Mendelssohn's Oratorio, 'Elijah', to Be Climax of Festival Sunday Evening

GLEE CLUBS, CHOIR WILL SING TONIGHT

Chorus of 36 Has Rehearsed For Months On Famous Sacred Composition

The first Northville May Festival, with three of its five evenings of splendid musical entertainment already completed, will round out its week with a concert tonight by the high school a cappella choir, the junior and senior girls' glee clubs in the high school auditorium, and then with "Elijah" by the festival chorus Sunday evening in the Methodist church.

Leslie G. Lee, head of the Northville high school music department, is the director of the festival and will hold the baton both tonight when the chorus and glee clubs sing, and Sunday when he directs "Elijah."

No admission is being asked for any of the concerts. A silver collection will be taken at both the remaining evenings to help defray expenses.

Felix Mendelssohn's "Elijah," the oratorio which has maintained a hold on the affection and admiration of the public ever since 1846 when it was first presented with Mendelssohn himself directing at the Birmingham, England, Festival, will be the climax and highlight of the entire series of concerts.

Ever since February the Festival chorus of 36 voices has been rehearsing the musical score. Carl H. Bryan, baritone, will sing the lead. Miss Hannah Strasen will be the accompanist.

Other soloists will be Mrs. M. J. Koldyke, soprano; Mrs. Victor Lumley, alto; C. Ray VanValkenburgh and Maurice Giles, tenors. These soloists together with Mrs. Mary Alexander, Miss Florence H. Johnson and Merrill S. Sweet, will comprise an octette which will have a special part in the oratorio.

Others taking part in it are:

Sopranos—Evelyn Ambler, Mary Louise Borden, Constance Burgess, Marjorie Chase, Catherine Duguid, Mrs. Mary Groomer, Ray Gromer, Jessie Hanna, Betty Haystead, Leila M. Haystead, Mrs. Kendal S. North, Isabelle Tibble and Marion Turnbull.

Altos—Juanita Elkington, Jane Grosvenor, Helen Johnson, Violet Johnson, Mrs. Leslie G. Lee, Avis Perry, Doris Tewksbury, Isabelle Tewksbury and Mrs. C. R. VanValkenburgh.

Tenors—R. H. Amerman and Geo. H. Lockhart.

Basses—Cecil Giles, David Bray, James Hochkins and Marvin Schoultz.

The high school music department will take the stage tonight (Friday) at the high school auditorium, for the fourth evening of the Festival, a total of 111 voices making up the three organizations which will take part.

These are the high school a capella choir of 50 mixed voices, the junior girls' glee club of 37 voices and the senior girls' glee club, numbering 24. Each of these will be directed by Mr. Lee.

Among the 18 selections that these three groups will sing are "The Lotus Flower," by Schumann, Schubert's "Cradle Song," the Negro spiritual, "Heaven," and Pilgrim's chorus "Tannhauser," by Wagner.

All numbers by the choir will be sung unaccompanied with the exception of Pilgrims' Chorus "Tannhauser," which will close the program.

The first series of compositions by the choir trace the history of church music with three selections, each of a different period of music, one of which, "O Bone Jesu" by Palestrina, was written in 1526.

In contrast to these the junior high girls' glee club will sing three well known American Negro spirituals, and the senior girls' glee club will sing three compositions which include "The Angelus" by Tschaikovsky.

He is the talented director of the U. of M. Little Symphony orchestra which won such high praise from the Festival audience Monday evening at the Presbyterian church house.

SCHOOL BOILER ROOM CALLED FIRE HAZARD

State Official Orders New Lath, Plaster; Urges Fire Escape

Work was started this week to put in fire-resisting lath and plaster in the ceiling of the grade school boiler room following the order of the state fire marshal who visited the school recently.

He considered the boiler room a distinct fire hazard, and said that it must be made fire proof in this way. He also urged that as soon as possible another fire escape be installed on the building.

The building has at the present only one fire escape, which is situated on the south side. It is considered to be greatly inadequate for the number of children who attend classes in the building.

Local school officials say that the new fire escape will be installed at once.

The fire marshal will return here soon to inspect the high school building.

VILLAGE PLANS FOR MEMORIAL DAY WITH PURCHASE OF FLAGS

Preliminary plans are already being made for the community Memorial Day program of 1935 by the village commission with the purchase this week of 168 flags which school children will carry in the parade.

The decision to buy the flags was reached by the commission at its meeting Monday evening at the village hall. H. G. White has been appointed by the Lloyd H. Green post as the chairman of its Memorial Day program and he is already at work on it.

Announcement was also made at the meeting of the commission that all the interest on the village paving bonds, $6,600, has been paid.

It was decided to have Earl Montgomery find a man to be employed by the village to relieve him and R. F. Kilken, caretaker of the village hall, on their days off.

Mr. Montgomery, under the new plan will in turn relieve W. H. Safford, chief of police, and Gordon Allen, nightwatchman. The new man will be employed six days a week and will work on various repair projects to fill the remainder of his time.

LUBRICATION EXPERT VISITS MARZ STATION

A lubrication expert of the Quaker State Motor Oil Co. will be at the Marz Super station today and tomorrow to personally supervise the lubrication of cars on these days.

The station came under the ownership of Arthur R. Marz on Monday, April 22, and is operated by Glenn Charter and Theodore "Doc" Coffey.

ORCHESTRA, SCHOOL BAND SCORE HITS

U. of M. Symphony Praised For Splendid Concert Monday Night

The University of Michigan Little Symphony orchestra, the Northville Community school band and the Northville-Plymouth Male chorus all drew generous applause from large audiences in the first three evenings of Northville's first May Festival this week.

The Little Symphony was especially praised by the crowd that Leslie G. Lee, director of the Festival, called gratifyingly large considering the rain which continued all of Monday evening.

Directed by Thor Johnson and composed of only 15 musicians, this fine college organization seemed to overcome its limitation in number and rendered the complicated and beautiful compositions on the program in a manner that won the instant approval of the audience as soon as the first number had been finished.

Mr. Johnson, the symphony director, ably demonstrated his fine musical sense and talent in the way in which he conducted the orchestra. The orchestra, under his baton, has won the admiration of audiences throughout the country, and is now in constant demand.

John Krell also had to take several bows before the applause could be stopped after his remarkable solo work on the flute in "Minute Waltz" by Chopin, arranged for flute and orchestra.

Miss Vlasta Rodoba and Mr. Krell both were well applauded for their solo work in the Intermezzo from the opera "Carmen," the former playing the bassoon.

Charles Hutton, well known baritone of Walled Lake, was also on Monday evening's program. He was so applauded for the three compositions he sang that he was obligated to sing an encore. "The Sleigh," by Koontz, which was enjoyed equally as well as the other numbers.

The Northville school and community band, directed for the last time by Edward Head, gave a fine concert Tuesday evening in the second of the Festival series in the high school gymnasium.

Ranging in age from 12 or 13 years to 21, the boys and girls in this local musical aggregation demonstrated some examples of real ability, and showed that Mr. Head has done fine work with these young people.

Also during the evening, Dorothy Krainbrink accompanied by Frances Alexander at the piano, sang four compositions that won for her the unanimous approval of the audience. She seemed to reach and hold the difficult high notes with comparative ease.

Mr. Head has been conducting the Northville band ever since 1927 when he organized it for the first time. Local citizens have high praise for him for the outstanding work he has accomplished in his work here. He is unable to continue with the band since he is so occupied with similar activities in Detroit, where he leads bands in seven different schools.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS

The Board of Review for the Village of Northville will meet in the village hall Monday and Tuesday, May 20 and 21, 1935, at 10 o'clock a. m. of each of said days for the purpose of reviewing the assessment rolls of said village. Taxpayers deeming themselves aggrieved may be heard at that time.

Dated at Northville, Michigan, May 7, 1935.

Sherrill W. Ambler,
Board of Review.

PLAYGROUND SPORTS WILL BEGIN SOON

P.-T. A. Playground Schedule Includes Baseball, Tennis

Northville is to have a playground program again this summer. So decided the executive board of the Parent-Teachers association this past week.

A plan similar to that of last summer, will be carried out—twilight baseball, tennis, all kinds of sports for boys and girls as well as handcraft projects.

This "up and doing" board learned that it is the privilege of this community to have four trained supervisors of the recreation of our young folks. This provision is made through the FERA and it has only one "string" attached to it and that is that this village pay the salary of one of these four who will have charge of the whole project.

The requirements are that this person must like children, must know how to handle them, must be old enough to command respect yet young enough to enjoy play with them. He must be a person who needs work.

Applicants for this position may be either a young man or woman. The salary will be $15 a week and it is hoped that the season will extend over ten weeks.

Those wishing to apply may confer now with Superintendent R. H. Amerman, as it is hoped to begin activities in June.

A visit is expected soon from State Representative Bennaway of the Recreation committee who will help work out further details.

One interesting suggestion made at the recent meeting was that nearby swimming pools may be accessible to Northville children.

LOAN FUND SHOW TO BE ON THURSDAY

"Ruggles of Red Gap" Will Be Shown; Also Two Other Films

For the benefit of the student loan fund of the Northville Rotary club, a special show is being presented at the Penniman-Allen theatre Thursday afternoon and evening.

In addition to the feature picture, "Ruggles of Red Gap," starring Charles Laughton, Charles Ruggles, Zazu Pitts and Mary Bolan, two films released through the courtesy of the Michigan Conservation department will be shown at all performances.

These are "The Complete Angler," and "Nature's Gangsters."

The matinee, planned exclusively for school children, will begin at 3:30 p. m. with the admission set at ten cents.

Two performances are scheduled for the evening. The admission price to these shows is 25 cents. This is the minimum, however, and any additional money people desire to pay will be appreciated.

The entire receipts will go to this student loan fund, which will give deserving Northville college students a loan of a portion of their expenses.

It is planned to be a rotating fund with the students paying back their loans in later years to create funds to help others. At the present time the Rotary loan fund is assisting two students to meet their expenses, one of whom is at the University of Michigan and the other at Michigan State college.

NORTHVILLE HIGH SCHOOL GYM TO GET ALTERATIONS

Basketball Court Will Be One of Best In Suburban League

Alterations on the balcony of the gymnasium of the high school were decided upon this week by school officials. When completed these will give Northville as good a basketball court as any other team in the league has, Superintendent R. H. Amerman says.

The ends of the balcony, on which the baskets are suspended, will be entirely removed within the near future.

This, it is believed, will greatly lessen the danger of players hurting themselves on them when jumping up after the ball. All around the gym the balcony hangs rather low, and has always been considered dangerous to the safety of contestants in any of the athletic contests there.

The balcony will after the alteration be in two separate parts, and it will be necessary to construct four stairways for people to use who come to watch games there.

The basketball backboards will be built out about three feet from the wall at each end of the gymnasium.

This work will be finished sometime during the summer, Supt. Amerman said. Already the "banks" for the running track on the balcony have been removed. The track has always been considered a dead asset.

REDFORD EXCHANGE PLANS CARNIVAL TO BEGIN ON TUESDAY

The Redford Exchange club is to have a street carnival beginning May 14 and continuing for six days, on Redford avenue, just north of Grand River avenue in Redford.

The proceeds of this carnival are all to be devoted to the purchase of 40 acres of wooded land near Commerce, Michigan, for the use of Boy Scouts of northwest Detroit.

All persons of this area who are interested in Boy Scout work are requested by the committee in charge of this event to attend this carnival as the support of everyone is earnestly solicited for the success of this project.

FRED A. PARMENTER OF WALLED LAKE DIES

Fred A. Parmenter, 67 years old, died of pneumonia Wednesday, May 1, at the Pontiac General hospital. He was taken sick on Sunday, April 28 and went to the hospital on Monday where he only lived three days. His wife, Carlotta, preceded him in death in December.

Masonic funeral services were held Saturday at 2:30 p.m. at the home, Rev. Victor O. Wilk of the Baptist church officiating. Burial was in the Walled Lake cemetery.

He is survived by one brother, Will, and stepdaughter, Mrs. Harold Wood of Walled Lake.

Seed For Soy Beans Will Be Furnished To Local Farmers And Crop Bought By Ford Co.

Soy bean seed to be furnished and the crop bought back at market price is the announcement of the Ford Motor Company to Wayne County farmers, according to Ralph Carr, County Agricultural Agent. Soy beans grow well in this county and with an assured market should make a good cash crop. The Ford Company will furnish seed for planting at the rate of one and one-half bushels per acre. The amount supplied for seed must be returned in the fall when the crop is harvested and in addition the company will buy back the balance of the crop at the prevailing market price when delivered.

Soy beans are a legume and in addition to the advantages of a cash crop, will add fertility to the land and the fodder makes good cow or sheep feed.

SCHOOLS TO REMAIN OPEN TEN MONTHS

Tax Rate Will Not Increase; One New Teacher To Be Added

The Northville schools will, according to the pending school budget, be open 10 months for the 1935-36 year, and will in all probability open their doors next fall on September 3, Superintendent R. H. Amerman stated Tuesday.

This statement comes following decisions made by the board of education at its regular monthly meeting Monday evening.

"To the best of our knowledge this lengthening of the school year will not increase the tax rate, according to the plans the board of education has made," Mr. Amerman said.

The school budget for the coming year is now in the hands of the county tax commission, which will act on it and approve it sometime this month. It is not expected by local school officials that any word regarding the action taken on it will be received here much before June 1.

This budget calls for the addition of one teacher for the junior and senior high school. Just what subjects he will be asked to teach here not been decided.

All members of the present teaching staff of the schools have been given new contracts this month to sign for the coming year. Just what teachers will be back will be announced in a later issue of The Record.

The board of education decided Monday evening also that from now on no student will be compelled to take Algebra. This action was taken due to the fact that the University of Michigan entrance requirements have been changed so that students no longer need to take a course in this subject in order to enter the university.

A new course in general mathematics will be started in the new school year to take the place of algebra for those students who do not care for the latter subject, which from now on will be an elective.

WOLVERINES OPEN SEASON HERE SUNDAY

Pontiac Will Oppose Local Team; Game Starts At 3 P. M.

The Northville Wolverines will open their baseball season at 3 p. m. Sunday at the Northville Wayne County fairgrounds in a game with Pontiac.

Composed largely of members of last year's team which won such high honors in the Triple A league in Detroit, and strengthened by several additions, officials of the team believe that they will have an even more successful season this summer.

New players are Kenneth Clark of Dearborn who will play second base, and "Lefty" Burrell of Detroit, southpaw pitcher, who played on the Detroit Firemen's team last year.

The Wolverines had a game scheduled last Sunday with the Schrader-Haggerty team of Plymouth at Plymouth-Riverside park, but the game was rained out.

HENRY FORD BUYS "TONY", HORSE OF HARRY B. CLARK

"Tony," Harry B. Clark's well-known black and white horse, was purchased Friday by Henry Ford, who has been attempting to purchase him from Mr. Clark for over a year.

"Tony" has become a familiar sight at the Northville Wayne county fairs during the last five years. It was just that long ago that Mr. Clark bought him in Chicago. At that time the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey circus were also making bids for him, but his former owners told Mr. Clark that they would much rather that he should have him than the circus.

This unusual horse has not only participated in the Northville fairs but has also taken part in Michigan state fairs. In the rodeo of last year's fair the officiating judge rode him.

Mr. Ford wishes to exhibit "Tony" at his Greenfield village in Dearborn. Mr. Clark said.

Furniture Industry to be Opened Here Soon With Force of 50 Men

Michigan Wood Products Co., Inc. Purchases Old Globe Building; Will Begin To Operate In Six Weeks

Northville is again to have a furniture manufacturing plant.

The industry will be located in the old Globe Furniture Company building and will be under the name of the Michigan Wood Products Co., incorporated at $50,000. The sale of the property was made Monday with the Depositors State Bank.

"As many as 40 or 50 men will be employed when the plant begins to operate," D. E. Merrifield, vice-president of the company, said Tuesday morning, "and most of them will be local residents. We are only bringing out a nucleus from our Detroit plant, about 10 or 15 in all."

The company has its main office in Detroit at 2773 West Elroy and a small plant on Freeland avenue. Both of these will be discontinued, and all operations will be carried on in the new Northville plant.

The building is in bad condition at the present time, having been idle since 1931 when the Globe Furniture Co. discontinued operations there, and will be completely renovated and reconditioned before the machinery is installed and work begun. This process will take about six weeks.

"We picked Northville as the location for our new plant," Mr. Merrifield said, "because it is conveniently near Detroit which is the main market for our products and because it is a good suburban town with excellent facilities for our plant. Northville seemed like the best possible place for us to locate."

Mr. Merrifield was here Tuesday directing the renovating work which began promptly after the sale was closed.

The Michigan Wood Products company, he explained, specializes in the manufacture of dinettes, or light dining room suites which can be used in kitchenettes or cottages.

The plant will take lumber as it comes from the saw mills and draw it through many operations until it becomes the finished dinette ready for modern homes. Native lumber will be used, shipped here from the woods in Northern Michigan and Indiana.

The rough lumber will arrive here, be cut up into general sizes, then dry-kilned, and finally be made into furniture.

The market of the Michigan Wood Products Company includes Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

The officers of the company are D. Frank Marchano, president; Mr. Merrifield, vice-president; and Mrs. E. D. Marchano, secretary and treasurer.

ICE-HOUSE, LAUNDRY NEAR COMPLETION

Carl Ely & Sons Co. To Move In A Few Days To Their New Location

Northville's two new business buildings—the Northville Laundry Company, owned by the Frid brothers, and the C. R. Ely and Sons new ice storage house and offices—are nearing completion.

The structures, together represent an investment of nearly $10,000, and both are located on North Center street north of Randolph street.

Mr. Ely expects to be open for business in his new location this week. The new ice storage house will represent the latest development in this type of construction, he said.

Located at 319 North Center street, this building is back from the street about 20 feet to allow trucks plenty of room to back up to the loading platform.

It was built from blue prints submitted by the Detroit City Ice and Fuel Co. and under the supervision of the engineers of this organization. This company is a leader in the refrigeration business having interests in most of the states of this country, Mr. Ely said.

It will be remarkable in its efficiency as an "ice box," Mr. Ely said, because of the construction. The walls consist of eight inches of brick, 14 inches of shavings, studding or framework, a heavy building paper and then a one-inch wood interior, treated with a special water proof sizing.

The floor, built of a double layer of two by six inch planks, has under it a three foot layer of cinders. The ceiling too is well insulated, being built of two thicknesses of one by six inch boards, one on each side of the joist with the intervening space filled with shavings.

The office too will be located in this building. On the rear is being built a four-car garage to house the trucks used in delivering ice.

The Frid brothers' new Northville Laundry building is expected to be as modern and complete as any laundry in Wayne county outside of the city of Detroit.

The walls are expected to be finished within the next few days, barring rain. The building will be ready for occupancy by the middle of June, Sidney Frid said.

The building is one story high and 50 feet wide and 80 feet in depth giving ample room for both the laundry machinery, and also space to install the dry-cleaning

PLYMOUTH GOLFERS BEAT HICKORY HILLS BY SCORE OF 9-3

In a practice match, preliminary to the opening of the regular M. G. A. schedule the Plymouth Country club golf team easily defeated the Hickory Hills players by the score of 9 to 3 Sunday, April 28.

Members of the Plymouth team furnished most of the low scores, Louis Campbell and Norm Copland of Northville both shooting 74. Campbell was out on the first nine holes with a mediocre 41 but flashed on the return nine with a 33, including 3 birdies. Copland was out in 36, even par for the first nine, and back in 38.

The two other members of the Plymouth team, Herb Busley and Bill Swetland, displayed a fine brand of golf, shooting 79 and 80 respectively. Jean Jarvis was low for Hickory Hills with an 85. Bob McCardle of Northville, playing as a guest member of the Plymouth team also shot an 85.

The schedules for the coming season will be drawn up by the Michigan Golf Association within the next week and Plymouth will play its first regular match on May 12.

HENRY FORD'S SOY BEAN OFFER

News of Henry Ford's offer to Wayne county farmers not only to furnish them with soy bean seed but also to buy the crop at harvest time, at the prevailing market price, will be found in this issue of The Record.

This is a most remarkable piece of news. Remarkable for two reasons: First, because it will give the hard pressed farmers (if you don't think they are hard pressed, just try running a farm for a couple of seasons) another cash crop; and, secondly, because you wonder what Henry Ford wants to do with soy beans.

Strange as it seems, The Ford Motor Co. has found a way to use soy beans for getting part of the chemicals for painting Ford cars. Here certainly is another modern miracle. The Ford research staff has chemists as well as engineers.

This unique offer is another demonstration of the ambition of Henry Ford to co-operate with farmers in the way to make their lot happier and more prosperous. One of the country's troubles right now is that farmers lack purchasing power. The Ford plan is going to help give them more money. The result will be that farmers will have more money to buy more cars; and the employes who make more cars will, in turn, have more money to spend with the farmers. This is the kind of cycle that will bring and keep prosperity. Incidentally, according to Ralph Carr, county farm agent, soy beans are legumes and this kind of a crop, like alfalfa, adds nitrogen to the soil, making better farms.

Yes, Mr. Ford's soy bean offer is most remarkable.

THE LOYALTY OF PROTESTANTS

A member of one of the official bodies of a Northville Protestant church walked home from a meeting where the finances had been discussed and said to a fellow-member:

"What is the sense of saying you have 300 members (that isn't the exact number) in your church if only 50 or 75 carry the burden of supporting it? If I were in charge I would cut down the number of members to those who are actually members and go to church."

That is plain talk but sensible. Most thoughtful people want the community to have churches but they are perfectly willing to let the "faithful few" carry the load. The burden of raising the budget is ever present in the churches of Northville and a tremendous burden it is. If the church is as worth-while as we say it is, why should it be a burden? Why should the church women become hotel keepers to keep the churches going? Why should church membership be so lightly taken by people who wish the benefit of the Christian churches for their own families' sake and for their community's sake. "You tell us." The indifference of half of the church members of the average Protestant church is something we can't explain. And we are not optimistic enough to think that church union is going to solve the problem.

A WORTH-WHILE EPIDEMIC

One of the editors up-state said the other day that if one house in every block of his home town were painted, that soon the whole community would have an epidemic of painting. (It is hard to be proud of your dirty shirt when the fellow standing next to you is spick and span with a newly laundered one).

The other day, in Northville, thank you, we passed two houses on one street. Both were being repainted and it really made us smile to go by them. The painting made the street look better, made the passers-by wonder what they could do to help make a more beautiful town. And the stranger, passing by, must have said to himself: "Northville must be a town where people are proud of their homes."

Let the painting epidemic sweep on.

And there would be no harm if some of those downtown business signs got a little "touching up."

WELCOME TO THE JUNIPER TREES

It was a pleasant surprise the last of the week to look across Center street from the Record office and see those refreshing looking juniper trees, all dressed up in neat boxes, painted green.

Northville salutes the juniper trees and thanks the Exchange club for showing the community the way to a better looking business section. This move for a better and more beautiful town is splendid. Sentiment is half of life and certainly a community with sentiment is a community that is going to attract people to it.

Now if every business place will co-operate with the planting of window boxes, we shall indeed have "Northville the Beautiful." Let Holland be famous with its tulips and Benton Harbor with its fruit blossoms. Northville may be known in time as the town where every business place is graced with a window box full of flowers.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

If you were working in The Northville Record office one day or two some one would come in and ask: "Where can I get a house to rent in Northville"? what would you say? And how would you feel?

You would say and feel just what the Record people say and feel. You would stutter a little and say that "there just aren't many houses for rent in Northville." And you would be a little embarrassed that you couldn't do more to help your visitor who wants to get a home.

One of these days the sound of the building hammer is going to be heard in Northville again.

WANDERING THOUGHTS

Will it be: "Northville, the Flower Box town?"

* * *

Northville's May Festival makes history. There should be standing room only tonight and Sunday evening for the closing events. Again: "Musicians, we thank you!"

* * *

Advertisement taken from a Minnesota weekly: "Having promised to love, honor and obey my husband, under a false representation of his value, I hereby revoke that promise.—Mrs. Olga—".

* * *

Anyone who can afford the time and money to motor to the Blossom Festival over in Western Michigan this week-end, will get some soul tonic. Wait for Northville's and Novi's "Blossom Week" soon now.

* * *

That automobile strike in Toledo brought a direct financial loss to a man right here in Northville—65 miles distant. It is simply outrageous that such small minorities can bring on such a tie-up of industries. Innocent workers who wanted to stay on their jobs lost at the rate of a million dollars a week! We favor collective bargaining and all that, but we are against the racketeer and the agitator in this strike injustice. We never knew of a good strike.

* * *

According to a story from a Michigan town, one of the partners of a business concern had joined a church and afterward tried to induce his partner to do likewise. "I can't do it," said the other, "who'll do the weighing?" How far off is the day when all partners will be honest; all clerks will be honest, no matter what the "boss" has told them to do; and all "weighing" will be honest, whether the weigher is a church member or not? In a general way and speaking personally, we have taken more losses from dishonest folks outside the church than we have from dishonest folks who are church members.

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION

When will the highway to Novi be resurfaced or paved?

NORTHVILLE'S YESTERDAYS

1 YEAR AGO

Northville has submitted a $21,000 project to the PWA authorities to build a covered water reservoir.

Northville's new ball team, the Wolverines, will open the season here Sunday at 2:30 by playing a double header with the Hazel Park team at the fair grounds.

Climaxing the musical events of the school year will be the beautiful Indian operetta, "Lelawala," presented by members of the high school music department May 17 and 18 in the school auditorium.

Erect and straight-eyed, Mrs. Elizabeth Hazen greeted her friends on her 90th birthday Thursday, May 3, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles T. Thornton, on the Nine Mile road.

A daughter, Sylvia Jane, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hollis of Farmington on Friday, May 4. Mrs. Hollis was the former Miss Margaret Pickard of Northville.

A class of 43 will graduate from Northville high school this June. The commencement exercises will be held in the auditorium of the Wayne County training school on June 7.

5 YEARS AGO

Comparison with 1930 census returns show that few communities in Michigan have grown so fast as Northville has in the past ten years.

A beautiful memorial pool, some sixty feet in diameter, will be built in Rural Hill cemetery, it was decided this week.

State inspectors this week pronounced the Silver Springs Water Company as clean a bottling works as can be found in the country.

Elmer Perrin has the honor of being the first to wear a straw hat in Northville this year.

William Alanson Fry, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Fry, died April 21, and was buried at Rural Hill cemetery here Saturday, May 3, with the Rev. William Richards in charge.

Mrs. Albert Ebersole has an important part in the program of the Rural Women's Achievement day in Wayne county on Wednesday, May 14.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE THINKING ABOUT

WHY THE HOBO DOESN'T WORRY

(W. H. Berkey in Cassopolis Vigilant)

A friend of ours who has been a hobo for more than thirty years called on us the other day and handed us some verses he had written in appreciation of the New Deal. That naturally resulted in an argument, and he gave us something to think about. He said: "I am in a better position to understand this question than you are, because I have had more time to think it over. While you've been busy, I've been sitting out under the trees with nothing to do but think about these things. So we took a little time out to do some thinking, and here is what we arrived at: That hobo never had to meet a pay roll every Saturday night, never had to meet a lot of paper and other bills the first of each month, never had to go out and seek business to keep the wheels going, and never had to pay any taxes, in which he was very much like some of the professors at Washington who have planned what we shall all do and how we shall do it. Perhaps if the hobo, who is a professional hobo, and the other professors had been engaged in the struggle to build up a business and had come face to face with the problems which arise in the life of the average business man they would view the whole program very much differently.

COMMUNISTS HATE CHRISTIANITY

(Gratiot County Herald, Ithaca)

The attitude of some of the clergy and in the United States toward communism as exemplified in Russia, has always been not only grossly inconsistent but almost inconceivable. L. V. Lunatcharsky, Peoples Commissar of Education in U. S. S. R. has said:

"We hate Christianity and Christians. Even the best of them must be regarded as our worst enemies. Down with the love of one's neighbors! What we want is hatred. We must know how to hate, for only at this price can we conquer the universe . . . The anti-religious campaign must not be restricted to Russia; it should be carried on through the world."

What are Christian ministers thinking of when they pick out one particular phase of the Communist government which appeals to them and point the minds of the young people of America toward Russia?"

A MILLIONAIRE DAY

(The Ingham County News, Mason)

According to figures released by Washington, Lansing and Jackson each has 67 men and women with holdings valued above a million dollars. Why not have a little friendly competition between the two cities? Instead of having blossom, tulip, cherry and trout festivals, why not have a millionaire festival with prizes offered to the best looking, tallest, the shortest, the most generous and the stingiest millionaires? All of us would enjoy looking at the exhibits and a good promoter would cash in on the exhibition.

It would be enlightening to have a look at 67 millionaires all in one bunch. They should radiate a lot of joy and happiness but it is our guess that you would find more happiness in any group of farmers, workmen or business men than could be found among the 67 men and women with bloated holdings. They have so many fears over losing their wealth that they fail to enjoy what they have.

KEEP PRICES DOWN

(The Dearborn Press)

Rents are up 13.4 per cent, and clothing is 8 per cent higher than a year ago. Gasoline, a necessity to many people, has increased three-tenths of a cent per gallon, and the same story carries all the way down the lines. We are slowly drifting back to the same situation which was largely responsible for our present economic dilemna. Curtailment of consumer purchasing power can lead only to one thing—the curtailment of consumption of produced goods which in turn will lead to curtailment of production and create additional unemployment. Prices must be kept down, not boosted.

HOW TO PAY THE BONUS

E. O. Gildart in The Utica Sentinel)

Of all the proposals for the soldiers' bonus, we think Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau has the only sensible solution thus far proposed.

It must be remembered that the money must represent genuine value, if it is to liquidate a very real obligation; and Morgenthau proposes to increase the inheritance tax. There, gentlemen and ladies, is the world's only painless tax. It is collected after the taxpayer is dead. It would provide a logical, practical, legal and sensible way of redistributing the national wealth. Of course it would take time—but that is true of about everything that is worth while.

HOLLY PICKS THE PETUNIA

(Joe Haas in The Holly Herald)

Last year the petunia was chosen as Holly's official flower, and plans are now perfected to make our little city a bower of beauty at petunia time.

Every loyal Holly booster is to be in the game. Reserve a plot where the flowers can best display their gorgeous brilliance, and if you do not care to pick and start your own selection of varieties, the Holly Flower Lovers Garden Club will be glad to supply you with the plants. While it is yet a few weeks before time to set out the plants, it is none too early to be planning to do your share in this town-beautiful work.

THE PLACE OF VICTORY

(Authorship Unknown)

"In every man's life pilgrimage, however unblest, there are holy places where he is made to feel his kinship with the Divine; where the heavens bend low over his head and angels come and minister to him. These are the places of sacrifice, the meeting place of mortal and immortal, the tents of trial wherein are waged the great spiritual combats of man's life. Here are the tears and agonies and the bloody sweat of Gethsemane. Happy the man, who looking back, can say of himself: 'Here, too was the victory.'"

CLOSING BEER GARDENS

(Al Weber in Cheboygan Observer)

The Soo is debating on closing its beer parlors at eleven o'clock. Why not close beer parlors (?) entirely and get back to the old saloon. The possibility of a return to the old saloon scared a lot of us, but we have found it much preferable to the present-day beer garden (?) set up.

READING THE HOME PAPER PAYS

(E. C. Sibley in The Springport Signal)

A Springport farmer who "does not take the Signal as he has no time to read and his wife can just as well borrow the neighbors" drove to Jackson to have the County agent tell him how to treat some seed he was goin to use. The treatment had been fully explained in the Farm Agent's Column a few weeks before.

Gazonda—So your wife has decided not to move this spring even to save rent?

Gazoof—Yes. Our furniture has reached the limit of its endurance and it wouldn't stand another moving.

Measles 'n Mom

Measles!

Not to be outdone by the rest of the town we have had a placard, "WARNING," on our front door which meant that a very red little boy was lying upstairs in bed.

Expecting just such a thing to happen, and on the look-out for the first symtoms, we popped him into bed so quickly that nothing more serious happened than a fine crop of red spots from head to toe.

"Where are all my freckles? They don't show a bit," he laughed when he looked into a hand mirror at his beet-like complexion.

Now that it's all over with no bad consequences we can make light of the jolly good time a little boy and his mother can have while in quarantine with the measles—shut in from all the world without.

What could be more chummy! No dates, no outside duties. Mother can be playmate as well as nurse. Ten days of absolute monarchy for the youngster and ten days of getting better acquainted with her little boy and understanding just how dear he is.

At first there was that serious uncertainty. Just how high was that thermometer going to soar we wondered as we felt the hot little head and turned to hang up those rough brown corduroys and sweater—for how long?

Here lay his ball and bat, here the funnies where he had scattered them. (How empty the house would seem without him!) —No, that part wasn't so funny — but it was soon over and the rest was an "indoor picnic."

There's nothing like that sweet intimacy of a mother and a sick child. Those hours in the darkness when he murmured "Your hand feels so cool on my head, Mommy. Stay here."

In the stillness we brood. Things take on new proportions. Some things shrink to such littleness.

Soothing sponge baths given at the close of a restless day, "sprises" brought up on the best tray with the first iris from the garden to bring in the freshness of spring, treats and puzzles sent over by kind neighbors, and the days pass quickly to convalescence.

Getting better and stories! Time for hours of them. We are sure that measles and "Oliver Twist" and "Dombey and Son" will always be a mixed-up memory for our little patient in years to come and he will say "Remember, Mom, what a good time you and I had when I had the measles?"

Mother's Job

Among our clippings we run across this description which strikes us as just about the perfect attitude of a mother toward her job. We don't remember from what book we copied it, but evidently it appealed to us enough to warrant copying and we pass it on for the consideration of other mothers as we are wondering if we are worthy of the honor given us on the approaching Mother's Day.

"It was not only in fresh linens and hot, good food that their advantage lay. It was in the great heart that held family love a divine gift that stood between them and life's cold realities. In possessing her children she thought herself the most blessed of all women—to watch them progress temporarily through long division, measles and skates, to see milk glasses emptied and plates scraped, to realize that they were as strong morally as physically—this made life full to the brim.

"She never had a servant nor a fur coat. She had known biting financial worry. But the children never knew it. They only knew the law of service. They must love each other whatever happened."

Mother

Mother is a little girl who trod my path before me;
Just a bigger, wiser little girl who ran ahead—
Bigger, wiser, stronger girl who always watches o'er me,
One who knows the pitfalls in the rugged road I tread.
Mother is a playmate who will always treat me kindly,
Playmate who will yield me what true happiness demands.
She will not let my feet stray into brambles blindly—
Mother's just a bigger little girl who understands.
Mother's just a bigger little girl who'll befriend me—
Yesteryear she travelled in the path that's mine today.
Never need I fear a foe from which she might defend me—
Faithful little pal who ran ahead and learned the way.

There was an old Roman law relating to bank deposits to the effect that a depositor who left his money only for safety ranked before a depositor who received interest for his money.

NORTHVILLE, MICH.

"Dad, I passed my last exam today!"

Across plains and mountain ranges, hurdling rivers and towns, a human voice speeds along a wire. And so incredibly swift is its flight that even while the words are still sounding in a far-distant room, the voice is flowing into a Michigan home, a welcome guest — and a familiar one.

From a miracle, long-distance communication by telephone has developed into an integral part of every-day American life.

It is the quickest way to relieve anxiety; it is an unequaled means of sending congratulations or condolences; it can reunite scattered members of a family; it can bring together friends who have been parted by the intervening miles.

There is no way of estimating the human value of this modern necessity; for there is no way of measuring the joy and reassurance and satisfaction which—by the mere lifting of a receiver—can be derived from the sound of a well-remembered voice.

It is a tribute to modern telephone service that such long-distance communication by word of mouth is no longer considered something at which to marvel. In a few short years the miracle has become a commonplace. It is now accepted as a matter of course even by those whose memories go back to a day in which long-distance conversation was utterly unknown.

One of the functions of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company is to supply this modern necessity to the people of Michigan; and to supply it at the lowest rates that will adequately provide for the maintenance and improvement of the service.

HENRY FORD'S SOY BEAN OFFER

News of Henry Ford's offer to Wayne county farmers not only to furnish them with soy bean seed but also to buy the crop at harvest time, at the prevailing market price, will be found in this issue of The Record.

This is a most remarkable piece of news. Remarkable for two reasons: First, because it will give the hard pressed farmers (if you don't think they are hard pressed, just try running a farm for a couple of seasons) another cash crop; and, secondly, because you wonder what Henry Ford wants to do with soy beans.

Strange as it seems, The Ford Motor Co. has found a way to use soy beans for getting part of the chemicals for painting Ford cars. Here certainly is another modern miracle. The Ford research staff has chemists as well as engineers.

This unique offer is another demonstration of the ambition of Henry Ford to co-operate with farmers in the way to make their lot happier and more prosperous. One of the country's troubles right now is that farmers lack purchasing power. The Ford plan is going to help give them more money. The result will be that farmers will have more money to buy more cars; and the employes who make more cars will, in turn, have more money to spend with the farmers. This is the kind of cycle that will bring and keep prosperity. Incidentally, according to Ralph Carr, county farm agent, soy beans are legumes and this kind of a crop, like alfalfa, adds nitrogen to the soil, making better farms.

Yes, Mr. Ford's soy bean offer is most remarkable.

THE LOYALTY OF PROTESTANTS

A member of one of the official bodies of a Northville Protestant church walked home from a meeting where the finances had been discussed and said to a fellow member

"What is the sense of saying you have 300 members (that isn't the exact number) in your church if only 50 or 75 carry the burden of supporting it? If I were in charge I would cut down the number of members to those who are actually members and go to church."

That is plain talk but sensible. Most thoughtful people want the community to have churches but they are perfectly willing to let the "faithful few" carry the load. The burden of raising the budget is ever present in the churches of Northville and a tremendous burden it is. If the church is as worth-while as we say it is, why should it be a burden? Why should the church women become hotel keepers to keep the churches going? Why should church membership be so lightly taken by people who wish the benefit of the Christian churches for their own families' sake and for their community's sake. "You tell us." The indifference of half of the church members of the average Protestant church is something we can't explain. And we are not optimistic enough to think that church union is going to solve the problem.

A WORTH-WHILE EPIDEMIC

One of the editors up-state said the other day that if one house in every block of his home town were painted, that soon the whole community would have an epidemic of painting. (It is hard to be proud of your dirty shirt when the fellow standing next to you is spick and span with a newly laundered one).

The other day, in Northville, thank you, we passed two houses on one street. Both were being repainted and it really made us smile to go by them. The painting made the street look better, made the passers-by wonder what they could do to help make a more beautiful town. And the stranger, passing by, must have said to himself: "Northville must be a town where people are proud of their homes."

Let the painting epidemic sweep on.

And there would be no harm if some of those downtown business signs got a little "touching up."

WELCOME TO THE JUNIPER TREES

It was a pleasant surprise the last of the week to look across Center street from the Record office and see those refreshing looking juniper trees, all dressed up in neat boxes painted green.

Northville salutes the juniper trees and thanks the Exchange club for showing the community the way to a better looking business section. This move for a better and more beautiful town is splendid. Sentiment is half of life and certainly a community with sentiment is a community that is going to attract people to it.

Now if every business place will co-operate with the planting of window boxes, we shall indeed have "Northville, the Beautiful." Let Holland be famous with its tulips and Benton Harbor with its fruit blossoms. Northville may be known in time as the town where every business place is graced with a window box, full of flowers.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

If you were working in The Northville Record office all day, day or two some one would come in and ask "Where can I get a house to rent in Northville"? what would you say? And how would you feel?

You would say and feel just what the Record people say and feel. You would stutter a little and say that "there just aren't many houses for rent in Northville." And you would be a little embarrassed that you couldn't do more to help your visitor who wants to get a home.

One of these days the sound of the building hammer is going to be heard in Northville again.

WANDERING THOUGHTS

Will it be: "Northville, the Flower Box town?"

* * *

Northville's May Festival makes history. There should be standing room only tonight and Sunday evening for the closing events. Again: "Musicians, we thank you!"

* * *

Advertisement taken from a Minnesota weekly: "Having promised to love, honor and obey my husband, under a false representation of his value, I hereby revoke that promise.—Mrs. Olga—".

* * *

Anyone who can afford the time and money to motor to the Blossom Festival over in Western Michigan this week-end, will get some soul tonic. Wait for Northville's and Novi's "Blossom Week" soon now.

* * *

That automobile strike in Toledo brought a direct financial loss to a man right here in Northville—65 miles distant. It is simply outrageous that such small minorities can bring on such a tie-up of industries. Innocent workers who wanted to stay on their jobs lost at the rate of a million dollars a week! We favor collective bargaining and all that, but we are against the racketeer and the agitator in this strike injustice. We never knew of a good strike.

* * *

According to a story from a Michigan town, one of the partners of a business concern had joined a church and afterward tried to induce his partner to do likewise. "I can't do it," said the other, "who'll do the weighing?" How far off is the day when all partners will be honest; all clerks will be honest, no matter what the "boss" has told them to do; and all "weighing" will be honest, whether the weigher is a church member or not? In a general way and speaking personally, we have taken more losses from dishonest folks outside the church than we have from dishonest folks who are church members.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE THINKING ABOUT

WHY THE HOBO DOESN'T WORRY

(W. H. Berkey in Cassopolis Vigilant)

A friend of ours who has been a hobo for more than thirty years called on us the other day and handed us some verses he had written in appreciation of the New Deal. That naturally resulted in an argument, and he gave us something to think about. He said: "I am in a better position to understand this question than you are, because I have had more time to think it over. While you've been busy, I've been sitting out under the trees with nothing to do but think about these things." So we took a little time out to do some thinking, and here is what we arrived at: That hobo never had to meet a pay roll every Saturday night, never had to meet a lot of paper and other bills the first of each month, never had to go out and seek business to keep the wheels going, and never had to pay any taxes, in which he was very much like some of the professors at Washington who have planned what we shall all do and how we shall do it. Perhaps if the hobo, who is a professional hobo, and the other professors had been engaged in the struggle to build up a business and had come face to face with the problems which arise in the life of the average business man they would view the whole program very much differently.

COMMUNISTS HATE CHRISTIANITY

(Gratiot County Herald, Ithaca)

The attitude of some of the clergy and in the United States toward communism as exemplified in Russia, has always been not only grossly inconsistent, but almost inconceivable. L. V. Lunatcharsky, Peoples Commissar of Education in U. S. S. R. has said:

"We hate Christianity and Christians. Even the best of them must be regarded as our worst enemies . . . Down with the love of one's neighbors! What we want is hatred. We must know how to hate, for only at this price can we conquer the universe . . . The anti-religious campaign must not be restricted to Russia; it should be carried on through the world."

What are Christian ministers thinking of when they pick out some particular phase of the Communistic government which appeals to them and point the minds of the young people of America toward Russia?"

A MILLIONAIRE DAY

(The Ingham County News, Mason)

According to figures released by Washington, Lansing and Jackson each has 67 men and women with holdings valued above a million dollars. Why not have a little friendly competition between the two cities? Instead of having blossom, tulip, cherry and trout festivals, why not have a millionaire festival with prizes offered to the best looking, tallest, the shortest, the most generous and the stingiest millionaires? All of us would enjoy looking at the exhibits and a good promoter would cash in on the exhibition.

It would be enlightening to have a look at 67 millionaires all in one bunch. They should radiate a lot of joy and happiness but it is our guess that you would find more happiness in any group of farmers, workmen or business men than could be found among the 67 men and women with bloated holdings. They have so many fears ever losing their wealth that they fail to enjoy what they have.

KEEP PRICES DOWN

(The Dearborn Press)

Rents are up 13.4 per cent, and clothing is 8 per cent higher than a year ago. Gasoline, a necessity to many people, has increased three-tenths of a cent per gallon, and the same story carries all the way down the lines. We are slowly drifting back to the same situation which was largely responsible for our present economic dilemna. Curtailment of consumer purchasing power can lead only to one thing—the curtailment of consumption of produced goods which in turn will lead to curtailment of production and create additional unemployment. Prices must be kept down, not boosted.

HOW TO PAY THE BONUS

E. O. Gildart in The Utica Sentinel)

Of all the proposals for the soldiers' bonus, we think Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau has the only sensible solution thus far proposed.

It must be remembered that the money must represent genuine value, if it is to liquidate a very real obligation; and Morgenthau proposes to increase the inheritance tax. There, gentlemen and ladies, is the world's only painless tax. It is collected after the taxpayer is dead. It would provide a logical, practical, legal and sensible way of redistributing the national wealth. Of course it would take time—but that is true of about everything that is worth while.

HOLLY PICKS THE PETUNIA

(Joe Haas in The Holly Herald)

Last year the petunia was chosen as Holly's official flower, and plans are now perfected to make our little city a bower of beauty at petunia time.

Every loyal Holly booster is to be in the game. Reserve a plot where the flowers can best display their gorgeous brilliance, and if you do not care to pick and start your own selection of varieties, the Holly Flower Lovers Garden Club will be glad to supply you with the plants. While it is yet a few weeks before time to set out the plants, it is none too early to be planning to do your share in this town-beautiful work.

THE PLACE OF VICTORY

(Authorship Unknown)

"In every man's life pilgrimage, however unlest, there are holy places where he is made to feel his kinship with the Divine, where the heavens bend low over his head and angels come and minister to him. These are the places of sacrifice, the meeting place of mortal and immortal, the tents of trial wherein are waged the great spiritual combats of man's life. Here are the tears and agonies and the bloody sweat of Gethsemane. Happy the man, who looking back can say of himself: 'Here, too was the victory.'"

CLOSING BEER GARDENS

(Al Weber in Cheboygan Observer)

The Soo is debating on closing its beer parlors at eleven o'clock. Why not close beer parlors (?) entirely and get back to the old saloon. The possibility of a return to the old saloon scared a lot of us, but we have found it much preferable to the present-day beer garden (?) set up.

...Flash," the new romance cults ... of the plot standards for a picture bound up with the national college game. A rich alumnus of Belford College makes all previous scouting efforts seem puny when he secures the release of a young bank robber, just nearing the end of a prison term, as a backfield star worthy of the one time glories of Belford.

The convict has little love for the halls of learning and is quite content to wear the colors of the prison but the resourceful graduate of Belford can think faster than Quillan, the "Cherub," and the youth rushes in where angels fear to tread, light-fingered, light-hearted, and light-headed, until the smart coach is assigned to teach Eddie the meaning of clean play and loyalty.

A cast of favorite players is directed by Glenn Tryon in this robust RKO-Radio comedy-drama with stimulating action, sentiment, and satire. The cast includes Grant Mitchell, Lucien Littlefield, Edgar Kennedy and Grady Sutton.

"Transient Lady"

"Transient Lady," the famous Octavus Roy Cohen story which ran serially in Liberty magazine, is coming to the local theatre Saturday, May 11. Starting with a great author and a great story, Universal Pictures decided to complete the greatness of this production with a cast that is unequalled. Gene Raymond, Henry Hull, Frances Drake, and Jane Clayworth are seen in the featured roles. And what a performance they give!

The story of this picture is laid in a sleepy, little Alabama town. A wandering trio of promoters, Miss Drake Edward Ellis and Clark William, arrive in town for the purpose of setting up a temporary roller skating rink. They run afoul of a gang of crooked relatives of a crooked politicians and a murder results. The crooks try to pin the guilt on one of the promoters and then the thrill begins. Through it all runs one of the most beautiful love stories of the age.

"What Price Glory"

Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen, who created the famous characters of Captain Flagg and Sergeant Quirk in "What Price Glory" are up to their old rivalries again, this time in a mystery comedy drama. It is called "The Great Hotel Murder," and will come to the local theatre Wednesday, May 15th.

This is Fox Film's adaption of yarn, "Recipe For Murder," which Vincent Starrett's fine mystery which Red Book magazine featured. Lowe and McLaglen are rival sleuths in this picture. One is a mystery writer who solves real murders for the fun of it. The other is a hotel detective with an inflated ego and a dislike of amateur crime solvers.

The comedy in "The Great Hotel Murder" enters when the pair of sleuths get in each other's way as they proceed to unravel a particularly baffling murder.

"The Great Hotel Murder" has been praised for the new twists of mystery and comedy it introduces.

Measles 'n Mom

Measles!

Not to be outdone by the rest of the town we have had a placard, "WARNING," on our front door which meant that a very red little boy was lying upstairs in bed.

Expecting just such a thing to happen, and on the look-out for the first symtoms, we popped him into bed so quickly that nothing more serious happened than a fine crop of red spots from head to toe.

"Where are all my freckles? They don't show a bit," he laughed when he looked into a hand mirror at his beet-like complexion.

Now that it's all over with no bad consequences, we can make light of the jolly good time a little boy and his mother can have while in quarantine with the measles—shut in from all the world without.

What could be more chummy! No dates, no outside duties. Mother can be playmate as well as nurse. Ten days of absolute monarchy for the youngster and ten days of getting better acquainted with her little boy and understanding just how dear he is.

At first there was that serious uncertainty. Just how high was that thermometer going to soar we wondered as we felt the hot little head and curred to hang up those rough brown corduroys and sweater—for how long?

Here lay his ball and bat, here the funnies where he had scattered them. (How empty the house would seem without him!)—No, that part wasn't so funny — but it was soon over and the rest was an "indoor picnic."

There's nothing like that sweet intimacy of a mother and a sick child. These hours in the darkness when he murmured "Your hand feels so cool on my head, Mommy! Stay here."

In the stillness we brood. Things take on new proportions. Some things shrink to such littleness.

Soothing sponge baths given at the close of a restless day, "sprises" brought up on the best tray with the first iris from the garden to bring in the freshness of spring, treats and puzzles sent over by kind neighbors and the days pass quickly to convalescence.

Getting better and stories! Time for hours of them. We are sure that measles and "Oliver Twist" and "Dombey and Son" will always be a mixed-up memory for our little patient in years to come and he will say "Remember, Mom, what a good time you and I had when I had the measles?"

Mother's Job

Among our clippings we run across this description which strikes us as just about the perfect attitude of a mother toward her job. We don't remember from what book we copied it, but evidently it appealed to us enough to warrant copying and we pass it on for the consideration of other mothers as we are wondering if we are worthy of the honor given us on the approaching Mother's Day.

"It was not only in fresh linens and hot good food that their advantage lay. It was in the great heart that held family love a divine gift that stood between them and life's cold realities. In possessing her children she thought herself the most blessed of all women—to watch them progress temporarily through long division, measles and skates, to see milk glasses emptied and plates scraped, to realize that they were as strong morally as physically—this made life full to the brim.

"She never had a servant nor a fur coat. She had known biting financial worry. But the children never knew it. They only knew the law of service. They must love each other whatever happened."

Mother

Mother is a little girl who trod my path before me;
Just a bigger, wiser little girl who ran ahead—
Bigger, wiser, stronger girl who always watches o'er me,
One who knows the pitfalls in the rugged road I tread.
Mother is a playmate who will always treat me kindly;
Playmate who will yield me what true happiness demands.
She will not let my feet stray into brambles blindly —
Mother's just a bigger little girl who understands.
Mother's just a bigger little girl who'll befriend me—
Yesteryear she travelled in the path that's mine today.
Never need I fear a foe from which she might defend me—
Faithful little pal who ran ahead and learned the way.

An Old Roman Law

and Its Present-Day Significance

There was an old Roman law relating to bank deposits to the effect that a depositor who left his money only for safety ranked before a depositor who received interest for his money.

Today, in America, each of those depositors is protected against loss in insured banks. Whether or not their funds earn interest makes no difference. All depositors of an insure dbank, share in the benefits of Deposit Insurance.

"Dad, I passed my last exam today!"

Across plains and mountain ranges, hurdling rivers and towns, a human voice speeds along a wire. And so incredibly swift is its flight that even while the words are still sounding in a far-distant room, the voice is flowing into a Michigan home, a welcome guest — and a familiar one.

From a miracle, long-distance communication by telephone has developed into an integral part of every-day American life.

It is the quickest way to relieve anxiety; it is an unequaled means of sending congratulations or condolences; it can reunite scattered members of a family; it can bring together friends who have been parted by the intervening miles.

There is no way of estimating the human value of this modern necessity; for there is no way of measuring the joy and reassurance and satisfaction which—by the mere lifting of a receiver—can be derived from the sound of a well-remembered voice.

It is a tribute to modern telephone service that such long-distance communication by word of mouth is no longer considered something at which to marvel. In a few short years the miracle has become a commonplace. It is now accepted as a matter of course even by those whose memories go back to a day in which long-distance conversation was utterly unknown.

One of the functions of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company is to supply this modern necessity to the people of Michigan; and to supply it at the lowest rates that will adequately provide for the maintenance and improvement of the service.

"Little Symphony" Is Fed By Quartet Wives After Concert—

A pleasant "finale" to the concert given by the Little Symphony orchestra of Ann Arbor Monday evening was a buffet supper given by the wives of the members of the Male Quartet of Northville.

Orient Chapter O. E. S. Entertains At Dinner Followed By Initiations—

A company of 80 sat down to a substantial cooperative dinner given by Orient Chapter, O. E. S. in the Masonic hall Friday evening, guests being present from Detroit, Farmington, and Plymouth.

Mrs. Ina Casterline and Mrs. Frederick Hedge were in charge of the good dinner. At each place was found a very unique favor.

Each officer of Orient chapter escorted her corresponding officer in the guest chapters to the table where they were given seats of honor.

Retiring to the chapter room, a program of music was enjoyed previous to the initiation. Two vocal solos were sung by Miss Marion Turnbull, accompanied by Miss Mary Louis Boyden, and two violin numbers were played by Miss Frances Cousins, her sister, Miss Eunice accompanying her.

With Worthy Matron, Mrs. Allie Coe, and Worthy Patron, Ralph Auten, in the chairs, the Farmington officers exemplified the initiatory work very beautifully, three candidates receiving the ritual.

The occasion was one of the high lights of the year with a delightful social time with sister chapters as guests.

Mothers and Daughters of O. L. V. Church Banquet Together—

The second annual banquet of the mothers and daughters of Our Lady of Victory church proved most successful. A company of 125 gathered around the long tables which were bright with bowls of forsythia and yellow and green nut cups. At each cover lay a verse appropriate to the occasion which honored mothers.

The three-course menu was thoroughly enjoyed and at its close Mrs. E. L. Millis, as toastmistress, "broke the ice" with her genial remarks and called upon the participants in the following program: two songs, "'Tis the Month of Our Mother" and "That Wonderful Mother of Mine," by the girls' chorus, directed by Miss Norma Mollitor; "My Mother," Geraldine McKenna; "I Love You Mother," Mary Louise Behen; a toast "To Mother," Rita Sprenger.

Mrs. W. F. Connolly of Detroit gave the address of the evening when she spoke feelingly of mother as an example to her daughters.

The program closed with two violin numbers played by Mrs. H. F. Blake who was accompanied by Mrs. Burton Connors.

Hunting Elephants for Tusks; Regular Business

The precious white gold of Kenya—elephant's tusks—is protected by government regulations in South Africa, and, like all lucrative trades, has its unlawful and bootlegging channels.

It is for this treasure that natives risk their lives and penetrate the tall grass jungles and forest of the interior, rumbling elephants by the thousands in the dust.

The tusk hunters are divided into two groups, according to a representative of the American Express company—the killers and dead ivory gatherers, the latter industry being the great mystery to the white man. "Dead ivory" is supposed to be derived from dead elephants or skeletons and though 2,000 elephants die a natural death every year in the jungles and forests of Africa, it is an astonishing fact that few ever discovered a dead elephant.

The natives declare that elephants have a secret death place, and are highly superstitious in revealing elephants' cemeteries. It is from these mysterious cemeteries, which the dying elephant is said to stagger to, that the illicit traffic in ivory goes on.

Many Zulu tribesmen, who lie in the deep grass or attack a lone elephant in their crescent moon formation, use the mystic cemetery source as a blind.

However, not only do the natives believe in the Ivory Heaven, but big game hunters are human enough to hope that some day they will discover an ivory hoard.

The tusks which are of priceless value comprise the upper incisor tooth grown to enormous proportions, the lower half or three-quarters being solid.

Dogs Bred Down to Make Them Fit as House Pets

Two dogs came over with the Pilgrims in the Mayflower and landed in Plymouth in 1620, writes A. B. Macdonald in the Kansas City Star. In the more than three centuries that have passed since then, dogs have multiplied and kept right up with the increase and spread of the white race on this continent.

For many years the dog in this country was a hunter or a watch dog, and lived outdoors. But, with the increase of cities and towns the back of our population crowded into them, and the dog became largely a pet, living in the home, looked upon as a member of the family.

This led to the widespread breeding down of the large dogs of the outdoors to make them small enough for house pets, and also to the importation of the smaller dogs of Europe, such as the German dachshund, so low in height that women of the household often called him an "under the bureau" dog.

Professional dog trainers say that the two most intelligent breeds of dogs are the German shepherds and the French poodles. For more than years, these poodles, popularly called "French," although they probably originated in Germany, were the trained dogs seen in the strolling shows throughout Europe.

Use for Cellulose

The most interesting things about cellulose do not lie in its roles as food and fiber, but in its use as a raw material for chemical industry. The first successful attempt at the chemical processing of cellulose was made by an English weaver named Mercer in 1844. He had observed that cotton when soaked in lye became weaker and a trifle jellylike. He softened some cotton yarn with lye solution, stretched it while still wet, and then dried it and neutralized the lye. The resulting fiber had a silky appearance and, in memory of his name, is still known as mercerized cotton. — Chicago Tribune.

Too Much Rain

Rain is a calamity, not a blessing, in northern Chili, South America, writes R. J. Thompson, Dilworth, Minn., in Collier's Weekly. There they get plenty of it. Rain not only washes away their mud huts but it dissolves the great nitrate beds, which are one of the chief sources of income of that country, and thereby throws thousands of men out of work for weeks at a time.

Origin of Military Salute

The origin of the military salute is not definitely known. It was supposed to have been the practice in Rome at the time of Julius Caesar for an inferior to raise the palm of the hand to the front of his cap to show that it contained no dagger. This was because assassinations were so common in those days. It has been suggested that time and custom have modified this to the military salute.

Brazil's Devil's Isle

Three hundred miles off Brazil's coast is Fernando Noronha, an island without trees, houses, ships or any animal life. Yet here Brazil maroons the worst of her criminals sending them to a life much like that of primitive man. Seas break with such violence over Fernando Noronha that rescue by a small boat is impossible.

In December, 1892, he was married to Ida Witt, who died in the year 1899. To this union one son was born, who departed this life in the year 1920.

In 1902 Mr. Miller was united in marriage to Miss Bertha Sheblinski of Detroit. This union was blessed with two children, two preceding their father in death. The local pastor, Rev. L. Eickstaedt, officiated, basing his sermon on the text Rev. 14, 13: "I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, Write: Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the spirit, that they may rest from their labours; and their works do follow them."

He was laid to rest on Sunday afternoon, May 5th at 2 o'clock from the house and at 2:30 from St. Paul's Lutheran church.

Louis Meisner presided at the organ. Burial took place on the family lot in Rural Hill cemetery.

MRS. EDILDA HART DIES AT NINETY

Mrs. Edilda Hart died in Detroit Saturday, May 4, having just recently had her ninetieth birthday.

Mrs. Hart, who was known here as Edilda Blair, passed much of her girlhood in Northville. Her home with her small family was the one now occupied by the G. B. Turnbull family on Dubuque street.

Mr. Hart was a collector for the D. M. Fry Seed company for years and during this time the family lived in Detroit, until after failing health, Mr. Hart was compelled to abandon his work and return to this village. For a number of years they lived in the present residence of Leo J. Lawrence. Later they returned to Detroit where Mr. Hart preceded his wife in death several years ago.

Left to mourn the loss of their mother are one daughter, Inez, a teacher in Detroit, and one son, Albert, an engineer on the Michigan Central railway. Mrs. Hart is an aunt of Mrs. Fred Fry of Northville.

"Milk Sickness"

A peculiar disease prevalent in some parts of Ohio in the old days was "milk sickness." Some thought it came from the water, others that it was caused by eating buckeye sprouts, still others that it popped up from the dew of fleabane, while no one despite the fact that it was called "milk sickness," believed that it came from milk.

"Non-Quota" Aliens

"Non-quota" aliens are those coming to reside in the United States permanently, but because of some special merit in their case they are not charged against the quota.

"Elijah," Which Climaxes Festival Sunday Tells Through Music The Story of Great Biblical Prophet

The colorful tale of one of the greatest of the Biblical prophets is told in Felix Mendelssohn's glorious oratorio, "Elijah," which will climax Northville's first May Festival Sunday night, May 12, in the Methodist church auditorium.

Beginning with Elijah's oracular warning that there will be no more rain until he gives the word, the Festival chorus of 36 local voices swings into the funeral-like lamentation over the drought and famine that is sweeping through the land of Israel.

The dramatic scene of Elijah and the false prophets of Baal is depicted, sounding the triumph when the glory of the Lord descends to make His fire lap up the water. The plot runs along with the Jewish prophet raising the widow's son from the dead, and reaches a climax when he commands the rain to fall.

Then Elijah becomes despondent. He is an old man. He feels that his life has been a failure, and the music reflects the futility that is in his thoughts. He leaves civilization and goes into the wilderness. While he is there, bemoaning his fate, crying out that all his work and prayers have been to no avail, the Angel of the Lord comes and comforts him. He sleeps.

The oratorio comes to a glorious conclusion with the Angelic chorus singing while Elijah, prophet of God, sleeps peacefully in the wilderness.

The subject of Elijah was one that held a high place in Mendelssohn's affections, and in a large measure the libretto is the work of the composer. The strong infusion of the dramatic element in this work, so unlike most oratorios, is due to Mendelssohn's fervid conviction that the dramatic element in all Old Testament personages should predominate, and that the personages should act and speak as if they were living beings, making not a musical picture but a real world. The oratorio was first presented in Birmingham, England, at the Birmingham Musical Festival of 1846. It was conducted by Mendelssohn himself to the accompaniment of a 125 piece band. The oratorio is considered the famed German composer's greatest work, and its world premiere in Birmingham is considered to be one of the most thrilling musical occasions in history.

"Elijah" ranks easily with Handel's "Messiah" as one of the world's greatest oratorios, and is in fact, considered the more dramatic of the two, having been presented on the stage as an opera.

Not far from Asab, Eritrea, heat-ridden city on the south coast of the Red sea, is the hottest spot on earth. It's called the Plain of Salt and legend has it that beneath its sands are buried the cursed cities of Sodom and Gomorrah. The plain is 330 feet below sea level, and its temperature frequently reaches 212 degrees F.

The Aurora Borealis

The frequency of the Northern lights varies with the latitude of the place. The aurora is comparatively rare within 45 degrees of the equator, but more frequent toward the north, up to the latitude of about 90 degrees, where it sometimes becomes almost a nightly occurrence. The aurora is less frequent near the poles.

THE TALK OF THE TOWN

BY HARRISON CHANDLER

Dressing Up!

Have you noticed those Irish Juniper trees in front of some of the stores this week? Before long the committee will have persuaded all the merchants to have one or two adorning their door ways.

And when the job is finished, it will be a real display. All the way up the business district of Main and Center streets you will see these ornamental little trees in their green boxes.

And that is not all. The next step is to get window-boxes along Main street, too, not only in the business section but along the whole avenue. Northville and the country surrounding it have always held a reputation for beauty. Now we can remind the outside world about it more than ever.

Blossom Time Coming

And speaking of beauty, we have yet to see the fruit trees around here in blossom. Our friends both here and in Detroit have told us much about it. And in driving over some of the roads around Northville Saturday with a friend from up-state, we discovered that some of those trees are already displaying their blossoms for the world's certain approval.

And now with Mr. Ford promising to build a new plant here to employ 1,000 men, and other business concerns rumored to begin operations here, the town should go to the front both from the standpoint of industry and beauty as well.

Let's Talk It Over

We also notice along Main street that the benches are back in place on the old Exchange hotel site. That means that the discussions about the price of hay, the chances of the Tigers repeating this year and the Roosevelt administration will again take place every—except days like this one (Monday) when rain is coming down in a steady way that makes one feel that it will last all night long. There goes our tennis game.

This Rainy Weather

But really we shouldn't make a kick about it for it is a blessing to all the farmers who have not been so favored in recent years. A cold wet May brings a barn full of hay, they tell us, and so we hope that in spite of our present discomfort that rain will descend frequently all summer long so that no one will be able to complain of a drought.

Have you attended all the evenings of the Festival so far? Don't miss "Elijah," the oratorio to be given by the Festival chorus of 36 voices Sunday night at the Methodist church.

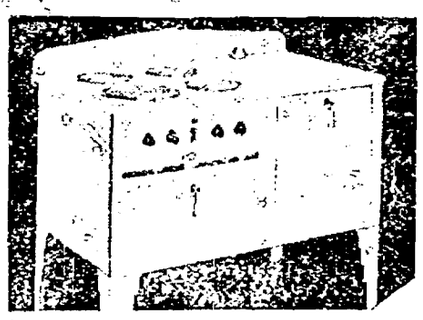
COOKING UTENSILS REMAIN CLEAN on your Electric Range after LONG USE . . .



PROVE IT FOR YOURSELF ★ ON ONE OF THESE

TRIAL* ELECTRIC RANGES!

POTS and pans used on an electric range are as easy to wash as any china dish—even after long use. You do not have to scour utensils after each cooking operation and there is no caking of grease to discolor them. An electric range cooks with pure, concentrated heat—without flame or smoke or soot. There are no products of combustion as in a fuel-burning stove—nothing to blacken pots and pans or soil kitchen walls and curtains. An electric range supplies only PURE HEAT from a glowing wire. Electric heat is as clean as sunlight.

★ We want you to try electric cooking in your own kitchen—without making any investment or being under any obligation. So we have arranged a special trial offer. We will install an electric range in your kitchen without initial charge, and let you use it for six months, removing it without charge if you do not like it. During the trial period, you pay for the service as registered by your meter, plus a monthly charge of $1 for the range. If you decide to keep the range, your monthly payments will be applied toward the purchase price. If you decide that you do not want it, the range will be removed at our expense.

Since this trial plan was begun a short time ago, over 4000 of our customers have taken advantage of the offer. Send in your application for a trial range today!

THIS BUSINESS WORLD

by Robert K. Doran

ONE New York Department Store recently executed a neat stroke of business by promoting monogramming. This store advertised its new service in connection with a wide range of products. Among the items included in the "monogramming list" were aluminum ware, shower curtains, bath mats, hampers, liquor sets, cocktail shakers, towels and linens.

A tremendous wave of interest on the part of customers was put in motion. Sales of these various items increased tremendously and best of all, the plan eliminated absolutely the evil of returned goods. When placing an order for a monogrammed item customers were naturally informed that no purchase could be returned. This was done more as a matter of form. No customer expects to return a monogrammed item!

"Gallinippers" in Ohio

A breed of flies, improperly called "gallinippers" because they resembled the "pestiferous," which were in turn named after the famous Ohio chieftain, were considered as certain forerunners of the cholera—the dreaded disease that spread over the state in early days, sometimes wiping out entire communities.

England Honored Wilson

President Wilson on his visit to England, in 1919, on his way to the peace conference in France, was lavishly entertained at Buckingham palace, where he was a resident guest, sleeping in the state suite. At the state dinner given in his honor the best gold service in the English nation was used.

Alabaster is a variety of gypsum or selenite, resembling marble in appearance, but softer. "Oriental alabaster" is a mineral substance which is harder than ordinary alabaster. It is found in Egypt, where in ancient times it was worked into jars, urns and the like.

PINOCHLE

By R. H. WILKINSON

© Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.

AUSTIN METCALF is an old man. During the past two years he has failed rapidly.

The change in this comparatively short space of time is marked.

In fact, back in 1931 you would not have spoken of Austin as old. His hair, now white, was an iron gray. There was a brightness to his eye, an agility to his movements that are today but memories.

Of those who have noted this marked change in Austin his son, Blaine, probably has a more acute realization of it than any one.

For Blaine and his father have been closely associated during the years past.

There seems to be a greater bond, a deeper sense of understanding between the pair than between most fathers and sons.

Not long ago, two years, in fact, Blaine completed his schooling and went away to Boston to work.

There are those who say it was this separation that brought about the change in Austin.

At any rate it was Blaine, who, during his infrequent visits at home, first noted the signs of advancing age.

He attributed them, of course, to his father's years, and knew a feeling of regret at the inevitable.

Frequently he sought reassurance from his mother in regard to Austin's health, and was relieved at the lack of alarm Mrs. Metcalf displayed over the matter. For she was a devoted wife and would, were there cause, be the first to feel concerned.

Blaine had been careful during the two years past never to express sympathy in his father's presence or make insinuations relative to the old man's increasing incapability; for Austin has always been a prideful man, and this pride has, it seems, become more poignant with advancing years.

He does not admit a weariness of any description; believes himself still physically able and mentally alert.

The situation is delicate, for Blaine must always be careful never to openly appear aware of his father's deficiencies, lest he give offense.

And Blaine, pitying his father deeply, has found this task a hard one, especially when the two are playing pinochle.

Blaine has played pinochle with his father since his grade school days.

There has been a close, yet friendly, rivalry between the two.

Their skill in the game is surprisingly well balanced; they have kept tab on the games each has won and lost over a period of time, and on the eve of Blaine's departure for his new job these tabs are tallied up and found to be nearly equal, with Austin having the edge by a count of two.

Blaine was glad of this when the results were given their final check and found accurate, for the old man took a sober delight in the game, and his pleasure at thus finding himself in the lead was good to see.

Blaine for his part found no time during the ensuing two years to reflect on these pinochle games, or to anticipate a continuance of the contest.

But with Austin it was different.

For time lay heavily now on his old man's hands and, as is often the case with aged people, little things that have no particular place in the scheme of life loomed important.

He looked forward with no small amount of eagerness to Blaine's homecoming, having in mind an evening of pinochle, with the old-time rivalry as an incentive for good playing.

Blaine, though no longer feeling a keen interest in the game, was nevertheless willing to play it for no better reason than to indulge the old man's whim.

They began a series of games which Austin called the Battle of Champions.

And for a period of a year, during which they played not more than a dozen games at best, the victories were evenly divided.

At times during the course of a contest Blaine would find his thoughts wandering from the business at hand, dwelling on his work in Boston, and Austin was apt to score during these intervals and chuckle satisfactorily over his shrewdness.

And at times, also, when the evening was well advanced, the old man was apt to nod sleepily, and Blaine would find it easy to meld a sequence which might otherwise have been averted.

It was during the second year that the youth began to notice the frequency of these nodding periods, and the feeling of pity in him grew at sight of old Austin's white head drooping, and the look of guilt that leaped into the aged eyes at sudden realization of his inattentiveness.

It occurred to him gradually that the pinochle contest was his father's deepest interest.

He analyzed the situation, and arrived at an understanding.

There was little else to occupy the old man's time.

He had long since retired from active business.

His circle of friends was small.

Hence this business of playing pinochle with his son had become an important factor in his life.

It served to keep his mind occupied; it served also to keep him mentally alert.

Thus reasoning, it occurred to Blaine that it would be an act of kindness to permit his father to win the contest.

Defeat might have a dangerous effect.

It would not be a difficult feat to accomplish this end, he reflected.

It would be simple, during one of Austin's dozes, to discard a trump that might otherwise form a royal marriage.

The old man would never notice, would chuckle over his son's inability to meld a high score.

And so, with this in mind, Blaine waited until the deciding game of the contest; waited, in fact, until the game was near its end, noting with some satisfaction that the score was nearly equal, the victor doubtful; waited until old Austin's head nodded and his eyes closed for an instant, and then swiftly slid an ace of trumps on the draw pile, knowing full well the old man would pluck it from the pack on the next play, thereby completing a sequence in his hand and winning the game.

The plan worked beautifully, save for the fact that Austin, with the ace in his hand, did not meld his sequence. Somewhat puzzled, annoyed because he had figured wrongly in supposing his father held a sequence, Blaine made his own draw and found himself with a hundred aces.

He hesitated, then melded them, feeling assured that on the next play Austin would complete his sequence, scoring for himself 150 points.

But this didn't happen.

His first reaction was chagrin because of the failure of his plan.

He felt also a deep sensation of pity toward his father.

But Austin was above all else a good loser, and by the time Blaine's visit was ended other matters came to occupy his mind and he did not again reflect on the outcome of the contest.

Blaine returned to Boston directly after supper on Sunday night, and following his departure Austin stretched out in his favorite chair before the open fire and stared at the blaze in moody silence.

He remained thus for so long that Mrs. Metcalf was at length moved to question him.

And Austin looked at her and smiled, and there was a contented expression in his eyes.

"I was thinking of Blaine," he said, smiling. "Ever since Blaine has been a youngster we've played pinochle together, and the boy has come to take the game pretty seriously. He's a good loser, never offers post-mortems, but I know it hurts him when I win. Well, since he's had that job in Boston I feel he shouldn't be disturbed by outside affairs weighing on his mind. At first I thought he'd forget about our pinochle games, but when he suggested this last contest, I could see his interest was as keen as ever. And so, taking everything into consideration, I figured it wouldn't be so good for his state of mind if he didn't win."

The old man paused and chuckled.

"So I made believe I was dozing; gave him a chance to get in a couple of good plays without letting him know I was watching. And it worked, too! We finished up tonight, and the boy won. He didn't know it, but during that last hand I held a sequence and never melded it, just so's he could win."

Romans Devised System of Public Conveyances

According to the Brittanica, the stage coach was a public conveyance known in England from the Sixteenth century. The improvement of the roads and putting carriages on springs, in the latter part of the Eighteenth century, led to the great development of these stages. The Romans in the days of the Roman empire had a system of public vehicles for hire, which traveled over definite routes and probably at stated times. Sailing vessels and saddle horses have been used almost from the dawn of civilization. Sailing ships were built and used by the ancient Egyptians, Chaldeans, Hindus and Chinese. The oldest paintings and carvings left by the ancient inhabitants of the Euphrates in Asia show that saddle horses were familiar to them; and it is assumed by one authority that the supremacy first gained by the people of that region was largely due to the use of horses in war, giving them an advantage over unmounted tribes. Some Indian tribes used sails with their canoes, this putting them within the term "sailing vessels."—Detroit News.

Sitka, once the capital of Alaska, when the "Wild Land" was under Russian rule, is located on an island amid myriads of isles, one of which is surmounted by majestic Mount Edgecombe. St. Michael's cathedral has built in 1817 and is in the form of a cross. It is the oldest shrine on the Pacific coast. The equipment still shows the lavish splendors of early Russian decoration and contains the same vestments.

Northville Taxpayer, In Letter To Record, Writes About The Danger Of Double-Parking On Main Street

The Northville Record:

May I, through the columns of your worthy paper call the attention of our honorary village president and councilmen to what I consider to be a very serious menace both to pedestrians and motorists in this growing community of ours?

I refer to double-parking on Main street.

A few weeks ago I chanced to be standing on the northwest corner of Main and Center streets talking to a friend and as I talked I was looking west on Main street.

Coming down from the west was a spanking new coupe, driven by a woman whom I know only because I have seen her driving about our streets so often.

I am not one who dismisses a situation by a wave of the hand, and well, it was a lady driver. In this case, as I will explain, you will see the lady driver was more concerned about her business than the man driver of this incident.

But let me go on with my story. On Main street from the Marz garage to the end of the buildings near Center street were parked two rows of cars. The last car in the outside line was a new one with more than half a dozen passengers.

This car had as its driver an elderly man, who without a backward or sideward glance, started to drive off, when a blare of twin horns and the noise of suddenly applied brakes called him to prompt attention. Then with a swift glance at the lady driver in which instance the look implied, "Well, just what do you want?" he continued to drive away. Only the alert attention of this woman prevented an accident, just how serious none of us will ever know.

On Saturday evening, especially the double-parking on Main street east of Center street is particularly serious. This past Saturday night I wondered just how many near-accidents there were, as I slowly drove through this block.

So often, when a driver double-parks the driver of the car following must be ever alert as so often stop lights do not work, and if there are no stop lights how is the driver in the second or third car to know when the first driver intends to stop?

One must drive about ten miles an hour and even then he is not safe as long as double-parking is allowed in the business section of Main street.

I have been a constant driver for the past 12 years or more. I drive through the business section of our town almost daily, but rather than double-park, I drive until I find parking space at the curb even though it means walking back a block and sometimes two blocks.

I hope this is worthy of your consideration. I sincerely hope the matter will not be sidetracked until a serious accident forces a "No double-parking in business district" law in Northville.

I Am A Taxpayer.

Women's Voices Annoying

Women's voices, not because of their loudness but because of their high pitch, are much more annoying than the baritone and bass voices heard at men's colleges. Yet women complain more about noises than men. This is due to the fact that women's senses are slightly keener than men's. This greater acuity of women's senses is a problem for the merchant and manufacturer. The smooth feel of a piece of dress goods, the machine which is quieter, the paint which smells better and the sales person with the pleasant voice, get the most sales from women.—New York Herald Tribune.

Vitamin E

This fat-soluble anti-sterility vitamin is said to exist, though never in high concentration, in a great variety of animal tissues. It is highly concentrated in the organs of certain plants, especially in green leaves and seeds. The richest known sources are lettuce leaves and wheat embryo. Egg yolk and milk contain it, as also do most vegetable and seed oils, though not highly concentrated.—Detroit News.

RURAL CHILDREN OF COUNTY WILL TAKE PART IN FESTIVAL

More than 2,000 children, all from rural schools in Wayne county, will take part in the second annual Music Festival Tuesday at 2:15 p. m. at the Coliseum of the State Fair grounds in Detroit.

Miss Mary Ann Collinge of the music department of Michigan State college is in charge of the program which will include songs and folk dances by the school children which they have learned during the school year.

In addition to the dances and choruses, the Cass technical high school band will play selections during the program.

Addresses will be given by F. W. Yost, county school commissioner, and Dr. M. R. Keyworth, the newly elected state superintendent of public instruction.

The school children have all made music scrap books in their course of work, which will be entered in competition there, and prizes will be awarded for the best ones at this time.

LANGFIELD TELLS BIG FISH STORIES AT ROTARY CLUB

The Northville Rotary has a real case of spring fever if the topics of the meeting Tuesday are any evidence. The annual Liar's Day was celebrated by a fish story given by a fellow member, E. C. Langfield.

To make sure that his listeners would know that his fish stories were reel, Langfield submitted proof of his accomplishments in pictures and certificates issued by the sailfish association. Langfield proved beyond a shadow of a doubt that he is no mean fisherman and further that his address was not at all appropriate to the Ananias title of the day.

Mr. Langfield and his son, C. E. Langfield, enjoyed their deep sea fishing to the fullest extent, having been given credit for catching the largest sail fish this season, measuring 8 feet, 1 3-4 inches in length. One other thrill was to watch the landing of a 32-foot baby whale weighing 8 tons. As soon as the baby was captured the mother which was estimated to weigh 75 tons, swam away with speed.

Major Elton Eaton of Plymouth and Floyd Lanning, who recently returned from Florida, and is now back at his duties in the Depositors State Bank, were Rotary guests.

A number of the local Rotarians went to Milan, Michigan, Tuesday evening when the Milan Rotary club received its charter. About 200 were present. Those from Northville were E. C. Langfield, E. L. Mills, Chas. A. Schoultz, James Spagnuola and Charles T. Thornton.

JOS. DENTON DANCES IN HIS REGIMENTALS AT THE KING'S BALL

In the "pomp and glory" of the celebration of the silver anniversary of the reign of King George and Queen Mary of England, two Northville residents, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Denton, joined with their fellow countrymen in the Graystone ball room in Detroit Monday evening.

British Consul Hugh Hallett was host and presented ex-governor Wilbur M. Brucker who eloquently honored His Majesty. A telegram from the Prince of Wales in response to a cablegram of congratulations sent by the company caused a stir in the evening's events.

English, Scotch, Irish, Welch, all were there, many in their regimental costumes, listening to the martial airs of the homeland.

Among them moved in uniform Joseph Denton, who was lieutenant in the Hussar regiment (cavalry) and who served during the entire four years of the World war. Four medals were pinned to his breast, one for great bravery on the field of battle.

It is of interest that Lieutenant Denton had four brothers who also served, all of whom returned home. Aside from scars received in action, and being gassed, Mr. Denton came home unscathed and greeted for the first time his son, Raymond, then two years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Denton came to the United States in 1920 and Mr. Denton has been manager of the Farmcrest Farms for the past ten years.

Pearls Will Dissolve in Vinegar, Chemists Assert

Pliny the Elder says in his natural history that Cleopatra once made a wager with Mark Antony that she could spend 10,000,000 sesterces on one entertainment. Having in her earrings two of the largest pearls in the world, she threw one of them into a vessel of vinegar, which she drank as soon as the pearl had dissolved. Planeus, the umpire, immediately declared the queen winner of the wager and refused to let her dissolve the second pearl. Before Cleopatra's time, Pliny informs us, says a writer in the Indianapolis News, Clodius, the son of the actor Aesopus, had done the same at Rome; and, according to Suetonius, the emperor Caligula later exhibited his extravagance by drinking pearls of great price dissolved in vinegar. Some writers regard these stories as fictitious.

Like all carbonates, pearls will dissolve in strong vinegar and other weak acids, evolving carbon dioxide and leaving calcium acetate as dissolved salts. According to the United States bureau of chemistry and soils, pearls consist of 91.7 per cent calcium carbonate, 6 per cent organic matter and 2.3 per cent water. Thus they should dissolve in vinegar containing 6 or more per cent of acetic acid. But pearls would dissolve in such vinegar very slowly because of their great hardness. It is not probable that an ordinary pearl would completely dissolve in even strong vinegar in less than three or four hours.—Indianapolis News.

Some Birds Repair Old Nests Year After Year

Before bird migration was known there existed many ideas of what became of them. It was, until 1740, thought that swallows buried themselves in the mud to escape winter rigors. Scientists also claimed the European crane carried small land birds on its broad back to southern climes.

The United States biological survey has studied bird migration for many years, and has determined many interesting facts. It is estimated 4,000,000,000 birds migrate. There is no doubt that there is a home attachment which causes the same pair to return to the same nesting place year after year. Some hawks and other birds repair old nests.

The Arctic tern outdoes all other birds in distance traveled, for it flies 11,000 miles each year, breeding in the Arctic Circle near the boreal pole and then migrating to as far beyond the Antarctic Circle as it can find food. Wilson's petrel, which breeds in the Antarctic Circle in the southern summer, returns North, probably following the Gulf stream. The great auk, formerly numerous on the Maine and Massachusetts shores, never learned to fly, but swam from Newfoundland under water. The penguin, naturally lazy, swam part of the way, and when tired, crawled onto a cake of ice and let that do the work of transportation.—Kansas City Times.

Resembles Horse Long Extinct

The offspring produced by crossing a brown wild horse, still existing in the Siberian steppes, with a descendant of the gray "tarpan" of southern Russia, which has been extinct in its pure line since 1879, resembles in every respect one of two extinct horse species that roamed Germany when the country was still a wilderness, German scientists declare. This breeding experiment was conducted at the Munich zoological garden. Similar success has been reported from the Munich zoological garden in the "rebuilding" of the aurochs, a species of wild cattle abundant in Europe during ancient and medieval times, but extinct since the Seventeenth century.

Canadian Immigrant

There is no quota restriction on the immigration of native Canadians to the United States. If they meet the other requirements of the immigration laws, they may enter this country to live merely by paying the usual immigration fees. A certificate is issued to prove legal entry. It is necessary to remain in the United States five years to become a citizen. Canadian citizens who were born in other countries can enter only under the quotas assigned their native lands.

Tin Is Not Cheap

References to tin through such common expressions as tin lizzies, tinny voices and tin-horn sports have made its name synonymous with cheapness. But it is not cheap. In fact it is virtually a semi-precious metal. It costs twice as much as aluminum, six times as much as copper, 13 times as much as lead and 37 times as much as steel.—Collier's Weekly.

Trucks will be able to back up to the front of the building to the loading dock, set in from the front about 20 feet.

The boiler will be installed in the basement of the new building and will be equipped with an automatic stoker.

JOHN FISHER DIES IN DETROIT HOSPITAL

John Fisher, son of Artemus and Rebecca Fisher, was born in New Hudson September 29, 1884. Here he spent his boyhood and joined the Methodist church. He was an honest citizen and a kind brother to Mrs. Hill, who is the only survivor of his family.

EXCHANGITES SEE TRAVEL FILMS AT WEDNESDAY MEETING

There was a tidal wave of fines at the Exchange club Wednesday when some of the over zealous members tipped over their water glasses into their laps or had it done for them.

A series of travel films featuring the Southern Pacific route via boat: New Orleans and three cross-country trails were shown by Paul Thompson. They were furnished by the Castle Film company.

The flower and tree committee reported progress. The Jumper bars are already in place and make a fine showing.

The guests of the day were M. J. Sherwood of the Western State Normal college at Kalamazoo, Wm. Forney, champion tree-box builder, Ray Richardson, James R. Lyon and Ben A. Baldwin of Detroit.

Neal Hannaford and Ivan Ely were others who put in considerable time in the constructing of their boxes.

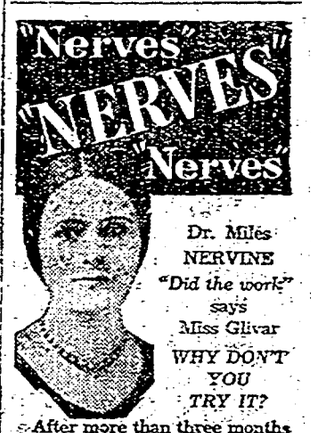
A Monetary Abbreviation

The abbreviation "d" as 6d for six pence is for the Latin denarious or denarii—penny, and pence—and was employed by the Lombard money changers who came to London in the Middle ages, and who are credited with giving Britain the crossed L which stands for the pound, but which was with the Lombards originally a symbol for the Era.



Dr. Miles NERVINE "Did the work" says Miss Glivar WHY DON'T YOU TRY IT?

After more than three months of suffering from a nervous ailment, Miss Glivar used Dr. Miles Nervine which gave her such splendid results that she wrote us an enthusiastic letter.

If you suffer from "Nerves." If you lie awake nights, start at sudden noises, tire easily, are cranky, blue and fidgety, your nerves are probably out of order.

Quiet and relax them with the same medicine that "did the work" for this Colorado girl.

Whether your "Nerves" have troubled you for hours or for years, you'll find this time-tested remedy effective.
