General Intelligence.

CAPTAIN KIDD'S TREASURE.

From the New York Sun, April 18. Strange in the eyes of the world, but not in the eyes of the people of Rhode Island, is the discovery of a large sum of money, hidden many generations ago, when the village was on the great line of travel between Philadelphia and New York. The discovery, made during the week ending Sabbath day, was made by a young man, who, while engaged in a search for a buried treasure, discovered a large sum of money, hidden many generations ago, when the village was on the great line of travel between Philadelphia and New York. The discovery, made during the week ending Sabbath day, was made by a young man, who, while engaged in a search for a buried treasure, discovered a large sum of money, hidden many generations ago, when the village was on the great line of travel between Philadelphia and New York.

PARS, GARDEN AND HOUSEHOLD.

An Interesting Agricultural Experiment.

SHREVEPORT, Iowa, April 1870. Several years since I selected a plot of near five feet square soil. For six years in succession I grew upon the plot such crops as I could grow, almost completely by root and branch, from the ground—such as corn, beans, and potato vines, followed by clover, alfalfa, and other crops. At the end of six years of careful clearing everything from the soil, this plot, with the land adjoining, I turned into a corn field. The soil was prepared, and in the time planted to corn. With the same culture, the corn in the crop surpassed all other crops. It grew upon the soil, and I had not given this vegetable mold doctrine any study. Upon the side of the plot, in the ordinary way, the growth of stalks and of large, well ripened ears, were above a good average income crop. Upon the experimental plot, the stunted looking stalks and ears reminded one of the cobbles of New England.

KEVIN'S CASE. C. D. asks in the Farmer how to keep hams and bacon through the summer.

I have for several years, after smoking, put my hams down in salt and have never failed in having them keep perfectly. I take a barrel or box, and cover the bottom with salt, then put in the hams and cover them well with salt so as to exclude the air. Have had no trouble in keeping hams all summer in that way. I keep them in my cellar.

The Cherokee Rose.

The legend of the Cherokee rose is as pretty as the flower itself. An Indian chief of the Seminole tribe was taken prisoner by his enemies, the Cherokees, and doomed to death. He was taken to a place where he became necessary to a traitor for his nation. He was taken to a place where he became necessary to a traitor for his nation. He was taken to a place where he became necessary to a traitor for his nation.

Killed by Wild Parsnips.

We find in our state exchanges frequent mention of serious sickness from eating wild parsnips. So far we have heard of but two persons dying from its effects. The first was Mr. E. M. Milford, of Dutchman county. On the 6th instant, while at work in his garden, which had not been ploughed for two years past, he pulled up some parsnips, which he had been told were quite desirable, gathered a quantity, and washed it at the well, then eating his wife, said that he had gathered her a fine lot of parsnips, of which he had been eating. She informed him that it was deadly poison. Emetics were immediately administered, but to no effect. He was seized with convulsions, and in less than two hours from the time when he took the deadly poison, from his garden, he lay a corpse in his own dwelling.

THE FENIANS AND CANADA

Our Canadiana friends are destined to be kept in the water, from a continued fear of a Fenian invasion. Again the cry has gone forth, that troops with ammunition are concentrating at some point on the frontier, preparatory to making a descent upon Her Majesty's dominions, and the result has been a general rising to arms, to repel the invaders.

Whether the Fenians will fulfill the contract as designed, is hard to determine, but that some movement has been made among them, that betokens a warlike spirit, is quite certain.

Dispatches from the east say, that prominent Fenians are leaving for the frontier to take command of the advance forces, and that among the large cities, organizations are being assembled, and money subscribed to defray expenses of the operations of war; also, that part of this material is being distributed on the Vermont border, and other portions in the vicinity of the Red River territory.

The Fenian bands that were in organization during the time of their first attempt to gain a footing upon Canadian soil, and those who have united since, have been steadfast in their determination to try the feat again, and risk the consequences.

Along the frontier the inhabitants of both governments have intermingled to such an extent, that very many of the Canadians are of our own kin, and on the most intimate terms. If we have any real friends upon Canadian soil, they are of this class, and to permit of such unlawful, wanton raids upon them, would be ungenerous indeed, and it is to be hoped that whenever the attempt shall be made, our government will take decisive action to prevent any such outrage, and punish the instigators.

OUR STATE.

BUCHANAN. The Record states that during the time from October 22, 1869 to April 15, 1870, the snow fell to the total depth of 10 feet 1 inch.

PONTIAC. The Bill Postre says a destructive fire occurred there on the 15th, consuming the Boot & Shoe store of Alcornburg & Co., Partly Insured.

QVID. From the Broomer we learn that while Mrs. Chapman was removing from the stove a boiler of clothes, she stumbled, and the water falling upon her scalded her severely.

MONROE. A colored man succeeded in playing a confidence game on Edward Miller, the tailor, by which they obtained $345. They pretended to sell him a quantity of gold, but the box supposed to contain the money was found to contain nothing but stones. They immediately decamped, one of them stealing a horse on the way. The other was apprehended and is now in jail but no money was found upon him. So says the Commercial.

MASON. It is said by the News that a serious accident befell Martin O'Leary on the 14th inst, by which his thigh and two ribs were broken. Himself and a companion, both railroad employees, were attempting to get a hand car from the track out of the way of a freight train that came upon them unexpectedly. The locomotive struck the hand car, and that hit the man inflicting the injuries he has incurred.

DETROIT. A BRING MAN.—THE FREE PRESS of Apr. 27th says, that a vagrant, who was the other day discharged from the Central Station Court on promise to leave the city, yesterday afternoon created an excitement on water street by seizing hold of and biting every one who came in his way. He was pursued for some distance by an officer, but ran into a lumber yard and made his escape.

DETROIT. On Wednesday night about 11 o'clock a young lady named Mattison, residing at Lowell, attempted to get off the train at Galesburg, before it stopped. She had a heavy satchel with her, and fell. The car passed over her right leg, and she thereafter in this situation was found necessary. She was taken care of by the railroad authorities, who did all possible to alleviate her sufferings.

EPITAPH

On a Favorite and Energetic Thomas Cal. O'er all my heart's resounding strings, A strain of music wildly rings, The chord that rings with sweetest tone, Is struck for him I now bewail.

Though but a cat demand my song, Soft roll the melting notes along; Shout out his praise in loftiest strain, We ne'er shall see his like again.

O! here cat in black and gray, My streaming tears bought not thy stay, Thou in thine armor gray and black, To battle rushed, and came not back.

O! fruitless valor, vainly spent! O! precious life, to Heaven sent! Had'st thou thy "Mission" sought to find, How had'st thou lived and blest mankind.

Now let the Heavens be overcast, For thus our noblest and our best, Proclaim ye righteous! thunders roll! He lacked but one thing, 'twas a soul.

Perhaps he had a soul, who knows Where all this rim and courage goes! Obedient to great Nature's law He passed away, so let him rest!
