The Northville Record

SATURDAY, JULY 20th, 1872.

VOLUME FOUR.

The fourth volume of the Northville Record commences with this number and we tender our grateful thanks to the citizens of Northville and the public generally for the liberal support which has enabled us to continue what seemed at first a doubtful enterprise.

As stated in the supplement to our last issue certain anticipated changes are deferred for a time, but we trust by diligence, to overcome the obstacles in our path and make the Record all its patrons could desire.

We appeal to a generous public to assist us in this laudable effort with renewed subscriptions and a friendly recommendation of the Journal, pledging ourselves to do our part toward making it a source of pride and pleasure.

The Baltimore Convention.

The Democratic National Convention met at Baltimore on Tuesday, July 9th, and concluded its session on the following day. Mr. Randolph was appointed temporary chairman. Senator Doolittle was elected permanent president of the convention, and delivered an appropriate address. Horace Greeley and B. Gratz Brown were nominated by acclamation, the former for President and the latter for Vice-President.

A word to Politicians.
As we have entered upon a Presidential campaign men will engage earnestly in political discussions, which is always proper and right, if they will act and talk judiciously.

We have in former political campaigns known men to abuse their warmest and truest friends.

Men will talk upon most every other subject without exciting any passion, but this moment you oppose their political views you seem to assume an uncontrollable and vindictive temper. We sincerely hope that our readers will firmly resolve to control every angry passion that may try to overpower them. Ever bridle your tongue when tempted to speak ill of your neighbor and friend.

A Trip East.

During a recent journey to Orleans County, N. Y., we visited with the family of Mr. Lyman Rockwell, residing on the Ridge Road, a few miles from Albion and near the charming little village of Gaines. This little town has all the places of business, as stores, shops, hotels, etc., common to thriving villages and boasts in addition a finer church than is usually found outside the larger towns and cities. It was our good fortune to attend service in this (Presbyterian we believe) and listen in company with a large congregation, to a fine discourse from the pastor and some soul stirring music from the choir.

The portion of Western New York through which we traveled, although so much longer settled, differs but little in appearance from Michigan. Crops are looking remarkably well, much more rain having fallen there this season than in our part of this state.

The sympathetic kindness and attention of Mr. Rockwell and family was unceasing, and our visit to their hospitable home will always be recalled with pleasure and although we may never look again on their faces, grateful memory will enshrine them in our heart, as long as the pulse of life shall thrill it.

Fatal R. E. Accident.—A lad of 15 years, named John Condrin, living with his parents at Grafton, a small village on the Holly, Wayne & Monroe Railroad, about 15 miles below Wayne, spent the Fourth at Wayne, visiting with the family of his uncle, Mr. C. O'Connor. The following day (Friday) he took the morning train for home, but did not stop at the depot when driving, thinking, probably, that he could easily get off the train half a mile below, near where he lived. Some persons in the evening found his remains scattered along the track, and gathering them up took them to the horror stricken family. The supposition is that in attempting to drop from the train behind his head came in contact with the rails, killing him instantly, and the construction train coming from the north in the afternoon ran over the body, thus completing the work.

Church Fellowes.—There is a story afloat in the newspaper which tells us of a preacher who gave his people a discourse on the recognition of friends in Heaven. After the service was over, a parishioner thanked his pastor for the comforting sermon, and added, "I have belonged many years to this church, and know but few of its members, and it is, therefore, a satisfaction to be assured that I may know them in Heaven."

Something of the grandeur of the boundless prairie—something of its fierce heat when the "fire-fend" envelopes it, is to be discovered in the rhetoric of the Western editor as he goes for the editor who has trifled with his forbearance and defied the lightnings of his wrath. Illustration—The flannel-mouthed poll-parrot of the "Polo" Scavenger has too long roosted in the shadow of our good nature. Let him beware. Forbearance is no longer a virtue. We shall set his dainty plumage scurrying on the four winds of heaven, and give this bloated carcass to the vultures.

The grand, not for a purse of $5,000 between Goldsmith Maid, Lucy, American Girl and Henry, came of Tuesday afternoon at Fleetwood Park, in the presence of fifteen thousand spectators.—American Girl won the race in three straight heats.

A young man named Charles Watkins committed suicide at Jackson the 1st by taking poison. He was 34 years of age and leaves a wife surviving him. Business difficulties probably occasioned the act. His remains were taken to Lansing, near which his friends reside.

The best Dolly Varden story yet is told of a young lady in Little Rock, Arkansas, who had a very small kitten she named Dolly Varden, but as it progressed in age and other developments she discovered it was not that kind of a cat, so she rechristened it Thomas Varden.

A thirteen year old daughter of Abraham Dokoy, who lives near Kalamazoo, was terribly burned Wednesday morning by the explosion of kerosene oil which she was using to help kindle the fire. She was burned about the arms, breast, neck and face, and her recovery is doubtful.

Lost—an Umbrella.—Between Colgate and Northville, by way of Rose Lane, Friday July 14th, a large dark umbrella失落 in a cave, with my name and residence. The finder will confer favor by leaving it at the Record Office, F. T. BARRETT, Walled Lake, Mich.
