

SAMUEL H. LITTLE, Editor.

SATURDAY MORNING, NOV. 11, 1871.

State of Michigan.

Proclamation by the Governor
for a Day of Thanksgiving and Praise.

Another year is drawing to its close, and through the goodness of Almighty God, who in wisdom created the earth, and established the seasons, our lives have been preserved: a year of rich mercies—of peace and plenty—of beautiful crops and general health; yet not without its lessons of sorrow.

While, as a people, we have enjoyed much of earthly happiness, and have been blessed with the abundant mercies of God, through his dear Son, we also have been permitted to see the uncertainty of earthly possessions, in the devastating fires which have brought desolation to many families, and suddenly deprived thousands of our citizens of the rewards of industry and toil.

While we humble ourselves for our sins, let us with one accord lift up our hearts to God in thanksgiving and praise for his great mercies toward us.

Of the great blessing of peace and plenty which have so largely alleviated the sufferings of our afflicted people.

In devout recognition of our dependence upon the Supreme Ruler of the world, I do hereby appoint, THURSDAY, the THIRTIETH day of NOVEMBER, as a day of Thanksgiving and Praise. Let us on that day, in our respective places of public worship, and with our families at home, rejoice in the goodness of God, and render unto him the tribute of contrite and grateful hearts.

Let our thanksgiving find expression in acts of benevolence and deeds of charity, to the sorrowing, the sick, the poor, and the needy; and let us invoke the Divine blessing upon our State and our Nation.

Given under my hand, and the great seal of the State, at Lansing, this 8th day of November, in the year 1871, of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-one, and of the Independence of the United States the thirty-sixth.

HENRY P. BALLWIN,
By the Governor:
Daniel Straizer, Secretary of State.

DOWNFALL OF MORNINGDOOM.

Now that the Chicago fire excitement has abated, the attention of all is directed to Utah, and the scourge in its midst. Slavery and its attendant horrors was for a long time a curse to our country, calling forth in its deplorable results the cry of shame from every civilized nation, until Christianity, and our country's good demanded that the hideous crime be stayed; that has been done, and although at a fearful cost, the country is the better for it.

In Utah, and here will be ten years ago, which, like a cancer at the heart, has increased in strength and purpose, until in its formidable way, defiance has even been put to any efforts of the government authorities in its subjugation. Late reports, however, would seem to demonstrate any other but an intangible or even conciliatory feeling on the part of Government authorities in dealing with these "latter day saints," but rather to show that they are determined to subjugate them by force, and thus free our country and the world of one of the most abominable organizations ever known—worse even than slavery itself.

"Angels Guard your Treasures there."

One of the sweetest productions ever published. The melody is perfect, and the harmony varied and rich. Such a piece should be in every home. Following are the words of the first verse:

"When alone was born dear mother,
And our little leaved in life,
Then thy life was full of gladness,
And thy heart from care was free.
But a change came o'er thy spirit,
And thy face with grief was pale,
For the darling fondly cherished,
Now he sleeping in the vale."

Chorus:
"Among the trees where birds are singing,
And the flowers are blooming fair,
Angel forms are watching o'er them,
Guarding well your treasures there."
