THRESHING OF LARGE CROP SET TO START

Wheat is Cut, Oats Will Be Soon, As Farmers Look For Great Harvest

The largest crop of grains in many years will be in the process of being threshed within a week, according to predictions of Northville farmers.

The cutting of the wheat crop is nearly completed in this area and on many farms the same is true of oats. Wheat, usually grown only in small quantities in eastern Michigan, is particularly abundant this year and an always large oat crop is taking on huge proportions. The average yield of wheat is about 40 bushels per acre, and of oats the same is predicted.

This is in striking contrast to the burnt straw that filled fields at this time a year ago during the devastating drought.

Most threshing will be done in the field this year, local farmers interviewed report. This is because many barns are filled with one of the largest hay crops in years and because, the wheat cutting being held up by damp weather, several grains will be threshed together in many cases.

The cutting of wheat and oats is being done in many cases by swath—going down one row and then coming back to the starting point again—because heavy winds and rains earlier in the summer sharply bent the straw. A newer type of mower, however, is said to alleviate this difficulty by having "pickers" on the sides and rear.

Although there is very little barley and almost no rye in this section, what there is of it is good and is being cut this week.

Second crops of alfalfa will be large, farmers predict. Most of them should be ready for cutting within approximately 10 days.

The corn crop in this vicinity is termed by many the largest ever. Slowed up a bit at first by cool nights, it has thrived in the recent warm weather and was more than "knee high by the Fourth of July."

Predictions for the fruit crop are even more hopeful than a month ago. The scab on apples, the curl on peach leaves and the spots on cherry leaves do not appear quite so serious as they did. The cherry crop in this area is the biggest ever grown, according to growers. The price of cherries has been as low as five and six cents a quart, and several farmers declared that if the red fruit had been as good in other parts of the state as here, the price would have gone even lower. One farmer estimated that as much as 50 per cent of the cherry crop in other Michigan sections was spoiled for marketing by leaf spot.

The prospects for Steel Red apples look especially good, local orchardists said, although much fruit will be spoiled by the scab and worms. That is so, it was explained, because of late spraying. Expert fruit growers usually start spraying for leaf curl along the first week in April and for scab early in the spring as soon as green buds show.

NINE-FOOT CORN

Not to be outdone by Detroit's hollyhock war, Northville farmers are contending for the highest stalk of corn. Earl Banks of Novi reports corn nine feet six inches high, beating the seven-foot corn of Clyde Putnam, reported in last week's Record. Mr. Banks' corn is not tasseled and he expects it to grow even higher.

94 LOCAL PERSONS AID RACE PURSES

Add $105 To $300 Stake; To Have Four Trotting, Four Pacing Events

Sixty-seven Northville citizens united Wednesday to contribute $105 toward increasing the $300 trotting and pacing race purses at the fair this year.

The group included one woman, Mrs. John J. Hettche of the East Eight Mile road. The contributions were solicited by George Rattenbury, prominent race horse man, and presented to the speed committee of the fair Wednesday night. The committee decided to canvass Plymouth yesterday, estimating that $50 might be secured. Members of the speed committee are Marvin Sloan, superintendent of speed; H. H. Hamilton, E. M. Starkweather and John Tinham, assistants; and Harry Robinson, starter.

There will be four trotting and four pacing races at the fair this year, according to Mr. Hamilton. The purses for each will be well over $300. The exact amount for each class was to have been decided on last night.

Names of the local persons contributing to the race stakes are as follows:

STARK BROS. WILL GO OUT OF BUSINESS

To End 47 Years as Local Merchants With Sale Of Entire Stock

A Northville landmark — Stark Brothers' store—will pass this week.

The Stark Brothers, [illegible] here since 1888, announced Monday that they will hold a going-out-of-business sale beginning today. The sale will coincide with the Dollar Day sale throughout Northville.

The official announcement is brief. "Having decided to retire from business," it reads, "we offer our entire stock of shoes, rubbers, and men's furnishings at less than wholesale prices. Terms, cash."

It was groceries and shoes that the Stark Brothers—Bert and Will—sold when they first came here 47 years ago from Hartland, Mich. In 1895 they sold the grocery business and added men's furnishings to their shoe business. Their first place of business was in what is now the north half of Schrader Brothers' store on Center street. For 40 years they have been on Main street, moving only one door east in all that time.

During their long years of service to Northville, the two brothers and their wives have made many friends, and Northville merchants have made many expressions of regret at seeing them retire. They have no immediate plans for the future, they said. "We've just been in business long enough."

Mr. and Mrs. Bert C. Stark live at 530 West Main street and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stark live at 525 West Dunlap street. Their back yards adjoin.

CLASS OF '33 REUNION SOON

A reunion of the N.H.S. class of 1933 will be held within two weeks, members of the committee in charge said yesterday.

'Boy, I Can't Express It,' Says Rita Happily of Alaskan Trip, But She Does

Dead tired, exuberantly happy—and did she have a wonderful time? "Boy, I can't express it." That was the way Rita Sprenger returned to Northville from her 17-day trip to Alaska Tuesday. She won the trip by writing an essay for a contest sponsored by the Detroit Institute of Arts. She wanted to write the account of her trip herself rather than be interviewed, so here it is:

by RITA SPRENGER

Well, it's all done and over with now, with nothing left but the memory and the telling—which isn't so bad to have left after all. It's a lot of fun and I'll try to tell you just how it was and to make you feel as if you were with me all the way.

I will start with the evening the tour left Chicago, because, after all, that's when the real trip began. After a very big evening during which [illegible] the Edgewater [illegible] cago theatre and drove along the lovely lake shore from [illegible] to twelve-thirty, I climbed creakily into my berth on board the train and fell asleep. I don't remember whether we left before or after I succumbed; enough to say that when I awoke in the morning we were following the mighty Mississippi—which didn't look so mighty to a sleepy person at seven o'clock as it might have. By the time I was eating breakfast, the train had already stopped in St. Paul. Here I had a chance to take a good look at that modern marvel—the streamlined "Hiawatha." It stood for a brief time on the track next to ours, looking as if it waited only for a touch to send it flying on its way. My first day was beginning well.

We passed through Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana and Idaho, and were as far as Spokane, Washington, before we went to bed that night. Never having traveled before, I'd always wondered how people could sit in a train and read. However, while passing through North Dakota, I was driven to it myself. Nothing is so tiresome as the level, flat sameness of that state. But we were soon out [illegible] Montana, looking [illegible] to the Rockies. We made an [illegible] stop at Glacier National Park. I took eight [illegible] in almost as many minutes. No one can explain the mountains [illegible] all the average tourist can say is that they're grand and that they live up to every [illegible] are the Rockies.

My 12-year-old friend (who became my alarm clock for the whole trip) woke me the next morning so that we'd be ready to leave the train in Seattle. I had hoped to see more than I did of this city but I saw enough to enjoy its many hills. Then we went by bus from the station to the dock where we boarded the S. S. Princess Kathleen which was to [illegible]

FORD FACTORY TO BE READY FIRST OF YEAR

10,000 Square Feet of Dirt Excavated As Digging Progresses

Northville's new Ford factory, excavation for which [illegible] will be finished by the first of the year, according to information released by high Ford officials yesterday.

The proposed factory, to be 200 feet long and 100 feet wide, will make all valves used in Ford cars and trucks, the statement said.

Approximately 10,000 square feet of earth has been excavated, and a high Ford construction engineer estimated that the digging for the actual building site would be completed before the end of August.

"However," he said, "digging for the lake, which will be to the northeast corner of the factory site, will take much longer. The present digging is for the half-basement which will go under the power house part of the plant."

Men with shovels were draining [illegible] shovel. Spring water was coming up in large quantities. [illegible] were shut down driving trucks [illegible] although relatively unimportant part of the new factory will be the large overshot water-wheel. The wheel will [illegible] to generate but a small part of the 1200 to 1500 kilowatts needed by the new plant, Ford officials said.

The present factory, which will be torn down upon completion of the new structure, has turned out more than 163 million valves, 50 million of which went into V-8 motors. The valves are made of alloy, cast at the Rouge plant.

With the completion of this factory, Henry Ford will have six beautifully landscaped "little industries" along the Rouge river.

SOUTH CENTER ST. TO BE RE-SURFACED

To Finish Randolph Street Next Week; Base Line Novi Roads Done

South Center street will be resurfaced next week as the conclusion to Wayne County's extensive program of black-topping in this area, Warren Worth of Plymouth, engineer in charge, announced Wednesday.

A job of tar black-topping will be put on the dirt road from Cady street to Park drive, Mr. Worth said, but "a better type of surfacing" will be put on the hill between Main and Cady streets.

Randolph street is being re-coated this week, and according to Mr. Worth will be finished as far as Taft road by Monday or Tuesday. The Base Line road, from North Center street to the Novi road was black-topped last week.

Oakland county road authorities last week finished re-surfacing the Novi road from the Base Line to Grand River. This is hailed by citizens of this section as a great improvement as that section of the road has always been especially dusty. The Novi road beyond Novi was black-topped a year ago.

The approximately 200 feet of dirt road south of the viaduct on the Plymouth road near Phoenix Lake is being paved this week. It is expected to be completed the fore part of next week.

OWENS, JOHNSONS FIGHT FOR LEAD

Softball Game Tonight Is Expected To Draw Many To School

With the Owen and Johnson teams battling for the lead in the recreation twilight league, crowds of 100 to 150 persons continue to be attracted to the softball games at the high school playground.

The Johnsons take on the Ford team this evening and yesterday the Owens were to have played the Orioles. If one team wins and the other loses, the victor will go to the top of the league. If both lose, they will still be tied for first place.

Monday Maybury takes on the Johnson gang, and on Tuesday the Orioles play the Edison team. With no game scheduled for Wednesday, the Ely group will play the Owens Thursday and the Infants the Ford team next Friday.

Last Thursday the Johnsons blanked the Infants, 3-0, scoring 7 hits to two for the youngsters. A week ago today the Ford team scored a 7-1 victory over the Orioles, getting 8 hits to 7 for their opponents. Sunday the Elys downed the Ford men in a hard fought game, 8-7. The Ford team gleaned 11 hits to the Elys' 10.

Monday, July 29, the Elys whipped the Maybury team in a scoring orgy, 13 to 10. The Elys banged out 12 hits to 11 for the Maybury men. Tuesday the Infants just managed to win a 5-4 victory from the Edison team, getting only five hits to nine for Edison.

'Telatype' Outstanding A. T. and T. By-Product, Division Head Tells Exchangites; District Gov. There

Praising the "telatype" service as a great aid to the newspaper profession, O. G. Hershberger of Detroit, American Telephone and Telegraph division manager, addressed the Exchange Club Wednesday.

Gale Wessenger of the Detroit Savings Bank, district Exchange Governor, and Charles D. Hartman, noted Detroit Exchangite who helped organize the Northville club, were guests. Mr. Hershberger is a national committeeman of Exchange and past president of the Detroit club. He came here at the request of Roy E. Crowe, local Exchange club president.

The "telatype" service—the method by which wire messages are received in typewritten form — is one of the most extensive developments of the American Telephone and Telegraph's by-products, Mr. Hershberger told the Exchange club. "For the smaller daily newspaper especially," he pointed out, "it is a great aid. Those papers obtaining long distance news by telephone and telegraph found it too cumbersome and too expensive."

Explaining the great A. T. and T. system, Mr. Hershberger told of its other by-products—telegraph, transmission of radio programs and wire photos. The great problem, he said, is to keep straight the literally millions of wires which run across the continent.

Mr. Hershberger declared that in addition to the newspapers, the government, in its weather bureau, and industry, in its sales departments, were also aided by the "telatype."

"Even weather maps are transmitted across the wires," he said.

Mr. Wessenger praised the local Exchange club and mentioned several suggestions for improvements.

Other guests of the club were Editor E. R. Eaton of the Plymouth Mail, William E. Forney, Richard T. Baldwin and Warner Neal.

TICKETS FOR 'TREASURE' HUNT SATURDAY ARE NOW READY IN LOCAL STORES

Families With Largest Number, From The Greatest Distance and Oldest Couple To Be Awarded Prizes

23 MERCHANTS TO HAVE BARGAINS

Northville's two days of dollar bargains, opening this morning, will feature a street dance at 9 o'clock tonight.

All day today and tomorrow local merchants, in addition to offering real bargains for one dollar, will give with each 25-cent purchase a ticket for the treasure hunt tomorrow night. The treasures to be kept a dark secret until the "unveiling" at 9 p. m. Saturday, will be numbered, and the persons having a ticket with a corresponding number will get the treasure.

The treasures will be on display in the store windows Saturday night. At approximately 9 p. m. each will get a number, and the person having the corresponding number on his ticket wins the treasure.

Strasens' six-piece orchestra will play at the street dance tonight. The dance, to be held until midnight, will be on North Center street, in the general vicinity of Schrader's store.

A business men's contribution will be taken for the orchestra at the street dance tonight.

In addition to the treasure hunt Saturday evening, the noted picture, "Break of Hearts," starring Katharyn Hepburn, will be shown at the Penniman-Allen theatre.

There are other incentives than bargains and treasures for coming to Northville's Dollar Day festivities. To the largest family, the Redford Lumber and Coal company will give a half ton of coal. The coal, according to George Keeping, manager, will be delivered to any place within a radius of three miles.

To the family coming the longest distance, the Hi-Speed gasoline station will give a tank full of gasoline.

Rathburn Chevrolet Sales will give $25 toward the sale of either a Chevrolet or an Oldsmobile to the oldest couple dancing at the street dance.

Families are requested to register their number, age and distance from which they came at the place of business of the firm making the particular award.

Almost every store in town is offering Dollar Day bargains. Merchants are uniting to offer real quality at unusual prices as well as make an effort to really get acquainted with their customers.

The Record is giving for its bargain a year's subscription, either in arrears, in advance, or a new one—worth $1.50—for $1.

A list of the stores which will give treasure Saturday night follows:

NORTHVILLE WILL BE PROUD OF NEW PLANT, KAHN SAYS

"It's a building Northville will be proud of," declared Albert Kahn, internationally known architect, as he viewed the excavation on the site of the new Ford factory here yesterday.

Mr. Kahn, who has designed the building, came here to discuss with H. H. Armand, high Ford engineer, the location of the new dam. No decision was reached, although the great building designer remained here most of the morning.

No contract for the building has been let yet, Mr. Kahn said, but inferred that bids were being considered.

WOMEN WILL STUDY PRESENT CONDITIONS

To Be General Theme For Local Club's 1935-36 Program

The general theme of the Northville Woman's club program for the coming year will be "A study of conditions as they are," with trips to Russia, Singapore, Norway, Finland and the Mardi Gras, all seen through the eyes of those who have visited them, it was announced this week.

The year books of the club for the coming season have made their first appearance among the members. In an attractive cover of rich black suede with the monogram of the club and the dates 1935-1936, they contain an interesting outline of the program.

Perhaps the highlight of the year will be the annual banquet given the husbands of the members when Dr. Merton S. Rice of the Metropolitan church in Detroit will be the speaker Jan. 3.

Among the social events of the year will be the opening luncheon at the Dearborn Country club, the reception to the public school teachers, the Christmas program, the January tureen luncheon, with Miss Emma DuBord, county Home Economics leader, speaking on "Art in the Home," a musical tea at the Phillips home, the final annual meeting with luncheon and a midsummer picnic.

The first page of the second section of The Record this week contains Dollar Day bargain advertisements. The displays cover a full page, each merchant having a separate space in which to describe his Dollar Day specials.

Glenn Richardson's 'First Auto Owner' Questioned By R. H. Porter Who Claims He Knew Who It Was

Wondering if he "might get into a mild argument with Glenn Richardson" over Mr. Richardson's claim that Burleigh Randall owned the first automobile in Northville, R. H. Porter of Detroit writes to The Record this week.

Mr. Porter is proprietor of the Porter Lacquer shop and is a brother of the late M. A. Porter, long a Northville resident. Mr. Porter's contention is that it was "an unnamed barber, rather than Mr. Randall who owned the village's first horseless carriage."

Here is his letter:

Detroit, Mich., July 26, '35
Editor, Northville Record,
Northville Mich.

Dear Editor:— I am wondering if I can't get into a mild argument with Glenn Richardson over the time of the ownership of the first auto in Northville.

From '96 to 1904 I was in business in the place now occupied by Schrader Brothers. On our left was the old frame building originally occupied by Asa Randolph. During the years I was there this building was tenanted on the right side by Shorty Gardner with his pop-corn and "salt-water" kisses. The left side was a barber shop.

In either 1902 or 1903 the barber, whose name I do not recall, showed up one day in front of his shop with an auto which he said belonged to a relative, I think brother, in Detroit. Being a near neighbor, he favored me with a very long ride. Starting in front of his shop we went all the way up Dunlap to Rogers and back down Main st. to the starting point. My first auto ride and it was a thriller. Perhaps this experience with the borrowed rig whetted his appetite to the point of making the purchase of which Glenn speaks.

I left Northville in the early spring of 1904 and I feel certain the purchase must have been made after my departure.

Glenn, am I right or wrong?

R. H. Porter.

"SHARING" THE HENRY FORD WEALTH

Anyone who reads the daily papers or listens to certain radio speeches has some idea of the "share the wealth" plans that have been attracting the attention of the nation.

With continued unemployment in the country and with many actually suffering deprivation, these appeals for division of wealth fall on fertile soil. The man who has nothing would naturally be glad to have something; the person who has fritted away his money or has refused to be thrifty and to go to work, naturally also would like to have someone else provide him a living.

If we face the facts frankly, wealth cannot be shared. For people living in Northville, the fortune that has been built by Henry Ford is the finest example possible to show the fallacy of "sharing wealth." What would happen if some law were passed to share the Ford wealth?

Because he was the first to give the people of the United States (and of the world) a low priced car, Henry Ford, through his genius and his industry and marvelous vision—not to mention his common sense and knowledge of life—has built up the greatest individual fortune in the world. We don't know how many people the Ford Motor Co. employs but it must be at least 100,000. Here in Northville our factory has been one of the mainstays of our community life. And the same goes for the nearby communities that have the small Ford plants scattered along the Rouge river.

Suppose we start to divide the enormous Ford fortune? Who will run the great Ford factories? Does anyone who knows history think the government could possibly run them as well as Henry Ford has run them? Could the government make as cheap or as good a car? Or suppose [illegible] men and women who work for the Ford company took over the giant Ford industries. How long would they run the plants successfully?

[illegible] sharers to redistribute wealth as Henry Ford has done. As to what wealth is, read what Mr. Ford says:

"Money? Certainly not. Wealth is made up of productive plants and the rest of the things that go with them. Large fortunes do not continue to exist unless they are profitably employed."

o—o—o

WE HOPE IT ISN'T YOU

Just as sure as you sit reading this now, it won't be more than a year or so before one of these selfish motorists who ignore stop signs in their riding around Northville will be involved in an accident—and we hope that no one is badly hurt or killed in the crash.

We write this because we have in just the past week or ten days seen several glaring examples of a complete violation of the law that provides that you must stop your car before going across a "stop" street. On Dunlap street Wednesday evening a big car came tearing across, almost into the path of a car which had the right of way. Only the quick slamming on of brakes prevented a crash. On a recent Sunday morning a young man, who had apparently been entrusted with the family's or someone else's big car, drove on Rogers street, across Main street, literally at the rate of 40 or 50 miles an hour. He paid no more attention to the "stop" sign than though it had been located on a desert island. The driver of a car going west on Main street, who was obeying the laws of traffic and also the law of sense, was about to make a turn South on Rogers street when the boy's car roared across. Only the use of perfect brakes saved a terrible crash; the boy was going so fast that no human power could have prevented injury had the two cars met [illegible]. You have only to stand beside any stop sign in Northville and see how almost hourly some selfish or foolish motorist will ignore the sign and take a chance of running into a car which has the right of way.

The continued ignoring of the law about stop signs will surely bring trouble to someone in the coming months. Why cannot we all drive cars like fair-minded people should? What is the great rush that we cannot take a second or two to obey a law that is made for the benefit of us all? Every day we are all driving on the through streets and being made a possible victim of the driver who runs the stop sign.

Any one who hurts or kills another person in an automobile has a terrible burden on his shoulders. Why take a chance on ruining your life by some accident that need never have happened? Why drive a car like a mad man? Or like a half-wit?

THE MARCHING YEARS

Friday morning there came to the editorial home one of our former Albion college boys—a fine young man who for three years made his home with us while studying. It had been some time since we had seen him and so it was a real privilege to sit down and visit with him and to try to sense how rapidly the years roll on and to realize that life never remains the same for us.

This college boy is that no longer. Instead he is a successful attorney in a large Michigan city, and the head of a happy home with two fine children. And like a lot of people, he is buying his own home and making for himself a real place in community life.

We mention this young man to show that, despite all the handicaps of young people these days, there is still plenty of chance to make your way in the world. This boy—he was then only about 17 years old—came to Albion resolved to get an education even if it meant hard work and sacrifice. He had little money but he had plenty of ambition and industry and he went to work in an Albion factory office and there he "plugged" during his whole college course. Not only did he pay his own way but he earned high marks all the time—with his afternoons all given over to his outside work. He was graduated from Albion with splendid honors.

Then he heard the call of the law profession and went to the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor where he again applied himself with energy and worthy purpose. Again he was graduated with high honors and then he went out to work his way up in his chosen profession. He had conquered all the handicaps that could come to any young man and now is making a real success in life and serving well his fellowmen—the finest thing that any man or woman can do. So as we sat and talked to him and recalled the old days when he was a student still in his teens, there came over us a glow of happiness to realize that he had "made good" in such a fine way. His success has been made by himself.

Young man, young woman, the world of opportunity still opens a door to you if you know where you are going. There are no better days to live than right now. "Follow the gleam."

WANDERING THOUGHTS

Sunday evening: A good time to keep the family automobile in the garage.

"Pleasant words are as honeycomb, sweet to the soul, and health to the bones." -Proverbs 16:24.

A public swimming pool in Northville would be a great blessing to hundreds. Who will have the vision to get it for us?

Times are better. Evidence: 1. Retail sales throughout the United States have shown an increase. 2. Freight car loadings are up. 3. Industry has resisted the seasonable decline of midsummer. 4. Coal production and power consumption through the past month have been unusually good. Here in Northville there is a bumper crop outlook, bank accounts are growing, prospects of a new Ford plant have added to community morale immeasurably; merchants are doing more business. "Gangway for good times."

[illegible] the editor of a [illegible] paper in Indiana, Senator A. J. Beveridge told us, in the course of a most [illegible] half-hour conversation, that many farmers are better informed on national and world events than some congressmen. The reason for that was, he said, that the farmer with an intellectual look out—many of them have college training—has the time for meditation, for reading and for thinking things through. On the other hand, the "driven" congressman has little, if any time, for reading and for thinking. This statement checks very well with something we just read, from an article written by Wright Patterson, who grew up in the small communities but who went to Chicago and made a big success there. Mr Patterson says: "As a class the rural audience of today is more intelligent than that of the city. The people of the towns and farms have today a wider interest than the average individual of the city. They are in no sense provincial."

'Living On Velvet' Will Come To Theatre Wednesday; Hepburn Is Star of Week-end Attraction

"Living on Velvet," a First National Picture which is heralded as a powerful drama with a most unusual romance, is scheduled as the feature attraction at the Penniman-Allen theatre on Wednesday.

It has an all-star cast, headed by Kay Francis, who has two leading men in Warren William and George Brent. The story tells of two men in love with the same girl, each of whom tries to give her up for the other man.

Brent, portraying a dashing daredevil, whose mental attitude toward life has been warped by a terrific airplane accident in which his parents and his sister are all killed, and he escaped, considers himself the same as a "dead" man, and rushes from one mad escapade to another, trying but unable to forget.

Follows a series of trying experiences at domesticity, for which the man is utterly unfitted and in which he nearly wrecks the girl's life. Then in a mad moment he smashes his own life in a thrilling situation said to be one of the most dynamic climaxes of any picture ever screened.

Other important characters in the story include Helen Lowell, Henry O'Neill, Russell Hicks, Maude Turner Gordon, Samuel Hinds, Martha Merrill and Edgar Kennedy.

Beautiful settings, skillful direction, inspiring music, splendid story and a superb supporting cast combine to make "Break of Hearts," which stars Katharine Hepburn and Charles Boyer, one of the high spots of the current picture season.

The picture comes to the Penniman-Allen theatre on Friday and Saturday.

"Break of Hearts" is an original story by Lester Cohen, author of "Sweepings," and has been acclaimed as the love story of extraordinary appeal. It is a powerful romantic drama with a background of symphonic music and an inspirational theme that has not been [illegible] years. It is the [illegible] of a young composer who sacrifices health and security on the altar of her love for a great orchestra conductor.

Charles Boyer, idol of the French stage and screen and more recently hailed in America as a feminine heart throb through his work in "Private Worlds," provides an ideal romantic match for the star. Next in importance in the cast is John Beal, who will be remembered for his magnificent work in the title role of "The Little Minister." Others in the cast are Jean Hersholt, Inez Courtney, Jean Howard, Helene Millard, Susan Fleming, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Anne Grey and Sam Hardy.

St. Paul's Lutheran

Ye shall be witnesses unto Me. Acts 1, 8.

Many people feel that the work of witnessing for Christ belongs to the ministers and leaders of the church and that they in their humbler walks of life have little or no opportunity to do much. Let us not forget that the Lord does not expect the impossible of us. If we testify to Him in that spot where He has placed us we are fulfilling His command. There is a little song that illustrates this truth exactly. It has the lines "Brighten the corner where you are." When the mother in her home tells her child the story of Jesus she is witnessing unto Him. The same is true when relative speaks to relative, friend to friend. Or we may witness to Him in our Christian life, our example before the world. The main thing is that we take advantage of our opportunities. This sometimes may be under unusual circumstances.

Frances Ridley Havergal was a devoted Christian as well as an accomplished singer. She was a guest at an occasion where many distinguished peole, including the King himself, were present. A famous Italian prima donna had been engaged to furnish entertainment for the brilliant audience, and after a number of wonderful renditions, Miss Havergal was asked if she would sing. She paused a moment in uncertainty, then stepped to the piano and made a most exquisite rendering of a difficult aria from one of Handel's oratorios. Then even before the applause ceased she began to sing to her own accompaniment the words of one of her most deeply spiritual poems, for which her pen had become so noted:

Oh, Savior, precious Savior,
Whom yet unseen we love,
Oh, Name of might and favor,
All other names above.

Among the first to congratulate her was the renowned Italian artist who said to her: "You have something I do not have, and I want it."

Lord, help me to be Thy witness always. Amen.

Divine worship every Sunday morning at the usual time 10 o'clock. The pastor will preach.

In connection with the service next Sunday morning the Lord's supper will be celebrated. Announcement is to be made at the parsonage this coming Thursday, August 8th, between 7-9 p. m.

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include the following (p. 240): "The divine Love, which made harmless the poisonous viper, which delivered men from the boiling oil, from the fiery furnace, from the jaws of the lion, can heal the sick in every age and triumph over sin and death."

Woman's Club Enjoys Annual Picnic at Willis Country Home—

The main gala event of the Northville Woman's Club is their annual picnic which was held Friday afternoon.

For the second time the spacious lawn of the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Willis on the West Eight Mile road was the scene of this happy affair, when a company of 50, including families of the members, gathered around the tables spread with an abundance of good things to eat. A perfect summer evening and a congenial company made the event thoroughly delightful.

While the women of the party lingered sociably at the tables to chat the men and boys engaged in a lively ball game.

A walk about the grounds surprised the visitors with the garden at the rear which has been developed in only two months. A beautifully-laid out garden surrounds a white-pillared pergola where lounging chairs are placed invitingly.

When darkness (and mosquitoes) drove the company within the merry-making continued with a "sing" around the piano, N. C. Schrader acting as song leader.

Mrs. P. A. Hauver, a former active member of the club, now of Detroit, was welcomed back, and Mrs. C. C Chapman of New York City, Mrs. Merritt Stahl of Lansing, and Mrs. Wm. Davis of North Carolina, were other guests from out of town.

Mrs. Chas. F. Murphy, the new social chairman, had charge of the arrangements of the picnic, assisted by her committee: Mrs. Clarence Davis, Mrs. N. C. Schrader, Mrs. F. A. Northrop, Mrs. W. F. Chapman, Mrs. H. R. Richardson and Mrs. R. T. Coolman.

SOMEONE WINS

VAN ATTA IS ONLY LOCAL ENTRANT TO REACH FINAL MATCH

The seven Northville entries in the Detroit News tennis tournament were all eliminated yesterday with the exception of Ward Van Atta.

Van Atta defeated Cyril Rodman of Plymouth 6-1, 6-1, and Tuesday downed Alee Milne 6-0, 6-1. Milne had beaten John Steencken 6-3, 10-8. Van Atta then defeated William Bake of Plymouth Wednesday 6-1, 7-5.

Orlow Owen won his first match, putting down H. Leach of Plymouth, 6-1, 6-2, but lost his second to John Huber of Plymouth, 6-3, 4-6, 6-0. This was one of the few three-set matches of the tournament. Robert Champe of Plymouth defeated Warner Neal 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

There were a total of 37 entries in the men's tournament and 16 in the women's. No Northville women played.

FOUR GYPSIES STEAL LEONARD CHARTER'S POCKETBOOK SUNDAY

After he had been fleeced out of his pocketbook, Leonard Charter wished he had not told a carload of gypsies how they could find out the route to Lake Orion Saturday.

Mr. Charter was returning home late in the afternoon after selling his vegetables throughout the village. Four persons, two men and two women, obviously gypsies according to Mr. Charter, stopped their car on Cady street near Church street and beckoned to him.

They asked him the way to Lake Orion, and when he attempted to tell, they asked him to come closer, declaring they could not hear him. Mr. Charter finally went to the side of the car—a Ford four-door, he thinks—and directed them to a nearby gasoline station.

As they drove away, Mr. Charter put his hand to his back pocket and discovered his pocketbook was missing. He immediately notified police but no trace of the culprits could be found. He lost more than $3.

of a lady cooking her DINNER!

No staying in the kitchen today! There are so many other things one wants to do on a pleasant afternoon . . . and this charming lady has a capable electric servant—Dutch Oven Susan—who will see that dinner is ready when she returns home. Dutch Oven Susan is an Electric Cook. She cooks a complete meal for a family of six—two vegetables, a roast, potatoes and gravy—all at one time. You simply plug this handy electric appliance into any convenience outlet, and then go out for the afternoon. When you come home your dinner is waiting, perfectly cooked—piping hot and ready for the table.

Dutch Oven Susan will roast all cuts of meat to perfection; it will fry eggs, steaks, chops, etc.; it will bake cakes, pies, cookies, biscuits and muffins; and it will hold half-a-dozen pint jars when canning by the cold pack, hot water bath method. Yet it uses only about as much electricity per hour as an electric toaster.

Dutch Oven Susan is available in several styles and sizes—one to fit your needs exactly. The medium size model will roast a 10-pound ham, a 6-pound chicken, or a large leg of lamb. The large size will easily accommodate a 15½-pound turkey. And there is "Small Sister" Susan, an electric casserole, with a two quart capacity. See this modern appliance on display at all Detroit Edison offices, Department Stores and Electrical Dealers.

BY THE WAY . . .

By E. W. I.

Thanks so much for the suggestions that were given this week for the By the Way column—we appreciate a lot your immediate response to the suggestion made in the first column.

Did you know that John C. Burkman and wife (formerly Ruth Yerkes) have bought the property on Fairbrook avenue, near Center street, known as the Van Sickle place? They plan to use the structure now on the property as a beginning and will erect a modern home. This is just what we have hoped for in Northville, a Federal Housing project of such nature as to show what can be done with rather poor beginnings. In a later issue we will have a picture of the beginning and from time to time will review the progress of the changes that take place in the building. You will find this an interesting project to watch closely. The local F. H. A. committee say that this is typical of many such possible projects, and how we need them.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Burkman and five-months-old son, Conrad II, Three Mile drive, Detroit, are moving tomorrow from their Detroit home at 5213 Three Mile drive, and will take up their temporary abode at the home of Mrs. Burkman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Yerkes Sr., on Base Line road. Mr. Burkman is employed at the Highland Park plant of the Chrysler Corporation.

Did you know that the church furniture business is again flourishing in Northville? Charles A. Dolph and A. H. Whitehead, operating in the capacity of selling and producing under the business title of Charles A. Dolph Company are very busy and have orders scheduled ahead that will keep their small plant busy for many weeks, and better than that, churches throughout the country are now refurnishing their churches. This is evidenced by the order they are now finishing for a church in Northern Michigan. It consists of a twelve-piece set. Stop in some day soon at 146 N. Center street and see Mr. Whitehead at work—by the way, it is about the coolest place in town too.

Two dollar days this week will keep everyone busy. The merchants tell me that they like to lose money those days on their specials because they want to meet new folks and make new friends. You will find the Northville merchants a good lot and really interested in Northville and you. After all, did you ever stop to think that the success of any business is just the lengthened shadow of a man or men at the head of the organization?

A few days ago one of the boys from Maybury who will soon be back doing the world's work, rode to Detroit with me and made this rather startling remark. "These months at the San have been a God-send to me. I have had time to do some reading and thinking and have gotten some new slants on life. I will be a different chap when I get back on the job. I believe it would do any boy good to be at the San for six months."

Here's more good news. Ira R. Markell and wife have bought the property known as the Teeple home at 320 Orchard drive. Mr. and Mrs. Markell and son, Jack, have occupied the house for a couple of years.

Since coming to Northville the first of April, I do not remember hearing a single person make a negative remark about Northville except that folks here don't half realize what a grand place this is to live and what gracious folks live here. What a recommendation for any community! Do you suppose a chamber of commerce to actually act as a focal point for Northville boosting would be a good idea?

THE OFFICE WASTEBASKET

CO-OPERATION NEEDED

Why can't the News and Free Press get together on the name of the man who killed Howard Carter Dickinson? It's disconcerting to read in the morning that "Schweizer will be arraigned" that day, and then read in the afternoon that "Ferris was arraigned;" only to discover that both papers were talking about the same individual.

WE CENTSED IT

Now we see where they get the "penny" in the penny suppers. They cost a pretty penny.

MORE PET PEEVES

Lots of Northville folks came to us with their Pet Peeves. Here they are:

A young lady hates sopranos, accordions and organs. A doctor dislikes people who gush." A minister has it in for those who interrupt his sermon by saying "Amen!" Marion Thomas, niece of Mrs. H. E. Blowers, who is visiting her here this summer from Binghamton, N. Y., wishes The Record would spell the name of her home town correctly, and not "Binghampton," as somebody did last week.

We sympathize with these poor neurasthenics—like ourselves—and hereby ask for more contributions to our Pet Peeves corner.

SO, WHAT?

The Northville Record uses every week a strip of paper 35 inches wide totalling three and one half miles in length. This, which was figured for us by our shop foreman, Art Zellers, is quite a lot of paper, and if all that we used in the past three and three quarters years was laid end to end, it would be even still more.

PRESBYTERIAN FLYS

There is something about Presbyterian flys. We're sure flys in the Methodist church never were so persistent as those in the righthand corner of the church on Main street Sunday morning.

AGRICULTURE AGENT WARNS AND ADVISES ABOUT ARMY WORMS

Editor's Note: At the request of The Record, Ralph Carr of Dearborn, county agricultural agent, will be a frequent writer in this paper. This is his first article, dealing with the invasion of the army worm into Wayne county.

By RALPH CARR

Wayne County farmers and gardeners are being warned that the Army Worm is appearing in considerable numbers in Wayne County.

The Army Worm appears every 15 or 20 years in large numbers and moves in a definite line, from which it gets its name of Army Worm. They are developing in the oat fields and strip off the leaves and cut the heads of the oats before moving into greener crops.

The best method of control is to plow a deep furrow towards the direction from which the worms are coming and then after the furrow has collected a number, fill it up and plow another furrow. For the areas which are partially infested, furrows can be thrown up one or more rods apart and poison bait spread in between. This poison bait should be spread thinly over the ground at the rate of 40 pounds to the acre. The recommended formula calls for a bushel of bran, one-half gallon of molasses, a little water and one pound of white arsenic. Control is not difficult if precautions are started early.

What is your fair exhibit?

The Parental "Jailer"

"It does not matter to me what my child thinks of me today," said a parent recently, "but it does matter a lot what he thinks of me twenty years from today."

A brave thing for a parent to say and as yet we have not reached that point of courage.

We admire the courage that makes a parent big enough and far-sighted enough to be misjudged by his child as a "mean old thing" if in the future he may hear him say "I used to think you were too strict, but now I'm glad you protected me."

A Northville girl surprised her mother by saying "I'm glad now that you didn't let me run around nights when I was in high school" and the mother recalled the years when she felt alone and hurt because her children felt sorry for themselves and half "mad" at their mother because they could not "do like the rest of the crowd."

Far easier it would have been then to close the eyes and let them have their own way.

"No one loves his jailer." We wonder, do most parents have to go through a period of being the detested "jailer" in their children's lives, the one barrier between them and happiness.

"No, you can't wear your best shoes to school," "You must not be out too late," "That isn't a fit place to go." These are prohibitions that do not "set" well with rising youth and all the fine theories about "reasoning together" fail to work.

It does take courage to oppose them and hold to high ideals at the cost of losing the love of the children you are trying to protect. All parents hunger for the return of their love but it usually is a question of whether they would prefer it now or a more lasting love later.

Parental love that can "endure all things" will almost surely be rewarded in the course of time with the gratitude of those who will say "Once I thought you were pretty severe but now I am thankful."

Children and Books

Encourage your child to read. Begin early with picture books and teach him to love them. Later he should have his own shelf of treasured books.

Books give a child a good vocabulary; teach him to reason and think, pass on to him the wisdom of the ages, make him familiar with print so that he can follow printed instructions, instil in him a love of beauty such as permeates good literature, give him noble ideals, help him to cultivate a strong character, inspire him, make him happy, occupy hours which might otherwise be mis-spent; give him a feeling of companionship as he reads the thoughts of others so that he need never be lonely if he has a good book, transport him to other scenes and make him share the feelings and experiences of others and make him informed. Select good books. They are just as interesting. There is no use wasting time on trash.

Seven Layer Dish

"I wish my wife could have the recipe of this good dish" said a member of the Exchange club when he reached for the second helping of a hearty dinner-in-one-dish last Wednesday. Mrs. Howard Green was the cook who made it, the original recipe coming from Mrs. A. E. Fuller.

This dish would make an excellent picnic lunch and could be carried hot.

In the bottom of a large baking dish place the following ingredients in order: 1 inch of sliced potatoes, thin layer of onions, layer of sliced carrots, 2 cups cooked rice, small can of peas, 1 lb. of pork sausages. Pour over all 1 can of tomato soup with small quantity of water. Season to taste.

Bake 1½ hours at 350 degrees. Pork chops, hamburger or other meat may be substituted for the sausage.

Vegetable Salad

1 pkg. of lemon jello
1 pint chopped cabbage
4 or 5 medium sized carrots
1 small bottle of stuffed olives
1 tablespoon vinegar.

Let jello cool until it starts to set. Add the cabbage, carrots, olives and vinegar and let set.

N. C. SCHRADER, JR. TELLS OF TRIP TO CANADIAN WILDS

Literally wild tales about a wild country were brought back by Nelson C. Schrader, Jr. and his sister, Reva, when they returned last week from the Grennan camp in the Canadian back country, 100 miles from Sault Ste. Marie.

Twenty-five miles from the nearest town—Thessalon, Ont.—Nelson, Reva, Evelyn Grennan, and her Long Island guest, June Allen, saw nature in the raw. The girls went up a week earlier than Nelson. Leaving their car at Thessalon, they were taken by a guide through a desolate forest, poled up a winding stream and across a lake to the camp.

While at the camp they saw bear, deer, moose and many other species of wild life. At night they went to sleep to the music of howling wolves. The girls caught fish and Nelson, Jr. brought home fantastic tales as to the number of husky pike and trout that he couldn't keep away from his bait.

While there they visited two old lumber camps, abandoned many years ago, and another camp abandoned only recently. Completely away from civilization, its ringing telephones and glaring headlines, their one concern, according to Reva, was about the Detroit Tigers.

VILLAGE EMPLOYES REPAIR SIDEWALKS OF RESIDENTS HERE

Village employes, under the direction of Street Commissioner Earl H. Montgomery, are busy this summer repairing sections of sidewalk about Northville.

Sections already finished are on South Rogers in front of the L. D. Tipton home, and on Plymouth avenue in front of Norton's beer garden.

Workmen are now completing sections of sidewalk on West Dunlap street near the Methodist church, on South Rogers street at Thayer boulevard, on Carpenter avenue at the corner of Lake street, and on East Main street in front of the new apartment building of Foster Van Zile.

The village will repair any portion of sidewalk, furnishing all the labor for the job free of charge, according to Mr. Montgomery, with the property owners paying only for the materials.

Many more of these jobs are expected before the summer is over.

MISS McLOUGHLIN IS ACTING EDITOR OF JONESVILLE PAPER

From "school ma'am" to editor is quite a jump, but Miss Alice McLoughlin of Sturgis, was fully equal to the new responsibility placed upon her when Editor and Mrs. Larry Towe left her in charge of their paper, The Jonesville Independent, while they take a vacation for one week.

This is what the Independent says of Miss McLoughlin:

"In our place will be Miss Alice Ja McLoughlin, usually known in these parts as Alice Mac. We'll not try to list all her abilities and accomplishments. However, she is: Newspaper woman; school teacher, foreign traveller, lecturer, feature writer and all around good scout."

Miss Alice is well-known here visiting often in the home of her brother, J. N. McLoughlin.

RESERVOIR PLANS AWAIT RECEIPT OF LOAN AGREEMENT

Plans for Northville's proposed covered reservoir were at a stand-still this week as village officials awaited the receipt of the loan and grant agreement, which is expected at any time now.

When this has been duly executed, signed and sent back to the PWA authorities, it will be only a short time until the project can be started here, Dr. Burkart, village president, said.

Dr. Burkart with other officials made a trip Thursday, July 18, to the office of Dean Mortimer E. Cooley, state PWA director, in Detroit, regarding procedure of plans, but was not given much satisfaction, he said.

Official notice that the Northville reservoir project had been approved was received here last week from Dean Cooley.

SWIMMING POOL IS ATTRACTIVE ADDITION TO SHAPIRO ESTATE

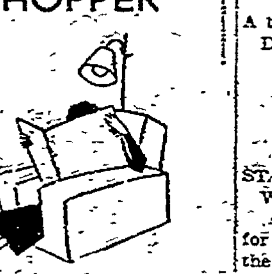
Set in a background of apple trees, the newly completed swimming pool is an attractive addition to the "Applecrest" farm-estate of Nate Shapiro on the Base Line road, and is also a very popular place on these warm days.

It is situated directly in front of the house and on a slightly lower level, terraced lawn and stone steps leading down to it. The whole effect, including beach chairs around the sides of the pool, reminds one of the finest Long Island estates. Since being opened it has been in constant use.

Better join the rest and exhibit at the Northville Wayne County Fair, Aug. 21-24.

Fair officials are waiting for your fair exhibit.

THE RECORD SHOPPER



By ELEANOR BLUM

Editor's Note: Information as to where the articles mentioned in this column can be purchased in Northville, can be secured by inquiring at The Record office.

Today let's talk about two things that can either be prosaic and uninteresting, or stimulating, whichever you choose to make them. They are: meal-times and grocery stores.

So starting with just the first course of a dinner let's see what the grocery stores have to offer to help you out.

With maid service or without, the hostess nowadays can make her work light by a little planning. Without maid service, canapes and cocktails can be served in the living room, adding to the grace and charm of your dinner, and eliminating one course from the table service.

Mix the lime rickey that your grocer has with some orange juice, canned or otherwise, and in this combination drop seedless green grapes, when in season, and fresh red raspberries. It makes a very attractive cocktail. Or combine ginger ale with any fresh fruit juice. Your guests will enjoy the tangy taste. For even less work, tomato juice, pineapple, or grapefruit juice is [illegible] good. And for rich color and taste, nothing can beat plain grape juice.

Now, what to serve with these cocktail drinks? Grocers now carry all manner and shape of crackers [illegible] if kept sealed, will keep from [illegible] time and cost you very little. [illegible] lemon butter made [illegible] by adding lemon juice to [illegible]. With the number of prepared cheese spreads on sale now, [illegible] should have difficulty in making attractive canapes. Cream cheese with ground nuts, small crackers with jelly, [illegible] so appetizing.

Slightly hard boiled egg, sliced on crackers and garnished with slices of stuffed olives, will look regal. And if you want to spend a little more money and add to the variety of the canapes—there is one Northville store that stocks caviar and anchovies.

If you'd prefer to serve your whole dinner in the dining room, there are even more choices. But no matter where you serve, carry the color choice of your decorations to your appetizer. You'd be surprised how much notice these things.

Shrimp, crab meat, lobster, and oyster cocktails are all popular, and easily prepared. You can even buy the cocktail sauces already made up. Oyster sauces and bitters are particularly good and can be bought here.

Try a slice of pineapple topped by an apricot and garnished with a maraschino cherry. Or any of the fresh fruits—wedges of pineapple in season, strawberries on the stem, served with a little powdered sugar are delicious.

A tomato surprisingly stuffed with a half hard boiled egg will be a treat for your guests. For the table you can have individual canapes or they can be served on a large platter arranged with an eye to design. Individual canapes are usually made larger—sometimes on rounds of toast, rusks, or zwieback.

Berries smashed into cream cheese and spread on graham crackers will help you carry out your color schemes. And that's important—make use of the olives, red and green maraschino cherries, and other canned garnishes that you'll find in the grocery—looks are important, even in food, for remember the old saying "the eye is bigger than the stomach."

The fair board made a special plea for fair exhibits. Are you planning yours?

'Boy, I Can't Express It,' Says Rita Happily of Alaska, But She Does

couver. Although it was a rather misty morning, we took some pictures of a navy fleet anchored in the harbor.

We stopped at Victoria for a sight-seeing bus ride. It is a place I shall never forget, partly because of its beautiful flower gardens, impossible to describe, and partly because not once did I see two streets meet at a correct right angle.

About six o'clock in the evening we reached Vancouver and boarded the Prince Rupert for the real Alaskan journey. Our feelings were a mixture of eagerness to be off and the knowledge that the sooner we left, the sooner we'd be back. We weren't in such a hurry for that.

The first port of call was Ocean Falls. Its paper mill is its chief occupation. In fact, the mill seems to be Ocean Falls. There are two automobiles in the whole town of plank streets and sidewalks—one is the fire engine and the other an ambulance. It is a pretty place, with well kept homes painted white, green and brown, small but velvety lawns, surrounded with flowers.

The next day we stopped at Prince Rupert and made our first call in Alaska—Ketchikan.

On July 18, we visited the Taku glacier. If there haven't been too many boats near the glacier may "perform." Each boat blows its whistle and sometimes breaks off a huge piece of ice, sending it splashing into the ocean. However, the Rupert was too soon after the Princess Alice and Taku remained solemnly invulnerable to whistle and siren. So a slightly disappointed group proceeded on to Juneau. Here we visited another glacier—Mendenhall—and came back with our shoes full of glacier dust and sand.

The next day we docked at Skagway and took the train for our two-day side trip on what is known as the West Taku Arm. Then we started the return trip. We touched the same ports, with the addition of Fort Haines and Wrangell, down as far as Vancouver; here we said good-bye to the ship and many of our friends and took the train for Lake Louise. At this glorious vacation spot, five of us climbed the "Big Beehive" and at Banff, the next day two friends and I climbed three fourths of the way up Hot Springs mountain.

After that, the trip home was less eventful. We said good-bye to a good many more friends in Milwaukee and again when we arrived in Chicago. At twelve-thirty—when I was already asleep—we left Chicago on the last leg of our journey home. After all, if you must stop sometime, home isn't such a bad place to see after being about six thousand miles away.

'VAGABOND KING' TO BE PRESENTED AT OPERA UNDER STARS

"The Vagabond King," most stirring of operettas, will come to life in a blaze of glory and splendor on the mammoth stage at Navin Field. Opera Under the Stars has selected this ever popular musical success as its next week attraction to open on Monday, August 5.

The leading role in "The Vagabond King," that of Francois Villon, will be played by one of the country's outstanding tenors, Paul Keast. Mr. Keast took Dennis King's place in the original company and has played this famous role over one thousand times.

"The Vagabond King" as most know, is based on the story "If I Were King" by Justin McCarthy. Rudolph Friml, composer of "Rose Marie" and many other successes, wrote some of his greatest melodies for this production. Among the favorite songs are "Song of the Vagabonds," "Only a Rose," "Some Day," "Love For Sale" and "Tomorrow."

The story is of Villon who is an educated and gay, devil-may-care leader of a band of thieves in the days of Louis IV. He falls in love with Lady Katherine, a beautiful attendant at the King's court. As a result, he finds himself in a rather embarrassing position. Circumstances evolve and he finally finds himself rewarded with the kingship for a day, so much for the story which is in itself a most intriguing and thrilling romance.

The Opera Under the Stars performances are given nightly, rain or shine, at 8:30 at Navin Field, and all of the seats are reserved. The extremely low admission prices enable all to have an opportunity to see the great musical productions which are being presented this summer. There are over fifteen hundred seats as low as twenty-five cents.

FAIR BOOK — 1888 VINTAGE BROUGHT IN BY MRS. WICK

A 47-year-old fair book—one announcing the fourth annual fair of the Plymouth Fair Association—was brought to The Record office last week by Mrs. H. Wick, 439 Yerkes avenue.

The book announces that admission tickets are 25 cents for adults, and ten cents for children under 12 years. Family tickets are $1, but the book warns they are valid only during the fair. These family tickets are good for four members of the family each day, but are not to include adult sons, married daughters or hired help. No family ticket will be sold after Tuesday of fair week, the book admonishes.

That year the Plymouth fair, a forerunner of the Northville Wayne County Fair, was held Sept. 25, 26, 27, and 28, on the fairgrounds in Plymouth. The folks of 1888 flocked to the celebration, declare old timers who remember that event, and each day was a success.

"Liberal Premiums," states the fair book, which was done in no such gay colors as the ones this year, will be given in every department. There were 12 departments for exhibitors.

The booklet contains such advertisements as "The Plymouth Breech Loading Rifle—marvel of the nineteenth century—only $2.85." The book contains many displays by harness companies, horse dealers and the like, and on one page the postmaster, W. J. Burrow, advertises that his news stand "is the place to buy books, periodicals and stationery— and also a choice line of cigars."

The old fair book is in The Record office on display.

BETTER MAKE HAY WHILE THE SUN SHINES—

(Eaton Rapids Journal)

Strong, able bodied men (and women) who have been on the welfare and refused to work, resting in confidence that the Uncle Samuel or some other governing body will supply them with the necessities of life the coming winter, are certainly due for a fall unless they get busy while the opportunity presents itself and work and lay in a store of supplies for the long cold days ahead.

Uncle Sam has notified all states and municipalities that all federal aid will be cut off November 1. With each community looking after its own, there is certain to be people who will be living on the slimmest of fare, with all fancy brands of eatables cut out next winter. So we are instructed to inform these people what to expect.

Right at the present time there are hundreds of farmers begging for help in the harvest fields, and cannot get it. Most of these fellows demand 50c an hour or more and the farmer can't pay it. Rather than work for less they loaf. But it's their funeral. With abundance of everything this year, nearly every family could lay in a winter's supply that would keep them from starving to death. The taxpayer has revolted in Eaton Rapids, judging from what we hear on the streets, due to the high summer tax rate, and the slogan is going to be "sink or swim" from now on.

The Lord helps those who try to help themselves. We are of the opinion that even He is disgusted with the attitude of some of the people.

THE TALK OF THE TOWN

BY HARRISON CHANDLER

Dear Public: This will reach you from a beautiful spot over in the Allegheny mountains of Pennsylvania. We are in Hollidaysburg—the name probably means nothing to you—and it is situated in a valley surrounded by these picturesque mountain ranges.

Besides being attractive, it has the distinction of having been once a sort of headquarters for Indians. In plain view from our window we can see "Chimney Rocks," a rock formation on the side of a mountain, which served as an Indian lookout point because it commands a view of the entire valley. A huge chair has been carved out there, and it makes an impressive sight. It is one of the first places that visitors are taken to.

This is our home too since mother and so many other relations are here. It has been two years since we were here last, and we felt like a prodigal son when we arrived. They are all treating us royally. And after all, there is no place like home.

Pennsylvania too, we have found, has received heavy rains, and the farmers will have heavy crops. We remember hearing how rapidly the corn has grown this year in Michigan near Northville. Here is seems to be even farther advanced. We visited other friends and relatives near Beaver Falls, Pa., over the week-end, and there we enjoyed the first corn of the year for that vicinity. We had stopped at a farm and saw it picked. That is a good sign. But in Michigan we saw as we travelled that the corn was six and seven feet high everywhere too.

"OPTIMIST" IS THE WORD

(Covina Citizen, Covina, Calif.)

We had the impression that the poorest buy on the market these days is stocks. Stock certificates make nice wallpaper for baby's bedroom . . . but our impression was rudely shaken when we read that, since 1929 the number of shareholders has grown approximately:

—from 450,000 to 680,000 for The American Telephone and Telegraph Company . . .

—from 135,000 to 330,000 for General Motors . . .

—from 115,000 to 190,000 for U. S Steel . . .

—from 50,000 to 194,000 for General Electric.

Looks as if some people just won't take this depression seriously.

STORES OF BETTER VALUES

(Charles S Seed in the Rochester Clarion)

The stores that advertise are stores of better values. This has been conclusively proved to consumers who patronize stores that advertise.

The very fact that they invite you to come and see the newest offerings at reasonable prices is evidence that they have faith in their stocks as the acme of perfection in quality goods.

The advertisements present the opportunity to find what you want when you want it because stores that advertise are not alone stores of better values—they sell seasonable merchandise that people want.

Advertised goods appeal to the eye and they will invariably be found as good as they look.

Advertised goods offer the ways and means of buying more for less because advertising reduces the cost of selling and therefore lessens the cost of doing business.

There is nothing lacking which the most particular buyer might wish in the stores that are persistent advertisers.

'THE GUESTS ARRIVE' LEADS WEEK'S LIST

"The Guests Arrive," by Cecil Roberts heads the list of books suggested for summer reading this week.

Roberts' book is a novel of a picturesque old Venetian fort converted into a hotel by its charming girl owner; the results are dramatic. It is described in The Boston Transcript as "as romantic and exciting a story as any which Mr Roberts has written."

Others suggested for an early reading are: "The Provincial Lady in London," by Deland; "Valley of Adventure," by Gregory; "Oil for the Lamps of China," by Hobart; "Jonah's Gourd Vine," by Hurston; "Modern Swedish Short Stories;" "Mary Christmas," by Chase; "Up the Years From Bloomsbury," by Arliss; and "Goodbye Mr. Chips," by Hilton.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.
