It has been a long time, since my last letter to you, but honestly, I have been awfully busy. I just wanted to write, and thank you, for sending your paper to me. I enjoy reading it very very much. I just received your May issue, today. The reason it has taken so long to reach me, is because I have been moving around so much. I think I am settled down now, so I should be getting it regularly from now on.

Today is an awfully important day, for all of us. I heard over the radio this morning that Russia declared war on Japan. Boy, that really was swell news. That, combined with the new Atomic Bomb we have, should bring the war to an end, in the very near future.

My Brother, Allen, is over in Germany now. I guess he will be sent over here, to the Pacific pretty soon, though.

I had a very pleasant surprise, a few weeks ago. I met up with a fellow from Farmington. His name is Irvin Ramage. His nephew, Arleigh Hamm, used to be the Drummer in my Orchestra. As most of you probably remember, Arleigh, used to attend the Northville High School. He is over in Germany now too.

Bobby Meyers is in my brother's outfit, over in Europe now, too.

We have a little orchestra started over here now. We have three Saxaphones, two Trumpets, piano, Bass, and Drums. It is a solid little outfit, and we sure get a kick out of playing.

There is a friendly little lizard in my tent, that keeps insisting that he sleep in my bed with me. He told me, a few nights ago, that he was there before I was, and that he has seniority over me. I guess I will just have to give my bed up to him.

How is everything getting along in Northville now? It shouldn't be long now, until all of us will be returning home to our loved ones again. Boy, a fellow sure learns to appreciate the comforts of home, especially when he has to be away from home for awhile.

I would like to take this time, to say hello to Mr. Lee, Mr. Mollema and Mr. Harrison. And also to all of my friends there. I hope it won't be too long, before we can be together again. I sure miss the good times that we used to have in the park, behind the City Hall. Does the High School Band, still hold their rehearsals on Monday evenings?

Well, I guess I had better sign off for now. It is getting pretty late, and I still have to get rid of that old lizard, before I can go to bed. I will write more often now that I am finally situated in one place. I want to thank you again, for sending me the Northville Record. In my opinion, it is the best paper in the world. And I know that I am not alone in my opinion, either.

So long, for now.

Don Barnard.

T/Sgt. Fred Hicks reported back to Camp Grant, Ill., August 17, after spending a thirty day furlough with his wife, the formerly Laura Bolton of South Wing. Fred received a 30 day extension and is back in town again until September eighth. He will report back to Greensboro, N.C.

So the Record gets to us regularly, am sending my new address to you.

We do so enjoy receiving the paper from home and Monday is always Northville night—when we read the Record from the front page right thru the "Want Ads."

Geiger Field, where I'm now stationed, is just outside of Spokane, Washington. After being on the California desert so long, it is wonderful to walk down tree-lined streets. The trees and flowers in and around Spokane are the same as those in Michigan.

They have taken boys from all over the United States (some are here from Selfridge Field) and are sending them to Army Engineering School. We don't know where we'll go from here when our schooling is up.

With all the good news from the Pacific today—maybe we'll be seeing you soon rather than reading about you.

Good luck to all you boys in srevice and best wishes to you in Northville.

Sincerely,
Louis H. Chamberlain

Awarded Legion of Merit Badge

Gen. Hodges Presents Award for Meritorious Service to Lt. Col. Ward H. Van Atta.

Award of the Legion of Merit for exceptionally meritorious service with General Courtney H. Hodges' First United States Army was made to Lieutenant Colonel Ward H. Van Atta, at an impressive ceremony held at Fort Jackson, S.C. recently. Presentation was made by General Hodges.

As Supply Officer of the Engineer Section of the First Army, Lieutenant Colonel Van Atta directed the movement of engineer supplies. During the critical period of the German counter-offensive, he kept his units continuously supplied with demolition and fortification materials, and the efficient utilization of these items played a significant role in the stemming of the enemy advance.

The citation reads as follows: Lieutenant Colonel Ward H. Van Atta, Corps of Engineers, United States Army. For exceptionally meritorious conduct in performance of outstanding services as Supply Officer, Engineer Section, Headquarters First United States Army, from 22 December 1944 to 8 May 1945, in Belgium and Germany. Lieutenant Colonel Van Atta directed the displacement of engineer supplies in such a manner that units engaged in blocking the German counter-offensive were continuously supported with demolition supplies and fortification materials. He was instrumental in grouping Army engineer units into a highly successful Army Engineer Service Group which proved its worth in the assembly and transportation of seven major bridges used in the assault crossing of the Rhine River. He then directed the rapid movement of engineer supplies across the river and successfully supplied First Army engineer units while supporting two major fronts in opposite directions. Through his untiring efforts, Lieutenant Colonel Van Atta contributed greatly to the success of First Army. Entered military service from Michigan.

Were returned to the States the last of June from the European Theater of Operations and together with his wife, the former Jane Andrews, and son Peter, of Seattle, Wash., came to Northville to visit his parents, the Fred Van Attas of West Main street. He recently reported back to camp and word was received last week that he arrived safely overseas in the South Pacific. Ward also holds the Soldiers Medal, and was promoted only this week to the rank of a full Colonel.

IN THE HOUR OF TRIUMPH

Behind us lie 3½ years of deadly struggle in which, with God's help, we have prevailed.

So, joyously, we celebrate a victory.

The celebration has died down. What lies ahead?

For most of us, the outlook is a bright one. If we will simply use the brains, the will, the energy, the enterprise . . . the materials and resources . . . with which we won our war, we can't fail to win the peace and to make this the richest, happiest land the world has known.

For most of us, the years ahead are bright with promise. But for others of us—and, ironically enough, their part in bringing victory was a major one—the years to come must bear a different look. In America today are hundreds of thousands of injured men. Men with neatly pinned-up sleeves and trousers. Blinded men. Men with clever iron hooks instead of hands. Worst of all, men with hurt and darkened minds.

These men need our help. Helping them will cost a great deal of money. We can help them best by buying Victory Bonds. Far away from America today are millions of Americans. As we would be, they're on fire to get back . . . to their wives, to the children some of them have never seen, to their jobs.

These men need our help. Helping them will cost a great deal of money. And we can help them best by buying Victory Bonds.

This is our day of triumph. But it's theirs too—the injured men, the men who are still far away.

Let's not forget them, in our rejoicing. And the one way we can help most to care for our wounded . . . to bring our veterans home . . . to give them a fresh start in the country they fought for . . . to care for the families of those who died before the victory was won . . . is simply this:

Buy all the Bonds you can. Keep all the Bonds you buy.

Tuesday, Last Day for Bathing Trips to Lake

With the opening of the Northville schools just around the corner, the last day youngsters may enjoy the facilities of bathing at Beach at Walled Lake, is next Tuesday. An average of twenty-six youngsters each time has gone to the lake, accompanied by R. W. Dockson, recreation manager. Due to the kindness of T. P. Biddle, owner and manager of the Northville Coach Line, the youngsters were transported to and from Walled Lake for a very nominal fee which was paid to him by the Recreational Commission of the village.

Next week will conclude the softball schedule. On Monday, Novi plays C.Y.O., and Wednesday, Petz Service plays Twin Pines.

Friday the feature contest concluding the season will be when the Royal Recreation boys clash with the C.Y.O. team. This, in a large measure, will be experience versus youth. Both teams are league leaders.

Introducing . . .

Bowland, and children, Marjory, aged 6, George Jr., 2, and Alice, 4 months old, Mr. and Mrs. Bowland and family come to Northville from Dearborn, and they have purchased the Ralph Cole home on 340 South Rogers street. Series of Advertisements by P. M. Tell of Post War Industrial Developments

Industrial developments in the post war period in ten major industries form the basis of an advertising series just being released by the Pere Marquette Railway company and its affiliate lines, the Chesapeake and Ohio and Nickel Plate roads in 446 newspapers in which the Record is one. The 2nd advertisement appears this week and others will follow from time to time.

The advertising represents a departure from the usual in that it does not plug for the railroads particularly but rather points with confidence to the future for labor and industry. The comments of R. J. Bowman, president of P. M. are interesting. He says of the reason for his company's advertisement:

"The obvious growing concern among workers lest we enter another period of unemployment after the war.

"Little known facts of the pent-up demand for civilian goods and the tremendous technological progress being made by industry, both of which are bound to bolster employment to a degree that is difficult to overestimate.

"It is our firm conviction that if people could know what the postwar demand for goods will mean in terms of actual jobs if they could know of the plans business management has for new products, better products, products at lower prices and the vast number of jobs that these projects are sure to create, people would be optimistic rather than fearful.

"We would be very happy to have any comments you might care to make on this current campaign. And, of course, any editorial support your paper could give to this subject of postwar job opportunities would help. As this advertising is planned to help in giving assurance to the public about our national postwar future.

"Incidentally, it is our belief that one of the best ways to give the public confidence in business management and our American enterprise system is for management to demonstrate its interest in the postwar employment problem and its ability to provide a lot of postwar jobs."

Spotted Targets Through Darkness, Smoke or Fog

The Bell System — the largest source of Radar for our fighting forces

THIS is not surprising for Radar development and production stems from the same roots that produced and continue to nourish this country's telephone system.

Radar, the instrument which enabled our land, sea and air forces to spot enemy targets through darkness, smoke or fog, was one of the outstanding new fighting instruments of the war.

Two years before Pearl Harbor the Government asked Bell Telephone Laboratories to put its wide experience and knowledge of electronics to work to help perfect Radar as a military instrument.

From then on, the Laboratories cooperated closely in the Radar program with the National Defense Research Committee, with Army and Navy specialists, and with scientists of Great Britain.

The Western Electric Company, manufacturing branch of the Bell System, became the Nation's largest supplier of Radar systems. One type it made was universally used by B-29's in the Pacific for navigation, target location and high altitude bombing. Another played an important part in aiming the guns on our warships.

If you're waiting for a home telephone, it helps a little to know that Radar is one of the reasons. For years telephone manufacturing plants were devoted to war needs.

Joe Parkinson's News Letter

And now, the ultimate of boondoggling dreams to consume taxpayers' dollars and to keep army engineers on federal payrolls: An inland barge canal connecting Lake Michigan and Lake Erie, a distance of 280 miles!

Fantastic as the idea may appear, the project has been authorized by Congress through its river and harbor bill of March 2, 1945, approved by President Roosevelt.

It would link the harbors of Toledo and Chicago by digging a waterway across western Ohio and northern Indiana. Army engineers say the short-cut would save about 450 miles of transportation by way of the Detroit river, Lake St. Clair, Lake Huron and Lake Michigan.

Because the canal would not traverse Michigan counties, interest among Michigan people has been lagging. However, the Indiana state legislative board of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen have denounced the scheme in no uncertain words on the grounds that there was "no economic justification for the project."

To which, we agree. Here's why.

* * *

The Great Lakes provide the greatest single factor in Michigan life.

Our climate, famous with summer vacation-seekers, is controlled by the lakes.

Our automobile industry owes its origin to the manufacture of marine engines, a by-product of transportation on the lakes.

The greatest marine thoroughfare in the world is the Detroit river. The world's largest waterway gate is the Soo canal at Sault Ste. Marie.

Michigan has water communication with seven other states, and it affords 31 government improved, natural harbors in addition to many ports that have been improved at local expense.

Michigan-mined iron and copper ore are transported in Michigan boats to Michigan industrial plants, there to be converted into thousands of modern appliances.

Pulp from Scandinavia is transported by boats direct to Michigan ports for shipment by railroad to Kalamazoo paper mills. Foreign vessels travel via the St. Lawrence river and the Great Lakes right to our front door!

Products of Michigan (peacetime, of course) included automobiles, automobile parts, tires and rubber products, basic steel, pig iron, coke, furniture, drugs and pharmaceuticals, lumber, chemicals, paper, beet sugar, clothing, machinery, cast and forged iron and steel, petroleum products, plastics, radios, refrigerators, stoves and ranges, flour, cereals, leather goods, dairy products, furs, canned goods, fishing tackle, cement and other limestone products, adding machines, typewriters and office equipment.

One-sixth of the nation's war output came from Michigan!

Sure, we're good. But so are the Great Lakes.

* * *

The Lake Erie-Lake Michigan waterway is not a new dream.

Part of the first link of a canal system which was to connect Lake St. Clair with Lake Michigan is still in existence today. Between Utica and Rochester is a stretch of the old Clinton-Kalamazoo canal. It is still used for water power by the Utica Milling company.

Here's its history. Just more than 100 years ago the Erie canal was completed, and thousands of settlers began arriving here from New York state. Railroads were somewhat of an experiment. Michigan boosters conceived the idea of utilizing the Clinton and Kalamazoo rivers, bridging these waterways with a canal to afford a cross-state route for horse-drawn barges.

Michigan's boy governor, Stevens T. Mason, headed the project. Work started in 1839. The canal got as far as the present Bloomer State Park at Rochester. Money ran out; later the canal was completely abandoned.

The early development of Michigan was due largely to availability of water transportation.

Humorous as it may appear today, a Michigan territorial act of 1836 required the installation of locks in dams on the following rivers: Shiawassee, St. Joseph, Kalamazoo, Thornapple, Huron, Lookingglass and Grand. It was recognized at the navigability of these streams. Governor Mason in his message of Jan. 2, 1837, said that the need for uniting the waters east and west of the Lower Peninsula has long been conceded.

Some persons wanted to connect the Huron river with the Red Cedar and thence into the Grand to Lake Michigan. Others proposed a waterway utilizing the Raisin and the St. Joseph or Kalamazoo rivers. Every town in the southern tier of Michigan counties had its own favorite route which, of course, would go right through town.

Personally, we wouldn't oppose the Lake Erie-Lake Michigan new barge canal so much except for one thing. The blooming thing is going to miss Michigan altogether.

Now Michigan almost went to fight with Ohio over the so-called "Toledo strip" of land. We got the best of the deal for Congress threw in the Upper Peninsula for good measure to keep us from getting mad, and also a lot of us like to go to the Upper Peninsula, especially when the weather is hot in July and August.

But, if the army engineers would change the canal route to include Lansing, for example, Michigan legislators might be induced to come out for it.

Anyway, we can't stand by and let Ohio and Indiana get this ditch into which the Great White Father would pour millions of dollars, even if nobody ever would use the darn thing. Why? We've got too much pride. Yes, sir, by!

Dissemination of wide distribution and thoughtful study is the new handbook, "Rural Michigan," just issued by the state department of public instruction at Lansing, through the cooperation of the W. K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek. Highlights of this study are presented in this column regularly.

"The information is presented as the most recent available," says Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, superintendent of public instruction. Elliott points out that the study was a result of the Conference on Education for Rural Living held at Grand Rapids last January, attended by representatives from 80 counties, 120 communities and 20 organizations. He adds:

"The conference arrived at the following conclusion: If there is to be an improvement in all areas of rural living, action must begin where people live."

Hence the importance of information contained in this challenging booklet which is intended to stimulate thinking and, accordingly, to induce action. This is the true American way.

"SOON!—
We'll be turning on the electric life"
"We've just bought a house—and we're awfully anxious to move in. For that house was built before the war by a man who recognized the wonderful advantages of electric living . . . and he built and equipped it for full use of electricity. It has an all-electric kitchen . . . I'll certainly put that dishwasher to work for me! And, of course, it has the biggest labor-saver of all—an all-electric laundry. I think I'll find it a little hard at first to get used to the convenience of frozen food storage and all it means in making shopping and planning meals easier. Of course the house is air-conditioned. And the lighting is a dream! The whole spirit of such living is modern to the utmost . . . we're going to be living as we never have before!"
Electric equipment is not generally available for sale now. Some is being manufactured and distributed. It will be to your advantage to have your name on your electrical dealer's list, so that you will be able to get it at the earliest possible time.
ELECTRIC KITCHEN
There is a wealth of enjoyment in the all-electric kitchen with an automatic electric range, electric refrigerator, electric dishwasher and electric garbage disposal unit.
ELECTRIC LAUNDRY
Any day or every day can be an almost effortless washday with an all-electric laundry. The electric dryer and ironer do away with long hours and fatigue.
FROZEN FOOD STORAGE
Frozen food units for the home are on the way—compact units that will keep foodstuffs indefinitely. The family can have fresh foods at any season.
AIR CONDITIONING
Proper year-round temperature in the home, together with removal of dirt and dust, is the advantage in electric air-conditioning.

Revised G.I. Bill

Unless the senate accepts the revised G.I. Bill of Rights as it was amended by the house recently, there is little chance of its being returned until the recess period of congress, after the summer vacation.
The major revisions of the original bill which skimmed through the house by unanimous voice vote are designed to liberalize the loan and education sections and make only minor changes in hospitalization, employment, unemployment compensation and administrative rules of the original bill.
Amendments to the education section extend from two to four years after discharge the time in which a study course may be started; extend from seven to nine years after the war's end the time in which education or training may be given at government expense; provide for short intensive post-graduate or vocational courses of 30 weeks or less; permit the government to finance correspondence courses; increase from $50 to $60 monthly educational subsistence allowance for a veteran without dependents, and from $75 to $85 the allowance for a veteran with dependents.
Amendments to the loan feature extend from two to six years after discharge or end of war the time in which a veteran may apply for a G.I. guaranteed loan; permit a qualified veteran to negotiate, with any established lending agency or financial agency approved by the Veterans' Administration, for a loan for purchase of a home, business or farm in any amount; retain the existing limitation of 50 per cent of the principal, or $2,000, whichever is less, on the amount the government will guarantee; prohibit foreclosure of loans until 30 days after a veteran's discharge; provide that the application need only be approved on the basis of a credit check, instead of by the Veterans' Administration; and provide that the reasonable value of property to be used as a loan shall be determined by the lender's appraisal.

Q.—If a wife is separated from her husband, a lieutenant in the air corps, and he names his mother beneficiary in his life insurance, is the wife entitled to any benefits if the husband is killed?
A.—Since the mother is named beneficiary, she would be the recipient of all the insurance.

Q.—Are women in the service eligible for benefits under the G.I. Bill of Rights?
A.—Yes, women in both the army and navy. WAVES, SPARS, WACS are women in the Marine Reserves.

Q.—If a serviceman is not physically qualified for combat duty will he be sent overseas?
A.—The army will determine his physical qualifications, and if not physically qualified for combat he may be sent overseas for limited or other than combat duty.

Q.—Is the Legion for honorable discharges given only to men who have served since December 7, 1941?
A.—All men who served honorably in the armed forces since September 16, 1940, are entitled to wear the lapel pin.

Q.—How can I get a duplicate of my army or navy discharge, lost in a fire at my home?
A.—You cannot get a duplicate, but you may obtain a certified service certificate in lieu of discharge by writing to the Adjutant General, War Department, Washington, 25, D. C., and asking for an AGO Form 0014.

Q.—What is the difference between an enlisted man's allowance and his allotment?
A.—An "allotment" generally is a sum of money reserved wholly from the pay of a serviceman and sent to his dependents or placed to his credit in a bank. The benefits obtainable under the Serviceman's Dependents' act are termed "family allowances" and are made up from a sum from the soldier's pay plus a sum from the government.

Q.—Was the increase in pay of enlisted men in the army for the duration only?
A.—No, the pay act is permanent legislation.

Q.—My husband served a year and then was discharged under a Section 1 disability. What is his draft classification and can he be reinducted?
A.—The Selective Service policy now is where men are honorably discharged they are placed in Class IV and identified on the records by the designation "disc". They may not be moved from this classification unless the director of Selective Service determines "exceptional circumstances" warrant a reclassification. In such case he may be reinducted, but not as long as he remains in Class 4-C.

Gordon McKinney, discharged last Monday from the Royal Canadian Navy, is visiting his father, J. L. McKinney of Linden street.

Boyden-Forester Vows Pledged In Double Ring Ceremony

The Northville Methodist Church was the scene of the marriage of Mary Louise Boyden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Boyden, and Captain Wayne L. Forester, son of Mrs. Frank Forester of Clawson, and the late Mr. Forester, Rev. W. Leslie Williams read the double ring service Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock before an altar decorated with beauty baskets of pastel and white flowers and tall cathedral candleabra holding many lighted tapers placed at either side.

Mary Louise, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white gown; the net skirt was bouffant in style and the fitted bodice with yoke and bertha collar of net was of embroidered moiseline de soie. Her tiered, finger tip veil was caught to her head by a cap of lace which had adorned her mother's wedding dress. She carried a white prayer book with white gardenias, a shower of ribbons.

The bridal attendants were Mrs. Kenneth Brown as matron of honor, and Mrs. Carl Kurz, both of Clawson, and Mrs. Robert Boyden as bridesmaids. Their frocks were identical in style, made with bouffant skirts of net and the bodices of embroidered marquisette; the matron of honor wore blue and the others pink. Wreaths of pastel flowers were their headdresses and each carried a Colonial boquet of blue delphinium and pink carnations with contrasting frills and ribbons.

Captain Forester's best man was Kenneth Brown of Clawson and the ushers were the groom's brother-in-law, Carl Kurz, also of Clawson and a cousin, William Halsey, of Big Beaver.

For her daughter's marriage, Mrs. Boyden wore a floor length gown of pale blue sheer and a small hat of pink flowers. Mrs. Forester, the groom's mother, chose a gown of aquamarine crepe and a pink flower hat. Their flowers were pink carnations.

A reception was held for about eighty guests in the church parlors, following the ceremony. Lighted tapers and a low bowl of pastel flowers centered the table together with a tiered, decorated bridal cake. A cousin of the bride, Maxine Perkins, assisted with the coffee service as did Kathleen Rinck. Mrs. Roger Sackett (Alice Eaton) presided at the punch table.

Captain and Mrs. Forester left the Boyden home amid a shower of confetti for an undisclosed destination. For going away the bride wore a rose linen dress with brown hat and accessories. The young couple's plans depend on the orders received by the groom at the end of his thirty day furlough. He has just returned to the States after nearly two years duty as a radar officer at a bomber base in England. A graduate of Clawson High school and Alma College, he was a teacher of mathematics at Lacey school, Hazel Park, when he enlisted in the Army.

Mary Louise was born in Northville and graduated from Northville High school and from Michigan State Normal College. Her first teaching position was at Lacey school. She taught there for two years and a half, and had spent the past year in the auditing department of the Defense Plant Corporation at Ford's in Dearborn. Summer school at Michigan State has claimed her time this summer.

The bride's brother, Robert, who is stationed at Treasure Island, Calif., with a Navy band, telephoned home that day to extend his good wishes to the bridal couple.

Out of town guests included Frank Boyden of Kalamazoo, the bride's grandfather, her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Perkins of Redford; Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Dawson of Ypsilanti; Miss Mary De Land and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Begart and daughter, Dorothy, all of Detroit; Mrs. Wm. Halsey and Mrs. Alisste Iavoucci of Big Beaver; Mrs. Katherine Kurz, Mrs. W. J. Findlay and daughter, Laura, and Mrs. Jacob Edwards all of Clawson; Mr. and Mrs. George Forester, Mrs. W. C. Forester, and Mrs. Winyell and daughter, Frances, all of Birmingham.

Mrs. R. M. Atchison entertained at a birthday party for her son, Richard, on his fifth birthday Saturday afternoon. Twelve youngsters came with their mothers, and all enjoyed an afternoon of lawn games, after which ice cream and cake were served.

Saner-Casterline Nuptials Read In Plymouth

St. Peter's Lutheran Church of Plymouth was the scene Saturday evening, August 18, of the marriage of Emily Saner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Saner of Plymouth and Fred Casterline, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray J. Casterline of Dunlap street. Candelabra and white gladioli banked the altar of the church, and the Rev. Edgar Hoenecke read the double ring ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Julius Saner, and wore a white net gown.

The wedding party included the bride's sisters, Mrs. Fred Balko Jr. of Northville, as the matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Roy Schultz of Ypsilanti and Madeline Saner of Plymouth.

The flower girl was Shirley Saner of Plymouth and the ring bearer was Ted Masters of West Dunlap street.

The groom's best man was his brother-in-law, Fred Balko Jr. of this place and the ushers were Julius Saner of Plymouth and Elmer Bennett of Salem.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the bride's home on Powell Road for relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Casterline went on a week's honeymoon to northern Michigan, and upon their return will make their home on 114 West Dunlap street.

Former Northville Girl Married In Rochester

A wedding of interest to Northville folks was the recent one in Rochester which united Thelma George of that place and Pfc. Herbert Marshall of Mt. Morris. The double ring ceremony was read at the First Congregational Church by the Rev. O. Ferris Scott of the Baptist Church. The bridegroom's sister sang, "Because" and "Savior Like a Shepherd Lead Them," accompanied by the organist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Edwin George, and wore a white sharkskin gown with lace yoke fashioned with tiny buttons to the waist with a full skirt. She wore a finger-tip length veil and carried a bouquet of white baby carnations.

The bride's only attendant was Jean Willick and she was attired in blue sharkskin and carried a bouquet of pink baby carnations. The bridegroom's best man was Casper Smith.

Mrs. Marshall is a former resident of Northville living here for about twelve years and graduating with the class of 1941. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin George. Pfc. Marshall graduated from Mt. Morris High school and has recently returned to the States after a period of twenty-one months overseas with the 320th Military Police Escort.

Novi Girl Married In Morning Service

Phyllis Elaine Lake daughter of Mrs. Clair Renwick of East Grand River, Novi, and S/Sgt. Frederick W. Soloman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Soloman of Detroit, were united in marriage Wednesday morning, August 22, at St. William's Parish, Walled Lake. The Rev. John Haney, officiated. Bouquets of white gladioli and palms flanked the altar.

Phyllis was given in marriage by her grandfather, Eugene Ver-Duyn, and wore a white gown with basque bodice of moire taffeta, and skirt of bouffant net. Her finger tip-length veil was gathered to a tiara of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of gardenias on a white prayer book.

Her only attendant was Mrs. Frank Viger, Jr., sister of the groom, who wore a blue chiffon gown and net headdress and carried a bouquet of roses and gardenias. The groom's best man was S/Sgt. Donald Sovesh.

Mrs. Clair Renwick, mother of the bride, wore an aqua gown and a corsage of tea roses. Mrs. Soloman, mother of the groom, wore a black chiffon gown and a corsage of yellow tea roses.

A wedding breakfast for the couple and the immediate family was given at Rosamund Hills by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ver Duyn, grandparents of the bride, immediately following the ceremony. A reception was held Wednesday evening at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Soloman on West Grand Blvd., Detroit, their many friends.

S/Sgt. Soloman recently returned from thirty-three months overseas duty with the Eighth Army Air Force. He will be stationed at Drew Field, Tampa, Florida, and Mrs. Soloman expects to join her husband there sometime next month.

For the Future of America

Send Them

Back To School

Their Privilege — Our Duty

This is a message to those whose high school and college years are behind them. It is a message to the parents of boys and girls of high school age. It is a message to every citizen who loves the United States of America and who wants to see that under the next generation this nation shall continue on its path of greatness.

This coming year, their country will need boys and girls of high school age for the most important job in the world—important, both for themselves and their country. It will need them to prepare to serve in a thousand ways anywhere from a year or two to eight or ten years from now. It needs them to go to high school.

The high school population of the United States has dropped around million since the war began. If this decline continues, education in this country is going into a tailspin just when we need educated young people most.

It's hard to blame young people for wanting to work and earn money. Youth is experimental. It finds it hard to take the long view. And here's where parents and other elders come in. They ought to reason with a boy or girl who is planning to stay out of high school. He or she should be made to see that time invested in study now will pay the richest sort of dividends in usefulness to their country, in helpfulness to their families, in the happiness that comes from possessing skill and knowledge.

When the school bells ring this fall, they ought to sound like bugles. We need these students as truly as we need soldiers, sailors, and marines.

Produce Quality Hay

Tests conducted at the Wyoming experiment station indicates that the maximum yield of digestible nutrients of hay is dependent upon the stage at which hay is cut. Alfalfa should be cut when one-tenth in bloom. Timothy and grass hays should be cut when the plant is in full bloom. Leaves or grass or alfalfa hay carry the heaviest portion of nutrients, so every attempt should be made to harvest hay when it will retain the leaves.

State Land Made Available to Veterans

Exhibiting an eagerness to cooperate with Local Councils of Veterans' Affairs and the Michigan Office of Veterans' Affairs in their efforts to assist veterans in securing homes and business properties, the State Land Board announced a policy of giving veterans preference in buying property.

The program will be of particular interest to veterans in the Metropolitan area, because most of the land the State has for sale lies in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb Counties. Gerald F. Mallory, Land Board secretary, estimates the State has 50,000 to 55,000 parcels of land for sale in these three counties.

Most of the parcels are vacant property platted for residences, but some business sites are included. However, the Board controls all state land in all 36 counties lying below the north line of Muskegon County across the state, including Bay county and all the thumb.

The Land Board rules that a veteran who wishes to buy a State parcel at the appraised value for his own use and not for re-sale may do so without competition.

The land ordinarily must be sold at public auction subject to the highest bid. A civilian wishing to buy a lot must submit a bid and his offer is not accepted for seven days during which a higher bid may be entered.

The appraised prices of the lots in the Metropolitan area are equal or slightly higher than the assessed values, Mallory said. In the small town and rural areas, the appraisals run less than the assessments, he said.

Veterans interested should consult a counselor in a local reporting center, who will assist them in making the correct contacts. The counselor will be empowered to issue a certificate of eligibility to purchase.

Good Sheep Pastures

Three good pastures for basis of a ration for all classes of sheep is the advice of sheep experts. Healthy sheep grazing legume or legume and grass pastures and provided with salt and water need no other feed. The pasture season may be extended by using areas of rye pasture.

If legume roughages are not used, feed liberal amounts of protein concentrates and some extra calcium. Soybean oil meal, limestone, will prove welcome additions to fattening lambs on corn silage diets.

Visits Europe

Port installations at Bremen, Germany, were inspected on Tuesday, August 7. Later in the day the committee viewed the largest port and submarine yards in Europe at Hamburg, Germany. The following day the committee saw the war damage in the Ruhr area from the air enroute to Frankfurt.

Travel on Hitler's Yacht

On Friday, August 10, the committee went to Berchtesgaden, where the members viewed Hitler's retreat and Goering's collections. The previous day the Congressmen had made a trip up the Rhine River on Hitler's yacht. Friday's itinerary included visits at Salzburg and Mannheim, with the day's travel terminating at Heidelberg.

The committee arrived at Marseilles, France, on Saturday, August 11, viewing Karlsruhe, Strasbourg and Belfort from the air enroute.
