THE EXPERIENCE SOCIAL.

The Way Northville Ladies Earned a Dollar.

The much talked of experience social under the arrangement of the ladies of the Presbyterian church occurred at the residence of W. G. Lapham last week Friday evening. There was an exceedingly large attendance and included members from all the village churches. Rev. J. M. Belding acted as master of ceremonies and his ready wit mingled with quite original puns kept the crowd present in an overbubbling humorous condition until it got to be rather a favor to drop a dollar in the barrel. Several persisted in contributing even after Mr. Belding had concluded the program and announced lunch.

The ladies told in a witty manner the various exploits, encounters and hardships which they had passed through to earn their dollar and we here give a portion in the order as recited:

Mrs. J. O. Knapp earned her's washing and baking.

Mrs. O. L. Johnson patched O. L.'s grain bags for a dollar's worth.

Mrs. L. W. Simmons was not present but sent a statement showing that she went to Milford at a cost of seventy-five cents and there earned a quarter. The balance she got by patching pantaloons, selling cakes, apples and a quart of pumpkin seeds.

Mrs. J. A. Dubuar had a novel experience and if entered on a ledger would read something like this: Baking cake 45c; cleaning office windows with a step ladder and drawing shades down from above to cover up dirt couldn't reach 15c; hours 15c; begging a penny each from nineteen persons 19c; allowing husband to go one week without being shaved, never do it again 10c; another cake 10c; donated by J. A. Se. Total $1.

Mrs. W. G. Yerkes sold fried cakes, pie, bread and French mustard; washed windows and blacked Will's boots all for a fifty-seven cent silver dollar. Miss Stoner earned a dollar making cottage cheese and candy and remarked that a number of her customers being present in apparent good health was a proof that no bad results had followed her sales.

Mrs. Geo. Bradley said she laundered her husband's shirt—she was afterwards permitted, by special request, to amend her words to read "a shirt for her husband"—but finding the profits too small she concluded to change from the laundry to the bakery business and with her basket of cakes and enticing words went from house to house selling her ware till the profits added to the laundry business balance had added up one hundred cents.

Mrs. O. L. Barnhart showed herself to be a financier of no mean ability. They had been paying fifty cents a week for cow pasture and taking the old adage of "a penny saved is two pennies made" for her arithmetic, she personally boarded the bovine along the road and in neighbors yards a week thus earning her dollar.

Mrs. L. A. Babbitt did janitor work at the bank for half a dollar and an ironing and once blacking Lew's shoes fetched the balance.

Mrs. Dr. Swift said she earned her dollar by writing. Mrs. Swift was too modest to tell what she wrote when questioned, and the Record has half a notion to give the secret away and tell that 'twas she who drew up the very pretty resolutions which the council afterwards adopted thanking "Uncle" John Gardner in behalf of the village for the gift of the tower clock, for which she received a dollar.

Mrs. Lyman Yerkes shaved her husband a dollar's worth and said that Lyman was half tickled to death when she had completed the contract. Mr. Yerkes offered two dollars to be permitted to tell his experience.

Mrs. D. B. Northrop set up a one-horse livery stable for a brief period and made her pony clear her that required sum.

Misses Belle Covert and Frances McConnell had formed a partnership and in a poetical way recited their experiences in blacking shoes, sweeping and milking cows.

Mrs. E. B. Thompson, besides cleaning windows for a newly married couple, picked up cider apples. She said the apples which took her two hours to pick up was a six days job for Ed to get to the cider mill. This either was a compliment on the lady's ability as an apple picker or reflected greatly on Ed's reputation as a hustler.

Mrs. E. N. Root did a world's fair washing, patched pants, pured peaches and pounded gold over at the dental office till she had garnered the necessary quantity of coin.

Mrs. B. A. Wheeler besides ironing,

picked peaches and cut corn for a dollar.

C. M. Joslin gave his wife a dollar to black their last season's coal stove and she did it.

Mrs. E. S. Horton earned a dollar by getting up mornings and building the fires while the genial post-master lay and snoozed. She said that now Ed wants her to hold down the same position all winter.

Mrs. C. R. Stevens in a very neat piece of poetry told how she gathered in the requisite sum by cleaning a house, baking and sewing.

Mrs. Jas. Sessions hemmed a dozen wedding napkins for a dollar.

Mrs. Harrison Yerkes went for the milk at a cent a night, and sold eggs, washed and picked apples for enough more to make the ninety and ten.

Mrs. H. E. Lake well earned a big elegant dollar washing the E. & P. M. depot windows.

Mrs. W. H. Yerkes said, "I have no experience, but here is my large round dollar." And it was silently gathered beside its mates.

Mrs. Gillispie blacked boots and repaired bolting cloth a dollar's worth.

Mrs. W. P. Yerkes was another cottage cheese manufacturer.

Mrs. Stout wrote a story entitled, "The Frisky Heifer" and sold it to the Baptist Herald for one dollar.

Mrs. Geo. Hueston and F. D. Butler were two more business partners and in the manner of the book of Chronicles, which was very ingeniously and comically compiled by Mrs. Asa Smith, ludicrously described how they together earned two dollars cleaning the office at Yerkes Bros. flouring mills, two lumber yard offices and husking corn.

Mrs. W. G. Lapham earned her dollar keeping fire in the grate and carrying a part of the wood from the orchard.

A few others related commonplace experiences while a number dropped their dollar in the barrel claiming they had no experience. After this part of the program had been finished the ladies served lunch.

Thanks to host and hostess' alertness and painstaking everyone was made to feel at home and entered heartily into the social enjoyment of the occasion. The receipts will net the society something like $100.

Around the Country.

Mrs. Rev. Silas Warner a prominent Wayne lady died Tuesday.

If the village of Wayne can borrow $500 they can run along till next tax season.

A bold gang of bandits have been unearthed at Dearborn where they had their abode in an unused church.

Harry Wills, adopted son of Evangelist Wills, was arrested at Holly for stealing $125 from George Johnson with whom he formerly lived.

Fred Arms a South Lyon school boy caught a ball in the eye instead of his arms and in consequence lost his temper and several days' schooling last week.

H. O. Wills the well known evangelist is conducting a general revival in the wicked village of Holly. By-the-way didn't Holly have a cyclone about this time last year?

New York city feels very proud over the fact that she can now talk direct with Ann Arbor via long distance telephone. This will doubtless be a great convenience for New York people.

George King didn't stay locked up in the Milford prison. He simply tore the cage open and got scot free. His room-mate turned states evidence and informed the sheriff of the exit and got locked up over at Pontiac for his reward. Now he's sorry that he spoke.

The Farmington literary society is wrestling this week with the question of, "Resolved that money has more influence than women." Here's a suggestion for their next meeting providing the affirmative decision is reached: Resolved that women has the influence to get that money which has more influence than women.

W. C. T. U. DISTRICT CONVENTION.

In Session Here Three Days This Week.

The W. C. T. U. district convention opened their sixteenth annual convention here Wednesday morning, President Mrs. Jennie Voorhies of Plymouth presiding. The secretary, Mrs. Clara Frisbee, and treasurer, Mrs. E. L. Beals of the same village, were also present and together with representatives from nine unions, Canton, Flat Rock, Wyandotte, Nankin, Wayne, Plymouth, Northville, Central and Willard of Detroit, went into executive session and patched up breaks in the program. The ladies all wore the suffrage and union ribbons, yellow and white.

Mrs. Rev. Seth Reed delivered a very neat address of welcome to which Mrs. Fannie Thompson of Detroit made a fitting response.

The attraction of the evening was Mrs. Lathrop, state president. She was greeted with a large audience and her address was a most excellent one.

Thursday morning, Mrs. Lathrop gave a short talk again but did not quite finish even then as she was obliged to hurriedly leave in order to catch the homeward bound train. Miss Rowley of Flat Rock read Mrs. Craue's paper on the Scientific Temperance Department and rather went for the third-grade certificate school teacher system which did not oblige the study or examination of the injury of narcotics on the system. Twelve unions were represented, with a total of twenty-six delegates.

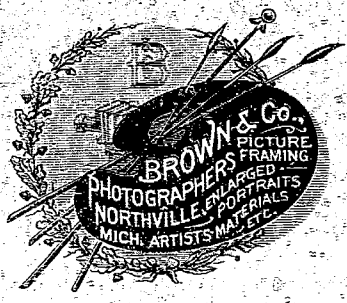

Mrs. Boutelle delivered a very interesting address in the afternoon on the women's suffrage question. She said that the knock out by the supreme court was more a matter of sorrow than disappointment, for they half expected it.

Mrs. Latour presented a roll fifty-two feet in length, five columns wide, containing newspaper clippings, no two alike, of crimes caused by drink. Among the items was the statement that during the years '91 and '92, 130,000 wives had been murdered by drunken husbands. This roll of crime will be exhibited at the state convention. The evening was given to the address of Mrs. Clarkson of Fairgrove.

Today will be devoted to general routine work, summing up, and the election of officers. This evening the oratorical contest for a prize offered by the district takes place. The contestants are Miss Ketchum, Carleton; Miss Calkins, Plymouth; Miss McMillan and Mr. Charles Talbot, Detroit.

The Record regrets that time and space forbids a more lengthy notice of the convention this week.

Editor Bloomer of Farmington has become a full fledged criminal lawyer and in his first case, last week, he knocked out the prosecuting attorney on some technical Blackstone points. Bro. Bloomer is also city school director, an ex-alderman, a Sunday school teacher and a bicycle rider. Verily, the life of a Farmington editor ought to be full of blooms.

"Unsafe Life Boats" the Subject of a Stirring Sermon Preached Last Sunday—"Then the Soldiers Cut Off the Ropes," etc., in Acts.

BROOKLYN, Oct. 22.—After preaching on nearly 4,000 different subjects, and is now closely followed by the printing press for about twenty-five years, Rev. Dr. Talmage still seems to find new subjects that have never been preached on. This afternoon he chose for his subject: "Unsafe Life-boats." The text being: Acts 27:3, "Then the soldiers cut off the ropes of the While your faces are yet somewhat bronzed by attendance on the international boat contest between the Virginians and the Valkyrie I address you. Good things when there is no betting or dissipation those outdoor sports. We want more fresh air and breeziness in our temperaments and our reign. A safe and so luxurious religion may have done for other times, yet will not do for these. But my text calls our attention to a boat of a different sort, and inns ed of the Atlantic, it is the Mediterranean, and instead of northward enough, the waves of the sea roll southward. The Valkyrie to that day complained that it is too much wind and the swoop of a Euxine gale. I am not calling your attention so much to the famous ship on which Paul was the distinguished passenger, but to the lifeboat of that ship which no one seems to notice. For a fortnight the main vessel had been tossed and driven. For that two weeks, the account says, the passengers had continued fasting. I suppose the water, during our voyage, spoiled the food, and the passengers were seasick anyhow. The sailors said, "It is no use, this ship must go down," and they proposed among themselves to lower the lifeboat and get into it, and take the chances for reaching shore, although they pretended they were going to get over the sides of the big ship and down into the lifeboat only, to do sailors' duty. That was not so or life, for the sailors that I have known were all interested fellows, and would rather go down with the ship than to save anything.

those Jack I wrote my text attempted. When on the Medite ranee last June, the Victoria sunk under the ram of the Lamperdown, the most majestic thing about that awful scene, was that all the sailors staid at their posts doing their duty. As a class all over the world sailors are valurous, but these sailors of the text were exceptional and pretended to do duty while they were really preparing for fight in the lifeboat. But the 'marines on board'-sea soldiers-had in special charge a little missionary who was turning the world upside down, and when these marines saw the trick the sailors were about to play, they lifted the cutlasses from the girdle and chop, chop, went those cutlasses into the ropes that held the lifeboat and 'spah it dropped into the sea.' My text describes it: 'The soldiers cut off the ropes of the boat and let her fall off.' As that empty lifeboat dropped and was capsized on a sea where for two weeks winds and billows had been in battle, I think that man on board the main vessel felt their last hope of rescue was gone.

My subject is "Unsafe Lifeboats." We cannot exaggerate the importance of the lifeboat. All honor to the memory of Lionel Lukin, the coach builder of Lang Acre, London, who invented the first lifeboat, and I do not blame him for ordering put upon his tombstone in Kent the inscription that you may still read there:

"This Lionel Lukin was the first who built a lifeboat and was the original inventor of that principle of safety, by which many lives and much property have been preserved from shipwreck; and he obtained for it the king's patent in the year 1785."

All I want to do is to the memory of Sir William Hillary, who, living in the Isle of Man, and after assisting with his own band in the rescue of 305 lives of the shipwrecked, stirred the English parliament to quick action in the construction of lifeboats. Thanks to God for the sublime and pathetic and divine mission of the lifeboat. No one will doubt its important mission who has read of the wreck of the Amazon in the bay of Biscay; of the life d running on the reefs of the Gulf of Mexico; or of the Ocean Monarch on the coast of Wales; or of the Birkenhead on the Cape of Good Hope; or of the Royal Charter on the coast of Anglesea; or of the Exmouth on the Scotch breakers; or of the Cambria on the Irish coast; or of the Atlantic on the rocks of Nova Scotia; or of the Lexington on Long Island Sound. To add still further to the importance of the lifeboat, remember that at least 3,000,000 men follow the sea, to the detriment of the uncounted millions this moment on passengers. We "land-lubbers," as sailors call us, may not know the difference between a sailing-pike and a ring bolt, or anything about heaving a log, or rigging out a flying jib boom, or furling a top-sail, but we all realize to greater or less extent the importance of a lifeboat in every marine equipment. But do we feel the importance of a lifeboat in the matter of the soul's rescue? There are times when we all feel that we are out at sea, and many disturbing and anxious questions strike us as waves struck that vessel away from the sides of which the lifeboat of our next danger lies. Questions about the church. Questions about the world. Questions about God. Questions about our eternal destiny. Every thinking man and woman have these questions, and in proportion as they are thinking people do these questions arise. There is no wrong in thinking. If God had not intended us to think and keep on thinking, he would not have built under this wheelhouse of the skull this thinking machine, which halts not in its revolutions from cradle to grave. Even the midnight does not stop the thinking machine, for when we are in dreams we are thinking, although we do not think awarely.

though we do not think as well. All of us who are accustomed to thinking want to reach some solid shore of safety and satisfaction, and if anyone has a good lifeboat that we may honorably take, I wish he would unloading it from the davits and let us get into it and put for shore. But I give you fair notice. I must first

Millions of people want to get into it. They jostle each other to get the best seat in the boat. You could not keep them back though you stood at the gunwales with a club over your ship. Grease in a hurricane, and the steerage passengers were determined to come ashore, where they would have been washed off and the officers stood at the top of the stairs clubbing them back. Even by such violence as that you could not keep people from jumping into the most popular life-boat made of church-member inconsistencies. In times of revival when sinners flock into the inquiry room, the most of them are kept from deciding aright because they know so many Christians are bad. The inquiry room becomes a World's Fair for exhibition of all the frailties of church members, so that if you believe all that is there told you, you would be afraid to enter a church, lest you get your pockets picked or get knocked down. This is the way they talk: "I was cheated out of $500 by a leader of a bible class." "A Sunday school teacher gossiped about me and said he'd best to destroy my good name." "I had a partner in business who swamped our business concern his drakey, and then rolled up his eyes in Friday-night prayer meeting, and thought he were looking for Eljah, that he might make a sea nd trip and take up another passenger." But what a cracked and yawning and graping-seamed lifeboat the foolish enemies of orders! Put me on a shingle mid-Atlantic, and leave me there, rather than in such a yawl of spiritual confidence. God forbid that I should get aboard it, and lest some of you make the mistake of getting into it, I do as the mariners did on this Mediterranean: ship when the sailors were about to get into the unsafe lifeboat of the text, and lose their lives in that way. "Then the soldiers cut off the ropes of the boat, and let her fall off."

"Well," says some o' e, "this subject is very discouraging for we must have a lifeboat, if we are ever to get ashore, and you have already condemned this." Ah, it is because I want to persuade you to take the only safe lifeboat. I will not allow you to be deceived and get on to the wild waves and then capsize or sink.

Then God, there is a lifeboat that will take you ashore in safety. I sure God is God and heaven is heaven. The seven ribs that was used to make out of a tree that was cut out of a bluff back of Jeru said a good many years ago. Both of the oars were made out of the same tree. The rowlocks are made out of the same tree. The planks of it were hammered together by the hammers of executioners, who thought they were only killing a Christ, but we really pounding together an escape for all imperiled souls of all ages. It is an old out, but good as new, though it has been carrying passengers from sinning ships to firm shore for ages, and has nev'r lost a passenger. These old Christians begin to smile because it is dawning upon them what I mean. The fact is that in this way years ago they got off a wack themselves, and I do not wonder they smile. It is not a senseless griggle that means frivolity, but it is a smile like that on the face of Christians the moment they leave earth for heaven, yea, like the smile of God himself when he had completed the plan for saving the world.

Right after was a big tumble of the Atlantic coast a few weeks ago, on the beach at East Ham ton I met the captain of the life-saving station and said, "Captain, do you think

"Lifeboat could live in a sea like that?"
 Although the worst of it was over, the
 captain replied: "No, I do not think it could." But this lifeboat of which I speak can live in any sea and defies
 all breakers and all cyclones and all
 equinoxes and all earth and all hell.
 In twenty years the life-saving apparatus along our Atlantic coast saved
 the lives of over 45,000 of the shipwrecked, but this lifeboat that I commend has saved twenty years and hundreds of millions of the shipwrecked.
 Like those newly-invented English
 lifeboats, it is innumerable self-righting and self-bailing. All along our rocky American coast things were left to chance for centuries, and the shipwrecked crawled up on the beach to die unless some happened to walk along or
 some fisherman's hut might be near.
 But after the ship Ayshire was wrecked at Coast Beach a day
 later the lifeboat left the beach and dead
 strewn along our coast, and another
 vessel went on the rocks, four hundred
 lives, erishing, the United States government woke up and made an appropriation of $29,000 for life-saving
 stations, and life-lines for a faking-
 box are shot over the wild surf, and hawsers are stretched for a wreck on shore, and what with Ly'e's gun and
 six-oared surf-boat, with cork at the sides to make it unsinkable, and patrolmen all night long walking the beach until they meet each other and
 the lifeboat, the lifeboat can show
 the entire beach has been traversed
 and the coston fig has been rope in
 shore to sufferer, and surfiner, encased
 in Merriman life-saving dress, and life-car rolling on the ropes, there are many probabilities of rescue for
 the unfortunate of the sea.
 But the government of the United States has made better provision for the rescue of our souls. So close by that at this moment we can put
 our hand on its top and swing into it.
 This is gospel lifeboat. It will not take you more than a minute to get

But while in my text we stand watching the mariners with their cutlasses, preparing to sever the ropes of the lifeboat and let her go afloat, I notice the poor equipment. Only one lifeboat, two hundred and seventy-six passengers, as Paul counted them, and only one lifeboat. My text uses the singular and not the plural, "Cut off the ropes of the boat." I do not suppose it would have held more than thirty people, though loaded to the water's edge. I think by marine law all our modern vessels have enough lifeboats to hold all the crew and all the passengers in case of emergency, but the mariners of my text were standing by the only boat, and that a small boat, and yet two hundred and seventy-six passengers. But what thrills me through and through is the fact that though we are wrecked by sin and trouble, and there is only one lifeboat, that boat is large enough to hold all who are willing to get into it. The gospel hymn expresses it:

All may come, whoever will,
This Man receives poor sinners still.

But I must hush in that statement a little. Room for all in that lifeboat, with just one exception. Not you; I do not mean you, but there is one ex-

AGAIN IN GRAND REVIEW.

Halting, limping, bending over, Heroes of the days of yore, Neath the flag you bravely bore, March in grand review once more.

Grant is missing, so is Meade, Sherman and Warlike Stead, Sherman, Hancock, all indeed, Many others who did lead.

Where the whistling shot and shell Sounded as a funeral knell, As the columns with a yell Charged and fought, and fought and fell.

Logan, with his eye of might, Custer, with his sabre bright, Hooker, with his summer light, And over all the God of Right.

Formed a phalanx that the foe Strove in vain to overthrow, And our stars emblazoned glow As with footsteps weary, slow.

Those who once wore Heaven's blue, Fought the fight, and won it, too, Marched on and on, and on, Heroes loyal, soldiers true.

Stripes of crimson midst the white, Stars of glory crown'd with light, Azure of high Heaven's might, In the battle cloud of night.

Those men from their workshops came, Not then aged, nor nor lame, That in holy Freedom's name They might in the battle's flame.

Hold thee floating overhead, Hold thee o'er their comrades dead, Hold thee though the field was red, Hold thee till each foe had fled.

Hold thee in the charge-off given, Hold thee though by bullets riven, Hold thee, facing, never driven, Hold thee as the Lord holds Heaven.

—Dud Bell.

Amusing Incidents of War.

If a little humor is welcome to the best of us, there are times when it is a relief even in the midst of danger. None knows this better than the soldier who will stop to laugh before filling even his canteen, though the water may in an hour be of priceless value to him, writhing in agony from a wound. An instance of this sort is as fresh as if I had made merry over it only yesterday. We had a long and tedious march through the mountains without water for many days, and the thing was getting serious. Chewing a bullet was all very well for a time, but our tongues were now swollen, and as for the animals, they walked painfully with drooping heads and discomfited tails. At last the van came across a Mexican who managed to make out what we wanted, and informed us that just beyond a ridge like the sharpened backbone of some petrified monster rising about three miles to our left, there was a spring of good mineral water.

The column faced about, and with renewed hope we started for the spot, and after half an hour came in sight of a little dip where we guessed lay the promised stream. Two of the men hastened forward to get the first drink, running a close race. When they arrived it was to find that there was a spring sure enough, but it was all but dry. The sandy bottom was still moist, and by the dint of getting down on one's knees and patting the sand a little water would rise. The two men seeing this, and each anxious to secure what was left, both made a break for it. They nearly tripped each other up, and then clinched, determined to win the prize or know the reason why. One, John Ketchum, finally knocked his companion down, but as luck would have it, he fell into the spring itself.

John jerked him out again as hastily as possible, but it was too late. Jack Harris' clothes had absorbed all the moisture there was, and when we came up with them John, sobbing aloud, was squeezing his comrade tightly in his arms, but not from affection. Oh, no; it was to dry and drain him free of the precious water. There was one shout of laughter. Forgetful of their sufferings all joined in and laughed the harder when John turned a reproachful eye on us as he gave up squeezing the heart-broken Jack with a well-delivered kick. "I don't see how you can laugh. This damned fool has sopped all the water up, and there ain't none," we all cried, and he's too all-fired lousy for that."

It was while the Confederate army was falling back from Dalton, Ga., down to Atlanta that three scouts volunteered to go out and feel the strength of the enemy nearest at hand. They had advanced as close to the Union picket-line as they dared, when suddenly from the cover of the woods there came running in double quick time a squad of blue-clad men and behind them one or two cavalry officers. The Confederates turned without any ceremony and broke across a cornfield. One gallantly led the reversed charge, and his companions seeing him reach a rail fence in his flight, shouted to him: "Lay down the fence, Bob; lay down the fence for us." But friendship was but an empty word to Bob right then, and he undertook to leap his horse over the obstruction. Alas! the straining speed made too short a spring and fell athwart the topmost rail, and Bob hung there until his friends arrived, when he implored them: "For God's sake, boys, stop and lift me off. The horse'll kill me even if the Yankees don't," and laughing themselves, as did their pursuers, they good-naturedly helped him out of his predicament.—Philadelphia Times.

Firing Sea-Coast Guns.

Behind the bullet-proof sides of his conning-tower sits the captain of the battery, waited for his target to be indicated to him by the commander of the fort. In front of him is spread out the chart of the harbor, on which are marked in zones the elevations necessary for his guns to reach the different squares. A powerful telescope, working on an arc graduated to correspond accurately with the traverse circles of the guns, enables him to search any part of the harbor, while by means of electric buttons convenient to his hand he can discharge his battery from his position in the tower. Behind him stands his first sergeant, to assist him in his work; and in the adjacent room, protected from shot and shell, the telegraph operators and assistants are waiting for the signal to commence the fight.

Suddenly the heavy silence is broken by the clanging of an electric gong, and everybody takes his place in readiness for the combat. The telegraph instrument clicks the order. "Your target is the battleship 'Sanspareil,' the second ship in the first echelon." The captain trains his telescope on the vessel indicated, reads the corresponding angle on the arc, and makes the necessary corrections for wind and other delecting causes. From the direction and speed of the vessel he quickly estimates how far she will have gone by the time the guns are ready to be fired, and having made this final correction in the reading of his telescope, he obtains the proper direction to be given the gun in order to hit the ship. In the meantime the observers at the ends of the base-line, at a signal from the commanding officer, take the angles of the vessel, and telegraph them back to the central station. Here they are quickly plotted by the adjutant as shown in the diagram, and he wires to the captain of the battery, "Square 21." The captain looks at his chart for Square 21, reads the elevation marked on it and sends this elevation, together with the angle described above, to the lieutenants at the guns.

A sharp command is given, and the cannons spring to their places, the great guns are swung slowly until the pointers on the carriages are set to the required angle on the traverse circles and firmly clamped. The gunners mount quickly on the platforms in rear of the pieces, place the sights in their sockets and give the guns the proper elevation, while the other cannons retire to the rear of the casemate, there to await the result of their shots at a target they have never seen. "All ready, sir," is passed back to the captain, who, with his eye to the telescope, presses the button that fires number one. A mighty roar fills the arches of the casemate and an earthquake seems to be upheaving the floor; but, heedless of it all, the cannons spring back to their posts and begin sponging and loading the piece. The telegraph instrument in the conning-tower clicks again; the observers at the base-ends are sending word, "Your first shot fifty yards short." The captain immediately sends the proper correction to the gunners, and when this correction is made the fires number two.—Harper's Weekly.

28 BURNED AND BLACKENED BODIES FROM THE WRECK

Of a Fast Express Which Collided With a World's Fair Excursion, Head-on, at Battle Creek—Death and Disaster from Disobeyed Orders.

A special train known as No. 6, returning from the World's Fair on the Chicago & Grand Trunk railroad had orders to stop on a siding at Nichols station, one mile from Battle Creek, to await the passage of the fast Pacific express, No. 9, westbound. Both trains were behind time, the engineer of the special passed the switch and was running at a moderate rate of speed when the Pacific express, running about 40 miles an hour, dashed around a curve which begins at Nichols, in an instant there was a fearful crash and at least 28 deaths resulted.

The special train stood the shock without more than a shudder excepting the baggage car at the head end, which had its front end stove in. None of the passengers on that train were injured beyond a severe shaking up. On the other train, all the horror was experienced. The coaches behind the baggage car went to splinters. The train was made up of thirteen coaches and the first four were telescoped. The passengers were caught in their seats and the general mass of ruins and so added to their misery, the burning lamps exploded and in a moment the four cars were a sheet of flame. The two engines were a total wreck. The hour was 3:50 a. m., and there was few people to witness the disaster, but the station agent sent in a fire alarm and telephoned the news of the disaster. The firemen answered promptly, but there was no way to get at the burning wreck except to haul the fire apparatus down the track by hand. The firemen worked hard on the wreck and took out every body and practically cleared away the debris. The second coach of the express left its trucks, plowed right through the third coach, scraped all the seats and passengers along with it, and deposited them in a heap in the end of the car where most of the bodies were found. This coach was known as "No. 13, the unlucky," it having been in four previous wrecks.

Twenty-six burned dead bodies in all were removed and of that number but six were identified the others were merely a lot of charred bones or a mass of burned flesh. Twenty-eight were injured, at least two, possibly eight, fatally.

The scenes which confronted the rescuers at work trying to save some of the unfortunates passengers were most heart-rending. The most awful experience was that of Mrs. C. C. Van Dusen, of Springfield, N. Y. She was pinned in the car at a window, only the lower portion of her body was fastened, her hands and head being free. Suddenly the cry of fire was raised and the brave woman who had uttered a cry from what must have been awful injuries called to the men to hurry up. "Practically the rescuers tore at the timbers and iron which surrounded the lady and nearer and nearer cracked the devilish flames. The men cried out that she should not die and they became giants and madmen in strength as they struggled with a heroic fierceness. But the flames crept on and soon their hot tongues were lashing the hands, faces and hair of the brave men and the suffering woman. "My God! it can't be done," cried one man and this was as the death warrant of the helpless creature. She gave one agonizing wail and then her woman's weakness gave way to a martyr's strength. "I can die. Oh, yes! I can die if I must," she said soothingly to this strong man who was weeping in their impotent strength. "Again they struggled breathlessly to rescue her, but the flames claimed the victim. "I am a Christian," she said, resignedly, and a moment later her voice was raised in prayer. The flames completely encircled the helpless victim and the firemen were driven away. As the flames caught her arms, and as she fought to keep the flames from her face she told her name and address and left messages of love to her husband and family. Through their tears they saw the flames sweep around the face of the martyred woman. The head dropped to one side as the victim inhaled the flames, the praying lips were stilled and the soul of Mrs. Van Dusen had passed beyond the fury of the elements of earth. An hour later the husband, who had been taken to the hospital fatally injured and for whom she had left a loving message, joined her in the world to come.

A careful examination into the cause of the catastrophe shows that there was not a single extenuating circumstance to relieve Conductor Scott and Engineer Woolley of the charge of the grossest negligence and the rankest disobedience of orders. The train dispatcher's book shows that No. 9, the express, was to run to Nichols to meet No. 6, the special. The conductor and engineer of the latter each received orders to meet No. 9 on double track which ends at Nichols. The customary plea in such cases that the men were being overworked does not fit. The crew were starting from Battle Creek fresh when they got their orders. They took the train from the crew that brought it from the west and they were going out after a long rest.

Two more victims have been added to the list—Frank H. Smith, of Fort Plain, N. Y., and Albert Bradley, of Toronto, Ont. Both deaths were from the effects of each having a leg amputated.

It is learned that one of the dead and unidentified was Mrs. E. A. Aldrich of Edwardsburg, Mich. She had been visiting in New York and was on her way home.

Edwin B. Rogers fell from a step-ladder in Lansing and was instantly killed.

The Bulletin is a monthly publication of the Michigan Press association, issued from the Hudson Gazette office.

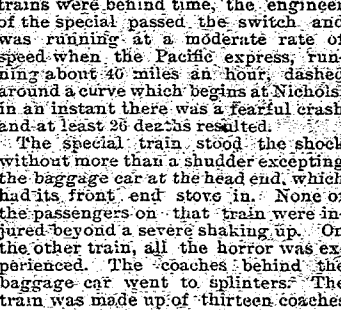

Mrs. S. H. Addis, of Unionville, placed some rough on rats under a cupboard to kill mice. Her 18-month-old child ate it and cannot live.

Gov. Rich has issued the formal order directing the attorney-general to investigate the charges against Sheriff Jacobs, of Shiawassee county, in connection with the lynching of William Sullivan.

BALD HEADS!

What is the condition of yours? Is your hair dry, harsh, brittle? Does it split at the ends? Has it a lifeless appearance? Does it fall out when combed or brushed? Is it full of dandruff? Does your scalp itch? Is it dry or in a heated condition? If these are some of your symptoms be warned in time or you will become bald.

Skookum Root Hair Grower

Is what you need. Its production is not an accident, but the result of scientific research. Knowledge of the diseases of the hair and scalp led to the discovery of how to treat them. "Skookum Root Hair Grower" is a hair restorer, it is not a dye, but a delightfully cooling and refreshing tonic. By stimulating the follicles, it stops falling hair, cures dandruff and grows hair on bald heads.

Keep the scalp clean, healthy, and free from irritating eruptions, by the use of Skookum Root Hair Grower. It destroys parasitic insects, which feed on and destroy the hair.

If your druggist cannot supply you send direct to us, and we will forward promptly, on receipt of price. Grover, $1.00 per bottle; 5 for $5.00. Soap, 50c per jar; 6 for $3.00.

THE RECORD.

EVERY FRIDAY.

F. S. NEAL, Publisher.

OFFICE IN OPERA HOUSE BLOCK.

FRIDAY OCTOBER 27, 1893.

PURELY PERSONAL.

Miss Linnie Dunlap is home again. Frank Dolph is visiting his brother Sam.

Herbert Clarkson paid his mother a visit over Sunday.

Emma Brooks of Detroit is visiting Miss Helen Brooks.

D. L. Keyes returns to Detroit. The Globe Co. employed him.

Emory Beal of Ypsilanti visited his parental home here Sunday.

Miss Maud Richardson spent Tuesday and Wednesday in Detroit.

Martin Brooks of Aleto, Ill. spent Wednesday with A. S. Brooks.

Spencer Clark and wife returned from the fair Saturday morning.

Mrs. C. J. Ball received a visit from her mother of Monroe this week.

B. W. Cook has moved to Midland where we wish him much success.

Mrs. M. E. Paulger and daughter are spending the week in Farmington.

Chas. Highland and family spent Sunday with South Lyon relations.

Herman Leonard and wife of New York is visiting his sister Mrs. A. S. Brooks.

Wm. Lockwood attended the world's fair last week and saw the sights of Midway.

Ed. Wood has just returned from a hunting expedition in the northern part of the state.

Mrs. J. C. Hurley of Saginaw has been visiting at L. W. Hutton's during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Root are now at home in the government residence at the U. S. fish hatchery.

D. A. Arlington of the 19th U. S. Infantry of Ft. Wayne, visited his home here over Sunday.

Mrs. L. W. Hutton, Misses Nina Ambler, Jessie Ely and Mrs. A. W. Ely spent Tuesday at Farmington.

Alexander Milne visited the world's fair last week and a part of this, in company with the Dubuar party.

Fred Horner and Misses Anna Morse and Edith Reed of Ypsilanti were guests of the latter's parents here over Sunday.

Mrs. L. E. McRoberts was just ready to move to Milford when sickness overtook her. She is now somewhat better.

D. McPhail has re-entered the employ of the Globe Co. and goes on the road to set up church pews. He is now in Penn.

Miss Minnie Smith and mother have moved to Ypsilanti where they will remain the winter, the former attending school.

Miss Eaton formerly of Kingston, Ont. arrived in Northville this week where she will make her home with her mother who moved here some time since.

H. W. Bennett and wife of Denver, Col. were among Northville relatives this week. Mrs. Bennett is a daughter of John Thompson of this place and Mr. Bennett is one of Denver's wealthy real estate men.

Don P. Yerkes has moved to Milford to take charge of their flouring mills. R. C. and wife have returned to this village and next week he expects to leave for the south in search of health. Mrs. Yerkes may join him in February.

Rev. Seth Reed with his wife revisited his former field of labor in this city Monday. He was pastor of the Methodist church here in 1851-2, and again later. After dining with E. M. Comstock and family, he made Dr. Ryan a call, looked over the new church and grew enthusiastic over the great changes and improvements since his day. Mr. and Mrs. Reed have granddaughters in the Normal, whom they visited, and then returned to their home near Northville, where, after service in the ministry for half a century, they are living quietly on a farm and awaiting the final summons. —Ypsilantian.

Mrs. Belle Johnson, late of Jackson and Detroit, is prepared to do dress-making, cutting and fitting. Will work either by the day or at home. The latest tailor system used. Call at residence of M. Vin Bovee. 11w1

"Where did you get that hat," says everyone that the editor meets these days. Well it's a "Harrington" and he got it at M. N. Johnson & Co's.

"Our Men's Meeting."

Next Sunday will be one you cannot afford to miss. A fine speaker has been secured. Hear him.

Remember Nov. 5. That's the day the ladies are invited to come. Service of song and special music.

"Self-Obedience" will be the topic for next Sunday. Can you not spare one hour to come to the W. C. T. U. hall? We want you.

"Sin against God a great calamity" was the subject of Rev. Seth Reed's talk Sunday. Only those who heard can appreciate it. The attendance was sixty-three. Say, reader, do you frequently find a place there? We hope so.

ONE OF THE MEN.

Who's a Liar?

The Michigan Farmer made its appearance last week in sixteen page form, which makes the paper much more convenient to look through. The Farmer under its new management, is a fine publication for the farming community.—Fenton Independent.

The Michigan Farmer came out last week in sixteen page form and the farmers in this locality don't like it a little bit. They say that if it continues in its present shape that they will let it alone. The print is poor and the type old.—Holly Advertiser.

Communication.

To the Editor of the Record: I have just been informed of the extraordinary discourse that was delivered about a month ago by Rev. J. M. Belding under the caption of the public schools in which he made the most outlandish charges against the Catholics. So far as my information goes his speech or sermon was a rash of the atrocious calumnies that are found every week in the columns of the "Patriotic American" and other prints of the same class. The fact that there are some half dozen Catholics in this town, all-around with one exception, will enhance the chivalrous character of the performance.

Apart from this phase of the question, I challenge Mr. Belding to sustain his charges or any of them by authorities that even moderately informed protestants will consider trustworthy. Faithfully Yours,

GEORGE CLARKSON, Catholic Pastor, Northville, October 24, 1893.

Every well dressed man wears the "Harrington" hat.

Notice.

The Annual meeting of the stockholders of the Northville Loan and Building Ass'n will be held at the council room in the village of Northville on Friday evening, Oct. 27, 1893, at 7:30 o'clock. Election of directors and such other business to transact as may come before the meeting.

I. E. VANATTA, Sec'y.

Merit Wins.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. A. M. Randolph Drug-gist.

GREAT TRIUMPH.

Instant relief experienced and a permanent cure by the most speedy and greatest remedy in the world—Otto's Cure for Lung and Throat diseases. Why will you continue to irritate your throat and lungs with that terrible hacking cough when C. R. Stevens, sole agent, will furnish you a free sample bottle of this great guaranteed remedy? Its success is simply wonderful, as your druggist will tell you. Otto's Cure is now sold in every town and village on this continent. Samples free. Large bottles 50c. No 5.

It is City Attorney C. C. Yerkes now.
Work on the clock tower is progress-
ing finely.

Hallowe'en next Tuesday. Look
out, watch out.

The W. C. T. U. hall is being newly
painted this week.

The city hall is being improved with
an entire new coat of paint.

Railroad time cards will be found on
the inside pages of the paper.

The opera house is now newly carpet-
ed, making it much more comfortable.

The ponds at the U. S. fish hatchery
have all been lettered and about the
entire alphabet thereby consumed.

If Northville needs one thing more
than another it is a hustling produce
and grain buyer. Someone that will make a business of it can make money.

The Park House is being treated
instead of treating this week. Its a
new coat of paint and adds greatly to
the building's appearance.

A flock of hornets have invaded the Farmington Methodist church and
between them and the preacher, make
it rather lively for the congregation.

The Kinzie Comedy company have
been playing here all the week to
fairly good houses. They are a good
company and their work is excellent.

Robert Thomas is running a oil
wagon making a daily delivery of gasoline and kerosene oil throughout the village. A great convenience, no
doubt.

C. R. Smith has leased one of
the stores in the new Safford block, at Plymouth and will shortly open up
with a line of dry goods, boots and
shoes.

Anyone in need of a competent
stenographer and typewriter for a few
hours or days in the week at a very
reasonable price can learn of such an
one by applying to the Record office.

Judging from reports the Crusade
Army under the martial care of Gen.
Belding is becoming a veritable Alex-
andrian army. Some eighteen new
members were received Tuesday night.

In the absence of Rev. Arnold, Dr.
J. M. Swift occupied the Baptist pulpit
last Sunday morning and delivered an
excellent address. His subject was,
"Christianity, the light of the world."

Gaylord people are after a Yarnall
Gold Cure and it now looks as if they
will get it. Otsego Lake and Cadillac
are also offering inducements. Of
course this in no way will effect the
head institution here.

Frank Thompson, of F. L. Thomp-
son & Co. meat market, was married
Tuesday to Miss Agnes Gage a well
known Wikom lady. They are now at
home at the residence of the groom's
father Edward Thompson, this place.

The only real important work of our
last legislature was the passing of the
women's suffrage bill and the supreme
court now says the law, which cost the
tax-payers of the state thousands of
dollars to enact, was not worth the
paper it was first wrote upon.

The kid glove, Oriental lodge F. &
A. M. of Detroit pay a return visit to
the Northville lodge tomorrow evening. The Oriental lodge will come
about a hundred strong and after
working the M. M. degree for the Northville lodge will be treated to a
banquet.

Why should the Methodist church
be referred to as the M. E. church any
more than the Presbyterian as the P.
church; the Baptist as the B. church;
or the Congregational as the C. church?
The rule in the Record office has long
since been to invariably use the word
Methodist instead of M. E. We believe
it is properly correct and should be
generally adopted.

Possibly one of the most beautiful
sights in the way of decoration was
seen at the Presbyterian church last Sunday. Autumn leaves were used
and were gracefully arranged on the
six Moorish arches over the platform. An immense leaf four feet broad
composed of maple leaves, was so
placed as to keep the natural coloring
of the leaf, of which it was a true copy.
H. F. Brown was decorator in charge.
To one side in leafy letters was the
morning text "We all do fade as a leaf"
Isa. 41:6. The sermon was a series of
word pictures, all setting forth the
lessons that the fall of the leaf suggests
or teaches. Every pew was filled. In
the evening the pastor preached the
second of his five platform sermons
entitled "A Star for My Chariot."
This was a journey through space with
a divine intelligence for a charioteer.
He took his audience within some
million miles of the moon and sun, far
indeed as the greatest telescopic glasses
carry the vision, he sought to show
the commaterial, wondrous size, beauty
and movement of the planets with
out departing in fancy or fact from
the most recent astronomical research
and discovery. The lessons of course
were timely and helpful. The flight
through the air was suddenly ended
by the speaker announcing it was a
dream and he had awakened.

series will be delivered Sunday evening

"Vampires."

The biggest outrage ever perpetrated
upon the people of this section was the
tearing down of the bridge just this
side of Mead's Mills before the new
iron bridge was ready to be put up.

The Dundee Ledger tells of a visit
to a near by school which was in charge of a lady teacher where he
found everything in "apple-pie order."
Does this apple-pie order imply sweet
or crustiness?

"Mabe Heath" is the play at the
opera house tonight and in order to
give the shop men a chance to attend,
the curtain will not raise until 9 o'clock
Matinee Saturday afternoon and "The Fireman's Ward" Saturday night.

Ed. Charter pleaded guilty before
Justice Ely yesterday morning to
stealing some horse blankets and robes
from the Park House barns and got $35.00 for sixty days. Officer White took him to Detroit Thursday afternoon in default of the fine.

The interests of the home merchant
and the farmer are identical—each is
interested in the prosperity of the other. The present year has been a
hard one in the history of the merchants of the country. Creditors have
everywhere been restricted, and have
been restless in their endeavor to
collect their bills. No one has suffered
greater than the country merchant.

There has been any quantity of articles lost and found in and about our
village the past year and in about nine-
tenths of the cases the property has
been dishonestly retained by the finder.
Some people do not seem to quite understand that to find an article and
make no effort to find an owner is considered by the law and honest people
generally quite as bad as directly stealing the article in the first place. Some
one is liable to get into trouble yet if
they don't look out, and right along
this line too.

Richardson's new society hall is
nearly completed and by Nov. 1, will
be ready for occupancy. It is, or will
be, when finished one of the neatest
lodge rooms in any Michigan village.
Besides the main hall there is an auto-room, a reception room and a smoking room. The main hall is 30 x 80. A raised platform encircling
the entire room is to be seated with
handsome opera chairs. The walls
are all tastily frescoed and bordered.
We understand that the Odd Fellows
will open the hall with a social hop.

Three bold, bad burglars forced an
entrance into Richardson's store via
cellar again Wednesday night but they
mad: a trifle too much noise and woke
up Peter Ely who lives over the store.
The thieves took the alarm of the cease
of Pete's snoring and quickly fled
down through the alley in the direction
of Bealtown. Evidence shows that it was the same trio who paid this same
store a visit about four weeks ago.
They visited the same money drawer
securing some three dollars in change
and had thrown the covering from off
the same pile of jackets but had
evidently been scared out before fitting themselves complete. They also
pocketed some jewelry, a pair of shoes
and a few neckties. In the alley was
found a large blanket which the
thieves had evidently intended filling
with plunder.

Invitations are out for a hallowe'en
party at the Presbyterian parsonage.
The gathering will be in the old
Mohawk valley Dutch style after the
manner of the host's forefathers.
The "Wassail Bowl" of which
Washington Irving so often speaks
will be one of the features of the evening though instead of being filled with
ale and wine with their nutmeg, sugar
toast and roasted crabs, it will
contain the portents of the future of
those who will be allowed to dip into
its mystic depths. The witch of Sala-
mander will preside over this bowl of
fate, Mother Hanganbobup will hold
the strings of the apple of fortune
while the great chief Pull-no-gates-off-
their-hinges will turn the wheel of the
"Fete of the Feast." The guests will
appear before these august person-
ages masked. Mrs. Lyman Yerkes
and Mrs. W. G. Lapham will be the
hostesses of the evening.

are not always a sign of intellect, but they show a heap of sense when the sun is too bright for the eyes. It gives them so much rest and comfort—a chance to get strong, in fact. And if people think you're wiser than you are—why perhaps you are, for the time. This comfort (or rather luxury) costs only 25 cents. We have all sorts of spectacles, besides we have jewelry, silverware, clocks and watches of all kinds. If you want a new one, we'll show you among others, the newest designs in gold and gold filled stem-winding watches, beautiful engraved cases. We now have a perfect light to test eyes in. No charges.

THE RECORD.

EVERY FRIDAY.

F. S. NEAL, Publisher.

OFFICE IN OPERA HOUSE BLOCK.

FRIDAY - OCTOBER 27, 1893.

PURELY PERSONAL.

Miss Linnie Dunlap is home again. Frank Dolph is visiting his brother Sam.

Herbert Clarkson paid his mother a visit over Sunday.

Emma Brooks of Detroit is visiting Miss Helen Brooks.

D. L. Keyes returns to Detroit. The Globe Co. employed him.

Emery Beal of Ypsilanti visited his parental home here Sunday.

Miss Maud Richardson spent Tuesday and Wednesday in Detroit.

Martin Brooks of Aleto, Ill. spent Wednesday with A. S. Brooks.

Spencer Clark and wife returned from the fair Saturday morning.

Mrs. C. J. Ball received a visit from her mother of Monroe this week.

B. W. Cook has moved to Midland where we wish him much success.

Mrs. M. E. Paulger and daughter are spending the week in Farmington.

Chas. Highland and family spent Sunday with South Lyon relations.

Herman Leonard and wife of New York is visiting his sister Mrs. A. S. Brooks.

Wm. Lockwood attended the world's fair last week and saw the sights of Midway.

Ed. Wood has just returned from a hunting expedition in the northern part of the state.

Mrs. J. C. Hurley of Saginaw has been visiting at L. W. Hutton's during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Root are now at home in the government residence at the U. S. fish hatchery.

D. A. Arlington of the 19th U. S. infantry of Ft. Wayne, visited his home here over Sunday.

Mrs. L. W. Hutton, Misses Nina Ambler, Jessie Ely and Mrs. A. W. Ely spent Tuesday at Farmington.

Alexander Milne visited the world's fair last week and a part of this, in company with the Dubuay party.

Fred Horner and Misses Anna Morse and Edith Reed of Ypsilanti were guests of the latter's parents here over Sunday.

Mrs. L. E. McRoberts was just ready to move to Milford when sickness overtook her. She is now somewhat better.

D. McPhail has re-entered the employ of the Globe Co. and goes on the road to set up church pews. He is now in Penn.

Miss Minnie Smith and mother have moved to Ypsilanti where they will remain the winter, the former attending school.

Miss Eaton formerly of Kingston, Ont. arrived in Northville this week where she will make her home with her mother who moved here some time since.

H. W. Bennett and wife of Denver, Col. were among Northville relatives this week. Mrs. Bennett is a daughter of John Thompson of this place and Mr. Bennett is one of Denver's wealthy real estate men.

Don P. Yerkes has moved to Milford to take charge of their flouring mills. R. C. and wife have returned to this village and next week he expects to leave for the south in search of health. Mrs. Yerkes may join him in February.

Rev. Seth Reed with his wife revisited his former field of labor in this city Monday. He was pastor of the Methodist church here in 1851-52, and again later. After dining with E. M. Comstock and family, he made Dr. Ryan a call, looked over the new church and grew enthusiastic over the great changes and improvements since his day. Mr. and Mrs. Reed have granddaughters in the Normal, whom they visited, and then returned to their home near Northville, where, after service in the ministry for half a century, they are living quietly on a farm and awaiting the final summons.

Ypsilantian.

Mrs. Belle Johnson, late of Jackson and Detroit, is prepared to do dress-making, cutting and fitting. Will work either by the day or at home. The latest tailor system used. Call at residence of Marvin Bovee. 11w1

"Our Men's Meeting."

Next Sunday will be one you cannot afford to miss. A fine speaker has been secured. Hear him.

Remember Nov. 5. That's the day the ladies are invited to come. Service of song and special music.

"Self Obedience" will be the topic for next Sunday. Can you not spare one hour to come to the W. C. T. U. hall? We want you.

"Sin against God a great calamity" was the subject of Rev. Seth Reed's talk Sunday. Only those who heard can appreciate it. The attendance was sixty-three. Say, reader, do you frequently find a place there? We hope so.

ONE OF THE MEN.

Who's a Liar?

The Michigan Farmer made its appearance last week in sixteen page form, which makes the paper much more convenient to look through. The Farmer under its new management, is a fine publication for the farming community—Fenton Independent.

The Michigan Farmer came out last week in sixteen page form and the farmers in this locality don't like it a little bit. They vow that if it continues in its present shape that they will let it alone. The print is poor and the type old—Holly Advertiser.

Communication.

To the Editor of the Record: I have just been informed of the extraordinary discourse that was delivered about a month ago by Rev. J. M. Belding under the caption of the public schools in which he made the most outlandish charges against the Catholics. So far as my information goes his speech or sermon was a rebash of the atrocious calumnies that are found every week in the columns of the "Patriotic American" and other prints of the same class. The fact that there are some half dozen Catholics in this town, all women with one exception, will enhance the chivalrous character of the performance.

Apart from this phase of the question, I challenge Mr. Belding to sustain his charges or any of them by authorities that even moderately informed Protestants will consider trustworthy. Faithfully Yours,

GEORGE CLARKSON, Catholic Pastor. Northville, October 24, 1893.

Every well dressed man wears the "Harrington" hat.

Notice.

The Annual meeting of the stockholders of the Northville Loan and Building Ass'n will be held at the council room in the village of Northville on Friday evening, Oct. 27, 1893, at 7:30 o'clock. Election of directors and such other business to transact as may come before the meeting.

I. E. VANATTA, Sec'y.

Right Wins.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. A. M. Randolph Drug-gist.

GREAT TRIUMPH.

Instant relief experienced and a permanent cure by the most speedy and greatest remedy in the world—Otto's Cure for Lung and Throat diseases. Why will you continue to irritate your throat and lungs with that terrible hacking cough when E. R. Stevens, sole agent, will furnish you a free sample bottle of this great guaranteed remedy? Its success is simply wonderful, as your druggist will tell you. Otto's Cure is now sold in every town and village on this continent. Samples free. Large bottles 50c. No 5.

NORTHVILLE LOCALS.

It is City Attorney C. C. Yerkes now.
Work on the clock tower is progress-
ing finely.

Hallowe'en next Tuesday. Look
out, watch out.

The W. C. T. U. hall is being newly
painted this week.

The city hall is being improved with
an entire new coat of paint.

Railroad time cards will be found on
the inside pages of the paper.

The opera house is now newly carpet-
ed, making it much more comfortable.

The ponds at the U. S. fish hatchery
have all been lettered and about the
entire alphabet thereby consumed.

If Northville needs one thing more
than another it is a hustling produce
and grain buyer. Someone that will
make a business of it can make money.

The Park House is being treated
instead of treating this week. Its a
new coat of paint and adds greatly to
the building's appearance.

A flock of hornets have invaded the Farmington Methodist church and
between them and the preacher, make
it rather lively for the congregation.

The Kinzie Comedy company have
been playing here all the week to
fairly good houses. They are a good
company and their work is excellent.

Robert Thomas is running a oil
wagon making a daily delivery of gas-
oline and kerosene oil throughout the
village. A great convenience, no
doubt.

C. R. Smith has leased one of
the stores in the new Safford block at Plymouth and will shortly open up
with a line of dry goods, boots and
shoes.

Anyone in need of a competent
stenographer and typewriter for a few
hours or days in the week at a very
reasonable price can learn of such an
one by applying to the RECORD office.

Judging from reports the Crusade
Army under the martial care of Gen.
Belding is becoming a veritable Alex-
andrian army. Some eighteen new
members were received Tuesday night.

In the absence of Rev. Arnold, Dr.
J. M. Swift occupied the Baptist pulpit
last Sunday morning and delivered an
excellent address. His subject was,
"Christianity, the light of the world."

Gaylord people are after a Yarnall
Gold Cure and it now looks as if they
will get it. Otsego Lake and Cadillac
are also offering inducements. Of
head institution here.

Frank Thompson, of F. L. Thomp-
son & Co. meat market, was married
Tuesday to Miss Agnes Gage a well
known Wikom lady. They are now at
home at the residence of the groom's
father Edward Thompson, this place.

The only real important work of our
last legislature was the passing of the
women's suffrage bill and the supreme
court now says the law, which cost the
tax-payers of the state thousands of
dollars to enact, was not worth the
paper it was first wrote upon.

The kid glove, Oriental, lodge F. &
A. M. of Detroit pay a return visit to
the Northville lodge tomorrow evening. The Oriental lodge will come
about a hundred strong and after
working the M. M. degree for the Northville lodge will be treated to a
banquet.

Why should the Methodist church
be referred to as the M. E. church any
more than the Presbyterian as the P.
church; the Baptist as the B. church;
or the Congregational as the C. church?
The rule in the RECORD office has long
since been to invariably use the word
Methodist instead of M. E. We believe
it is properly correct and should be
generally adopted.

Possibly one of the most beautiful
sights in the way of decoration was
seen at the Presbyterian church last Sunday. Autumn leaves were used
and were gracefully arranged on the
six Moorish arches over the plat-
form. An immense leaf four feet broad
composed of maple leaves, was so
placed as to keep the natural coloring
of the leaf, of which it was a true copy.
H. F. Brown was decorator in charge.
To one side in leafy letters was the
morning text "We all do fade as a leaf"
Isa. 41: 6. The sermon was a series of
word pictures, all setting forth the
lessons that the fall of the leaf suggests
or teaches. Every pew was filled. In
the evening the pastor preached the
second of his five platform sermons
entitled "A Star for My Chariot."
This was a journey through space with
a divine intelligence for a charioteer.
He took his audience within some
million miles of the moon and sun, far
indeed as the greatest telescopic glasses
carry the vision, he sought to show
the commaterial, wondrous size, beauty
and movement of the planets with
out departing in fancy or fact from
the most recent astronomical research
and discovery. The lessons of course
were timely and helpful. The flight
through the air was suddenly ended
by the speaker announcing it was a
dream and he had awakened.

Wm. Basset Sr. one of Plymouth's
most highly respected citizens died Monday.

The third sermon in the platform
series will be delivered Sunday evening
by Rev. J. M. Beldr. Subject:
"Vampires."

Letters remaining in the postoffice

E. S. HORTON, P. M.

The biggest outrage ever perpetrated
upon the people of this section was the
tearing down of the bridge just this
side of Mead's Mills before the new
iron bridge was ready to be put up.

The Dundee Ledger tells of a visit
to a near by school which was under charge of a lady teacher where he
found everything in "apple-pie order."

Does this apple-pie order imply sweet
or crustiness?

"Mabe Heath" is the play at the
opera house tonight and in order to
give the shop men a chance to attend,
the curtain will not raise until 9 o'clock
Saturday afternoon and "The Fireman's Ward" Saturday night.

Ed. Charter pleaded guilty before
Justice Ely yesterday morning to
stealing some horse blankets and robes
from the Park House barns and got $35.00 or sixty days. Officer White
took him to Detroit Thursday after-
noon in default of the fine.

The interests of the home merchant
and the farmer are identical—each is
interested in the prosperity of the
other. The present year has been a
hard one in the history of the mer-
chants of the country. Creditors have
everywhere been restricted, and have
been restless in their endeavor to
collect their bills. No one has suffered
greater than the country merchant.

There has been any quantity of articles lost and found in and about our
village the past year and in about nine-
tenths of the cases the property has
been dishonestly retained by the finder.
Some people do not seem to quite un-
derstand that to find an article and
make no effort to find an owner is con-
sidered by the law and honest people
generally quite as bad as directly steal-
ing the article in the first place. Some
one is liable to get into trouble yet if
they don't look out, and right along
this line too.

Richardson's new society hall is
nearly completed and by Nov. 1, will
be ready for occupancy. It is, or will
be, when finished one of the neatest
lodge rooms in any Michigan village. Besides the main hall there is an ante-room, a reception room and a
smoking room. The main hall is 40 x 80. A raised platform encircling
the entire room is to be seated with
handsome opera chairs. The walls
are all tastily frescoed and bordered.
We understand that the Odd Fellows
will open the hall with a social hop.

Three bold, bad burglars, forced an
entrance into Richardson's store via
cellar again Wednesday night but they
made a trifle too much noise and woke
up Peter Ely who lives over the store.
The thieves took the alarm of the cease
of Peter's snoring and quickly fled
down through the alley in the direction
of Bealton. Evidence shows that it
was the same trio who paid this same
store a visit about four weeks ago.
They visited the same money drawer
securing some three dollars in change
and had thrown the covering from off
the same pile of jackets but had
evidently been scared out before fitting themselves complete. They also
pocketed some jewelry, a pair of shoes
and a few neckties. In the alley was
found a large blanket which the
thieves had evidently intended filling
with plunder.

Invitations are out for a hallowe'en
party at the Presbyterian parsonage.
The gathering will be in the old
Mohawk valley Dutch style after the
manner of the host's forefathers.
The "Wassail Bowl" of which
Washington Irving so often speaks
will be one of the features of the even-
ing though instead of being filled with
ale and wine with their nutmeg, sugar
toast and roasted crabs, it will
contain the portents of the future of
those who will be allowed to dip into
its mystic depths. The witch of Sala-
mander will preside over this bowl of
fate, Mother Hangandobop will hold
the strings of the apple of fortune
while the great chief Pull-no-gates-off-
their-hinges will turn the wheel of the
"Fete of the Feast." The guests will
appear before these august person-
ages masked. Mrs. Lyman Yerkes
and Mrs. W. G. Lapham will be the
hostesses of the evening.

for the past two years been troubled
with a serious and very severe Liver
and Stomach difficulty. Have had advice and medicine from our very best
physicians, and only to be temporarily relieved. Some of my friends persuaded me to try your Great German Remedy for the Blood, Stomach, and Kidneys and to my surprise after using three bottles I feel like a new man. If you desire you can use my name in print or by reference in any of the Grand Rapids, Michigan, papers, or any other papers in the States, to convince the afflicted that it is the best Blood, Liver and Kidney medicine on earth. I feel like a new man. I have lived here over 40 years.

HOW THEY STOPPED THE RUN.

HERE was a run on the Sandhill and the District bank. It had lasted the whole of one day, and had shown no signs of abating in the evening. If it lasted another day, Old Mr. Bradshaw groaned out all these distressing facts to his son Dick. It was, indeed, no use talking to Dick; for he took no interest in business, and had spent the day in a boat with the Flirtington girls. Still Mr. Bradshaw was bound to talk to some one.

"We shall have to put the shutters up. One day's grace would save us, I believe, we could get the money then. But if they're at us again to-morrow morning we can't last two hours."

Dick sympathized, but had nothing to suggest except that it would not make matters worse if he carried out his engagement to go to the circus with the Flirtington girls.

"Oh go to! I'll with the Flirtington girls if you like," groaned Mr. Bradshaw.

"So Dick went to the circus, (the other expedition, as he observed would keep), and enjoyed the performance very much, especially the lion-taming, which was magnificent and so impressed Dick that he deserted his companions went behind the scenes and insisted on standing Signor Philippi's several glances.

"Is that big chap quite safe?" he asked admiringly.

"I can tell anything with him," said the signor (whose English was naturally defective, "but with anyone he sees a-roarer," is, and no mistake."

the roars became deficient in quantity or quality.

"The money ought to be here in three hours," said Dick. "Have you got your back-door key?"

Philip said he had. Then Dick took a wild running leap at the window; Philippini stirred up Atlas, who roared lustily. Dick escaped with his life, and landed, a breathless heap, at the mayor's feet. The mayor raised him, and said he should write to her majesty and suggest that Dick would be a proper recipient of the Albert medal, and the vicar (who had no money in the bank) indignantly asked the crowd if they could not trust a family with a produced scion like this.

"I can't look out for myself," said Dick. "I'm a poor fellow."

"I can't look out for myself," said Dick. "I'm a poor fellow."

"I can't look out for myself," said Dick. "I'm a poor fellow."

BURDETTE IN A CAR.
Experience of the Clerical Humorist With an Airscrew Stranger.

Every one has observed the easy facility with which some people can accomplish the apparently delicate ceremony of the introduction of two strangers to each other by a third stranger. writes Robert J. Burdette in the Ladies Home Journal.

The social phenomena is oftenest seen in public places and on public conveyances. I was recently making a journey across a small portion of this planet, sitting alone by the car window and hoping that nobody had taken the upper flat in my compartment.

He then went on to inform me, in that easy, confidential, autobiographical turn, that he lived in Kolu, a Tipton county, when he was home; he had been married twice, and had five children—all born to him by his first wife.

"Three boys," he said, and remained for a moment or two in silence, when he suddenly looked up and added, "and two girls."

"You cannot imagine what a load was lifted off my mind when I learned that those remaining children were. You see he hadn't told me and I felt a little delicate about asking."

The man noted the look of interest on my face and went on with his narrative. His first wife was a woman of very despondent temperament; as good a woman, he said, as ever lived; but was always afraid something was going to happen; always worried about the children or something.

He sighed so deeply at the remembrance of the hard lines through which he had passed that I sympathized with him, and asked him if this continuous illness seemed to affect his wife any.

Lanthe Munroe has been very sick for a few days with peritonitis but is pronounced out of danger by the attending physician, Dr. Swift of Northville.

The "bee" for drawing gravel to finish the walk between the church and the cemetery announced for Wednesday, was postponed until Thursday.

Among the Novi residents who have departed for Chicago this week are Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Nash, Mr. and Mrs. Delos Leavenworth, Miss Lillian Tingle, A. A. Kaple and Frank Chapman.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cole of Okemos are visiting friends in this section. Mrs. Cole was formerly Mrs. Addie Richardson and the many cordial greetings given her at church Sunday morning showed that her friends were glad to see her in her old place once more.

The first Saturday in November the West Novi Debating club will resume its sessions for the winter season. Members will please remember that this will be one week from tomorrow evening. There is no program as the election of officers and other necessary business will occupy the time. It will be well for all members of the society who do not already do so, to subscribe for the Record at once as the program a report of the meetings will be noticed in these columns again this year.

Death has again invaded the rapidly thinning ranks of those who braved the hardships of pioneer life in Novi. On Monday Oct. 23, Mrs. Celia Entrican passed away at the home of her daughter Mrs. Wm. Johnson. Mrs. Entrican, whose maiden name was Celia Law, was born at Wells, Rutledge county, Vermont, in July 1812. At twenty years of age she was united in marriage to David Entrican at Leroy, Genesee county, N. Y. The following year they came to this state, where they lived together until ten years ago when they were separated after more than half a century of wedded life, by the death of Mr. Entrican. Mrs. Entrican was a most exemplary woman, and was one who won and held the respect and esteem of all who knew her. Her father was a clergyman of the Methodist faith and she became a member of that denomination in early life. She was the mother of eight children two of whom died in childhood and one, Mrs. Jennie Yerkes, about two years ago. Her surviving daughters are Mrs. Almond Brown, Mrs. Geo. Sutton, Mrs. Wm. Johnson and Mrs. Richmond Shaw, all of this township, and Miss Delia Entrican, for many years a teacher in the Plymouth high school. They have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in the loss of such a mother, who was truly one of those "excellent women whose price is far above rubies." The burial services were held at the residence of Mr. Johnson Wednesday.
