W. J. Dowling Is Named State Racing Commr.

Governor's Action Seen As Approval to Honest Racing and a Lifetime Service to Turfmen

Well Known Here

William J. (Bill) Dowling, an assistant commissioner since pari-mutuel wagering was legalized in Michigan in 1932, was appointed State Racing Commissioner by Gov. Kelly Tuesday afternoon.

Long considered Michigan's No. 1 turfman, Dowling succeeds Edward J. Fry.

Mr. Dowling was in charge of races at the State Fair grounds last season and it is to his credit that under his supervision, no charge of thoroughbreds being 'doped' was brought forth. Dowling had all the tests checked by a special laboratory.

W. J. Dowling is well known here where he owns a breeding farm which during the winter months has stabled several racing thoroughbreds. At various times in the past horses owned at Dowling's farm have raced at the Fair Grounds. One of them, Fleetfi In, won a race last summer.

Class of Six Raised by Masonic Lodge

Monday evening Northville Lodge No. 186 F. and A. M. raised a class of six Fellowcrafts to the sublime degree of a Master Mason.

Lodge opened early in the afternoon as first sections were taken care of. A splendid supper was served by the ladies of the Star, after which gifts and mementos were presented to several of class taking the work, and Dick Bartholomew, popular entertainer of the Northville Gamble Store, kept the boys guessing while he threaded needles that he had swallowed, and displayed his prowess with the handcuffs.

Second sections followed and several Masters and Past Masters assisted in the work. The Fellowcraft Team took care of the long form initiation of the last candidate. Brothers were present from Detroit, Plymouth and Farmington Lodges.

Plymouth Challenge Contest Won By Northville School

Plymouth High School Sells $3.20 Per Pupil During Contest As Compared with Northville's $17.14. Grade Pupils Come Through with $230.70 This Week

The rivalry between the Plymouth and Northville High Schools burst into flame in an entirely new bed of coals Tuesday night with Northville holding the bellows. Results of the War Stamp and Bond contest raged between the two schools and announced between halves of the Plymouth-Northville game on Tuesday, Mar. 2, showed Northville the winner in this patriotic contest both in total amount and per capita.

Plymouth High School issued the challenge and Northville accepted it with well placed confidence, in the results: Northville, $8055.80; Plymouth, $3284.

The rules of the contest called for a per capita rating as Plymouth has an enrolment of 1026 against Northville's 470. This breaks down Plymouth sales to $3.20 per student and Northville $17.14 per capita. With an enrollment of less than half as many students Northville High School boys and girls accounted for over twice as big a total. Late purchases here that were reported only an hour after the deadline, 3:30 p.m. Tuesday would have brought the total up to $8116.80. This record should put heart into the boys in service.

The coaching staff, already depleted by illness of Principal Harrison and others of the staff, was hard put to keep the classes going and take care of the details of the contest and they are justly proud and enthusiastic about the school's record.

The Senior class invested half its funds on hand in the amount of $300 in war contstamps to be awarded at the end of the year to those who have served it by working on various projects to build up the fund.

The sophomores had the highest total, $4270.45 with Dorothy Orr top individual group. The grade school record for this work which, of course, figured in the contest record, was $230.70.

To Plymouth goes the honor of having done the challenge and it's accepted and ready and for a return engagement.

Dear Sirs:

I am writing you to let you know my new address. I am still in the grand state of California. When I say grand, I should know, as I have been here over two years. I have certainly seen a lot of it. I was home last month but I was so busy I didn't get time to drop in. My time was very short and I had so many to see. I was glad to get back out here where the sun shines all year round. I want to thank you again for the Record. I really look forward to getting it.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Prepared by Bureau of Internal Revenue

Expenses of Farmers

A farmer who operates a farm for profit is entitled to deduct from gross income as necessary expenses all amounts expended (other than those representing capital expenditures) in the carrying on of the business of farming. The cost of feeding and raising livestock may be treated as an expense deduction insofar as such costs represent actual outlay, but not including the value of farm produce grown upon the farm or the labor of the taxpayer. Also deductible is the cost of seed, labor, repairs to farm buildings (other than the dwelling of the farmer), and small tools used up in the course of a short period.

The cost of fuel and oil used for farm work as well as repairs and maintenance of farm machinery, is deductible as a business expense; but the cost of farm machinery, equipment, and farm buildings represents a capital investment and is not an allowable deduction. The cost, however, may be recovered by depreciation allowances. In the case of a farmer, the farm dwelling is not depreciable, except such part of it as may be used directly in farming operations. The cost of gasoline, repairs and upkeep of an automobile if used wholly in connection with the taxpayer's farm operations, as well as depreciation thereon, may be deducted, but if an automobile is used partly for business and partly for pleasure or the convenience of the taxpayer or his family, the cost of operation may be apportioned according to the extent of the use for purposes of business and for pleasure or convenience, and the portion attributable to business will be deductible as a necessary business expense.

The cost of hired laborers and hired machines on a farm and the part of the board which is purchased for hired laborers are deductible. The value of products furnished by the farm and used in the board of hired laborers is not a deductible expense. Rations purchased and furnished to laborers or sharecroppers are deductible as a part of the labor expense. Amounts paid to persons engaged in household work to the extent that these services are used in boarding and otherwise caring for farm laborers are deductible, but amounts paid for services of such employees engaged in caring for the farmer's own household are not a deductible expense.

Amounts expended in the development of farms, orchards, and ranches prior to the time when the productive state is reached may be regarded as investments of capital. The cost of planting trees, as well as the amounts expended by a farmer in restoration of soil fertility preparatory to actual production of crops, and the cost of liming soil to increase productiveness over a period of years are capital expenditures, but the cost of commercial fertilizers, the benefit of which is of short duration and which have to be used every year or so, even after a farm reaches the productive state, is deductible as an expense.

Amounts expended in purchasing work breeding or dairy animals are regarded as investments of capital and may be depreciated unless such animals are included in inventory.

Use of steel-ringed timber connections to increase the strength of wood joints saved 400 000 tons of steel in 1942.

During the last war the mail-order price for a pair of overall's rose from 62 cents to $2.95, and at one time a ten-pound bag of sugar cost $7.67.

Among other mechanical aid items about half a million electric batteries a month have been supplied to American troops in Britain by the British Government.

Michigan Mirror

Non-Partisan News Letter

You may agree or you may not agree with what the Republican legislature at Lansing is about to do to the Democratic-controlled state highway department, but you will probably agree with us on this: The legislature's inclination to make the commissioner an appointee of the governor and not an elective official of the people is another bouquet for Harry F. Kelly, the new governor of Michigan.

Governor Kelly is said to favor the reorganization plan, whereby the governor's office would wield control and power in the spending of money for highways. He feels that centralized authority also brings responsibility, and that responsibility for good roads in Michigan should logically and properly rest with the governor of the state.

This philosophy of public service prompted the appointment of Dr. Robert Ford of the University of Michigan to the newly created post of director of business administration, a glorified title for a trouble-shooting efficiency expert whose chief assignment will be the elimination of overlapping governmental agencies and an accompanying simplification of government itself.

Logically the same idea would extend to the highway department, as we have observed before. Governor Kelly has not shown his hand openly in this direction, although he is said to have favored it.

In the legislature's debate on the highway plan, the foremost reason advanced by Republican advocates was the slogan-like idea of "taking the highway department out of politics." Would the Republicans be interested in the idea were the commissioner a Republican instead of a Democrat? Of course, the answer depends whether you were born a Republican or a Democrat. But the highway department being jeffed by civil service while under Democratic control, the Republicans do sniff the air suspiciously and retort loudly that the department is being used by the Democrats as a machine to perpetuate themselves in office.

This Tammany Hall idea persists in the minds of some Republican legislators and also in the minds of quite a few voters. It's distaste has been intensified by the November conversion to federal bureaucracy which was blamed, right or wrong, for much of today's war regimentation out of Washington.

The legislative leaders also may entertain the belief that the public isn't much concerned over what happens at Lansing because 99 per cent of their worry centered about the fighting Yanks in Tunisia and in the Pacific and wondering if the Germans are going to invade Spain, try to grab the Gibraltar, or when and where the Allies will strike again.

In perspective, the global war makes Lansing seem look a bit dull.

Senator Joseph Baldwin (R) of Albion was among the Republican senators who challenged the program to deprive the voters of the ballot box control of highways, and he raised a very interesting point as to whether appointment of the commissioner by the governor really would accomplish what the proponents said it would: Take the department out of politics.

From the viewpoint of history, the Albion law-maker has sound support in the fact that Michigan has had only seven highway commissioners since the department was created by the legislature back in 1905. In the first four years when the commissioner was appointed by the governor, two engineers held the position—Horatio S. Earle from 1905 to 1909 and Townsend H. Ely from 1909 to 1913.

Earle and Ely were appointees of Governor Fred M. Warner, Republican, who accomplished the unorthodox feat in these days of being re-elected for three successive terms. Ely was retained by Chase S. Osborn when the latter became governor in 1911.

In 1913 the post was made an elective office with a four-year term and a $7500 annual salary. Ely was followed by two Republicans, Frank Rogers from 1913 to 1929, a long 16-year span, and by Grover C. Dillman, president of Michigan College of Mining and Technology, from 1919 until the New Deal in 1933.

If the reign of the Republicans in this post was disrupted, then the Republicans have only Franklin Delano Roosevelt and a series of popular landslides to blame.

The New Deal brought Murray D. VanWagoner to Lansing in 1933 and it helped to re-elect him in 1937, the year after the Roosevelt-Murphy victory at Michigan polls. When Governor Fitzpatrick went to the governorship in 1941, he was succeeded by his highway deputy, G. Donald Kingsley, now safely installed in Washington with a $18,000 - year civil service foundation job.

In the meanwhile, the Republicans have had hard sledding. Wilber M. Brucker (R) was followed by William A. Comstock (D), Frank D. Fitzgerald (R) was followed by Frank Murphy (D), Luren Dickinson, heir to the Fitzgerald crown, was followed by Murray D. VanWagoner (D). We're right back where we started with Harry F. Kelly (R) as governor.

In this restless, depression decade, Michigan has experienced a steady turnover in the governorship every two years as regularly as the clock ticks 60 seconds to the hour. In this same period the tenure of highway commissioner has averaged five years, more than double that of the governorship.

All this is a bit of recorded history, and it all adds up to the same thing:

If the Republicans hold the governorship as the Democrats have held the post of highway commissioner from 1933 to 1943 then the new commissioner—or highway engineer, as he really is—will have a chance to effect continuity in program and become proficient at his job.

But, should the governorship swing, like a pendulum, from one party to the other, as it has done in Michigan steadily since 1933, then Senator Baldwin may be known in the future as a prophet of astute mental penetration.

For that reason we suspect that the answer to the entire problem must rest on the future, more than the present, as to what the legislature is acting with wisdom in "taking the highway department out of politics."

The conservation department's third regular sale of state lands in 1943 will offer 1 838 lots and 7,838 acres to cash purchasers in 10 counties of northern lower Michigan between Mar. 29 and Apr. 3.

Don't make that Long Distance call unless it's really necessary!

Mrs. Housewife, you and your family are patriotic citizens—eager to aid the war effort in every way you can.

Long Distance telephone lines are communication channels that help make America's war production fast and efficient. Many of them are crowded with essential war messages today, and the less important civilian calls must not interfere.

You can do your part by following these rules:

Do not make a Long Distance call unless it is really important.

Keep every call as brief as you can.

NEW HYBRID TOMATO

Tests at Michigan State College indicate a new hybrid tomato holds promise for greenhouse operators in Michigan. The introduction has been given the name "Spartan Hybrid" according to Keith C. Barrons, who helped produce and test the new development. Parents are the well known Michigan State tomato and a variety called Cooper's Special. Yields of the new hybrid at a week to ten days earlier than the Michigan State hothouse tomato Greenhouse labor shortages, Barron points out, may delay widespread production of the new hybrid by commercial growers.

New Born Babes Not Dependents

According to information just provided members of the Plymouth induction board by the Lansing office in charge of the national selective service in Michigan, babes born after September 14, 1942, will not be regarded by the board as dependent children.

Local boards in every county in the state are reporting the birth of their first child after September 14, 1942 will still be considered as category 3 cases and their classification will be reopened and reconsidered in order number and sequence with all other category 3 cases, state members of the Plymouth board.

This new ruling, if it stands, therefore considers a registrant who is a father of a child born after September 14 as a person who has a wife but no children.

Ration boards from the Office of Price Administration have been placed in all branches of the Wayne County library. These contain a great deal of useful information for consumers about ceiling prices in your area. Subjects such as rent control, point rationing, prices for grades of beef, etc., are explained in detail. For instance, if you wish to know the highest price for the highest quality of butter in the Detroit area, you may find it on the sheet giving butter prices in the handbook.

Libraries will be kept up-to-date by the addition of new material as it is issued from the Office of Price Administration.

Victory Gardeners Eligible To Win Merit Awards

Michigan's best Victory gardeners will be eligible to win merit awards and war bond prizes for their efforts in peace time, announce the statewide contest committee.

Local contests in every county in the state will precede the naming of the statewide champions, according to Paul Kruse, chairman of the Michigan Victory Garden Committee.

The movement is sponsored by the Michigan Horticultural Society, with the cooperation of the Michigan Horticultural Council, the Michigan Council of Defense, the State Department of Agriculture, Michigan State College and other horticultural organizations, both commercial and amateur.

Each county Victory Garden committee, according to the general plan, will divide the rural area of the county into districts to simplify judging.

Seven basic classes will designate the best farm vegetable garden, the best urban or suburban vegetable garden, the best home ground including vegetable garden all maintained by owner or tenant, the best home grounds maintained with hired help, the best school garden, the best junior garden and the best home grounds, including vegetable garden, entered by a member of the Michigan Horticultural Society.

Prizes within counties will be determined locally.

Statewide, the winners will receive awards ranging from $150 war bonds to $25 war bonds in each class except for the school and junior gardens for which awards are to be determined. County fair exhibits and harvest shows with suitable awards are being encouraged, with premiums to be announced.

HONEY NO MIRACLE

Seventeen colonies of bees at Michigan State College proved in 1942 that bees are doing their part in combating the sugar shortage, but that beekeeping is not an amateur's shortcut to plenty of sweets.

The season was not favorable to the bees, but the 17 colonies turned out nearly 70 pounds of honey each. The honey had a value of $173.33, a little more than $10 a colony.

While waiting for point rationing to go into effect, an Enid, Okla., grocer found that a placard, "Use Your Common Sense" posted in his canned goods department served to restrain would-be food hoarders.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Prepared by Bureau of Internal Revenue

Expenses of Farmers

A farmer who operates a farm for profit is entitled to deduct from gross income as necessary expenses all amounts expended (other than those constituting capital expenditures) in the carrying on of the business of farming. The cost of feeding and raising livestock may be treated as an expense deduction insofar as such costs represent actual outlay, but not including the value of farm produce grown upon the farm or the labor of the taxpayer. Also deductible is the cost of seed, minor repairs to farm buildings (other than the dwelling of the farmer) and small tools used up in the course of a short period.

The cost of fuel and oil used for farm work as well as repairs and maintenance of farm machinery, is deductible as a business expense; but the cost of farm machinery, equipment, and farm buildings represents a capital investment and is not an allowable deduction. The cost, however, may be recovered by depreciation allowances. In the case of a farmer, the farm dwelling is not depreciable, except such part of it as may be used directly in farming operations. The cost of gasoline, repairs and upkeep of an automobile if used wholly in connection with the taxpayer's farm operations, as well as depreciation thereon, may be deducted, but if an automobile is used partly for business and partly for pleasure or the convenience of the taxpayer or his family, the cost of operation may be apportioned according to the extent of the use for purposes of business and for pleasure or convenience; and the portion attributable to business will be deductible as a necessary business expense.

The cost of hired labor and hired machines on a farm and the part of the board which is purchased for hired laborers are deductible. The value of products furnished by the farm and used in the board of hired laborers is not a deductible expense. Rations purchased and furnished to laborers or sharecroppers are deductible as a part of the labor expense. Amounts paid for medical care of farm laborers are deductible to the extent that such services are used in boarding and otherwise caring for farm laborers are deductible, but amounts paid for services of such employees engaged in caring for the farmer's own household are not a deductible expense.

Amounts expended in the development of farms, orchards, and ranches prior to the time when the productive state is reached may be regarded as investments of capital. The cost of planting trees as well as the amounts expended by a farmer in restoration of soil fertility preparatory to actual production of crops and the cost of living soil to increase productiveness over a period of years are capital expenditures, but the cost of commercial fertilizer, the benefit of which is of short duration and which must be used every year or so, even during years of years of the productive state, is deductible as an expense.

Amounts expended in purchasing stock breeding or dairy animals are recorded as investments of capital and may be depreciated unless such animals are included in inventory.

Use of steel-ringed timber connectors to increase the strength of wood joints saved 400,000 tons of steel in 1942.

During the last war the mail-order price for a pair of overalls rose from 62 cents to $2.95, and at one time a ten-pound bag of sugar cost $2.67.

Among all the medical and surgical supplies there are now that Michigan about half a million electric heating pads a month have been supplied to American troops in Britain by the British Government.

Michigan Mirror

Non-Partisan News Letter

You may agree or you may not agree with what the Republican legislature at Lansing is about to do to the Democratic-controlled state highway department, but you will probably agree with us on this:

The legislature's inclination to make the commissioner an appointee of the governor and not an elective official of the people is another [illegible] governor of Michigan.

Governor Kelly is said to favor the reorganization plan, whereby the governor's office would wield control and power in the spending of money for highways. He feels that centralized authority also brings responsibility, and that responsibility for good roads in Michigan should logically and properly rest with the governor of the state.

* * *

This philosophy of public service prompted the appointment of Dr. Robert Ford of the University of Michigan to the newly created post of director of business administration, a glorified title for a trouble-shooting efficiency expert whose chief assignment will be the elimination of overlapping governmental agencies and an accompanying simplification of government itself.

(Logically the same idea would extend to the highway department, as we have observed before. Governor Kelly has not shown his hand openly in this direction, although he is said to have favored it.

* * *

In the legislature's debate on the highway plan, the foremost reason advanced by Republican advocates was the slogan-like idea of "taking the highway department out of politics." Would the Republicans be interested in the idea were the commissioner a Republican instead of a Democrat? Of course, the answer depends whether you were born a Republican or a Democrat. But the highway department being [illegible] when the commissioner was appointed by the governor, two engineers held the position—Horatio S. Earle from 1905 to 1909 and Townsend H. Ely from 1909 to 1913.

Earle and Ely were appointees of Governor Fred M. Warner, Republican, who accomplished the unorthodox feat in these days of being re-elected for three successive terms. Ely was retained by Chase S. Osborn when the latter became governor in 1911.

* * *

In 1913 the post was made an elective office with a four-year term and a $7,500 annual salary. Ely was followed by two Republicans, Frank Rogers from 1913 to 1929, a [illegible] year span, and by Grover [illegible] Michigan College of Mining and Technology) from 1919 until the New Deal in 1933.

If the reign of the Republicans in this post was disrupted, then the Republicans have only Franklin Delano Roosevelt and a series of popular landslides to blame.

The New Deal brought Murray D. VanWagoner to Lansing in 1933 and it helped to re-elect him in 1937, the year after the Roosevelt-Murphy victory at Michigan polls. When Governor "Pat" went to the governorship in 1941, he was succeeded by his brainy deputy, G. Donald Kennedy, now safely berthed in Washington with a $18,000 - year fifty foundation job.

* * *

In the meanwhile, the Republicans have had hard sledding. William M. Brucker (R) was followed by William A. Comstock (D). Frank Fitzgerald (R) was followed by Frank Murphy (D). Luren Dickinson, heir to the Fitzgerald crown, was followed by Murry D. Van Wagoner (D). We're right back where we started with Harry F. Kelly (R) as governor.

In this restless, depression decade, Michigan has experienced a steady turnover in the governorship every two years as regularly as the clock ticks 60 seconds to the hour. In this same period the tenure of highway commissioner has averaged five years, more than double that of the governorship.

* * *

All this is a bit of recorded history, and it all adds up to the same thing.

[illegible] Republicans from the governorship as the Democrats have held the post of highway commissioner from 1933 to 1943, then the new commissioner—or highway engineer, as he really is—will have a chance to effect continuity in program and become proficient at his job.

But, should the governorship swing, like a pendulum, from one party to the other, as it has done in Michigan steadily since 1938, then Senator Baldwin may be known in the future as a prophet of astute mental penetration.

For that reason we suspect that the answer to the entire problem must rest on the future more than the present, as to what the legislature is acting with wisdom in "taking the highway department out of politics."

The conservation department's third regular sale of state lands in 1943 will offer 1,838 lots and 7,838 acres to cash purchasers in 10 counties of northern lower Michigan between Mar. 29 and Apr. 3.

Do not make a Long Distance call unless it is really important.

Keep every call as brief as you can.

NEW HYBRID TOMATO

Tests at Michigan State College indicate a new hybrid tomato holds promise for greenhouse operators because of its uniform yield. The name "Spartan Hybrid" according to Keith C. Barrons, who helped produce and test the new development. Parents are the well known Michigan State tomato and a variety called Cooper's Special. Yields of the new hybrid at a week to ten days earlier than the Michigan State hothouse tomato. Greenhouse labor shortages, Barron points out, may delay widespread production of the new hybrid by commercial growers.

A young woman of Dallas, Tex., taking a man's place, is a "salesman" in an exclusive men's store. In Chicago last year, 8105 families shared the products of 547 community war gardens.

Two Madison, Wi. daily newspapers have abolished their Sunday comic sections in order to save paper.

New Born Babes Not Dependents

According to information just provided members of the Plymouth induction board by the Lansing office in charge of the national selective service in Michigan, babies born after September 14, 1942 will not be regarded by the board as dependents.

In view of this policy, registrants reporting the birth of their first child after September 14, 1942 will still be considered as category 3 cases and their classification will be reopened and reconsidered in order number and sequence with all other category 3 cases, state members of the Plymouth board.

This new ruling, if it stands, therefore considers a registrant who is a father of a child born after September 14 as a person who has a wife but no children.

Handbooks from the office of Price Administration are being placed in all branches of the Wayne County library. These contain a great deal of useful information for consumers about ceiling prices in your area. Subjects such as rent control, point rationing, prices for grades of beef, etc., are explained in detail. For instance, if you wish to know the highest price for the highest quality of butter in the Detroit area, you may find it on the sheet giving butter prices in the handbook.

Libraries will be kept up-to-date by the addition of new material as it is issued from the Office of Price Administration.

Victory Gardeners Eligible To Win Merit Awards

Michigan's best Victory gardeners will be eligible to win merit awards and war bond prizes for their efforts in 1943, under plans of a statewide contest committee.

Local contests in every county in the state will provide the naming of the statewide champions, according to Paul Krone, chairman of the Michigan Victory Garden Committee.

The movement is sponsored by the Michigan Horticultural Society, with the cooperation of the Michigan Horticultural Council, the Michigan Council of Defense, the State Department of Agriculture, Michigan State College and other horticultural organizations, both commercial and amateur.

Each county Victory Garden committee, in carrying out the general plan, will divide the rural area of the county into districts to simplify judging.

Seven basic classes will designate the best farm vegetable garden, the best urban or suburban vegetable garden, the best home ground including vegetable garden all owned or tenant, the best home grounds maintained with hired help, the best school garden, the best junior garden and the best home grounds, including vegetable garden, entered by a member of the Michigan Horticultural Society.

Prizes within counties will be determined locally.

Statewide, the winners will receive awards ranging from $100 war bonds to $25 war bonds in each class except for the school and junior gardens for which awards are to be determined. County fair exhibits displays from Victory Gardens are being encouraged, with premiums to be announced.

HONEY NO MIRACLE

Michigan State College proved in 1942 that bees are doing their part in combating the sugar shortage, but that beekeeping is not an amateur's shortcut to plenty of sweets. The season was not favorable to the bees, but the 17 colonies turned out nearly 70 pounds of honey each. The honey had a value of $173.43, a little more than $10 a colony.

While waiting for point rationing to go into effect, an Enid, Okla., grocer found that a placard, "Use Your Common Sense," posted in his canned goods department, served to restrain would-be food hoarders.

Mrs. Ware is unable to help with the drive because of illness in the family.

BLOOD DONORS NEEDED

According to Mrs. W. E. Forney's records of the recently completed door to door canvass for blood donors the results were disappointing and may necessitate the postponement of the blood bank motor unit's visit to Northville scheduled for this month. So far there are only 175 registrants and a minimum of 200 is required.

Mrs. Frank Hart who directed the drive put on by members of the Mothers' Club and Blue Star Mothers and assisted by volunteers also canvassed for women to help make surgical dressings. The canvassers were Mesdames Alton Peters, Eldon Bliss, T. N. Kampf, jr., Kenneth McKaye, Willard Ely, Horace Boyden, George Richardson, E. M. Bogart, Charles Westphall, Myrtle Sears, Russell Atchison, John Dickey, George Weiss, Roy Covell, George Brody, Stewart Robinson, Arthur Jutod, Esley Nirider, A. L. Coykendal, Joe Litsenberger, A. W. Litsenberger, George Dobbin and Miss Theresa Mackey.

If you were not at home when one of these canvassers tried to get in touch with you, phone Mrs. Forney, 3531, and she will take your registration.

You may be a donor if you are normally healthy and between 18 and 60. By a miracle of science, blood plasma may now be dried and kept indefinitely. To some man in uniform, your small sacrifice may mean the difference between life and death.

D. have already expressed desires to handle the projects in a cooperative way and make it easier for others to join in the projects in this vicinity.

"Permanent Waving"

CLEOPATRA had a permanent. Hair for making wigs has always been permanently waved before it is made into a wig. Modern permanent waving originated about 40 years ago. Unlike any other work done by the modern Beautician, permanent waving is not an art, it is all mechanics, chemistry, and knowledge of hair. Today we have three types of permanents. The machine wave, the machineless, and the cold wave. The last named is still in the experimental stage. Due to the war most materials for permanent waving have been greatly restricted, and such as aluminum, cannot be used at all. Such old firms as, Rilling Co., Eugene Ltd., Frederic Inc., Sales Affiliate—makers of Zotos and Jamal machinless—are still receiving good materials. Others are experimenting with substitutes with fairly good results. Solutions for permanents contain vital chemicals needed for the war effort. Substitutions are being used. Much research has had to be done, with the result that the price has had to go up and up, so that today we are paying in some instances 300% more for some materials than before. The price of a permanent depends entirely upon the price of the material used. The Beauty Shop has to figure also about 30% of the price of a wave for taxes.

Each week Mr. Ankner will discuss some phase of Beauty Culture.

100,000 MILES IS A LONG WAY!

Let's say the life of an automobile is 100,000 miles. That is just the number of miles of automobile travel required for a single reading of this Company's meters in 58 Michigan counties.

So you might say that a new automobile was worn out every month — together with several sets of tires — when meters were read monthly.

Now it's every two months, for in line with the Government's program of conserving automobiles, tires and gasoline, we are reading household meters and some commercial meters only once in two months. This is in the customer's interest for it prolongs the usefulness of the automobiles and tires needed to maintain essential service to homes, offices and industries.

Because most customers like to budget their expenses on a monthly basis, we are continuing to send you a bill every month. Your payment for the month when the meter is not read represents a payment on account and keeps the bill from piling up on you.

Here's How to Shop for Rationed Foods at A&P Markets

Here is a helpful service A&P offers you to make your ration-point shopping easier. Shelves and bins stocked with rationed foods carry both price tags and ration points (see illustration) to quickly tell you how much you are required to pay in cash and ration-points for each item on display. This means you can make quick comparisons of the points each food requires for purchase as you shop from display to display.

You shop as you always have . . . serving yourself from the bins and shelves . . . making your selections to suit your taste, purse and convenience. And when you complete your selections of point-rationed foods, as well as everything else you wish to buy, you do as you have always done. Just wheel your glider to the check-out counter. Our cashiers will figure the amount of ration-points you will be required to surrender for your rationed foods . . . and total your entire bill. You will pay ration-points and cash at one place, the check-out counter.

The Battle Front

The Tunisian battle lines, which last week were changing rapidly under the German advance, are now pretty sharply delineated. When veteran Axis divisions broke through the southern range of mountains at Faid Pass Ans Sidi Bou Zid, over in Italy and poured into the plains of Sbeitla, Kasserine and Perina, the Allied forces were forced to retreat, forced also to abandon three airfields and destroy or abandon quantities of equipment and supplies and to take up positions in the second range of mountains, the so-called Grand Dorsal, that runs from Pont Du Fahs southwestward just east of the allied stronghold of Tebessa.

The threat to the right rear of the British first army, immobilized by mud in northern Tunisia, just in back of Bizerte and Tunis, was apparent when the German columns continued their advance, pushing through the Kasserine pass of the Grand Dorsal range toward Thala and Tebessa. Had this drive been successful, had the German forces succeeded in storming the passes and moving up toward the coast, the Axis could conceivably have broken the whole allied defense in this area.

That this did not happen was a credit, said Secretary of War Stimson to the fine action of American ground forces, the great skill of our air support, and the valuable help given by the British first army. Our forces were not broken by the Germans. On the contrary, the counter-attack that checked the enemy in the passes northwest of Kasserine and hurled him back almost 10 miles was a success. And although American losses in the first 10 days of the Axis offensive were heavy they were probably not as large as first expected, as several American units which were cut off have made their way back through the Axis lines. Losses admittedly included substantial quantities of tanks, scout cars and field guns, but much of this material has already been replaced.

For the immediate future, Mr. Stimson predicted heavy fighting all along the Tunisian front. "We must expect setbacks and casualties. We must not expect any easy or quick victory in Tunisia." And to correct a misunderstanding on the employment of "green" American troops in the recent fighting, Mr. Stimson explained that although our men are highly trained up to the point of experience under fire. There is no substitute for training for actual battle experience. Men must learn under fire the stalk of war."

The Battle Against the Submarine

Following the Navy's disclosure that a German submarine had been sunk by an American destroyer in the Atlantic and a sub had sunk a submarine destroyed in the Pacific by the armed guard crew of an American merchantman, Secretary of the Navy Knox stated that although our merchant ship sinkings were less last month than the month before, and although no doubt there have been other U-boat sinkings by Allied forces, the submarine menace "most emphatically" is still a very grave menace. All measures that are know that could help reduce the submarine menace are being used, Mr. Knox said, but there is nothing on which to predicate any hope for early stoppage or cure. The day before, the Navy had announced a serious loss—the submarine sinking of two passenger-cargo ships in the north Atlantic with approximately 850 casualties, both civilian and service personnel—more than 600 of the 900 aboard the first vessel and more than half of the 500 aboard the second ship.

WAR CALLS FOR WOOD

White oak, red oak and American elm are needed for boat building for war use. Yellow birch and maple veneer are used in airplane construction. One warning by Ira Bull, Michigan State College extension forester, tells farm woodlot owners it is not necessary to clean cut woodlots just to be patriotic! Only the largest trees are needed at a fair market price. Smaller trees should grow into a future timber harvest.

POTATO METHODS PAY

By getting several times the acre yield of the average Michigan potato grower, 153 of the top spud producers in 1942 produced 10 per cent of the total crop of slightly more than 17 million bushels, according to records of the Michigan Crop Improvement 300 bushel potato contest.

WINTER FISHING ENDS

The season of winter fishing for bluegills now closing was the quietest and least productive in years, as travel restrictions, lack of leisure and severe winter weather combined to reduce the catch drastically. Warm days in late February brought a flurry of activity near the season's end.

Pike lakes will close Mar. 15 and fishing on all other lakes will stop Mar. 31 to give lake species to spawn. In the interval between sport fishing seasons, anglers may dip-net suckers on their upstream runs Mar. 1-May 15; may spear suckers from April 1 to May 15 in the lower peninsula and during May in the upper peninsula, and may dip smelt whenever they run in the months of March, April and May.

3 EASY WAYS TO SAVE electricity

COOKING. Plan more oven meals in your electric range. Preparing a complete meal in the oven at one time is economical: The same amount of electricity cooks meat, potatoes, vegetables and a pudding. • • • Use LOW heat to finish most of your surface cooking, after foods have reached the steaming point. When the cooking operation is almost completed, the heat may be turned completely OFF. Stored heat in the unit finishes the cooking operation. • • • Don't waste electricity heating up a large quantity of water when cooking vegetables: Half-a-cup of water is ample.
LIGHTING. Dust steals light and wastes electricity. Wipe all lamp bulbs frequently, also reflector bowls and ceiling fixtures. Use the right size lamp in the right socket. Dark colored lamp shades soak up light. Use light-colored shades wherever possible, or try fitting dark shades with a white lining.
APPLIANCES. Don't leave appliances turned on when temporarily not in use (your electric iron or toaster, for example). Pull the plug, and connect the appliance again later when you are ready to use it. Defrost your refrigerator regularly. Don't overcrowd your refrigerator. Unless the motor is hermetically sealed, have it oiled and inspected regularly. Be sure to locate your refrigerator away from heat sources, and allow adequate air circulation all around the refrigerator. The Detroit Edison Company.

Philip Baldwin, formerly of Northville, has been sent to Miami for training for the Air Corps. After a few weeks there he expects to be transferred to a pre-flight school.

V

Paul Simpson who has just graduated from the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, has left for Miami, Fla., to attend Officers' Training School in the Army Air Forces.

V

I have been very pleased to receive the Record while I have been in training in Great Lakes. My address will be changed soon and I would greatly appreciate your holding my Record until I notify you as to this change.

I enjoy reading the letters from boys in the service in the Record and hope that they will continue as it is a very nice way of finding boys from Northville whose address you wish to have.

I will send my address as soon as I receive transfer as to where I will be stationed.

Arrived safe somewhere in North Africa along the shores of the Mediterraneocn Sea. I am feeling fine and sure enjoy the sun especially this time of year.

I did not get seasick on the trip. I want to thank you for mailing me the Record. I am behind now, but my mail will catch up with me some day.

Yours truly,
William J. Smith

V

George E. White is undergoing boot training at Great Lakes, after which he will be given further specialized training.

V

Alec Milne is spending a ten day stopover here. He has been transfered from McChord Field, Washington, and assigned to an Officers' Training School in Maryland.

V

Cookie Mogenson who has been in training at Great Lakes was in town this week. He came here to pick up his car, which has been in storage here and drove it to his home town, Chetek, Wis., while on leave.

V

Louis Foreman who left for Camp Custer a week ago Saturday, has been transferred to Camp McCain, Mississippi.

Ray Hartner, who left the same time, has been assigned to a technical school at Miami Beach, Fla.

V

Birthday congratulations Mar. 7 to Sgt. Donald Lanning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lanning, now stationed at Clovis, New Mexico.

V

Mrs. Irving Gaffield has received word from her husband, Pfc. Gaffield that he is stationed somewhere in England.

V

Well, I have struck it lucky. I am going to school here at the station so will be here for at least another month, maybe longer.

I really have no news, but would certainly appreciate the Record again. To read it is almost as good as being home. If you need to have your bed made or anything else done that a nurse does, just wait till I get home.

3700 No. 2 Ration Books Issued Here

Three thousand seven hundred Number 2 Ration Books were issued here last week at the Grade School. Monday there were 820, Tuesday, 1631, Wednesday, 949 and Thursday 900.

The system of processing the issuance of these books as set up by Mr. Amerman, Mr. Harrison and Mr. Bovee, worked out very smoothly. The teachers, all of whom worked on the project, expressed their appreciation of the facility with which the registration worked as the public cooperated by coming on the days designated.

Due to the alphabetical grouping the staff could handle them easily and there was little delay.
