SAMUEL H. LITTLE, Editor.

SATURDAY, MAY 5, 1877.

The War in Europe, now a probable fact, is likely to make a radical change in this country in point of produce and labor, wheat, corn and all kinds of market products will command a greatly increased value, while farmers will sow and plant more than of late, the unemployed will find work plenty and a better rate of wages will be paid. It is altogether likely that the most of our people will wish the war protracted, not caring much who whips as long as money's plenty and labor is demand.

The wife of President Hayes is evidently inclined to the right kind of a reform movement, judging from late rumors at Washington. A few days since a State dinner was given the Russian大使 Alexei and Constantine and suite, and at her instigation the usual wine was liable to be dispensed with. As it was, although the illustrious guests were finally permitted their customary beverage, none were partaken of by the President or Mrs. Hayes. The circumstance was rather amusing to the guests, but certainly showed a true American independence on the part of the host and hostess. If a first-class temperance candidate is necessary in 1880 Mrs. Hayes can fill the bill.

The courts of justice in this land seem to be of a corrupt nature; either utterly wanting in judgement or void of the first feelings of humanity. "The greater the criminal the more lenient his punishment," is a common saying; and indeed the truth of this is daily apparent. In the city of Washington, D. C., where justice should properly be looked for if nowhere else, a poor crippled negro is sentenced to the penitentiary three years for the simple larceny of a couple of whitewash brushes, (see Washington correspondence) but the better educated Wm. W. Wainow, who could steal $12,000 from the Treasury, can manage to get off on a year and a half.

STATE NEWS.

Mr. John McLeod, of Adrian, died Sunday.

Senator Ferry wears the red ribbon. So does E. P. Ferry. Ferry good.

John Tipwell, a well-known mechanic, was buried at Adrian with Masonic honors.

The few Lenawee county people who got up before 7 o'clock saw the ground covered with snow Monday morning.

An iron foundry has been established at Clare, the first in the country. It will be chiefly devoted to the manufacture of plows.

Two Pontiac reformers talked the red ribbon upon 115 Orion people Sunday night, among them being the only liquor dealers in the place.

The Lenawee county agricultural society, has authorized a committee to purchase a new site for fair grounds, the flood having made the old grounds unfit for such use.

At East Saginaw the startling theory is advanced that little Emma Schenk, who disappeared six weeks ago, has been killed for the purpose of dissection. The thought is too horrible to be entertained a moment.

George Morehouse was found dead, with his horse lying upon him, in the road between Centreville and Sturgis Sunday. It is supposed that the horse had run away, fallen, and in raising him, he had become entangled in the harness, and that the horse had rolled over him.

Dexter is not a very large place, but there is a red ribbon club there said to be 50 strong.

Some 150000 negroes got loose in the fifth ward Tuesday night and scared everybody within half a mile by yelling & firing.

Webb C. Hayes, the president's son, was in Ypsilanti the other day, and it is said that great excitement prevailed among the Ypsilanti girls.

The Grand Rapids people long since sent to Barker, the burglar, and are signing petitions to the governor praying for his release from the state prison.

George Richardson, a student in the law office of Thomas T. Farwell, was shot through the head Saturday evening, after passing a friendly salutation.

Frank M. Uteck was an appealing young farmer, employed at J. Nevins. He won the heart of Miss Cobb, a Red Dog, persuaded her toelope with him, and then left her. Cobb, a widow, wanted him to tell why he left wife No. 1 at Canandaigua, N. Y.

The boys of Owosso have organized a "boy's temperance league," with 33 members to start with, all wearing the red white-and-blue badge, signifying abstinence from drinking, swearing, and using tobacco. The reform club of the same place now numbers 400.

J. Manigan, an employee of the Grand Rapids hair company, fell from the tall railway on Wednesday and received injuries that caused his death the next day. He left a wife and several children, his wife circumstances.

Geo. C. Chandler, the well-known shirt manufacturer of Detroit, left that city with his wife and family for Philadelphia last week. He intends to locate in the Quaker City, but is undecided as to what business he will engage in.

Dr. Joseph Brown, a prominent physician of Milford for 27 years, died of apoplexy, April 23, aged 74 years.

Our Washington Letter.

Washington, D. C., April 30th, 1877.

At the Foundry church last Sunday where the Rev. Mr. [redacted] family attended the discourse was an estimate of Chris' by his contemporaries; and during the sermon the preacher gave utterance to an expression that has been used so frequently in political circles since the inauguration of Hayes that it at once suggested the Southern disturbances, to the minds of the listeners, and raised quite a stir through the audience, somewhat to the discomfiture of the unconvinced clergyman. He was speaking of the Jews and their belief in Christ, who was to overthrow their thralldom and, as the elder expressed it, restore to each local self-government. Everybody turned their necks to get sight of the President and see how he took it.

A representation of soldiers consisting of a committee of non-officers holding soldiers of the late war called upon the President recently to learn something about the confinement of soldiers to government offices. He expressed himself as fully in concurrence with the law of Congress which provides that, other things being equal, the soldier shall in every case have the preference in the matter of appointments.

Political circles are discussing the speakership of the next House with great interest, but more interesting and more busily are several lesser men working to secure the same. Randall on the one side and Banks on the other are now the leaders. Randall is said to be the leader in the race by Banks securing some Democratic support.

A young cow, driven along the street yesterday became enraged, (and who could wonder at it?) at the discordant sounds that an Italian woman was grinding out of a hand organ, and rushing at the woman tossed her on her horns and gored her until she was nearly killed. She was taken to the hospital (not the cow) and there are doubts as to her recovery.

The court this week sentenced a crippled negro to three years in the Penitentiary for stealing two whitewash bushes. Was it the same court? (It was in this same city way) that this very noon sentenced Richardson, who stole $12,000 from the United States Treasury, to a year and a half in the same Penitentiary.

Consistency. They are most likely a jewel if one could only get sight of you. Where do you keep yourself? Not in Washington!

Local interest is great relative to the Washington monument. It is to be finished, or torn down? Nobody knows but the commission of engineers from the regular army who have been making examinations of the foundations, and they will not tell, until the report is made to the monument association. It is understood however, that the foundations have been found to insufficient to sustain the weight of the finished monument, and if this is the case it will undoubtedly be removed and located upon another and better site. This monument is designed to be six hundred feet high, only one hundred and seventy feet of which are now completed, and it has already cost $230,000. The estimate of the total cost is $1120,000.

The first great step has been taken towards civil service reform, by the discharge of over three hundred clerks from the Treasury Department which took place this week. Twenty ladies were also dismissed from the Revenue office last Saturday and the public announced that all was ready.

George Morehouse was found dead, with his horse lying upon him, in the road between Centreville and Sturgis Sunday. It is supposed that the horse had run away, fallen, and in raising him, he had become entangled in the harness, and that the horse had rolled over him.

Dexter is not a very large place, but there is a red ribbon club there said to be 50 strong.

The boys of Owosso have organized a "boy's temperance league," with 33 members to start with, all wearing the red white-and-blue badge, signifying abstinence from drinking, swearing, and using tobacco. The reform club of the same place now numbers 400.

J. Manigan, an employee of the Grand Rapids hair company, fell from the tall railway on Wednesday and received injuries that caused his death the next day. He left a wife and family for Philadelphia last week. He intends to locate in the Quaker City, but is undecided as to what business he will engage in.

Dr. Joseph Brown, a prominent physician of Milford for 27 years, died of apoplexy, April 23, aged 74 years.

The old ties of the Great Western railway, between Windsor and Suspense Edge, were lately discovered to be rotten.

The company is now engaged in replacing them with new ones.

The boys of Owosso have organized a "boy's temperance league," with 33 members to start with, all wearing the red white-and-blue badge, signifying abstinence from drinking, swearing, and using tobacco. The reform club of the same place now numbers 400.

Married in the Dark.

A Michigan Matrimonial Mystery—Four Claimants to a Bride Whose Second Bridal Ceremony was Arranged in Accordance with the Will of her Dear Departed.

About 20 years ago there lived in central Michigan a curious old bachelor named Dodsworth. At the age of 50 he married a girl of 20, and when the burden of 60 years bore him down his wife was only half his age. Dodsworth was noted for his peculiarities, but the climax came when he found himself on his dying bed. He was worth about $30,000, and he hadn't a blood relative living, so far as he knew. He wanted to leave his property to his wife, as the pair had lived very happily, but yet he could not leave it without displaying some of his peculiarities in the provision of the will. Some old men display a mean spirit when making wills, and drift in a provision cutting the wife off with a shilling if she marries again. This old man wasn't of that stamp. His young wife was good-looking, vivacious, fond of society, and it was folly to suppose she would mourn for her first departed any great length in time. Therefore Mr. Dodsworth turned heel on the usual custom and said in his will:

In case my wife Celia does not take unto herself another husband within 18 months from date of my burial, all bequests otherwise made in this will are to revert to the State of Michigan, to be used for building and furnishing a home for old women.

Whether Celia was pleased or displeased at this provision deponent saith not, but the old man had not been under the sod more than six months when the widow was said to be looking out for another man. If it was singular for the dying Dodsworth to urge his wife to marry again it was still more singular that he should desire the ceremony to be performed under the following circumstances, viz:

And it is made incumbent on said Celia Dodsworth that in taking a new husband the marriage ceremony shall be performed in the big barn on my farm, on the H— road. It shall take place at 10 o'clock in the evening, on the main floor without any lights of any description, with all the doors shut, and a free invitation shall be extended to all. The church shall stand in the aisle, and the bride and groom on the main floor, and the principle parties to the ceremony shall be dressed in black throughout.

The widow announced her intention to faithfully obey in spirit and letter, the will as probated, and the 12th month had scarcely passed before she issued an invitation for the public to attend a wedding at the big barn. Just now known was no one could positively assert as the widow had been keeping company with widower, a bachelor and two young men, and as far as any outsider could judge she loved one as well as the other. Being good looking and talented and having a fortune behind her, it was not strange that she should have a number of suitors. She seemed to enter into the spirit of the affair with great zest, as did the minister; and to further mystify the people in attendance the bride entered the barn alone at one door, the groom alone at another, and no one knew that the minister had arrived until his voice was heard in the stable.

There were at least 200 people present, and each one understood that even the striking of a match would break the will. Many jokes were passed and considerable confusion existed, but at length the minister announced that all was ready. The ceremony was gone through with, and its conclusion, the affair having been a profound success, a rush was made for the bride; and was kissed by a hundred men, and was then carried home a distance of a mile and a half, in a big arm-chair.

Now comes the mystery. When the lady was set down at her own door the widower, the bachelor and the two young men each claimed to be her true and lawful husband. None of the crowd could say who was the lucky man; the minister was at sea and the bride herself seemed to have doubts. The widower was the man of her choice, but in the confusion he could have been blinded aside, and in this form that an attempt was made to take him out of the barn. The bachelor roared that she had promised to marry him, as also did both young men, and each one was sure that he held the widow's plump hand and was legally married to her. The four men had a fight, but that didn't mend matters. The crowd decked two of them in a creek, but that didn't decide the question.

Just how it would be terminated had not the widow been a man of course no one can tell, as the other three had already appealed to the law, when the widower stepped in and took his place as a husband and settled with the others for $2,000 each.

One of the young men, now over 40 years old, and having all the wife wants (she weighs 230 pounds), is living in this city, and during an interview with him today, he colonel and earnestly assured your correspondent that he was legally married to the widow Dodsworth that night in the big barn. Another of the parties live in Clinton county, and he has since and again asserted that he is the woman's true and lawful husband, so help him God. Two bachelors are dead, and were alive and kicking he would renew his repeated protestations.

"I married her, by gimp and by hump, and I have her."

Mrs. Nellie Gandy is visiting friends in Ohio.

Thanks to A. H. Rockwell, for a choice bouquet from his conservatory.

The wife of James Davis starts next week for Toronto, Ont. on a visit.

L. G. N. Randolph will probably soon build a new fence about his premises.

An organ Grinder and piano tuner were the principal attractions here the past week.

A practical jeweler, from Milford, is coming here Monday to work for A. H. Rockwell.

Martin Ligian has the frame up for a dwelling on his lot west of the Abram Elwell place.

Angus McKay is thinking about putting up a dwelling on his lot in the northern part of the village.

Those so desirous can find a good assortment of Evergreens—from 3 to 5 feet high,—at this outlet.

Dust and flies are the natural products of warm weather, and they have made their appearance.

Our new marshal, Mr. Elias Perino, has started out in good earnest towards making a change in the sanitary condition of our city.

Thos. Fultons and H. D. Clark are each adding a finer part to their dwellings. "Summer kitchens" are very convenient in warm weather.

The time has arrived for store clerks to be out sunning themselves on dry goods boxes, expectant customers being at home these fine days.

Goss that new opera house project at Flint has woodburned. Northville will yet beat "the metropolis" city of Michigan.

The members of the red ribbon reform club in this place now number over 200. The organization holds its sessions in Grange Hall every Tuesday evening.

Horace Wilkins has commenced preparations for a dwelling on the Durfee lot east of John McLogan's place. Henry Britton is doing the carpenter work.

Mr. W. A. Wood sold the Argon mill to Coville & Glispis of Detroit, for the sum of $4,400. Possession was given Wednesday eve. The mill is undergoing some repairs. Mr. Wood will probably remain here for the present.

Walter Bloy and Miss Lillie Loun are now classed with the married folks, the ceremony having taken place sometime last month. Willie Macomber and Miss Eva Booth were also married a week or two since.

We are indebted to the publishers for a copy of "The Poor old Tramp," a new and beautiful song and chorus, by Will L. Thompson, author of the famous "Gathering Skills from the Sea Shore."

Mr. John Davis and cousin Freer, have opened a new meat market, in the hinter part of the old F. R. Deal meat market. "Dealing at down prices" and the new firm starts out with a good show of success.

The latest thing in stem winding watches, "warranted a correct time piece and costing only $10," is on sale at Rockwell's. He has just received his spring stock of silver ware; it is no trouble to show goods; call upon him.

Mr. F. R. Deal has commenced contracts for building on the ground west of Spencer Clark's place and opposite C. E. Clarkson's residence. Wesley Mills is also putting up a dwelling between that location and the residence of Judge Yerkes.

The new proprietor of the Cady House, E. W. Martin, has made quite a change in the appearance of the yard connected with the house, by getting rid of some of the surplus rubbish that has been an eye sore so long about the premises.

Our worthy Justice of the peace Mr. Wm. Ambler, having become a little tired of living on a side of the street where the sun doesn't glare in at the windows once during the day, has moved his building to the north side of Main street between the Perrin block and A. H. Dibble's boot and shoe store.

Mr. E. D. Vayo has withdrawn his bus from the depot line and Mr. John Bachelder now controls the business, running for all the hotels. John has now very good accommodations for such trade and being deriving of the little benefits arising therefrom should naturally have the field. Give him full sway!

J. P. Covert of Ann Arbor, is to move here next week, and occupy Mr. Mat Greer's old house, he (Mr. Greer) being about moving into his new one adjoining. Mrs. Covert was formerly Mrs. Mary Greer, and this change is made at her desire that she may be near her relatives, many of whom are living here. Mr. Covert, we learn, will immediately put up a commodious dwelling on his wife's lot on the corner, moving the present small building to the rear.

A letter to Mrs. E. Hungerford, from the family of Mr. Herd, (who formerly kept meat market here) now living at Lincoln, Neb., states that Mr. Herd is at the Black Hills working a "claim" and is making money. His daughter Miss Ida, is about going out there to sing in a concert hall at a salary of $100 per week. She has "arrived" quite a popularity already in a musical sense, at Lincoln.

Attention is called to the advertisement in this issue of Thos. R. Dudley & Co., furniture dealers, Detroit. The firm is composed of Thos. R. Dudley and Geo. W. Fowle, both well known to the public. Mr. Dudley having done business in that line for over twenty years, while his partner, Mr. Fowle is equally well and favorably known in connection with other business. Their many friends will doubtless encourage them in their efforts.

The towns of Escanaba, Sault Ste. Marie, and Munising, in Menominee county are swarming with young fishermen.

A Lepre youth threw a stone at a passing carriage the other day and hit Mr. Cole on the head, wounding him badly. The affair was settled for $25.

Richard Evans of Flint, a log-roller, who would not join the reform club, got drunk at Louis the other day, fell under the cars and lost his right hand.

Horace A. Noyes a lawyer and an old resident of Marshall died April 20. He was buried on Sunday, April 22, under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity, and all the members of the bar attended the funeral in a body, on foot. The funeral services were held at the Episcopal church.

Samuel Schleser was found dead in Monroe, April 21. A post mortem examination revealed a cancerous tumor inside the stomach, covering nearly half the surface, a tumor in the small intestines, and another cancer on the right lung.

Jake Martin is actively training for his coming wrestling match with Owen of Vermont. He is confident of victory, and says that he will win every match in his body before losing one.

Just now we are having too many boy murders over the country. The sad accident, as it is called, of the shooting of young McLaughlin in this city, right before last is horrible but more serious the shooting of a boy four years old by another boy only six years of age, at Boston in a potty quarrel. Keep your sons away from children.—Cincinnati Herald.

The American People.

No people in the world suffer as much with Dyspepsia as Americans. Although years of experience in medicine had failed to accomplish a certain and sure remedy for this disease and its effects, such as Skin Sores, Heart-burn, Water-brash, Sick Headache, Costiveness, palpitation of the Heart, Liver Complaint, coming up of the stool, low spirits, general debility, etc., yet since the introduction of Dr. J. C. Ayer's Patent Medicine we believe there is no case of Dyspepsia that cannot be immediately relieved.

Over 50,000 doses sold last year without one case of failure reported. Go to your Drug, C. R. Stevens, and get a Sample Portfolio for 10 cents and try it. Two doses will relieve you. Regular size 25 cents.

Detroit Matters.

Mr. James Dean, one of the contractors for the building of the Northville opera house, is lying very sick at his residence on Howard street. For some time he was considered dead. He is thought to be slightly recovering.

Manager Davey, of Whitney's opera house, is to take a benefit Saturday night next, May 5th, on which date Othello will be presented with Lawrence Barrett asago, supported by a company from Cincinnati. The character of the play together with the popularity of genial Davey will be likely to draw a full house.

Mr. Edward Simonds, now living on corner of Grand River ave., and Fifth street, is thinking about trading his city property for a farm near Northville and going there to live.

The disturbance between Beecher and Howell still holds on with Mr. Howell a little ahead. Uncle Luther has found his match for once.

The general officers of the Michigan Central have again located their quarters in this city. It would seem to me that above any place else Detroit should be the headquarters of this road, as here it is that direct connections are made with eastern lines.
