Take Your Own Home Paper.

In soliciting subscriptions for a country newspaper the canvasser often meets with a reply like the following: "I declare I believe I can't take your paper, for I am already taking a New York or Detroit paper which affords me all the news I have time to read."

It is a fact beyond controversy that a country newspaper life is at least on an up hill one, full of self-denial, privations and hardships, which are not to be compared with the life of a city editor.

The Sagawaw Extraordinary of January 27th contains the following: THE EXERCISE HOUSE.—The occasion of the gathering of the friends of Marshall Smith and Lily, at the Everett House, on Thursday evening, was made of more than ordinary interest by the presentation at a most opportune moment—when the mairie of the dance and the sound of the harp, had lulled the senses of a clock leaning fully

A WORD TO THE WISE.—Reader, if you have borrowed the paper you are reading, don't do it again. Subscribe. It isn't safe to borrow papers. We once knew a poor but honest man who borrowed a paper, innocently and inadvertently, from a hitherto wholesome neighbor. Fatal act! That terrible contagion, the small-pox, was conveyed insidiously into the fibers of the sheet.

LOVE AND SUICIDE.—A young lady named Josephine Slocum, 17 years of age, living two miles south of Holly, who had been receiving the attentions of a young man against her parents' wishes, committed suicide by taking strychnine, Sunday, January 21st.

LIES VERY ILL.—But a few weeks since we were bereft of a father, and now as we write our mother lies very low with lung fever and pleurisy, under the care of Dr. Swift. Not knowing but death may again enter our household, we feel, as our readers can imagine, sad enough, and fearful for the future.

A Sonnet to Northville Record—Dear Record, it's time to try true, For thought, never unjust, Try to still be long, New friends shall rise up by the way, And I will wander widely away, And the days grow strong.

Use over a sharp pointed pen, Spare never the voice of man, For they are the best of men, And they are the best of men.

Speak loud for the poor and forlorn, The cause of the weak never scorn, Be faithful and true, The coming from their own way, Be glad to be gone astray, To give their due.

Intemperance condemn as a foe, For drunkards have sorrow and woe, It is enough to harm, Tell them if they drink they will fall, If compare the great and the small, O, sound the alarm.

Dear Record, this sonnet record, With honest and hearty accord, Add and it by deed, Tell all to try to be in the strife, Will lengthen the days of thy life, To triumph will lead.

Lines on the Death of Miss Doris Kellough.

She was fair and did your home adorn, Her eyes were like the stars of dawn, Stern Death, he called me winter morn, Bright came with a year of dawn.

Adapted poems do not mourn, Look toward to the dawn, For a new day is dawning, To dwell in a paradise.

As a young man, you were below, You laughed and you were free, Remember that, he who smiles at us, Your soul's best friend will be.
