THE FLOWER OF LOVE LIES BLEEDING.

ST. RICHARD KERRY STODDARD. I KNEW a little maid one day, All in the bright May weather; She capered, and bounded the dew away...

TAKING IT FOR GRANTED.

With marks of a rough, stormy life all over him, a rough man of about fifty years, gray and sunburnt, sat in my office. I found him there when I went in one morning last week.

diabetes and talked, and Mr. Averill smoked his pipe and listened. It was the first time I ever allowed anybody to smoke in my house, but I had nothing to say...

should always sit in a rocking-chair and wear swamp-pinks!" said he. "Aber Stanton is a most excellent man," quoth Uncle Nathan, when he had gone his way.

"I will start for Portland tomorrow morning, and see what Augusta will have to say to me. I am of the same mind I always was. I've never banked for a moment after any other woman, and I am as ready to marry her to-day as ever I was."

Which arrangements were that day two weeks after a quiet wedding at the minister's, they started off for California together, to begin life anew on each other's account, as blithe and joyous as two birds on the wing.—The Advertiser.

heard again he was praying that Vanderbilt might be converted, so that the sinfulness of running trains on Sunday might be impressed upon him.

"An old friend's! 'Tisn't any of the Maine folks, is it?" she asked. "Because, if it was so much as a dog that had trotted across a corner of the State of Maine, on his four legs, mother would have run, with her arms out and a smile of welcome, without stopping to even wash the dough of her hands."

body else. I never should think of anybody else, and it didn't occur to me that you would. You must marry this person now you have promised him, of course. But it isn't right and it never will be right."

"I want to know if that is so!" cried mother, frowning up after another plate and knife. "Lay your oatmeal right out and sit right by and have a cup of tea with us. Augusta always was decided, and you couldn't turn her after she got her mind fixed. She wouldn't keep you waiting long for your answer, either."

Jersey Constitution is that property of no kind shall be exempt from taxation, except that of the State, counties and municipalities, and buying grounds not held by stock companies.

A MISHAP. We have a gravel roof on our house, and the other day some workmen were up there fixing it. They had a block and tackle rigged on the edge of the roof, with a rope reaching to the ground, for the purpose of hoisting the tar and gravel.

A TRIP WEST.

Illinois—The prairie farms—Wagon—Visit with old friends—Brief sketch of the town's appearance—Religious tendencies—Churches and Sabbath schools.

To one living in the "back woods of Michigan," amidst the heavy timber and rolling hills a view of prairie is seldom a novelty. Here is seemingly a vast expanse of waste space, the monotonous aspect of which is only varied now and then by some farmer's dwelling, surrounded by a cluster of soft maples, (probably more to a view of affording some shade from the scorching rays of the summer's sun, than for the purpose of breaking off the heavy winds that sweep through in winter.

A car ride of about 118 miles—with only one change—brought us early in the evening at Wagona. Here we were met at the depot by a well-known former resident, and subscriber to the Record, Mr. E. L. Gould, who in a pleasant mood requested our individual inspection of his home. He, it will be remembered, left here, with his wife and daughter, some ten years ago, thinking to do better in the west. That he succeeded even beyond his expectations, is quite evident from the fact that he has accumulated considerable property, not only here but in other places, owning several buildings in the adjoining town of Stryator. The rents from which alone bring him an income of $1200 per year. At the latter place resides Mr. Moore, the partner of Mr. Gould, a thorough business man, who has for several years united his exertions with those of his partner, and as a consequence derived correspondingly large benefits. "Union is strength," they have found to be a truthful saying.

Wagona is some 18 years old, having been laid out at the time the Illinois Central was constructed, and now contains a bank, weekly paper, The Iowa Journal and owned by Capt. Taylor, who is also at present Postmaster. Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist, and several other religious denominations are represented. The educational advantages are furnished by a Union School under the charge of T. J. Shaw, assisted by several competent lady teachers. A Seminary is also here, which is well attended.

About this locality the soil is black loam or loam, about thirty inches deep, underlain with clay, and is very rich and productive, being just the soil for raising corn. The great in reality forms the chief product, will clearly attest this truth. The village is well laid out, streets lined with soft maple and mountain ash trees, which, when in bloom, are said to prove a desirable shade and give a beautiful appearance to the place in the summer season. Main street runs parallel with the Illinois Central, the stores lying on one side, very much after the style of the business portion of our neighboring town, Plymouth. Indeed could Wagona have a public square, opposite her brick blocks, and a few more awnings, one might imagine himself there.

Of course the farms here cannot be fenced after the manner of Michigan, wood being so scarce for that purpose. Osage orange takes the place of rail fencing, and forms a thorn hedge so thick that the smallest bird can not penetrate its folds, which, but for trimming down would grow to a great height.

Our farmers would be surprised to learn the number of acres that is deemed requisite for a decent sized farm in this locality. The smallest of several farms—so we were informed—belonging to Mr. Wm. M. Hamilton, who lives in town, is four miles square.

The place like our own town is composed of a very intelligent class of citizens, who show the proper regard to religion, and the moral good of the community. The several churches are well filled on the Sabbath. The Sabbath Schools hold their session at 2 p. m. wherein one can find a large number of young people and children, who seem to exhibit unusual interest in their lessons, and pay strict attention to the injunctions of their teachers.

Our few days stay in this pleasant place, was made happy by the acquaintance of a number of the citizens, whose endeavors to make us at home, cannot be remembered by us without other than feelings of gratitude. To Mr. Gould and family, we feel greatly indebted for the kindness extended us while under their hospitable roof, and trust that the same friendship may be theirs when similarly situated.

STATE NEWS.

BUSINESS ENTERPRISE.

Guy H. Carlton, formerly Superintendent of the Saint Ste. Marie Canal gives it as his opinion that the canal will be open to navigation by April 25, as there is less ice in the Lake Superior region than during any year of his experience.

Nichols, Shepard & Co. of Battle Creek recently shipped one of their Vibrator threshers to Lexington, Kentucky.

A daily average of 70 car-loads of lumber pass over the Grand Rapids & Indiana railroad, southward bound.

Constantine now claims one of the best water-powers in the State. The streets of Marshall are now lighted with gas.

RAILROADS.

A railroad meeting in the interest of the Kalamazoo, Lowell & Northern Michigan railroad project was held at Lowell a few weeks ago; and addresses were made by T. S. Cobb, Judge Wells of Kalamazoo, and others.

The Lexington Appeal says that the P. & N. M. Railway Co. are placing ties along the line of their road into Ludington, which is another indication that the road is to be rapidly completed as soon as spring opens.

Rev. E. Mudge, of Maple Rapids, has taken the contract for building five miles of the Grand Rapids and Saginaw Railroad at $5,000 per mile.

RELIGIOUS AND EDUCATIONAL.

The Coldwater Republican is publishing infidelity schemes in a lively way, and the churches receive their full share of the castigation. The editor of that paper takes the ground that the gospel of Christ is for the support of its own merit, while the temples are often filled with the wailings of the wretched heathens. If the members of the church, in their pride, glory in their ability, they ought to use the same liberality towards the heathens that would be required for our benevolent work. Lotteries are suicides, and church members are no exception.

Open M. E. church has been organized in Detroit by Rev. Dr. Pritchard, the presiding elder of Detroit District, to be known as the Fort Street M. E. Church, located at the corner of Fort and twenty-second streets.

CRIMINALS AND CHASTITY.

Munnel the Grand Rapids forger, has been captured in Iowa, where he is likely to remain, for the grand jury has found 17 indictments against him, and his bail has been fixed at $15,000.

J. Hine, of Newago, has been sued by Mrs. Lydia Chesler for $100 damages, alleged to have resulted through the selling of liquor by Price to her husband.

Brown & Crawford's dry-goods store at Corey Station, Cass County, on the Michigan Air Line Railroad, was burned a few weeks since. Loss $4,000.

West Saginaw offers a most extensive field to the women who are praying the liquor traffic out of existence. The number of saloons is 165.

PERSONAL.

Wm. Plunk of Adrian, once a respectable business man, is now an inmate of the Kalamazoo Asylum, a mere wreck from intoxicating drink. His wife has commenced a suit for damages against Wm. S. Stage, a wholesale liquor dealer of Adrian.

The first white child born in the vicinity of Grand Rapids was Mrs. Emily Slater St. John. Her father was the late Rev. Leonard St. John, and the daughter was born in 1825.

Hon. Schuyler Colfax lectured in Jackson, on Old Fellowship, on the evening of Feb. 26.

Walter Bunday and wife of Hillsdale celebrated their golden wedding Feb. 12. They removed to Michigan from New York in 1838.

May Cook, Assistant Matron of the Orphan Asylum at Detroit, died very suddenly a short time ago.

Hon. Wm. A. Howard of Grand Rapids is now at Cedar Grove in Florida.

MISCELLANEOUS.

There was a singular occurrence in Adrian a short time since, a funeral and a wedding at the same house and in the same family. Mr. Ralph J. Jewell and Miss Maggie F. Hood were married, and accompanied the remains of the latter's sister, who died suddenly, to Schenectady, N. Y.

At Alpena, the ice one mile out is about 16 inches thick and solid. Farther out than that the ice is very thin. The weather is quite warm through the day, and the prospects of early navigation are quite favorable.

A Newago business man, lately thought he was struck by lightning, but when he fully comprehended the situation he was being cowarded by a young lady whom he had slandered.

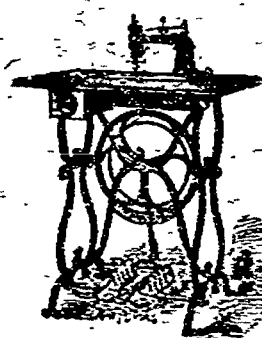

Franklin Everett is in Iowa gathering material for a history of the Grand River Valley, to be published under the auspices of the Old Settlers' Association.

An insane woman jumped into a well 42 feet deep at Hudson a few days since, and escaped with but a few slight bruises.

Ionia, Alpena, and Monroe are candidates for the new House of Correction.
