ENTHUSIASTIC AS EVER.

New Arrivals Every Day at Our Famous Resort.

As we were passing up Main street a few days since we dropped into an easy chair on the shady lawn of the Yarnall Gold Cure Institute, and incidentally questioned some of the very intelligent gentlemen, who are patients of the institute, as to their progress with the cure. A more enthusiastic, earnest and confident party it has never been our luck to meet. "Why," said one, "I have been a hard steady drinker for fifteen years and really have not drawn a sober breath for six months past, until I came here nine days since. I have already lost all taste or desire for liquor and realize most positively that I am on the road to a speedy and permanent cure of the accursed appetite. My wife and children will be overjoyed at the transformation in my case and I really feel that I shall date the beginning of a new life from the day I came to the Yarnall Gold Cure." The officers of the institute are daily in receipt of letters from former patients expressing the liveliest sense of gratitude for benefits received. It is most certainly a grand humanitarian work. A lady whose husband was recently cured remarked to Secretary Crosby that "if one fourth the American people only knew the actual facts of what you can do at this institution there would not be room in Northville for your patients to camp on."

The number of patients constantly increases as, while the Yarnall Gold Cure Co. publish no flaming advertisements, they send every patient home from their institution anxious to do missionary work and proclaim the good he has received that others in like need may follow in his footsteps and be cleansed.

MISS MAY WHITE

Wins the Second Demorest Silver Medal.

The second of the Demorest medal contest series was held at the Baptist church Friday evening of last week as previously announced in the Record. Two of the eight contestants failed to respond. Those present were the Misses Williams, McRoberts, Leadbeater, Stewart, Lowden and White. The judges were Rev. Shannon, Dr. Tweedale, Salem, Mrs. Taylor, Novl, and by their decision Miss White carried off the prize. Edna McRoberts' recitation was very fine and it took considerable time figuring on the part of the judges to decide between her and Miss White. Miss Lowden also handled her part exceedingly well but failed in memory. The next contest will be held in October.

A CHANGE.

Our Old Merchant Tailor to Leave Us.

John R. Doelfs, for a number of years merchant tailor here has disposed of his business to J. George Webster, formerly with W. R. Shank & Co., Chelsea. Mr. Doelfs has purchased a similar business at Mt. Vernon, Ohio, and will move there at once. Mt. Vernon is a live town of 9,000 population and that Mr. Doelfs will prosper there as he has here goes without the saying. While we very much regret losing Mr. Doelfs and family from our midst, we commend them to the business and social circles of Mt. Vernon. In Mr. Doelfs they will find an enterprising, bustling business man; in his wife they will find a valuable addition to their society and neighborhood; and the city will be the better for their coming.

On the first ballot there was no choice, though Mrs. Minnie Ely received 20 votes. The second ballot gave Mrs. Ely 34 votes and she was declared unanimously elected. The following is director Booth's annual report.

THOSE ATHLETICS.

They Beat the Colts in a Hotly Contested Game.

Northville people were promised an interesting ball game Monday and the promise was well kept. The Detroit Athletics are players from start to finish and though the Northville boys put up an elegant game, the metropolitan club was too much for them this time. The score was Colts 2, Athletics 6. Another game may be expected later in the season when it will be our turn.

The Little Place o' Boulder Point.

(Parody on "The Little town o' Tailholt.") You kin boast about yer cities, and their stiddy growth and size, And brag about yer country-seats, and business enterprise, And railroads, and factories, and all sich foolery— But the little place o' Boulder Point is big enough fer me! You kin harp about yer churches, and their steeples in the clouds, And gas about yer graded streets, and blow about yer crowds, You kin talk about yer theaters, and all you've got to see, But the little place o' Boulder Point is show enough fer me! There haint no style in our town— hits little like and small— There haint no churches, nuther jes' the green shade, that is all, They's no side-walks, to speak of—but the highway's allus free, And the little place o' Boulder Point is wide enough fer me! Some fands its discommodin-like, I'm willin' to admit, To hev but one post-office, and a women keepin' bit And a meatshop, and a shoe shep, and grocery, all three— But the little town o' Walled Lake is handy 'nough fer me! You kin smile, and turn yer nose up, and joke and hev yer fun, And laugh and hoiler "Walled Lake is better lake'n none!" Ef Northville suits you better, w'y, hits where you'd orto be, But the little place o' Boulder Point's good enough fer me! E. D.

Actual tests show the Royal Baking Powder to be 27 per cent. stronger than any other brand on the market. If another baking powder is forced upon you by the grocer, see that you are charged the correspondingly lower price.

Bread, biscuit, cakes and muffins are not known in most delicate and perfect quality where Royal Baking Powder is not used.

ANOTHER ONE COMING.

Next Saturday's Ball Game. Will be a Hummer.

Saturday, September 10, the Abbots of Detroit will be here to cross bats with Brown's Colts again. The Abbots are coming this time with the vowed intentions of defeating the Northville club and it is needless to say it will be a hotly contested game. Mabley & Co of Detroit have sent out a Spaulding bat and regulation ball to be presented to the winning club and both nines are determined to capture the prize.

RESTRAINT and force are not synonymous terms with brutality and cruelty. The silent forces in nature are the most enduring and powerful, and from gentle treatment the most effective even a soft word will quiet the most towering wrath and a tender look and caress subdue the most violent passions.

If cities find it profitable to invest millions in better streets, certainly the rural districts will find it no less profitable. The fact that on a smooth roadway a farmer's load need be limited only by what he can pile on his wagon ought to be proof enough of the value of good roadways without a single witness being called.

FRUIT from California now reaches the Londoners in eleven days by means of refrigerated cars and cold storage on shipboard. The Englishman no longer needs to eat his peach of emerald hue to a doubtful maturity on the sunny side of a wall. But California peaches are not yet sold on Piccadilly two for a penny.

The fact that we are at last supplying a large proportion of our literary diet is a subject for national congratulation. It means our mental independence and individuality, without which even political independence could not make us wholly free. We don't care for English or any other foreign opinion so much as we used to do, holding it better to maintain self-respect than to receive the condescending flatteries that only a natural dependent can wholly relish.

An absolute singleness of pursuit almost means a mind always in one pursuit, an eye that regards every object however many-sided, from one point of view, an intellectual diary, beginning and ending with one article. Exclusiveness of this kind is apt to produce serious evils. It disposes each man to exaggerate the force and value of his particular attainment, and perhaps, therewith his own importance. It deprives the mind of the refreshment which is healthfully afforded by alternation of labor, and of the strength as well as the activity, to be gained by allowing varied subjects to evoke and put in exercise its wonderfully varied powers.

The sneering question, "Who reads an American book?" is no longer asked by Englishmen. If it were American authors need not care, as they have fought their way through and American books are now to a considerable extent republished in England. Since the adoption of the copy-right law publications of English authors in this country have greatly fallen off. It was the fact that it could be got without paying for them that has made English literature except a few classics so popular here. Ten years ago no publishers of books outside of Boston issued more American than foreign works.

It was in 1817, that Gov. DeWitt Clinton of New York began the construction of the Erie Canal. That was an enormous undertaking for the time, though its cost completed amounted to only $8,000,000. Since its construction New York has spent $90,000,000 for enlargement repairs and maintenance of her great waterway, and for the last ten years without any tolls or other return save the commercial supremacy the canal system has enabled the city of New York to maintain. Canals are not superseded by railroads as at one time it was thought they would be. The whole effort of late years is towards the construction of ship canals for cheap transportation and in this direction canals promise to become of greater importance to the world's commerce than ever before.

The beauties of the kindergarten system are far from being a matter of pure sentiment. It is not simply that little children are taken into a clean place for a few hours every day, and kept out of the sight and sound of all evil things although this is a point worthy of some consideration, with respect to certain classes of children. But the real benefit to the pupils and to the community is very much greater, and lies very much deeper than this. One of its most practical features is that it gives to children who are likely to be taken from school and put to work at an early age, two years of mental training which would otherwise be lost to them. To the child who must go into a factory or store at the age of ten or twelve years, those two years are a substantial gain, not only in point of the time spent in study, but in the aptitude thus gained for study, enabling him to make more rapid progress in the school years following the kind than he could have entered the

Experience Has Led to the Proper Selection of Food by the Inhabitants of Different Parts of the Globe.

It is only within a very recent period that the science of nutrition has received much attention, even in a scientific way; only within a very few years that anything has been done to give popular instruction upon the subject. If we had waited, writes Edward Atkinson in the New York Sun, for the scientist to tell us how to live, we might long since have begun to diminish in numbers. Each race, perhaps each body of inhabitants occupying a given section of the earth's surface, appears to have established a process of natural selection—a national food, which can be procured at least cost and which when analyzed is found to contain the nutrients, protein, starch and fat, in about the right proportion to suit the conditions of the climate.

Beginning with the so-called rice-eating nations or races, whose rations consist in large quantities of rice, or starchy root, it appears that they add the requisite amount of nitrogen by consuming peas and beans. Living mainly in hot countries, they do not need so much fat. In India the element of fat is derived from a peculiar kind of bitter, called ghee. In that combination is found a complete food at the least cost.

Moving into Europe we find that the nutrition of the working classes of Italy consists mainly of polenta, a form of Indian corn or maize meal, which in itself is nearly a complete food, but being a little short of nitrogen, a modicum of cheese is added, the chief element in the diet of the Italian, however, being macaroni and cheese, many of the cheeses being made from skim milk after the cream has been taken off, and these are richer in nitrogen. Macaroni and cheese with salad is substantially a complete food.

Passing over to Switzerland we again find cheese furnishing that which is the most important and the most expensive in every dietary, the nitrogenous portion. In France more meat is eaten, but in the stock pot, or pot au feu, every element of meat and vegetation, including remnants of bread and everything that contains nutrition, is converted over into a nearly complete food, to which the customary salad and bread serve as a remainder.

In England the relative scarcity of meat is made up by the abundant consumption of cheese, bread and cheese serving as the mainstay of the working people, the cheese supplying the deficiency of the wheat in protein. In Scotland oatmeal is the mainstay, and in the grain of the oat is to be found a food more nearly corresponding to the requirements of complete nutrition than in any other single variety of food which is known to exist. The Irish, subsisting from choice or from necessity, so much upon potatoes are a people of relatively low vitality, not tenacious of life and as a rule not long lived, except when removed to other regions where they can secure more complete nutrition.

In the northern nations of Europe fish and rye bread together form a cheap and complete basis for nutrition; the fish consisting of herring, which supplies a very large amount of fat or of salmon or of some other varieties.

Crossing the ocean, in New England we find in the baked beans and brown bread made from the maize meal, a ration at low cost which is very complete in its proportions of energy.

Passing into Canada we come to an entirely different dish, pease porridge, made into a combination with coarse crackers and a bit of pork, furnishing a strong and complete ration at almost the minimum of cost.

Aram, moving to the southern states, the customary ration of the colored man, which he chooses in preference to almost any other kind of food, consists of three and one-half pounds of bacon and a peck of maize meal per week, to which are added a few vegetables from the field, making perhaps the cheapest ration at the least cost in ratio to the force it contains than can be found anywhere. In Mexico the "tortillo," or bean, furnishes the nitrogen in connection with a diet of other materials, very meager at the best.

Necessity has probably been the teacher in each case; the experience of many generations has probably led to the final selection, and the habit of feeding upon these enforced rations has developed an inherited appetite for them which in many instances has become so strong that a change to a different diet even as well balanced as those named, leads for the time being to indigestion and to disease. I have been told that the southern negro will be afflicted with dyspepsia if his customary ration when at work is changed from the usual hog and hominy to either bacon and wheat bread or to corn bread and beef.

A Big Snake Vanquished by a Bird.

Walter Fewell witnessed a novel fight lately between a gopher snake and a king bird. The contest was fought to a finish in the road near the feathery opponent with ease, but the bird was too quick for him and came out winner. The bird would hover over the snake but a foot or two above its head and would strike it on the head from time to time, the snake all the while trying to seize the bird, but unable to do so on account of its rapid movements. After some twenty minutes his snakeship gave up the fight in disgust and hurried away to avoid the thrusts of his tormentor. —Visalia Times.

ALIVE TILL THE SUN SETS.

Not Until the Hour of Twilight do Snakes' Tails Die.

When this snake found himself fast he commenced that rapid vibration of the tail peculiar to his species. He had not sounded his rattles till then, or shown inclination to fight. Now the buzzing of his tail was quickly followed by the appearance of his dart-shaped head, which shot from one, then another of the crevices of the rocks, his tongue lashing and his eyes standing out like beads. He was writhing to free himself, and I was obliged to press with considerable strength upon the stick to prevent his escape.

The rattles buzzed at frequent intervals, but I noticed that he always ceased rattling just before striking; also, that the action of the muscles which vibrated the rattles was perfect, notwithstanding the fact that the pressure of the stick almost severed them from the main portion of the body. The snake was now furious and struck repeatedly at the stick which tortured him, and I was not sure, but thought he struck his fangs into it.

Anxious to kill him and so end his torture, says a writer in Forest and Stream, I had nothing at hand but the stick which I moved would allow him to get into the rocks. Suddenly, however, he freed himself, and got where he might have escaped, but he evidently was prepared for vengeance. Instead of withdrawing into the rocks he protruded himself in various directions and allowed me to strike at his head a number of times until he received the blow that settled his career forever.

With the stick I then drew him from the rocks and found him to be the largest I have encountered. He would have measured nearly four feet, and was near if not quite three inches in diameter. Of rattles he had fourteen, but some had been broken or worn away. He was a remarkably active and pretty marked reptile of his kind.

After securing the rattles as a trophy I fell to wondering why the dozen fatal wounds he had received had not driven all the life from his body but he still writhed and twisted, and then I remembered that "snakes' tails never die until the sun goes down."

STORY OF THE GREAT PLAINS FORTY YEARS AGO.

Brotherly Love and the Tragedy, Which Came of It—Stampede of Cattle at Night—The Undisclosed Secret of a Note.

"Among the numberless instances of self-sacrificing love which have come under my observation," said an old "forty-niner" recently, "none has left a deeper impression on me than one which I witnessed on the upper trail across the plains about forty years ago.

"We were taking a party, but to California, and there was a small herd of cattle along—probably a hundred head or more—thirty of us some unbusiness. You see, there were no cattle driven then like those that afterward came along—and so we had no experience of cow-boys. The herd was had as quiet as any could be expected to be, but still it was a herd of cattle and cattle are the most timid creatures on earth. They are particularly afraid of lightning and thunder.

"This herd was in charge of two brothers named Wilkerson I think. At any rate the older one was Tom and the younger one was called Willie by his brother. Willie was a delicate-looking fellow for such rough work, but it was just suited for Tom. Willie would have preferred another job perhaps but circumstances had no doubt driven them to this and the two preferred to be together, so Tom did Willie's work as far as he was able, and as far as Willie would let him.

"Every day some incident would arise where Tom would show his affection for his younger and more delicate brother, relieving him of his and helping in that frequently against Willie's protest, but also frequently before Willie had a chance to object. When Willie would object Tom would laugh in his hearty way and tell him he would get a chance to pay him back some other time. Occasionally Willie in his quiet way would try to pay Tom back in his own coin by getting ahead of him and completing some piece of work for him, but Tom always seemed to take it to heart so that these latter instances were rare.

"One evening we went into camp early for a storm was coming up. The cattle were all quieted down and seemed settled for the night. It was Willie's night to watch them, and he was on guard. The clouds grew very black and heavy peals of thunder indicated quite a storm. As soon as the lightning began to play around us the cattle began to show uneasiness—and I saw that Tom was growing apprehensive. I watched him, and presently he went around to where Willie's horse was tied, and stayed there several minutes.

"Then he came back and stood by his brother. Presently a keen flash of lightning was followed by a frightful noise from a dozen or more cattle as they spring to their feet. During the distant rumblings of thunder they stood there trembling in their uncontrollable terror. We could see them in the intervals of the lightning flashes huddled together, wild-eyed and quivering. All at once a vivid flash and a deafening clap of thunder came almost at the same instant, and with one universal bellow of fear the herd was away into the night, and we knew they would be fifty miles away before morning unless checked.

"Tom grasped Willie in his arms and held him for a moment as he would a child and then kissed him as he sprang to his horse. He was on his animal and off on the prairie before Willie recovered himself. Springing to his own horse to mount him, Willie found that some one had taken off the saddle and bridle and hidden them. Seeing the nearest he could find he put them on, and then found that his horse was tied with one of those knots of Tom's that Satan himself could not untie. He burst into tears as he drew his knife and cut the halter, saying quietly to himself: "Oh, why wouldn't you let me share your danger, Tom?"

"He was soon lying away into the darkness and when morning came we could see nothing of either the cattle or drivers. A couple of us mounted and struck out to look for them, but I was uneasy. You see the country we were in was generally level, but quite rough in places. Every half mile or less there were gullies and ravines. I knew that as dark as it was it was only too likely even if Tom succeeded in getting ahead of the cattle, that while trying to turn them both horse and rider would go down and be trampled to death by those frightened animals that never stop at anything in their mad, blind rush.

"On we went for miles but could not see a sign of them, though all the prairie seemed to be visible as far as the eye could reach. Going over a little rise, however, we discovered our mistake. There, just ahead of us was one of those treacherous little ravines, and by its side grazed Willie's horse while its rider was lying prone on the ground by the side of an indistinguishable object. It was just as I had feared. When we got them back to camp we carried what remained of Tom in a blanket, we found Willie's saddle and bridle hid among Tom's things and with them was a little note that read: "MY DEAR BOY—I believe I know what a thunder storm means on such a dark night and in such a rough country. I can't bear to let you risk it. If it turns out badly for me go back home and comfort your mother. Don't feel hurt at your leaving her. —BROTHER."

"That was all there was in it. We stayed there a few days to round up the cattle. The next morning we started Tom, and Willie turned right

THE QUEER PILOT FISH.

Many of the sailing vessels which come into port bring one or two passengers, occasionally companions of the captain, but often courageous travelers who brave the dangers of an ocean voyage for the sake of its strange experiences. Many find the passage dreary in the extreme, but an observant man will derive both instruction and pleasure from the voyage. On the last vessel to arrive, the bark Factorius, were two passengers, W. F. Gray, of Rochester, and Hugh P. Blackinton, of Hoosac Falls, N. Y. Mr. Blackinton had much to say regarding the fishes and birds of the sea and life aboard a clipper freight vessel, such as the "Factorius." He said to a Morning Oregonian reporter:

"We made the trip purely for pleasure and we were well rewarded. When we were weary of reading or watching the sailors we devoted our time to fishing, and it was simply glorious. We perched ourselves in the martingales of the clipper's side, in the tropics, during the prevalence of the trade winds, and caught bonito and the sibeorges, weighing twenty pounds each. These far at sea were cape hens, cape pigeons, penguins, California plovers, and innumerable birds of other kinds.

"We watched the thrashers attack the whales and in a hundred ways studied the sea for 131 days. One of the strangest things to us was a discovery we made. The thrasher can not see to go anywhere, but is piloted about by the queer pilot fish, which fastens itself just above the head of the thrasher, and thus leads him to the great whale he is to attack. We saw this or many different occasions. An observation of recent naturalists also, regarding a fish parasite on the shark, we fully verified.

"One day our sailors hauled a shark on board. As it thrashed around a small black fish about a foot long fell off him on the deck. It was a queer fish, with a thousand minute tentacles, scarcely visible to the eye, which enabled it to cling to the side of the fish, where like a leech, it sucked the blood of the shark.

"When we went to pick it up we could not move it. It had such powers of sticking to the board, and we had to run a long flat knife under it to loosen it. Life aboard a clipper ship has many interesting things in it, every man should take such a trip once in his life."

SKIN-TIGHT PANTS.

A young man went into Solomon Solomon's place a week or so ago and said he wanted to have a pair of trousers made. That's Mr. Solomon's business, and he soon had roll after roll of material down for inspection. When the choice had been made and the measuring began the young man said:

"I want you to make 'em skin tight."

Mr. Solomon rolled his eyes up from his stooping position.

"Skin tight," he repeated aghast. "Y' mean front dot vos not the styles. Ve gait ruins yer pizness by darning and anything yer vos not in de styles! Say, mein friend, you don't want dot skin tight?"

"I want 'em skin tight, I don't care nothin' about no style. I'm doin' this here business to suit myself. If you don't want to make 'em the way I want 'em, you needn't make 'em at all. Now take your choice."

Mr. Solomon raised his shoulders into his neck and turned out the palms of his hands.

"Yell, mein friend, shut as you say. I make 'em skin tight. But you nod pa satisfied mit 'em. But I do schust as you say."

A few days later the young man called and got the articles and took them home. From a cursory inspection in the shop he said he thought they were just right. But in an hour he was back again.

"See here," he cried, rushing up to the obliging Mr. Solomon. "What do you call these?" And he shook the trousers out of the paper wrapper and held them up.

"Dose?" inquired Mr. Solomon, carefully adjusting his eye-glasses.

"Dose? I gull dose skin-tight pants."

"But what did you make them like this for?"

"Like dot? Vell, my friend, I told you, I gaud help id. You told me to make 'em schust so tight as your skin."

"I know I did. But hully gee! I can sit down in my skin!"

Two New Explosives.

Heroullus is the invention of a Frenchman and owing to its qualities of slow combustion and safety, is claimed to be superior as an explosive to nitro glycerine. It is a yellowish gray powder, and is composed of saw-dust, ammoniac, nitrate of potash and several other ingredients. Experiments conducted in a quarry showed that a shot could not be fired by sparks flame or detonation, a special igniter being required. It is said to be possessed of tremendous power, while its cost is only about six cents a pound.

Nico is the name of an explosive which was recently subjected to a number of tests at quarries near Melbourne, Australia. It is intended for use for mining purposes, to supersede powder in the various nitro-glycerine compounds. In the experiments the large quantity of rock loosened by moderate charges of the explosive clearly demonstrated its power.

Art Study Made Easy.

Any of our readers who desire to learn to paint, or any other art work, without the aid of a teacher, are advised to make the acquaintance of

The Art Amateur, a thoroughly practical art magazine, which is really indispensable to both art student and art teacher. In order to introduce this really sumptuous publication where it is not already known, the publisher offers to any one who will mention this journal and send $1.00 directly to him, four well-selected numbers of The Art Amateur (including 32 large pages supplementary designs) and 17 superb color plates (for copying or framing) including several which show in their proper colors, the progressive stages in painting landscape, flowers, portraits, animals, etc., in oil and in water-colors as practised by the best artists in Europe and in America. In writing to the publisher, Mr. Montague Marks (his address is 23 Union Square, New York City), and enclosing your $1.00, it would be well to say whether your preference is for landscape, flowers and fruit, figures or animals; or if you are more interested in China painting (than in oil or water-color painting). The Art Amateur also teaches one "How to Become an Illustrator," and makes a specialty of "Art Designing for Women." Wood Carving, Pyrography, Church and Home Embroidery, Tapestry and Fan-Painting are also taught by this very practical magazine and are accompanied by numerous working designs with full directions or carrying them out.

Communication.

Dear Sir:

A circular purporting to be addressed by the Catholic bishops to their flocks, and containing among other gross and palpable falsehoods, a set of instructions to be observed under the severest ecclesiastical penalties at the coming elections has been distributed among the protestants of Wayne and Cassland counties. The object of the circular is too obvious to need comment. You will be good enough to allow me to say through your columns on behalf of the Catholics who are so shamefully calumniated that the precious document referred to is from beginning to end clumsy and I am sorry to have to add a malicious forgery worthy in every respect of the organization whence it emanated, an organization which in its origin principles and methods is as unamerican and unchristian as it is unchristian and uncharitable. Faithfully yours, GEORGE CLARSON, Pastor, Milford and Northville.

Things Said and Did in the Liveliest and Prettiest Village in Michigan.
It's a sweet and tiny treasure,
A torment and a tease;
It's an autocrat an aristocrat—
Two awful things to please.
It's a rest and peace disturber,
With its little laughing ways;
It's a wailing human night alarm,
And terror of your days.
[THE BARY.]

We are pleased to state that the prospects now are that Rev. Jaques will remain with us another year.
Born to Mr. Mrs. W. G. Yerkes, Sept. 1st, a boy.

We understand nothing has as yet been done towards procuring hose for the new water works system.
Cards are out announcing the marriage of W. H. Nichols of this place to Miss Loretta Collins of Plymouth, on Wednesday evening, September 14.

Mark Ambler of this place and Metta (formerly of Farmington) were married at the latter's home Sept. 1st. Rev. Bradley of this place performed the ceremony.

Charley Gardner has accepted a position with a large New York manufacturing house but will not leave for his new position until the first of the year owing to the weakness of his injured foot.

Miss Coyart enrolls 70 scholars the first day this term, nearly 1/3 of the entire school children of the district. In a short time Northville will need an addition to her already large school building.

There will be preparatory services at the Presbyterian church at 9:30 Sunday mornings instead of Saturday as heretofore. The communion services will follow the regular morning service.

Next year Dr. Swift's and Dr. Burgess' terms of office on the school board expire and if the ladies keep on as they have for the past two years, Director Booth will find himself with four lady members on his hands and he in a very hopeless minority.

N. Nevison is back here again and is going into the bakery business at his former stand. Mr. Joys will move into the Maak building, recently vacated by Mr. Hayling, the organ and sewing machine man, who now occupies the Owenshire block.

When in Detroit you should take advantage of one of the best hotels in the city when it costs no more than a cheap one. The Wayne hotel opposite the M. C. depot is just such a place and you may depend upon getting the best of service and most courteous treatment.

The house of Harrison Hannah has been entered by some unknown person and fifty dollars taken from Mr. James Hill of the fishery, and L. V. Coty of the water works, two young men who have been boarding there. No clew whatever to the perpetrators of the act can be found.

H. F. Jackson charged his plea to guilty in Justice Blackwood's court last Friday morning in the matter of the people vs. Jackson for assault upon F. H. Best. Justice Blackwood fined Jackson $30 and cost. Jackson will appeal the case to the circuit court, claiming excessive judgment.

The loud senseless, useless, trying-to-rattle-the-pitcher coaching now indulged in at our ball games should be stopped. It may have been quite funny at the first game or two, and to some of the players it may still have a soothing effect, but it is certainly getting very wearisome for the audience.

If some of our bicycle riders who double themselves up like jack-knives when they ride, knew how extremely ridiculous they appeared they would brace up. It will do well enough in a case, but for pleasure riding, not only is it useless and unappreciating, but, judged from a physical standpoint, must certainly be detrimental to health.

Wednesday, Oct. 12th will be memorable as the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America. It will be known throughout our country as Columbus Day, and on that day the great Columbian Exposition grounds will be dedicated. Many of the public schools throughout our country will probably observe the day with appropriate exercises.

At Miss Boyce's you will find a full line of Ladies Underwear. Combination suits in wool and balbriggan.

Miss Fuller, of North Center street, having returned home and resumed dressmaking, would like to see her old customers and also new ones. Prices reasonable.

Owing to some delay at the engraving office "Our School" is unavoidably left out this week.

Wolfenbarger & Huckens the temperance speaker and singer will be here probably, Oct. 15.

Did you read the "business flashes"?
With a school census of 442 this year, our primary fund will amount to about $670.

The youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. C. U. Chadwick died Saturday afternoon. Services were held at the home Sunday afternoon and the lifeless form laid at rest in Rural Hill. The little boy, though a bright-pretty little fellow, had never been real strong, and while the death was not sudden or unexpected it was none the less sad. Much sympathy is expressed for the bereaved ones.

The Wayne County Prohibition Convention, for the purpose of nominating candidates for County offices, and for such other business as may come before the convention will be held at Royal Templar Hall, Wednesday, Sept. 21st, at 11 o'clock a. m. Each township and ward is entitled to five delegates, and one additional for each 25 votes cast for governor. John Russell, will address the convention in the afternoon.

The Democrats of this place organized a club last week and will endeavor to keep their republican brethren hustling. The following is a list of the officers: L. A. Babbitt, president; D. B. Northrop, C. C. Yerkes, Chas. Booth, vice-presidents; C. A. Dewiner, secretary; C. G. Harrington, treasurer. Executive committee, Henry DeKay, C. D. Woodman, John Nixon, E. S. Hastings, Alex. Tinham Jr.

A large number of our neighboring village merchants are now adopting the early closing movement. Northville merchants should follow suit and close at 8 o'clock. Patrons would not in the least object and it would not only give the clerks a deserved portion of their evenings but would also release the proprietors, as well. If our merchants will sign such an agreement the Record will publish it and the signers names. Who will make a start?

The attention of bike riders is called to the council proceedings this week. The marshal is likely to reopen the first rider caught on the side walk. It is claimed that some of the boys have been monopolizing the village walks of late to the extent of ordering pedestrians off. It was quite convenient for riders to take to the walks on the out-laying streets where the roads were bad and nothing would ever have been said if some fool-rider had not got so confounded smart through the village.

It was generally supposed that when the Lansing Iron & Engine Works contracted to have the Northville water works completed by July 1st they would be finished by that time, else why fix the time at all. The leaks in the vitrified pipe from the reservoir to the springs are not all stopped yet and it the reservoir and the leaks about the village bother as much, and the prospects are they will, water is not likely to be turned on for a month or two yet. It looks as if some one wanted bracing up a bit.

Opposition is truthfully said to be the life of trade. The same may be said of a ball game. Last Saturday's game, while fairly played, was almost wholly devoid of interest from the fact that neither audience or players cared a cent which side beat. Had the opposing nines been "Shep" against "Colt" there would have been some excitement, as it was, it was altogether too friendly and tame. The score was Germa's 21, Webster's 16. Um, pire, C. Filkins. The band was present, playing some choice music and their benefit was some $10.

This is the way a brother editor expresses himself, and they are our sentiments, exactly: "Much as we would like to print every available item of news, it is undoubtedly true that some facts are missed every week, owing to the inability of the editor, who is also collector, advertising contractor and this spacer, to learn of them. We will appreciate, as a downright favor, the heading in of personal news especially, and other items of general interest. Don't wait for an introduction to the editor. He is public property."

A number of articles have been lost in our village of late and which have been duly advertised in these columns, but with little success. Among others Grace Filkins lost a gold bangle pin; Jessie Steers, a blazer jacket; Nettie Yerkes, a pocket book containing some money and a door key; Mrs. B. A. Northrop, a gold neck chain, etc. Now these articles have all been picked up and it is all nonsense to suppose that the finders do not know they lay themselves liable to the law when they find an article and make no reasonable effort to find an owner. Miss Steers has recovered her jacket but the other articles are yet missing.

Dr. Palmer will again be at the Park house, Northville for painless extraction of teeth by the Orlotunder Process, Saturday, Sept. 16, one day only. All persons wishing anything in the line of dentistry please call as this may be the last visit for three months.

The annual reunion of Col. Alger's old regiment will occur on Tuesday, August 13th at Lansing, and delegates from various parts of the state who intend going to Washington to attend the national encampment may, if desired, take the train from there by way of Toledo and Ashland, Ky., crossing the well remembered fields of Charlottesville, Gordonsville, Orange C. H., Rapidan, Pony Mountain, Brady, Rappahannock, Beaton, Catlett, Bristol, Midland, Manassas, Bull Run, and Centerville, and will pass in sight of James City, Raocoon Ford, Stevensburg, Kelley's Ford, Warrenton, Groveton. On the return trip can avail themselves of the southern trip through Richmond and Natural Bridge for an additional expense of two dollars, by steamer from Washington to Fortress Monroe crossing the fields of Newport News in-sight of Yorktown through Williamsburg, Olive Branch Church, Malvera Hill, White Oak Swamps, Seven Pines, Fair Oaks, Richmond, Yellow Tavern, South Anna, Hanover, Beaver Dam, Trevillian, stopping at Monticello the home of Thomas Jefferson. On leaving this line at Richmond will be brought by Lynchburg and the Natural Bridge and through by the noted watering places of the Allegheny mountains to Clifton Forge and return home by the same route as in going. Stop over checks at any point from Ashland going to Clifton Forge coming home.

1,500 ladies and childrens cloaks and wraps will be on exhibition at A. W. Reed's store in Northville Sept. 13, 14, and 15. Come in and see the show.

Dr. Bennett.
Dr. Bennett, Michigan's specialist on chronic troubles, will be at Macomber House, Northville, Wednesday, Sept. 14.

It certainly is strange so many should go and see Dr. B., and what he does for them. They all receive a great benefit, continue to improve until well, then remain so. Is this "happen so" or is there a principal behind it all? You do not comprehend, cannot see? There is a ground floor there that will stand all the pressure they can give it. We care not for worlds of ridicule or ensure it stands them all. So see him when here.

La Grippe Again.
During the epidemic of La Grippe last season Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, proved to be the best remedy. Reports from the many who used it confirm this statement. They were not only quickly relieved, but the disease left no bad after results. We ask you to give this remedy a trial and we guarantee that you will be satisfied with results, or the purchase price will be refunded. It has no equal in La Grippe, or Cough and Colds, or Lung Trouble. Trial bottles free at A. M. Randolph's Drug Store. Large bottles, 50c. and $1.00.

LABOR'S BIG HOLIDAY.

HOW THE DAY WAS CELEBRATED AMONG THE WOLVERINES.

Detroit, Grand Rapids, Jackson, Bay City and Other Towns.—Other Important Michigan News.

Detroit's Labor Day.
The day was an ideal one; cool and comfortable with a bright sun shining. There were about 7,000 men in the parade, which was one of the best ever given in Detroit. Every person seemed to take a personal pride in the appearance of the ranks. The line of march over four miles was crowded with spectators who cheered enthusiastically.

The procession upon reaching Belle Isle park disbanded and the remainder of the day was spent in racing, ball games, dancing and family picnics. At Grand Rapids
Labor Day was celebrated with a big parade in which all the labor organizations in town participated. The addresses of the day were by Rev. W. A. Frye, of Grand Rapids, and W. Garland, of Homestead. Then everybody went to the lake for picnics, games and sports. All the factories and many of the business houses suspended and several large excursions came in from outside.

Big Time at Jackson.
The trades unions of Jackson held their third annual labor celebration on Labor Day. The day was a grand success and brought to Jackson the largest number of strangers ever assembled there. In fact there was hardly room enough for the crowd. All the shops and manufacturing interests were shut down and the men were given the day. The parade was over three miles in length and many new and novel features were introduced. The most attractive of which was the company of young girls who marched in the procession carrying muskets. In the band concert, the "Victory" band of Adrian took first prize and the Napoleon band second.

At the State Capital.
Never before in the history of Lansing—always excepting the day on which the corner stone of the state capitol was laid, of course—has the city entertained such a crowd as were within its gates on Labor Day. Beside the other features there were double balloon ascensions and parachute drops by Elliott and Lord's of Jackson both morning and evening. In order to save himself from being dashed against the city hall building Lord's dropped into a network of telephone wires which luckily sustained him and he was rescued unhurt. The day was a red letter one in every particular.

Politician's Galore.
Notwithstanding the fact that more time was taken up with political speeches by prominent politicians of the state Labor Day at Bay City was an enjoyable day. A long procession and games of all kinds at the fair grounds were the principal features.
Kalamazoo's chief events were the parade and a horse race—forty rods. Three Rivers union won in 23 min, 26 sec.
Flint had a large crowd, a big athletic tournament, band concert and fireworks.

Gov. Winans is Anxious About Cholera.
In an interview with Gov. Winans, Secretary Baker, of the state board of health was assured that whenever in the opinion of the board it becomes necessary to establish a system of inspection at the harbor of any port of call, he will be ready to do so. He created several years ago for use in such emergencies, and which can be drawn upon only with the consent of the governor, will be at their disposal. This appropriation was originally $10,000. And nearly $9,000 still remains. It is the intention of the board to make all preparation for such inspection so that it can be entered upon at a moment's notice should circumstances warrant it.

Another Republican State Convention.
The Republicans of the state will choose their candidate for associate justice of the supreme court in state convention at Grand Rapids on Tuesday, Sept. 27. This step was decided upon at a meeting of the state central committee at headquarters at Detroit. It was also decided to nominate a candidate for secretary of state to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dan Soper. Under the law the secretary elected to fill a vacancy will take office as soon as the vote on state officers is canvassed, and this would permit the secretary of state to have a voice in canvassing the election returns for the state legislature.

George Welsh Pardoned.
George Welsh, of Detroit, sentenced to 10 years' term in the state prison at Jackson has been pardoned by Gov. Winans. The board of pardons, of the advisory board of pardons, Welsh, it will be remembered, was convicted of killing Maurice Crawford on the streets of Detroit in 1889. The pardon board said, in recommending the exercise of executive clemency, that the prisoner is a sufferer with consumption and that the evidence of witnesses shows that he had no intention of killing the man whom he assaulted, and that the blow would not have injured the man except under extraordinary circumstances.

Five Trimmers Strike.
The trimmers in the Atlantic mine at Houghton are on a strike. They have not stated their grievances as yet, but higher wages is what is wanted. The mine is the poorest in the Lake Superior district, the only vein carrying but 1/2 per cent. copper. No raise will be made. Over 200 men are out of work.

Van Buren Remains Dry.
The local option election held in Van Buren county resulted in a victory again for the "dry" element. Only a small vote was polled and little interest manifested, especially among the farmers.
Odd Fellows were at Hudson from all over southern Michigan to elect three officers and hold their business. The following were chosen: George S. Davis, Lansing, first battalion; J. W. Adair, Battle Creek, second battalion; A. A. Chase, Pittsford, third battalion.

An Unusual Cancer.

A most unusual case of disease was disclosed by the postmortem at Dowagiac on the body of Elias Ingling. Death was caused by a well-defined cancer of the esophagus, between stomach and throat, four inches above the stomach causing a hemorrhage. Medical works describe cancer at other spots than this. The cancerous mass was as large as one's fist, and involved the edges of the lungs, throat, aorta and descending vena cava. Mr. Ingling was an old resident and war veteran. He worked in the Round Oak Stove works at Dowagiac for 21 years without missing a day.

Accidental Shooting.
Willie Newman, aged about 9 years, shot Augustus Shultz, aged 14, with a breech-loading shotgun Wednesday morning on the McLean farm near Coldwater. The hired man had used the shotgun to shoot hawks and left it empty, standing behind the door. Willie loaded the gun with shells, saying he would shoot Miss Shultz. She dodged as the gun was pointed towards her, but it was discharged, she receiving, however, only a part of the charge in her left shoulder. The greater part striking the door casing. The doctor extracted 48 shot, and the girl is still living.

A Pay-City Saginaw Boulevard.
A few enterprising citizens of Bay City have succeeded in working up favorable sentiment in behalf of a project to construct a boulevard between Bay City and Saginaw. It is proposed to build the thoroughfare along the east bank of the Saginaw river, but how it can be done without involving an immense amount of embankment and trestle work, remains a mystery. The main object is to bring into the market thousands of acres of marsh land, lying between the two cities.

MICHIGAN STATE ITEMS.

A spasm of sobriety has struck Alpena and the liquor law will be enforced until the fat gets stale. The first person made an example of was a woman.
There are springs at Spring Harbor turning out daily 10,000 gallons of cold, mineral water and the city fathers of Jackson are talking about piping it into town.

Albert Paick, of Alpena, has 200,000,000 feet of standing pine on the Spanish river in the Georgian bay country, and this winter will commence cutting it.
Adj. Gen. Farrar has received assurance from 10 companies of state troops, that they will participate in the World's Fair dedicatory exercises at Chicago in October.
Miss Ida Sherman, of Charlotte, was consecrated to the Baptist ministry with appropriate services. After a few years of study she will probably enter the missionary field.
Dr. S. A. Johnson, of Kalkaska, is having hard luck in the matter of wives. In May he lost his first one and about four weeks ago was married again. His second wife has just died of quick consumption.

A Hoptertown mother left her baby in the buggy while she picked blackberries. When she returned, called by the little one's cries, a rattlesnake crawled from under its dress. The child had been bitten six times and died on the way home.
Adj. Gen. Farrar has issued commissions to Lieut. Col. Chas. H. Rose, of Grand Rapids, and Capt. Fred H. Case, of Three Rivers, who were elected colonel and major, respectively, of the Second infantry during the recent encampment at Island Lake.
Walter Longfellow, aged 10 years, while walking across the Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee railroad bridge at Grand Rapids fell into the river and was drowned. A boy in swimming tried to rescue him but failed. The body was recovered.

Joseph Grice, conductor of one of Alger, Smith & Co.'s log trains, was run over and instantly killed by his train at Mud Lake junction, near Alpena. The coupling pin gave way, causing Grice to fall under the moving cars. He was a married man. He was baggage man on the Detroit, Bay City & Alpena railroad for several years.
The sixth annual conference of the African M. E. church was held at Jackson with an attendance of about 500, Bishop H. M. Turner, of Atlanta, Ga., presiding. John M. Henderson, of Detroit; John L. Watkins, of Grand Rapids, and E. E. Gregory are secretaries.
Just fifty years ago Mr. and Mrs. Brownell, of Portage township, Kalamazoo county, were married in Pennsylvania. In memory of the event they entertained a large number of friends and relatives. They are a well-preserved couple and are the parents of eight children, all but one of whom are living.

William Narves, a farmer living in the township of West Bloomfield, Oakland county, was instantly killed by being thrown from his buggy near the Orchard Lake hotel. He had just taken his son and daughter to the train, when his team became frightened at a bicycle and ran away, throwing him out and down a steep embankment. When aid arrived he was dead.
Machinist William Wilson was walking on the Michigan Central track, when he was run down by an engine and instantly killed. His home is in Tecumseh, where he leaves a widow and four children.

The state board of health has requested President Harrison to suspend all immigration until after the cholera scare subsides. This action is taken in common with other state boards of health.

DROWNED IN A BIG GALE.

THE WESTERN RESERVE AND CITY OF TOLEDO GO DOWN.

Twenty-six from Drowned from the Foam and Nine from the Latter—Only One Survivor to Tell the Story.

The steamer Western Reserve, with 27 persons on board, broke in two in a gale and sank 20 miles off Sable Point, Lake Superior. Harry Stewart, the wheelman, is the only survivor. Among those lost, in addition to 21 members of the crew, were Captain Minch, the wealthy vessel-owner of Cleveland, proprietor of the Western Reserve, his wife and daughter, his sister-in-law and her daughter. The vessel was built of steel and while laboring in the heavy sea snapped in two. Life boats were hastily launched and 10 minutes the mammoth vessel sank beneath the water. One lifeboat speedily sank and only two of those in it were picked up by the other. This was overcrowded and in short time also went down. Stewart started for shore, which he reached after a desperate struggle. He proceeded into station No. 12 and brought the first news of the terrible disaster. He was in a terrible exhausted condition. Following is a list of the dead:

PERCE G. MINCH, owner of vessel, Cleveland.
MRS. MINCH.
CHARLES MINCH, aged 10.
FLORENCE MINCH, aged 4.
MRS. BERTHA ENGLEBY, sister of Mrs. Minch, Vermillionville, Ohio.
ALBERT MYERS, captain, Vermillionville, Ohio.
CARL MYERS, son of the captain.
WILLIAM H. SEAMAN, chief engineer, Cleveland.
FRED EGGLESTON, first mate, Brooklyn, N. Y.
CHARLES LABEAU, second mate, Sand Beach.
CHARLES WILLS, second engineer, Sand Beach.
BERT SMITH, steward.
GEORGE DAVIS, assistant steward.
DANIEL FORBES, lookout, Algona, Ia.
ROBERT SIMPSON, oiler.
JOHN SATCHIN, fireman.
S. T. HOLDEX, fireman.
HORACE BOROCHOS, fireman.
MARTIN CLOSSEN, greaser, Huron, O.
DAN STEWART, deckhand, Sand Beach.
R. L. LOPPEL, deckhand.
J. ALBERT DAVENPORT, deckhand.
DAN O'CONNELL, deckhand.
M. COFFEY, deckhand.
JOHN WILSON, deckhand.
Harry Stewart, the sole survivor of the terrible disaster, was wheelman. He gives a clear statement. He says that he had a signal as a signal, which was sounded about 9 o'clock at night, and jumped across the breach in the dock of time to reach the wooden wall that contained 15 persons. He says at the time of reaching the small boat the metallic lifeboat was found to be in a sinking condition, having been stove in while being launched. But two persons could be rescued from the sinking boat. The rest perished. The yawl, on being cut adrift from the wreck, was run before the other and owing to her overloaded condition, was constantly filling with water, the seas endangering her at every minute so that on reaching the bars forming outside of Grand Marais, she was finally engulfed. The small boat was completely upside down. Stewart, after a struggle of two hours in the water, finally succeeded in reaching land in an exhausted condition between Grand Marais and life-saving station No. 12.

He was picked up at life-saving station No. 12 and taken to Sault Ste. Marie. According to the steward's report, the people were on board the ill-fated craft 21 of which were the crew and six passengers.
Nine Were Drowned.
The schooner City of Toledo, lumber laden from Manistee to Chicago, went ashore 14 miles north Manistee turned over and all on board were lost. The following is the list of the dead:
John McMillan, captain, Manistee.
Lizzie McMillan, his daughter.
Billy McCarthy, seaman, Chicago.
Kate Geo. McLaughy, of Grand Haven, aged 27.
John Larsen, aged 36 of Chicago.
Anrus McNeil, seaman, Chicago.
Peter Peterson, seaman, Manistee.
Two Seaman, names unknown.
The schooner was towed out of port carrying about 300,000 feet of green lumber, almost two-thirds of which was on deck. The cautionary signal was flying over the signal station and the wind was recorded from the southwest blowing at the rate of sixteen miles an hour. The tug captain advised the captain of the schooner that as a strong wind was blowing and a heavy sea running outside he considered it prudent for the schooner to remain inside until it calmed down a little. Two schooners, Isabella Sands and Lucia A. Simpson, went out an hour or two before this, and the captain of the Toledo said if they could stand it he guessed he could.

When the tug towed her outside the sea was running so high that the sailors had to hang on to the rigging until she got before the wind. For the next three hours she was seen from the life-saving station making fair progress. The wind remained steady at a blow of about 15 to 16 miles an hour. The sea soon increased to 21 miles. The vessel was seen to head in toward shore and the lookout supposed she was trying to make Frankfort. He lost sight of her before dark when it is supposed she capsized about two miles from shore and drifted to about half a mile from shore where she now lies bottom side up.

The sixth annual A. M. E. conference for Michigan and northern Indiana held a four days' session at Jackson.
Sheriff Welker, of Ionia, has been declared sane, the court refusing to appoint a guardian for him and Deputy Mick turning over the office to his superior.
Peter Wilds, of Grand Haven, supposed to be in his workshop at a little town in Ohio, but has just received a letter from him. The boy is in China.

The state board of health has requested President Harrison to suspend all immigration until after the cholera scare subsides. This action is taken in common with other state boards of health.

An epidemic of hydrophobia threatens Anderson, Ind. Mad dogs are numerous, and during 36 hours over one dozen persons were bitten by animals supposed or known to be rabid. The excitement is something terrible, and the people are practically in a state of siege. One fatal case of the disease has already been chronicled and the terror stricken people are expecting many more. The people are being closely watched in order that the first appearance of hydrophobia may be checked.

HARRISON ACCEPTS.

His Letter Upholds Protection, Reciprocity and the Platform.
President Harrison's letter of acceptance of the nomination tendered him by the Republican national convention held in Minneapolis in June has just been made public. It is addressed to Hon. William McKinley, chairman of the committee of notification appointed by the national convention, and is a formal acceptance of the nomination. The essential features of the letter are as follows: After accepting the nomination and speaking of the last convention, the president says: "I have endeavored without wavering or weariness, so far as the direction of public affairs was committed to me, to carry out the pledges made to the people in 1888. If the policies of the administration are not distinctly and progressively American and Republican policies the fault has not been in the purpose, but in the execution." He speaks in praise of national currency and of the danger of state banks. The recovery by the United States of its appropriate share of the ocean carrying trade is pointed out as a matter of congratulation. The benefits of reciprocity are shown in a review of the results of the treaties with South and Central American nations and with Germany and Austria. The letter says: "The most convincing evidence of the tremendous commercial strength of our positions is found in the fact that Great Britain and Spain have found it necessary to make reciprocal trade agreements with us for their West India colonies and that Germany and Austria have given us important concessions in exchange for the continued free importation of their best sugar." Figures are then introduced which carry out the argument and show a satisfactory result.

In speaking of the tariff law the president has drawn the following deductions from the report of the Senate committee:
"1. The cost of articles entering into the use of those carrying less than $1,000 per annum has decreased up to May, 1892, 3.4 per cent., while in farm products there has been an increase in prices, owing in part to an increased foreign demand and the opening of new markets. In England during the same period the cost of living increased 1.9 per cent. Tested by their power to purchase articles of necessity, the earnings of our working people have never been as great as they are now."
"2. There has been an average advance in the rate of wages of .75 of 1 per cent."
"3. There has been an advance in the price of all farm products of 13.1 per cent and of all cereals $3.50 per cent."

The tin plate and pearl button industries are quoted as being assured successes under the present tariff law and facts and figures are used to support the statements. The international metallic conference is endorsed and homes and elections and a fair counted upon. The foreign policy is said to be independent of politics. A careful discrimination among immigrants is advocated. The condition of the country is spoken of as prosperous.

Molitor Cases go Over.
The Molitor murder cases were called in the circuit court at Alpena. A strong array of legal talent was present on both sides, and it was confidently expected that the case would go on. The prosecution asked to be allowed to add the names of several important witnesses to the list of names which were granted. One of these is Dr. Herman Keifer, of Detroit, who attended Molitor after the shooting and made the postmortem examination. The doctor is in Alaska, where he went several months ago. The defense took advantage of this and alleged that they also had witnesses who were not present for the trial. The court granted the November term, which was granted. A new feature of the case is the arrest of Andrew E. Bahis, of Presque Isle county, charged with the murder of Edward Sullivan. Molitor's secretary, who was shot at the time of the attack on Molitor. It is thought by the prosecution that he was at the head of the conspiracy which resulted in the murder of Molitor and Sullivan. He has been arrested twice previously, but each time was discharged. His bail was placed at $500, which he easily secured. Repke, the man who made the confession over a year ago, is still in jail at Alpena, having been unable to obtain bail. All the others have been released on bail.

Favor Free Canals.
Among the resolutions adopted by the international reciprocity convention at Grand Rapids, N. D., was one favoring the extension and enlargement of existing waterways, and the construction of additional means of water communication from the great lakes to the sea and the commerce passing through said channels, whether natural or artificial, should be free of all tolls. This was the only resolution over which there was any warm discussion. The Canadian delegates, under the St. Lawrence course endorsed, while most of the American delegates favor a ship canal across New York state. The convention decided to hold its next annual meeting at St. Paul.

Building and Loan Associations Wrecked.
Bank Examiner Whitton, of Buffalo, N. Y., reports that the Third ward permanent savings and loan association and the Erie county savings and loan association are insolvent. They are of the "permanence" class, of which there are several in Buffalo.
The Erie county is said to be in the worst condition. It owns its shareholders $107,000, including about $10,000 fictitious profits. The Third ward owes its stockholders $25,000, including about $6,000 of fictitious profits. Both associations, says the examiner, have been doing an entirely illegal business.

An Epidemic of Mad Dogs.
An epidemic of hydrophobia threatens Anderson, Ind. Mad dogs are numerous, and during 36 hours over one dozen persons were bitten by animals supposed or known to be rabid. The excitement is something terrible, and the people are practically in a state of siege. One fatal case of the disease has already been chronicled and the terror stricken people are expecting many more. The people are being closely watched in order that the first appearance of hydrophobia may be checked.

Uncle Sam Will Give us Protection.
Governor Winans has been officially notified by Walter Wyman, surgeon general of the Marine hospital service, that complete inspection of both person and baggage has been established at Sault Ste. Marie, St. Clair, Detroit and Port Huron.
The public debt decreased $2,254,573 during August.
Minister Egan has sailed from Chilly for home.
The sealing schooner Annie Moore lost six men in the Behring sea.
Lizzie Borden, the alleged murderess of her father and stepmother at Fall River, Mass., has been remanded for trial at the November term of court.
Eastern capitalists are negotiating for the purchase of the street railway systems of Bay City. In the event of the change the people are promised a complete electrical system.

Cholera Enters New York in a Hamburg Steamer.
The Rugia, Normanna and Moravia at Quarantine.—A Number of Deaths Reported.—Cholera News.
The cholera scare in New York city and throughout the country received fresh impetus when the steamer Rugia, and Normanna, from Hamburg arrived in New York harbor. There were nine cases on the Rugia, four of which proved fatal. On the Normanna there were five deaths.
Three more deaths occurred on the day of the arrival of the vessels and it was not until then that the passengers were informed of the presence of the dread disease among them. The deaths occurred in both cabin and steerage and there was a panic on both steamers when the matter became known. Both vessels were ordered down the bay and were strictly quarantined.
Further cases are anticipated on the Moravia also, although the two convalescents were reported doing well. The patients on board the Normanna, Rugia and Moravia have been transferred to Swinburne Island. There is hope of keeping the disease in the Lower Bay. However, the worst may be expected as in 1887 there were over 100 deaths on the hospital islands and very few actual cases when the steamer was transferred.
The day following the arrival of the steamers the quarantine officers again went to lower quarantine and on their return it was learned that the cholera had claimed a number of victims on the infected steamers during the day. The startling fact was made public that three deaths had occurred on board of the Normanna, two on the Moravia and one on the Rugia. All the dead were taken to Swinburne Island and cremated. It was also ascertained that six cases of the disease had been sent to Swinburne Island. The cabin passengers of the steamer Normanna were transferred to Hoffman Island. The panic among them is described by eye witnesses as frightful. They cried out against being confined in a pest ship and the ladies on board the vessel were in a state of the greatest terror. Their fears were relieved to a certain extent, however, by their removal to Hoffman Island. The commissioners describe the terror prevailing among the passengers as of a heartrending character.

THE EPIDEMIC IN BERLIN.
The public alarm in Berlin, occasioned by the cholera is fast dying out, owing to the limitation of the disease in an epidemic form to the Hamburg district, the confidence that is felt in the vigilance of the authorities and cool weather and abundant rains. Cases resembling cholera are rare enough, especially in Charlottenburg. The water works in this suburb of Berlin provide only a scanty supply of muddy water. The sanitary conditions of the place are otherwise had. The undoubted cases of Asiatic cholera that have been taken to the Moabite hospital are all traceable to Hamburg. President Harrison's circular is mainly regarded here as justifying more rigorous measures to stop Russian or other emigrants from entering Germany. Henceforth the frontiers will be closed absolutely against Russian emigrants.

THE DREADED SCOURGE

CHOLERA ENTERS NEW YORK IN A HAMBURG STEAMER.

The Rugia, Normanna and Moravia at Quarantine.—A Number of Deaths Reported.—Cholera News.

Three more deaths occurred on the day of the arrival of the vessels and it was not until then that the passengers were informed of the presence of the dread disease among them. The deaths occurred in both cabin and steerage and there was a panic on both steamers when the matter became known. Both vessels were ordered down the bay and were strictly quarantined.
Further cases are anticipated on the Moravia also, although the two convalescents were reported doing well. The patients on board the Normanna, Rugia and Moravia have been transferred to Swinburne Island. There is hope of keeping the disease in the Lower Bay. However, the worst may be expected as in 1887 there were over 100 deaths on the hospital islands and very few actual cases when the steamer was transferred.

The day following the arrival of the steamers the quarantine officers again went to lower quarantine and on their return it was learned that the cholera had claimed a number of victims on the infected steamers during the day. The startling fact was made public that three deaths had occurred on board of the Normanna, two on the Moravia and one on the Rugia. All the dead were taken to Swinburne Island and cremated. It was also ascertained that six cases of the disease had been sent to Swinburne Island. The cabin passengers of the steamer Normanna were transferred to Hoffman Island. The panic among them is described by eye witnesses as frightful. They cried out against being confined in a pest ship and the ladies on board the vessel were in a state of the greatest terror. Their fears were relieved to a certain extent, however, by their removal to Hoffman Island. The commissioners describe the terror prevailing among the passengers as of a heartrending character.

Michigan People on Board.
On the steamer Rugia is Christian Kern, of the Kern Brewing company, of Port Huron. On the Normanna, on which eight cases of cholera are reported, one of which is a first cabin passenger, are Mrs. Henry Howard, John Howard, Miss Jennie Doig, Mrs. S. L. Ballentine, Misses Emma Ballentine, Katie Ballentine, and Bessie Samuels, all prominent Port Huron people.

The Epidemic in Berlin.
The public alarm in Berlin, occasioned by the cholera is fast dying out, owing to the limitation of the disease in an epidemic form to the Hamburg district, the confidence that is felt in the vigilance of the authorities and cool weather and abundant rains. Cases resembling cholera are rare enough, especially in Charlottenburg. The water works in this suburb of Berlin provide only a scanty supply of muddy water. The sanitary conditions of the place are otherwise had. The undoubted cases of Asiatic cholera that have been taken to the Moabite hospital are all traceable to Hamburg. President Harrison's circular is mainly regarded here as justifying more rigorous measures to stop Russian or other emigrants from entering Germany. Henceforth the frontiers will be closed absolutely against Russian emigrants.

Statistics of the Cholera Epidemic in Russia.
The statistics of the cholera epidemic in Russia show that throughout the whole of Russia the past week there were 6,073 new cases of the disease reported and that 2,714 persons died from the pestilence. In St. Petersburg 320 new cases and 31 deaths occurred in one day. These 31 deaths, however, only comprise the mortality which is in the hospital returns. During the last few days the number of unregistered new cases and deaths, which are chiefly confined to the people of the well-to-do class, has increased and especially on the islands in the river Neva.

Canadian Quarantine Inefficient.
The steamer Cremona from Hamburg arrived at Grosse Ile, Quebec, and was placed in quarantine. The Cremona left Hamburg the day after the breaking out of the cholera at that place. There was no disease on the vessel, but her passengers were given baths and their effects and luggage disinfected. There are 335 bales of rags from Hamburg on board the Cremona. These rags were passed for bidding the transportation of such refuse into Canada from infected ports. The greatest alarm prevails in Quebec. It is well understood that the quarantine arrangements are entirely inadequate. Should a vessel arrive with the disease on board the worst must be feared.

Growing in Hamburg.
The ambulances of Hamburg in one day took to the hospitals 325 cholera patients, of whom 197 died, and this is only a fair average. Five hundred and twenty-eight cholera cases and 319 deaths, not previously reported, were registered in the permanence of police office. This makes a total of 5,623 cases and 2,518 deaths.

Uncle Sam Will Give us Protection.

BABCOCK WILL MARRY.
And This He will Fall into a Fair Fate—Use Left by an Eccentric Uncle.
The following dispatch from Waukesha, Wis., may be of interest to those who remember the "str" occasion when the eccentric gentleman spoken of passed away at Ann Arbor some time since:
"Toward the latter part of September James L. Babcock, of Ann Arbor, Mich., will be several hundred thousand dollars richer than he is now. And it will all be brought about by a wedding in which he will be one of the principal figures, the other contracting party being Miss Ella Stanley Butler, of this place.
In 1893 James L. Babcock, a wealthy and eccentric bachelor uncle of Mrs. Babcock, died in Ann Arbor. Mr. Babcock will, after comfortably providing for all his relatives, including Mr. Babcock, made provisions that the residue of his estate, amounting to several hundred thousand dollars, should be held intact for five years. If before the end of five years his nephew, Jas. L. Babcock, had married he was to receive the entire residue, otherwise it was to be divided among all of the heirs including Mr. Babcock.
Nearly every newspaper in the country noticed the strange will, and as a result, Mr. Babcock was the recipient of hundreds of letters from maids willing to share the fortune with him. The bride was born in New Haven, Conn., and a time ago she was Miss Ella. Of her years she has lived in Waukesha with her stepmother. The marriage will take place the latter part of September."

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—E. G. Dan & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "White industry and business were improving daily and prospects were brighter than ever, the cotton situation about the same as to cotton some hesitation. In all other respects business prospects are clearly better than a year ago, and nearly all accounts show actual increase in business. Crop prospects are better, money is in greater demand but ample supply everywhere, and industries are producing more than ever before. Fear that exports may be curtailed by pestilence in Europe, with causes previously strong, has depressed the markets. Wheat has dropped to the lowest point since 1883, and recovered only to a fall of 2c for the week. Corn dropped 6c for the week, but better western reports, a shade, has caused it to fall to 1/2c again. Oats declined 1 1/2c, pork 50c per bushel, lard 3c and hogs 50c per 100 lbs and all 3c lower. The greater part of these changes come from the unnatural condition of markets, for some time held up in spite of extraordinary stocks in sight. Failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven weeks number 148. At the same time the week of last year the figures were 107."
