DINNER OPENS INSTRUCTION ON RELIGION

Dr. Leslie Bechtel Stresses Value of Religious Courses Offered

Over 150 persons attended the banquet at the Plymouth Methodist church Monday evening when the Union Leadership training school of the Baptist, Presbyterian, and Methodist churches of Newburg, Northville, Novi, and Plymouth was launched.

The Rev. P. Hay Norten, pastor of the Plymouth Methodist church, was in charge. After dinner, the Rev. Walter Nichol, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Plymouth, introduced the speaker, Dr. Leslie A. Bechtel, of the Calvary Presbyterian church of Detroit.

Dr. Bechtel gave a practical message showing the place religious education has in our day, and stressing the value of a school of religion such as is being established. He emphasized the fact that the school is not only of value to Sunday school teachers and workers, but that courses are included which are of practical value to parents and Bible students.

After the address, the Rev. H. G. Whitfield explained the nature of the courses to be taught, after which over sixty people registered for classes.

The four courses which are being offered include: a New Testament course, to be taught by the Rev. Dr. Chapman, director of student work in the Baptist church in Ann Arbor. His study is described as "an outline course of the New Testament," giving the background out of which the New Testament grew, and the main features of its message.

"The Principles of Teaching" to be offered under the Rev. Harry J. Lord, will deal with the aims and objectives of the teaching of religion, and specifically with the problems that teachers meet in the classroom.

Mrs. Hazel I. Leonard, director of the Detroit Council of Religious Education, will conduct a course in the "Study of Early and Middle Adolescence," which will be a study in psychology with the aim of better understanding boys and girls of junior and senior high school age.

The fourth course, under Miss Lottie Livingston of Detroit, will be on "Primary Methods and Materials." It will be especially for teachers of beginners and primary children, showing the materials available for the purpose and how best to teach children of that age.

Mr. Lord, in explaining the courses, emphasized the fact that they are open to everyone. "Parents especially should be able to profit by the study of their children and their problems. In fact," he said, "the course studies should be of interest to anyone who desires a through knowledge of the bible."

Meeting for the first time Thursday, Oct. 24, the school will continue to meet on five consecutive Thursdays with sessions beginning at 7:30 and ending at 9:30 p. m.

HENRY FORD HERE FOR INSPECTION OF BUILDING WORK

Henry Ford visited Northville Monday afternoon to inspect the building of the new plant here.

The Northville Ford building program goes ahead rapidly and the pouring of part of the first floor will begin today, it is expected. Vast amounts of reenforcing steel is in place over the lumber retaining forms on the portion of the building nearest the present plant.

A huge crane has been moved to the building site and will be used as soon as the cement floors are suitable for the structural steel to be placed in position. The boom on this crane is 75 feet high. Undoubtedly great interest will be found in this process of placing the steel in position.

The new building is understood to replace the present Ford plant and it was announced that it will be ready for occupancy by January 1, 1936. In addition to the new plant built along modern Ford lines and embodying the very latest in design and construction there will be a water wheel installed at the eastern end of the building, the water flowing back to an artificial lake between the building and the railroad right-of-way.

CHILDREN'S STORY HOUR TO BE HELD THIS SATURDAY

New Feature Introduced By Mrs. V. J. Lumley At Library

Mrs. V. J. Lumley will introduce a new library feature for this year when she conducts her first story hour next week for children in the first three grades. The program of story-telling will begin at 10 a. m. next Saturday, Oct. 26, in the library.

Last year a similar experiment was tried when a Wayne county librarian conducted just one such class in Northville. Her session, which drew almost 80 children was designed to include children of the first six grades. This year, according to Mrs. Bergie Larson, head librarian, the story hours will be held as often as possible.

Mrs. Lumley has had extensive training in dramatics and reading experience in work similar to that that she will do next week. She is temporarily connected with the library staff.

METHODIST HARVEST FESTIVAL SET FOR FRIDAY, OCTOBER 25

Northville will have another big harvest event when the Methodist church has its annual harvest home festival next Friday, Oct. 25, in the church house. Festivities will begin at 4 p. m. and continue throughout the evening.

The harvest will be celebrated at the festival by the sale of farm products, canned fruits, and baked goods.

Committees have been appointed and are working steadily on the plans. Chairmen of the various activities include: Mrs. Charles Delphi, in charge of the cake sale; Mrs Otis Tewksbury, home-made bread, Miss Ethel Seeley, cookies; Mrs Howard Greer, canned goods.

The committee in charge of the collection of the farm goods includes: Roy Clark, D. J. Stark, Charles Dennne, Dana Briggs, G. H. Lockhart, and Maurice Lapham. The committee will call for any donations of vegetables or apples that are offered. Calls should be made to Mr Lapham or to the parsonage.

The Service League will aid the festival by serving supper, beginning at 5:30 p. m. and serving lunches throughout the evening.

TO USE OLD SITE FOR SLOAN HOME

Another Marvin Sloan homestead will stand in the place occupied by the house which burned to the ground Sept. 6. Having saved enough of the foundations of the old building to start on, Mr. Sloan will move another house which stands on the grounds to the original site.

Repairs have been completed on the foundations and the basement is being enlarged. It is on this base that Mr. Sloan will move the other house, which was formerly situated about 20 rods away. The old house occupied the better position of the two houses, facing the main road.

The house which was destroyed was seventy years old and carried very little insurance.

ROTARIANS HEAR ROGERS TALK ON EGYPT TRAVELS

Costly Coffins Containing King Tut's Mummy Are Described

Word pictures of travels in Egypt by a fellow member, Charles E. Rogers, was the program at Rotary at Tuesday's luncheon in the Presbyterian church house. In discussing Egypt Mr. Rogers mentioned the fact that that country is the oldest in the world.

The description of the tomb and coffin of King Tut was an interesting part of the talk. Mr. Rogers mentioned the fact that King Tut's mummy is buried in three separate coffins, the outer one being of wood, varnished. The second coffin is of a silver cover while the third or inner coffin is of solid gold, the gold being laid closely to the body following the contour so that the facial characteristics are shown in bold relief.

The women of Egypt are not so different from the women of any country in their ideals of dress and adornment, declared Mr. Rogers. They wear jewelry and use powder and rouge just as they do in Northville.

Egypt, declared Mr. Rogers "is really divided into two rather distinct parts, the north containing the fertile and famed valley of the Nile while the south is mountainous and much less the rich productive area.

Mr Rogers told of his interest in their trip across the great Arabian desert. They travelled on a road built by the British from the Red Sea to Cairo. "It seems," stated Mr Rogers, "that this road is made passable by the heaping of the desert sand and the generous use of oil to hold the sand in place."

In talking of the pyramids Mr Rogers mentioned that some of the stones in the pyramids are as large as eight feet in length and five feet in height. The pyramids were of course used as tombs.

Rotarian H. C. Townsend of East Dearborn was the guest of the day.

Announcement was made by Father Joseph Schuler of the ladies' night program on next Tuesday night.

JOHN LIGHT DIES AT MAYBURY SAN.

John Light, 42 years old, died at the Maybury sanatorium Tuesday. Mr. Light had been back at the sanatorium only one day before his death.

A resident of Northville, he and his family lived at 527 Horton avenue. He leaves a wife, Frances, and four children: Margaret, 18 years old; Frank, 13; Lena, 12; and William, 11.

Mr. Light was first a patient at the sanatorium in 1923. He left there in '25 and returned for another four year period in 1931. He had been at home since April until his return to Maybury Monday.

Roof With Gables and Pitches Adds Charm To Angove House Designed Along The French Normandy Lines

Construction of the Angore model home is rapidly taking form, stated Arthur S. Storm, general contractor, Wednesday. The roof is framed in and shows the design of the home which is of the French Normandy type.

The roof abounds in gables and the many pitches add charm to the appearance. The low setting roof gives the finished home an appearance of grace that is not accomplished where the normal square type of construction is followed, declared Mr. Storm.

The room partitions, which are now installed, show the sizes of the rooms and the convenient location of window and door openings. Mr. Storm further stated that particular attention had been given in the planning to cross ventilation in the sleeping and living rooms. In addition the openings for windows and doors have been spaced to accommodate the maximum amount of furniture on clear wall space.

This home provides a spacious center hall with graceful open stairway to the second floor. The stairway is provided with a continuous wrought iron rail.

Instead of starting at the bottom and working to the top Mr. Storm's story of the model home started with the most recent accomplishments and then referring to the sub-structure said that the building rests on poured concrete

APPLE HARVEST GOOD THIS YEAR

Local Fruit Growers Have Large Yield; Varieties Alternate

According to the fruit farmers of this vicinity the apple crop will be much better this year than it was last. Favorable weather which has kept the ground moist during all of the season has assured farmers in the fruitbelt of a good harvest and Northville will have its share of delicious fruit.

In the opinion of Jacob Fuerst, who owns a large fruit farm on the South Lyon road, the crop in general is better than last year's. "For the past six weeks" says Mr Fuerst, "we have been taking a great deal of fruit into the city markets. I don't know just how much we have harvested, but it has been a large yield. The only varieties," he continued, "that are not up to standard are the Steele's Reds and the Northern Spies; they seem a little light."

Situated in the fruit belt that extends across the section of the state, Northville citizens are able to obtain the choice fruits of the season right from the farmers. Within a radius of two or three miles of the limits there are several fine orchards at which it is possible to obtain any of the numerous delicious tasting apples for which Michigan is famous. Orchard owners have been busy picking their fine crop of Delicious, Duchess, Wealthies, Spitzenbergs, Northern Spies and Snow apples do not on only a few.

At the orchards of some of the prominent growers, pickers have been busy for the past month and are now in the midst of one of the best harvests in recent years. George Simmons, Fred and Ralph Foreman, the Gibson orchards, Glenn Salow, Jacob Fuerst, Henry Hills and the Hamilton orchards are all reporting more orders for fruit and

EXCHANGE CLUB HEARS C. PERRY, REPUBLIC HEAD

Ford Institution Attempts To Make Good Citizens of Delinquents

"The Ford Republic's work is to help delinquent boys become good American citizens," Charles Perry, head of the institution, declared in his speech before members of the Exchange club Wednesday noon.

Mr. Perry explained that the boys are sent to them by the Juvenile court. "Usually they come from poor home environments and are without the fundamental knowledge of how to be law-abiding citizens. The Ford Republic," he said, "is not a penal institution but a self-governing body."

Upon their arrival, the boys are enrolled and classified and started on their way as members of the Ford Republic. As citizens of the republic they are paid for their work, and in turn pay for what they wear, what they eat, and where they sleep. The heads of this unique organization feel that the money apportioned to them, and the honor marks that they earn give the boys an incentive to learn the ways of right and orderly living.

The extent of the good done is, of course, not easy to compute and must be drawn almost entirely from the repeated occasions on which the boys who were at the Republic several years ago return to express their appreciation for what the Republic has done for them," Mr. Perry concluded.

James F. Thompson will speak to the club next week

FRIENDS RECEIVE WORD OF DEATH OF MRS. H. S. JAMISON

Word was received here this week of the death of Mrs. H. S. Jamison, formerly of Northville.

Mrs. Jamison was Miss Orta Perkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Perkins. She lived in Northville ten or twelve years ago in what is now known as the Joseph Hoehl home on Randolph street. A very talented woman, she had countless friends in town.

She left Northville to make her home in Louisville, Ky.

A clipping from a Florida paper gives the account of her death as follows:

"Mrs. H. Stuart Jamison, 49, of Miami Beach died Saturday in Honolulu while on a world cruise with Mr. Jamison and Mrs. Oscar Thompson, also of Miami Beach.

She was taken off a steamer on Sept. 18 and removed to Honolulu hospital where she did not recover from an emergency operation.

Mrs. Jamison, daugater of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert W. Perkins, 3759 Pine Tree drive, Miami Beach, was married here last spring. An airplane flight to South America preceded the western cruise of the Jamisons.

Before her marriage to Mr. Jamison, a retired official of the International Shoe company, St. Louis, she had been a winter visitor here for several years.

She and Mr. Jamison selected a lot in Miami Beach on which to build a residence before their departure.

The body will be cremated in Honolulu.

Mrs. Jamison also leaves a brother, Dr. R. A. Perkins, Detroit, and two sisters, Mrs. I. T. Axton, Louisville, and Mrs. J. W. Eckhart, LaGrange, Ill.

HUNTING IS GOOD IF LICENSES ARE ANY INDICATION

"No Hunting" Signs Vie With Permits In Contest Over Game

Hunting this year should be good if the number of hunting licenses issued in Northville is any indication. Neil Hannaford has already sold 500, and expects his total sales before the season is over to total 700. This will be 200 in excess of the number sold last year.

Shells also are a good indication of the hunting conditions, Mr. Hannaford claims, and in one day, last Saturday, he says that he sold more shells than during the entire season last year.

Not only are the hunters more plentiful this year, but the number of farmers who don't want to meet the hunters seem to have increased. The Record office has already sold approximately 200 signs and, from the number of inquiries, expects to sell about 100 more signs reading "No Hunting or Trespassing."

So it seems that the lives of the pheasants, squirrels, partridges and rabbits here and up north depend on which wins in the competition between The Record "No Hunting" signs and the hardware's hunting licenses.

VILLAGE PUZZLED OVER WPA GRANT FOR 'HOT HOUSE'

Considerable perplexity was present in Northville yesterday morning when the Detroit Free Press announced that Northville's WPA "hot house" project had been approved. Dr. H. H. Burkart, president of the village, said that the sum announced bore a resemblance to the Boy Scout building expenditure, but that he had received no word regarding any WPA plans at all.

The article reads: "Harry L. Pierson, Works Progress Administrator for Michigan, has been notified that Federal funds will be made available immediately for the state projects which total more than $250,000. The Federal government has provided $214,343 for the work. Other agencies have pledged $35,656."

In the list of projects that follows Northville is quoted as having been okayed for "complete construction and improvement of hot house. Federal funds, $1,142; sponsors contribution, $659."

Other local authorities contacted expressed the belief the article was a misprint and that it probably referred to the Boy Scout building project. However, nothing can be determined until the village gets word through the Works Progress Administration. Anyway everyone is agreed that the village can't building a hot house.

SCHOOLS DO PART IN FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Northville schools assisted in the observance of Fire Prevention week last week in accordance with the universal request that schools take the lead in showing the fire problem to the younger generation.

Circulars were sent around to all of the classrooms and most teachers had special board displays to remind the pupils of the danger which lies in fire.

NORTHVILLE STARTS CIVIC ASSOCIATION

Adopt Constitution, By-laws At Monday Meeting; Elect Board

An organization to be known as The Northville Civic Association, the much-discussed and long looked-for civic organization, was launched Monday night in a meeting of citizens held in the Marshall Herrick barber shop.

Seventeen persons (the total attendance at the meeting) carefully considered the constitution and by-laws as presented by a committee composed of Harold Bloom, Gerald Woodworth and Ivan Ely. With several changes and amendments the constitution was unanimously adopted and a board of seven directors elected.

The seventeen initial members paid the membership fee of one dollar and decided to meet again next Thursday night in the Depositors State bank. The meeting is called for 8 p. m.

The board of directors, who will have executive direction of the association, are seven in number and were selected to represent several phases of Northville life. There is one member representing the educational and cultural interest, one manufacturer, two professional men, two retail merchants and an agriculturist. The board consists of the following, R. H. Ameriman, Harold Bloom, M. C. Gunsell, Arthur Marz, Orlow G. Orth, Dr. L. W. Snow and J. Trabue. The board will convene before the meeting next Thursday and elect from their number a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer.

The membership qualifications are sufficiently broad to permit any person interested in the betterment of Northville to join by paying a one dollar membership fee and three dollars dues per year. The association's year begins January first and the annual meeting will be held the first Thursday in January.

Although several of the elected board were not present at the meeting they have all given their consent to act. Comments by the elected members are to the effect that they will gladly do whatever they can to promote the good of Northville. They express the feeling however, that it is a serious responsibility

WPA SENDS OUT PERSONAL LETTERS TO APPLICANTS

A personal letter to each of the 33,000 men and women whose applications for an administrative position with the Works Progress Administration is on file in the Wayne County headquarters was being mailed today from the offices of Harry L. Pierson, state administrator.

The letter corrects exaggerated reports that several thousand administrative jobs are still to be filled by the WPA. While stating that almost all administrative, clerical, accounting and similar positions for non-relief personnel have been filled, the letter states that "careful consideration" will be given each applicant for "any positions which will become available in the future."

John J. O'Brien, Wayne County director, points out that the WPA as a governmental agency has given an application blank to every person who requested it and that this explains the unusually large number of applications received.

The WPA letter follows:

"Because your application for a position with the Works Progress Administration has been on file in our office for some time we are writing to inform you of its status today.

"First permit us to correct the erroneous and exaggerated reports which are being circulated concerning the number of administrative jobs which the Works Progress Administration will have in Wayne County. Applicants have informed

Former Pastors of Presbyterian Church Meet at Dinner in Masonic Temple and Hear Dr. Frank Speak

It rarely happens that all of the living pastors of a church, past and present, attend the same meeting. But it happened in Ann Arbor at the Masonic Temple where the Synod of Michigan, the highest organization of the Presbyterian church in the state was holding its annual session.

When the Reverend Harold G. Whitfield and Charles Dubuar seated themselves at the table to enjoy the banquet which was to precede the program for the evening they found that three former pastors of the Presbyterian church were also there. Representing a quarter of a century of ministerial personnel the Reverends Jerome E. Webber, now of Sturgis, Edward V. Belles, now of Richland, and Frank P. Knowles, of Allen Park, and the present pastor, Rev. Whitfield, exchanged news of the church that had once been their domain. And Mr. Dubuar who has been an active member of the Presbyterian church for more than twenty-five years was able to supply any information concerning the past history of the church. They enjoyed the banquet together and listened to the main address of the evening. "The speech was one of the best I have heard," said Mr. Whitfield.

Dr. Robert W. Frank, a member of the faculty of the University of Chicago addressed the gathering his subject was entitled "World Fellowship or Chaos." Dr. Frank gave a very complete and enlightening address in which he gave a detailed word picture of Dean Inge of St. Paul's Cathedral.

Among other remarks taken from the observations of the "Gloomy Dean" as he is known, Dr. Frank stated that the London Dean called democracy the most dangerous form of government in the world today. The reason advanced by the St. Paul Bishop was that democracy allowed everyone in the country to have a part to make a contribution.

Following Thursday's meetings the session will adjourn until next year.

Sore Muscles and Skinned Legs Are Hang-overs of Bicycle Polo Players After Friday Night Game

The bicycle polo game held Friday night on Center street netted skinned legs and sore muscles in addition to a great deal of amusement to a large cheering gallery. Although the night was the coldest experienced so far this fall an enthusiastic audience followed every point of the contest.

It seems impossible to determine who, if anyone, won the game although a loving cup or something was displayed as the trophy to be awarded the victor. Serious questioning of the teams as well as the broadcasting executives failed to disclose either the score or information as to the final resting place of the trophy. Orlow Owen, captain of the Main street Whozits, when interviewed stated that he knows that his team won by a good margin but they were unable to take possession of the cup.

Neil Hannaford, captain of the Center-street Whatzits, feels equally certain that his team was victorious but states that the scorekeeper, who was also the water boy, seems to have gotten the scores all balled up and too at one juncture the scorekeeper was pled into service for the Whozits.

Within a ten-minute period "Pat" Wilkie was seen to be playing on both sides, having originally been listed as a Whozit. One of the disappointments in the meet was the non-appearance of Doctor Burkart as referee. In his absence members of both teams alternated as referee and that may account for the muddled information available. The victorious team, whoever they are, are raring to have a challenger.

The harvest sale Friday and Saturday which was featured by the polo match Friday night, was reported as being a success and merchants state that they had good sales and many new contacts.

("Mrs. Editor's" note: This is the first time in nearly five years that the editor has not been able to write his own editorials. At our request his friend, Ray Corliss, of the Parma News, writes the following contribution. We are not sure what Mr. Baldwin will say when he reads it.)

THE NORTHVILLE EDITOR

(By Ray S. Corliss)

It is doubtful that there are any readers of this paper who know the writer. And excepting the Baldwin family the writer has no acquaintances in Northville. But in Editor "Dick" Baldwin we have a mutual friend, for he's a friend to all men.

At the request of Mrs. Baldwin I am substituting this week in the editorial column. A substitute isn't the real thing and perhaps while the editor is unable to conduct his own column readers of The Record will come to appreciate more the excellent editorials given them each week by Mr. Baldwin.

When I think of Dick Baldwin as being ill and in an Ann Arbor hospital my thoughts immediately go back several years ago when I was a patient there and your editor drove down to see me and to take me home. I remember that when I lost a brother and later a father, Mr. Baldwin and his good wife (Mrs. B. as he calls her) were among the first to call on our bereaved household. To my mind comes case after case where the Northville editorial family has gone to hospitals and sick-rooms to cheer the invalid and the injured. If there ever was a man who in a very busy life could find more time to visit the bed-ridden and leave them with a little more sunshine than Dick Baldwin, I haven't known that man.

It was some eighteen years ago that I first met Mr. Baldwin. He came to Albion while I was a high school kid and took over a boys' Sunday school class to which I belonged. Later the class was made "co-educational." Today I wonder how Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin found so much time to give to this class and its fifty and sixty boy and girl members. They were always planning nice things for us—parties at their home and "roasts" at the farm. Every member of that class knew he had a personal friend in Dick Baldwin. He helped boys out of "scrapes," he advised them regarding school and business problems, he loaned them money. Once he signed a note with me at the bank while I was working my way through college. Perhaps no one but he himself knows how many students he accommodated in that way.

Until he left Albion, some 12 years later, Mr. Baldwin continued as teacher of that "Be Square" class. Scattered across the state and in many far towns and cities today are hundreds of young men and women who feel a loyalty and devotion to "R. T." His personality, his kindness, his persistence and a genuine interest in youngsters combined to build up a class which had few equals in southern Michigan. In Albion, to belong to "Dick" Baldwin's class was an honor and there were young folks attending the Presbyterian, Lutheran, Episcopal, Baptist and other churches, who following their own Sunday morning services, hurried over to the Methodist church because they were "Be Squares."

There were few Albion college students who didn't become acquainted with Mr. Baldwin while he lived in Albion. He was a favorite speaker at "Y" meetings, "rep" meetings on the eves of football games, and many of the students visited his Sunday morning class.

Sometimes I wonder if Northville appreciates the newspaper Mr. Baldwin gives it. Knowing a little about the publishing business I can understand the effort and the planning required to turn out a newsy and good-looking newspaper. Since Mr. Baldwin has been at Northville The Record has ranked with the best of the weeklies in the state in the matter of appearance and news coverage. That is because its editor has always taken exceptional pride in whatever he undertook. When I started "on my own" as a country editor Mr. Baldwin gave considerable thought and time and advice to me. One thing he told me has always stuck. He said:

"Write your own editorials, Ray. Don't use the canned editorials so many editors run."

There are two weekly editors, whose columns I always read because they indicate thought, study and fairness in editorial opinion. One is Murl DeFoe of Charlotte. The other is Mr. Baldwin. Incidently, these two editors are warm personal friends. Both are what I term "personalized" writers, employing a sort of conversational style which makes the reader feel almost as though he were having an informal chat with the reader. Those who follow The Record editorial column know that Mr. Baldwin has very definite convictions on questions of the day and that he is not afraid to voice them.

Several weeks ago I visited the home of a mutual friend in Adrian and found the mother of the household keeping an editorial written by Mr. Baldwin. It was for her scrapbook. In all probability there are scrap books in Marlette, Quincy, Albion, Jonesville, Northville and elsewhere, California and other communities where Mr. Baldwin's papers have circulated. And without a doubt many of these books contain clippings from R. T.'s editorial columns—modern-day interpretations of the Golden Rule, little essays on friendship or the beauties of nature, advice on sane and healthy living, and words of good cheer and comfort for all people, but particularly the sick and the bereaved.

And now "Dick" Baldwin, who has been so busy publishing good newspapers, lending a helping hand here and there and visiting sick-rooms and the homes where a loved one has been lost, is himself ill. Now perhaps for the first time in his life, as he spends several weeks in bed at the direction of his physicians, he'll realize when his friends call what his visits have meant to hundreds of invalids.

Restless, tireless, impulsive — filled with vitalized energy — it is going to be mighty hard for Editor Dick to stay in bed for a half dozen weeks. His physcial and mental make-up insists that he be doing something every waking moment. Like most of us, R. T. has always been his own worst enemy and with one major fault—he refuses to relax. And that is bad for the nerves.

If a little country paper editor could preach a brief editorial to a successful editor now it would be this:

"While you must be away from your duties for the next few weeks, Editor Dick, learn to relax. Just as you used to inspire those college football boys to go out and fight give yourself a pep-talk, and fight against the inclination to worry and fret about things at the office. Forget that you have any responsibility at the shop. Your responsibility now is to yourself and your loved ones. It entails complete relaxation so that strong and fighting body of yours can 'come-back.' Northville and your readers everywhere are waiting to read more of your editorials. But we are all willing to wait patiently for your complete recovery. It is going to be harder for you to be patient, but we insist that you do."

Richard Baldwin is a fighter. He can't be downed and he won't be. He's lived a clean life and has a strong body. A few weeks of rest while he learns to temper life a little with an "I should worry" attitude and he'll be back at the editorial desk with even richer and more inspiring comment.

HUNTERS BE CAREFUL

(The Dearborn Press)

The small game season for hunters in Michigan opens next Tuesday Thereafter, seasons will open and close until late in the year. As every hunter in Michigan takes to the woods and the fields he should keep the warning of the state conservation department well in his mind: Be careful

Each fall hunting hazards become a very serious matter in Michigan, especially during the upland bird-hunting season in the lower peninsula. Tens of thousands of hunters will trek into the woods next week with their guns. One small act of carelessness may result in the death or serious injury of one or more persons

During the brief period while pheasant hunting was legal last season, the careless and reckless handling of shotguns took the lives of a dozen sportsmen and injured 18 others, some of them seriously. The accident record for the 1934-35 small-game season was 30 dead and 30 injured.

The hunter whose name may appear on the casualty list this fall is today planning his hunting trip. A firm decision to abide by the rules of caution and safety may save a life.

Be careful while hunting.

FIND BIG INCREASE IN USE OF WOOLENS

EAST LANSING, Oct. 15—Michigan flockowners will be cheered by the news that wool consumption is the largest in years, due to an increased demand for woolen blankets and for fabrics used in automobile upholstery, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

The 1935 wool clip of 16 countries that produce about two-thirds of the world's supply is 3 per cent smaller than in 1934. Active trading and rising wool prices featured the Boston market during the month ended September 15. Steady to higher prices for the remainder of 1935 are probable.

ALFALFA SEED CROP IS REPORTED SHORT

EAST LANSING, Oct. 15—Preliminary reports on the alfalfa seed crop in the United States indicate a smaller crop than last year, according to the farm crops department at Michigan State college.

Short crops means that the forehanded Michigan farmer will assure himself of a supply of adapted seed well ahead of seeding time. Short crops also mean that extra efforts are made by some persons to sell seed which is not suitable for planting in this State.

Hardy, northern grown alfalfa seed should be purchased from reliable dealers, preferably those near home who can be reached easily to make adjustments on any purchases that do not meet the buyer's approval.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE THINKING ABOUT

OUR NEUTRALITY

(Rochester, Mich., Clarion)

Experience has taught us that it is necessary for the United States government to organize and make definite plans to stay out of war overseas.

Our passive neutrality in the 1914-1916 period became a mockery because of economic participation by our nationals. International bankers and munition manufacturers in this country carried on such extensive relations with the Allies that ultimately neutrality became impossible.

The recently adopted neutrality resolution prohibits the export of arms, ammunition and implements of war to belligerent countries. In case of actual warfare, our President must forbid the export of such products to belligerents.

If this country really wants to be neutral, it must be ready to go all the way. Neutrality means we will have nothing to do with any of the countries involved. There's no such thing as non-war materials. After a country is at war, food and clothing are just as important to her as munitions. Are we prepared to withhold food and clothing?

This is a very fundamental issue. A very comprehensive list of non-exportables should be made out or the neutrality resolution will prove a mere empty gesture.

RED FLANNELS

(Chelsea Standard)

The passage of time is apt to shed a mellowing glow over incidents and objects of the past, for memory is a lopsided affair and forgetfulness a blessed convenience. As a point of illustration, consider the lowly red flannel underwear. Our grandparents eulogize the crunch of country snow underfoot but neglect to remember the honking of southbound geese that was always the signal for mother to hustle her family into winter heavies which probably felt as though they had been compounded of a mixture of barley beards and Canada thistles. The brilliantly colored flannels which our worthy grandsires affected—no one knows why the hue was crimson rather than green or orchid—began to lose their pretty blush before the end of the last century but years elapsed until the prickle was removed.

Many a student of the last generation has painful memories of the tortures inflicted upon trying to sit still while his body was being subjected to the rigors of Hades. The taking-off season — usually late March or early April—was a festival only rivaled by Christmas or Fourth of July.

Whence, we may conclude that the sublimation of the nations under attire is without doubt the greatest sociological advancement of our times.

When the Blow Falls

Year after year slips by in such smooth succession, youth into maturity, maturity into middle age. It seems that it will always be so.

Then suddenly, without warning, you come upon a signal in the road "Danger Ahead" and you wonder how you could have ever doubted the amazing sweetness of life before.

Blows do come sooner or later and the big problem is not how to avoid them but how to keep the feet firm on an unshaken faith and to be able to say

"In the fell clutch of circumstance
I have not winced nor cried aloud,
Under the bludgeonings of chance
My head is bloody, but unbowed."

There should be no particular selfish comfort in the fact that others have their troubles but it does add a little stiffness to the backbone to see how bravely others bear them.

Go to a great hospital stand in the entrance corridor and note the pained anxiety on the faces of the throng that files in to meet its fate.

Listen to the suppressed sigh of that little woman, whose elbow presses yours in the crowded elevator; see that helpless young father awkwardly carrying a small pink bundle from whose folds peer forth a pale, listless face; watch that man with both eyes blinded by bandages stagger to his chair as he is led by a nurse.

Walk down the long hall lined with many doors marked each with a number and remember that behind each of those closed doors is a case battling bravely. Now and then through an open door you may catch a glimpse of a mother or a wife sitting beside a bed smiling, though her heart may be aching, to keep up the courage of two.

A wise friend told us of the death of a beautiful young mother the other day who broke down under grief for a child whom she had lost four years before. Instead of finding some living interest in her home she had forgotten the rest of the family, and had wrapped herself in her cloak of sorrow and had shut them out.

"The trouble is," said this friend, "folks think that there is the only grief in the world. Much of sorrow is self pity which may become a habit nursed by the mourner. Life must be lived, years of it perhaps, and those who live through these sorrows are the ones who can find some interest outside themselves."

This and That—Around the Home

Before placing dishes in the oven or on the oven top to warm, put a newspaper underneath to prevent cracking.

Select a close weave, preferably of smooth texture and avoid long, loose threads on the surface when selecting materials for upholstering.

Coffee grounds, cold tea and tea leaves are excellent for mixing with the earth in flower-pots, especially for ferns.

Shoes that have become stiff and uncomfortable by being worn in the rain or that have been lying unused for some time, can be made soft and pliable by vaselinic well rubbed in with a cloth, and rubbed off with a dry one.

Soak a new tooth-brush overnight in a glass of water and it will prevent hairs coming out, and last twice as long.

Odd bits of celery may be dried in a slow oven, and will keep for weeks for flavoring soups and stews.

Place a folded newspaper underneath the ironing sheet to prevent the sheet from wrinkling.

The juice of a lemon before breakfast will often cure a bilious headache; but no sugar must be taken with it.

Put all the small pieces of soap that are left over from each cake in the house into a jar. When nearly full, pour hot water over, set in pan of boiling water and stir till soap is entirely dissolved to about thickness of honey. Pour into tin box kept for that purpose. When cold, bend sides of box so soap can be removed easily in one block. Cut into neat pieces and keep in dry place.

GROWERS ASK CHANGE IN LAW ON POTATOES

EAST LANSING, Oct. 14.—Evidence presented at the public hearing in Washington on the 1935 Potato Act resulted in the approval of the act by representatives of growers; but, with the approval, was a request that the act be amended at the next session of congress, according to R. J. Baldwin, administrator of the AAA in Michigan.

Funds to finance the potato act were to be provided for by a bill which failed to pass congress in the final days of the last session. Application was then made to the comptroller to provide the money from other funds which might be available. No funds have been provided to the present time.

The committee at Washington recommended the enforcement of the act for the allotment year which begins December 1, 1935.

The changes in the act recommended for presentation to congress as soon as it reconvenes included making the law affect only growers who produced for sale more than 50 bushels of potatoes, the requirement of an approval by vote from the growers for the continuation of the act after the marketing year which would end November 30, 1936, and to exclude the consumer from any penalties arising from the sale of potatoes in unstamped packages.

The potato act does not in any way affect either the consumption nor the sale of potatoes at the present time. Sales allotments must be made for growers before any restrictions are placed on sales. Every person interested in potatoes will be given ample notice of the establishment of such allotments.

AT NORTHVILLE CHURCHES

St. Paul's Lutheran

"Come unto Me." Matth. 11, 28.
"Learn of Me." Matth. 11, 29.
"Follow Me." Matth. 4, 19.
"Abide in Me." John 15, 4.

Here we have four great invitations of our Lord. The first requires faith. It has reference to His Saviorship. To come to Him for relief and rest from the burden of our sin and the unrest of an evil conscience—that is what He invites us to do, for there is salvation in none other. He that believeth in Him has forgiveness and peace.

The second takes us a step farther. Having accepted Christ as our Savior, we must receive Him also as our Teacher and Instructor. Our daily prayer should be: "Teach us to do Thy will, O my God." His Word must be the Lamp for our feet. His will must become our chief and highest joy and we should ever strive to observe all things He has commanded us.

The third invitation of the Lord flows out of the second. As we learn from Him, He shows us the way we must go in our discipleship. This way may lead through crosses and trials, but as long as He directs us it will be well with us

Jesus, still lead on
Till our rest be won;
And although the way be cheerless,
We will follow calm and fearless.
Guide us by Thy hand
To our fatherland.

The last invitation calls for endurance in our discipleship. We must abide in Him. He is the Vine, we are the branches. All the strength and vigor that we need for our spiritual life He supplies. He gives us as much as we need. Without Him we can do nothing; but His strength is made perfect in our weakness. Finally He will guide our footsteps through the valley of shadow of death to the Mount of Zion, the heavenly Jerusalem, where there is joy and peace forevermore.

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p 26): "Our Master taught no mere theory, doctrine, or belief. It was the divine Principle of all real being which he taught and practised. His proof of Christianity was no form or system of religion and worship, but Christian Science, working out the harmony of Life and Love."

MORE TO THE FARMER

(Pulaski County Democrat)

Government records show that fifty-five cents of every dollar spent by city consumers for ten selected articles of food went to transportation agencies, wholesalers, retailers and others, who handled the products. Only forty-five cents of the dollar were received by the farmer who produced. While this is still low, it is considerably higher than it was in June, 1932, when the farmer received only a little more than thirty-one cents out of each dollar. The ten foods considered are beef, pork, hens, butter, cheese, potatoes, flour, bread, eggs and milk. While prices for some of these have gone up others have gone down.

The United States Department of Agriculture is constantly making research studies in marketing processes with the idea of lowering the cost of distribution. Efforts are being made to organize wholesale markets more efficiently and to promote direct buying by large organizations, and the development of auction markets at country centers.

OUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

By Dr. ALLEN G. IRELAND
Dentist, Physical and Health Education
New Jersey State Department of Public Instruction

Milk—But None to Drink

"It was in a one room rural school that I first met the paradox "plenty of milk but none for children to drink."

This school was located in a productive farming district where milk could be had in abundance. But while giving medical examinations to the children, I soon discovered that something was wrong. Most of them were undersized. Their muscles were thin and stringy, the skin dry and pale. Some children were definitely undernourished. Others were on the borderline. They tired easily according to the teacher and they seemed to be listless in school work.

It was then that I learned upon inquiry that the teacher had made every effort to obtain milk for the noon lunch at school but without success. Her request was ridiculed and she was told to "forget it." But she wouldn't forget it. The situation was too serious. And she knew that success in her work of teaching depended a great deal upon the health of her pupils.

It was obvious to her, as it would have been to any observer, that these children were decidedly not in the condition or state of fitness to give their best attention and interest to learning. We conferred. It was decided to try an experiment with milk. What happened I it told in the next article of this series.

Dr. Ireland will write about "A Valuable Lesson" in next week's article.

ABOUT FARM EDUCATION

(Tuscola County Advertiser, Caro Mich.)

A few years ago, farmers felt and said that village schools were "educating their children away from the farm." To a degree that was probably so, but it has become increasingly a less forceful argument since the start of agricultural courses in our high schools, under the Smith-Hughes vocational agricultural act.

Some interesting figures have just come to our attention on this matter.

Last June, in Michigan, 1300 farm boys were graduated from the course of vocational agriculture. Of this number, 743, or more than 57 per cent remained on the farm many, of them as partners with their father and brother. Some of them have purchased farm equipment with money earned from projects carried on as 4-H Club members in the seventh and eighth grades and as agricultural students during their four years in high school. Some are managing a widowed mother's farm. Others have inherited a farm, or a part interest in a farm.

Of the 1300 graduates, 213 or 16 per cent said they were going to enter the agricultural department of M. S. C. for either the four-year course, or a short course.

Adding the 743 and the 213, we have 956 students, or 73.5 per cent, who are going to carry on in the work for which they were trained. This reflects very well on the efficiency of the teachers, and on the good sense of the students.

We believe it has been proven often during this depression that there are many worse places to be than on a farm, even with many drawbacks that a farmer's life has seemed to offer.

Certainly, these farm boys are better off on the farm than hanging around a city waiting for a few weeks' work to open up in some automobile factory!

FISH STORY

(Birmingham Eccentric)

This fish story comes direct from the General Electric Company, who sold six washers to Joe Medwick. It must be true. Joe operates a tourist attraction in lower New York State. He has a pond stocked with trout, and passing motorists may, for a small fee, select a fish which pleases their fancy, catch it with a net and then have it cooked and served. At this point the experience usually ended in disappointment, for the fish brought up in effete surroundings where there was no battle for existence, were soft and flabby—in short, sissy trout.

Joe's business was falling off rapidly until, by accident, he discovered a scientific remedy for flabby fish. One day he had gathered a batch of netting from the water's edge and rinsed it in the water. When he removed the net he discovered a trout jumping about the washing machine in a sprightly fashion. It exhibited such joyous abandon, moreover, in comparison with its brothers in the pond, that he turned on the agitator once more to give it real satisfaction. The trout accelerated its speed and seemed to prefer leaping against the water currents to swirling with them. When the fish was thrown back into the pond, it had its own ideas. It struck the water and was off like a flash, up, down, and crosswise, until the placid waters were transformed into a sea of tiny white caps and brother trout were scurrying for safety. Then the bit of spotted dynamite swirled into shore, came to a spray-raising stop at its owner's feet, and with wiggles and jumps and imploring eyes begged for another turn at the washing machine. (We quote the story.)

Now, all of Medwick's trout are exercised systematically, and because he has the gamest trout in the state his business is booming.

Leaders to Attend First Home Economics Meeting—

Mrs. Marshall Herrick and Mrs. William Liebetreu will attend the first meeting of the year of the leaders of the various extension groups studying home economics under specialists from Michigan State college. Miss Emma DuBord will head the group of teachers who will talk to the leaders, who will in turn take the lessons back to their home groups.

Northville's leaders will meet with others interested in the clothing project which they have adopted at 10 a. m. Thursday in the Dearborn library.

The group here chose the subject of clothing believing that the woman who does much home sewing usually finds her greatest difficulty is in making garments to fit well and having them comfortable without loss of fashion. To aid in these two objectives, the women will learn how to make a well-fitted foundation pattern by which commercial patterns or ready-made garments can be checked or altered.

In this project, such a pattern is cut of cloth and correctly fitted to each woman. In making it, she learns principles of fitting which apply to children's or adult's clothing. The pattern is proved by making a dress of it. The cost of the course is material for a dress of silk, rayon or cotton, three and one half yards of firm unbleached muslin, and a commercial pattern.

The date for the initial meeting of the entire Northville group, at which Mrs. Herrick and Mrs. Liebetreu will report has not yet been set.

Methodist Sunday School Enjoys Social Evening Friday—

One of the most interesting evenings in its history was enjoyed by the members of the Methodist Sunday school Friday when a company of 85 sat down by classes to a co-operative supper in the church house.

Each class vied with the others in making its table attractive, the prizes going to the girls' class, taught by Mrs. Alec Rennie, the Cobblithan class of young women, of which Mrs. H. J. Lord is teacher, won second prize although the judges looked with favor upon the table of the C. I. C. boys' class which was gay with Hallowe'en decorations. Miss Mable Chamberlain is their teacher. The superintendent, D. J. Stark, presented the prizes.

A program of stunts was put on by each class in succession. The last day of school was realistically enacted by Mrs. Rennie's girls and the lively C. I. C. boys put on a "spooky" scene while their teacher read Riley's "And the goblins'll get you." Loraine Lapham represented Mrs. John Litsenberger's class in a piano selection.

The evening closed with the singing of "Blest Be the Tie," while the company formed a large circle around the room. The pastor, Rev. H. J. Lord, pronounced the benediction.

In the gymnasium an informal reception was tendered the teachers who were introduced by the retiring acting president, Mrs. Eber Ward Lester.

Ruth Mary Mills and Bonny Rink played piano numbers.

Superintendent R. H. Ameman spoke briefly anticipating a very promising year in the schools. Principal Paul B. Thompson and Miss Selma Jarvis also gave short talks.

At an attractive table Mrs. Lester and Mrs. W. F. Chapman presided at the coffee urns and the company was served ice cream, cake and coffee.

With the following newly-elected officers the year is expected to be most profitable for this organization: president, Mrs. C. B. Washburne; vice president, Mrs. R. W. Labbitt; secretary, Miss Helen Leonardson; treasurer, Mrs. Cyril Frid. The program committee appointed will be Mrs. R. T. Baldwin, Mrs. E. L. Mills.

Northville Woman's Club Hears Russian Baroness—

Laying aside all unnecessary preliminaries, the Northville Woman's club gave itself up to the enjoyment of a very fascinating talk by the Baroness Olga Von Roenne-Benning, who addressed them at their first regular meeting Friday afternoon.

The story of the Baroness' life held her hearers spellbound. Born in royalty, her mother a princess, her father a baron and a leader in the Russian army, Baroness Olga later married a general in the army and thus became so closely associated with national conditions as to be able to speak with authority.

When the call to arms came in 1914 she herself responded with service as a nurse and was put in charge of a hospital in Belgium. Her nursing career ended abruptly when a bomb struck the train on which she was moving to the front. Very thrilling were the experiences recalled during the rigors of war.

Her husband's death following taken fortunes in the family led the Baroness to accept the protection of a friend and come to the United States where she has lived for the past 13 years.

Baroness Olga urged Americans to appreciate their freedom and laws. "In politics choose the best for the greatest good. Do not let the demagogues misguide us," she said.

Finally the Baroness pled for the acceptance of newcomers into this country as "citizens not by accident but by choice."

Baroness Olga was accompanied by Madame Rescher of New York, who added further interest to the program by her remarks, which were less serious than those of her predecessor showing a bit of the humorous side of Russian life.

A good attendance welcomed these speakers.

Service League Sews and Plans Bazaar at Meeting Tuesday—

Busy over their needlework for the Christmas bazaar in connection with the annual chicken pie supper, 27 members of the Service League discussed their plans for the new season. Among their purposes will be to call upon shut-ins and newcomers.

Three new members were welcomed: Mrs. Leland Smith, Mrs. Harold Taulger and Mrs. Sidney Frid. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Chas. E. Rogers, one of the sponsors.

NOTED EXPLORER WILL LECTURE ON ETHIOPIA OCT. 20

As war flares in the mountain fastnesses of Ethiopia, the World Adventure series announces that it will present Alfred M. Bailey, noted explorer and director of the Chicago Academy of Sciences, in his lecture with motion pictures "By Caravan 2,000 Miles Through Ethiopia" Sunday, Oct. 20, at 8:30 p. m. at the Detroit Institute of Arts. Mr. Bailey will relate his adventures with the field museum expedition in the land of the King of Kings.

At 3:30 p. m. on the same Sunday, Upton Close, America's foremost authority on the Orient, will tell about and show motion pictures of his two decades of high adventure in "Pacific Asia from Korea to the Malay Peninsula." Upton Close was advisor to the student revolution, served on the staff of Dictator Wu Pei-fu, fought with a Chinese army, acted as war correspondent for the New York Times, was eye-witness reporter for the League of Nations during the Japanese invasion of Manchuria. He has published seven books.

In the evening, Mr. Bailey will tell how he traveled muleback 2,000 miles through the length and breadth of Ethiopia. He lived, fought and played with the fierce warrior-tribesmen and their semi-savage chieftains. Among the same walled gorges and jagged peaks through which the Italian legions are now battering their way, Bailey hunted the wild lion, the lion, the leopard and the baboon. His motion pictures show the obstacles that the country offers to white men and its rich natural resources that lure Mussolini's Fascisti.

T.B. REGULATIONS TO BE IN HANDS OF COMMISSION

Dr. Bruce Douglas Expects 250 People To Attend Annual Meeting

Legal right to establish rules and regulations governing the operation of tuberculosis sanatoriums in the state, rests with the State Commissioner of Health, Attorney-General Harry S. Toy ruled this week. Toy's decision clarified an apparent conflict in Michigan's tuberculosis laws.

Discovering that an act of 1925 delegating such power to the Health commissioner was seemingly contradicted by 1913 legislation, the issue was brought before Toy by the Michigan Tuberculosis association. Passed before tuberculosis was receiving the specialized attention that it does today, the earlier law authorized the boards of trustees of the county hospitals to formulate rules and regulations.

The attorney-general ruled, however, that since the old law had not been repealed, it was automatically superseded by the 1925 legislation.

Michigan Tuberculosis association officials called the ruling "highly important," pointing out that under the 1925 law all tuberculosis sanatoriums must meet with the approval of the state commissioner of health. The earlier law makes the fitness of an institution dependent upon the discretion of the board of trustees. Under the 1925 law the health commissioner may recall the sanatorium's right to accept patients, if the institution fails to live up to the state's standard.

An invitation to further explain his ruling at the annual meeting of the Michigan Tuberculosis association has been extended by the executive board, Dr. Bruce H. Douglas, president, announced. The meeting, to be held in conjunction with the Michigan Trudeau society and the Michigan Sanatorium association, will take place at the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium, Howell, on Friday, Nov. 1.

Approximately 250 people are expected to gather at the sanatorium for the meeting. Topics for discussion will include the need for the careful examinaton of contacts—persons who have been intimately connected wth a case of tuberculosis, and for the tuberculin testing and chest X-raying of school employes.

LOCAL GROWERS PRAISE YEAR'S APPLE HARVEST

they say they have a better supply with which to meet the demand.

"One of the interesting features of harvesting apples is the alternating of seasons in relation to abundance of yield," volunteered Sumner Power, who has a large orchard on the Base Line road. "If a certain number of your varieties are giving you a good return this year the chances are they will be less abundant the following year. And by having a variety in your orchard you can have some of the kinds that are apt to fill in the gap left by those that are plentiful."

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Dickinson spent Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bowring.

Spencer Van Valkenburg, Dayton Bunn, Kenneth Porter and Don Bray were at home from Western State college over the week-end.

Kendall Willis, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Willis, has begun his study in a boys' school in West Town, Pa., recently. Miss Mable Douglas, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Bruce Douglas, is a student in the girls' school of the same institution.

By special arrangement, two Northville boys who are freshmen in Michigan State normal college, Eddie Bender and Paul Baldwin will accompany the varsity football team to Toledo next week to meet the Toledo university team and will participate in the game.

Mrs. F. J. Bullask of Toledo is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Chas. Filkins. Mrs. Filkins and her sister were among the guests at a luncheon given by the Woman's Guild of Central Methodist church, Detroit, Saturday when Mrs. Frederick B. Fisher, wife of the pastor, gave an address on "Mexico."

John Ohlenkamp, of the Maybury sanatorium, will be the new advertising manager of the Fluoroscope.

Wayne Thompson of East Base Line road is this week's winner of the two free tickets to the Penniman-Allen theatre. A copy of this paper presented at the box office will insure the passes.

The "Squirrel Hunters"

The "Squirrel Hunters" of Ohio and Indiana were so called because of their motley attire and wide assortment of firearms, mostly rifles, when they were hastily summoned to Cincinnati in September, 1862, to defend Ohio state against a Confederate army under Gen. Kirby Smith. They numbered 15,000 and were commanded by Gen. Lew Wallace, famous Indianian. They crossed the Ohio river at Cincinnati into Kentucky September 10, 1862, and returned three days later. They were never mustered into the United States service.

The First Telescope

In 1609 the children of a Dutch spectacle-maker named Jansen were playing in the workshop. One little chap picked up a couple of lenses and held them together. A moment later he cried out that the church spire had come nearer to him! Father Jansen had a look and then fastened the lenses in that position to a board. So was the first telescope made.—Pearson's Weekly.

MISS D. ATKINSON'S 28 FIRST GRADERS PROGRESS RAPIDLY

Miss Dorothy Atkinson's 28 first graders are an active and interesting group of pupils, and they have many activities to keep them so.

This group of first graders have organized some very useful campaigns. One is to keep children off the lawn railings so as to not ruin the lawn. Another campaign is a health campaign. Mrs. Bray gave the room a health chart. The chart already has quite a few blue marks on it after pupils' names. This indicates that they are following their health rules. Still another is a courtesy campaign.

The housekeeping committee cleaned the first grade room very neatly for the P. T. A. meeting held there. The pupils on this committee are Everett Williams, June Lanson and Norman Jordan.

Bobby McKenna is the assembly program representative from Miss Atkinson's room.

The first graders received some jig-saw puzzles from Miss Atkinson's nephew, and the pupils find them very entertaining.

This room has a new book-case. The children have been bringing their story books to school to show to each other.

The first graders are making farm projects and farm booklets. Their art work is being saved for the fair.

On report card day, Raymond Kempton brought candy to school and the first graders had a report card party.

Statue of Christ of the Andes

It is said that the following inscription was engraved on the granite at the base of the statue of the Christ of the Andes, erected on the border between Chile and Argentina: "Sooner shall these mountains crumble to dust than Argentines and Chileans break the peace which at the feet of Christ the Redeemer they have sworn to maintain." There is some doubt as to whether these words were ever inscribed on the monument, or whether they were merely spoken in the dedication, for there is no longer any trace of them.

Famous Wild-Life Sanctuary

The world's most wonderful sanctuary for wild-life lies in the northeastern portion of the Transvaal bordering on Portuguese East Africa, between the Crocodile river and the Pretoria-Lourenco Marquez railway on the south, and the Limpopo river and Rhodesia on the north. It has a length of some 220 miles and an average width of about 40 miles, so that it is rather larger in area than Wales.

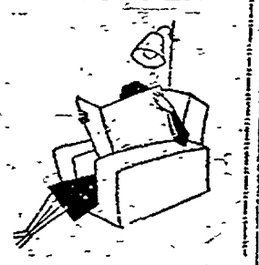
THE RECORD SHOPPER



By ELEANOR BLUM

Maybe your little two-year-old can't manage to stay on a pony yet but if he can one of the local stores is all ready to dress him up in jodhpurs that would put to shame the most fashion wise older brother. Imported from Texas by these Northville merchants, the cunning riding breeches come in white and chocolate color. If your child doesn't ride as yet, now would be a good time to get him used to the apparel, and the cleverly cut equestrian's pants are too cute to miss even if you never intend that junior shall look at a horse.

But for the little fellow that doesn't want to be hampered by fitted breeches, the ideal substitute is the "vestee" a contraption of corduroy that boasts cross straps, a stylishly belted back, and neat button fasteners. And these clever vests and pants combinations have berets to match.

Then for the five to eight-year-olds — a corduroy jacket rakish enough to put the high school brother on his metal. Made with a handy zipper these cold-weather favorites come in several colors, but our favorite was a little fellow's jacket in a mixture of rich brown and black that is made with slit pockets, and boxed pleated back that would make any five-year-old look like a miniature fashion plate. And because it's necessary to be practical, we might add that all of this corduroy apparel will wear like iron.

If the boys are big enough they can also purchase nobby jerseys in blue and maroon, and they will be completely outfitted.

You know of course that you can purchase everything for the Hallowe'en party right here in town? It's so near black-cat night that we thought we ought to mention it. A holiday party is so easy to manage now with drinking cups, plates, napkins, table covers, cut-out decorations, invitations, in fact all of the necessities, in Hallowe'en design and colors. You don't even have to hollow out your own pumpkin any more—there are such realistic substitutes. The manufacturers make it so easy now that you can even buy the villain's handle-bar mustache already made!

THIS WEEK

By H. H. WHITE

When someone departs from the beaten path of conservative thought and action relating to our national life, he is either socialistic, or a little mad.

Socialism has almost as many definitions as Christianity and these seem to be whatever interpretation that one wishes to put on it. If we consult Webster we find that socialism is a theory of politics and economics, the basic thought being governmental control of economic activities in order that competition will be substituted by cooperation and that life and the rewards of labor will be equally distributed.

It seems to be a generic term for anyone who opposes the existing order of things. It is often confused with radicalism and communism. Some people stigmatize as radicals and communists when they are in need of a catharsis.

Germany and France and also England are supposedly socialistic in the affairs of state and government, but Russia is the only European country that strictly adheres to the teachings of Karl Marx, the father of socialism. Those conversant with Russian socialism label it a dictatorship.

As one views the affairs of the world in the general scheme of development, we are living in extremes. But the pendulum of extremes will eventually swing back to a more balanced and normal position. Change, though, is healthy for it denotes growth. Stagnation is not conducive to progress and those of us who can keep ourselves properly poised to the surrounding changes will eventually see the light of leavening common sense bring us back to normal again.

LIQUOR OFFICERS MEET IN LANSING

Explain Change in Licenses And Operation of Beer Gardens

LANSING.—The public is deeply interested in the final recommendations of the liquor legislation enforcement regulations drawn by the conference of law enforcement officers which met in Lansing a few weeks ago. People are also asking when these are to be put into operation by the state liquor commission.

The report consists of twenty-three typewritten pages and a considerable portion of the material contained therein is new. It takes careful study of the entire report to find out exactly what is recommended. The suggested changes consist largely of a number of safeguards about the licensing and operation of beer gardens and places permitting dancing. Careful local investigation is required before any such license shall be granted. Then the dance rooms are regulated as to size and must be well lighted at all times.

The finding of gambling devices in a place where liquor is sold or on adjoining premises which are controlled directly or indirectly by the licensee would result in an immediate suspension of his license.

Enforcement shall primarily rest with local officers but the state may at any time intervene and shall do so if the local authorities so request.

The universal closing hour of one o'clock is set as opposed to the present two o'clock with a half hour of grace in which to clear the place of patrons actually in the room at two. This section is bitterly opposed by some communities, particularly Detroit.

One section concerning the forfeiting of bonds is a bit vague to the layman.

It had been planned to have a meeting of the commission on the third, but it was postponed because the Governor was ill and Secretary of State Atwood refused to attend, stating that he wished more time to study the matter. It was then the intention to have a meeting this week at which the matter would be discussed and probably a decision reached.

PITKINS-HALE TO BE IN TOWN HALL DEBATE

A 25-year-old editor will challenge a famous psychologist's maxim—that life begins at forty—in a debate which promises to be fireworks from start to finish, as the second attraction of the Detroit Town Hall season at the Fisher theatre at 11 a. m Wednesday, Oct. 23. Walter B. Pitkin, author of "Life Begins at Forty," says not until that age do we have enough sense to know what it's all about. Dr. Pitkin is credited with having done more to help people regain self-confidence and self-discipline during the last few years than any other American. William Harlan Hale, associate editor of Fortune magazine, who has also been on the staff of Vanity Fair and the Washington Post, is regarded as one of the intelligent leaders of his generation. At 19 he graduated from Yale and wrote "Challenge to Defeat" addressed to the Youth of the nation and designed to stimulate them to seize their generation's heritage, despite the handicaps of the time, the prevailing conventions and the obvious odds against them. Mr. Hale says life is over at forty. His recent articles in The Atlantic Monthly and other journals have given him a nationwide attention. "The Believers," a novel on a youthful and modern theme, is soon to be published.

The debate between these two brilliant speakers promises to be one of the most stimulating and entertaining Town Hall attractions of the season. Tickets are on sale at Grinnell's now, or Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Fisher theatre.

NORTHVILLE LIBRARY GETS NEW BOOKS FROM WAYNE COUNTY

The list of new books on the shelves of the Northville branch of the Wayne County library include a variety of the most talked of books of today.

"The Forty Days of Musa Dagh," by Franz Werfel. Regarded by most critics as one of the most remarkable novels in years. It is an heroic and thrilling story based on a true incident—the defense put up by a small group of Armenian refugees against the entire might of the Turkish army."

BELLEVILLE M. E. CHURCH HAS 95TH ANNIVERSARY

Belleville Methodist church is celebrating this week its 95th anniversary. Rev. William Richards, for nine years pastor of the Northville Methodist church, is serving that church for the fifth year.

Outstanding features of the week are a banquet held Tuesday with Dr. Wm. H. Phelps, editor of the Michigan Christian Advocate, as speaker. District Superintendent A. J. Halmhuber addressed the morning service Sunday, Oct. 13. The pastor will conclude the observance in an address Sunday, Oct. 20.

WHEN THE DARK ANGEL RIDES

(Milford Times)

The motor vehicle is no respector of persons. Hardly a week passes without newspaper headlines telling of the sudden death of some statesman, industrial leader, or other celebrity.

A few recent names on the roster of those who died because of carelessly or recklessly driven motor vehicles, comes readily to mind. Not long ago, Colonel T. E. Shaw, the famed "Lawrence of Arabia," was killed when he fell from his motorcycle, which he was driving at 80 miles an hour. Only a month or two ago the wife of the Secretary of Interior perished when the car in which she was riding at high speed skidded in loose gravel and overturned. Just before, the beautiful Queen Astrid, of Belgium, met her death—when her husband, driving the roadster in which she was riding took'd away from the highway at a road map, and ran headlong into a tree.

These tragedies became known in a million households, because of the prominence of the victims. But they are no worse, no more tragic, than the thousands of similar deaths which occur annually and make, instead of headlines, a mere item on an inside page of the newspapers. Recklessness, carelessness, incompetence—these are the scarlet trinity, which cause so much needless grief, so much unnecessary suffering, so great an economic waste. When one of them takes the wheel, death rides too. The Dark Angel does not always strike—but there is a limit to how long he can be withheld.

Care, caution, competence—these constitute the trinity which can prevent automobile accidents, major and minor ones alike! The issue must be put squarely up to each driver—it is purely an individual problem, and will always remain so. Traffic laws and enforcement can do nothing if the public will not cooperate. Will you?

IT'S A GOOD WORLD AFTER ALL

(The Standard, Lagrange, Ind.)

It's a good old world, after all.

We find all along the way plenty of injustices, plenty of twisted reasonings, plenty of selfishness and human frailties, not all of them in the other fellow. But, thanks be, there are also plenty of symptoms of human sympathy and kindness. We recently published a story of a movement started by Ross Rowe to provide some needed playground equipment and other articles to make the lives of the boys and girls at the Rogers Orphans Home happier—though we boast that under Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Minich conditions are nearer those of a normal home than in any orphans' home in the U. S. A. From a number of directions come expressions of approval of this plan and ready offers to do something for the children.

It's a good world where everyone finds pleasure in kindness to the boys and girls.

LETTERS SENT OUT TO WPA APPLICANTS

this office that they have been told several thousand jobs will be created here. This is entirely untrue.

The main purpose of the Works Progress Administration is to remove every able-bodied man and woman from relief rolls and place them at work on WPA projects at "security" wages. At least 90% of the personnel on each WPA project must be from relief rolls and in many cases the workers are almost 100% from relief rolls.

"If you are on relief rolls a further application to the WPA is not necessary.

"Wayne county's quota of administrative jobs such as executive positions, timekeepers, stenographers, typists, accountants, clerks, messengers, etc. is almost filled today and yet we still have in our files approximately 33,000 applications. The few remaining jobs which will be available require highly specialized and technical training, mostly along engineering and accounting lines. Therefore we feel it only fair to inform you of the exact situation. We realize that many of the applicants have found private employment in the last few weeks and this is encouraging. If you are in this class we would appreciate it if you would drop us a card so that we can remove your name from our active files.

"We also strongly urge you to file application for a position with the United States Employment Service, 130 West Larned street, Room 1.

"However we would like to assure you that in the selection of the remaining jobs your qualifications will be considered carefully. We are writing you to simply inform you first, that only a few positions remain unfilled and second that there are 33,000 applicants seeking them."

Ferrel's Law

Ferrel's law is to the effect that if a body moves in any direction on the earth's surface, there is a deflecting force arising from the earth's rotation which deflects it to the right in the northern hemisphere and to the left in the Southern hemisphere.

Earliest Libraries Private

The earliest libraries in the Colonial period of America were private. Among the notable ones of this kind were those of Elder Brewster of Plymouth, Governor Winthrop of Connecticut, Dr. Cotton Mather of Boston, Col. Ralph Wormeley of Virginia and Rev. John Harvard. Toward the end of the Seventeenth century the Bray parish libraries began to appear. These were collections mainly of religious books sent to America through the efforts of Rev. Thomas Bray of London. The first subscription library in the colonies was projected by Benjamin Franklin in 1731 in Philadelphia.

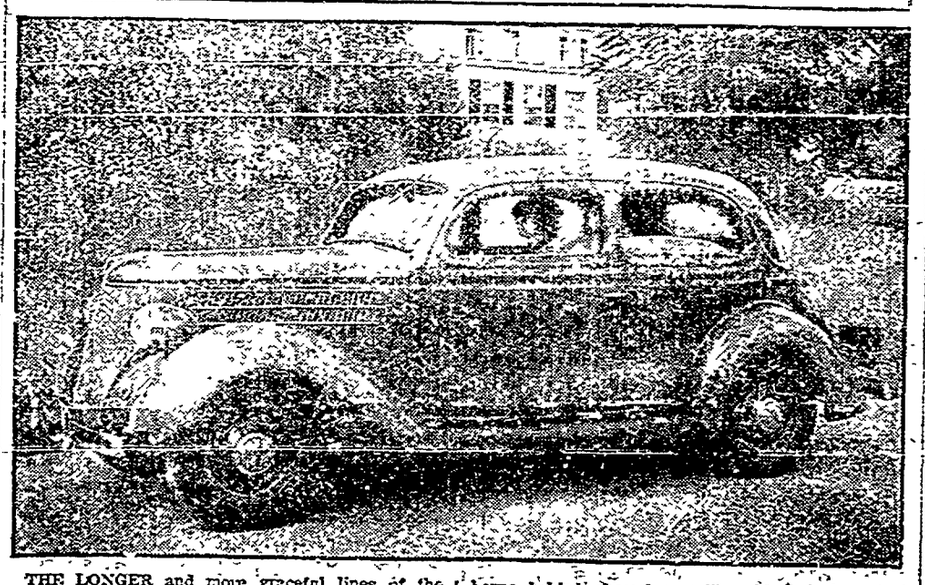
Longer Lines in Ford V-8 for 1936



THE LONGER and more graceful lines of the Ford V-8 for 1936 are well illustrated in this view of the popular De Luxe Tudor Sedan. The new longer hood extends gracefully over the attractive new radiator grille. Wide streamlined front fenders, with an imposing flare, shroud the tires and house the horns behind chromium grilles. New design steel wheels with 12½-inch hub caps are handsome and easy to clean. Bucket-type front seats are exceptionally comfortable. This body type, of welded steel like all Ford V-8 bodies, is also available without de luxe appointments at lower cost.

Moral Education

Moral education has for its object the formation of character and the regulation of conduct. It teaches duty, develops good inclinations, combats bad ones, and strengthens the will.

Rev. I. N. Demy says:

"I have found nothing in the past 20 years that can take the place of Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills. They are a sure relief for my headache."

Sufferers from Headache, Neuralgia, Toothache, Backache, Sciatica, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuritis, Muscular Pains, Periodic Pains, write that they have used Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills with better results than they had even hoped for.

Countless American housewives would no more think of keeping house without Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills than without flour or sugar. Keep a package in your medicine cabinet and save yourself needless suffering.

The diamonds of New South Wales are remarkable for their excessive hardness; they can be cut only with their own dust, ordinary diamond dust making no impression.

'Lady Tubbs,' 'The Fighting Trooper' Here Friday, Saturday; 'Front Page Woman' Stars Belle Davis Wednesday

The strenuous excitement of a Long Island fox hunt is a part of "Lady Tubbs," the rollicking Universal comedy which is playing at the Penniman-Allen theatre Friday and Saturday with Alice Brady starred and Douglass Montgomery and Anita Louise featured.

Horses bear their riders after the baying hounds at a breakneck speed, leaping fences and ditches in a mad scramble to be the first one at the kill, and thus receive the fox's "brush" as a souvenir of the chase.

But the trophy is awarded to Miss Brady, a camp cook masquerading as an English noblewoman, who can't even ride and is unceremoniously dumped by her fiery horse in a convenient pile of brush. The hounds happen to catch the fox as it passes her a hour later, and the astonished "Lady" is hailed as the greatest rider of them all—by everyone except a snippy young society girl who sees an opportunity to clinch her marriage to the wealthy young man of the household. But the cook's arm isn't the only thing she has up her sleeve, and when the proper time arrives, she unlimbers her guns on the whole party, determined that her own niece shall marry the young man if he wants to. However, their surprise is as nothing to her own when she discovers hitherto unknown facts regarding the quiet Englishman who has aided her in her deception.

"Lady Tubbs" was directed by Alan Crosland, and important roles in support of Alice Brady are played by June Clayworth, Alan Mowbray, Hedda Hopper and many others. The original story was written as a novel by Homer Croy.

George Brent feels quite at home in his role of Curt Devlin, newspaper reporter, in the Warner Bros. production "Front Page Woman," which comes to the Penniman-Allen theatre on Wednesday, Oct. 23.

Brent's father was publisher of a newspaper in his native Ireland and George himself was slated for a journalistic career in his childhood. He turned soldier instead, subsequently answering the call of the stage.

Brent's brother-in-law at present is publisher of a large Chicago newspaper and his sister is a staff writer.

Bette Davis has the feminine lead in "Front Page Woman." She plays the role of Ellen Garfield schemer on another newspaper and a rival of Brent's.

"Front Page Woman" was adapted from Richard Macaulay's magazine story, "Women Are Bum Newspapermen" by Roy Carlson and Lillie Hayward. The screen play was written by Laird Doyle. Michael Curtiz directed.

The supporting cast of the fast-moving comedy-drama includes Roscoe Karns, Winifred Shaw, Walter Walker, J. Carroll Naish, Gordon Westcott and J. Farrell MacDonald.

"THE FIGHTING TROOPER"

On the afternoon of their last day on location, the Kermit Maynard company making James Oliver Curwood's story "The Fighting Trooper," were conscripted into fighting a forest fire that broke out early that morning, not many miles from the scene of their picture-making activities. And when a forest ranger says, "Come!" There is no recourse—unless one wants to spend some time in the hoose-gow. Only the leading lady, Barbara Worth, and the other women of the company were exempt.

About a half-mile from where the fire was laying waste to the timber the ranger ordered a fire break not less than ten feet wide to be made by clearing out the undergrowth that skirted the base of a small hill. All that night, by the ruddy light of the flames and augmented by the klieg lights, commandeered from the company, Kermit Maynard, Robert Fraser, LeRoy Mason and the entire male contingent of "The Fighting Trooper" dug, hacked and cleared away stubborn brush. And all the while the fire drew closer and closer to the swath they hoped would stop the hungry flames.

About dawn the wind shifted and turned the fire on itself. Before the day was over only a smouldering smoking area marked the devastated woodland. And the fire break, that the men of the picture company had sweated and strained so valiantly to create, stood revealed in the morning light, as fresh, and pretty and clean as a boy's first shave.

"All our work for nothing!" LeRoy Mason exclaimed.

"Not altogether," the ranger returned. "It will help if the fire breaks out again; and what's more, it is a trail that has long been needed."

For the first time the actors realized that the path made a sort of portage between two streams.

"I'd call it the Kermit Maynard Trail," the ranger promised.

Walled Lake News

The local fire department answered two alarms over the week-end, Wixom sending a call at 6:30 p. m. Saturday, and a local summons at 1:30 p. m. Sunday.

Flying sparks from an outside chimney of the Miller grocery at Wixom were noticed by the owner as endangering nearby buildings including a gas station. On investigation, it was found that soot had been ignited forming the sparks. No damage was done.

A grass fire which started in a field near Wagner's restaurant was responsible for the Sunday alarm. The fire rapidly spread northward, strongly endangering a valuable young orchard on Liberty street belonging to A. C. Berlin. The department succeeded in extinguishing the blaze shortly before it reached the trees and with no other damage occuring.

The Methodist Ladies' Aid society will hold a pot-luck dinner and meeting at noon Thursday at the residence of Mrs. E. V. Meiser, on Pontiac road.

TRENTON TEAM RUNS UP 18-0 SCORE FRIDAY

Muddy Field Proves To Be Disadvantage to Local High Football Squad

BY MELVIN STROMOSKI

Northville went down in defeat at Trenton last Friday, losing the game by a score of 18 to 0.

Due to the fact that they were playing with a make-shift line-up and on a muddy field the Northville lad had a tough time of it all the way through. The boys were continually slipping and falling on the muddy turf, and several of the boys were heard to remark that it was worse than trying to play in your regular street shoes.

Trenton scored early in the first quarter. After Hay fumbled, Trenton started a march down the field which finally ended when Gates, the fullback, pushed the ball over from the two-yard line for a touchdown. After this both teams settled down and neither of them threatened seriously during the remaining minutes of the half.

The second half opened with Northville kicking off to Trenton. [illegible] Trenton had the edge on yards gained because Hay had a bad day and his kicks weren't any too good. After Hay got off an especially good kick which went out of bounds on his own 30-yard line, Westphall, of Trenton broke loose and ran thirty yards for the second touchdown of the game. Again they failed to make the extra point. Trenton kicked to Northville just as the quarter ended.

During the early part of the last quarter the ball was in Northville's territory most of the time. The local squad never got deep enough into the enemy's territory to cause the yellow-shirted boys from Trenton much worry. Trenton succeeded in blocking one of Hay's kicks and recovered on Northville's 2-yard line and finally pushed the ball over for [illegible] extra point went for naught. Nothing more of consequence happened for either team during the remainder of the game.

Here is how the boys lined up to open the battle over at Trenton. (Note all the changes in the Northville line-up):

DISCUSS PROBLEMS OF GRADE CHILDREN WITH PRINCIPAL

Miss Selma Jarvis, principal of the grade school would like the parents to feel free to discuss the problems of their children with her at any time.

Miss Jarvis stated that "if there are any questions whatsoever why a certain child isn't getting along, she would gladly like to talk it over with the parent of the child. In fact it helps very much for a parent to talk over the environment and faults of their boy or girl so Miss Jarvis may understand the circumstances better.

Miss Jarvis expresses her appreciation to all the mothers and fathers who have thus far spoken to her about matters they didn't quite understand about their child and hopes the parents will feel free to come to her hereafter.

GRADE PUPILS HAVE ASSEMBLY PROGRAMS

A "Major Bowes Amateur Hour" was presented last Friday to the grade school children by the newly-organized committee under the direction of Miss Anne Richards, kindergarten teacher.

In order that the grade school may have assembly programs as does the high school, Miss Richards and her committee, consisting of a student representative from each grade, has planned monthly programs which are held in the gymnasium. The children will take part in them.

The members of the committee are Bobby McKenna, Joan Koldyke, Bobby Masters, David Amerman, Harold Todd, Bobby Forshee, Maxine Coe, Marilyn Gunsell and Philip Baldwin. Philip is taking the place of Dick Davis, who has gone to Florida.

This room won the Parent Teachers' association picture for the most number of parents attending the meeting. Mrs. Starr Bray, school nurse, will examine the first grade children's eyes, and Miss Atkinson will weigh the pupils. At the end of the year the pupils will compare their weight with that at the beginning of the year to see if there was any improvement.

Robert L. Angove Explains Why Calavo Tree Has Been Placed In Mrs. Taylor's Typing Room

It was a very memorable evening when one prominent Northville family, withheld by special request, ate dinner some while ago. Not only was the consuming favorable, but that one exciting course—so delicious—spelled history for Northville high school. Please allow me to elaborate.

The referred to Northville family not only had a salad, but they had a Calavo salad. This alone will not mean anything to you until I tell you in what a cinning way they practically put Northville on the map. . . .

After the mystery family had partaken of their salad, one member—bold and aggressive—conceived the brilliant idea of planting a seed. Now as she looks back, she insists she was in her right mind—unfortunately.

The calavo is a new specie of fruit—originally from California, which has found its way into the stomachs and hearts of thousands; just thousands. It grows on a tree which is the very essence of this episode.

After it burst from the ground and decided to achieve higher things in life, the mystery family took it in and transplanted it to a large green tub. Now if you will get your handkerchiefs ready, I will not try and take you by surprise; I will relate the only heartbreaking, sorrow-rendering note to be struck in this theme.

This tree—this ungrateful calavo—actually tried to bring disaster to the happy household that reared it. The climax was reached when the calavo tree had grown so big that either the tree or the family had to get out, hence, this problem: tree now graces Mrs. Taylor's typewriting room.

When asked, Mrs. Taylor said that all she had done to gain the respect and favor of the tree, was to administer a measurement of water each day. Remarkable what a little water will do, isn't it? We all feel uplifted now that Mrs. Taylor has taken such a staunch and deliberate stand. She emphatically made it clear to the reporters that when the calavo tree threatens destruction to her typists, out the tree goes. I have always liked straight-forward people.

Having given speech long enough, I have arranged a parody to commemorate the occasion.

Under the spreading calavo tree,
The would-be typist sits;
The typist, a puny man is he,
O'er the keys the (singular) clumsy finger flits.
His hair is curly, in his eyes, and long,
His look is blank all o'er his pan;
His brow is wet with dishonest sweat,
He snitches when'er he can;
And he looks the whole world in the face,
For he knows not any man.

Seniors Who's Who

Northville pupils' beloved Mrs. I. R. Cooke has a favorite niece, too. Her name is Edith Barley, and she saw the light of day in Northville. Edith had her kindergarten and first grade here, and then moved to Beaver, which is near Birmingham. Here she lived until her high school years. She then came back to Northville for her ninth grade and has been here ever since.

The Glee club and choir are proud of her, and each basketball game finds her cheering. Edith likes to read, and Mrs. Cooke confides that she is anything but quiet when with her family. (?) Being an honor student, Edith will surely make good in the profession she chooses, but as yet she is undecided to just where she will go, and what she will take up after graduation.

SHORTHAND PUPILS TAKE DICTATION AT 100 WORDS A MINUTE

The shorthand II pupils, under the instruction of Mrs. Jack Taylor, have been taking dictation of new material at as high a rate of speed as 100 words per minute. A majority of the pupils could take it at this rate.

This is considered a real achievement, as it is yet so early in the school year. However, 80 is the usual rate, Mrs. Taylor dictates.

The typing students stratosphere flight is rapidly progressing. The two leading contestants, at the present time, are Evelyn Ambler and Lillian Fritz.

CHOIR ENLARGED BY NEW PUPILS JOINING

The choir is greatly enlarged this year because of the many pupils that have joined it for the first time. With all this added material, Leslie G. Lee, music instructor, feels that great things can be done. In order that each person may receive more attention and help the choir is divided into two sections. The new members are the following:

Section 1 — Louise Alexander, Jeanne Atchson, Betty Ann Baldwin, Betty Carlson, Clara Christenson, Shirley Condit, Ruth Gotro, Vivian Grosvenor, Helen Harper, Dorothy Heaton, Fred Johnston, Geraldine Johnston, Lucille Lapham, Faith Liebetrau, Laura Marie Lord, Patsy McLoughlin, Maxine Perkins, Jane Van Atta, Helen Winter, Irene Weeks.

Section 2—Charles Bishop, Flora Mae Conklin, Allen Gotro, Anita Law, Barbara Rand, Robert Rembowski, Jack Seaberry, E. K. Starkweather, Carl Stephens, Leonard Young.

ATTENTION CALLED TO ATHLETIC RULES OF ASSOCIATION

Contrary to the statement we made last week, no football player is allowed to make up work in order to become eligible for the current game.

To quote from "The Handbook of the Michigan High School Athletic association," section 3: "No student shall compete in any contest who does not have a passing grade, from the beginning of the semester to the date seven calendar days prior to the contest, in studies aggregating at least fifteen (15) hours of recitation per week. In determining the number of hours of recitation per week under this rule reviews, extra-curricular work, and physical education shall not be counted."

Section 9: "No student shall compete in any contest during any semester who does not have to his credit on the books of the school that he represents at least fifteen (15) hours of work for that semester immediately preceding during which he shall have been enrolled in grades nine to twelve inclusive for a period of three weeks or more or during which he shall have taken part in any interscholastic athletic contest. In determining the number of hours credit during the semester under this rule the usual credit allowed by the school shall be given, but reviews, extra-curricular work, and physical education shall not be credited. Deficiencies, including incompletes, conditions, and failures, may not be made up during a subsequent semester, summer session, night school, or by tutoring for qualification purposes that semester. The record at the end of the semester shall be final, except that conditions or incompletes, resulting from inability to finish the work of the semester on account of disabling illness or other reasons equally valid, may be removed, provided application is made to the state director of athletics by the superintendent or principal and that the student's work is certified as having been carried successfully and continuously up to within two weeks of the end of the semester."

"These are the rules Northville high school must go by, Mr. Thompson stated.

The following people are on the honor roll of the senior class for selling magazines: Juanita Elkington, Rita Heatley, Doris Green, Isabel Tewksbury and Dorothy Frank.

For this week Doris Green has turned in the most money for the seniors for sales.

MOTION PICTURES TO BE SHOWN AT ASSEMBLY MEET

Have the assembly programs of the past interested you? If so, you'll be pleased to hear that, through Mr. Thompson's efforts, motion pictures are going to be shown at next Wednesday's assembly program.

"Seeing London Town" is the name of the presentation which will show views of important sights including Westminster Abbey, Parliament and Hyde Park that will be presented at the next assembly program if things run as planned.

'ROUND THE SCHOOL

When the state inspectors came to visit our school last year, they had one main criticism about Northville High, and that was that students passed from one class to another with too much confusion and noise.

Is this something that is impossible to correct? Of course it isn't, and it is up to us to improve this, students.

If you are one of these people who push everyone so hard you almost knock their bridgework out—you're guilty of first degree pushing!

Seeing if you can talk just a bit louder than your neighbor isn't quite the proper thing to do in the hall, either. Or maybe you're one of these students who likes to act very childish by snapping rubber bands, and seeing how many people you can trip.

We're sure, if you really must act in this absurd way that it could be arranged to transfer you to the kindergarten, and we believe that's even considered childish there. This is merely a suggestion, but there is a very good book of etiquette in our library. Need we remind you that you're high school students, and you are expected to act your role?

Believe it or not, Mr. Watts can tell just when his football boys are tucking in at night. In other words, if any of them aren't in at the proper time, he can tell what, where and why. The Gridiron fellows can't get over it.

You can't imagine what tempers some of the N. H. S. students have. If you doubt our word, just visit typing practice period some day.

Mrs. Cobb told the civics class that just bright people go crazy. Guess our students [illegible]. (Or are they?)

The sixth hour assembly teacher just can't understand why it takes a certain junior boy fourteen minutes to find his assembly seat. Maybe you can explain, Lawrence Parmenter.

SUPPORT NEEDED

Students' support is needed to make the alumni dance tonight a success. The price is 50 cents per couple, and dancing is from nine to one. Strasen's orchestra will furnish the music.

NEW DICTIONARIES ARE PURCHASED

Two new large Webster dictionaries and four simplified Webster dictionaries, purchased by the board of education, have been added to Northville High's library.

One large dictionary is in Miss I. B. Palmer's room and one in Mrs. E. A. Chapman's room. The other four smaller Webster's are placed in the library.

According to Mr. J. Lee, by getting these new dictionaries it makes it possible for every teacher to have one in his room.

SHORT FLASHES

Bill McGee was injured in the game with Trenton last Friday. Dr. A. A. Holcomb reports that Bill will be unable to play this season.

Captain Nirider was unable to play against Trenton, because of a knee injury. He hopes to be in shape for the game with Van Dyke today.

Coach Ted Watts explained Monday that his team would drill on the fundamentals of football. "The boys get plenty of blocking, tackling and checking," he said. "I also intend to give the backfield plenty of work on running, ball-carrying, and blocking. In other words, we are going out to get sweet revenge for Van Dyke's 7-0 victory over us last year."

—The Water Boy.

SOCIETY

After cheering herself hoarse Friday at the football game, Mary Jane Gregory managed to do justice to a dinner at Eleanor Hills.

Doris Labbitt attended a party in Detroit Saturday night and remained there Sunday with friends.

A gay party of girls attended the opera, "Madame Butterfly," at the Capitol theatre Saturday afternoon. Isabel Tibble, Ida Altman, Barbara Phillips, Evelyn Ambler, Gwendolyn Jones, Betty Schrader and Barbara Taft of Detroit, made up the party which had dinner in the Chinese Tea Gardens before the opera. A good time was had by all, but don't ask the number of sodas consumed afterwards.

Ruth Campbell dined with relatives in Plymouth.

A group of distinguished seniors, Frances Alexander, June King, Essie Nirider, Roland Morris and Jack Junod were in Ypsilanti on business Friday. Bet they had some fun too.

Flora Mae Conklin had some friends in Friday night for dancing and a lunch after the bicycle polo game. Besides the hostess, Helen Johnson, Ruth Campbell, Jane Grosvenor, Harry Richardson, Lawrence Way, Gerald Trotter and Carl Arnold enjoyed the fun.

Jack Stabenfeld, Jay Leavenworth, Sidney Junod and Maurice Hagemaster saw the same show Sunday afternoon.

Inquiring Reporter

If you had been sentenced to prison for twenty years and could take only three books with you, what books would you choose?

Mrs. Chapman: I should not bother to take any. Pardons are granted so freely that probably I would not have time to finish one. And anyway, do they let prisoners read detective stories?

Rita Sprenger: Just in case I might not be pardoned, I would take one of Richard Halliburton's, because they are humorous and because I like travel and adventure of one sort or another; perhaps "The Bonfire," by Canfield, because the lives of the characters make such a neat pattern, and some book of various types of poetry, such as "The Oxford Book of American Verse." I'd certainly pick a prison with a library because three books would scarcely last me a month.

Frances Alexander: I don't believe the inquiring reporter could have thought of a more difficult question. I hesitate to answer it for the simple reason that I dislike reading any book more than once. The first time it is a pleasure, the second time a task. I'm afraid I'm not broad enough. Details bother me and I cannot read a book more than once without noticing little details.

Doris Labbitt: If I were imprisoned for 20 years and could only take three books with me, I would take: Complete works of O. Henry, Complete works of Poe and "Little Women" by Alcott.

Bob Bray: I'd take an English dictionary, a Bible and "The Count of Monte Cristo," by Dumas.

Tom McLoughlin: If I could take a magazine subscription (they didn't say I couldn't), it would be the Reader's Digest, and "Knute Rockne" by Harry Stradeur.

Mrs. Taylor: I'd sacrifice a book for a magazine that would keep me informed on what was going on in the world I was shut off from. I Digest" or "Time." Then for my depressing days, I'd take two of the funniest and frightest of Mary Roberts Rinehart's books.

LIBRARIANS TAKE WORK SERIOUSLY

Mr. Leslie Lee stated that the ten librarians of Northville high are going to really take library work seriously this year.

Every girl will be furnished with a book called "How to Use a Library," and they are expected to learn one unit a week of this interesting book. The class meets every Monday after school.

Subjects like "How to Find Books in the Library," "How to Use Reference Books," and "How to Use Magazines," are just a few of the various phases that will be discussed by the class.

Mr. Lee claims the purpose of this work is to provide efficient library service for the student body by accurate librarians. He also explained that the method these girls are going to learn is the standard method used by a great per cent of the libraries. This enables the library students to know the methods of not only Northville high school library but also of most of the standard libraries.

SENIORS SELLING CHRISTMAS CARDS, BEST MAGAZINES

Senior Class Has High Hopes of Making Money for Class by Project

The senior class has received the Christmas cards it will sell to help make money for the trip the class will take. The class will also sell magazines for the same purpose.

In previous years, the entire student body helped sell magazines to make money for the student council, or each separate grade. This year, however, the seniors themselves will undertake this proposition. It is claimed by the class and sponsors, Mrs. Claude Zimmerman and Mrs. Jack Taylor, to be a fine way to make money in a hurry.

At this time the senior class wishes to ask the townspeople of Northville to cooperate with them, and to buy Christmas cards from the seniors, and not other companies or salesmen.

The class would also be very grateful if the townspeople would subscribe to the magazines they are selling, or make their renewals with them.

The prices of the Christmas cards are $1.00, 75c and 50c. Each box sold nets a nice profit for the class. The magazines being sold are "The Woman's Home Companion," "Collier's," "Country Home" and "The American." The Crowley Publishing company allows the seniors 50c on a $1.00 subscription, and $1 on a $2 subscription.

There is no doubt that this is an opportunity for the senior class to make money, and with cooperation from everyone this plan cannot be anything but a success.

N. H. S. TO PLAY VAN DYKE TEAM HERE TONIGHT

Capt. Essie Nirider, Jack Junod, Bob Lyke Able to Play in Tonight's Game

The Northville high school football team will clash with Van Dyke here today at Cass Benton park.

The local boys suffered defeat last week at the hands of Trenton, but it will serve as an incentive for the Northville gridders to win against Van Dyke. Captain Essie Nirider and two other regulars, Bob Lyke, a stalwart right end, and Jack Junod, a very efficient halfback were unable to play in the losing struggle of last Friday; it is predicted that they will be in there to win tonight.

Although they were defeated by Trenton the gridders showed marked improvement. Dave Hay has increased his ability as a fullback because his line plunges are becoming more effective. Laurie Parmenter has rapidly been gaining proficiency as field general. Bill Hanser has been working on defense and his tackling shows plenty of spirit. If the gridiron warriors keep up the good work, which they most assuredly will, Northville will give Van Dyke a rousing scrap.

Northville was defeated last year by Van Dyke and the present team is pointing toward a radical change of the score of a year ago. The change, of course, will be in the local team's favor.

The probable line-up for tonight's game with Van Dyke will be:

L. e., Nirider; l. t., Strautz; l. g., Gregory; c., Bray; r. g., Bauman; r. t., Toussaint; r. e., Lyke; q. b., Parmenter; l. h. b., Junod; r. h. b., Hanser; f. b., Hay.

WEINER ROAST IN PARK BY FRESHMAN CLASS

Last week the freshman class had a weiner roast at Cass Benton park. The entire class brought their own food and hiked to the park.

Saturday the class gave a bake sale. Miss Geraldine Huff and Miss B. Ione Palmer helped Janet Stewart and Dorothy Heaton, who were the students in charge.

John Angell, class treasurer, reports that the freshmen have $2 18 in the treasury not counting the proceeds of the previous bake sale. Pat McLoughlin, president, with the aid of the sponsors, appointed standing committees for the year. The heads of these are: Geraldine Johnston, finance committee; Jean Atchison, social committee; and J. Van Atta, advertising committee.

ADOPT BY-LAWS FOR CIVIC ASSOCIATION

and that they feel that they must have the whole-hearted cooperation of not only the membership of the association but also of every citizen of the community.

This organization is the culmination of many years of thought and effort on the part of various citizens of the community. The latest organized effort in this direction had its inception in a meeting of merchants who met to consider various merchandising problems. The gathering gave instructions to have a committee appointed to organize a dinner meeting when all of the merchants might discuss their problems.

This meeting was held in the Methodist church house on the night of Sept. 16. Ray Morton Hardy, a retail merchandising expert of Detroit spoke of merchandising problems and definitely recommended an organization for the community. The committee appointed to arrange for this meeting and who have continued the work since are: S. L. Brader, chairman; John Boyce, Neil Hannsford, Orlow G. Owen and Ray W. Labbitt.

The next meeting was held in the Presbyterian church house on Oct. 7. At this meeting the advantages and disadvantages of a civic association were discussed as well as the problems confronting Northville. A committee was appointed to draw up a constitution and by-laws to be presented at the meeting held this past Monday.

In the early stages of the consideration the movement took on every aspect of being solely a retail merchants effort. It has now developed into a community-wide plan and is expected to interest any one who has Northville's best interests at heart.

The following individuals and organizations joined the association and paid their membership fee Monday night: Eber Ward Lester; Depositors State bank, John Boyce; Rennie-Mahrle Inc., Alec M. Rennie; Harold Bloom; Northville Feed Store, Fred Saxton; S. L. Brader; Men's Shop, Orlow G. Owen; Northville Electric Shop, Clifford Turnbull; Kroger Grocery and Baking Co., Roland Widmyer; Lodge Music Shop, Frank Lodge; Schrader Bros., N. C. Schrader; C. R. Ely & Sons, Ivan Ely; Northville Laundry, Cyril Frid; Marshall Herrick; Gunsell's Drugs, M. C. Gunsell; E. M. B., E. M. Bogart; The Northville Record, R. W. Labbitt.

The above members are anxious that every person in the community who can possibly do so, attend the meeting next Thursday night at the Depositors State bank.

DESIGN ANGOVE MODEL HOME ON NORMANDIE LINES

footings ten inches in thickness and 20 inches in width. A heavier than usual construction demands a rigid base for the super-structure. This foundation is built for permanence and to avoid settling and cracking of the walls as would be possible with footings of lesser thickness.

The cement blocks were laid in mortar rich enough to assure the blocks being laid so as to give the same strength as though the basement were one integral wall. Mr. Storm reminded us that the common practise in the past has been to use a lime mortar which when it was set did not have the same tensile strength as the units its purpose was to join.

The use of cement mortar as specified by Mr. Storm overcomes the weaknesses of lime mortar and assures strength and makes all the joints waterproof. The exterior of the basement wall below the grade line has been covered with a one-half-inch rich mortar which when dry was coated with tar asphalt waterproofing.

The main bearing partitions were placed on top of the concrete blocks insuring a rigid floor without the possibility of center settling. The first floor joists, stated Mr. Storm are 2x10 and rest on 2x8 imbedded in cement mortar on top of the basement wall. A 2x10 joist is used to insure rigidity of construction and will prevent floors from racking or in any way sagging.

The sub-floor has been laid diagonally to give additional bracing strength to the structure. Wood bridging has been used between the joists of all spans. Joists under all bearing partitions have been doubled and in some cases tripled to insure tensile strength. The openings over all doors and windows have been headed with heavy timbers, which will insure free operating of all doors and windows.

The patented Anderson wood casement windows to be described later, are designed for the same utility and appearance as the steel casement sash commonly used but which have the added advantage of being insulated and weather stripped to prevent air leakage around the windows and will assure the windows not sweating and frosting.

The work has been organized, all the materials purchased, and the labor coordinated so that the construction progress can be noted each week from now on. Further progress on this model home stated Mr. Storm, will be visible to all visitors and they are all welcome. The Record will provide further stories of progress with as many details as are available so that those who are interested may be able to know a good deal about this Northville's model home.

METHODIST OFFICIALS END ACTIVE QUARTER

Following a social time over the supper table, a company of forty attendants of the first quarterly conference of the year gave evidence of a good beginning of fall activities at the Methodist church Wednesday evening.

KIDDIES AT 'SAN' WILL HAVE WARM NIGHTIES SOON

King's Daughters Feast and Work at Their Annual Fall Spread

Twenty-five kiddies at the Mayflury sanatorium will be tucked into warm new nighties as the result of an industrious afternoon spent by 21 members of the King's Daughters at the home of Miss Ruth Gillis Tuesday.

The occasion was not "all work and no play," a pleasant social time concluding the hours of sewing when the usual delicious pot-luck "fall spread" was enjoyed.

With Mrs. Herman Berendt presiding, the situation of the needy of the village was considered. From the state convention of King's Daughters held recently in Mt. Clemens, Mrs. J. G. Alexander brought a most interesting report, saying that the activities throughout the state are very encouraging and a great work for the relief of suffering is being done. Wayne county was represented by Mrs. Geo. Crittendon who was also optimistic.

Others attending the convention a part of the time were Mrs. Berendt, Mrs. W. E. Forner, Miss Ruth Gillis and Mrs. John Litsenberger.

With 78 more nightgowns still to be made to supply the urgent need of the little patients the King's Daughters are planning to meet in smaller groups to do this sewing. Mrs. Berendt will open her home Wednesday, Oct. 23, when those who will help are asked to bring their thimbles and a lunch for an all-day "bee."

The next regular meeting will be held with Mrs. Geo. E. Hills and will be a sewing day, Nov. 5.

BY THE WAY . . .

● now that we have a civic organization just what are we all going to do about it or with it? The organization is the result of the sum total thought and effort of a number of the gentry of Northville and seems to be launched into the sea of Northville problems at an opportune time.

● just what it will be able to accomplish or how well it may justify its being will depend even more upon you and I than upon the board of directors who are charged with the executive responsibilities. After all, the board will be able or unable to accomplish worthwhile things for Northville dependent upon the character of enthusiastic helping, morally and physically we are willing to give. This job, as has been pointed out, is not a job to be done entirely by the Northville civic association but by every citizen working shoulder to shoulder using the association as their means of giving focus and force to their thought and effort. Congrats to all of us and to you the first board of directors, for the opportunity of community service.

● did you notice that building activities keep buzzing along? The Ponsford store addition is progressing rapidly and we are all eager to hear the announcement that the Laphams will make soon. Just how they are going to re-vamp the present store or what use they will make of the new addition seems to be a deep secret. In any event the Laphams are determined to carry forward the Ponsford ideals of merchandising and surround them with the very latest in store building and equipment.

● have you noticed the improvement being wrought in the home at the corner of Wing and Dunlap streets known as the Joslin property? Dr. Joseph E. Schady of the Eastlawn sanatorium is making major alterations and in fact putting on an entirely different front. A fireplace is being built on the Dunlap side of the house and the entrance has been changed from Dunlap to Wing st.

● have you delved into the background of that property? We found that Mr. Charles M. Joslin bought the center section of that house from Mr. Randolph in the spring of 1884, 51 years ago. We were unable to discover who the original owners were but it is stated, by many, that the house is well over 100 years old. Mr. Joslin re-built and built on several sections to the original house.

● Mrs. Bruno Freydl is the daughter of the late Charles M. Joslin and lived in the home at Dunlap and Wing for many years, coming here with her parents from East Tawas. It seems that when the Joslins first came here they bought the farm that is now the site of the Wayne county training school. Later Mr. Joslin went into the general store business here, operating a store for many years. Mr. Joslin passed away in 1911 but Mrs. Joslin, Mrs. Freydl's stepmother still lives with children in California.

● Mrs. Freydl remembers an interesting old picket fence around that property and the property included the whole frontage on Dunlap street, including the present Orlow Owen home. A portion of an old barn has just been torn down on this property—this, states Mrs. Freydl, was the original barn on the place and stood where the brick Owen home now is. It seems that Mr. Joslin sold this Owen corner to F. N. Clark, from several will remember as the Fishery executive. Many in Northville could likely add bits of interest to this sketchy tale but the writer found these items of interest.

● did you know that William London has purchased the house formerly belonging to Rex J. Dye, on West Main street at the village limits and will move here shortly? These bits of good news come to our attention daily and the common query is, "where can we find a house or an apartment to rent?"

● did you ever have your chief taken sick and confined seriously enough so that the staff that was left had to carry on? Well, we miss Mr. Baldwin most awfully and no matter how happy he may be in getting back on the job, there are several persons at The Record office that will welcome him back to normal health with a gusto that will make a westerner's greeting look puny and emaciated. So here's hoping, R. T. B., that you hurry along and get well.

Earthworms' Food

Earthworms feed upon pieces of leaves and other food particles found in the soil through which they burrow at night. The food is sucked into the mouth.

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU OR CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us gloomy, grouchy and no good for anything.

What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our bile juice can't digest it. What is the bile juice? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and ¾ of our food decays in our 28 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes.

When our friends smell our bad breath (but we don't) and we feel like a whipped mongrel. Don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently start the flow of your bile juice. But if "something better" is offered you, don't buy it, for it may be a calomel mercury pill, which loosens teeth, gripes and wakes the rectum up many people. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for—25c. ©1934, CMCo.
