PREVALENCE OF CRIME.

Hardly a day passes but what the news is flashed over the wires of the committal of some terrible crime. Within the last few weeks the city of Boston, Mass., has been the theatre of a multitude of crimes some of which are without a parallel in atrocity. What could have been any more wicked than the murder of Mabel Young, a mere child; one moment in perfect health a listener to the word of God, the next found in the belly of the church, a blood stained corpse. This took place Sunday the 30th just after service. Prior to this was the murder, and robbery of Mrs.ingham, which caused a great stir but without resulting to deter the taking of life as indicated in the death of this little innocent child. It was from this city that Abraham Jackson left last week with nearly a million dollars which he had embezzled and it was in the same place that a drug store blew up shattering the building to atoms and killing a number of people. Surely Boston is not as it was in the days when the Tea was thrown into the harbor and the puritan laws were as shields to life and property.

No Fear of Death in the Dying.

A striking fact in connection with the dying is that they are not afraid of death. You notice this even in executions. The majority of men who are hanged are reported to die "game." Death following disease or injury is, with the rarest exceptions accompanied by fear. Disease dulls the intelligence so that the situation may not be fully comprehended; or there may be pain, and death is looked upon as a relief. Nature, by a kindly provision, seems to prepare for the flight of the spirit; as the hold upon life grows weaker, so does the desire for life grow less and is scarcely a single instance within my own experience, or within that of my professional brethren, with whom I have conversed upon this point, has not the dying man relinquished life at the last without seeming reluctance or fear.

The several physical phenomena which, accompanying the act of dying, vary considerably in the earlier stages with the causes which produce death, there is much similarity in the latter steps. Death offers then a physiognomy, which once witnessed, is not hard to recognize again.

Among the more constant signs are the failing pulse, which gradually becomes imperceptible, first at the wrist, and lastly at the breast itself; the extremities grow cold; the countenance changes as the venous blood courses the arteries; the skin grows clammy as the vessels relax; the eyes glaze; the jaw droops; the fluids accumulate in the windpipe, causing the "death rattle" so called, as the air passes through; the breath comes short and finally ceases.

As the red blood leaves the brain the judgment becomes obscured, and the senses deficient. Speech is incoherent. Many times "last words" are imagined by affection to mean more than intended, if there was any intention at all. "It grows dark" or "more light," are common sayings; as the optic nerve loses its stimulus. Or strange sights may be seen and sounds heard, as occur sometimes in the still twilight. The hallucinations of the dying may be often explained upon natural causes.—[Prof. R. O. Cowling.]

The Printer's Office.

The printing office has indeed proved a better college to many a boy, has graduated more useful and conspicuous members of society, has brought more intellect out and turned it into practical, useful channels, awakened more minds, generated more active and elevated thoughts, than many of the literary colleges of the country. A boy who commences in such a school as the printing office will have his talents and ideas brought out; and if he is a careful observer, experience in his profession will contribute more toward an education than can be obtained in almost any other manner.

Among the papers of a Capuchin monk, who has just died, was found the following will: "I bequeath, first, to the Abbe Michaud my breviary, because he does not know his own; second, to M. Jules Favre my frock, to hide his shame; third, to M. Gambetta my cord, which will prove useful one day round his neck; fourth, to M. Thiers his own work, that he may read it over again, and fifth, to France my wallet, because she may shortly have occasion for one to collect alms."

A fisherman at Sagatuck caught 2,000 pounds of fish one day last week.

STATE NEWS.

RELIGIOUS AND EDUCATIONAL. The M. E. church of Lapeer will give an excursion to Niagara Falls, leaving on June 17 and returning on June 19. Tickets for the round trip $4. The Adrian Baptists raised $315 in 15 minutes, Sunday before last, for a new carpet and other church furniture. Prof. Olney of the state university has given $1,000 towards the endowment of two professorships at the Kalamazoo Baptist theological seminary. Schuyler Colfax will deliver the annual lecture before the Albion college literary societies commencement week.

Port Huron beat the Gambia people on a spell on Canada soil at Sarnia, May 21. Albion college has 108 students this term.

MEETINGS AND ASSOCIATIONS. The farmers of Holland City say that the crop of wheat will be larger there this season than before in 15 years.

DEATHS. Alfred Austin, a convict from Newaygo, died at the State prison May 22, of consumption. Two men, Robert Tucker and Louis Dubay, were at work May 20, in one of the tanks of the salt well at Ft. Clemens, when one of the pipes leading from the wall burst and they were suffocated. Tucker died, but Dubay is still alive, though in a critical condition.

A gale on Lake Michigan, Thursday, May 13, wrecked the schooner D. G. Wright 10 miles north of South Haven, where she now lies bottom side up. Capt. Hansom and five other men were lost. Two of their bodies have been washed ashore.

An iceclander was drowned at Traverso City, May 11, while crossing Carp lake in a small boat, in attempting to pass between the scows which a tug was towing along, but the scow ran against the boat, capsizing it.

An old lady named Boyden tried to crawl under a train of freight cars at Grand Blanc depot last week, and the cars started while she was underneath crushing her to death.

An engineer on the Flint & Pere Marquette railroad drank some water at a well at Otter Lake. After returning to his train he was taken with vomiting, throwing up quantities of blood. He soon became exhausted, and at Flint transfusion of blood was resorted to, two ounces from the arm of a healthy man being injected into his veins. This revived him, but after a time he sank back and died. His remains have been sent to his home, East Saginaw, where a post mortem will be held.

Two cases of sun-stroke occurred in Bay City May 25, one of which proved fatal.

A son of C. Downing of Monroe, aged four years, was scalded to death by inhaling hot steam from a tea-kettle, May 14.

CALAMITIES.

The Methodist church in Cassopolis was struck by lightning May 8 tearing two holes in the roof, disconnecting the lightning rod of the main spire, and sliding down the main spire, killed a cow standing a rod or two away.

The residence of George Philips, Kalamazoo, was struck by lightning May 21. The current ran from thence along the telegraph wire of the business college, melting it for 50 rods and setting fire to a barn.

At Grand Haven May 18, a Norwegian immigrant was handling a revolver, when it suddenly discharged its contents into the head of another immigrant, wounding him it is believed fatally.

Robert Swain's residence at Grand Rapids was burned May 20. Loss $6,000; insurance $3,000.

The tents of the Methodist camp grounds in Watson, Allegan county, together with all the lumber used for seats, were burned on May 19 from fires in the woods.

The Midland Independent says that up in the Pine river country there is an 80 acre lot with a $100,000 mortgage on it. The owners want to sell.

There are fires in the woods all along the line of the Marquette, Houghton & Ontonagon railroad.

Tenaciouses of small-pox and three of varioloid at the Washtenaw county poor-house.

CRIMINAL.

Daniel L. Staples, the Hillsdale county swindler, has been arrested on the charge of sending swindling circulars through the mail, and lodged in jail.

A gang of burglars broke into the farmers' store at Ypiland on the night of May 22, and carried off a large amount of laces, silks, velvets, etc.

The Grand Rapids Post says that 40 dealers in liquor have been found in the fourth ward of that city.

The house of David Headley in Columbia, Van Buren county, was robbed by burglars, in the absence of the family a few days since, of furniture, carpeting, etc., to the amount of $300. The house was then fired in several places, but was discovered before much damage was done.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Among the great discoveries of modern science, few are so valuable as that of more real value in marking this effective remedy for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. A vast number of its virtues, throughout this and other countries, has shown that it does surely and effectively control them. The test of the fact, that Cherry Pectoral will do relief and cure the afflicting disorders of the Throat and Lungs beyond any other medicine. The most dangerous affections of the Throat and Lungs, such as Whooping Cough, and cases of Consumption, cured by this preparation, are publicly known, so remarkable as hardly to be believed, were they not proven beyond dispute. As a remedy it is superior, on which the public may rely for full protection. By curing Coughs, the ferments of more serious disease, it saves unnumbered lives, and an amount of suffering not to be computed. It challenges trial, and convinces the most sceptical. Every family should keep it on hand as a protection against the early and unperceived attacks of Pulmonary Affections, which are easily met at first, but which become incurable, and too often fatal, if neglected. Tender throats and inflamed and painful Bronchitis, when they know how easily they can be cured.

Originally the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, to cost almost impossible perfection, and it may be confidently relied upon as possessing all the virtues it has ever exhibited, and capable of producing cures as memorable as the greatest it has ever effected.

In Luck.—A daughter of the late Adjutant General Schwartz, who resides in Plymouth, recently received a present of $17,000 from an aunt in Germany.

COMMERCIAL DRAWING.—As will be seen from an advertisement in another column the Detroit Commercial Advertiser drawing will take place June 23rd next. This distribution project of Mr. Wm. H. Burk's has been regularly carried out for nearly a dozen years and thus far without showing any undue scheming, each and all standing an equal share in the drawing while the paper is worthy a place in every household.

SCHOOL PRIZES AND EXCITATION.—The teachers and scholars of the Union School, together with a number of invited parties outside, are out to Whitmore Lake to-day for picnic and good a time generally. Possibly we may, before going to press, be able to give some particulars concerning results of the excursion. We are thankful to the committee of young ladies for a cordial invitation and regret exceedingly that pipes of wood prevent our acceptance.

The Union Medical Society of Oakland, Washburn and Wayne, have a meeting at Plymouth.

A regular meeting of the above society was held at Plymouth on Thursday the 3rd inst.

A large number of the members were present and much interest was manifested in the program of the Homeopathic department in the University, by the Legislature, and the signified willingness of the Regents to carry out the measure. Strong resolutions were passed, requesting the present corps of Professors in the University to refuse any recognition of such appointments as may be made to Homeopathic chairs, and in the alternative of enforcing such recognition to resign. Many interesting cases were recited and very valuable discussion elicited.

The next meeting is appointed to be held at Holly on the 1st Thursday of September.

HEARD FROM.—Mr. Winfield Scott has just received a letter from his son Homer, now in California. He likes the country very much and says they are harvesting there and states that lemons, oranges, and fruit of all kinds is nearly matured. Homer is busy at work and says he is again even in money matters, or in other words has regained the money he paid out on the trip.

The Wool Matter.

MR. EDITOR.—In your last issue you informed the readers of the Record that the wool buyers of Northville did not propose to purchase unwashed tags, which is a mistake.

We shall purchase tags washed or unwashed, but we prefer to have them washed and when well washed we shall pay full price for them. You could not have understood us. We said that we could not buy wool containing unwashed tags—they must be kept out and sold separately, or we shall decline to purchase all such clips.

Manufacturers and wool dealers generally, will not in the future purchase wool stuffed with unwashed tags.

Farmers, please take our advice and keep all your tags out, and we will take them at their value and if they are well washed we shall not say one word about discounting.

"You don't know no girl no where nobody could get 'em?" was what a lady wanted to know, and she lives on college hill at Hillsdale.

An experienced coquette once said to a young man who for the first time under the table: "Please don't. My heart is old and my boy's are new."

"And now, Mrs. Sullivan," said the counsel, "will you be kind enough to tell the jury whether your husband was in the habit of striking you with impunity?" "With impunity?" "He was, sir, now and then, but he struck me oftener wid his fist."

PARK AND HOME.

To prevent horses from scolding or cracking in winter, a chalking of the hooves is a longer time without injury, the French practice is to coat the hooves with a weak solution of soft fat, yellow wax, linseed oil, Venice turpentine and Norway tar; the wax is melted separately before mixing.

The dabbler of to-day are far superior to those of ten years ago, being more globular in shape, while the colors are more bright and beautiful. Where you have a large lawn and wish to exhibit flowers for effect do not forget these. They should be planted out as soon as all danger from frost is past in good soil, not too rich and wet, or you will have nothing but a mass of weeds. You can plant them from the burning sun but be sure to water them two or three times a week until they are well established. They should be planted out as soon as all danger from frost is past in good soil, not too rich and wet, or you will have nothing but a mass of weeds. You can plant them from the burning sun but be sure to water them two or three times a week until they are well established.

Many people suppose baking and roasting to mean the same thing, and everywhere you hear people who never taste of roast beef in their lives tell of having roast beef for dinner. Meats are never roasted in an oven. Roasting is done before a fire and is more nearly the broiling in roasting the meats are placed before the fire on a spit which can be turned, leaving each part of the meat successively to the fire. French cooks aim to have a bright fire; the meat to be roasted is placed very near the fire at first, and gradually withdrawn and turned and basted frequently. Roasted meats have a better flavor and are far superior in richness and nutritive qualities to either baked or boiled. The superiority of English and French roast beef is due far more to the method of cooking than to the quality of the meat. The only essential difference between roasting and broiling is that the former is done before the fire and the latter over it.

Jonathan Tatcott gives a statement in the Boston Cultivator of an experiment performed on a Suffolk pig where sugar-beets were largely employed for fattening. The animal was about a year old, and the feeding on boiled sugar-beets, tops and roots, began on the 15th of August, and was continued three times a day until the 1st of October, after which ground feed was given, consisting of two parts of corn and one of oats three times a day till the animal was slaughtered, the meal being mixed with cold water. The result was on the 15th of August, when the sugar-beet feeding was begun, that the weight was 52 lbs.; Sept. 1, 220 lbs.; Oct. 1, 450 lbs.; Nov. 1, 520 lbs. This is the substance of the statement given, by which we perceive that the increase in the last of August, when fed on boiled sugar-beets, was at the rate of two pounds per day; the rate of increase on the same feed continued through September. When fed on ground corn and oats, which it could stop the gain for the next fifty days, as less than a pound and a half per day.

Blue For Wheat.

The fact cannot be disguised that our wheat crops are deteriorating in quality and quantity per acre, and it is worthy of notice what the cause is. The annual crop of wheat, assuming the crop of 1874, had supplied the earth with a large quantity of potash, of which wheat is particularly greedy. And without the principle present to a considerable degree in the earth the wheat will be deficient in quantity in proportion to which the soil has been depleted. The first crop of wheat on our soil are plump and perfect, but each year gradually degenerates. This is sufficient evidence to the husbandman that his land needs something which it lacks. Since the farmers of Iowa have ready access to lime-burns, and especially the air-slacked lime-burns where it is burned. Experiments should be made with care. Sow a strip of land at the rate of twenty bushels to the acre with slacked lime, and then leave a strip and ascertain the difference. Then for another strip mix two bushels of salt with twenty bushels of lime and sow after killing it away. In this combination there will be a chemical change take place, producing it is said a fertilizer valuable for wheat. These are simple experiments and may be made. It will improve quality and quantity, if we continue to raise wheat, the superphosphates or wheat food will have to be introduced to Iowa's fertile plains. The immense trains of cars which go from our State laden with wheat are rapidly robbing us of our substance and it will have to be counteracted in some way.

Salt has frequently been profitably used on farms. Near the seacoast, where the air is saturated with the salt sea breeze, it is not needed, and in many cases is extremely injurious. But in England, surrounded by salt water, farmers scatter salt over their farms at the rate of two bushels per acre, and experience favorable results in different ways. It destroys the worms which would be injurious, and aids in reducing vegetable matter in the soil into food for plants. This experiment might also be tried on our farms.

Several farmers in the State, we understand, are this year experimenting with gypsum. The hope will not only improve the result, but the mode of applying—the amount per acre, and the crop to which it is applied, and the kind and quality of the soil. This is an article which cannot be successfully used by the ignorant and the careless. And the gypsum must be pure. Science and skill must direct the farmer if he would succeed in most things.—Iowa State Register.

The Apiary.

BEEKEEPERS as well as farmers, will realize that the season is backward. The severe winter, in many cases, has retarded the development of the bees, and three years ago, and stocks are in a weak condition. They must have the most care. Allow no more room than they need, and no more comb than they can cover. The hive can be contracted to the desired size by a division board. Heat a most important requisite in the brood-rearing season, is thus economized and rendered subservient to the end desired—an increase in the strength of the colony's contracted winter. Feed also much in this direction. Feed also good sirup made of white sugar and add a comb of comb as the colony increases in number. Commence feeding with small doses, increasing slowly, as this promotes brood-rearing most effectively. After the bees have filled three or four combs with brood, it is a good plan to insert a frame of empty winter combs between two of the middle ones. After honey is abundant, feeding may cease. It is once begun it must be kept up until a full natural supply is afforded.

From now until the swarms come off all the energies of the bees will be devoted to rearing brood and a great deal of the honey gathered or the feed given them is turned in this purpose. Beekeepers do not think of this, and hence colonies have been known to starve during a protracted inclement spell of weather, even after they have apparently been gathering honey most actively for a longer or shorter period. There are doubtless two causes for this—the one mentioned, viz.: That the stores gathered, are consumed in brood-rearing, and the other is that the early flowers do not furnish a very good supply, and the bees do not gather near as much as their activity would lead us to suppose. At all events prudence requires the utmost vigilance, and when such weather comes furnish feed promptly that the bees of the colony may not cease nor their strength decline.

By the way, the month of April, perhaps, your stocks will be strong enough to divide; they certainly will not be ready much before that time in this latitude. The simplest and easiest way to do this, to avoid natural swarming, is the "old way," viz.: In the middle of the day when the bees are out take a frame of brood with adhering bees and the queen—the sure of the latter—put them in the new hive and set the new hive where the old one stood, removing the latter some distance away to a pestlestand. The new hive should be furnished with a young queen or a queen cell. If the old hive should not have old bees enough to keep the young bees hatching, more should be given it. The new hive will do well enough without attention after the missing card of comb has been supplied.

Those who have had colonies die through the winter should carefully preserve the comb. This can be done by hanging them in a cool, well-ventilated apartment, first cleansing them of dead bees and other impurities. It will be long before they are ready to be put to use, but unless hung out of their reach, moth-worms can be destroyed by exposing them to the fumes of burning turpentine, no material injury results to the comb.—Iowa Farmer.

Action of Plaster.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Practical Farmer who has used plaster on his farm for ten years, writes: "I have received most benefit from it on my lands and on my farm. From pretty close observation I have found its effect upon plants in wet seasons, and have repeatedly observed no benefit in a dry season. I am no chemist but only a lover of what chemists tell. No ammonia being present in the ordinary atmosphere, but in such as it has been detected in rain water, my view is that rain-water coming in contact with the sulphate of lime or plaster, two new combinations are formed. The carbonic acid of ammonia—a daily salt—in the atmosphere, the sulphate of ammonia, is formed in the one hand, and on the other carbonate of lime, also desirable in many soils. I think I secure the benefit of plaster if its action is as described by sowing it in the fall, during winter or very early in the spring. The rains and snow necessary for its active benefit are thus secured, while in the spring, the money which it costs is in a great measure repaid in a way that is dry season occurs. One bushel and a half to three acts as the per quantity—no more, no less."

The Family Sewing Machine.—The inventor of the Wilson shuttle sewing machine, writes an interesting article in the Cultivator, which is well worth reading. As an economical arrangement it enables one person to do the work of ten in a superior manner, and with much more comfort. Machines will be purchased at a very low price, and ordered through the company's branch house at 107 State street, Chicago. They send an elegant catalogue and a circular free on application. This company want a few more good agents.

WELLINGTON, LOUISIANA, Oct. 24, 1874.
Dr. R. V. FERRIS, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dear Sir—Your medicine, Golden Medical Discovery, Dr. E. S. Key's Catarrh Remedy, have proved of the greatest service to me. Six months ago no one thought that I could possibly live long. I had a complication of diseases, manifesting itself in my eyes, nose, throat, and chest, and my hair combed without causing me much suffering; also causing swollen glands, tonsils enlarged, enlarged or thick neck, and large and numerous boils, and in fact from a terrible state of disease, and in fact I was so diseased that life was a burden to me. I had tried many doctors with no benefit. I finally procured one-half dozen bottles of your Golden Medical Discovery, and once I commenced using it, I felt a relief, and it cured my disease. At first I was badly discouraged, but after taking four bottles of the Discovery I began to improve, and when I had taken the remaining 10, I was well. In addition to the relief I received, I applied a solution of Iodine to the Glands, of which you advise in pamphlet wrapping, and it cured my disease. Your Discovery is certainly the most powerful blood medicine ever invented. I have never felt so well from the depths of my heart, for the great good it has done me.

Very gratefully,
M. L. CHAFFEE.

Most medicines which are advertised as blood purifiers and liver medicines, contain either mercury in some form, or arsenic and iodine variously combined. All of these agents have strong tendency to break down the blood corpuscles and debilitate and otherwise permanently injure the human system. The Golden Medical Discovery, Dr. Ferris's Golden Medical Discovery, on the other hand, being composed of the purest extracts of native plants, herbs and roots, will in no case produce injury, its effects being purely natural. It is a true blood purifier, which used to enjoy quite a reputation as a blood purifier, I, a family of thirty years ago, and may well be proud, as it is going to be more positive and valuable remedy, and the theory have brought to light. In Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swelling, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Gout, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Ulcers, Rheumatism, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, and all the diseases which are caused by an impure blood, Dr. Ferris's Golden Medical Discovery has shown its great remedial power, curing the most obstinate and intractable cases. Sold by all druggists in medicine.

That nothing industry in any given pursuit, and an intelligent employment of every legitimate means for success, gives complete satisfaction in the career of life. Dr. Ferris & Co. In the science of advertising, we might give this course the pre-eminence. With the newspaper fraternity they have the best standing in a business point of view. To the advertiser, the most important consideration is the amount of careful consideration.—Medical House Journal, Philadelphia, Pa.
