"Vorwärts, Aufwärts!"

That Is the Dutch of the Graduates' Motto, Which Translated

IS ONWARD AND UPWARD.

The Six Sheepskins, Tied With Pink and Blue Ribbons, Were Bestowed.

"And all was beautiful." The day, the night, the decorations, the flowers, the essays and the class, seemed blended together. June 22 appeared to have been made especially beautiful and cool for the occasion. The opera house was filled, though not crowded. The stage was handsomely and elaborately decorated with flowers, and blue and pink bunting, the class colors, while just across the border-curtain was suspended a huge blue and pink banner with the class motto, "Vorwärts, Aufwärts!" worked with evergreen leaves upon it.

The program was carried out as heretofore announced. Rev. P. Ross Parrish invoked the divine blessing and then followed a very neat instrumental duet by Miss Joslin and Mr. Steif.

Miss Mabel Clark delivered the salutatory address in a very pleasing manner, extending a kind and cordial welcome to all. The remarks showed careful preparation and were exceedingly well delivered.

The subject of Miss Thompson's essay was "Uncle Leaves," her remarks referring to the yet unopened pages of the book of life yet before them. The subject was well handled and showed much thought and study.

Then Miss Whipple sang a very sweet solo, Mr. Steif accompanying her on the violin and Miss Joslin on the piano.

Mr. Smith had the peculiar subject, "But," He got a great deal out of it, and plainly showed the difference between the world of today and what it might have been had our great generals and statesmen not wholly discarded the cowardly word. The oration was good.

For her selected recitation Miss Clark recited "Sworn by the Rock of Ages." It was a sweet, sad, sketch and Miss Clark displayed unusual dramatic power in the reading and received a hearty encore for her effort.

And then came music again, Mr. Steif played a very handsome violin solo, accompanied by Miss Joslin on the piano.

The discussion "Is annexation policy conducive to the best interests of the country?" was taken hold of by Mr. Woodman, affirmative and Mr. Horton negative. No decision seemed really to have been made but the arguments used on either side were extremely good.

Miss Thompson's recitation "Jinners" is a very funny piece and in her droll and humorous way she kept the audience in a laugh from start to finish.

Just here Mrs. Long sang a very pretty solo, Miss Yerkes playing the accompaniment.

Next followed Thad J. Knapp's oration, "The Mission of the XIX Century." He traced the important events from its beginning down to the present time, the great Columbian exposition at Chicago. From this he delivered the valedictory. In this last he was at his best. His remarks were not only elegant in character, but exceedingly well delivered. With the two ladies, Mr. Knapp showed his eloquent training of the past year.

In presenting the diplomas, Prof. Bliss did it in a way that was extremely pleasing to the audience as well as the class. His remarks and advice with it, were grand and good.

After some more music by Mr. Steif and Miss Joslin, Rev. J. M. Belding pronounced the benediction and all was over. The class of '93 had been safely launched on the onward and upward course of life's troubled sea.

MRS. HARMON IS DEAD.

She Died Tuesday Night at the Detroit Hospital.

Mrs. John Harmon of this place died Tuesday night at the Detroit hospital from the result of an operation performed Monday to remove a cancer.

Mrs. Harmon was 64 years of age and had suffered ill health for a number of years. Mr. Harmon, it will be remembered, died very suddenly a year ago last February.

The remains were brought here from Detroit yesterday afternoon and the funeral will occur from the home at 10:30 tomorrow. Rev. W. T. Jaquess officiating.

Mrs. Harmon was a highly respected lady and her sudden death is much regretted by her many friends here.

The association will issue library cards for the ensuing six months for the sum of one dollar.

"STANDING ROOM ONLY."

A Large Crowd Out to Hear Tracy McGregor.

Those unwilling to stand, after the pews, and extra chairs which were in the aisles were filled Sunday evening at the Presbyterian church, had to go away from the service. The address by Tracy McGregor, of the McGregor Helping Hand mission, telling the simple story of the rescue work at 55 Cadillac square, touched every heart and held the immense audience at high interest for forty minutes while the graphic recital proceeded.

He described the work, the methods and gave many interesting results from his personal knowledge. He did not come to Northville to beg for the work, but rather upon the invitation of Mr. Belding, his warm friend, who felt that he would like the people of our village to come in personal contact with Mr. McGregor and learn of the interesting and practical christian labor going forward under his direction. Mr. McGregor, his father, established a mission for the masses in Toledo, which is now being carried forward with great success. He came to Detroit and opened a like mission there sinking his entire income in the work and laboring so ardently that his health broke on the wheel. The young son, then in his second college year, was summoned to the death bed of the sainted father and after laying him away in his last resting place, he came to Detroit and took up the work, carrying it on with all the loving zeal that characterized his parent.

Last year 4,000 men made the mission their home; were helped and received good from the personal contact with those engaged in the work. The mission is undenominational and carried on by voluntary offerings.

Mr. McGregor's visit here has been one of pleasure to all who met him. Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Clark tendered him an informal reception at which Mrs. W. G. Lapham and Miss Hattie Yerkes assisted in the entertaining.

The music Sunday evening furnished by Miss Kerby and her brother Bert, a lad of fifteen, was heartily enjoyed. The father who was with them and presided at the organ was totally blind.

A WOMAN and a comparatively intelligent monkey went up in a balloon. The latter made protest. The woman parachuted safely to earth, the monkey was badly hurt, both circumstances, it is only just to remark, being viewed by spectators with much regret.

JAMES GILBERT, the dynamite recently released from an English jail to save him from the mortification of dying there, is reported as "on the road to recovery at a rapid and accelerating gait. Those who had made even a casual study of such cases had prophesied that this would occur."

PEOPLE who seldom or never testify make on the whole much better and more satisfactory witnesses than the officers and policemen who are in the habit of testifying almost daily. It is a fact generally noted by lawyers, that the amateur witnesses is usually much more trustworthy than the professional.

IF THE cholera scare breaks out again this summer, as it possibly may any day, any man may successfully quarantine himself by simply keeping clean and living in clean and wholesome surroundings. But this should not lead the quarantine officers to abate a jot in their endeavors to keep the cholera out.

A CHINESE family finding itself encumbered with a dead baby, threw the body into a pool of mud, much after the manner that civilization employs in disposing of the cat whose face has been cursed. The circumstance is not pleasant reading, but it floods with needed light the theory that the Chinese are desirable neighbors.

CLATS SPRECKELS, chief owner of Hawaii, was at last accounts in a terrible rage because things were not going his way. An explosion which will scatter the disoriented members of Claus over the wide Pacific is greatly to be apprehended. Herr Spreckels has long been the cause of much innocent amusement, and we hope he may be spared.

PROFESSOR PROCTOR, the astronomer, died nearly five years ago, but his grave in Greenwood cemetery still remains unmarked. His grave, in fact, was located by an undertaker who allowed the body to be buried there until other arrangements could be made. And yet when Professor Proctor was alive his name was known through England and America alike.

A PHYSICIAN in a New York town, distressed by the fact that a patient was dying on his hands, took poison so quickly and so well, that which of the twin first reached the shining shore must ever be a mooted question. This, it is to be hoped, will not be regarded as a precedent. A world without doctors is too melancholy a prospect to be calmly contemplated.

A LONG-DISTANCE race near Vienna has been won by a vegetarian, and modern Nihilists are inclined to gloat at the circumstance. There is really nothing in it indicative of the strength-producing qualities of this diet. The competitor who had only to drop on his knees at meal time and nibble grass had an almost unfair advantage over rivals with appetites.

SOME of the Canadian papers are saddened by the inquiry of the Geary Law and disposed to read their Uncle Sam lectures on the subject. It is a sad blow to the Canadian enterprise of smuggling Chinese over the border at $5 a head, and taken in connection with this country's hostile attitude toward seal poaching, may look like an unfriendly act.

ALREADY we are beginning to hear the old cry that there are no young men at the seaside resorts. An ocean may be a pretty good ocean, and yet it will not be attractive to feminine graces, even if they can get daily glimpses of the sea serpent lashing his fantastic tail against the frightened horizon, if no young men are there. Here at last is an anomaly for the political economists—a demand without a supply.

WE agree with the Philadelphia Inquirer that Mohammed Webb should pause in his mad career long enough to apprise the American people which branch of Islamism he proposes to convert them to. Like the Christian religion, Islam has sundry jarring sects, each of which calls the other misbeliever, and denounces its rivals as worse than the Christians. History tends to show that in the last clause of this indictment they all tell the truth. Until Webb can assure us that he has the only sinless article we are excusable for deriding all his efforts.

GREAT IS DENMARK.

LAND OF THE VIKINGS BIG DISPLAY AT CHICAGO.

The Name of Lieft. Erikson Remembered in Fitting Style—Relics of Her Greatest Poet in the Danish Display at the Big Fair.

(World's Fair Letter.)

DANE WILL admit that Columbus is entitled to the credit of the original discovery of America, but he does not go about degrading the great exhibition, whose aim is to honor the intrepid navigator's memory. On the other hand, Denmark is taking a cheerful interest in the celebration. That country was one of the first to accept the invitation to participate in the World's Fair, but late ice in the North Sea delayed the shipment of her exhibits, and when in mid-ocean, the steamer Hecla, bringing them, broke her shaft. The goods did not arrive until after the opening day of the exposition. Part of the framework of the pavilion for the numerous exhibits had been prepared at home and it has not taken long to put it together. In manufacturers' buildings, where the principal exhibit is made, a characteristic pavilion has been constructed. It stands just north of the Swiss section, fronting Columbia Avenue. Directly across this broad aisle is Russia. A broad and high portal in the middle of the facade is the only gateway to the interior. Two other small openings on either side preserve the architectural symmetry, but they are blocked by pieces of sculpture. Above the central arch is the country's coat of arms, surmounted by a flagstaff some eighty feet high. The name "Chicago" occupies a panel on the front equally prominent with that of "Copenhagen."

Denmark doesn't believe in hiding her choice things in a cupboard and requiring a ticket of admission to see them. She has, therefore, made the exterior of her imposing structure furnish walls for the display of exhibits. Every inch of space on the outside walls or in open windows or niches has been utilized to show some painting of historical interest or the beautiful scenery of the country, or a product of sculpture.

As though to prepare the mind for the reasonableness of the claim that Lieft Erikson crossed the Atlantic four centuries before Columbus, a number of pictures are hung on the outer walls illustrating the adventures and hardy character of the vikings. One shows a Danish fleet crossing the North sea in 982, another the landing of one of those expeditions on a foreign coast in 984. The next step in the historical suggestion leads to a corner room in the interior of the pavilion, which is called the Erikson room. Its walls are covered with primitive sketches of what are believed to be the first explorations of the world, and the furniture is reproduced from styles in use in Iceland at the present day. The room is devoted to the memory of the "first discoverer of America."

Denmark may have a commendable admiration for its heroes, but the memory of none touches its heart more tenderly than that of its poet and writer of fairy tales, Hans Christian Andersen. A bronze statue of Andersen occupies one of the front portals, and immediately back of it is a reproduction of the room in which he lived, a greater part of his life and in which he died.

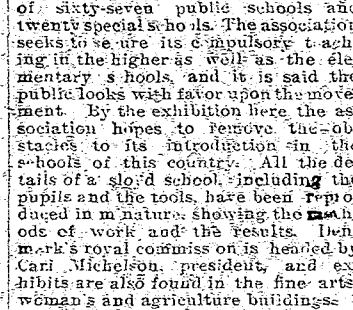

The room is equipped with the identical furniture used by him and hundreds of relics associated with his name. Among the latter is the original manuscript of "The Tale of Mr. Widsa," and portions of other manuscripts; his hat, penknife, handkerchief, cigarette case, spectacles and traveling luggage, and among the articles of furniture are his writing desk, bookcase, center table, sofa, stove and wall pictures. It is of interest to know that arrangements are expected to be made by which a copy of the bronze statue of the author will be left in Chicago. A bronze statue of Thorwaldsen stands in the half-closed opening at the opposite front corner. This was cast in Copenhagen, like that of Andersen, and has been sold to New York city to be set up in Central Park at the close of the exposition. As to the industrial exhibits, Denmark has installed some beautiful and costly and beautiful specimens of gold and silverware. The designs are new and the workmanship exceedingly intricate. Near this display is one of china from the royal works at Copenhagen.

These works were established in 1760, and the products, both of tableware and ornamental pieces, have attained world-wide reputation. One section is devoted to the famous Ispen pottery, unlike anything else seen in the exposition in the delicate coloring of the ware and its clearly defined ornamentation. This is made at Copenhagen, and the principal productions are a collection of Greek and Roman vases. The vases are much lower than those of similar pottery from other countries. One piece is a twelve yard-long, representing Alexander the Great's entrance into Babylon, after Thorwaldsen.

An interesting ceramic is shown in a display called "The Daughters of the Ocean." It is about twelve feet in length, was painted by Loreth Frolin and was made in Bayence by Herman Kshler. The school faddists will find a congenial corner where there is a complete exposition of the Danish Lloyd Association. Manual labor as a discipline in the schools of Denmark was required by law as early as 1814, but it was not sympathetically taught under the name of Lloyd until within the past ten years. The first real Lloyd school was established in Copenhagen in 1855, and the Danish Lloyd Association was founded in that year. Its object was to promote the teaching of Lloyd, and it is now in the curriculum of sixty-seven public schools and twenty special schools. The association seeks to secure its compulsory teaching in the higher as well as the elementary schools, and it is said the public looks with favor upon the movement. By the exhibition here the association hopes to remove the obstacles to its introduction in the schools of this country. All the details of a Lloyd school, including the pupils and the tools, have been reproduced in miniature, showing the methods of work and the results. Denmark's royal commission is headed by Carl Nielsen, president, and exhibits are also found in the fine arts, women's and agriculture buildings.

THE BABY'S PICTURE.

How One Mother Keeps a Baby of the Little One.

Photographing her own baby is one of the occupations of the modern mother. And if she has a knack at the art and has reached a fair degree of skill her work is apt to be a perfect success. She has the subject at a greater advantage than any professional photographer ever had. Her knowledge of the baby's character and moods and her being able to take him at just the most bewitching moment count for more in the portrait than the trained artist's higher powers.

One photographer and mother who is an enthusiast in both capacities keeps a sort of diary of her boy's likenesses. She takes him every day, rain or shine, trying to catch the most characteristic expression that his babyship assumes in the course of the twenty-four hours. Sometimes he is asleep lying on the bias across the bed with his arms stretched out as if endeavoring to take up every inch of space in the world he could. Sometimes he is investigating the nature of his new toy, sometimes laughing in glee at his latest piece of wickedness.

This amateur artist mounts her daily photographs in various ways. One year she took only blue prints, setting them on the grey drawing paper and binding them with a blue ribbon. This year she is using a brown tone in her work and mounting the pictures on plain manilla paper. She says that for next year she shall make all the photographs as light as possible and mount them on fair white cardboard.

A PLEASING EPISODE. The Baroness Burdett-Coutts received, among many beautiful gifts on her recently celebrated seventy-ninth birthday, one that gave her peculiar pleasure. The painter, and other workmen who have been busy weeks busily giving the town residence of the Baroness its spring renovation, had subscribed together for a basket of flowers, which was, with a scroll of the donors' names, placed on her ladyship's breakfast table. Delighted with the men's thoughtfulness, Lady Burdett-Coutts sent for them, and in a grateful little speech expressed her gratification at the gift. The Baroness usually celebrates the anniversary of her marriage day in a very novel and pretty way. At one of her recent celebrations she booked twenty-five stalls at the Savoy theater, and there, wearing a wreath of roses, and seated in the midst of twenty-four friends, she spent the evening.

"All Mad." A singular story is told of a party of gentlemen who arrived at Naples recently on their way home from Australia. One of the party was Mr. Lionel Kignold, the popular English comedian, and it was agreed to visit the great San Carlo Opera House during the day. They did so, and as they could not be present at the performance in the evening, it was suggested that the acoustic properties of the building should be tested by Mr. Kignold singing a song. Finding his friends would take no denial, Mr. Kignold warbled for a pathetic love ballad, "Mrs. Envy Awkins," which was received by his traveling companions with unbounded applause and with great astonishment by the Italian attendants, who, after accepting a generous gratuity to soothe their feelings, unfortunately exclaimed as the party left the building: "Ah, these English! They are all mad!"

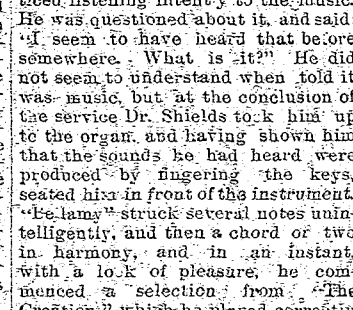

Singular Hallucination. George Smith of Stockton-on-Tees, England, was charged at Holywell with being a wandering lunatic. Smith, who is a skilled workman, and is respectfully connected, had some months ago been employed on special work at Mostyn Ironworks, when he complained that a young woman from this neighborhood had put him under a spell, and had taken out his eyes and put her own in their place. He was then taken in charge by his friends, but afterward went back to Mostyn for the purpose of claiming the return of his eyes. He was ordered to be sent to the asylum at Denbigh.

A MAN WITHOUT A NAME.

strange Affliction Which Has Befallen a Stranger in Melbourne.

The Melbourne Argus states that a young man about thirty years of age called at the police barracks, Russell street, Melbourne, recently, and asked the officer in charge if he could tell him who he was. At first it was thought that the man was a lunatic, but it soon became evident that this statement as to his memory having quite failed him was a genuine one. He was taken into custody, kept in the Melbourne jail, where numerous persons have called in the hope of recognizing him, but so far without success. He states that he does not remember anything before the day he visited the police barracks, and several medical men who have seen him express their belief in his statement, attributing his lack of memory to masked epilepsy. The man being unidentified, in default of his right name is referred to as "Edward Bellamy," the appellation bestowed upon him by the warders and prisoners who have read Bellamy's well known work, "Looking Backward."

While the church service was being proceeded with "Bellamy" was noticed listening intently to the music. He was questioned about it, and said: "I seem to have heard that before somewhere. What is it?" He did not seem to understand when told it was music, but at the conclusion of the service Dr. Shields took him up to the organ, and having shown him that the sounds he had heard were produced by fingering the keys, seated him in front of the instrument. "Bellamy" struck several notes unintelligently, and then a chord of two in harmony, and in an instant, with a look of pleasure, he commenced a selection from "The Creation," which he played correctly and well. He used the stops and showed that he was familiar with the instrument. When the jail organist whistled a bar or two of the hymn, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," "Bellamy" smiled again, and without music or any further assistance, played the hymn through. As soon as he had done so he said: "Something else has come into my mind, and I want you to listen to it and see if it has anything to do with what I have just played." He then played "Awake, My Soul," an old and favorite hymn. The organist had evidently been suggested to him by the other. He played a number of regular airs after the first bars had been whistled.

THE CROWN OF SCOTLAND.

The Story of the Crown of Scotland, Which Relics to Leave Edinburgh.

A once precious diadem, which is now only an historical relic of much interest, is the ancient crown of the Scotch kings, kept in the castle of Edinburgh. It is supposed to have been made by Robert Bruce, and is formed of two circles of gold, the upper and narrower circle being surmounted by a row of crosses and gem-encrusted imitation flowers. The lower ring, the head band proper, is adorned from end to end of the golden band with large precious stones of different kinds, mostly in their rough unpolished state. Above rises a row of arches of gold, which unite and are surmounted with the historic "cross and ball." Even when the Stuarts became kings of England they went to the trouble of going to Scotland to seat themselves for a few moments upon the celebrated "Stone of Scone" and to have King Bruce's diadem pre-acted upon their royal heads. Charles I. declared his intention of removing Scotland's famous relic to London so that such ceremonies could be carried out at home, but the sturdy Scots soon convinced him that such proceedings would be an infringement upon their rights, so the king had to go to Edinburgh as others had done before. The wife of a preacher by the name of Granger once stole the Scotch crown and the other royal insignia, this in 1652 or 1653. At the time of restoration they were transferred to Charles II. They were returned to Edinburgh castle in 1707 and have remained there ever since.

Indignant Father—You should be ashamed of yourself to use such language to your sister.

Tommy—We were only playing papa and mamma, and she said she needed money for a new hat, so I talked to her like you do to mamma when she asks you for money.—Texas Sittings.

Value of Contrast. Little Girl—When your feet is cold you must put 'em in cold, awful cold water—mamma says so.

Little Boy—Wot good does that do? Little Girl—I don't know, but I s'pects it makes us think our feet wasn't so cold as we thought they was.

Modern Architecture. Visitor—What is that heavy, gloomy-looking building over there? Resident—That is a theater and pleasure resort.

Visitor—And what is the graceful, airy, Gothic structure to the right? Resident—That is the jail.—Chicago Record.

A Noble London Charity. Up to the end of last year the trustees of the Peabody donation fund have provided for the laboring poor of London 11,273 rooms, with washhouses and laundries, occupied by 20,114 persons.

What Hurt. "I don't enjoy the roasting the critics gave me, of course," said the aspiring tragedian, looking sadly at a portrait of himself in an illustrated paper, "but this is the unkindest cut of all!"

PURELY PERSONAL.

A List of Those Who Come and Those Who Go.

E. L. Phipps spent Sunday at his home, Milford.

W. C. Hakes was a guest of his son Will at Detroit Sunday.

Misses Edith and Minnie Reed came home from the Normal Monday.

Clarence Clark is home from the U. of M. for his summer vacation.

W. E. Palmer, with the Globe Co., spent Saturday with Ypsilanti friends.

Roy Barrett and Hoyt Woodman were guests of Milford friends Sunday.

Fred Wilkinson has been in Detroit for the past week visiting relatives.

Ar. Higgins has returned from an extended visit among Jackson friends.

Dr. J. M. Burgess and son Claude left Sunday night for a week at the world's fair.

A number of Northville youngsters are now in camp along the banks of Walhond Lake.

Prof. M. L. Smith of South Lyon was the guest of Prof. D. C. Bliss several days last week.

Fred and Lee Buchanan went to Detroit Saturday to spend a few days with friends and see Firebaugh.

Mr. Gillett, who has been visiting his daughters here returned to Cleveland, Tenn., last week.

Miss Anna Smith is vacationizing with friends in Ohio. She will visit the world's fair before returning home.

Mrs. S. E. Carrington and son Tommy and Miss Jennie Barley left Sunday night for the world's fair, Racine, Wis., and other points.

Mr. and Mrs. Neal expect to leave next Wednesday for a trip up the lakes and probably on to Chicago, with the Mich. Press association, to be absent a week or so.

At the meeting of the official board on Monday night, Rev. P. Ross Parrish was granted a leave of absence. He has decided to visit his mother in Ohio and with little Eva left Wednesday afternoon. Rev. S. P. Warner will fill the pulpit next Sabbath.

Ed. Lapham is again at his post in J. S. Lapham & Co's. bank after a two week's visit at the Chicago exposition. Ed. claims to have paid all his board bills at the Windy city and to have had several dollars left when he got back.

Miss Ellen F. Thompson of Palo Alto California is the guest of Dr. J. M. Swift and family for a month or so. Miss Thompson as preceptress and Editor Osband of Ypsilanti as principal opened the Northville union school in 1893 and she held that position here for a number of years. Miss Thompson is now connected with the great Stanford University at Palo Alto.

Rev. W. T. Jaquess of Detroit was in town this week looking for a boarding place for his wife and child for the summer and made the necessary arrangements at Mr. J. D. Covert's. City air not agreeing with the health of the child and the pleasant surroundings of Northville led to the change. Mr. Jaquess will remain in the village a part of each week, so we understand.

Mrs. John Pinkerton is home again. L. G. N. Randolph of Detroit was in town yesterday.

Bert Bradner of Plymouth is clerking in the State Savings bank.

Herman Hurd of Clyde, Ohio, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Fred Wager.

Mrs. A. W. Reed and Charlie Riggs visited Mrs. Hyatt at Rose Center this week.

Charlie and Exene Reed gave a lawn party to twenty of their young school-mates yesterday.

Mrs. Helen Cable of Plymouth visited her aunt, Mrs. E. Shepherd, Tuesday.

Chas. Filkins, wife and son drove to Ypsilanti Saturday to visit relatives. Mrs. Filkins will remain a week.

C. A. Eyaft and family left for Toledo, Ohio, Tuesday, where they intend making it their future home.

B. A. Wheeler and family, and Chas. Dubuar and family go to Walhond Lake this week for their summer outing.

Miss Jessie Lowden started Tuesday for Naperville, Ill., where she will spend the summer with her sister, Mrs. W. H. Nasau.

Mrs. J. Beal is at Ypsilanti this week attending commencement at the Normal where her daughter, Annie graduates. Nellie Thompson also graduates in the same class.

Luther Lapham offered a visit from his grandson, C. E. Lapham of Chicago, Sunday. Mr. Lapham was one of the honored guests at the recent U. of M. debating stuff.

W. J. Kinney and family left for Kalamazoo last week where they will make their future home. The best wishes of many Northville friends accompany them.

On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Lapham informally entertained in behalf of Mrs. Dottie of Windsor, who for several days was their guest. The following were present: J. A. Dubuar and wife, Chas. Booth and wife, Rev. J. M. Belding, Dr. Blanchard, H. Teichner, Mrs. Long and son, Ed. Lapham and sister, Mrs. Stont, Miss Mattie Yerkes, Miss Ethel Dubuar. Tees and cake, music and a pleasant time in general, composed the program.

his friends.

At the close of school Miss Covert's

The "Baggage Check" comedy company, which was killed for here

some time last month and which failed to start out from Detroit, has recently

G. Clark says he is very much pleased with Montana and his work in general.

He has moved to Helena where his future headquarters and home will be

Clark and Myra will be there in July.

The letter closed with kind regards to all Northville people, and best wishes for their continued prosperity.

Last winter, at one of the Detroit meetings, Mr. McGrager, who spoke at the Presbyterian church here Sunday evening, having expressed a great desire to secure a stereopticon for gospel work, Miss Battie Yerkes, now of this place, who happened to be present, raised $15 among her friends. The collection Sunday evening was just $25, while at the close of the service other friends contributed $7 more making

$47 in all. Miss Yerkes desires to make it an even $50.

Northville people generally are disgusted with the Free Press' report of the commencement exercises held here last week. The salutarian,

Miss Mabel Clark, for some unaccountable reason, was wholly ignored in the computations while her work was the peer of any one of the class. And then again no one knows why Roy T.

Smith's name was left out when his essay was certainly the equal of others who were mentioned. And again the correspondent fails to mention, in connection with others, the very pretty solo by Miss Whipple, or the fine instrumental duets by Miss Joslin and Mr. Steif.

Some months ago two prizes of three and two dollars were offered in the eighth grade of the Northville school for the best composition work.

Prof. Smith and other disinterested parties looked the work over last

Thursday and decided that Eliza

Welch and Stella Fuller were entitled to the prizes. They were all good, the fifteen, and it was with much difficulty that the judges reached the conclusion. and Prof. Smith, principal of the South Lyon school, said the work reflected great credit upon the pupils.

The names of the participants were all with-held during the examination and decision, therefore the award was fairly and honestly made.

MICHIGAN NEWS ITEMS.

High Officials Charged With Misusing the Order's Funds.—No Militia Encampment at the World's Fair.

The row in the ranks of the order of the L. O. T. M. in Michigan has begun to assume a serious phase. Mary Mahara, a member of Saginaw hive, and the great lady sentinel of the great hive, began a sensational suit against Leola L. Becker, great commander; Ada L. Johnson, great record keeper, and Nettie Cathcart, great finance keeper, for misusing the endowment funds of the order.

The plaintiffs allege that from the published official records it appears that between June 30, 1891, and Aug. 1, 1892, there was received by the defendants $4,153.33 in excess of the amount accounted for by them; that the balance in the general fund at the end of February, 1893, was $1,141.62, but that the amount placed to the credit of the general fund on the first of March was only $141.62; that on the 25th of February, 1893, the balance placed to the credit of the endowment fund of the order was $3,979.90; that the amount of such balance ought to have been $341.55 more; and that those are only a few of many like cases.

It is charged upon the information that the defendants have combined with other and unknown persons and have wrongfully abstracted from funds of the great hive and applied to unauthorized purposes and to their own use large sums of money. Plaintiffs ask that defendants may be required to account to said great hive for moneys received by them belonging to the great hive since June 30, 1891, and that they be decreed to return to the proper funds the moneys found to have been wrongfully taken therefrom. The declaration alleges that the suit is commenced in behalf of all members of the great hive not included as defendants.

SOLDIER BOYS CAN'T GO.

Attorney-General Ellis Sets Down Hard on the Plan to Send Troops to the Fair.

Attorney-General Ellis has sent Gov. Rich the written opinion asked for by him as to whether, under the statutes, the military funds can be made available for paying the expenses of the proposed Chicago encampment, and as to such other questions relating to such encampment as he deemed worthy of consideration. The opinion is of considerable length. The attorney-general says:

"The paying out of money to pay the expenses or per diem of the state militia, to hold a camp on the grounds of the Columbian Exposition at Chicago, would not only amount to paying out money which was not appropriated by law, but would be the expending of money for one purpose which was expressly appropriated to be expended for another and different purpose."

The legislature had ample power to make the necessary change in the law to legalize the Chicago encampment, but for reasons best known to itself, failed to do so. Appreciating the fact that it is almost the unanimous wish of the troops to go to Chicago, and that it would be a source of pride to the state, the attorney-general concludes by saying that he would gladly suggest some legal way by which the military fund might be used for the purpose desired, but in the light of the plain provisions of the constitution and the statutes of the state, he regrets that he is unable to do so.

A New Michigan Town.

The Lupton Land company is the name of an extensive corporation which is engaged in establishing a village in Ogemaw county. The location has been secured and the town has already been platted. It will be known as "Lupton," after the chief promoter of the scheme, and will be essentially a manufacturing place. The site is 22 miles from West Branch and 35 miles from East Tawas. It is but a short distance from the main line of the Michigan Central and will be connected with it by a branch road. The Lupton Land company is composed of prominent capitalists of this and other states and is the same company which laid out Harvey, Ind.

A Fast Trotting Colt.

Mason Network, the handsome 2-year-old colt owned by C. B. Brothers, of Mason, trotted a mile at the driving park at Lansing in 2:35, the last quarter being made at a 2:24 clip. This remarkable performance is the talk of the numerous horsemen at the park, who claim that the Mason horse is the most promising 2-year-old on the turf.

Dying of Hydrophobia.

In April last Bertha Burnham, of Deerfield, who has just graduated from the high school there with the highest standing of any in her class, was bitten by a dog. She exhibited signs of hydrophobia and has continued to sink ever since. Three physicians are attending her, but claim she cannot recover. The dog has disappeared.

Drank Corrosive Sublimite.

While the family of Joseph VanZant was moving into a new home at Deerfield a 3-year-old daughter drank a bottle in the woodshed and drank of its contents. It contained corrosive sublimate, and although everything possible was done to save her she died in a few hours in great agony.

A HARD BLOW AT SILVER.

THE EAST INDIA GOVERNMENT STOPS FREE COINAGE.

Financial and Political Circles Discuss the Situation—Bankers' and Miners' Opinions—Other News.

London cable: In the house of lords the earl of Kimberley, lord president of the council and secretary of state for India, stated that the Indian council had passed an act for the immediate closing of the Indian mints to the free coinage of silver. He further said that it is intended to introduce the gold standard in India, but that gold in the meantime will not be made the sole legal tender in Indian houses of coinage. Mr. Gladstone gave information similar to that given in the house of lords by the earl of Kimberley. He added that gold would not be made a legal tender at present. Regarding the silver now on the way to India Mr. Gladstone said that the government of India had been instructed that it was open to it to admit this silver to the mints if it thought fit.

How it Affects American Silver.

New York special: The cessation of the free coinage of silver by the government of India has been a fruitful source of conversation among financiers. A prominent banker, who is also one of the heaviest silver bullion dealers on Wall street, said to a financial editor in the afternoon: "That is a crushing blow to silver. The effect will be paralyzing upon the whole silver market, and I think the settlement of the silver question in this country is now at hand. The basis of currency in India is silver. The mints have been open for free coinage and such immense quantities of silver have been presented by private parties and the circulation of silver has become so great that the price of the Indian rupee has been declining for months."

Another large bullion shipper said: "I don't see how the action of the Indian government in closing the mints will much diminish the demand for silver in India. India is a creditor country and I do not see how her balance of trade is to be settled save in the old way, by imports of silver."

Washington special: The President, Secretary Carlisle and the financial officers of the government generally received their authentic news of the startling action of the government of India in suspending silver coinage through the press dispatches. 3 THREE OPPORTUNITIES! 3

Yes, the only way to settle it was to raise the lever and put on full steam and "let 'er go!" and on Saturday, July 1st!

Everything will be open wide at the "Busy Big Store." 'Sam, the Shoeist,' says it is to be SHOE DAY, and points out a number of Stunning Bargains in that department for Saturday; but "Slim Pete as we have told you before has rather a jealous disposition, and he says it is to be CLOTHING DAY, and says he can show bigger bargains in that line than any man in Wayne County. Now, 'Will, the DRY GOODS Man,' always has his business eye open, and during the above conversation looks smilingly on, and then slyly winks in such a significant manner that we all knew that Saturday would also be Dry Goods Day, and when he makes bargains in that line it always counts, and you may depend upon it. So you see the only way to keep peace in the family was to give Specials in each department, and on Saturday it will pay you to visit the Busy Big Store and inspect the bargains that await you. Watch Goods and prices displayed in front of store.

Merit Wins.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. A. M. Randolph Druggist.
