the law. All of this is very trying, but I think in the end we shall become better bankers.

I believe it is the duty of every banker today to endeavor to understand the public he serves. In addition to his daily duties, trying as they are, he should participate in the activities of his community, so that, with the fund of information available to him, he may be as helpful as possible.

COMPTROLLER COMMENDS INSTITUTE OF BANKING

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The American Institute of Banking is said to be the most successful project of its kind in the field of applied adult education, has performed a valuable function in training bank clerks for [illegible] public service as well as personal success, J. F. T. O'Connor, Comptroller of the Currency of the United States, said here in a recent radio address. The Institute is a section of the American Bankers Association.

"While imparting useful knowledge, it has [illegible] and has stimulated in its members an intelligent interest in national and international monetary problems," Mr. O'Connor said. "Its courses cover a wide field in banking. Among the subjects are Bank Organization and Operation, Commercial Law, Negotiable Instruments Law, and Economics, in the Pre-Standard Division; followed by such subjects as Money and Banking, Credit Management, Financial Statement Analysis and Bank Management, in the Standard Division.

"Each and every subject is one which is necessary to a knowledge of banking. However, the institute does not stop here, but encourages graduate study, in Corporation Finance, Trust Service, Farm Credit Administration and Business Forecasting. Again it emphasizes in special courses the importance of the less technical but highly beneficial study of Constructive Customer Relations, Banking Fundamentals and Public Speaking. No comment is necessary on these courses: their value is at once apparent."

Additional Orange and Black

INQUIRING REPORTER.

(From the Orange & Black)

Do you think that Northville High School should have a debating team this year?

D. Richardson—A team of this kind is very beneficial to all who take part. Before debating was discontinued the team won more honors than any other team.

Donna Ferguson—Yes, I believe it to be a very good idea, as there seems to be enough good material in the high school.

S. Van Valkenburg—Yes, because it would create more interest among students in the school and give students who don't take part in athletics something to do with school activities.

E. Bender—No, if you had a team it would be more expensive for the school and it would be extra work for one of the teachers, especially these hard times.

Geraldine I. Huff

She was born at Northville (in the last week of July). She attended grade school and four years of high school here, graduating with the class of '28.

The next four years were spent at the University of Michigan where she obtained a Bachelor of Arts degree. During her last year at the University she served on the Board of Representatives of the "Woman's League."

In both high school and college Miss Huff took part in many extra-curricular activities but she seemed to care more for athletics than all of the rest. She spent three years on the girls' basketball team here, serving as captain during her Junior year.

A good deal of her leisure time is spent enjoying music which is her hobby.

She taught mathematics and science during her first year here. Last year and this year have been spent teaching science and geography.

Miss Gladys Mae Ludwig

Born in Cleveland, Ohio July 25, (the year unknown) she attended schools in Detroit and Northville and graduated with the class of '29.

After graduation she went to Michigan State Normal and has attained her A B degree. Her favorite hobby is to read good books and play basketball. Besides teaching several academic classes she also is the gym instructor. She likes all indoor and outdoor sports. In her spare time she likes to dance and see good plays she also takes an active interest in music.

Dislikes very much to be interviewed but as long as the information is given that is all that is necessary.

Walled Lake News

Hunters Go North

The village of Walled Lake is quieter than usual this week because of the many who have left to go deer hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Beckman and Donavan Hoyt will spend the season at Luzerne, Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Johnson and daughter are north of Alpena.

Harry Vreeland, Ira Carnes, Ray Riley, Wm. Glover, Dick Connor, Warren Wixom, Wm. Robinson, Thomas Fitzpatrick, Archie La Pointe and M. G. Post will hunt at Vreeland's Camp at Tawas.

Albert Richardson, Lloyd Coe, Earl Welch, Floyd Roselle and Clinton Vreeland are in the northern peninsula.

Mr. and Mrs. Manley Bachelor and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bachelor have gone to Hubbard Lake.

Business Changes

Many improvements are being made in the business section of Walled Lake. Ira Carnes is remodeling the front of the Defiance store by cutting off the old front porch that has been a landmark for so many years and is putting on a modern store front.

Vreeland's Fur Company is putting on an addition which will be 50 by 42 feet. This will be used for a drying room.

This will make two new buildings and three remodeled places since Labor Day.

THE OBSERVATION COLUMN

(From Orange & Black)

This time I am choosing a junior girl to describe for you.

She has blonde, wavy hair, pretty eyes of a soft shade that seem to twinkle with a mischievous gleam. She is of medium height and slight in form.

Last year she played on the Sophomore basketball team. In fact she takes an active interest in all sorts of entertainments.

She has a wonderful sense of humor and a way all her own of making a person laugh, when he least wants to.

Two of her brothers have graduated from dear old N. H. S. in recent years. Just another hint, she can pop corn very well, in fact, she does it professionally.

GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP

(From the Orange & Black)

Whether we win or lose the game, we should try to be good sports.

Last Friday our team fought a clean game and lost, but they were good sports ...

The cheering sections of Northville weren't good sports like the team. When the Plymouth band played during the half there was a lot of unnecessary booing. If you think the band and the drum major were just marching up and down for fun you try it sometime. You'll have to admit they were good.

I think every Northville citizen is ashamed of the student body for showing such poor sportsmanship. Our team can take it can't we?

Today is our last football game for this season, so come on, be a good sport even if we lose and take it on the chin.

THIS WEEK

By E. H. WHITE

When anyone today departs from the beaten path of conservative thought and action relating to our national life, he is either socialistic or a little mad.

Socialism has almost as many definitions and isms as Christianity. It seems to mean what interpretation anyone wishes to put on it. If we seek Webster we are told that it is a theory of politics and economics, the basic thought being government control of economic activities in order that competition will be substituted by cooperation and that life and the rewards of labor will be equally distributed.

It seems to be a generic term for anyone who opposes the existing order of things. It is sometimes confused with radicalism and even communism. Some people style themselves as radicals or socialists when they are in need of a catharsis.

The so-called New Deal might be called socialistic since the aim of our president is for social justice for all and yet Norman Thomas and Upton Sinclair claim allegiance to socialistic ideas. Germany, France and England are supposedly socialistic in their affairs of state and government. But Russia is the only European country which closely adheres to Karl Marx, the father of socialism. Their great want with Russian conditions label it dictatorship.

As one views the affairs of the world in the general scheme of development, we are living in extremes. But the pendulum of extremes will eventually swing back to normal. Change, though, is healthy for it denotes growth.

Stagnation is not conducive to progress and those of us who are keenly ... property ... the ... conditions ... eventually see the light of leaving ... back ... again.

THE OBSERVATION COLUMN

(From Orange & Black)

This time I am choosing a junior girl to describe for you.

She has blonde, wavy hair, pretty eyes of a soft shade that seem to twinkle with a mischievous gleam. She is of medium height and slight in form.

Last year she played on the Sophomore basketball team. In fact she takes an active interest in all sorts of entertainments.

She has a wonderful sense of humor and a way all her own, of making a person laugh, when he least wants to.

Two of her brothers have graduated from dear old N. H. S. in recent years. Just another hint, she can pop corn very well, in fact, she does it professionally.

GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP

(From the Orange & Black)

Whether we win or whether we lose we should strive to be good sports.

Last Friday our team fought a clean game and took their loss as good sports should.

The cheering sections of Northville weren't good sports like the team. When the Plymouth band played during the half, there was a lot of unnecessary booing. If you think the band and the drum major were just marching up and down for fun, you try it sometime. You'll have to admit they were good.

I think every Northville citizen is ashamed of the student body for showing such poor sportsmanship. Our team can take it, can't we?

Today is our last football game for this season so come on, be a good sport even if we lose, and take it on the chin.

THIS WEEK

By H. H. WHITE

When anyone today departs from the beaten path of conservative thought and action relating to our national life, he is either socialistic or a little mad.

Socialism has almost as many definitions and isms as Christianity. It seems to mean what interpretation anyone wishes to put on it. If we seek Webster we are told that it is a theory of politics and economics, the basic thought being government control of economic activities in order that competition will be substituted by cooperation and that life and the rewards of labor will be equally distributed.

It seems to be a generic term for anyone who opposes the existing order of things. It is sometimes confused with radicalism and even communism. Some people style themselves as radicals or socialists when they are in need of a catharsis.

The so-called New Deal might be called socialistic since the aim of our president is for social justice for all, and yet Norman Thomas and Upton Sinclair claim allegiance to socialistic ideas. Germany, France and England are supposedly socialistic in their affairs of state and government. But Russia is the only European country which closely adheres to Karl Marx, the father of socialism. Those conversant with Russian conditions label it dictatorship.

As one views the affairs of the world in the general scheme of development, we are living in extremes. But the pendulum of extremes will eventually swing back to normal. Change, though, is healthy, for without it no growth.

Starvation is not conducive to progress and those of us who can keep ourselves properly poised to the surrounding chaos and eventually in the light of reason common sense will bring us back to normal again.

FINDS BANKS WILLING BORROWERS CAUTIOUS

Prominent Writer Refutes Statements Bankers Are Refusing Sound Loans—Describes Reasons for Reduced Volume of Credit.

FIGURES supplied by typical, well-managed banks in different parts of the country show that a high proportion of all applications for loans have been granted in the past year or two, says Albert W. Atwood in a recent article in The Saturday Evening Post on "The Idle Dollar." Excerpts from Mr. Atwood's article follow:

"Frequently banks state that as high as 90 per cent of all such applications are granted and for from 60 to 75 per cent of the amount asked for. Allowing that the bankers make these figures as favorable to their own case as possible, it seems strange that we are told again and again that banks are not lending.

"If we take into account the whole class of regular bank borrowers, the plain fact is very few want to borrow yet. For the word 'borrow' is merely another name for the word 'debt' and we face a great world-wide drive to get out of debt.

"An experienced small-city banker, asked if banks were lending freely enough, wisely replied: 'The really good borrower does not wish to borrow now. In fact, I think our customers are making a remarkably fine showing in paying off their loans, especially loans of long standing.'

The Shrinkage of Credit

"Or if we think of business concerns rather than of individuals, it is conservative to say that those able to maintain high credit ratings have been mostly the ones able to maintain ample cash resources and, therefore, not in need of credit. As prices and costs fell many concerns found themselves with plenty of cash because of the shrinkage in operations. Cash resources were still further swollen by reduced dividends, and smaller inventories made bank borrowings still less necessary.

"Expressed in another way, banks cannot expand credit, they cannot make the loans, unless there is a demand for the same. Fundamentally, the business transaction makes the loan, the loan does not make the transaction. It is a mistake to try to force up business organizations faster than they find need. Under the circumstances, the 'idle dollar' is a natural and proper result of the process. A demand for credit is difficult to create artificially, and there is always danger in so doing.

"Banks must be liquid enough at all times to pay depositors. The idea of a commercial loan is that it represents a self-liquidating process in business. If the banker makes only those advances that are inherently sound, and selects his maturities wisely, he will have no liquidity fears to vex him.

Government Lending

"As everybody knows the Government has vast lending agencies for home owners, farmers, and the like. These have nothing to do with the subject of this article except that all such Government operations would be impossible if the banks did not lend the Government money for the purpose.

"No one can set a time when borrowing will be resumed. But it will come when men once more feel that conditions are sufficiently settled to warrant them in taking chances, in entering upon deals, and in trying to make money."

Mr. Atwood says that it may be that the banks are overcautious now, just as they were overconfident in 1929, but calls attention to the fact that until a little more than a year ago banks were failing "partly because they had loaned too freely, and were being criticized right and left for precisely that." He adds:

"Indeed, the banks which had been cautious in their lending policy came through the crisis safely. Under such conditions it is utterly useless to criticize banks for not making loans. After the experience they had for several years, especially in 1932 and 1933, it is only natural that they should relax their requirements very slowly and gradually.

"Unfortunately, many of the applications for loans are not from people who want temporary banking accommodations for three or six months and are quite able to meet the maturity dates, but are from those who really need permanent capital. They are busted and they want some one to stake them to a new start. What they really seek is a partner to furnish them with long-time capital. But depositors insist upon being paid on demand, and, therefore, it is a grave question whether banks should tie up their funds for any length of time."

Banks Reduce R. F. C. Debts

Of $1,650,000,000 in loans made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to banks of all classes since it began operations in February 1932, the sum of $1,090,000,000, or 65 per cent, has been repaid.

This is a considerably higher ratio of repayment than to all other classes of borrowers. All told, The R. F. C. has advanced $4,550,000,000 to non-governmental borrowers, of which $2,170,000,000, or only 48 per cent, has been repaid.

The first school for all of us is that stage of home life called the nursery. This period of our school life is most important. It is our foundation. With it all later education may perhaps stand or fall. Are its teachers shirking their work? (What right have these parents to send out selfish and ignorant graduates?) Are they unloading the responsibility upon the professional teacher in the regular school? May that not partly explain present lack of results and our many moral failures?
