TOWN TALK.

A number of our citizens took in the races at Detroit this place.

Fred Horton has charge of the station at this place now at night.

There will be no services at the Presbyterian church next Sunday.

J. S. Haddock is home from Detroit. He will spend some weeks here.

The Harrison and Morton club has about 100 members at the present time.

The new iron bridge is expected every day. The foundations are all ready for it.

We want to see the man who will grumble at the weather we have had for the past month.

Steps are being taken to organize a Cleveland and Thurman club at this place in the near future.

James Sister has closed his blacksmith shop and has gone in partnership with Jarvis Palmer.

The organ factory have received an order for a organ for the new Baptist church at Holland, Mich.

W. W. Blair has secured the contract for the carpenter work on the addition to the school house.

Dr. H. C. Potter has resigned as vice-president and manager of this railroad after a continuous service of thirty years.

Rev. H. S. White, pastor of the Garland St. Methodist church at Flint, was in town last Saturday to prepare seats for their new church.

Rev. L. G. Clark has been invited to attend the reunion of his old pastorate at St. Louis next Sunday and Prof. G. L. Palmer will occupy his pulpit that day.

A game of law bill Tuesday afternoon between the two on the north and south side of Main street resulted in a score of 24 to 15 in favor of the south men.

Gunpowder is the latest addition to the science of war. Now it is suddenly invent a smokeless gunpowder, and peace will have her victories no less than war.

Tom Horner and wife are visiting at Bay View. The associate editor will have charge of the destiny of the Recruit next week to look out for a worthy edition.

The other, the Prohibition party organ, has been sold to W. W. Wiles of Lansing. It will continue to be published in Detroit until after the campaign is over and will then be moved to Lansing.

The Harrison Big Cat song book of 1875 revised for 1888 has sold for ten dollars of A. H. Smythe, Columbus, Ohio. It contains all of the appropriate songs reprinted from the famous catalog of that year.

Miss E. Lipham has given her large dog Fritz to parties in Howell. Fritz had got to be one of the prominent figures in Northville and this will explain the reason of his non-appearance on our streets.

There will be a meeting of the Presbyterian church and society to-morrow Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A full attendance of all the members of both is requested, as business of importance will come before the meeting.

Mr. Reed carried a split-sided face the fore part of the walk. If he had not been a fighting man one would suppose he had had an encounter with Sullivan or some other prize fighter. It was a bad swelling, but is better now.

The solicitors for the sick benefit organization of the Chosen Friends are meeting with good success and believe they can secure enough to organize. All Chosen Friends are requested to be present at the regular meeting next Tuesday evening.

Haying and harvesting are nearly over. The crops have been mostly secured in excellent condition and are much better than was looked for a month or more ago. We have heard of several pieces of wheat that will go nearly thirty bushels to the acre.

Prohibitionists of this place are arranging to organize a Fisk and Brooks club. They meet in E. R. Reed's office next Wednesday evening for that purpose.

All parties opposed to prohibition are invited to be present.

The hole in the ground in Detroit that was dug to build a new post office in can be sold for $110,000. Quite an expensive hole. If they are after a hole we can furnish them one here at a good deal less price.

Tuesday morning as Mrs. F. R. Beal stood on her back steps she lost her balance and fell to the ground striking her neck and back. She sustained injuries which for a time were feared would prove serious, but we are happy to state that she has recovered from them.

The farmer's loan and savings company of Oakland county held their third meeting at Pontiac recently and appointed various committees in the different townships to solicit members. Nor is represented by Daniel S. Rogers, John Bassett and E. L. Hayes.

Edith Wilcox, of Elba, Tuscola county, runs her father's mower, cut 10 acres of hay just as neatly as any man could have done it, and is only 16 years old. She can run a rake, cultivator or any farm implement with equal precision, and the doctor says you can't find a girl of more native modesty or sweet retiring disposition.

A father and son were sitting on a box in front of the post office. The boy was gazing in open mouth wonder at a veteran who was approaching with one eye out, a broken nose, a lame leg and one arm in a sling, and said, "Pa has that man been in the war?" "No, my son," replied the father, "No, he belongs to the home base ball nine."

Prof. Crozier the leader of our popular band, has been out of work for some time, and although searching diligently for it has been unable to find work.

It is proposed by his friends and admirers of the band to give him a benefit. We hope this may take definite shape and something definite with that object in view. The columns of the Recorder are open at any time for such an object.

The father and brother of a young girl in Ypsilanti who was assaulted by a stranger of that place have taken a very effective manner of punishment. Last Sunday the father met the fellow and thrashed him. A little later the brother did the same thing. They propose to keep this thing up every time they meet him, and he does not have them arrested for fear of going to prison himself.

A son of D. Wilkinson's horses stood in the alley in the rear of the post office Tuesday it became frightened and started to run. A boy and little girl were in the wagon. As the horse started the bridle came off and the boy did his best to stop the horse by pulling hard on the reins but he was only pulling against the horse's neck. The horse ran around onto Main street and was stopped before any injury was done to horse, wagon or children.

Henry Whipple, of South Lyon, was in town again Tuesday making arrangements about leasing the opera house building for hotel purposes. He has filed with the village clerk his liquor bond with Orange Butler and E. P. Kellogg as sureties and in case the bond is accepted he will complete his arrangements and that building will be changed to a hotel. Mr. Whipple is a popular landlord and stands in high favor with the traveling public.

Miss M. E. Lipham contemplates sailing Aug. 18 for an extended trip through Europe and other places on the other side of the water. She will be accompanied by a lady friend from Ypsilanti. Her father intends joining her in Italy in February or March and in company they plan visiting Egypt, Palestine and other places of interest.

This will be a very pleasant trip for them and they will carry with them the well wishes of a large circle of friends.

The Teachers Institute for Wayne Co. to be held at Wyandotte, August 13 to 17, will be under the control of Prof. F. A. Barbour, of Ypsilanti, assisted by Prof. J. W. Ewing, of Alma, and Supt. W. A. Ginn, of Hillsdale.

Teachers will be credited on their certificates two per cent for each day's attendance. Entertainment will be furnished at reduced rates and everything will be done to make the week one of great interest and profit to teachers and school officers.

PERSONALS.

Major Penniman, of Detroit, spent Wednesday in town.

John Waterman is visiting his children in Kent county.

George Waterman and Will Ambler are taking an outing at Union Lake.

Henry DeKay, of Maple Rapids, is visiting his parents in this township.

Mrs. Belle Long is in New Hampshire giving concerts. She will probably not return here before the holidays.

J. H. Bailey and family moved to Detroit Monday, where he has secured work.

Mrs. James Estes, of Wixom, spent last Sabbath with her sister, Mrs. J. R. Rauch.

Mrs. W. Phillips has so far recovered from her recent illness as to be up and about.

J. S. Lapham and daughter moved back from their Walked Lake cottage Saturday.

Mrs. Nellie Hewitt, nee Gardner, of Maple Rapids, is visiting old friends in the village.

Prof. Fred Taylor and son, of Albion College, are visiting his aunt, Mrs. John Sands.

Jesse Perrin, of Vandear, an old resident of this place, is very low with a swelling of the brain. He is gradually failing.

Mr. and Mrs. Prof. L. W. Barnhart are spending the week at Flint. They will return here again before going to their home at Grand Rapids.

George Godard, of North Grand Rapids, a schoolmate of Lewis Beach, is spending a few days visiting here.

Mrs. A. L. Stevens and children from Ypsilanti and Mrs. D. L. Hale, of Cle, are guests of Mrs. Geo. J. Brooks.

F. R. Reed was called from his room last week in consequence of a cold now and has been unable to return to his office yet.

Frank Clark, the Plymouth Notary, was a caller at this office yesterday. He was on his way to his wife's folks to nurse a carbuncle on his hand.

John L. Haley and family, of Toledo, are visiting his aunts, Mrs. Roxanne Smith and Miss Robinson. Mr. Haley is a freight conductor on the Lake Shore road.

Mrs. Marsh, wife and daughter, of Lapeer, are visiting his relatives in town. Mrs. Marsh is a daughter of Martin Whitney, who owned the saw mill at Waterford years ago.

W. W. Wendell is smilng pipe fitter in the upper peninsula. He writes home that he has his eye on some fine lands for sale there and that he may pick up something about as large as he can carry. Stories of a millionaire lumberman roll before his vision.

Frank Ansley who has been living here for some time, intends going to California. He is at present spending a couple of weeks in Canada, before going to find the setting sun. The band serenaded him Saturday evening. He has made many friends here who will regret his departure from our midst.

The total eclipse of the moon Sunday night was beautiful and could be very easily seen from this place. The sky was very clear and the heart of the gutter was filled with admiration.

A farmer by the name of Lipch, living 12 miles southwest from Green Ville, has with a startling and almost miraculous adventure a few days ago. While riding his moper cutting wheat, one of the team stepped upon a bee's nest, which enraged the insects, and in turn they began prodding the horses. The animals dashed away at full speed, cutting a swath through the middle of the field, and the driver having no control over them. Suddenly the large wheel over which Mr. Lipch was sitting struck a large, half-imbedded rock, throwing him sideways upon the grain table, but he was quickly raked off by the machine, escaping with a few cuts and numerous bruises, while the horses were brought to a standstill at the fence with no injury. A few hours repairing on the reaper put everything to rights again.

The person who furnishes items to a newspaper is always a valuable friend to the editor. Many persons hesitate about sending personal notes to a newspaper regarding the movement of friends lest the newspaper man should think them too anxious to see their names in print. He will think nothing of the kind, but on the contrary he is glad to get such notes. Many seemingly unimportant items when printed are news to a large number of readers.

Any man who is disloyal to his town, sneers at its prospects and libels its people should be spotted by the rest of the community and either run out of town or compelled to shut up. Every town has more or less discontented scoundrels who illustrate Pope's observation that "man never is, but always to be blessed"; men who think they should get rich by their wits and without soiling their undershirt with vulgar sweat, when the fact is they haven't any wits.

Blasphemous Bob Ingersoll doesn't agree with Blaine that free whisky would increase pauperism and crime. Ingersoll defends the alleged free whisky plank saying: "If the Mississippi river ran whisky, and the banks were sugar and covered with mint, there would be no more whisky drunk in this country than there is now."

Brewers say 90 out of every 100 Republicans hold Blaine's view is correct and Ingersoll has therefore made another mistake that Moses never would have committed.

A law has recently been enacted concerning a technical defect, whereby widows who filed application for pensions are entitled to July 1, 1888, will when the pension is allowed, receive the same from the date of filing of the claim. These rules do not hold where the soldier died prior to July 1, 1888. Claimants who are affected by this change in the law should write to the authorities of pensions, sending the number of their certificate and post-office address.

Our village treasurer, L. C. Hough, met with something of a surprise on Monday. He thought he would attend the ball game in the city on Monday and the same time draw from the county treasurer the liquor money, $450 belonging to the village. Armed with the necessary order from the clerk, appropriately stamped with the great seal of the village, he presented himself at the county treasury. The county official looked over his books and then gave Mr. Hough the information intelligence that some one had drawn that money on the third of June. As no one had authority to draw the money except Mr. Hough, and he by an order from the village clerk, neither of whom knew anything about the third of June transaction, the affair became something of a mystery. The money is paid by the county treasurer on warrants from the county auditors, but as the auditors' office was closed that day on account of the explosion in the city hall, Mr. Hough was unable to learn anything further about it. It hardly seems possible that anyone could have drawn the money, but more likely that money paid to some other village treasurer, has by mistake, been charged to this village.—Prairie Mail.

CAIN'S WIFE

Where did he get her?
Who was her brother?
Had she a sister?
Had she a mother?
Was she a maid?
Born before history—
With her identity
Shrouded in mystery;
Maid of Phoenicia,
Egypt, Arabia,
Africa, India,
Or sun-kissed Sibyls
Who was her father?
Was he a viking?
Cruising about
Just to his liking;
Out of the Whales, —
Over the water,
Into the where,
Bringing his daughter
Native of Norway,
Denmark or Sweden!
Lured by the charms
Of the Garden of Eden?
Blonde or brown?
Fiery or slender?
Hapless or leader?
Why are her grace
Unknown to fame?
Where did Cain meet her?
What was her name?
Whisper it softly—
Say, can it be
The lady we seek?
Was it Edie's "Sister"
Tell me, ye sires,
Students of life,
Answer my query—
Who was Cain's wife?

A FAMILY AFFAIR.

BY HUGH COWAY.

"Well, you're a hard one to please, sir," he said, grimly.

"I wanted to see some horses," said Frank leisurely, tapping the ash from his cigarette.

"Oh!" said Barker with a deep-drawn breath. "You wanted to see—some horses, did you?"

"Yes, I did," said Frank placidly; "but never mind. Sorry to have given you so much trouble. May I give poor boy a half a crown?"

"No," said Barker, cocking his head on one side and speaking in a confidential whisper, "without saying a word about the horses I have shown you, tell me what's your idea of a horse—he takes I mean."

"I'm not particular."

"Well, you are not particular. Jim being out of chestnut."

"No," said Frank, "never mind. I don't want to see him. I want you to choose a horse for me."

"I don't like to have a horse. Can't do better, sir! Whether the duke or the marquis wants a horse in a hurry they write to me to send them one. Show it I can suit the duke, I can suit you."

"I don't know. I'm sorry. I can't tell."

Barker could feel himself wretched as he was dealing with a sharp-witted fool.

"There's the other all I suppose. It's the very thing."

"How is she?" said Frank ironically. "One hundred and twenty guineas, and Mr. Parker, without any hesitation, the last who will choose that the vendor is good against the sum of number of pounds."

"Look here," said Frank sharply, "you find me all over for six weeks. I don't care if it's a black, brown or blue. Name the breed, price, or colors to take, and if the price is right, it will be taken, and no questions asked. I'll give you twenty-four hours if it's more, and I'll be back to you at the end of the time. Don't then bring the best."

Barker made a long pause then with a smile of pleasure held. "No, sir, after that it isn't the best. You come here. I know just what it is."

The reporter having ascertained that it was a very large, strong, well-made, and sturdy, the dark bay horse, which was similar to the one at Hazlewood House, then returned. There he told Mr. Parker good-bye, and walked back to town.

Just before he reached Hazlewood House he was overtaken by Beatrice and Herbert. They turned up and spoke a few words. Young Parker was in high humor, and delightfully condescending.

"Why you don't ride Mr. Carruthers," he said.

"It is a pity. Will you teach me? He's very sweet, for know."

"I'll bring my father's old horse around some more and give you a lesson. I dare say you will soon pick it up."

"You were always a kind-hearted boy," said Frank gratefully. "Miss Dawson do you think I could learn to ride?"

"You are too lazy I fear."

"Yes, I suspect I am. I won't trouble you, Parker. Good-bye."

The horses trotted on, and Frank sauntered back to Hazlewood House smiling placidly.

In the afternoon to Miss Dawson's supreme astonishment, the new purchase arrived. She and Frank were in the garden at tea-time. The boy was placed in Mr. Giles's charge, so that personage, after inspecting it, reported for two reasons: the first that Mr. Parker had not "bested" Frank; the second, that even if Frank had, "bested" Mr. Parker, the horse must have cost a pot money, and at whatever figures his William's introduction might be assessed, the back-shirk might be worth having.

"I thought you didn't care for riding," said Beatrice.

"I don't much."

"Then why buy such a horse?"

"Because I should like to ride with you?"

He gave her one of his quick glances. Beatrice turned away, ashamed to feel that she was blushing. She was very cold and reserved during the evening, yet the audacious young man chose to take it for granted that she would accept him for her cavalier vice Parker superseded.

Young Parker was too shy to offer his escort on the next morning—he feared lest he might wear out his welcome. So his ride was a solitary one. Judge his after disengaged when, quiedy trotting along, he encountered Miss Dawson and Mr.

Carruthers, the latter mounted on a steed, the like to which Mr. Parker had for years longed to own, and, moreover, riding as if he knew all about it.

The sight was very bad for young Parker. Had he been poetical he might have compared himself to the eagle struck by his own quill. As it was, he muttered, "A jolly sell-by Joté," and after the inevitable greetings and Mr. Carruthers' inevitable bit of taunting, rode home in a disconsolate state.

CHAPTER XIII. GASTROSTOMIC AND EROTIC.

The long vacation was running down to the lees. August had passed into September, and September had stolen away. Yet Frank Carruthers still lingered at Oakbury enjoying his cousin's hospitality. Having assumed the post of "mental physician" to Miss Dawson, he was no doubt reluctant to resign it until he had effected a radical cure.

In plain English, Frank had fallen in love with Beatrice. In that good old-fashioned way, almost at first sight. He had gone down before her gray eyes as surely as had the susceptible Sylvanus. Would he fare any better?

About this date he often asked himself the above question; for he had by now made the carafe's acquaintance, and learned that he was a rejected man.

He did not learn it from Beatrice, who like every true woman, wished to hide, like possible, the story of a man's discomfiture. He spoke in his biggest voice, as he was treading upon a subject upon which he was an authority, he felt he had a right to use it. Herbert listened with his gentle polite smile, but felt sorry Mr. Turner had been invited.

"What's going on England?" boomed out Mr. Turner. "I tell you, my dear sir. The Jews are ruling England."

As Mr. Turner must know best, Herbert simply bowed in acquiescence.

Horace in the meantime was saying to Mr. Simmons, "It is an undisputable fact that the Jews are the most loyal patriotic race under the sun. Their cleverness no one denies. In the finer, the emotional arts, such as music and poetry, it is generally admitted that a man must have a strain of Jewish blood in him to rise to eminence."

Here Mr. Simmons bowed and smiled.

"Read one of the trade gazettes," continued Turner, "surely."

"I would not be able to understand it," urged Herbert.

"Read the list of titles of sale," shouted Turner. "See the Jews, the Abrahams, the Moeses, who are buying up the country. They are swarming over the land and over as often as he chose.

Mr. Carruthers and the curate met frequently. They recognized each other's cool points and were soon on terms of friendship such as fiction, at least seldom allows to exist between rivals. Rivals is perhaps the wrong word for if any strayed thought of her cling to Mr. Mordie's armchair and returned with him to England it was swept away forever, and ever as soon as the owner saw Frank and Beatrice together.

It was no doubt the desire to protest ineloquently to himself that he was cured that made him in a moment of brutal confidence tell Frank how he had fared. The master in "the common" was taken aback. Frank had his own secret to tell him, but he had not told him. If he did, he could not have made so strong an impression on Mr. Turner at Morden with a campus smile.

"What do you expect me to say I am?" he asked.

"Not want sympathy. Only want to let you know that when life comes to you, congratulate you. I can do so with all my heart."

"Ah," said Frank, smiling. "Nothing more noble." When the time comes, he said softly. Then, upon the fall of a tear of thought, a strain which ran through a single eye and always took him to one another's heart, he said to his master:

"I expect to be a good soldier, sir. I expect to be a good citizen."

"I expect to be a good husband, sir. I expect to be a good father, sir. I expect to be a good son, sir. I expect to be a good neighbor, sir. I expect to be a good citizen."

"I expect to be a good husband, sir. I expect to be a good father, sir. I expect to be a good son, sir. I expect to be a good neighbor, sir. I expect to be a good citizen."

NORTHLAKE.

One of the benefits of statehood to Dakota is a donation of 9,000 acres of government land for the Agricultural college.

SAM RANDALL's health appears to be seriously shattered, and his friends are becoming alarmed. Some days he sees no one except his physician.

NEARLY half of the successful contestants for Cornell University fellowships are women. Their studies have been architecture, law and mathematics.

EDGAR RIMMER, the London perfumer, left personal estate valued at $100,000, and made bequests to all persons who had been his employ for ten years.

WHAT may be of great value in ship building and warmaking is the discovery that steel mixed with 24 per cent of manganese becomes non-magnetic.

BANANAS have become so cheap in Queensland, Australia, that their cultivation is no longer profitable. Only one shilling per bunch of twenty dozen is paid for the fruit.

GEORGE R. THAYER, of Hartford, Conn., who crossed the continent to California on the bicycle two years ago, is crossing the ocean now to do Europe in the same way.

DR. WILLIAM A. HAMMOND writes that the nervous temperament is more disposed to insanity than any other. He avers that the business men of today are as nervous as women.

WHEN Sheridan left Oregon in 1861 he said he was going into the war to win a captain's commission, and would have it if he lived. His ambition was more moderate than his patriotism.

EDISON, the electrician, is said to be collecting the shells of his baby daughter on the photograph with the intention of grinding them out for her torture when she becomes a young lady.

A LARGE memorial window is about to be placed in Trinity Church, Leavenworth, Mass., inscribed: "In loving memory of Chester Allen Arthur, twenty-first President of the United States."

Mrs. JOHN A. LOGAN has secured all the suitable mementoes of her late husband that she could obtain and at present they are what she maintains as a memorial room in her house at Washington.

ALICE recently sang "Home, Sweet Home" at the inauguration of the exhibition for the benefit of the London Home for Incurables in such a way that a lady present at once wrote her check for $5,000 for charity.

ELIZABETH STUART PRYNN, who has been writing for the public over 30 years, is only 44 years old. Youth's Companion printed her first story, written when she was 13. She began "Gates Ajar," her best-known book, in 1864.

JOHN W. MACKAY, the bonanza king, has a dinner service worth $100,000. The silver was furnished from his own mines, and, upon the completion of the set, he bought the dies outright, in order that the set might never be duplicated.

MR. ALEXANDER DEMAS lives by measure and weight. He rises at 6:30 in the summer and at 7 in the winter. His first breakfast invariably consists of a glass of milk. The second, which he takes at noon, is a plain meal. Dinner occurs exactly at 7, and at 10 he is in bed. He walks three miles every day, and never works after 4 p.m.

THE beautiful young Hessian Princess who has just been married to Prince Henry, of Prussia, is known here and in England as Princess Irene, but in Germany she is always called Princess Ella. She is the most popular member of a rather unpopular family, but her personal charms and worth would make her an idol anywhere.

It is told of a clergyman in one of the towns near Boston that he had given him to read from the pulpit an announcement that "the Bailingham praying band" would conduct at the evening meeting; but by some strange perversity of his tongue the congregation was astounded with the announcement that there would be a service by the "Prayingham bally-band."

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

Fourth Annual Report of the Commission.—How It Works.

Washington has its epitome.

The fourth report of the civil service commission shows that between Jan. 16, 1886, and June 30, 1888, 50 examinations were held in various parts of the country, for the three classified services, 1,020 men and 1,088 women were examined, and 3,300 men and 1,858 women passed successfully. The total percentage of failures was 34 per cent men and 16.6 per cent women. Of the successful applicants, 1,302 men and 130 women received appointments. It is a notable fact that since the enactment of the civil service law no women have been appointed from the following named states and territories: Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Minnesota, Montana, New Jersey, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming. From each of the following states and territories but one woman has been appointed: Delaware, Maine, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico and Rhode Island. Of the total number of persons appointed to the classified department service since the approval of the civil service law in 1883, only 52 have been permanently removed. Of the 52, resignations, four were reinstated.

From Jan. 16, 1884, to June 30, 1888, special pension examiners were appointed upon certification of the commission, 20 of whom were appointed before March 4, 1888. The total number of special pension examiners removed since March 4, 1888, was 12, and the number resigned nine. The number of "separations" from the classified custom service from Jan. 1, 1884, to June 30, 1887, was 29, of which number 16 were by removal, 15 by resignation and five by death. The number of "separations" from the classified postal service during the same period was 513, of which number 501 were by removal, 48 by resignation and 23 by death.

Of the appointments made during the period covered by this report, 30 were claimants of the right of preference in civil appointments accorded to honorably discharged soldiers and sailors; and this is about the total number of such claimants who during the period referred to, passed examinations for the classified departmental service. Six of the 30 were appointed in the interior department. Among the concluding paragraphs of the report are the following: "The act entitled 'An act to regulate and improve the civil service of the United States' has been in force now nearly four years and a half, a part of that time under the administration of one party and a part under that of another. That there has been accomplished in the execution of the law all that its most sanguine friends expected is not asserted, but without any degree of exactness in statement, it can be said that in the results of its execution is shown the wisdom of the principle of dividing the subordinate offices of the government from politics and elections, and making competence in office dependent not upon party, or upon merit and good behavior. In this respect the law has proved results which are not exaggerated described as surprising."

The commanding methods of the pension system of a number of states have been replaced within the last fifteen years by the better methods of the law, under which the demands of our poor soldiers are considered so far as possible, and a man duly qualified shall be allowed every opportunity, on presentation of sufficient evidence, for securing appointment and promotion in the subordinate civil service. The patronage system is entirely at variance with the genius and spirit of the law, and it is to be regretted against the surrender to any party of the interests of the law, and in respect to us, that this instrument shall ever become what the pale memory of a dead body full of worms would make, a grave-digger of opportunities for our countrymen."

The report was prepared by committee on pensions and is signed by the three members of the commission, Mr. Lyman dissenting from the regulation of 1887 requiring the certificate, in to the head of an office, of the whole list of eligibles for promotion. The adjutant general, whose views a return to the rank and pay of the regulars, or an undivided militia, of the Confederacy, it shows 107,000 militia in the United States. All the states and territories contribute to the mutual organization excepting Missouri, Arizona, Idaho, and Utah. The leading states of the Union in numbers of militia are as follows: New York, 12,200; Pennsylvania, 3,345; Ohio, 3,000; Massachusetts, 5,000; South Carolina, 4,244; Georgia, 4,000; California, 4,117; Illinois, 4,100; New Jersey, 3,347; Michigan, 2,012.

E. L. Shepard of Michigan has secured his promotion from a $600 to $1,500 clerkship in the office of the comptroller of the currency.

The bill to pension Bridget Foley, widow of Joseph F. Foley, of Company K, Fifth Michigan Cavalry, has passed the House.

Broad-stuff exports during last June aggregated in value, $1,37,000, against $1,26,500 during June, 1887, and for the twelve months ending with June 30, last, $1,29,883, against $1,0,27,000 during the twelve months ending June 30, 1887. Exports of the principal articles of provisions during last June aggregated in value, $1,000,000, against $1,000,000 in June, 1887.

The President has vetoed another batch of pension bills on the ground that the disabilities for which pensions were allowed were not incurred in the service.

A committee has been appointed to investigate the alleged importation of contract laborers, convicts, paupers and other classes of immigrants in violation of the laws.

Gen. Greely of the weather bureau announces that he will resign, as he doesn't like the uncertain tenure of his office, and because he sees that the bureau must grow worthless unless reorganized on a more scientific plan.

The senate has passed the bill to place John C. Fremont on the retired list of the army as major-general.

The sundry civil appropriation bill as reported by the senate appropriates $7,000,000.

The senate has passed the bill providing for the adjustment of accounts of laborers, workmen and mechanics (employed by the government) under the eight-hour law.

Favorable action has been taken by the house on Representative Lee's resolution calling on the secretary of the interior for information relative to the treatment of the United States navy and marine corps who served honorably throughout the Mexican war, but whose names were dropped from the rolls because of their action in joining the confederate forces.

The president has nominated Lambert Tree of Illinois, now minister resident to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Belgium;

Robert B. Roosevelt of New York, now minister resident to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to the Netherlands; Rufus M. Choate of Indiana, now minister resident to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Sweden and Norway; Charles L. Scott of Alabama, now minister resident and consul general, to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Venezuela; John E. Bacon of South Carolina, now chargé d'affaires, to be minister resident of the United States to Paraguay and Uruguay.

The sundry civil appropriation bill reported to the senate contains the following items: $1,000,000 for the Cedar River, Green Bay, $2,000,000 for work on the Detroit public buildings, $1,000,000 for the purchase of a site and work on the Bay City building, $1,000,000.

Senator Platt has been authorized by the senate committee on inter-state commerce to report back (with verbal amendments) the Spooner bill subjoining the telegraph companies to the jurisdiction of the inter-state commerce commission, and regulating their operations the same way that the inter-state commerce law regulates the affairs of the railroads.

The president has vetoed a bill granting a pension to the widow of John Hersey, wounded at the battle of Gettysburg. The veto is based upon the fact that after being wounded Hersey deserted and enlisted in the rebel army, where he continued until he was captured in 1863. President Cleveland says he will take no part in granting a pension to a case where such an act of treachery is shown. Another who refuses a pension is Thomas Shafer, who was injured by an explosion of powder at a fourth of July celebration in Texas.

The senate receded from its demand for the salary amendment to the civil service appropriation bill. Postmaster General Dickinson's views in opposition to the amendment precipitated this action.

AN AWFUL PLOT REVEALED.

A Conspiracy Having for its Object the Murder of Officials.

An informer frustrates the plan.

By bold, timely action Inspector Bonelli of the Chicago police force, on the morning of the 17th instant, probably saved the lives of himself and Judges Gary and Grinnell.

In a small frame house in the vicinity of Ashland ave. and Thirty-third st. were found 12 dynamite bombs, a revolver and a knife, and as the owner of the article stepped to the sidewalk he was arrested by Bonelli, put in jail and taken to the police station. Two other arrests were made later. When questioned as to what they intended to do, Inspector Bonelli explained himself to say:

"There was a conspiracy of long standing and it was about to be put into execution. They intended to destroy the dynamite of J. G. Gary, Judge Grinnell and myself."

The chief plotter was an old-time anarchist, and was arrested in the scheme of Haymarket.

He was making the apartment of Dr. Bell and the horseman who he, Robert West, as daylight was breaking, the suspect, was seized by the police, was captured, and a few moments later was unengaged from the house. Sheriff Grinnell himself and his officers, led by the man, who made a desperate fight, but a sharp encounter ensued and placed in charge of two of the officers. Bell and the other officers who were with the man, took an already made barricade and the two officers, a large revolver and a dagger. Numerous citizens and other persons were taken by the police from the scene of the plot. At 10 o'clock the first trial of the conspirator was held.

Inspector Bonelli, who was received into the police force, that he was a well-tempered man, and that he was in the service, and that he was at certain times in touch with the man, who was the leader of the plot.

Dr. Bell, who was to be killed, was to be seized between the hours of 12 and 1, and the power of the police was to be taken at 12 o'clock.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson V, July 23, 1888.

THEME: THE TABERNACLE—Ex. 40:1-16.

1. And the Lord spake unto Moses saying, 2. On the first day of the first month shall thou set up the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation, & then shalt thou bring in the ark of the testimony, and cover the ark with the vail. 3. And thou shalt bring in the table with the bread of the presence, and the candlestick with seven lamps, and the table of shewbread, and the altar of incense, and the golden candlestick, and the altar of burnt offering, and the brazen laver, and the altar of sacrifice, and the anointing oil, and the sweet incense, and the incense of the morning offering.

4. And thou shalt set up the screen before the door of the tabernacle, and the screen shall be of the skins of rams, and the door of the tabernacle shall be of the door of the ark.

5. And thou shalt set up the altar of the burnt offering before the door of the tabernacle, and the altar of incense before the door of the screen.

6. And thou shalt set up the laver between the altar of the burnt offering and the altar of incense, and the laver shall stand upon four bases, and the water of the laver shall be for washing.

7. And thou shalt set up the altar of incense before the screen that is before the ark of the testimony.

8. And thou shalt set up the golden candlestick before the ark of the testimony, and the golden candlestick shall stand between the ark of the testimony and the table of shewbread.

9. And thou shalt set up the table of shewbread before the golden candlestick.

10. And thou shalt set up the golden candlestick before the table of shewbread.

11. And thou shalt set up the altar of incense before the golden

Robbery and Murder.

A murder and robbery was committed five miles from Tibbury Center, Ont., the other night.

Some unknown parties broke open the door of a house belonging to a quiet and unoffensive old man by the name of Wilson Houghton, who lived alone. Having never been married, Houghton seems to have been the motive. Houghton was shot in the abdomen and died from the effects of the wound the next morning. Before dying he made an auto-mortem statement to the effect that two men broke open his door and shot him. He stated that the robbers were carried about $600, which was on his person at the time.

Fatally Scalded.

While the tugboat Coates was steaming along two miles above Westport Ind., at 10:30 the other morning, there was a terrific explosion. The whole boat became enveloped in steam and the machinery stopped. The captain, who was asleep, hurriedly dressed, called his men and made preparations to land. The yawl was lowered, a line taken on, and the boat was towed ashore and made fast to a tree. Then the captain proceeded to the after cabin and found that the steam pipes had exploded, and that seven of the crew had been scalded to death.

Arthur's Advice.

Capt. Arthur advises the Burlingame strike of He says the men were just as bad as the railroads, inasmuch as they would not get their demands and the railroad company was justified in hitting and getting. The strikers made a very fight but were beaten, and although the money necessary to carry on the strike has always been abundant, the cause believes now that the best interests of all interested will be served by a cessation of the strike.

Belle Isle Liquid Paint is in use throughout this state and its rare excellence is daily adding to the already numerous list of its admirers. This paint is more economical, will last longer, look better and prove more satisfactory than paint made from White Lead alone or the many of the liquid paints in the market. Call and examine an attractive display of these paints. Sold by KNAAPP & PALMER, Northville, Mich.

GREATLY EXCITED.

Not a few of the citizens of Northville have recently become greatly excited over the astounding fact that several of their friends who have been pronounced by their physicians as incurable and beyond all hope—succumbing with that dread malady Cancer.

—have been completely cured by Dr. Rice's New Remedy for Consumption, the only remedy that does naturally cure all breast and lung diseases. Coughs, Colds, Asthma and Bronchitis.

This will be free at A. M. Randolph's Drug Store, large bottles $1.00.

RENEWES HER YOUTH.

Mr. Peter Chesler, Peterson, Clay

Co., Iowa, tells the following remarkable story, the truth of which is reached for by the residents of the town: "I am 72 years old, have been treated with kidney complaint and liver disease for many years, could not exist myself without help. Now I am free from all pain and soreness, and am able to do my own housework. I thank God to him for having renewed my youth, and try a bottle only 50c at A. M.
