"CITIZENS" HAVE IT.

The Workingmen's Ticket Completely Knocked Out

FIRST VICTORY FOR YEARS

"Loan for Water Works" Carried With a Rush.

Monday's election was extremely quiet. So quiet indeed that some of our citizens did not realize it was the eventful day until too late to vote. Heretofore the workingmen's ticket has been elected by large majorities but this year the citizens were strictly "in it." They elected every man on the ticket excepting Mr. Booth for assessor, and he was defeated by but three votes. The officers elect are all good men, tried and true, and would be a credit to any village in the United States. They will have opportunities for great achievements the coming year and will doubtless be equal to the occasion. Following is the official count:

ANOTHER MILL

Yerkes Bros Have Purchased Milford's Big Flouring Establishment.

Yerkes Bros. have just purchased the Milford flouring mills of Joseph Wellman. The mill has a capacity of 125 barrels, and they are being run night and day to keep up with their orders. The price paid was $18,000. Last year the mill did a business of $150,000, the out-put being entirely taken care of by Detroit and New York parties. The mill has one of the best water power equipments in the state which alone is valued at $10,000. Yerkes Bros., Wm. H. Don P. and R. C., need no introduction to Northville people, but to our Milford friends we commend them as among our most enterprising and hustling business men. They are gentlemen who will be a credit to Milford both in social and business circles and whom they will be proud to better know. We understand that Don and R. C. will take up their abode at Milford soon after taking possession of the property, April 1st. The same force of employees will be retained by the new firm and the business pushed to its fullest extent. Here's wishing them a great big success.

AROUND ABOUT US

Some Interesting Items from Our Exchanges

Mr and Mrs Henry E. German were happily surprised by a host of their friends coming in Saturday evening March 14th. The reason being their eighteenth anniversary. Among the presents was a beautiful decorated jardiner, presented by Mr. and Mrs G. C. Hueston of Northville—Farmington Enterprise
The Holly Advertiser gives the name of a citizen of that town who has built a dry goods box on a pair of trucks, put his wife and children into it and drawn them out in the country about three miles from that place, where they live as only a family of four could in a small dry goods box. The wagon stands in the road and there are no out buildings near, and this poor woman and children are compelled to live as they may. The man is said to have a good home in Holly and the reason he gives for his strange action is that a woman wears out too many clothes when in town. Those who have visited the place say that words are inadequate to express the conditions, and the people are getting so worked up over the matter that said man will get a coat of tar and feathers before many moons unless he brings his family back to Holly and treats them right. The ladies say that if the men do not take the matter in hand that they will, and that he will get what he justly deserves.

NAME IT!

Cabbagetown to Have a New and More Appropriate Name.

The old name "Cabbagetown," for the north part of the village has not only become an eyesore to residents in that part of the village but is wholly unapplicable to that now pretty part of our town. Various suggestions are offered for a new name, such as Pleasant Valley, 3d ward, Northville, Northtown, etc., etc. Now we suggest that it be called Dubuquertown. We ask the interested readers of the RECORD to hand in votes next week and have that part of Northville christened with a name that will stick to it. Hand in your votes or drop them in the item box in the Post-office and the result will be announced next week.

WE may have various afflictions this year, but one that threatened we are to be spared. It is authoritatively announced that the hoop skirt is not to come.

THE NEGLECTED BONES ON THE FARM AS MANURE.

Dry Bones Raise the Best Crops—Share in Sheep—The Art of Breeding—Horticultural Hints and Household Helps.

The Value of Bones. Why is it that farmers will cultivate poor, barren fields or buy costly fertilizers, and be so regardless of the vast quantities of matter that might be made available as food for their poor starving crops?

Among all the neglected matter on the farm, bones are the most valuable, and for this reason a writer in a recent number of the Ohio Farmer called the attention of farmers to a cheap and handy method of converting them into food for plants.

Now it is but little trouble to have barrels placed conveniently to receive the ashes from the house and tobacco barns, and you will find that it takes but little time to collect all the bones, both large and small, that are lying about the farm.

Eastern hill farms will never return to old time productiveness until again trampled, fed and manured by sheep. Large flocks cannot be kept now, but as fertility of pastures increases the numbers may be increased gradually until a high degree of extensive agriculture results.

Dogs are a great hindrance of easy success, but are they so troublesome and persistent as wolves and foxes in the days of our ancestors? Moreover, is it harder to combat dogs than to take runous prices for beef or dairy product?

But most dog depredations are committed at night, and can be avoided by nightly folding the flock in the old manner practiced by American and Holy Land pioneers.

In reply to the query, "How much do your sheep return?" a practical sheepman said to me: "One hundred per cent in cash from selling wool and lambs, besides doing the pastures good and paying for all they consume."

Homemade Broad Tire Wagons. There are ten or twelve wagons in town having old mowing machine wheels on the running gear.

The mowing machine axle is cut in two in the middle and holes punched in the ends, and bands or clasps placed around a wooden axle-tree in order to make the axle long enough for a wagon body between the wheels. The cogs on the outside of the wheels are cut off with the hammer and cold chisel, so that the rims are smooth. I have cut them from twenty wheels without breaking a rim.

The Art of Breeding. It seems poor economy for farmers to attempt to pose as breeders and establish a herd of thoroughbreds on the simple knowledge of how to feed hogs for market, yet hundreds of men are doing it annually.

A YANKEE TAR'S NERVE.

SAW HIS CHANCE AND IS NOW A CAPTAIN.

With Only Two Men He Brings in an Abandoned Schooner—His Skipper Had Taken Six Sick Men Off the Little Boat.

Sound as a dollar, the schooner Nova, abandoned at sea by her Blue-nose skipper, appeared off Sandy Hook the other morning, commanded by a clever Connecticut navigator and manned by two hardy seamen.

The Redman, with a cargo of granite, was making fine weather of it through a snow-laden gale, about forty miles off Nantucket, when her lookout reported a schooner to the south flying the British ensign, union down.

Mate Lawrie is an observing person, and he noted that the little schooner—she is only ninety-five feet long—seemed to be in almost perfect condition. Her sails were whole, her rigging taut and her spars sound.

As the bark sailed away the mate and his crew of two began work at the pumps of the schooner. They wouldn't work for the very sufficient reason that they were clogged with chips of logwood, with which the schooner was laden.

A gale out of the northeast compelled the mate to heave to under head sail, as he feared to risk proceeding with only two men to help him.

When the customs inspector boarded the Neva at quarantine, he was surprised to find that she had only two men, and that the name on her manifest was not that of her acting skipper.

The Neva is from Black River, Jamaica. She is only one year and a half old, and is rated by the American Lloyd's as a B-class vessel, good for ten years' service.

Stranger—I cannot understand why the hotel keeper objects so much to my taking a sea bath. To-day he has actually locked up all the towels.

COURTS-MARTIAL.

The Terror They Inspire Ensures Fast Locked Months.

Apropos of recent courts-martial which have created a great deal of comment in army and navy circles, says Kate Field's Washington, an officer attached to the latter branch of the service spoke somewhat as follows.

You cannot conceive of the terror in which officers stand toward the court-martial. It is so easy to commit a technical error and bring down upon yourselves the ever-ready wrath of this grim institution.

A trifle more than a year ago the officer, not then at sea, in speaking to the newspaper friend of the cruiser Iroquois, remarked upon the worn and damaged condition of the vessel's boilers.

Some critics will say that, in preventing the journalist from publishing the story, the naval officer was guilty of an action almost criminal, inasmuch as the unsafe boilers exposed the lives of the men employed aboard the Iroquois, but self-preservation is strong, and in the service it is best to hold the tongue until the government requests its release.

"FIVE MILLIARDS."

A Reply of the Iron Chancellor to Jules Favre at Versailles.

A new story about Bismarck—the great Bismarck we used to know—is something of a rarity. This according to the New York Times, has never appeared in type before.

It was at one of these that Bismarck, pressed bluntly to name the minimum war indemnity which the new German empire would consent to take, blurted out those tremendous words, "cinq milliards."

Why, sir, if a man miraculously preserved against our common mortality had been born on the very first day of our Christian era, and had ever since gone on night and day putting franc pieces one by one on a pile he would not even by this time have got such a mass together as you demand.

THE MISADVENTURES OF JOHN NICHOLSON.

BY ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

CHAPTER VI.—CONTINUED.

He grasped his forehead, and staring on one spot of gravel, pieced together what he knew and what he suspected.

"Let me think—let me think," he said aloud, impatiently, even pleadingly, as if to some merciless interrupter.

It was plain he must stay no longer where he was, for here was a new Judicial Error in the very making.

And just then he spied a stain about a band's breadth on his trouser-leg, and reached his finger down to touch it.

He cleaned his finger in the snow, returned into the house, drew near with hushed footsteps to the dining-room door, and shut and locked it.

The portmanteau, being of occidental build, was no feather-weight; it had distressed the powerful Alan; and as for John, he was crushed under its bulk.

But there was to be no remission of the strokes of fate. As he thus sat, taking breath in the shadow of the wall and hopped about by sparrows,

He saw himself obliged to one of two distasteful and perilous alternatives; either to shut the door out together and set his portmanteau out upon the wayside, a wonder to all beholders;

the least desperate, his mind inclined; but he must first insure himself that he was unobserved. He peered out and down the long road; it lay dead empty.

Half-way down a gate opened, and a troop of Christmas children sallied forth in the most cheerful humor, followed more soberly by a smiling mother.

CHAPTER VII.

A Tragi-Comedy in a Cab.

In front of Donaldson's hospital, John counted it fortunate to perceive a cab a great way off, and by much shouting and waving of his arm to catch the notice of the driver.

The driver, on the other hand, was pleased to drop again upon so liberal a fare; and as he was a man—the reader must already have perceived—of easy, not to say familiar manners,

The jerry was finally prevailed upon to clamber to his place and drive; with hideous deliberation, to the door of the Lodge there were no signs as yet of any public emotion; only two men stood not far off in talk, and their presence, seen from afar, set John's pulses-buzzing.

But the cabman proved a thorn in the flesh. Nothing would keep him on his perch; he must clamber down comment upon the pebble in the door (which he regarded as an ingenious but unsafe device), help John with the portmanteau, and enlighten matters with a flow of speech, and especially of questions, which I thus condense:

"Well he's an eccentric man—of fair oddity—if I ken the expression.
Great trouble with his tenants, they tell me. I've driven the family for years. I drove a cab at his father's wedding. What'll your name be?—I should ken your face Baigrey—ya say? There were Baigrey's about Gilmerton; ye'll be one of that lot?
Then this'll be a friend's portmanteau, like? Why? Because the name upon it's Nicholson! Oh, if ye're in a hurry, that's another job Waver Brig?
Are ye far away?"

So the friendly toper prated and questioned and kept John's heart in a flutter. But to this also, as to other evils under the sun, there came a period; and the victim of circumstances began at last to rumble toward the railway terminus at Waverly bridge.

At the station his spirits rose again; another stage of his escape was fortunately ended—he began to spy blue water. He called a railway porter, and made him carry the portmanteau to the cloak room; not that he had any notion of delay; flight, instant flight, was his design, no matter whether; but he had determined to dismiss the cabman ere he named, or even chose, his destination, thus possibly balking the Judicial Error of another link. This was his cunning aim, and now, with one foot on the roadway and one still on the coach-step he made haste to put the thing in practice, and plunged his hand into his trousers' pocket.

Oh, yes; this time he was to blame.
He should have remembered, and when he deserted his blood-stained pantalons he should not have deserted them along with his purse.
Make the most of his error, and then compare it with the punishment!
Conceive his new position, for I lack words to picture it. Conceive him condemned to return to that house, from the very thought of which his soul revolted, and once more to expose himself to capture on the very scene of his misdeed. Conceive him linked to the moldy cab and the familiar cabman. John cursed the cabman silently, and then it occurred to him that he must stop the incarceration of his portmanteau. That, at least, he must keep close at hand, and he turned to recall the porter. But his reflections, brief as they had appeared, must have occupied him longer than he supposed, for there was the man already returning with the receipt.

Well, that was settled. He had lost his portmanteau, also, for the sixpence with which he had paid the Murrayfield toll was one that had strayed alone into his waistcoat pocket, and unless he once more successfully achieved the adventure of the house of crime his portmanteau lay in the cloak-room in eternal pawn, for lack of a penny fee. And then he remembered the porter, who stood suggestively attentive, words of gratitude hanging on his lips.

John hunted right and left. He found a coin—prayed God that it was a sovereign—drew it out, beheld a halfpenny, and offered it to the porter.

"The man's jaw dropped.
'It's only a halfpenny!' he said, startled out of railway decency.

"I know that," said John, piteously.
And here the porter recovered the dignity of a man.

"Thank you, sir," said he, and would have returned the base gratitude. But John, too, would none of it, and as they struggled, who must join in but the cabman!

"Hoots, Mr. Baigrey," said he;
"you surely forget what day it is";
"I tell you I have no change!"
cried John.

"Well," said the driver, and what then? I would rather give a man a shilling on a day like this than put him off with a derision like a barbee.
I'm surprised at the like of you, Mr.
Baigrey!"

"My name is not Baigrey," broke out John; in mere childish temper and distress.
"Ye told me it was yours," said the cabman.

"I know I did; and what the devil right had you to ask?" cried the unhappy one.
"Och, very well," said the driver.
"I know my place if you know yours —if you know yours" he repeated, as one who should imply grave doubt, and muttered inarticulate thunders, in which the grand old name of gentleman was taken seemingly in vain.

Oh, to have been able to discharge this monster whom John now perceived, with tardy clear sightedness, to have begun betimes the festivities of Christmas! But far from any such ray of consolation, the least, he stood bare of help and helpers, his portmanteau sequestered in one place, his money deserted in another, and guarded by a corpse; himself, so sedulous of privacy, the cynosure of all men's eyes about the station; and as if these were not enough mis-chances, he was now fallen in ill-blood with the beast to whom his poverty had linked him! In ill-blood, as he reflected dismally, with the witness who perhaps might hang or save him! There was no time to be lost.
He durst not linger any longer in that public spot; and whether he had recourse to dignity or to conclamation, the remedy must be applied at once.
Some happily surviving element of manhood moved him to the former.

"Let us have no more of this," said he, his foot once more upon the step.
"Go back to where we came from."
He had avoided the name of any destination, for there was now quite a little band of railway folk about the cab, and he still kept an eye upon the count of justice, and labored to avoid concentric evidence. But here again the fatal jerry outman-euvered him.

"Back to the Lodge?" cried he, in shrill tones of protest.
"Drive on at once!" roared John, and slammed the door behind him, so that the crazy chariot rocked and juggled.

GENIUS AND GREASE.

The Comparative Earnings of Teachers and Cooks.
A year or two ago there was printed a list of questions concerning domestic service in the United States.
They were prepared by Miss Lucy Salmon, the professor of history at Vassar college. Among other interesting facts gleaned from the answers to those questions which have lately been made public are these: By a comparison made between the wages received by teachers in the public schools of Cambridge and cooks in the neighboring city, Boston, it is found that 56 per cent of the teachers in the former city earn $620 a year. If the very small sum of $385 were deducted for board for one year, this would leave a balance of $935 for clothing, travel, books, lectures, charity, pew rent and the inevitable rainy day.

The Ragman's Cry.
The ragman's prolonged and somewhat doleful cry, which used to be heard more frequently than at present in our streets, has its prototype

The New Bread.

ROYAL unfermented bread, made without yeast, avoiding the decomposition produced in the flour by yeast or other baking powder; peptic, palatable and most healthful; may be eaten warm and fresh without discomfort, which is not true of bread made in any other way.

Can be made only with Royal Baking Powder.

Receipt for Making One Loaf.

ONE quart flour, 1 teaspoonful salt, half a teaspoonful sugar, 2 heaping teaspoonfuls Royal Baking Powder, half medium-sized cold boiled potato, and water. Sift together thoroughly flour, salt, sugar, and baking powder; rub in the potato; add sufficient water to mix smoothly and rapidly into a stiff batter, about as soft as for poundcake; about a pint of water to a quart of flour will be required—more or less according to the brand and quality of the flour used. Do not make a stiff dough, like yeast bread. Pour the batter into a greased pan, 4 1/2 x 8 inches, and 4 inches deep, filling about half full.

The loaf will rise to fill the pan when baked. Bake in very hot oven 45 minutes, placing paper over first 15 minutes baking, to prevent crusting too soon on top. Bake at once. Don't mix with milk.

The Modern Way
Commends itself to the well-formed, to do pleasantly and effectually what was formerly done in the crudest manner, and disagreeably as well. To cleanse the system and break up colds, headaches and fevers without unpleasant after effects, use the delightful liquid laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs.

The man who won't pay his debts would be a common thief if he were not a coward.

The New Bread.
Attention is called to the new method of making bread of superior lightness, fineness and wholesomeness without yeast, a recipe for which is given elsewhere in this paper.
Even the best bread makers will be interested in this new discovery, which will reduce the cost of bread to its lowest point.
Write to the inventor, the Royal Baking Powder Co., 108 Wall St., New York, that company will send in return, free of charge, the most practical and useful cook book containing one thousand recipes for all kinds of cooking, yet published in ten minutes.

Becheerful "A light heart lives long." Don't overeat. Don't starve. Let your moderation be known to all men.

Watch the first signs of a coming cold.
Nine-tenths of all diseases start with a cold.

IRREGULARITY.
Is that what troubles you? Then it's easily and promptly
remedied by Doctor
Pierce's Pleasant
Pellets. They regulate the system perfectly. Take one for a gentle laxative or corrective;
three for a cathartic.

If you suffer from Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, Sick or Bilious Headaches, or any derangement of the liver, stomach, or bowels, try these little Pellets. They bring a permanent cure. Instead of slopping and weakening the system with violence, like the ordinary pills they act in a perfectly easy and natural way. They're the smallest, the easiest to take—and the cheapest, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned. You pay only for the good you get.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

Interesting Notes Gathered by Our Hustling Correspondents.

NOVL

George Whipple has been on the sick list during the past week.

The little babe of Mr. and Mrs. John Schuler was buried on Saturday last.

Alvin Dennis has returned to his home in southern Illinois, with health very much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coats of West Superior, Wis., are with relatives and friends in this vicinity.

As last Saturday evening was rainy, no meeting of the W. N. D. C. was held. The few living near by who were present, adjourned the meeting to Mar. 18 with the program for Mar. 11, carried over to that date.

There are robins, bluebirds, blackbirds and crows around, trying to convince us that spring has arrived, but don't take down your stoves and get out your straw hats, for it is just possible that those feathered bipeds have been "too previous."

The Novi W. B. H. mission society held its annual meeting in the parlor of the Baptist church Thursday afternoon, Mar. 9th. The election of officers resulted in making Mrs. O. M. Whipple president; Mrs. Lee Wooster, vice president. The secretary, Mrs. W. West, and the treasurer, Mrs. A. Harmon, were re-elected. The secretary reported a membership of 20, with an average attendance for the year ending in Mar. 1893, of 12. The treasurer's report showed receipts for the year $27.14; disbursements $26.00 received by the mite boxes, $22.19.

Mr. Vorhes left on Saturday for Florida.

There is a social gathering of friends at the Baptist parsonage this evening. Jud Austin has removed to the house recently vacated by Wm. VanLoten.

The recent heavy thaw rendered some of the road culverts quite unsafe. Wheeler and Utley have received a fresh consignment of rubber boots, and good ones too. Also fresh seeds.

Wm. Rider has received the appointment of caretaker of the Congregational church.

A taker, selling rubber cement, visited the village last week. About 300 words a minute seemed to be his scheduled rate.

Rev. H. F. Shier, chaplain of the Salem Knights of Pythias, will preach a sermon under the auspices of the order on the 19th of this month.

Wm. Geigley left on Monday for Colorado to take a position on a stock farm. Will is a steady fellow and his many friends wish him prosperity.

A party of young people gathered at Mrs. Fry's on Friday evening as a surprise to Fred Rider. The evening was passed in games and dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Lukeshea have sold their farm at Laphem's and removed to South Lyon where Mr. Lukeshea is employed as section boss on the D. L. & N. P. R.

A surprise was given Tuesday evening to Miss Pearl Tweedale, who is visiting her cousin, Dr. Tweedale. About sixty were present and a general good time had.

Owing to the unfavorable weather and bad roads there was only a fair attendance at the social at S. Sober's Thursday. However, the program, "an evening with the poets," was highly appreciated.

Next Sabbath evening, Rev. H. F. Shier, chaplain of the Salem Knights of Pythias, will deliver a sermon to that order in the Congregational church. Other brethren are requested to meet in their hall at 6:30 P. M. and attend in a body.

A large number of our citizens went up to South Lyon Saturday to view the wreck on the D. L. & N. which occurred Friday night, to the fast express, through a wash-out. It was noticed that there were more women than men watching the proceeding, but that they were not from Salem.
