It's Prof. Bliss.

A DARTMOUTH COLLEGE GRADUATE ENGAGED TO CONDUCT OUR SCHOOLS THE COMING YEAR.

Don. C. Bliss, of the senior class now at Dartmouth, College N. H., has been engaged to superintend our schools the coming year.

Besides being a graduate of one of the most famous of America's great educational schools, Mr. Bliss also comes with some elegant testimonials as to his qualifications. Mr. Bliss had a number of years of experience in teaching in district and graded schools, prior to his course at Dartmouth, and coming so well recommended as a teacher and principal, it is certain that, with the training and schooling he has received, he should be qualified, with the co-operation of our school board, to place Northville in the front ranks of Michigan's graded schools.

MRS. H. ELIZA THAYER.

A Pioneer Resident of Plymouth Since 1825, Now 80 Years of Age.

NORTHVILLE, April 21.—Mrs. H. Eliza Thayer, was born in Bennington, Vt., December 16, 1803. October 19, 1827, she was married at Farmington, Mich., to Rufus Thayer, who had, in 1825, located 120 acres of land on section 19 in the Township of Plymouth and built a log house on it, to which Mr. and Mrs. Thayer removed a few days after their marriage and commenced housekeeping, and where they continued to reside until 1840, when the present residence, a spacious farm house, was erected, and where Mrs. Thayer now resides with her son Hiram B. Thayer. Mr. Rufus Thayer died in 1887, in the 88th year of his age, an "honest man, the noblest work of God."

Nine children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Thayer, seven of whom are living, three sons and four daughters. The sons are Hiram B. Thayer, well and favorably known throughout Wayne county as a man of integrity, having been County Auditor, Deputy County Clerk under Ray Haddock, and Supervisor of the Township of Plymouth ten terms. William U. Thayer resides in Chicago and is in the insurance business. Rufus H. Thayer, an attorney in Washington, D. C., and formerly of the well-known firm of Conger & Thayer. One of the daughters, is the wife of George Wheeler, a successful merchant at Salem Station. Another is the wife of Joseph Elder, of Ypsilanti. Another is Mrs. George VanSickle of Salem. The fourth, Miss Carrie Thayer, lives with her mother and brother Hiram. There are also eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Over sixty years ago Mrs. Thayer made a public profession of religion and connected herself with the M. E. church. The Rev. Marcus Swift, well and favorably known as a pioneer missionary minister, was for many years her pastor. At present Mrs. Thayer is a worthy member of the Congregational church at Salem. Her mental and physical faculties are remarkably good for a woman of her age. She superintends the work of her room which your correspondent found well furnished and arranged with taste and care; she does not and never has used spectacles, is a great reader and keeps well posted on the public affairs of the day. H. M. Utley, City Librarian, of Detroit, is a nephew of Mrs. Thayer, being an only child of the late Hiram Utley, and owns the farm on which he was born, adjoining Mrs. Thayer's residence.

To pioneers like Mr. and Mrs. Thayer, Michigan owes her proud position among the sister-hood of states. While Mrs. Thayer has her home with her son Hiram where she located with her husband sixty-seven years ago, her children vie with each other in their kindness to this Spartan mother. The many obstacles which beset the path of the early pioneers of this country have been removed by their industry and self-denial. They toiled in summer's heat and winter's cold, foregoing many comforts and enduring many hardships to the end that their children might reap the reward of their toil in better homes, better schools, better education, and all the betterments which follow the wake of progressive civilization.

May these young people evince the same tenacity of purpose, the same indomitable will, the same indifference to personal privations, and the same rugged sense of right and truth which their parents evinced when they came to a wild but fertile territory sixty years ago to transform the forest primeval into fields of ripening grain.—E. S. Woodman in Free Press.

A Pioneer Gone.

Benjamin F. Nelson, died in his 86th year, at the home of his son-in-law James Beatty in this village the 22 inst. of general debility and old age.

Mr. Nelson was born in New York state Jan'y 1806. He married Miss Sibbie Barnum, an aunt of Mrs. August Pomeroy of our village, in about the year 1827. They moved to Michigan in 1840 and settled in Novi township. About six years later they moved to Northville where they resided for five or six years when they moved to Wyandotte where Mr. Nelson had contracted to build the rolling mills at that place. These mills which have since gained such renown were all constructed under Mr. Nelson's supervision. It was at this city that his wife died, some 22 years ago. Since this time Mr. Nelson has made his home with his daughter, Mrs. James Betty at Detroit, until last year when they moved to Northville.

Two children are living, Mrs. Beatty and Wesley of Detroit. One son died in the army and one son and one daughter lie buried in Oakwood.

Mr. Nelson was known throughout his life as a man of strict integrity, honest and upright in all his dealings.

In compliance with the deceased's request, Rev. Frost of the new church of Detroit officiated at the funeral which was held from the home Monday afternoon. The remains were interred in Rural Hill cemetery.

The Yarnall Gold Cure company desire to express their sincere thanks to the citizens of Northville for their cordial assistance in the reception of the strangers within our gates on the occasion of our opening on Tuesday April 19th. Special thanks are also due to Mr. B. F. Springer who furnished for use on that occasion, a very elegant piano. Mr. Springer has won many friends during his residence in Northville by his excellent qualities of head and heart, and certainly deserves the success which he has had in the piano trade in this vicinity.

Miss Agnes Whipple played some beautiful selections upon the piano and sang very sweetly. We predict a bright musical future for her, as she shows careful, painstaking study. We are grateful for her kind assistance.

THE HOSPITAL.

[The following poem was found on a bit of paper in a table presented to Miss F. T. Morris by the patients of Chester hospital, Pa., 1894. The author is unknown.]

Narrow beds by one another,
White and low;
Through them softly, as in church aisles,
Nurses go.
For the hot lips ice drops bring
Cold and clear.
Or white eyelids gently closing
For the tier.

Strong men, in a moment smitten
Down from strength;
Brave men, now in anguish praying
Death at length.
Burns the night lamp where the watchers
By the bed
Write for many a loved one—
He is dead.

One lies in utter weakness,
Shattered, faint;
But his brow wears calm besetting
Martyred saint.
And though the lips must quiver,
They can smile.
As he says, "This will be over
In a while."

As the old crusaders, weeping
In delight,
Knelt when Zion's holy city
Rose in sight—
So I find, as my weapon,
From the din
To the quietness of Heaven
Entering in.

THE LOST DETAIL.

The affair I shall tell of happened after we had blown the leaders of the Sepoy rebellion from the mouths of our cannon and had gone back to our old quarters in Ballypahr, not far from the Nepal frontier. We had seen hot work at Lucknow, and the men were nursing wounds, received there and looking forward to another brush with the natives for the terrible massacre instigated by Nana Sahib, then a fugitive, rankled in the heart of every soldier.

One afternoon Colonel Murray ordered a detail of ten men who were to proceed to Ballydak, a village five miles to the northeast, and escort back three wagon loads of tents, besides giving room for the wife of Poston, a young woman who had been visiting the family of a native who had remained loyal all through the late war.

Corporal Dix's last instructions were to be back by sundown, and we saw the little detail file across the parade ground and out of the gate with no fear for its safety.

But when night came and we heard nothing of the detail, though we looked down the road to Ballydak with some anxiety, we began to fear that trouble had overtaken the 10. Another hour passed, and the tall figure of Col. Murray emerged from his quarters, and was seen to leave the barracks and stand in the road with his eyes turned wistfully toward the near village.

Coming back with a nervous step, he ordered out H company, and gave Capt. Nolan particular instructions to see what detained Corp'l Dix and his squad. I remember how eagerly we shouldered our muskets and stepped into line, hoping that we would get to shoot a few Dacoits or prowling Sepoys on the trip. But the whole tramp was devoid of any excitement save that which belonged to the fact that we reached Ballydak without having seen or heard of the lost detail.

The next day the road was searched again. A strong force was sent over it with orders to follow the trail when found to the end, and not let anything escape the human eye.

It was my fortune to go out with the searching party. When we reached a point about midway between the two towns we came across what appeared to be a clew to the mystery.

This was a wagon-track among the stones of the road, but when we had followed it some distance it vanished and the mystery was as deep as ever. We went into the jungle, stirred out two tigers that fled at our approach, and turned back when we discovered that nothing was to be found there.

At last the colonel secretly detailed several men, who were to act as spies or detectives, in hopes of ferreting out the truth about the lost detail.

It fell to my lot to be one of these, perhaps because I had succeeded in getting at the bottom of another mystery in which part of the regiment had figured. I did not like the job, for I knew the revengeful nature of the Sahibs and Sepoys, and had good cause to fear them, traitors and rebels as they were.

Some four days after the second detail I was picking my way through an open part of the jungle toward the summit of a hill from which I could overlook the land lying between Ballypahr and Ballydak. When I had gained the spot I halted in the shade of a group of tamarinds and rested. The whole country, wild but picturesque lay in the last beams of the sun, and I noticed toward Ballydak some confusion, as if a squad of horsemen were riding rapidly toward the north as though in fear of pursuit.

The horsemen disappeared in one of the dark passes of the hills, and when the shadows of night had fairly settled over the landscape I turned my face in that direction for the movements of the native cavalry had aroused my suspicions.

I gained the pass after a long tramp through the grass and tall undergrowth and halted where I could command a view of it in the dim moonlight that now prevailed.

Certain marks on the ground told me that the horsemen had passed down the ravine. They were native herds, as they were not shod. I was in the act of following when a strange cry which sounded like the note of a certain night-bird, found nowhere but in Ouda fell upon my ears. A moment later there came into view, not the bird itself, but the tall figure of a native chief.

In an instant my hand was at the butt of my pistol, for I had brought no musket to the spot, and leaning forward I was watching the man closely when he was joined by another. Both were tall and clad in the prevailing costume of natives. I could see that they were secretly plotting a surprise or something of that nature. Had they caught sight of me creeping through the grass? Was I to be their victim?

But they vanished without giving me much chance to inspect their personal appearance, and following them I came suddenly upon an opening in the hills which looked like the mouth of a great cavern. I knew that the Tiger hills, as we called them, abounded in caverns, but here was one with five miles of camp of which I had heard nothing.

What startled me still further was the marks of wheels in the dull-looking ground, and the next moment I believed I had discovered the track of the lost detail.

After a while I started on again, following the clew so unexpectedly discovered. At last I found myself in the heart of a clump of trees whose foliage was so dense that I could hardly see my hands before my face. It did not occur to me that I was getting deeper and deeper into danger; for I thought of nothing but the corporal and his men, and pictured the distress of Mrs. Poston and the indignities to which I felt she would be subjected.

All at once there rose between me and the mouth of the cavern a figure from which I fell back aghast.

It was tall and lithe of body, suggesting the sleek tiger instead of the cunning native. I believed that I saw before me the hunted Nana Sahib, the man who had ordered the dreadful massacre at Cawnpore. My hand went mechanically to my pistol, and I had actually covered the native before I thought of the consequences of a shot.

It was lucky for me that I did not fire, and when the leader of the Sepoy war turned and went back toward the cavern I regretted that I had not sent a bullet through his head.

At last the man I had seen came into view again and this time he was accompanied by another.

"The time has come. Bring forth the hated English!" commanded Nana Sahib.

The next minute a dozen natives, armed to the teeth like Dacoits, came forward, and under guard walked the men of the lost squad. My heart rose in my throat when I looked upon the forms of Corporal Dix and his comrades. But what had become of Mrs. Poston?

The men were lashed together two by two. I saw at once that they were to be shown no mercy by Nana Sahib and his companions. The leader of the revolt stood facing the soldiers, and at a sign from him I saw leap into the moonlight the long knives of the heartless executioners.

After the death of Corp'l Pix and his men I hugged the limb which held me closer than ever. I feared the roving eyes of the natives who had committed the murder, and when Nana turned toward the cavern and gave another signal I craned my neck forward wondering what was to happen next.

To my astonishment there came forward, led by a sleek Sepoy, Mrs. Poston, the captain's wife.

There was no fear in the tread of the woman, who looked about her, and with unblanched cheeks, counted the silent and bleeding figures upon the ground. I had seen her at the barracks, where she was the life of the whole post. Now she seemed as much her old self as ever before. But I could see that her lips were welded, and that the deep black eyes flashed when she turned upon Nana Sahib and faced him with undaunted mien.

"You are the last," said the Nana in his sleek voice, which all who ever heard it never forgot. "You are the last of the hated detail!"

"I am the last murderer!" said Mrs. Poston, advancing upon him with her white hands clinched, and her frame in a quiver. "I am the last, but while I go I hope to heaven, you will descend to the darkest depths of hells!"

The figure of the Sepoy started back, but as quick as a cat the captain's wife went toward him.

Something that had the glitter of steel was in the uplifted hand of the cool woman. She overtook the Nana, and struck three times in bewildering succession. There was a wild cry, and the fall of a human body, as the natives rushed to their chief's assistance, then Mrs. Poston struck at the leering faces of those who would close in upon her, and bounded into the jungle with the speed of a deer.

The Sepoys forgot the woman, in their desire to inquire into the state of their leader's wounds, and when they carried him back to the cavern, and had turned their backs upon me, I slipped down from my perilous perch, and ran for my life.

The thought of Mrs. Poston alone in the tiger-infested hills of Ouda, and probably hunted by a band of Sepoy cut-throats, hastened my return to Ballypahr, where I reported what I had seen.

The next morning the hills were alive with red-coats, and we hunted the jungle foot by foot. The bodies of the murdered men were found in the heart of the cavern, whither they had been carried by the Sepoys, and from there we took up the trail of the captain's wife.

But two days passed ere we struck it again, and then it was to discover Mrs. Poston wandering aimlessly in a dense copse, and so nearly dead with hunger and fright as to have lost her mind completely.

The unfortunate woman was taken carefully back and placed under the surgeon's care, but days elapsed before she uttered an intelligible word; then she could not recall a single incident of her captivity, not tell the true story of the capture of the lost detail by Nana Sahib and his men.

Strange to say, she never recovered that part of her history, and though I would relate my adventure to her, she would say that it was a dream. Therefore, to this day is wrapped in mystery the capture of the detail. The wagons and oxen were never found, nor were any of the arms of the squad recovered. It is supposed that the Nana enticed Corporal Dix and his comrades into what proved a death trap, and then kept the secret of the capture and decoy.

I will always believe that the vengeance of Mrs. Poston that night in the Tiger hills rid the world of the greatest man-monster that ever cursed it. It is said that Nana Sahib was seen as late as 1860, but I never could find any one who saw him, and a native told me after the adventure I have related that he was killed in the jungle by a white woman.

If this is true, then the knife of Mrs. Poston avenged the massacre of Cawnpore, and I am but one of many thousands who will say that it was one of the most righteous blows ever struck.—National Tribune.

DIDN'T ATTEND THE BALL.

She Acted Chilly Afterward, But It Was Explained Satisfactorily.

Just before the charity ball last winter a certain young South sider was paying such assiduous attention to a certain North side woman that Mrs. Grindy had it that they were engaged.

The young woman, of course, knew better; says the Chicago Tribune, but she did think matters had progressed to the point where he was sure to ask her to go to the ball. So she declined two invitations from other admirers.

The invitation she wanted never came. Her parents were not society people, and she had to stay at home. He didn't go, either. The next time he called she was chilly.

The threatened storm blew over, however, though nothing was said on either side about the ball, and the other day they were married. They did not take a wedding trip, but went at once to their modest little home.

The next day the young husband greatly surprised his bride by taking a sealed envelope from his pocket and throwing it in her lap. It was addressed to her.

"Open it, honey," said he, "it belongs to you."

"Honey" opened it and found $25 and the following memorandum:

Ticket.....$10
Clover.....1
Carriage.....5
Total.....$16

"Why, Tom," said she, "what on earth does this mean?"

"Perhaps you will remember that you didn't go to the charity ball last winter."

"Well, just as I was getting ready to write you my mother came to me and said: 'Tom, are you going to the charity ball?' 'Sure,' said I. 'I suppose you're going to take that Jones girl?' said she. 'Sure,' said I. 'My son,' said she, 'don't you do it. It'll cost you $25—$10 for a ticket, $10 for flowers and $5 for a carriage.'"

"What of it?" said I. "Are you going to marry her?" said she. "Guess not," said I, lying of course. Then I said I wouldn't spend $25 on her," said she. "Well," said I, "I suppose I am thinking of asking her to have me?" "Then I certainly shouldn't waste the $25," said she. I kind of thought things over and you're Mrs. Smith and there's the $25. Get yourself something pretty with it, Honey."

Of course she protested that she didn't need any money yet, but it ended in her taking the $25 all right.

But some way or other "Honey" doesn't seem quite as sweet on her mother-in-law as she was.

RUBIES AND DIAMONDS.

These Gems Were, In Ancient Times, Beautifully Carved.

Who of the readers of this department know if the art of carving on diamonds and rubies is still practiced or if it has been lost? asks the St. Louis Republic. The writer has always considered that to polish one of these gems was the acme of art, but has recently unearthed some old accounts of both diamonds and rubies carved like marble or clay into all sorts of odd shapes and forms.

Don Bantah, the earliest and most entertaining of the Moorish travelers, tells of a ruby bowl that was shown him by Arya Chakravarti, ruling chief of Pathan, which he affirms "was larger than the palm of a man's hand." Further on in his account of this carved gem he says that its sides were engraved with figures of "three palm trees, a man, two goats and a dog, the opposite side having the figures of two tigers engaged in combat." This gem of gems must have weighed 300 karats and its value was beyond calculation.

Chardin saw a ruby in Persia which had the head and name of Sheikh Sephi engraved upon one side, and the figure of a serpent on the other. The French crown jewels are said to have once included among their number a perfect dragon, two inches in length, carved from a ruby of the first water. When the summer palace at Pekin was sacked a head of Buddha, carved from a magnificent ruby, fell to the duke of Brunswick as his share of the spoils. After his death it sold for £6,000.

ALLEGED WITTICISMS.

Mr. Tullkington—There is a very fine picture of our minister in to-day's paper. Mrs. Tullkington—Indeed? What has he been cured of?
"What a stupid thing that Miss Chatterton is! She'll sit for a whole evening without saying a word." "Oh, but you never happened to see her at the theater."

Old Gentleman—What do you hope to be when you grow up? Small Boy—I want to be a circus actor. Well, I declare! Why do you want to be a circus actor? So I won't have to crawl under the tent.

Mamma—Well, Nellie, what did you learn at the Sunday School to-day? Nellie—That I must sell three tickets for the concert next week, give twenty cents to buy a present for the superintendent, and—that Noah built the ark.

Neighborly—So your boy is studying to be a lawyer, eh, Parsons? Lumberlip—He am, sah. Neighborly—Do you think him fitted for that profession? Lumberlip—Fitted for? vy dat boy couldn't reckonize de trufe ef yo paint it red an' hang it on his bed post.

"How do you understand the phrase an 'impressionist picture?' asked the country cousin of the city cynic as they stood in the art gallery. "Why, an 'impressionist picture' is one that leaves on your mind the impression that it is a picture of a cow, and the impression lingers until you look at the catalogue and read that it is a picture of a water spaniel."

Mistress—I am surprised. You say you were married six months ago, divorced three months ago, and remarried to your husband last night. Domestic—Yes'm. You see, at the first place he had they wanted a married man, so we got married; but the next place they wanted a single man, so we got divorced, and I came here. Now he's found a place where they want a man for gardening and wife to cook, so we got married again, and I'm going there with him.

A GENERAL SURVEY.

About 15,000 suicides were committed in the United States during the past year.

The ocean cables of the world now stretch over 120,350 miles. There are 1,000 cables in all, nearly all of English manufacture. Most of the cables are owned and operated by private corporations.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages. That is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. The Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

There are many devices which do no deprive us of friends; there are many virtues which prevent our having any.

The Hawkeye Crab and Stump Machine Manufactured by James Milne & Son, Scotch Grove, Iowa, stands a century in advance of old-fashioned, hand-power contrivances, for clearing timber lands. It is strong, durable, cheap in price, with reach of an owner of timber land farms. The following is a sample of thousands of testimonials:

Toledo, Iowa, May 21, 1891.

To Whom It May Concern:—This is to certify that I am having operated on my farm one of James Milne & Son's Hawkeye Crabbing Machines. They are a great improvement over the old way of grubbing. It does the work more rapidly and better than can be done by hand. I'll say that mine is a very hard piece of land to grub. It consists mostly of stumps and stool stubs. I can heartily recommend it to parties that have timber and grub land they want to improve. It is especially adapted to mowing buildings. S. STICKER.

FOR THE CHILDREN.

My little girl suffered for three years from a large Abscess on her hip, the result of a fall and dislocation. The Abscess was large, with six openings, all of which discharged puss. I was induced by friends to give her S. S. S., and by the time the fifth bottle was finished the Abscess was entirely healed, and the child was well and happy.—Mrs. J. A. WILKES, Stratford, Pa.

I had three little girls who were attacked with obstinate ECZEMA, or Blood Trouble, which at first resembled heat, but soon grew to yellow blisters, some of them quite large. One of the children died from the effects of it, but we got Swift's Specific and gave to the other two, and they soon got well. S. S. S. forced out the poison promptly. The cure was wonderful.—J. D. RAIN, Marlborough, La.

S. S. S. has no equal for Children. It relieves the system promptly, and assists nature in developing the child's health. Our Treatise mailed free.

The Northville Record.

EVERY FRIDAY.

F. S. NEAL, Publisher.
OFFICE IN OPERA HOUSE BLOCK.

FRIDAY, APR. 29 1892.

With this issue we close our first year as publisher of this paper. Our past year has indeed been a successful one. We not only have increased the size of the paper but have also nearly doubled its circulation. Our advertisers have dealt liberal with us and but few business houses in our village have not been represented. Our subscription books show a steady increase every week and before another year has rolled around we shall have reached the 1,000 mark. We have repeatedly renewed advertising, even at double the rates, from other towns and Detroit, which conformed with home industries. The Record will continue to labor in the best interests of Northville, its people and the surrounding country. And just here we wish to extend our thanks for the liberal patronage, kind words, encouragement, assistance and support we have received the past twelve months.

It is safe to say there is no other village or city in Michigan which is receiving the advertising today that Northville is. What other villages and cities have paid, and are paying, thousands of dollars for, Northville is receiving gratuitously. One can hardly pick up a paper these days unless it has an item in it from an advertiser. It is in length, sound and the praises of Northville, the "Switzerland of Wayne county", and one of our institutes. If such advertising has been worth money to other places, it can certainly be made of much value to Northville. We believe too much is taken for granted and we are making ourselves really believe that there is but one place in Michigan, and that place Northville. We believe that Northville has a bountiful within her grasp which she may obtain for the simple closing of this hand. What is needed, and needed at once, is a citizens improvement committee, president, ly selected by the village board and the choice ratified by the people, or vice versa. Such a committee could, and no doubt would, accomplish a vast amount of good for the village that could be accomplished in no other way. Put on a committee of the kind such men as F. R. Deed, J. A. Dubois, F. N. Clark, T. G. Richardson, W. T. Jaquess, and there are plenty of others, with power to act and we will wage the village would take some rapid strides in a very short time, toward the front: not a blown up blubber boom but a natural robust, healthy, permanent step upward. We want more factories; we want more people here for quiet retired homes, and we want capitalists and business men from the larger cities to make their suburban residence here. All this is apparently within our reach. Will we grasp it?

Our Offer.

We shall make the following offer for the month of May: Any person, already a subscriber to the Record, who will obtain for us one or more new subscribers we will allow them, as a premium, 25 per cent of the amount received. Remember you must already be a subscriber yourself to receive this premium, and the name or names you obtain must be new ones. This will not apply to renewals. By obtaining a few names you can, not only make some spending money for yourself, but also advance the interests of your local paper.

During the summer months, now at hand, bowel and stomach troubles will be of frequent occurrence, especially among children. Many a little one's life can be saved, if, on the first appearance of any indication of stomach or bowel troubles, you have some safe and reliable remedy at hand for the relief and cure of those diseases, which, if allowed to run, prove fatal in so many instances. Hartzell's Hindoo Oil in proper doses is a specific for these troubles. It will relieve and positively cure any and all of them. Do not go to bed with it in the house. For sale by all druggists.

BEWARE OF IMPOSTERS.

There is but one Keeley Institute in Michigan where the world-famous Double Chloride of Gold remedies of Dr. Leslie E. Keeley are used for the cure of the liquor, opium and kindred habits. It is located in Northville. Adventurous "specialists," quacks, and charlatans, who have discovered an opportunity to speculate upon the fame and success of another, are opening so-called "world cure" institutes, and by the most flagrant misrepresentations and questionable methods, are seeking pecuniary gain by experimenting upon the unfortunate. These frauds are induced to assume certain names, and to counterfeit Dr. Keeley's treatment, because of the well-known fact the Keeley remedies have cured, and are curing thousands. The remedies they can counterfeit only in color. The danger of these fraudulent and cheapness as an inducement is apparent to those who do not care to trifle with a disease that has enslaved them, perhaps for years.

The Keeley Institute of Northville is operating under a special contract with Dr. Keeley, which requires the methods of treatment and remedies used to be identical with those used at Detroit. All remedies are manufactured by Dr. Keeley, his instructions, his prescriptions, and the Institute is under his supervision. It is the only Institute in Northville and in Michigan where the Keeley remedies are administered and can be obtained. The 7,000 men cured of the liquor, opium and kindred diseases by these remedies during the 11 years of their use should be the strongest possible proof of their efficacy. THE KEELEY INSTITUTE, Northville, Mich. April 29, 1892.

The Husband Finds Her in the Arms of Her Lover.—Locomotive Fire—Scalded in a Wreck.

Grand Rapids Gossip's Feast.

One of the sweetest singers in the choir of fashionable St. Mark's Episcopal church, of Grand Rapids, is Mrs. A. K. Tyson, wife of a well-known foreman of a large printing house. Mrs. Tyson is a good-looking brunette with an enticing figure and was the envy of the other female members of the choir. For some time Mr. Tyson has been suspicious of his wife and intercepted some of her letters which confirmed his suspicions. He therefore laid a trap into which she fell unsuspectingly. Mr. Tyson announced his intention of going out of town for two days and had his wife good-bye.

Scarcely had he gone when a message went spinning over the wires addressed to E. H. Mortimer, Chicago, Ill. The next morning Mr. Mortimer was in Grand Rapids and met Mrs. Tyson whom he escorted to his room in the hotel. At an opportune moment the sheriff entered the room, when the chagrin of the couple, who, when seized by the wife, were arrested. They were taken to the police station and the wife was committed to the county jail. The husband was released on bail. The wife was charged with adultery and the husband with harboring his wife. The case is now pending in court.

The Famous Sleepy

Miss Mary White, the sleeping school teacher of Stockbridge, is gaining rapidly. A few days ago her father, Mr. Palmer White, of Ingham, visited her at Dr. Brown's residence in Stockbridge, and found her able to sit at the dinner table, the first time in her father's company in two years. The old gentleman's joy on the occasion can easily be imagined than described.

Judge W. N. Green, of Harrison, made a long call on Register of Deeds Birelow at Corunna, a few days ago, and sat his glossy silk tie on the floor. ENCAMPMENT AT ANN ARBOR.

The Department of Michigan G. A. R. Assembles in the University Town.

Commander-in-chief Palmer, Department of Michigan, and Judge Cooley were among the distinguished guests at the encampment of the department of Michigan of the G. A. R. at Ann Arbor. Over 200 delegates were present and the largest number of veterans who have attended the state encampment in some time. Every available hall was given up to the reunions and meetings. The Women's Relief Corps reunion was a feature of the encampment and an increased interest was manifested. Mayor Doty made the address of welcome and Judge Cooley came forward with feeble steps; he was greeted heartily. Congressman O'Donnell also made a patriotic speech in which he eulogized Austin Blair, Michigan's war governor, who organized 92,000 men from this state. Department Commander Eaton replied to Mayor Doty's address of welcome after which the introduced Commander-in-chief Palmer, of New York. Mrs. Sarah Brown, department president of the Women's Relief Corps spoke as the representative of women. The town was splendidly decorated and the old soldiers were received in a hearty manner. The streets were full of bucksters selling Grand Army books, full of old soldiers telling again the story of the campaign on the Potomac, the nights and days in the wilderness and the paths and terrors of Andersonville. The delegates to the national encampment and the department commander were elected at the second day's session.

The struggle for the position of department commander was an interesting and close one. The leading candidates being Col. H. S. Dean, of Ann Arbor; and Gen. James H. Kidd, of Ionia, the former being successful. The Women's Relief Corps also had an exciting time in choosing a president; Mrs. Cornelia Perry, of Bellevue, being the victor with Mrs. Col. Bliss, of Saginaw, a close second. Benton Harbor was chosen as the place of holding the next encampment.

Another Mine Horror

Another mine horror occurred at Pottsville, Pa., and it is reported that eight men have lost their lives, while the existence of that of two others is in jeopardy. Six of these are Italians and the others Americans. The Italians were engaged in driving a gangway 150 feet in front of the main shaft, which is down 150 yards. Two others were engaged at timbering. These were drowned. Besides these, two others named John Buggin and William Bell, who were inside at the time, and first tried to rescue their companions and then, seeing this was futile, endeavored to release the mules, about 10 in number, were caught by the water and had to fight part of the gangway, which they were imprisoned in what is called the saddle of the vein. They barely escaped. The water that caused the calamity broke in from an old working, notwithstanding the operators had taken every precaution to prevent such an accident, by constantly keeping holes driven ahead in a distance of 120 feet.

A Mushroom Town.

April 19. Okarche, O. T., was a lonely spot on the Rock Island railroad just inside the Indian lands. Today it has over 1,500 inhabitants. Two long Rock Island trains loaded to the platform, halted just outside the line until exactly noon on the above date and then ran for Okarche at full speed. There was a wild scene at the station. Men jumped out of the windows and rolled off the platforms in swarms. A town site had been established containing 6,500 lots, but in the scramble, every man drove his stake where he saw fit and many got in the middle of the streets. There were over 30 women in the party and they all drove stakes. About the first men to alight in town were two drummers. They went right to taking orders.

60,000 Men in Line.

The committee on the coming Grand Army encampment, parade and review at Washington has information at hand which leads it to believe that there will not be less than 60,000 old soldiers in line, which will make a parade larger than any in the history of the organization and possibly in the history of the country in time of peace. The committee has decided that none but G. A. R. and those of organizations designated, or to be designated by the commander-in-chief shall be permitted to participate in the parade.

WORTHY OF MENTION.

NEWS OF INTEREST GATHERED FROM MANY SOURCES.

The Terrible Suffering of Ship's Crew Caught in a Sea of Icebergs.—Plot to Kill Spain's King.

Caught in an Ice Floe.

A thrilling tale of a vessel being hemmed in by an ice floe in the north Atlantic was learned upon the arrival at Philadelphia of the new steamship Caprica, Capt. McNabb from Shields. At 10 o'clock on the night of April 10 the second officer had the deck and was pacing the bridge to and fro to keep warm when he suddenly beheld a white streak ahead. Before the engines could be stopped and reversed, the ship crashed into an ice floe and worked herself well in before she stopped. The noise and thumping of the Caprica coming in contact with the ice soon brought all hands on deck and when their position was made known there was great confusion among the crew. As the night was impenetrably dark it was not known which course to steer to get clear of the floe, and after hours of hard work trying to free the ship further till was relinquished for the night. When morning broke it was for the first time realized by all hands that their vessel was completely shut in by ice. She was encircled far as the eye could see, ice from aloft, and thousands of icebergs towering high over the mastsheads studied the ocean. The engines were started "half speed," and the ship plowed softly through the ice floe. The work was tedious and extremely dangerous. It was not known at what moment the boats would be completely burst in and all hands perished. The work was kept up, however, and at noon on the third day the ship was in clear water but was much disabled.

From Convent to Stage.

A bomb-stuff has been thrown in the camp of the most prominent nun in the withdrawal of the most prominent nun in the state from Mount St. Joseph's convent near Hartford, to become a member of a comic opera company. Hartford people remember the stir occasioned some 15 years ago by the conversion from Protestantism to the Roman Catholic church of Miss Lulu Wilcox, a member of one of the most distinguished families in the city, and who became a brilliant girl. When she announced her intention of leaving she was prevailed upon to remain until the bishop, who was away, would return, when she could apply for a dispensation, but she declined to do this. This looks as if she meant to renounce the Roman Catholic religion as well as her vow.

To Kill Spain's King.

Felipe Munoz, the Spanish anarchist, has already made confessions that have caused the arrest of a number of his accomplices. A tremendous sensation was created at Madrid by the making public of a further confession made by Munoz. Munoz said that at a recent secret anarchist meeting lots were cast to decide which of the members should kill the boy king of Spain. This statement has caused much anxiety, and the precautions to guard against any attack upon the king have been greatly added to. Several of the anarchists now under arrest have confessed that an attempt was to be made to blow up the royal palace, but none until now has acknowledged that a direct attempt upon the life of the king would be made.

A Queer Railroad Accident.

An odd accident happened to the train at Salamanca, N. Y. It was about 3 o'clock in the morning and the train was rounding a curve just east of the city when it struck a heavily loaded coal car which projected over toward the main track. It caught the corner of the coaches and tore out the entire side of each one of them. All of the cars were substituted and many of them were sleepers filled with people, yet no single passenger was injured. The 200 passengers all turned out in their night clothes and there was great excitement for awhile.

Discovered a Lost Art.

R. G. Guphill, a prominent glass manufacturer, of Anderson, Ind., claims to have discovered the lost art of casting glass tubes, which is known to have been practiced by ancient Egypt. He has interested capitalists in his invention and has erected a factory at Pendleton, a small town near there, and has made his first casting with success. The glass tubes are suitable for sewer, gas and water mains, and are joined by a glass cement, also the invention of Mr. Guphill. The factory is a large one, and all operations are conducted with the greatest secrecy.

Bulgarian Dynamite Plot.

Fifteen arrests have been made at Rustchuk, Bulgaria, in connection with the recently discovered plot there. An inquiry reveals the existence of a serious conspiracy. The bombs that were seized were intended to be used in attempts upon the lives of the Sultan, Prince Ferdinand and the Bulgarian ministers. Domiciliary visits to the houses of suspected persons continue.

SENATE AND HOUSE.

SENATE.—The matter of members of the House publishing portions of copyrighted books, as portions of their speeches in the Congressional Record came up on the 10th and was referred to the judiciary committee. Indirectly there was a test of strength of the silver men. Although it was not understood at the time. The question came up on Mr. Kyle's motion to strike out of the Arizona funding bill a clause requiring payment of interest in gold of its equivalent in lawful money of the United States and to insert "lawful money of the United States." The motion prevailed, 28 to 24. Mr. Hill voted for it. The bill was passed as amended, a conference called and committee for same appointed. The resolution to inquire into the cause of the depression in cotton was agreed to. The joint resolution to pay to West Virginia her portion of the "direct tax refund" was discussed and passed. Executive session. Adjourned. HOUSE.—A resolution was adopted which will hereafter allow only what is actually said in the House to be published in the Record. A resolution was adopted for further investigation of the officials at Baltimore who were found to be violators of the civil service law. The Noyes-Rockwell contest case came up but the House adjourned before action was taken.

SENATE.—Mr. Sherman notified the Senate on the 20th that the committee on foreign relations had decided that the present Chinese exclusion acts did not extend to the Hawaiian Islands. A resolution was adopted for further investigation of the officials at Baltimore who were found to be violators of the civil service law. The Noyes-Rockwell contest case came up but the House adjourned before action was taken.

SENATE.—With Mr. Manderson in the chair on the 21st the calendar was taken up and several bills disposed of, among them the following: For the appointment of consuls to the Congo Free State; passed. To amend the laws relating to purchase of, and contract for, supplies; passed. Providing for sundry lighthouses and other aids to navigation—appropriating $504,800 for lighthouses and $100,000 for the great lakes; passed. Appropriating $300,000 for establishing a military post near Helena, Mont.; passed. House bill to prohibit absolutely the coming of Chinese persons into the United States was taken up for consideration. Mr. Delph and Mr. Fulton favored the bill while Mr. Sherman made a strong address in opposition. After further debate and without action the Senate adjourned. HOUSE.—The Noyes-Rockwell case was the sole matter of importance and the House adjourned, after considerable discussion, without taking action.

SENATE.—The army appropriation bill was reported and placed on the calendar on the 20th. The urgent deficiency bill was taken up and the following amendments were agreed to: Appropriating $25,000 for the expense of representation of the United States at the Columbian Historical exposition at Madrid in 1892 in commemoration of the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America; appropriating $7,450 to reimburse the state of Montana for the expense of its constitutional convention; allowing an expenditure of $3,000 for a fish-hatchery at Northville, Mich.; appropriating $100,000 for continuing the work of the eleventh census; striking out an appropriation of $40,365 for printing a new edition of the postal laws and regulations. The bill as amended was then passed and the calendar was taken up. Bills on the calendar were disposed of as follows: House bill to amend and provide for the successor to the President in case of death and bringing in the secretary of agriculture after the secretary of the interior; passed. A bill was passed authorizing an increase to $12 a pension now on the rolls at $8 a month, on account of service in the Mexican war, where the pensioner is unable to perform manual labor and is dependent upon the pension. The Chinese exclusion act was discussed, but no action taken. Executive session. Adjourned. HOUSE.—The Noyes-Rockwell contested election case was taken up for final consideration. The vote resulted in Mr. Rockwell, the Democratic contestant, retaining his seat. A recess was taken to 8 o'clock.

SENATE.—With Senator Manderson in the chair on the 26th the Senate received protests from Seventh Day Adventists and Baptists protesting against Congress committing itself to any creed by passing a Sunday closing bill for the World's Fair. The Chinese exclusion bill was then taken up for discussion and the question on the adoption of the substitute was put. Mr. Sherman was the only affirmative voter and no other votes were cast. The substitute was declared passed, but upon a protest being made the chair said he would put the question again. The discussion continued until 4 o'clock when a vote was taken and the substitute passed. Ayes, 45; nays, 14. HOUSE.—The session of the House was almost wholly occupied by a colloquy regarding the rules for counting a quorum, between ex-Speaker Reed and Speaker Cannon. The subject under discussion was one which was before the House some little time ago. Should or should not Mr. Walker's unspoken remarks deriding his colleagues, Messrs. Williams and Hoar, as "mugwumps" appear in the Record? The Democrats thought that they should not while the Republicans, basing their opinion principally upon the action of the House, a few days ago in deciding that the book of Henry George's might be spread upon the Record and given free publication and distribution, were of a contrary opinion. The Republicans did not vote and there was no quorum; several votes were tried on various phases but when the Republicans opposed a motion they refrained from voting, forcing the quorum rule. Finally a call of the House was ordered and a quorum responding, adjournment was taken.

Almost Dead in a Folding Bed.

Eliza and Kate Cronworth, of Pittsburg, very nearly met death in a peculiar manner. The girls were spending the night with their married sister, Mrs. Hotz of Glenwood, and were put to sleep in a patent folding bed, the top of which from some cause fell over during the night, thus imprisoning the occupants. By the force of the fall the spring catch locked, making it impossible for them to raise the lid which confined them within the narrow space. The girls tried to raise the lid, but their efforts had no effect. The noise of the fall of the bed awoke Mr. Hotz, who rescued them.

GENERAL NEW ITEMS.

THE HIGH-TONED CITIZENS OF ST. JOHNS, QUE., SCANDALIZED.

Pennsylvania and Massachusetts Republicans Indorse Harrison—Kansas Democrats for Cleveland.

For Cleveland Once and All Time.

The Kansas Democratic state convention called to select delegates to the national nominating convention met at Salina, W. C. Jones, chairman of the state central committee, called the convention to order and in doing so he predicted Democratic success in November under Grover Cleveland. The mention of Mr. Cleveland's name was the signal for an enthusiastic demonstration in the ex-President's honor. The tariff plank in the platform declared in favor of all raw materials, and that all tariff taxation be based upon the true constitutional and Democratic principles of a tariff for revenue only. The resolutions declared in favor of such legislation as would crush out monopolies, trusts and combinations which in any way tended to restrict the product of the mine, the farm or the factory. The money plank favors free coinage of both gold and silver, believing that a gold basis is unsound. The resolutions declared for the election of United States Senators by the direct vote of the several states; condemned the present pension department for making itself an instrument to much favored agents and assist favorite districts and to construct personal machines. The instructions to delegates, bind them to vote and work for Grover Cleveland as long as his name shall be before the convention.

Rivals the Cleveland Street Scandal.

St. Johns, Que., is in an excited state over the arrest of four leading citizens, Jules Quesset, Joseph Prapic, J. G. Gossard and H. Brossard, by the officers of the Canadian secret service on charges of belonging to a club formed for immoral practices, parallel to the Cleveland street scandal of London, if not on a larger scale. Three of the prisoners were taken before a magistrate and admitted to bail. One, however, Quesset, had escaped to Montreal, but was arrested at the station there and taken back to St. Johns. The news of his arrest had preceded him and when the train arrived a crowd of 300 men were in waiting, and only for the fact that there were a large number of officers present, he would have been mobbed. The club was denounced from the pulpit by the cure of St. Johns, which led the authorities to engage the services of the secret service. Besides the above, who are among the most prominent citizens, a large number of other arrests are expected, as there are 25 members in the club.

Paris Fears Trouble on May Day.

The outlook for May Day has taken on a new aspect which gives promise of affording the anarchists and other lawless characters an opportunity to make trouble. The police threaten to strike on the eve of May Day unless their wages are increased. The anarchists are in high place at this development, and some of the more enthusiastic of them claim that it would take little argument to induce many of the policemen to join their ranks. The government has arranged for the presence of a military force in Paris and the immediate vicinity that will be strong enough to put down any outbreak short of a general revolution. The police are believed by many to be taking advantage of the feeling of uneasiness to make claims that at any other time they would not have thought of.

Republicans in Massachusetts.

The Massachusetts Republican state convention for the election of four delegates-at-large and four alternates at the national convention at Minneapolis, June 21, was held in Tremont Temple, Boston. Hon. William C. Lovering, of Taunton, was made permanent chairman. Secretary McCall, of the state committee, read the platform, which was unanimously adopted. It commends the administration of President Harrison, opposes the free coinage of silver, commends the McKinley law, denounces the Democrats for attacking it in sections, and opposes the spoils system in politics. President Harrison and Secretary Blaine were indorsed in a strong resolution which was enthusiastically adopted.

Killed in a Collision.

Melvin Zavits, Bremen, was killed in a collision between a "light" engine and a freight train, on the C. & G. T. Ry., near Elba station. The engineer, continuing, and most of the crew of the freight, saw the danger in time to jump and save their lives, but Zavits and Wm. Moxam, engineer of the "light" engine—which was running 60 miles an hour—were in the wreck before they saw the danger. Zavits was pinned beneath the coal and wreckage and when taken out his flesh was literally cooked by the escaping steam. He died two hours later. Moxam, received probable fatal injuries. Zavits lived at Fort Gratiot and had a family.

Fatal Collision in the U. P.

A collision of a passenger train and switch engine took place on the Milwaukee, Lake Shore & Western railroad, at Ramsey, which resulted in the death of Fireman Patrick Fowler, of Ironvont. Engineer Dugan, of the passenger train, was injured, though not seriously. Several passengers had narrow escapes as the smoking car and day coach telescoped, and were piled up against the water tank. Fowler's home is at Humbard, Wis., where the remains were taken for interment. The switch engine was trying to make Ramsey from Wakefield. Engineer Whitney considered he had plenty of time to make the run.

Pennsylvania Republicans.

The Republican state convention of Pennsylvania to nominate a candidate for supreme judge, two candidates for governor-at-large, four electors-at-large and eight delegates-at-large to the national convention was held at Harrisburg. The names of Harrison and Blaine were loudly cheered each time they were mentioned. The delegates were not instructed, but the convention was clearly Harrison.

A Horrible Ancestry.

Inquiries in regard to the pedigree of Ravachol, the Paris anarchist, have revealed the fact that his grandfather, great-grandfather and great-great-grandfather were all hanged. They belonged to a band of robbers that terrorized certain districts in the Netherlands for many years. Ravachol is apparently scared at the whole-sale arrests of anarchists made last week. He has become depressed and refused food, appearing to fear betrayal.

Bernard Klotz & Company's storehouse at New Orleans burned. Loss $50,000.

A WIFE'S CRIME.

Kills Her Husband, Files With Her Love, and They Are Both Killed.

News has been received of a terrible double tragedy which occurred in the mountain regions of Kentucky. Syl Harvell was a very well-to-do farmer of that section. He had been married about three years and had lived in comparative happiness with his wife. A few days ago, he made the startling discovery that his wife was intimate with a young man named Alex. Brady, and severely abused her for indefinitely. For revenge Mrs. Harvell thoroughly saturated with kerosene the bed on which her husband and infant were sleeping and threw a firebrand thereon and dashed out the door. The building was soon wrapped in flames. Among those attracted to the scene by the fire was Brady. After looking on for a few moments he and Mrs. Harvell started across a field. They were attacked by a savage bull and both got to death. Mrs. Harvell lived but a few hours, and acknowledged the facts as related above.

A Noble Marriage.

Mme. Francisca de Barrios, the young and beautiful widow of the late President of the Republic of Guatemala, was married at New York City, to Senor Jose Martinez de Roda, a Spanish nobleman, at the magnificent residence of the bride, 555 Fifth avenue. The ceremonies for the wedding were two—both civil and religious—were witnessed by only a few of the more intimate friends of the bride and groom and yet it was one of the most brilliant weddings that have occurred in New York in recent years. In the afternoon the civil ceremony was performed by Mayor Grant and was witnessed by only a few friends. In the evening the religious ceremony took place, Archbishop Corrigan performing it.

Seven Attempts to Burn the City.

Seven attempts were made to burn Louisville, Ky., in four hours. 15 buildings were destroyed and a loss of $15,000 estimated. All were of incendiary origin. All the attempts came from the same section of the town and so rapidly did they follow that engines and trucks, five miles distant were called out. Two nights before there were five incendiary fires in the same radius and Edward Keller was arrested for the crime. He is thought to be one of the gang. The largest losses were on a tobacco factory and an excelsior factory. William King was arrested also charged with arson. Several cotton balls saturated with oil were found in his pocket.

150 Horses and Cattle Cremated.

A fire started in one of the outbuildings of the Cheshire improvement company established in Parkville, Long Island. It spread rapidly to the three big barns of the concern, in which were stabled or more head of cattle and horses. The barns burned like tinder. Greaser Stretch and several employees worked hard to save the cows and horses, but despite their efforts 150 or more perished. Engines were called from the towns in the vicinity of Parkville. At daylight the fire was beyond the control of the firemen. The loss will be about $100,000.

Smothered in a Sand Bank.

While some boys were playing in a sand pit at Toronto, Ont., a slide occurred, covering a portion of the pit to the depth of several feet and smothering three boys named Alfred Lucas, aged 11, and Ernst Lucas and Henry Pettie, each about 10.
