Au Sable's Sensation.

OUR DETECTIVE WHITE ARRESTS THEIR MAYOR SATURDAY MORNING.

Detective P. E. White left on the Thursday evening train for Au Sable with papers for the arrest of one Selig Solomon. Mr. White said he supposed it was some back-wood-man, and when he found, upon his arrival there, it was Au Sable's mayor he was some what surprised.

Solomon is charged with seduction, the complainant being Mary Leers, of Wayne, a former servant in Solomon's household. The girl's attorneys are Moore & Moore of Detroit, and the warrant was not sworn out until after Solomon refused to settle.

Solomon claims it is a blackmailing scheme and that he will be prepared to prove his entire innocence when the case comes for trial.

Detective White brought his prisoner here Sunday night and took him to Wayne Monday morning where he was arraigned before Justice Cullins. He waived examination and the case was adjourned.

Amusements.

The entertainment under the management of the W. C. T. U. will be held in the Methodist church, Saturday afternoon and evening, March 26. Speakers Mrs. L. Treat and Miss Clara Wheeler, the latter an elocutionist and state supt. of kindergarten work. Admission free. A collection will be taken.

Herbert A. Sprague the character impersonator gives an entertainment at the Northville opera house tomorrow, Friday night. It is under the auspices of the Presbyterian church and promises to be a very enjoyable affair. The program is a good one and besides Mr. Sprague's interesting part, there will be, between the five acts, a vocal solo, an instrumental solo and a male quartet. Admission 25 and 15 cents.

FROM THE COLDWATER COURIER.
It is safe to predict a brilliant future for Mr. Sprague, in his chosen work. He has very much of the Powers style, makes a fine appearance before an audience, and has a face that can be molded into any desired shape or expression.

I take more than ordinary pleasure in stating that on the hearty recommendation of a friend, I engaged Mr. Herbert A. Sprague to give an entertainment at my Industrial School-rooms. The characters impersonated by Mr. Sprague are described in Dickens' "David Copperfield." Mr. Sprague not only pleased but delighted his large audience. He manifests great skill in the use of his voice and face. I feel that Mr. Sprague not only pleases but instructs. I wish that every school in Michigan would engage Mr. Sprague for this inimitable entertainment. Certainly there is no risk involved. There is a positive assurance that much pleasure, much profit, will come from his work. In brief, Mr. Sprague is an artist of high order.

Respectfully, W. N. FERRIS,
Prin. of Ferris Industrial School.

Danger.

Dr. Bennett, Specialist, of Detroit, will be at the Macomber House on Wednesday, March 30.

This notice has met your eyes so regularly for years past that it may have ceased to make any impression upon you. How is it with that sign-board on the railroad track? "Stop! Lookout for the engine!" So often seen you view its familiar black letters with indifference. Now and then someone gets run over, and you realize that sign-board means something. Dr. B's notices mean something. That you are in danger, not suspecting the true cause of your ill health. You ought not to delay consultation with him a day beyond the above dates.

Obituary.

C. M. THORNTON SR.

C. M. Thornton sr., whose funeral occurred at the M. E. Church last week Sunday, was born in New York state in 1811, and was nearly 81 years old at his death. He had made his home with his son, C. M. Thornton Jr., for some years, and it was there he quietly passed away. Mr. Thornton came to Michigan in 1827 and settled in Novi. There are three children yet living, C. M. Jr., Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Nichols. Mr. Thornton was a quiet, retired man, and one whom every one respected very highly. The remains were interred in Rural Hill Cemetery.

MRS. JULIA A. VANDYNE died at her home in this village Monday afternoon, of general debility. She had been in feeble health for years but until her recent illness, dating back for two or three weeks, she had been able to be about her household duties.

Mrs. Vandyne, whose maiden name was Bunn, was born in Ovid, Seneca co., N. Y., Dec. 8, 1812. She was married to Isaac S. Vandyne at that place in 1823 and soon after moved to Michigan and settled on what is now known as the John Emery farm which adjoins Monroe Thornton's place in Novi town. This farm Mr. Vandyne cleared himself and resided upon it for a number of years. Mr. Vandyne died in 1850 leaving the widow and eight children, three of whom are still living: Alvin, and Mrs. E. Whipple of this place and Mrs. Haywood of Hadley, Lapeer co. She had been cared for by her son Alvin in a most tender manner, for years, in their little home here. Mrs. Vandyne was one of the original and we believe the last of the Northville Methodist church, having been united with the society some sixty years ago.

The funeral occurred from the M. E. church Wednesday, Rev. Jaques officiating.

O weep not for your loved one,
She has only gone before
To join the heavenly chorus,
And sing praises evermore.
Her willing hands are folded now
Upon her Father's white breast,
She heard the Savior whisper low
Come unto me and rest:
Your heart and home is empty;
The missing link is gone
In heaven she calls you gently,
And bids you follow on.
Resign her to the Savior's care,
And say God will be done.
At the beautiful gates she's waiting
To meet you one by one.

HANNAH DIDN'T GO

The report started in Blake's store. To disbelieve a report that started in Blake's store was an unheard-of heresy at the Corners. So, astonishing as this was, the Corners received it without a shadow of doubt. It hardly needed to be known that Mrs. Goodrich herself was the authority.

She was down at the store Saturday afternoon as usual to make her weekly purchases. Anson Blake, who never failed when groceries were purchased to conduct the customer to the other side of the store to look at the dry goods, and vice versa, endeavoring to lead Mrs. Goodrich over to look at some new winter goods. Then it came out. With a bit of pardonable pride she let him know that she had no need to look at fall goods in Witham Corners or Witham Center either, since her Hannah was going to the city next week to do their fall shopping; that she (Hannah) had an aunt there who had the whole summer been urging her to come and that now she was going for a few days.

Mrs. Goodrich shook her large skirts and swept out—figuratively speaking, of course, as her garments always escaped the floor by some inches.

Meeting was hardly over the next day before Hannah was interviewed as to her intended trip, and the ladies who were not present in the morning interviewed her in the evening on the subject. "They were so numerous then and kept her so long that Jerry Downing, waiting impatiently for her outside, concluded she had gone out the back door on purpose to cut him and walked home with another girl. His mother who had not been on speaking terms with Mrs. Goodrich since that good lady made some remarks on the strength of the butter Mrs. Downing brought to the minister's donation last winter, let Jerry know when he got home of Hannah's intended trip, and suggested that a girl who couldn't buy her winter dress at the Corners, but must go to New York for it, was too fine to be a farmer's wife. Jerry went to bed in despair, while Hannah was crying herself to sleep, wondering how she could have offended him.

The next afternoon, when she came in from her school, Hannah was more than surprised to find Mrs. Downing in the sitting room with her mother. As the visitor had not been in their house for a year, Hannah was sure that she bore some message from Jerry and greeted her accordingly, wondering meanwhile why her mother looked so grim, and knit as furiously as if the whole family were barefooted and suffering.

It was no message from Jerry, however, that brought Mrs. Downing there to-day. The lady was plowing in a distant field, and did not know of his mother's call. After her little remark last night about Hannah's city shopping tour, she had thought best to keep this visit a secret from him.

"I was just telling your ma," she began, when Hannah, flushed and expectant, was seated, "that I'd been down to Blake's to get my winter dress, and that there wa'n't a thing there I'd put on my back."

"Oh, not a thing!" Hannah assented, quickly. "I'm going to New York for our winter things."

"So I heard, and I was telling your ma that, as long as you are going to town and going a-shopping, buying one more dress wouldn't be no trouble to you."

Buying a whole wardrobe for Jerry's mother would have been a delight!

"Oh, no trouble—a pleasure!" Hannah cried, despite her mother's frown.

"There's that brown merino I got three years ago last fall," Mrs. Downing went on. "The wear I've had out of it just beats all. I've worn it steadily wherever I went. I was telling your ma that I didn't know as I could be suited better than to have another just like it. So if you won't mind getting me ten yards of dark-brown merino—say about 80 cents a yard, or you might go as high as $5—I'd be my obliged, and will do the same by you."

"Don't mention it!" cried Hannah, taking out her notebook and adding the small item to the long family list.

"The money'll be all right," added Mrs. Downing.

"Of course it will," Hannah laughed.

"Going to stay long?"

"From Thursday to Monday only. I can't leave my school longer."

"I'll be over, then, Monday night, after it."

"Waal, I must say," Mrs. Goodrich burst out, as the door closed after Mrs. Downing, "she's got brass! The idea of her asking you to lug a dress up from the city for her! I didn't give her any encouragement when she spoke to me about it, I can tell you."

"Oh, mother, I wouldn't refuse for the world," Hannah returned. "How could I?"

Ten was over. Mrs. Goodrich was washing the dishes. Hannah was drying them, when the kitchen door was unceremoniously opened. A tall, gaunt woman with a commanding air, as if she were at the head of a disorderly regiment, marched in. It was Mrs. Moore.

"Yes, on Thursday," Hannah answered. "Wail you sit down?"

"I haven't no time for a set. Mary she's gone over to her grandmother's, and there ain't nobody to hum to git. Moore's supper. Miss Downing was saying you was going to git her a brown merino."

"Yes."

"I s'pose it won't be no trouble, as you're buyin', to buy me a black merino, too, at the same time."

"None whatever," Hannah's smile was getting hollow.

"How long be you goin' to stay?"

"Till Monday."

"I'll be 'round Monday evenin' with the money. You can get me 70-cent stuff, about seven yards."

She departed with as little ceremony as she had entered.

"I told you so—I told you so," said Mrs. Goodrich, as she lighted a candle and went down cellar with the milk.

"If you do fur one you'll have to do fur the whole town."

Miss Brown, the dressmaker, dropped in a little later.

"I heerd you just now that you're goin' to York," she said, as if to apologize for not coming sooner, "and that you're goin' to get some things for Miss Downing?"

"Yes, a dress," Hannah returned, while her mother gave a tremendous "Ahem!"

"So I heerd. I don't get to York very often myself, and I'm afraid I'm getting a little behind the fashions. It don't pay, you know, for me to get behind," she simpered. Miss Brown was more noted for her simpers than for the correctness of her styles.

"Of course not."

"So I made bold to step 'round and ask you, as you're going to the city anyway, and will be lookin' at the fashions, to just give a look for me."

"I shall certainly study the fashions well for my own benefit."

"I can't say exactly how many patterns I'd like you to buy me."

"Oh, you want me to buy patterns, do you?" Hannah asked, quickly. She was one of the most obliging girls in this world, but this sort of thing was becoming monotonous.

"As long as you're in the city, and goin' right by the fashion stores, I s'pose it won't be no trouble, for you to step in and buy a pattern or so?"

"You can get whatever you think is pretty—some sacks, bodies and skirts, and so on. You can tell better'n I can when you see 'em. You might get about $5 worth. I think it'll pay me. I'll let you have the money when you know how much it is, or I'll sew it out."

While Hannah was silent making a note of this Mrs. Dobbs' next neighbor came in.

"Pretty neighbors you are," was her greeting. "Pretty neighbors! Me! she just come up from the store. Ma, sez she, 'what do you think? Hannah Goodrich is going to the city a Thursday a shopping, and is going to get Miss Downing a dress. I wonder if she wouldn't buy me a felt hat. I'm sick an' tired of Miss Miller's hats. Of course she would, sez I. A pretty neighbor she'd be if she wouldn't!'"

"Why certainly," said Hannah, trying to call up a smile. It was only the ghost of one that responded, however. "What kind of hat will Amelia want?"

"She's goin' to leave that to your judgment. Somethin' pretty and dressey and stylish, and that'll be comin' to you."

Hannah was dark with delicate features, and very pretty. Amelia was light, with coarse features, and homely.

"She's willin' to go as high as five dollars," Mrs. Dobbs went on. "Still, if you don't have to spend so much she'll be tickled. Looking around a leetle and not taking the first thing that's offered, you kin sometimes save as much as fifty cents."

Mrs. Groep from the Corners, Mrs. Drake from the Center, Mrs. Williams from North Witham, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Coles, one after the other, were ushered into the sitting room and begged to have a piece of goods matched or something big or little bought in the city. They always knew it would be no trouble for her as long as she was buying for herself, and not one offered to advance the money for the purchase.

After supper on Wednesday evening Hannah wrote out her list in full. She was studying it a little amused and very much vexed, when her mother entered.

"Ma! I've been counting up," she said.

"Waal?"

"The things I am requested by the neighbors to buy amount at a rough guess to $150. They would easily fill three trunks, and the work of hunting for them would occupy me at least four days. Not one has offered a cent in advance or the money to pay expressage. I have just $50 and two days to spend in the city."

"I told you so—I told you so."

"What could I do? I should have offended every one of them if I had put the case to them as it is."

"Waal, what air you going to do? You're in for it you see."

"I'm not going—that's what I'll do about it. We'll buy our winter dresses at Blake's, as the rest of Witham will for all me. The next time I make up my mind to go to New York not a soul in Witham will know it till I am gone, if you please, ma."

Mrs. Goodrich did please. When Hannah went early the next spring even Mrs. Downing was not told till the last moment and then it was because Hannah changed her name to Downing the day she went, and was as pleased as before, of course, to undertake any commissions for Jerry's mother—True Flag.

MESSRS. DULLAM BROS.—Gentlemen:
For over 4 years I have been afflicted with an eruption of the skin, which became very troublesome and I could get no relief. I was also troubled very badly with constipation, which nothing I tried gave any permanent relief until I took Dullam's Great German Blood, Liver, Stomach and Kidney Remedy and since taking I have been entirely cured. For a tonic, blood purifier and general health restorer I can heartily recommend it. A bottle, $1.00.

THE BOILER EXPLODED.

Six Men Were Killed and Sixteen Injured at East Jordan by a Most Fearful Saw Mill Accident.

James Carr, the desperado, and Divo Keeper of Clare County, Pays the Penalty of a Life of Sin.

The Board of Managers of the State Soldiers' Home Alter the Rules.—Other State News.

Six Killed, Sixteen Injured.

The most horrible accident in the history of northern Michigan occurred at East Jordan, 13 miles east of Charlevoix. The four boilers of the East Jordan Lumber company's mill No. 2 exploded, totally demolishing the structure and killing six men, seriously injuring four and injuring more or less, twelve others. The killed are: Albert Cook, aged 30 and married; Emanuel Hunt, aged 40 and married; John Brown, aged 20 and single; William Beach, aged 18 and single; Simon Carney, aged 20 and unmarried; Amos Christy. The latter was the only one of the dead not instantly killed. He lingered for three hours in terrible agony. The others were mangled beyond recognition. Of the injured, Reinhardt had his limbs broken and mangled and cannot live. John Kling had both eyes blown out and will unquestionably die. There were several minor casualties. Andrew Parish, while driving a cart, got in the way of the falling steamstack, which crushed both horse and cart, but left the driver uninjured. The concussion was heard for miles. It is impossible to say what caused the explosion. Pearson, the only man in the mill who came out unhurt, says it was probably due to low water or to high pressure, but blames no one for the accident.

James Carr, Desperado.

In a log cabin near the village of Meredith James Carr, one of the most noted desperados in the history of the state, came to his death. For more than 10 years Carr's desperate exploits have made him the terror of the entire county of Clare and his many sensational deeds have made him the subject of numerous newspaper articles. Carr first came into prominence as the keeper of a stockade ranch to which scores of innocent young girls were decoyed from their homes in the larger cities of the state on promise of good and reputable positions and kept confined there, a prey to the brutal passions of the rough and filthy lumbermen in the surrounding woods. But few reports of these inhuman proceedings reached the ears of the outside world, for the keeper of the infamous den kept close watch over all his creatures and, it was alleged, harbored bloodhounds on his premises to assist in the capture of any that might escape. Through means such as these Carr amassed a considerable amount of money and occasionally took extended trips about the country. Of late years, however, his business declined, and he fell into habits of dissipation, he rapidly squandered all of his ill-gotten money. For more than a year back he has been but little better than a pauper, living mostly on the slender earnings of his wife Maggie who has stuck to him through everything.

Prohibitionists Will Not Fuse.

At the session of the Prohibition state convention at Grand Rapids a state central committee was constituted as follows: First district, C. P. Russell, G. A. Vivier; second, D. W. Egerton, C. H. Perrier; third, O. H. Hoyt, A. C. Brice; fourth, Mahlon Jackson, A. N. Eldred; fifth, Albert Dodge, S. E. Richards; sixth, G. R. Malone, Rev. W. C. Clamo; seventh, John Russell, S. C. Parker; eighth, John Newberg, A. G. Tracy; ninth, E. A. Haider, Stole; eleventh, O. M. Brownson, A. W. Dodge. The tenth district was not represented in the convention; members were not named for it. Azariah Partridge, founder of parties and standing candidate for governor, read an original history of ancient and modern politics, and in closing presented a resolution that Prohibitionists rally to the people's party platform of Michigan and join hands with it in all elections as far as appertains to the national ticket. The resolution was the notice for a fight, and John C. Russell first gained the floor. He offered a substitute that the Prohibition party should oppose combines and fusions of any and all kinds with any party or element save the extreme. Prof. Samuel Dickie joined in the opposition to fusion, and Russell's substitute was adopted by an overwhelming majority.

Slate Crop Report.

The March crop report for Michigan makes the following showing: About 40 per cent of the correspondents report wheat as having suffered some injury, but it is believed to be in an average condition compared with previous years. The total number of bushels of wheat reported marketed by farmers in February is 1,393,132. Of this amount, 297,123 bushels were marketed in the first or southern tier of counties, 258,966 bushels in the second tier, 258,512 bushels in the third tier, 284,333 bushels in the fourth tier, 143,238 bushels in the fifth and sixth tiers and 13,230 bushels in the northern counties. At 46 elevators and mills from which reports have been received there was no wheat marketed during the month. The total number of bushels of wheat reported in the seven months, August to February, is 11,216,818, which is 1,166,495 bushels more than reported marketed in the same months last year.

SENATE AND HOUSE.

SENATE.—The following memorial was presented on the 15th from the Philadelphia conference of the M. E. church, that congress shall "secure, in some way, the American Sabbath so that the law of God and of nearly all the states of the nation may be respected at the Columbian Exposition of 1893." Memorials both for and against free coinage of silver were presented. A bill to establish a uniform standard of wheat, corn, oats, barley and rye was reported and placed on the calendar. The bill making Des Moines, Ia., a port of entry was passed. Executive session. Adjourned. HOUSE.—The principal and only important feature of the session was brought up by Mr. Williams, of Massachusetts, who objected to printed headlines in the Record of a portion of a speech delivered by Mr. Walker, which the speaker declared were personally insulting. The heading was: "Shot shot for mugs—Hear and Williams shown up—Williams' report on silver coinage riddled." The matter was finally referred to the committee on printing for investigation and recess was taken until 3 o'clock when private pension bills were considered.

SENATE.—The House bill ratifying the act of the Arizona legislature, appropriating $20,000 for the building of the World's Columbian Exposition was passed on the 16th. After several addresses had been made, the committee arose and the House adjourned.

A few amendments were agreed to and when disposing of the bill the Senate adjourned after an executive session.

HOUSE.—The committee on printing presented a resolution to expunge from the Record that portion of the speech of Mr. Walker which was not delivered in the House and to which Mr. Williams took exception. RUSSIA WANTS A HAND.

Says She Sold to the United States the Waters of the Behring Sea With the Alaskan Territory.

Further Says That She Is Able to Deliver the Goods and Give the Necessary Protection.

England Must Keep Hands Off and Russia Will Oppose Arbitration as Impeding Her Honesty.

SENATE AND HOUSE.

Special correspondence: Lord Salisbury has just learned a lesson in statecraft which will do him a great deal of good. Lord Salisbury has been shown enough to induce the United States to enter into negotiations with him concerning the management of the seal business, which belongs exclusively to this country. As our government has considered the idea of arbitration with an insolent free-boater, the other and heretofore silent factor in the Behring Sea affair has entered the case. The czar of all the Russias has sent word to Lord Salisbury that Russia is able to maintain her right and absolute proprietary interest in the North American country which she sold to the United States and that Russia will not stand idly by and permit Great Britain to assert to the world, by indirect action, that Russia received money from the United States under false pretenses, that Russia owned the Behring Islands, and controlled the entire coast and sealing rights which were then sold to the United States. Russia and France are natural allies of the United States, and the world may as well know it. Russia is anxious for a war with Great Britain. Lord Salisbury will probably digest his spleen in secret as he commits his lesson to memory.

If arbitration treaty is likely to be ratified, Russia will protest against any such action for those reasons. The state department at Washington is unusually noncommittal on the subject. Mr. Wharton refuses to answer any questions concerning the Russian note, for that is the shape it came in, but a member of the cabinet deeply interested in the present proceedings said that the above statement fairly covers the facts.

German Cabinet Crisis.

Berlin cable: There is a crisis in the Prussian Cabinet, resulting from the meeting of the ministers at which the emperor presided. The subject under discussion at this meeting was the primary education bill and it is well known that there is a considerable divergence of opinion among the ministers on this measure. The resignations of Dr. Herrfurth, Minister of the Interior, and Count von Zedlitz-Trutzschler, Minister of Ecclesiastical Affairs, Education and Medical Affairs, are pending.

The Kreuz Zeitung publishes a report that Chancellor von Caprivi, has resigned. The North German Gazette confirms the report that Count von Zedlitz-Trutzschler intends to resign. It is stated that Caprivi offered his resignation at the cabinet meeting as the result of protracted contest on the education bill, which the Chancellor, as President's premier, has championed from the first. There is no definite information as to the action of the Kaiser on the premier's resignation.

War in Venezuela.

A cablegram from Caracas, Venezuela, announced that the opposition to President Palacios has resulted in a resort to arms at last, and a bloody engagement has been fought between a body of revolutionists and the government troops near that city. So far as can be observed now the advantage rests with the government but the fear is generally expressed that this is but the beginning of a long and desperate fight for the control of the country, which will result in the loss of many lives and again plunge the republic into the chaos from which it was just beginning to emerge.

RUSSIA IS GRATEFUL.

The Kaiter Steamer Indiana from this Country Received With Joy.

A cable from Lihau, Russia, says: The American steamer Indiana, Capt. Sargent, which brought to this port the gift of flour and provisions sent by Americans for the relief of the Russian famine sufferers, was towed in the harbor by the steamers Concordia and Vorwarts. If unbounded popular enthusiasm is proof of appreciation, the officers and crew of the Indiana will carry from this country a lively recollection of the gratitude of the Russian people. When the Indiana passed the city she was greeted with loud and enthusiastic cheering by the crowd that had assembled. The steamer was received by the communal authorities and a large delegation of the leading merchants of the port. After she was moored a number of the orthodox Greek clergy proceeded aboard of her and held a thanksgiving service, which concluded with the formal and impressive ceremony of "blessing the ship. At a banquet, seated at the officers of the Indiana, Count Bobrinsky said that the czar was deeply touched by the humane motives and sentiments of friendship that had prompted this noble act, and had charged him to convey to the donors cordial thanks for the token of international brotherly love extended to the Russian people.

Gas Discovered by Accident.

An explosion of nitro-glycerine took place at Findlay that was felt all over northwestern Ohio. The town of Findlay, 10 miles east of Toledo, was the scene of the explosion. An hour after the explosion a pond near the Findlay depot was noticed to be in a state of disturbance. Hundreds of miniature geysers dotted the surface. They were accompanied by a roaring sound which increased as the waterpots grew in height. Before many hours the roaring resembled that of a cyclone, and the water was thrown into many feet from countless spots. The Findlay explosion had rent the earth, opening a mineral gas pocket, and the application of a lighted match made the surface of the pond a sheet of fire. Leasers and gas and oil men are traveling the entire neighborhood securing control of as much land as possible. Every one believes that a new field has been discovered and operations are fast making for the drilling of wells.

Chicago After Boodlers.

The grand jury now sitting is expected to return several indictments. Several aldermen, it is said, have squealed. Officers of the Northern Pacific deny the charges against them.

Weekly Review of Trade.

NEW YORK, March 21.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Storms, bad weather and bad roads have much retarded trade, reducing the movement of grain and curtailing trade in many cities, but nevertheless reports indicate on the whole an improvement in the distribution of goods and a fairly sustained demand, in some branches, for certain commodities.

There is no trouble anywhere about money, even at the south markets, being fairly supplied. While imports of merchandise show a moderate increase over last year—far less than March 1st last year—there also appears an increase in domestic exports for two weeks of March of about 6 per cent. Reports from interior states are generally more encouraging.

Speculation in breadstuffs has been depressed by the official report of wheat in farmers' hands, and on moderate sales wheat has declined 3/4c, corn 3/4c and oats 1/2c. In fact products no change appears, nor in coffee, but oil is 3/4c lower. In cotton a decline of 6 1/2c has been followed by a recovery to 6.81, but receipts and exports for the week both exceed last year's. Sales of pig iron at low figures continue some makers even contracting for such prices for the whole of this year. The demand for bar iron is dull, but for plate a little better, though prices are demoralized. The market for copper seems to be more active, and meat is stronger, but coal is dull. The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days number 243. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 215.

Mr. Osborne to be Released.

It is stated on good authority that Mr. Osborne, who is serving a nine-months' sentence in London, Eng., for perjury in connection with the famous "pearl case," will be released before the end of May on the prison physician's certificate that further confinement will endanger his life. How friends trust that she will be released in time to allow her child to be born outside of prison walls.

Tickets will be sold to persons desiring to visit the battlefields near Washington, at the time of the Grand Army encampment in September, at the rate of one fare for the round trip.

Wednesday the 16th was the eighty-third birthday of Mrs. Nash, mother of Taylor of this place. Mrs. N. was the recipient of several presents from grand children and friends.

Some of our citizens were not a little exercised in regard to an item which appeared in the "Personals" of last week's Record in reference to the entertainment given at our school house on the 13. Some gave the Meads Mills correspondent credit for the item. Said correspondent wishes right here to dispossess their minds of that idea, as no items are sent to that column from here, and furthermore, we have never been a party concerned in the visiting of "Midnight Heralds," anonymous letters, or the sending of reflective valentines, but when we do speak we mean what we say, and say what we mean, and try to sign our name plain enough for the printer to decipher.

The person or persons who thought it their duty to give away the prize movers in the entertainment given for the benefit of the Meads Mills. Sunday school, by calling them experts, and assuring those who took part in the exercises at the Briggs school house that they need not be afraid to appear on the stage "as they did almost as well as those in a neighboring district, who were trained by an expert," forgot that at one place those who took part were mostly young gentlemen and ladies, while at the other the greater number were small children. They close their criticism by saying, "So says one that was there." Now be the critic a graduate from a graded or district school they have lost sight of the fact that the relative pronoun that does not refer to persons, but to things, and while we are dealing with experts, let us show expertness in grammar as well as in tutoring, or on the stage.

An ingenious writer, quite ignominious in his line, says of the quotation, "Truth crushed to earth will rise again," it is very good for Truth, but when Truth has goods to sell, the market may have passed before Truth will materialize; therefore Truth must not be crushed; must be sustained. In other words, the water must not be permitted to pass the mill before it grinds. We know that if you accept advertisements X CUM GRANO SALIS you are pardonable. It is for the reason X that Truth in its struggle for a hearing is so hardly pressed by everything else but truth, that those who have truths to tell X must urge them boldly and persistently. Fair dealing, conscientious treatment of patrons, and earnest solicitation for their benefit, will tell in the long run, and we who are handling the Detroit, Lansing & Northern and Chicago & West Michigan railroads find that it not only pays us to pursue such methods, but the satisfaction derives therefrom makes our labors a delight that sheds a radiance in which our patrons participate to their benefit. It is not to be expected that we can be as expert merchandisers or manufacturers as those who devote their time to such things. You and we go by such standards. But to railroading we devote our lives and we be away up; in fact, judging by our patronage, we think we are. Therefore, we go on in the work of taking good care of those who go to Detroit or Chicago or Traverse City by our lines knowing full well that upon such depends our retaining what we have and getting more.

Try the D. & L. N. or C. & W. M. on your next trip, if you have not heretofore, and if you have, why then, try them again. They are always growing better, for in this, as in other pursuits, if we stand still, we, by comparison, get behind, for "the world do move."

"Seeing is believing," we should like to change that, and say trying is believing. For you never will believe how much benefit can be obtained from twenty-five cents invested in a bottle of Hartzell's Cough Syrup, until you "try it."
