SOME MEN KEEP THEIR MONEY UNTIL THEY DIE AND THEN TRUST TO THE PROVISIONS OF A WILL OR LAST TESTAMENT TO SHOW THAT THEY WERE GENEROUS, BUT THE WISE MEN DO THE GENEROUS THINGS WHILE THEY LIVE. AMONG THEM WE ARE GLAD TO PLACE THE NAME OF

"UNCLE" JOHN GARDNER

He Is the Gentleman Who Presents the Town Clock

TO THE VILLAGE OF NORTHVILLE.

Work to Begin at Once to Prepare the Tower for Its Reception

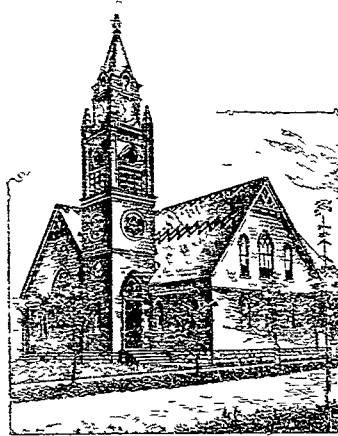

Never since its birth has the village of Northville had such a mystery hanging about it as it has since Aug. 25th, when, through F. R. Beal, our village president was notified that an unknown gentleman would present to the village a valuable town clock providing they would meet certain requirements. It is needless for us to say that every requirement was promptly filled. The council took prompt action; a committee was appointed to solicit funds to put the tower of the Methodist church.

[JOHN GARDNER] in shape for the reception of the clock the necessary amount was quickly subscribed and here today through the columns of this paper the donor's name is for the first time made public.

It is safe to say that every inhabitant of the village took a turn at guessing who the unknown was and it is equally safe to say that not one guessed correctly. For once a secret was safely kept for one whole month.

The clock has been ordered through Mr. Rockwell and plans are now being made for the remodeling of the tower and within the next thirty days the proclamation and indicator of the passing moments will be fulfilling its mission for Northville observers. The clock in question is the A. S. Hotchkiss four dial, eight day strike, gravity escapement, manufactured by The Seth

[THE NORTHVILLE METHODIST CHURCH.] Thomas Clock company of Thomaston, Conn. The pendulum ball will weigh 135 pounds, the two weights will weigh between 300 and 400 pounds and the clock proper alone weighs 1,500 pounds. It is one of the best clocks made and will be an ornament to the town, the pride of the inhabitants, the admiration of our visitors and ever a lasting monument of memory to the munificence of our fellow townsman, John Gardner.

Mr. Gardner's almost total blindness will prevent his ever being able to see his beautiful gift but as he may hear it toll off the hours it will assure him of the remembrance of a grateful people. Long may he live to listen to the stroke of the bell which will respond to the movement of his timely gift.

John Gardner was born in Rensselaer county, New York in 1814. He came to the territory of Michigan in November 1836, almost fifty-seven years ago, and two months later purchased the eighty-acre farm which with 186 acres since added he still owns. The following February, through mud and snow, he settled on the place to endure the hardship and toil incident to early settler life. Mr. Gardner moved into the village in 1882 where he has since resided, adding another to our number of honored and worthy citizens.

ANOTHER SECRET OUT.

Here's What Goes into Richardson's New Store.

Ever since the Union block was started the query has been "what is going into Richardson's new store." The secret is out at last. M. N. Johnson & Co. have leased the beautiful new store for a term of years and about Oct. 5 will open it with a large and elegant line of clothing and gents' furnishings.

The new firm will be known as M. N. Johnson & Co. Mito Johnson is a well known Northville young man of bustling qualities and though he will have plenty of lively competition his well known business ability warrants the venture a successful issue. The new firm will make their bow to the public through our advertising columns next week.

THE Y. M. C. A. ANNUAL.

State Convention to Be Held Week After Next.

The 22nd annual convention of the Michigan Young Men's Christian Association will be held at Battle Creek Oct. 12, 13, 14, '93. A fine program has been arranged and large delegations from the thirty-one associations and many other towns like Northville where the Y. M. C. A. work is carried on will be there.

Among the speakers to be present are R. A. Alger, Rev. D. D. McLaughlin, Jno. R. Mott the college secretary of the international committee, and Rev. G. Stockton Burroughs of the American Institute of Sacred Literature. A trained chorus of young men will be under the direction of A. M. Wilcox of Marquette. The session conferences will be especially helpful.

Battle Creek people will welcome all delegates and hopes to see scores come.

Northville's Improvements Thus Far This Year.

Three weeks ago in giving the statement of the amount of Northville's improvements during the present year we neglected to mention Yerkes Bros new dam $250 and the new ponds, and other improvements at the U. S. fish hatchery amounting to, when completed, $3,000. This brings the building improvements up to $101,750. This is probably the largest amount ever expended in this way in the village in any one year and the end is not yet.

Around the Country.

Dundee had chicken thieves and a county fair last week. Both were grand successes.

Monday's Evening News says, "Northville is a small town. Somebody hold our coat a minute."

A kick from the cow he was milking broke one of Joseph Eno's legs at Milford last week. Mr. Eno is an old gentleman and the injury will consequently prove very serious.

Orchard Lake cadets draw the line at soap. Two of them compelled a new tender-foot to chew that article of cleanliness last week. It was a heap of fun but the fun went last half as long as their expulsion.

Carleton, a little four-cornered town just over in Monroe county, averaged one fight every twenty minutes for a whole hour, week ago Sunday. Carleton has lots of sand. In fact the lots are about all composed of sand.

We have engaged a competent "chronicler" of the Hamburg events. Our readers in that section will appreciate this fact we are sure.—So Lyon Excelsior.

The editor evidently forgot to put an "y" after the l in that word next after chronic.

Everybody bring your children home from Ann Arbor. Its an awful place. The Courier last week published 116 different slang expressions which are in common use among the University city people. Just think of it, 116 Why its worse than Asiatic cholera.

White frost peaches are being bought up by hucksters from Detroit and here in the peach orchards where they are said to be so thick that they are rotting on the ground near Ann Arbor for 25 cents per bushel.—Wayne Review.

What's that? Say it again and tell us when you breathe and where you climb the fence.

"Mark my word, you don't catch me foolin' with any more 73° gasoline," said Bert Marker of Wayne as he went sailing along the edge of the clouds over toward Dearborn one day last week just as he was going to touch off a brush heap which he had saturated with the stuff.

A great many bicycle riders use the sidewalk, both in daytime and evening and of course they have no lantern for the night.—Adrian Press.

We had an idea that a bicycle rider had as good a right to use the sidewalk as a printer or a horse back rider. Does the Press want man to walk in the road simply because he can ride a bicycle?

FRED HARPER of the Chicago university finds that the pay of the average college professor is less than the average man gets, and if the average professor is not satisfied, he must make himself more than average. This is the good old way in all lines of business of increasing one's salary.

There arrived in New York last week a bark from Alexandria, Egypt, with a cargo of bones. An investigation reveals the fact that among the bones are many skulls of human beings intended to be ground up with the bones of other animals or use as fertilizing material. As Shakespeare remarks:

Imperial Caesar, dead, and turned to clay,
Might stop a hole to keep the wind away

In some mountainous and inhospitable regions of this country the most important vacation of the public schools occurs in winter time and continues from January to April, because at that season snows are so deep and storms so frequent that most children are unable to make their way to school. The summer vacation is short, but the hardships of attending and teaching school in summer time is not great, as the summers of those regions are, for the most part, delightfully cool.

MEXICO has agreed to protect all the Japanese immigrants who will come. Within a few years there will probably be 500,000 or more of these people added to the population of our Southern neighbor. It will be an advantageous arrangement for both parties to it. Japan is overflowing with people who are ingenious and industrious. Mexico has lacked labor to develop her great resources. It is quite likely that fewer Japanese will now come to the United States. The general disposition on the Pacific coast to treat Japs just as John Chinaman is treated has discouraged their immigration here.

HELEN LOUISE JOHNSON, editor of Table Talk, is demonstrating at the Chicago exposition that electricity in cooking will do more to lighten the labor of the kitchen, save housework as well as money, than anything she knows of. All kinds of ordinary utensils heated by electricity are shown, and it is demonstrated that a steak can be cooked in a turn in four minutes, and everything else on short order. This includes everything required for all kinds of cooking, from the making of pancakes to the baking of a ham, and even the hot-footed flat-iron is obtained by simply hooking on a cord and switching on the heat-producing current.

It is strange that the extremely wealthy man is almost always prone to evade just taxation. The thought cannot help suggesting itself that maybe it is by means of such means as bordering on dishonesty that enormous wealth is usually acquired. The man moderately rich may grow a little when tax day comes around, but he does not go and show that he is some two hundred times poorer than he really is. That seems to be what Jay Gould always did. The assessors could never get him to own that he had more than $50,000. Now the state gets more than that as one per cent tax on his estate, and the local assessors have raised the assessment to $10,000,000.

There is a philosopher of color who administers a rebuke in a manner that would do credit to Plato, to those colored people who are forever wishing they were white. His name is John M. Langston of Virginia. He has represented his district in congress, a district in which he was born a slave. He said in the recent African congress at Chicago: We have to-day doctors, lawyers and ministers in every city in the land, and this in twenty-five years. We made better slaves than any other people, and our record as freemen is in advance of all competitors. Why should we desire to be white? We are satisfied to be what God made us, and we have nothing to beg of any man or race.

Some of the Canadian newspapers are raising a mighty hullabaloo because the United States treasury department has seen fit to strictly enforce the immigration laws. This action has interfered with that peculiar Canadian industry, the smuggling of Chinese and other undesirable immigrants over the border. The dominion government itself has been deriving revenue from the tax on Chinese and therefore the howl has an official note in it. It is to be hoped that the customs officials charged with the duty of turning back proscribed immigrants at the Canadian border will not relax their vigilance for a moment. Canada should not be allowed to make money out of the traffic at our expense. If she loads up with undesirable foreigners let her keep them.

THE Russian squadron is to visit Toulon next month. Then the combined French and Russian fleets will go on parade and allow the German kaiser to count them from his yacht, with the prince of Wales at his elbow. And the great show will not cost a cent, figuratively speaking.

A PHILADELPHIA newspaper notes that during all the hard times there has been no reduction in the wages of sin. And it may be added that the receipts on the Plaisance are said to have actually increased.

IN THE FINER ARTS.

AMERICA TAKING HER PLACE WITH FRANCE AND ITALY.

Our Sculptors' Masterpieces Get Good Reward at the World's Fair—Some Notable Things Among the Splendid Works of Art.

(World's Fair Correspondence)

WHEN THE JURY of sculptors in the fine arts department of the fair concluded its work, it was found that the American sculptors had come out victorious in many competitions.

Eighty-seven diplomas were awarded to sculptors of America, the fortunate ones being John Donoghue, Charles Groff, Henry H. Kitson, Thomas Ball, Robert P. Brighurst, Herbert Adams, C. E. Dallin, C. E. Niehaus, John Rogers, Emile H. Wuertz, F. Wellington Ruckstuhl, F. Edwin Elwell, J. J. Boyle and Edward Kemeys. Of these Elwell, Niehaus, Rogers and Ruckstuhl are of New York; Adams, of Brooklyn; Kitson, of Boston, and Kemeys, Wuertz and Donoghue of Chicago.

The judges of sculpture were Daniel C. French, Olin L. Warner, Johannes Gelert, Thomas Brock, Frederick E.

arms, is the best work submitted by Brighurst, and is more frequently pointed out than many more ambitious efforts. It is beautiful in conception and delicate in execution and has been the center of admiring crowds. It occupies a good place, and because of its location is one of the first pieces the visitor sees as he comes out of the rotunda and passes into the United States section of paintings.

Dallin's "The Signal of Peace," a bronze, comprising the figure of an Indian seated upon a horse and holding up a spear as a token of friendliness, is a striking subject, and attractive as well. It shows a careful study of both men and animals and is admirable for the perfect proportions shown. The graceful Indian, sitting easily upon his horse, makes an effective picture worthy of close study and critical inspection.

Niehaus has a work in plaster that has attracted great attention from visitors. It is an athlete engaged in scoping his limbs and preparing himself for the combat. This is a figure that shows strength and suppleness, the muscles stand out, the broad chest shows power and the limbs activity and agility. The form is finely molded and challenges admiration.

Rogers' "Lincoln," the great emancipator being seated in a chair with a scroll hanging over the right arm, seems familiar to the visitor even if he has never seen it before, and is greeted as an old friend. The martyred President sits in a careless way, but his face expresses that kindness which is its most pronounced characteristic. The grand figure, the carefully arranged hair, the large hands that tend to show as much as any other feature the capability of the man in the management of men and affairs, are perfect in their way and show a broadness of treatment, yet with carefulness as to detail his feet, with her eyes lifted toward the great novel, is Little Nell, with much the expression upon her face she might have had had she stily stolen around the corner to get a glimpse of this warm-hearted lover of children when he was looking the other way. It is a work that never fails to attract attention, although the average visitor looks at the subject and not the execution. People with little or no knowledge of the artist stop for a few minutes at a time, write the name for minutes at a time, and in contemplation and admiration of the work. Here human nature asserts itself, but unconsciously pays its tribute to art, not realizing that if the picture drawn had been a poor one it would have paid little or no attention to it.

"A Mother and Her Two Children," by Boyle, shows clever treatment. The subject is purely a domestic one, and appeals to the heart—a mother holding her two children upon her lap. It is one of the most effective bronzes in the collection, and is much admired. It is not a large bronze, but it attracts attention and wins sympathy, particularly of the women.

Wuertz' "Murmur of the Sea" is a most expressive, chaste and delicate conception, representing a nude young girl with a shell to her ear listening to the sounds of the ocean. It was highly praised by the members of the jury, who did not hesitate long in agreeing that it was worthy of a medal.

The bronze "Tired Out," by Boyle, although not a large one, by any means, was found possessed of many points of excellence. It is a child, tired out with play, fallen fast asleep, and while it is not to be considered a great work, it is essentially sympathetic and appeals to the heart.

Adams' colored portrait bust of a lady, occupying a prominent position near the rotunda and where visitors enter the door in front of the New York state building, has been the center of admiring crowds since the opening of the Exposition. Its delicacy of treatment, clearness of outline and general beauty—the latter being the attribute, naturally enough, that attracts the average visitor and has its due effect upon the student of art—have caused it to be pointed out as one of the main features of the American exhibit.

It is also another portrait bust of a lady, by Kitson, who took Miss Ruggles now the wife of the artist, as his model. It is said Adams did the same. The work on both is admirable, and they were found to be of such excellence that the two artists were medalled.

Donoghue's young Sophocles in plaster, representing him at the time he was leading the chorus of victory after the battle of Salamis is classical, this being the school the artist affects. Although some fault has been found with it by critics, the judges discovered a sufficient number of points of excellence in it to award it a prize. Donoghue did some work at the fair months ago, but has since returned to Italy.

Graf's bust of Dédalus was given a medal, although not without some contention and argument. The head is massive and certainly a thing of beauty, but his strong lines and the face shows power. The thick hair and beard cover the greater part of the features and are effectively wrought. It has attracted much attention and created considerable discussion, the result of which is that it has undoubtedly caused a greater sensation than its true merits would warrant.

"THE ATHLETE,"—C. E. NIEHAUS.

tail, that is one of the strong points in all of Rogers' work.

Elwell's "Dickens and Little Nell" is viewed with much the same sentimental feeling as animates the visitor when looking at the Lincoln bronze. Dickens is seated in a chair, raised, in a pensive, thoughtful attitude, while

GEORGE EARLE, TAILOR.

TOOK TO SOLDIERING AND BECAME A DEMON.

Dying of Consumption, But Continually on the Hunt for Outlaws, Whom He Fought Down With Ruthless Severity—Thought Him a Wizard.

On the bank of the Plaquemine in St. Martin's parish, Louisiana, stands a group of magnificent live oaks, and with them two magnolias, making the air dank with perfume. At the foot of one of the oaks is a small mound covered with short turf, and at the head a slab of heavy cypress plank, and here in this lonely spot rest the remains of one of the bravest of our Northern soldiers.

"Yes, sah," said my friend, "he was the boldest little man I ever knew. These river parishes were filled with ruffians, who went in bands killing negroes and robbing all alike. Well, sah, he came here Lieutenant in the Sixth Indiana, a poor, sickly little man, about five foot five and weighing ninety pounds. He had consumption, would get a hemorrhage in the morning and look like death, and by night be off through the swamp hunting down some outlaw, and he got 'em every time. His name was George Earle, a Scotchman by birth and a tailor by trade. Just think of it. He could take a dozen of our field hands and by some strange influence they would follow him anywhere and fight like bulldogs at his order."

It is strange, indeed, this poor consumptive coughing his life away, so weak that on some of his raids a soldier supported him on either side. Some of his adventures seem incredible, and when told by the negroes are ludicrously so. They believed Earle to be a wizard and were dreadfully afraid of him, says the Philadelphia Times.

He went to Louisiana after the fall of Port Hudson especially detailed with 100 men to put down the guerillas who fired on the river boats and robbed everybody. Many of the decent people gave the Union soldier all the aid they could, but the negroes were his best allies. Through them he got authentic information and was down on his enemies when they believed him 100 miles away.

For a time a ruffian named Robert ruled this region, and it was his pleasure to torture and murder the helpless blacks in the neighborhood. Finally he captured one of Earle's men, and after brutally ill-treating his captive, coolly shot him.

Earle at once put two of his black guides on the track of Robert, and a week after learned that he was to give an entertainment to a party of Dick Taylor's cavalry at the house of a sugar planter fifty miles south on the Plaquemine bayou. Sixty men in five barges started down the bayou at night and before daylight hid themselves and boats in the swamp.

Earle was very poorly, but danger acted as a stimulant, and when night came he was eager for the fray. The mansion was a large old-time building standing in a grove of oaks fifty yards back from the water. There was high revelry inside. Every window gloved with lights and the cavalry bugles and negro hollers made the music. The guides carefully reconnoitered, all were at table. Robert at the head. The house was surrounded. The door behind Robert quietly opened and the little red-haired Scotchman glided to the ruffian's chair, a navy revolver in each hand.

"I am the d-d Yankee tailor you wanted to meet," said Earle. Robert had not time for an answer, for he was a dead man the next instant, and shooting right and left the lieutenant charged the crowd. No mercy was shown. As they were simply outlaws and robbers the soldiers, using their bayonets, soon cleared the room. Twenty-two were killed and a number of wounded and prisoners taken, and not least in value $3,000 in gold that had been taken from a United States quartermaster captured and shot a few days before.

Earle died in a negro cabin just at the close of the war attended by an old aunt all of his men being absent on details, and was laid to rest under the Live Oaks, and to-day the negroes pass the spot in silence, for the Yankee soldier's grave is for some occult reason a "fooooo" to them.

Nearly Six Months.

Mrs. Hayseed—What does this mean on your niece's card what lives in the city?

Mrs. Meadow—She said that meant she was at home to her friends Thursdays.

"Only Thursdays" What does she do with the rest of her time?

"I'm sure I don't know, but I guess from her talk she spends most of it in intelligence offices."—New York Weekly.

A Social Necessity.

"Now, Mabel, shall I write that we were ever so awfully sorry, that we have a previous engagement or that we deplore that we shall be out of town on that date, and so cannot accept—with a thousand regrets—or what? Do help me, dear."

"Oh, anything will do for those people—anything but the truth."—Vogue.

Out of the Woods.

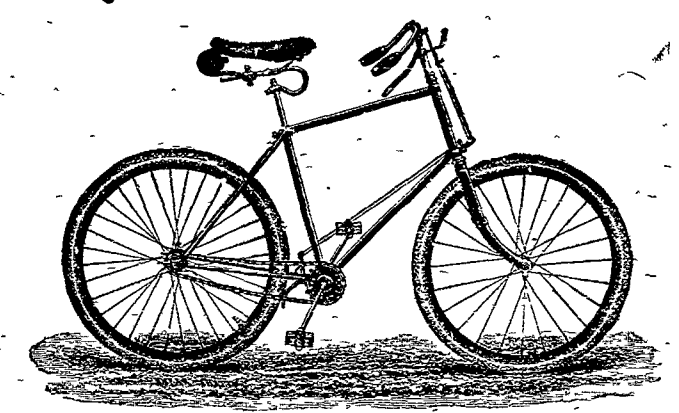

"Aren't you afraid of the electricity?" asked the inquisitive passenger of the motorman.

"No; but the man who collects the fares is."

"Isn't it strange that he should be afraid and you not?"

"Not at all. You see I'm a non-conductor."—Judge.

The Columbian tea given by the Presbyterian ladies at the town hall last Saturday evening was well attended and a very fine time enjoyed by all. After the tea was served an exceedingly nice program of music and recitations was rendered.

Great excitement was caused here last Friday evening by a young horse owned by Taylor Geer, driven by a colored person who is at present working for him. The horse was frightened by some persons trying to go by. The colt kicked breaking the thills and throwing the driver out but not hurting him.

Gents' Underwear worth 75c, now selling for the low price of 50c, at Rauch's.

Plymouth had a very close call to another large fire last Sunday morning. A. M. Potter smelling oil burning about 10 o'clock found the tank to a large oil heater in their dining room to be on fire. In a few seconds flames shot up as high as the ceiling, but by hard work he and his son Johnny got the stove out of doors with slight damage to the house. It caused a pretty scare and if the fire had not been quickly discovered the whole row of houses on the north side of the park would have been destroyed, as there was a strong west wind blowing.

The farmers' metallic band has been reorganized at Farmington and they will do a lot of blowing.

A friend of ours, being requested to write his impressions of the big fair at Chicago for the benefit of our readers, sends us two pages, of which the following paragraph is a specimen:

A BEAUTIFUL WOMAN.

Elkhart, Ind., July 1st, 1890: Dullam's Great German Medicine Co. My daughter has been afflicted with Female trouble for over six years and I have paid out over $750 in vain trying to find relief for her. A lady friend advised me to secure a bottle of Dullam's Great German Female Uterine Tonic and she has been completely cured by it. We gave it a fair trial and the results were wonderful. We cannot recommend it too highly to all ladies who are afflicted. Benj. M. Granger.

Dullam's German Medicine Co. Gents: For over 4 years I have been afflicted with a eruption of the skin, which became very troublesome and I could get no relief. I was also troubled very badly with constipation, which nothing I tried gave me permanent relief until I took Dullam's Great German Blood, Liver, Stomach and Kidney Remedy, and since taking I have been entirely cured. For a tonic blood purifier and general health restorer I can heartily recommend it. Mrs. Wm. Copeland, Flint, Mich. For sale by C. R. Stevens Druggist. 1

THE RECORD.

EVERY FRIDAY.

F. S. NEAL, Publisher.

OFFICE IN OPERA HOUSE BLOCK.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1893.

NORTHVILLE LOCALS.

Council meeting Monday night.

Our charge for inserting cards of thanks and the like is one cent per word.

The inside of the Globe factory is being painted with albamural, a fire-proof coating.

Buy an extra RECORD this week and send to some friend. We think we have plenty for all.

Fall wheat is being sown, but those who know say the acreage will be unusually light this year.

The most successful social of the year was that under the auspices of the Epworth League at W. I. Ely's Tuesday evening.

Last week H. F. Brown presented to one of his friends a basket containing ten tomatoes that weighed over nine and a half pounds.

The Haurahan company have just finished the inside furnishings for the McMillan laboratory at Albion college, at a cost of some $5,000.

Capt. Potterfield and his band of Crusaders will commence a series of meetings in the W. C. T. U. hall tomorrow, Saturday evening.

Rev. Mr. Moore of Mt. Vernon occupied the Methodist pulpit last Sabbath in place of Rev. Parrish who was at conference. Rev. Parrish occupied the Fort Street Congregational, Detroit, pulpit Sunday.

At the council meeting next Monday night at least two important measures are to come up—the recommends of the fire committee for the new fire alarm and the street committee relative to a public drinking fountain.

The lawns at the U. S. fish hatchery are being fixed up in a very attractive style. Some of the new ponds are exceedingly unique. Handsome flower beds, and elegant drives will attract the visitor and please the eye another season.

There are at least two good places for a public drinking fountain in the village—perhaps more. One is along the Main street walk just west of the electric light pole near the Savings bank, the other along the Center street walk at the west side of Knapp & Yerkes' hardware.

When the committee called on Mr. Gardner as they were soliciting funds to prepare the tower he laughingly replied, "No, I said I would not give anything towards the fund but my family may do as they like." His wife did subscribe, but not until last Friday night did even she know the donors name, so safely had the secret been kept.

Last Sunday morning Rev. J. M. Belding preached to a large audience. His topics as announced in the RECORD was "Boomers." He graphically described the rush for homesteads and applied the lessons gathered from this opening of 5,000,000 acres of homestead lands to the divine Cherokee strike which God opens to the race offering mansions and to all who will accept a clear title to the eternal settlement.

Last Sunday morning the pulpit decorations at the Presbyterian church were something that perhaps has never before occurred in the history of pulpit adornment. In a white vase reposed two pure white night blooming cereus almost six inches in width. The unique flowers opened at dawn and remained in flower till evening. Something unusual for they generally, and always open in the night time and like the stars fade with the dawn.

Mrs. George W. Sherman, aged 65 years, died at her home in the township of Farmington, Sunday Sept. 24, after an illness of thirteen years. A husband, one son and four daughters survive her. Mrs. Sherman was born and lived nearly all her life at the home where she died. She was a member of a highly respected family and her many warm friends rendered her much sympathy in her last hours. The past few years of her life have been of great care and the responsibility placed upon her family has been borne with patience and affection, making every effort to make her life pleasant.

A telegram received Wednesday morning contained news of the death by consumption of Minnie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Newman, of Philadelphia. The remains will arrive here today and the funeral service held at 3 o'clock tomorrow, at the home of Mrs. Newman's father, Dexter White, Dunlap street. Mr. Newman and family are whilom residents of Northville and their many friends will grieve at the sad news. Miss Newman was also well known in this place. She was a pleasant young lady, possessing one of those sunny dispositions that wins and holds friends by the score. She was some 24 years of age.

The only Pure Cream of Tartar Powder.—No Ammonia; No Alum. Used in Millions of Homes—40 Years the Standard.

Regular U. R. E. of P. meeting next Monday night.

Who wants to bring us a lead of wood on subscription?

The W. C. T. U. district convention will be held here Oct. 12 and 13.

There will doubtless be no services in the Presbyterian church Sunday.

The water board are sending out statements to some 103 takers this week. Time register clocks are now in use throughout the Harranan and Globe factories.

Shafer & Brown have the contract for tinning Domstrichs new store at Plymouth.

C. M. Thornton knows what an editor likes and brings us a basket of large elegant Crawford peaches.

Remember the Irish Neighbors at the opera house tonight. Prices, 25 and 35. Reserved seats on sale at Hueston's drug store.

This is a good paper to send to your friends. We have two hundred extra copies to spare for this purpose. If you want any come quick.

The Yarnall Gold Cure Auxiliary club meets next Monday evening at the Institute at 7:30 for the annual election of officers. The officers request every member who possibly can do so to be present.

The ladies Auxiliary club will give an entertainment at the Institute parlors, Wednesday evening Oct. 4th. The entertainment will consist of music, elocution, etc. by Northville's best talent. The object is a worthy one and should receive a liberal patronage.

After the engagement of the "Our Irish Neighbors" company at the opera house tonight the management of the house will doubtless be conducted by Messrs Butler & Shaffer personally. The house has been well advertised the past year and better troupes than ever will no doubt seek to book here.

Who wants to be to beat this fact? Edward Whitaker brings to the RECORD office a bundle of elegantly-eared cornstalks which are fifteen feet tall. Some of the ears are eight feet from the bottom of the stalks. The corn is of the Hickory King variety and Mr. Whitaker's ten acre field averages nearly all like this.

The will, with codicil attached, of the late Jonathan Neal, who died on September 17, has been filed for probate. The estate is divided between his daughters, Mrs. Emily Nelson, Mrs. Helen M. Whiting, Mrs. Elizabeth Steward, his grandson Kenneth E. Neal, and an adopted granddaughter, Miss M. Clark. Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Steward are named as executrices.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church are going right ahead with the improvements marked out by the pastor. They have arranged for an "experience meeting" at which each lady will tell how she earned her dollar. Other plans are being hatched whereby to turn an honest penny or two. The RECORD is quite confident that they will find a hearty response among many who are outsiders. Our local pride impels aid in planting attractive churches in our midst. Nothing tones the good opinion for a town from the public, godless as the public may be considered, as fine churches, largely attended services and loyalty among the brethren. We understand that a complete revolution will take place within this church and when the last tack is driven and after the doors have been reopened, Pastor Belding will hold forth amid the electric brightness of an old church with a brand new "patent inside."

Some five hundred cards of wedding invitations are being sent to the friends of Miss Hattie L. Yerkes of this place and Dr. John McKenzie of Fall River, Mass. The marriage will probably be the most beautiful and elaborate that has ever occurred in this vicinity, hence all Northville is on the qui vive. The event will take place on the evening of October 18, in the Presbyterian church, Rev. J. M. Belding performing the ceremony that gives one of Northville's brightest ladies to the man of her choice and affection. The bride will be attended by maids of honor from Northville and Detroit, while the ushers will accompany the groom from the east. The grand reception to follow at the residence of the bride's parents on Main street will be under the immediate superintendence of Detroit caterers. The RECORD understands one or two more weddings are about to be announced. This is alright, but though there is a large gain somewhere, Northville mourns the loss of her fair daughter.

Smith's preparatory sale will do you good.

PURELY PERSONAL.

Miss Hathaway is at the world's fair. Miss Eva Little is visiting in Detroit this week.

Arch McPhail has returned to Northville again.

Fred Ward is up at Eaton Rapids for a brief visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Catermole visited Wayne Tuesday.

Emory Beal of Ypsilanti was visiting in town Sunday.

Mrs. W. H. Yerkes spent last week and a part of this in Detroit.

Grandma Cady is spending a week with her daughter in Ypsilanti.

After a brief vacation Dr. Attridge, D. V. S. is back at his post again.

Miss Alice Beal returned to her school studies in Albion Tuesday.

F. R. Beal was down in Ohio on a three days business trip this week.

Will Nash of Naperville, Wis., is visiting Northville relatives this week.

Mrs. A. Bliss of Carleton visited her husband here the first of the week.

Jack Frost visited in and about Northville Monday and Tuesday night.

M. Hutchinson and wife of Detroit Sunday with his sister, Mrs. Wm. Nevison.

Chas. Noble, who has been stopping here some time, has gone to Ann Arbor to attend college.

C. A. Hutton and C. H. Woodman and wife attended Bishop Bowman's services at Detroit Sunday.

Uncle Joe D. Yerkes and his wife start about Oct. 19 for the south. Their stay will be indefinite.

L. A. Beal is on a trip through the state this week in the interest of the Harranan and Globe companies.

Rev. Wm. Dawe and wife, presiding elder of the Saginaw district, spend today with Mr. and Mrs. Rev. S. Reed.

The Detroit Presbytery met in South Lyon Tuesday. Elders H. M. White and J. D. Covert represented the local church.

Prof. Bliss, Lee Lamoreaux, Alfred Ely and F. Kingsbury biked to Detroit Sunday to hear Bishop Bowman preach.

Mrs. L. C. VanDyne of Ovid is spending some time with her brother and sister, Mrs. C. A. Downer, who is very ill.

Mrs. J. S. Teeple of this place and Mrs. Fleischer of Wayne, left yesterday for a ten days visit at Ovid, Owsoso and St. Johns.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Farwell of Watertown, Mass., spent Sunday with J. A. Harper and family. Mrs. Farwell is a sister of Mr. Harper.

Mrs. M. P. Rathburn returned to her home in Detroit Wednesday after a very pleasant visit with her friends and relatives in and near this place.

Mrs. Distin and child of Grand Rapids are spending a few weeks at Frank Maccombers. Mrs. Macomber and Mrs. Distin are in Detroit a few days this week.

Miss Ethelwin Dubuar left yesterday for Ann Arbor where she will take a musical course. Miss Phebe Beal will take her place as organist at the Presbyterian church.

Mr. and Mrs. Dr. E. N. Root, Miss Harvie and Master Louie Root and Miss Alexandre left Tuesday for the world's fair. On their return trip Miss Harvie will stop off at Jackson for a short visit.

Our enterprising dry goods merchant Mr. Smith, has just returned from Williamston where he purchased a large stock of goods which will be removed here shortly. The good folks of that town sought to induce Mr. Smith to open up business there but he declared Northville the place of his affection.

W. A. Morton, editor Little Rock, (Ark.), Commonwealth and wife were the guests at E. S. Woodman's a few days last week. Attorney Woodman after seven years of it is just finishing the settlement of an estate for Mr. Morton's uncle, the place now occupied we believe by the W. C. T. U. hall and B. S. Webber.

Rev. J. M. Belding and Charlie Northrop left Tuesday evening over the Wabash for Chicago. Mr. Belding rather expects to preach next Sunday in Joliet. They will visit the Illinois state penitentiary and take in Chicago's numerous attractions outside of the fair. Mr. Belding lived ten years in the big city and knows her every turn and crook.

CLOSED BY MORTGAGE.

Yes, that is the unfortunate condition of a well known wholesale Gents' Furnishings goods store in Detroit, who have been compelled to close out their stock in order to meet a heavy mortgage that has been foreclosed, and the natural consequence was that they have made prices accordingly, and I therefore "struck it rich" while attending their sale this week. The principal thing that interested me was their line of Men's and Boys' Underwear!

For I never saw during all my business experience as fine a line as they displayed; and to say that I bought them cheap means that I shall sell them at prices that will save you money. "Proof of the pudding is chewing the string." So here goes. The line ranges in price from 25c to $1.50 per garment, but our specialty will be an elegant line of Men's Triple-ply, three thread, Fleece Lined Lisle Mixed Underwear; these are especially fine and warm, and anyone can wear them as the fleece lining does away with all itching, making them soft and delightful to the wearer. The above is a plain statement of the facts and Now Listen to the Music in our Prices. On Saturday, Sept. 30th, we will place on sale the entire line of Men's and Boys' Underwear at exactly

1-4 Off The Regular Price.

Special Hat Sale!

SATURDAY will also be Hat Day; for I also struck it rich in Men's Hats and at the same time we will open 3 Cases of Late Style Derby Hats in Black, Tans and Browns; usually sold by other dealers at $2 to $3, and place the entire lot on sale at $1 each. Don't miss the best opportunity you ever had. This means business, and just as advertised.

NOVI.

C. E. Goodell spent Tuesday in Detroit.

Chas. H. Bennett of Detroit and Clara K. Burrows are married.

We understand there is an Orange Lodge organized in our midst. Alas! success to 'em.

Mr. and Mrs. Delos Leavenworth and Miss Lillie Tingle spent last Saturday in Detroit.

Don't forget the Sunday school entertainment given at the Baptist church on Friday night of this week.

R. M. Johnson and wife, O. M. Whipple and wife and Frank Bloomer were among those who visited the world's fair last week.

Several persons from our village attended the public installation of officers and banquet of the Eastern Star lodge at Northville last Friday evening.

Last Saturday evening A. B. Roblin started to take a lead of ladies to the Crusaders meeting at Farmington, but just before reaching the toll gate the pole broke scattering the horses and they started to run away dragging Mr. Roblin out over the dash board. The shock threw Mrs. Roblin and Aggie McCrumb out. Mrs. Roblin was the only one severely hurt. She struck on her face bruising it considerably, both wheels passing over her shoulders in jarring them quite badly but breaking no bones. They all returned home as soon as possible, a sadder but wiser crowd. Next time they will not cut cross-lots.

Mrs. Magill and Mrs. and Miss West have returned from the fair.

Wm. Danton lost a fine cow last week. The animal choked on an apple.

Mrs. Perkins, sister of our station agent has returned home from an extended visit to Lansing and adjacent towns.

The young people of the Summit Mission church held a very enjoyable social at the residence of Fred S. Sapp Tuesday.

David Foreman who has been rail roading it in the west for the past year has returned home and will remain for the winter.

The cornet band attended the Congregational church picnic social at John Waterman's on Friday and discoursed sweet music.

F. Packard and wife of Detroit stopped over at Salem on Tuesday to visit their parents. They were returning from the world's fair.

Several gentlemen from Salem attended the evening meetings of the Detroit Presbytery held at South Lyon Tuesday and Wednesday.

The attendance at Mrs. M. C. Tombers' eleventh birthday on Saturday was small. The lady is master of her art and it is to be regretted that she did not have better patronage.

Rev. W. H. Shannon closed his fourth year as pastor of the Congregational church of Salem last Sabbath. It has been four years of prosperity, financially and spiritually, for the church. He will be retained for the coming year.

The Baptist Sabbath school held a Harvest Home festival in their church, last Sabbath morning in behalf of state missions. A very impressive and beautiful program was rendered. The church also was artistically trimmed with products of the season's harvest.

The C. I. S. C. elected the following officers last Monday: President, Chas. Rider; vice pres, Rev. D. H. Conrad; corres. sec'y, Mrs. Shannon; rec. sec'y, Prof. Wheeler; program committee, Dr. Tweedale, Rev. Conrad, Prof. Wheeler, Mrs. Shannon and Mrs. Renwick. The circle starts with some fifteen

The funeral services of Mrs. John J. Fomm, whose death was mentioned in last week's issue, were held last week Wednesday from the German church, Clarenceville, Rev. Mayer of Jackson officiating.

Yes, Mr. Editor, Farmington is a live town, or at least has been for the past week, and Northville will also be termed the same if she is only honored by the merry go-round that has just departed from our town. (Can't turn our heads that way Ed.)

F. M. Warner and wife were greatly and agreeably surprised one evening last week by the assembling of about twenty relatives and friends who had met to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding-day. As is usually the case at such festivities a most enjoyable time was passed and the company dispersed wishing their host and hostess many returns of the occasion.

THAYER'S CORNERS.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Packard returned from Chicago on Sunday last.

Miss Edith Perkins returned from her visit at Belting on Monday last.

The threatening weather on Sunday afternoon prevented a full attendance at the 5 o'clock concert at the Pebble church.

Miss Grace Babbitt of Chicago, niece of Mrs. Peter Coldren, has been visiting her aunt and other friends here the past week.

It did appear as if the clouds made a vigorous effort to rain last Sabbath, but the effort was abortive. Notwithstanding the passage of dark, heavy clouds across the firmament, to and fro, only a few slight sprinkles resulted.

The peach social at J. B. Waterman's on Friday evening of last week for the Congregational society was well patronized. The cornet band came over and in addition to peaches cream and sponge cake the company were treated to several selections of fine music.

Mrs. Rufus Thayer is apparently a little more feeble and debilitated than usual at this writing. Will Thayer of Chicago who has been here for several days visiting his mother and other friends left for home on Tuesday morning. Mrs. Thayer will return to Gross Isle and spend a few days with her friends before returning to Chicago.
