A GRAND SUCCESS.

Northville's Well Known Gold Cure Institute.

HAS CURED 281 PATIENTS

The Relapses Are Less than Four Per Cent.

Every reformer and reform has had no end of obstacles and objections. Every work of public benefit has to meet with more or less difficulty and obstruction. You will always find croakers. They croaked at Noah for a hundred years while he was building the ark; they called the son of God a wine bibber and glutton; they stoned the prophets; derided the confessors and put to death the martyrs. The blood is still extant. There may always be found men who have a mean word and a slur for every virtuous cause, good man and pure woman. Therefore it is not to be wondered at that we find men in our midst who seek to deride the church and slur all means used to further morals and religion. This is expected for depravity manifests itself in many a man just on this line. We all know these men. But the Record does not desire to deliver a homily on morals, but rather call the reader's attention to one of the most worthy causes of moral reform which is abroad today, viz., the Gold Cure for inebriates. It is for each man to decide for himself the question whether or not the drink habit is a disease and contracted per force of habit or by inheritance; whether it is a thing to be stopped by the exercise of the will or only eradicated by medical treatment. Whether a disease or habit we know its fatal power, its direful effects and its awful curse and surely are but too glad to hail the discovery of a cure and the establishment of an institution under proper superintended medical surveillance that not only vouchsafes to root up this destructive weed but effects a radical healing. The Keeley Cure from its first inception was well coined the world through. It was the hammer that shattered the chains binding men, soul and body in a servitude more fearful than any condition known in southern slavery. Other effectual Gold cures have since gained prominence and today are proving a boon and of inestimable value to those who through them are enabled to regain their manhood and rectitude, lost through the resistless appetite for liquor.

The Yarnall institution was established here some fifteen months ago. There were at first some doubts as to the location but these doubts have since vanished and there has sprung up along with the conviction that the treatment is thoroughly effectual, the persuasion that Northville with its quiet surroundings and few avenues of temptation offers a better location for such a sanitarium than the larger village or city. The success of the Yarnall Cure fully demonstrates this, as well as thoroughly commends its system and principles to such as are personally or indirectly interested. The city location of the Yarnall is certainly fine; the beautiful shade trees well kept lawn, with the handsome and commodious building, heated thoroughly in winter, and well lighted by electric lights, offers itself an attraction to our people.

The Record has much to say in praise of Dr. W. H. Yarnall, the medical director, and Dr. T. S. Ball his assistant. Both of these gentlemen are cultured and affable in deportment, making by their considerate and courteous manner warm and lasting friends of those who as patients come under their care. During the fifteen months, the cure has been in active operation here upwards of two hundred and eighty men have been treated, of whom, only eleven have relapsed into their former ways, making about ninety-six per cent of the cures effectual. Several of Dr. Yarnall's patients had tried the Keeley cure, with little effect. We do not mention this to disparage or derogate the Keeley Cure, but it certainly emphasizes the claims of the Yarnall treatment. There have been twenty-two local cases, some of them were deemed hopeless but so far there has not been a single relapse. Northville has perhaps less men addicted to drink than any other village of its size in America, but at the same time the above shows she has sent, in proportion to her population, seven times more patients to this gold cure than any other village or city in the United States. This proves that the people of this village, the birth-place of the Yarnall Gold Cure have every confidence in its success because of the unquestionable proof before them every day.

The interest shown by the ladies of our village in the healing of these liquor-cursed men, is certainly worthy of commendation. They organized themselves into an Auxiliary club and by personal gifts, supplemented by what funds they raised through entertainments, have secured so far $225 and sent three men through the cure. Of the club, Miss Belle Covert is president; Mrs. T. G. Richardson, vice-president; Mrs. L. I. Brooks, treas.; Miss Emma Alexander, sec'y. These ladies are among Northville's most highly respected and best society ladies. No other gold cure institution in the country can therefore boast of the high moral and support as can the Yarnall.

This article is no paid advertisement, dictated or designed by any member of the Yarnall Cure company, but a pure matter of what we believed to be, interesting reading, just as we have seen, known and followed the workings and success of the institution.

One of the cured patients in speaking of the Gold Cure said, "I am a great admirer of Dr. Yarnall and his treatment. I inherited a natural appetite for liquor, and though no one ever saw me intoxicated, I saw what it might lead to. It has been almost a year since I took the treatment and I feel better than ever before. The beauty of the Yarnall treatment is it does not effect the eyes or brain."

Another said, "It has been over a year since I was cured and you know what I used to be. It has made a man of me and I would rather be a man than a drunken loafer."

Another patient who is now at this institution and who had taken the Keeley cure told us that he thought the Yarnall treatment of two weeks had done him more good than the whole four weeks of the other. He said, "I had not fully lost all desire for liquor at my other treatment but I thought I could stand it off alright. A drink of cider on a hot harvest day last summer fetched me back where I was and from that time till I commenced the Yarnall treatment here, three weeks ago, I had been crazy for drink. I feel entirely cured now and have no longer any desire whatever for drink." The "shot" bell rang just then and the patient went on into the institute to get in line, and the writer wandered on down town more favorably than ever impressed with the good work of Northville's gold cure.

While the editor was at Monroe Monday he made some careful inquiry relative to numerous patients from that city whom had taken treatment at the Yarnall. Two had gone back to their cups, but the people there say if only one had been saved it would have been a success. There were a dozen or fifteen from that city, and today they are sober, industrious and honored citizens through the effects of this treatment. We used to live in Monroe; we know them all and know just what we are talking about. The grand result of the cure upon all but these two we gained from conversation with some of the best known men of that city including the publishers of the city papers, an ex-mayor, prominent business men and others.

The editor of this paper has no hesitancy in publishing this article. The facts are all gained by personal observation and talks with its patrons. This is not a patent medicine advertisement, but a well known remedy, tried and true, and as such we take pleasure in recommending it.

As the success of this institution spreads we may look for an increase of patients. The matter is worthy of our best sympathies and assistance; it is putting our purest religion and humanity into a crystallization—practicing it. There are some ten patients at the Cure at present. We wish Dr. Yarnall and his efficient helper, Dr. Ball, the largest success. It is a public benefit and a work of the highest humanitarianism.

ROLLIN H. PURDY.

A PLUCKY LADY.

She Rescues Their Horse from a Poisonous Snake.

Mrs. W. E. Ambler is voted one of the most plucky ladies in the village. When she went to the stable yesterday morning to see why their horse was making such a fuss, she found that a three year old rattle snake, which had evidently been thrown in the manger with the hay, had stung the animal badly about the nose and it presented a terribly swollen appearance. The snake was coiled for another spring at the horse which had backed the full length of the halter, and notwithstanding its hissing noise and its threatening attitude, Mrs. Ambler loosened the halter and freed the poor brute before it could make another attack. She then summoned help and the snake was dispatched.

Under the circumstances most women would either have fainted away or screamed for help and left the horse to its further peril. The horse's head is badly swollen this morning, but with a gallon of whiskey internally and three quarts of blue clay externally and other good care it is thought the animal will pull through alright.

DENIAL of the report that Nellie Grant Sartoris is going on the stage reached this country ahead of the report itself. Good news does occasionally outstep ill; despite a popular belief to the contrary.

The rumor that the kaiser will soon visit America has shaken off its lethargy and is again on active duty. It is a good, hard-working rumor, and no just man can begrudge it the rest it occasionally takes.

ROBERT E. ROOSEVELT has cast off the yoke of the French cook and in future will take his bill of fare in English. He believes in American cooks for American stomachs, and an honest roast of beef and mince pie before a skinny file de boeuf and weakened caelests.

THE Behring sea seals still continue to be captured, and the Behring sea arbitration commissioners still continue to be eloquent. This distant Paris conference cannot restrain the seal poachers, any more than flattery can soothe the dull, cold ear of death.

A SOLDIER at Benicia, Cal., robbed a jewelry store, his motive being to get out of a five years' term of service for Uncle Sam. He was quite successful, but he has entered upon an eight years' term of service for the state, and wherein he has bettered himself is a problem for the disconcerted.

PEOPLE who get so nervous that they "almost fly" if they keep on may actually do so at no distant date. An exhibit of designs for flying machines is soon to be made at the world's fair, and also in Boston. There are indications that the greatest mechanical problem of the ages is about to be solved.

AN enterprising young man has a heart that bleeds quite thrifflily. As evidence of its location, he possesses letters written by a young woman, and disconsolately sets upon them the price of $14,000. The young woman offers $15. In an affair so delicately sentimental a trifling discrepancy such as this ought not to be any bar to speedy agreement.

IT is better to sell to the poor at low rates than to make them gifts. This principle is understood by Nathan Strauss, a New York city philanthropist. Last winter he sold coal at retail to the poor at wholesale rates. This summer he is furnishing pure milk at cost price, two cents a pint or four cents a quart. Women and children get milk at the uniform price of one cent a glass.

COMMISSIONER TURNBULL of Florida, having notified a Cuban guard, who notified the authorities, and the national commission having instructed a clerk to notify Director General Davis that the Agricultural building of the world's fair is in danger of catching fire from a defective fuse, it is to be hoped that the matter will soon be attended to. It would be a pity to have the world's fair burn down for want of proper official notification.

PROFESSOR FREDERICK WIDOWS, who died in Washington lately is credited with bringing out in this country latti and Ole Bull, but became known to more people as the manipulator of the chimes at the Centennial exhibition at Philadelphia. Nobody who attended that great show has forgotten the chimes or the government fog-horn which split the air and nearly cracked the earth in the vicinity of the Kansas state building.

THE most unreasonable and cruel of the sensational cholera dispatches are those which report that the disease is epidemic along the great thoroughfares of travel on the Eastern continent. It has been described as general in the Mediterranean cities and through the Red sea line of intercommunication. A dispatch from Consul Ewing contradicts all these reports. It says that Egypt and all the ports with which it communicates, are absolutely free, not only from cholera, but from all epidemic diseases. There is no cause for a cholera scare this year.

THE American system of education, especially in the juvenile departments, is undoubtedly superior to that prevalent in England. A British commission is about to visit the United States to note the methods of education which prevail in our public schools. There ought to be more such investigation among ourselves. Those who have examined schools in different American cities and that some are much better than others, and that, too, in points where excellence is possible to all. The school journals ought to be read by teachers more than they are.

THE progressive king of Siam has been trying to induce his people to imitate the ways of civilized nations. His reward is seen in the attempt of a great civilized nation to bully him while another great nation looks on and does not offer a rebuke.

THE wave of financial stringency seems to have been correctly forecast by a number of observant bank cashiers. Some of them are viewing it from Canada now with comparative indifference. A prophet in his own country is apt to be out of luck.

TRI-COLOR IN SIAM.

FRANCE PLAYING THE PART OF AN AGGRESSOR.

No More Rights in the Country Than Have the English or Dutch in South Africa—Nineteenth Century Civilization.

THE NEWS FROM Siam in fact states that that country is certain to lose a large part of its territory. The king of Siam has long included in his possession the great region known as Laos, which extends east of the Mekong river to the mountains between Laos and Annam. When Annam came into the possession of the French, the conquering nation did not claim that any part of the country west of the mountains was tributary to them. For years, however, there has been a growing desire among the French to extend their territorial possessions west of the mountains into the region which every one has acknowledged, and all the maps have represented to be a part of Siam.

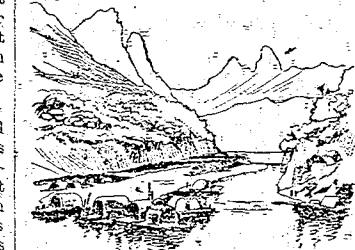

The Mekong river is the largest river in the Indo-Chinese peninsula. The French have long coveted its delta, one of the largest in the world. France has made up her mind to control the upper part of the great river, as well as its delta, and this accounts for the recent movement of troops up the river. They met the Siamese force at the large island of Khong and put them to rout. Today several thousand French troops occupy this island and the region around it, and have taken their stand upon territory claimed by Siam, whose right there has never before been disputed.

It is simply a case of might makes right. There is a good deal of excitement at Bangkok, the capital of Siam, and it is proposed to send an army of 3,000 men or more to the Mekong in order to check the French advance. It is probable, however, that the proposal to assume a very aggressive attitude against France will end in talk. Siam is not in a position to carry on a powerful nation. If the king should push an army east to the Mekong, France would not only defend her position on that river, but would also send her men of war to the Siam river, and Bangkok itself would probably fall an easy prey to the French army. Bangkok is a beautiful city, as great oriental centers of population, but it is not prepared to withstand an attack from the war ships of France. Its forts are antiquated, and could easily be knocked to pieces. The king's army is no formidable obstacle in the way of a European power.

The probability is that the king will try to compromise with France, saving as much of his territory as possible. Siam's position is not enviable, for the nation is squeezed in between the interest of England on the west and France on the east. It was long ago predicted that in time Siam would be crushed by the pressure of the two European powers will bring to bear on its eastern and western frontiers.

It is not likely that the French will be able to utilize the Mekong river, except in its lower course, for commercial purposes. Our picture shows a characteristic stretch of the river. Within the Siamese domain the river is obstructed by many rapids and cataraacts. Some of these can be so far improved as to render navigation possible, but it is not likely that the Mekong great as it is, will ever be a noble medium for the spread of commerce and civilization as the Irrawaddy is in Burma.

The other nations will look on and let France and Siam settle their trouble. Siam is the under dog. Laos belongs to the king, if he has rights in any part of Siam. But history will repeat itself, and a very large slice, if not the entire eastern portion of the king's territory, will soon raise the tri-color. Then France will be satisfied for a time, though there is no telling when further land hunger will result in relieving the king of Siam from responsibility for another large section of the country he now rules.

Mark Twain's Literary Method. Mark displayed a peculiarity when at work that was very detrimental to the integrity of his property. In case he wished to write an item or paragraph out of a paper and could not at once lay his hand upon his scissors he would cut out the required matter with his knife, at the same time slashing into the baize covering of the table. His end of the cover was so mutilated that little was left of the original cloth. In its place appeared what might have passed for a representation of the polar star spiritedly darting forth a thousand rays. Some years ago, when at Mark's house in Hartford, writes Dan de Quille, I found myself almost unconsciously examining the top of the fine writing desk in his library for evidence of his old knife-slashing habit, but did not find so much as a scratch.

Price Paid for Slaves. It is very curious to read in an old Roman history of the prices paid for slaves in the palmy days of the empire. As a general thing a laborer could be bought for about $50 of our money, but after a province had been conquered or a great victory won hundreds would sometimes be bought for $5 to $10 each. After the siege of Jerusalem by Titus the price of slaves fell to $4. Skilled laborers and artisans brought more. A gardener was worth about $300, a blacksmith $700; a good cook often brought $2,500, an actor or actress $5,000, and a physician $10,000.

KILLED BY ABSINTHE.

Guy de Maupassant Was Poisoned by the Deadly Drug.

The green devil, absinthe, began the destruction of Guy de Maupassant's brilliant mind, and hashish and opium completed the work. He has been dead for several years, but it was only recently that the hero, which for so long had vainly sent a blood coursing through the mildewed brain wearied of its task and ceased to beat. It was a gay life and a sad one that the novel led. I deeply he drank of pleasure and terrible was the price he paid for it. It is surprising, then, that all his work, brilliant as it is, is yet poisoned with the curious morbidity of the end of the century. Gustave Flaubert was his master, and he, in turn, led to look at existence in the light of lights which the author of "Le Comte de Montcalm" cast upon it. Flaubert was a more artist than man; he was content with inhabiting his own imagination. But the pupil, man as we have artist, was compelled by his temperament to taste the joys he painted, so death found him in a lunatic asylum. "Bel Ami" was followed by "Le Horla," and "Le Horla" by the insanity it described. He was born Aug. 5, 1850, in the district of Seine Inferieure, the son of a stock broker who deserted his family while Guy and his brother Hervé were still boys. From his parents he was a clerk in the naval office in Paris, where he earned money enough to keep his mother's widow and children from starvation. During all this time he was studying heart of writing, as an apprentice studies any other trade, under Flaubert, who had at once recognized his powers. A last, in 1873, the master permitted him to make his literary debut, and the event showed that Flaubert's pains had not been wasted, for success was immediate and each of his works enjoyed greater popularity than its predecessor. A year or so ago the newspapers startled Paris with the statement that Guy de Maupassant had attempted his life; and it was only a few weeks later that the world bade him farewell at the madhouse gate. "Bel Ami" is the most generally liked of his novels. It required forty-five editions to satisfy the demand for this masterpiece. But it is as a writer of short stories that de Maupassant will be remembered. His "Contes" are compact and sparkling.

LADY BURTON TO WRITE.

Will Soon Publish the Diary of Her Husband's Life.

Lady Burton is about to publish the life of her late husband, Sir Richard Burton, the great explorer. "This book," said Lady Burton, "will cover the whole of his life, and wherever he could speak for him I have allowed him to do so. There are many incidents in his life and naturally a good deal of official life abroad. In this subject, I have not tried to write matters. The book will be as realistic as Marie Antoinette's diary. Of course it was impossible to write my husband's life without telling something of my own, but both were so closely bound up together—and that, as I have explained in "LADY BURTON, the preface is an affection I have not attempted. I dare say the public will say I am a fool for taking them so much into my confidence. I have also allowed myself the opportunity to reply to three attacks brought against me at my husband's death by those who professed to be his friends. The first that I tried to prevent his being buried in Westminster Abbey, I did not such thing. Westminster was refused me and St. Paul's wasn't offered. The second—brought by his agnostic friends—was for administering extreme unction. The third was for burning the manuscript. The manuscripts referred to were translations of certain Oriental writings, which, in Lady Burton's opinion, were of a character likely to poison the public mind. All England could not but admit the spirit with which she accomplished the deed, even though many thought it a pity that so valuable a work on Persian life and morals should be lost to the world. Nearly all of Lady Burton's life of her husband was dictated—a large portion of it from a sick-bed. The tent-shaped mausoleum where the embalmed body of her husband lies is close to Lady Burton's home. It is about as like a grave as one could imagine anything to be. The ceiling is hung with Oriental lamps—the mystic number of seven—and there is an altar bearing a crucifix and flowers. I sit here a good deal in warm days," says the widow, simply, "and sometimes little children, seeing the door open and catching sight of the flowers, will come and say: 'Can I come in, too, lady?'"

A Trade in Odd Shoes.

It is not generally known that several shoe factories are now supplying customers with odd shoes. To give thorough satisfaction to a customer it is necessary to insist on his trying on both the shoes in a pair, and it often happens that the right foot is a good fit and the left a poor one. To get over this difficulty two pairs are broken, and when the next order is sent in the stock is made up. Very few custom shoemakers measure both feet, and in this respect the ready-made salesman does more to please his customer than the one who makes to his order.

SHEEP RAISING.

An Industry Which Promises a Solution of an Important Problem.

One of the pronounced recent departures in the agricultural industry in the Northwest is a change from the exclusive grain growing to a mixed industry in which live stock and dairying are prominent features. In Minnesota special attention thus far has been given to horses, cattle and hogs; but in Montana and the Dakotas sheep are arousing the most notable interest.

In Montana the sheep flocks have multiplied tenfold in ten years, and in 1891 numbered over 2,800,000 animals. The sheep industry of Montana represents a capital of $2,000,000, and brings in a revenue of nearly $2,500,000 from wool alone. Montana wool has, in a brief period, attained a national reputation.

North Dakota is a recent convert to the sheep industry, but already has more sheep than all other domestic animals combined, and the industry is rapidly growing in popular favor as in profitability. The Tribune is informed by North Dakota farmers that sheep bid fair to be the solution of the crop problem, in paving the way to diversification of products.

Experienced authorities insist that there is more money in North Dakota sheep than in grain, and that sheep-raising is likely to be the great industry of that state before many years. With only a few seasons' start the sheep industry of North Dakota has grown to embrace a capital of over $5,000,000 and a flock of 600,000. The average cost of keeping is estimated at $1 per head for the state, and the average fleece about eight pounds. Consequently, the wool alone more than pays the cost of maintaining the flock, leaving a natural yearly increase in flock a net profit. Abundant cheap lands, the low cost of hay, grain and pasture, and the healthfulness of the climate make the Dakotas a natural sheep region. The new industry is a solution of the single crop problem.

In Minnesota the sheep industry has not yet attained the prominence given to several other branches of stock-raising. Indeed, the state has more dogs than sheep. Yet the government report for 1891 credits the state with 490,000 sheep and an average wool clip of seven pounds per sheep. The principal aim of sheep-raising in this state is mutton. The government's special report on the sheep industry, 1892, states in the chapter on Minnesota: "Sheep now pay the farmer better than any other class of stock, and in the prairie country those who are now engaged in raising a few sheep find it the most profitable branch of mixed industry."

The average annual increase in flock is placed at 95 per cent., and the average cost of keeping at $1 or less per head. The government department enumerates numerous advantages—exceptionally favorable climate, the best of feed and water, freedom from disease, and a first-class local market—which Minnesota possesses over all Eastern States. Sheep brought to this state from Ohio and other Eastern sheep regions show a marked gain in weight of fleece and carcass. The government department entertains enthusiastic sentiments regarding the future of Minnesota's sheep industry.

The Use of Colors. Photographing in colors has been successfully accomplished in Berlin. The method is based upon the fact that all effects of light proceed from the primary colors, yellow, red and blue. By means of colored screens or by dyeing the photographic plates three negatives are obtained of the same object, each being sensitive to light only of one of the primary colors. It seems wonderful that, with all the range of hues and tints perceived by the eye, a printing of three simple colors is all that is required to give the necessary effect. The reason why three impressions are sufficient to produce the natural colors of an object in all their delicacy of tint and shading proceeds from the fact that every portion of each primary color that in any way, even in the slightest degree, enters into combination with other colors makes its impression upon its corresponding negative, and thus with the three colors reproduced we have the effect of the original, faithfully reproduced in all its infinite variations of tint.

Algeria's Population.

The number of Europeans in Algeria is estimated at 550,000, but of these more than one-half are French. The natives number 4,000,000, and there is no immediate prospect of the European element being in any greater relative proportion. The natives consist of three very different races. The Arabs, who are met with mostly in and near the province of Orin, are essentially nomad. The Kabyles, who live among the mountains of Djurdjura, have stone houses and hold labor in great respect. To this must be added a mass of other indigenous people and scattered tribes of mixed origin.

Mrs. Lewis, when seven years of age, with her parents started from her home in Lenawee county with an overland train for the then territory of Washington. Her mother died enroute and she herself was for several days lost on the plains. When riding on the horse behind her rescuer so famished and heart sick at the trials she had endured, many times she begged the horsemen to put an end to her life. Soon after arriving in the territory her only sister died. Mrs. Lewis is now a young lady of 47 and has, among other valuable possessions, nine grandchildren. This is the first visit to Michigan, since her emigration.

"Our Men's Meeting."

If you're a man you have a cordial invitation to attend our Sunday afternoon service. It lasts one hour and we promise you good treatment. Let us give you the hand of fellowship.

Sunday was full of interest. An 80 degree day and a 75 attendance is a good comparison, don't you think? Well that is what we had. The talk by Mr. Clark on "How to reach young men with the Bible," was excellent and fully illustrated.

Our new band quartette consisting of Messrs. Geo. Barley, Will Barley and Frank Ainslie, assisted by E. Wright, were with us for the first time on Sunday. Every one appreciated the help they rendered and the new interest it gave to the singing. They will be on hand next Sunday.

Some folks would have us believe that advertising does not pay, judging from the expressions we hear, but we can trace directly the good work of our system of dodgers. Strangers who are staying in town over Sunday have by these announcements been apprised of such a meeting existing, and have come. We know some of our townsmen who look for the slips to tell them of the next program. The dodger paves the way to personal work and is a valuable factor in all our work.

likely to get into trouble by a repeti-

A letter received from Miss Lida

having a delightful time. They leave

The larger majority of Northville's citizens are now wondering if the council will, at their meeting, order the shade trees trimmed, make some move towards procuring a public drinking fountain. We shall see.

Geo. I. Bradley wanted the board to extend the water works down to their new house on South Church st., but they wouldn't do it and now George is glad they didn't. He put down a twenty-foot drive well and now has a flowing well.

The Ambler Mercantile company are about to build a new side walk through the Sherrill addition as a continuation of Cady street west to Sherrill avenue, thence south to Mill street, between the Condensery and the U. S. fish hatchery.

This afternoon the ladies of the Presbyterian church Aid society, are holding sweet communion at Walled Lake combining pleasure and work, when weary of the latter they are expected to rush down to the water and enjoy a pull "over the bounding deep."

Seymour Bower, late with U. S. fish commissioner at Green Lake, Me., has been appointed superintendent of Michigan state hatcheries with headquarters at Detroit. Mr. Bower is well known in this village and our people will be glad to hear of his promotion.

The finest finished residence in Northville is probably Archie Morris' new residence in first ward. The outside doors and entire interior is beautifully finished in quarter-sawn oak, and the panelings are all hand carved the work of Mr. Morris, who by the way is one of the most skilled carvers in the state.

Al. Blair's horse will not stand after the bridle has been taken off. Al.
tried it in front of Whipple's harness shop, having in view the taking of the bridle inside for repairs. Seven seconds later the horse was way around behind some of the stores on the south side of Main street. The carriage was there too—what was left of it.

Will Jim Slocum please arise and explain why Holly people use more water in the winter than in the summer months?—Ann Arbor Courier.

If Jim Slocum won't, we will. Holly people do not drink water in summer.
They do in winter.

A good-natured Holly man from the green sod who was run down by a wheelman got up in time to hear the cyclist shout, "Look out!" "That is the matter with you!" said the man in disgust, "yer not coming back again, are ye?"

The Northville Record has a subscriber who insists on paying a year's subscription in advance every time he gets drunk. We understand that he has now paid his subscription up to Jan. 1, 1894.—Holly Advertiser.

And that was his last. He is now being successfully treated at the Yarnall Gold cure.

An Island lake youngster went in swimming Sunday and was enjoying himself hugely when he observed his father coming his way, and, fearing a thrashing, fled for a friendly wheat field and hid, leaving his clothes on the bank. His father, coming up, recognized the clothes and jumped at the conclusion that the boy was drowned. A large crowd soon gathered and the lake was dragged, without finding the boy, it is needless to add. After lying concealed for eight hours and watching the searchers, the youngster discovered himself.

Is a daily chronicle in our papers; also the death of some dear friend, who has died with Consumption, whereas, if he or she had taken Otto's Cure for Throat and Lung diseases in time, life would have been rendered happier and perhaps saved. The Junior League will serve ice cream and cake on Phil McCrumb's lawn Saturday evening of this week.

Several of the people from here went to the Salvation Army encampment at Flint last Sunday. They all report seeing a big crowd, lots of dust and hearing plenty of music.

Last Friday morning's F. & P. M. train struck A. B. Roblin's fine cow and knocked her off the track with considerable force. Besides being badly bruised, the animal's back was broken, and one horn torn off. Last report says that she will have to be killed.

As for that big story in last week's Record about the big yield of a load of oats, it wasn't any great thing. A man in Novi threshed a big load of rye the other day and it panned out two bushels.

Alvin Dennis is seriously sick at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Dennis, with bilious intermittent fever. He was sick there for several weeks in the spring, but returned to his home in southern Illinois with health greatly improved. It is to be hoped that the care of his friends and the change of climate may again prove beneficial.

The natural inference to be drawn from a certain ungrammatical item in the Record's correspondence last week would be that the sole occupation of the entire population of a certain burg is attending to other people's affairs. This is rather rough on those of the good folks of the village in question who do "make a good living by minding their own business," isn't it? For there are a good many even in the aforementioned hamlet, and there is an occasional bit of excitement, besides a scandal, if it be nothing more than a dog fight or a thunder shower.

It would be a good plan to organize a drowning committee to deal with such specimens as the black-guards who disturbed and insulted a party of ladies who were bathing at Walled lake last Friday afternoon. It is no yet to late to enter complaint to the proper authorities, which will be done promptly should such a thing occur again. From the past record of some of the gang we need not be surprised at such a low-lived proceeding, but one of them at least, whom your correspondent has heretofore met only in respectable company would not from his appearance and conduct when in such company, be deemed capable of such conduct. From respect to their relatives we will mention no names.

A goodly number of people from Plymouth village visit the water works daily, but have not heard any one say when they will be completed. Perhaps they want to keep it a secret so as to surprise the community some bright day.

Our city is all excitement just now in regard to some cattle which have been allowed to trespass a little too much. Complaint has been made to the commissioner, who has ordered the cattle to be restrained until Aug. 16th, when they will be sold at auction.

Apparently the great need of the times is a copious rain storm. Farmers universally report that corn and potato crops are in danger of being seriously damaged if the drouth continues much longer.

Silas Pratt, an old resident of Pebble's Corners, is in very poor health. The two brothers, Loren and Silas, and one sister Sarah, had for many years lived upon the old homestead. About two years ago Loren, after a lingering illness, died, since then the surviving brother and sister have been in feeble health.

THE TROUBLE OVER.

A prominent man in town exclaimed the other day: "My wife has been wearing out her life from the effects of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and Indigestion. Her case baffled the skill of our best physicians. After using three packages of Bacon's Celery King for the Nerves she is almost entirely well." Keep your blood in a healthy condition by the use of this great vegetable compound. Call on C. R. Stevens sole agent, and get a trial package free. Large size 50c. No 8.

Merit Wine.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. A. M. Randolph Drug-gist.

The Salem and Superior corner bands played at the ice cream social given at Wm. Gear's, Superior township, for the benefit of the last named band on Thursday evening.

L. M. Larkin returned Monday from a visit to his brother John H. at Morrice, whom he found confined to his bed and a most terrible sufferer of sciatic rheumatism. All possible efforts thus far having failed to afford even the slightest relief.

Rev. Mr. Conrad was prevented through sickness from supplying his pulpit last Sabbath and his people worshiped with the Congregational body. The pastor gave as full an account of the Montreal C. E. convention as time would permit.

The event of the season will be the Farmer's picnic and reunion at Whitmore lake on Aug. 19. There will be boat races and other contests, commencing at 9:30 a. m. MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS.

Over twelve years I was afflicted with a very serious female difficulty and for the last sixteen months was under treatment of three of the very best physicians that money could employ. Under their skillful treatment I gradually grew worse until they decided they could render me no permanent help. One of my friends persuaded me to try a bottle of Dullam's Great German Uterine Tonic, and after taking three bottles, can say I am in better health than I have been for 20 years and am now sixty years old, but feel as young as at 30. One irrepressible friend Gale is temporarily located on the corner of the park while the "ruining gears" to his drug store are in the shop for repairs. John keeps the business booming just the same in spite of inconveniences.

We note the completion of the stone foundation for the new Masonic block and learn that the brick will arrive in a day or two and that building be pushed to an early completion. S. J. Springer has the work in charge and we all know "Jed" is a hustler. Dr. L. F. Hatch who is looking after Mrs. Coleman's building will lose no time and is liable to lead the procession at the finish. Arrangements are all perfected for the immediate rebuilding of the entire block except the Penney store.

VERY MUCH SURPRISED.

I have been afflicted with neuralgia for nearly two years, have tried physio-class and all known remedies, but found no permanent relief until I tried a bottle of Dullam's Great German Liniment and it gave me instant and permanent relief. 25 cents per bottle. A. B. Snell.

LAND'S SAKE!

and for your own sake, buy some land. Good village lots are the finest investment in the world. The failures of banks or the depredations of thieves cannot affect them as they can ready cash. The fluctuations of the money market cannot depreciate their value in such a thriving village as Northville, but, to the contrary, is certain to steadily increase with time. The lots we are offering have everything to recommend them—beauty of location, good soil, proximity to stores & cheapness
