

THE NORTHVILLE RECORD.

Vol. XXV, No. 16.

NORTHVILLE, MICH., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1893.

$1.00 per year, in advance.

THE READING ROOM GOES.

The Men's Free-Reading Room Opens up Monday Night.

For the past two months the promoters of the "men's meeting" have been planning to open a reading room for the men of the village. Up to a week ago no suitable place could be found and then the ladies library association came forward and kindly offered the use of their handsome rooms. Arrangements are now all completed and next Monday night will occur the opening, when Dr. Swift will give a practical talk.

The room will be provided with a number of all the leading magazines and daily papers, a desk equipped with writing materials for those who wish to write to their friends, a few games to play, and other items will be added as the work progresses.

The room will be opened from 7 till 9:30 each evening. W. H. Hutton will have charge of the practical talks and the monthly debates that will be held.

In securing these advantages we want to share them with all young men of the entire village and when you can find an hour's leisure time and spend it there.

Around the Country.

T. H. Clark is the new postage stamp dealer at South Lyon.

The Wayne Review alleges that its contemporary, the Wayne Pilot, has "busted" its rudder, as were.

Sold again. The Wayne Pilot. Another Carpenter is hereafter to do the building of the prut works in that sheet.

Miss Emma E. Bower of this city has been elected a trustee of the Supreme Five L. O. T. M's. of the world.

Ann Arbor Courier.

She bee? Glad to hear it. Miss Bower is a humming.

That the scholars of the Farmington school may learn to climb a tree as well as the ladder of fate, the school board are planting forty maple trees about the grounds.

The Dundee Maccabee tent works the "Oriental," "Tall Pine" and "Hitchell" degrees. That is they do if they can find a man constitutionally heavy enough to stand it.

The Holly Advertiser last week contained grounds for a large size libel suit which we are about to commence against the publisher in lieu of our hiring a fellow to go up and lick him.

Editor Marvin of the Dearborn Advance, who is also a preacher, now comes to the front and offers to tie the knot, free of charge, that will make Editor Bailey of the Wayne Review and the handsomest girl in Dearborn one.

The railroad safety crossing gate at South Lyon got on a wrong gait recently and before Mrs. Howe and Bradford knew it their carriage top was swinging up in the air like a Ferris wheel. "How's that for high?" says Doc Bradford.

Geo. Barton's "boss" hotel will be ready for biz. at Milford this week. It will care for from one to one hundred horses and dime apiece pays the bill. We recommend all horses in the vicinity of Milford to try this hotel before going elsewhere, or words to that effect.

It is said that during the last municipal election at Orion a woman remained in one of the voting booths something less than an hour waiting for some one to come and get her ballots. It is safe to say she went home much disgusted with the new suffrage law.

Innocent ministers should look out for a swindler named Goodwill who endeavors to obtain their good will a dollar in money on the borrow plan by presenting a letter of introduction purporting to be the chirography of Rev. W. M. Butler of Mar. In. The letter is forgery and Goodwill is a bad document.

Nine fighting cats in a box with one long tailed brown colored rat created more excitement at Holly last week than a 4th July celebration. The fun of it was, the cats would not harm a hair of his ratship's head and the people had to get a ferret to slay the terrible woman eater. Ought to have had our Northville cats up there. No squeaking Holly rat could run over a Northville cat—no sir-e-bob. Northville cats are cats.

Northville is all torn up over there being a possibility of the House of Correction contract having expired. The council has ordered an immediate renewal. They must expect to do some criminal-business down there the coming year. —Holly Advertiser.

Its fixed alight again for five years and its safe once more for Holly people to venture in our midst and safe for us to have a venture.

A number of firms in Northville will close their stores at 8 o'clock p. m. from Jan. 1 to April 1, 1894. That is a very good idea, and we would recommend it to the consideration of our own merchants. —Wayne Pilot.

Write out a petition then and "hustle" around and get all the merchants to sign it. That's just what the Record did here. When Northville people want anything they just let us know about it and we make ourselves useful in fact that's what we are here for.

The Carleton-Gazette is just as mad as it can be, refuses to "play" and threatens to "take its dishes and dolls right home" at the Northville Record because the Record does a little justifiable boasting. The Gazette's 1000(?) circulation is past the boasting period and assumes the ridiculous. —Dundee Ledger.

The Carleton-Gazette, as expressed itself again; it says the Northville Record is conceited. The Gazette can throw plenty of mud and have some left. Carleton is loaded with the stuff. —Wayne Pilot.

The Gazette had got so near a non-sensibility so far as we were concerned that of late it had not been taken from the wrapper and therefore missed the editor's great production which in substance was that, "no paper in the state has, without foundation, the conceit that the Northville Record has." The Record may have some conceit, but it would never have the "gall" to put in bold black face type at the head of its columns, "Circulation over 1,000," if its bonafide paying list didn't show more than about one-fourth that amount. And again the Record hasn't gall enough to run off on its readers a mass of "objectionable," almost obscene, advertising matter which no respectable paper would accept. Yes, the Record may be conceited but when it comes to downright gall it steps aside and allows the Gazette to meritoriously take its place at the head of the class.

"Our Men's Meeting."

Sunday's meeting was a splendid one and well attended. W. Scott Jones of Detroit gave a good practical talk that was helpful to everyone. The topic was "God's Time Table—now." The attendance was 120.

The record for the past month shows a decided increase and gives us the largest average attendance yet. For the four meetings the attendance was 573, or 54.3 for each. Good isn't it?

Come up next Sunday and help in our services. Your presence is worth much. We endeavor not to send you away empty handed. Do not forget to "talk up" the reading room.

ONE OF THE MEN.

Miss May N. Blodgett of Detroit, teacher of piano, will receive pupils in Northville after Dec. 1. For further information apply to Miss Blodgett Mondays and Tuesdays at the residence of L. A. Yerkes, West Main street, 164.

Dr. Bennett.

Michigan's Successful Specialist, will be at the Macomber house Wednesday, Dec. 6.

The explanation of Dr. Bennett's unrivaled success in the curing of piles, no matter of how long standing or what complication, lies in this fact he knows the difference between inflammation and burst blood vessels. He does not treat them as one and the same and the results show he never misses curing them and they remain so.

Go and see him when here. Talks free in German and English.

We hear that the fire company is soon to give a dance.

Go to Rauch's for bargains in underwear.

The same old thing grip has struck Plymouth again.

Miss Burrows of Detroit was the guest of Miss Huntington over Sunday. Miss Bliss of White Pigeon is spending a few weeks with her aunt Mrs. Chas. Holloway.

The water works plumbing in E. K. Bennett's new residence is all completed and is in the running order.

The furniture for the Exchange bank came Tuesday and they will soon be in running order with a brand new outfit.

Another new business place has been opened. This time it is our tradesman, Chas. Merritt with a first-class cash meat market.

We are pleased to note that our wholesale tobacco house run by Wilcox & Kellogg are doing a good business. They employ three or four hands.

Married, at the home of the groom, Mr. Wendell Springer and Miss Helena Goebel, at 8:30 Wednesday evening. We wish them a long and happy life. We now notice the genial and blooming face of our friend Clay Hoyt behind the counters at J. R. Rauch's during the absence of their clerk Fred Bogart who is sick with the grip.

This is the weather when you need your magnifying glass and you will always find bargains in them at Rauch's.

A surprise party was given Clay Hoyt last Friday evening by a large party of his friends in honor of his twentieth birthday. Petro was the topic of the evening and was discussed by all in a way that showed a very pleasant evening was being spent.

There was a very pleasant party at Markham's hall Tuesday evening given by Mr. Harry and Miss Maude Markham. All had a very enjoyable time. There were twelve couples present, including four couples from Northville. Music was furnished by Harmon's orchestra.

The pride of Novi's heart is centered in her beautiful cemetery. Adrian Press.

We are glad to state that Miss Alma Brown, who has been very sick, is recovering as fast as can be expected.

Miss Ellen Tucker of Ames, N. Y., who is staying with Mrs. H. Skinner, has gone to Ann Arbor and Brighton for a week's visit.

Mrs. H. C. Skinner, after having several narrow escapes while their house is undergoing repairs, at last received a black eye by the falling of a hammer that would have done credit to a pugilist, but fortunately it is now nearly well.

Bright moonlight and good roads insured a full house at the W. N. D. club Saturday evening in spite of the sharp frosty air. The promptness of the president in calling to order on time made a number of the audience rather late, which occurrence reminds your correspondent to suggest to those wishing to visit this society that the hour of commencing is half past seven and it is the intention to begin the meetings promptly at that hour during the coming winter, making it necessary for those who wish to hear the literary program, which usually comes early in the evening, to get into the habit of coming earlier. The literary exercises on last Saturday evening were shorter than usual owing to the absence of several of those having numbers, some of whom are placed on the program again for the next meeting. The resolution discussed, a variation of the tariff question, seemed to be regarded somewhat in the light of a "chestnut" and did not seem to evoke the usual amount of interest which is given the discussions. Only one of the speakers seemed to "catch on" to the "true inwardness" of the wording of the resolution. It was decided by a rather listless vote in favor of the negative, a decision plainly traceable to personal opinion, as are too many such decisions. Few persons seem to be liberal minded enough not to allow their own view of a subject to bias their comprehension of the real argument produced and to decide on the merits of the argument alone, the only just ground for a verdict on debate of this kind. M. E. Bogart was appointed to succeed the present executive committee, D. Johnson, who submitted the following program for Dec. 2:

1. Usual society business.
2. Reading—Miss Alta Bogart.
3. Recitation—Mrs. Cora Power.
4. Instrumental music—Seymour Brown.
5. Improvisation—N. A. Clapp.
6. Recitation—Mrs. Nettie Richardson.
7. Song—A. N. Kinnis.
8. Answer to queries.
9. Recess.
10. Collection of queries.
11. Music—Mrs. Miles, Miss Wade.
12. Discussion—Question: "Resolved that sequence has been a more potent factor in the advancement of civilization than has genius." Affirmative, A. N. Kinnis, J. B. Leavenworth. Negative, N. A. Clapp, D. Gage, Jas. Clapp.
13. Report of executive committee and adjournment.

Which is it—a matter of congratulation, or of humiliation, to the citizens of the American republic, that our government have in contemplation the re-enthronement of a disloyal queen and the restoration of a corrupt monarchy by the displacement of a manifestly superior administration—which?

Revival meetings are being held in the Baptist church conducted by Pastor Rev. D. L. Barry and Rev. Mr. Van Dorn of Holly. The meetings are well attended and much interest is manifested. There were several conversions last week.

A very pleasant but quiet event occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. P. Allen Wednesday afternoon Nov. 22 in the marriage of their youngest daughter, Miss Lucie S. Allen, to Daniel Durfee of Novi. At three o'clock the bride and groom entered the parlor and Rev. D. N. Ward ratified the marriage covenant between them. The bride has been an efficient sales-lady for eight years in Fred M. Warner's store. She was a very estimable young lady and has hosts of friends. Farmington's loss is Novi's gain. At the conclusion of the ceremony the company repaired to the dining hall where a sumptuous collation was served after which the newly wedded couple left, enroute for their home in Novi, with the best wishes of all for a long and prosperous journey in life, replete with all the good that earth affords.

Communication.

Mr. Editor:

I presume Mr. Clarkson expects an answer to his heavily loaded effusion—though he affirms his last response contained "neither argument, nor reason"—only "abuse." Certainly there is no common ground between us, for wholesome truth and pertinent facts, because not to his fancy, are stamped as "imperfections" and "rubbish," and he writes falsehood over against each statement. Nor do I plead guilty to the charge of "foul slanders," "gross evasion," etc. Let him look to home—take the "glass-house" medicine himself for he needs it. The following is some of the "gross slander" stuff he so hotly charges upon me:

"Mr. Belding's highest idea of his office as a public teacher is not to incite any particular system of ethics or theology but seemingly to watch over the anti-catholic prejudice and to fan it into a flame."

I stamp the above as false. Its author is no way positioned to prove it. He has never heard a sermon from my lips and is absolutely ignorant of my pulpit or pastoral work. I deprecate the spirit that awakens needless religious contention—especially between bodies holding approximately the common faith. But, on the other hand, I forbid silence if under the pretense of religion, crimes are committed against society, the state or the faith. Hence, because Mormonism is a system of religious belief, polygamy is not a moral or wholesome institution. When Romanism, like any ism strikes at our republican-life, it is to be censured. The paper signed by the Columbus clergy and flourished under my nose was on the half-shelf. Your correspondent cunningly kept back the whole truth and did not tell you that said paper was published, not as he would have you believe in the interests of Rome, but against the unmanly fight some weak-kneed persons are urging between the forces of protestantism and Rome. It condemns the fiery literature circulated by the A. P. A. and like associations, saying the bulk of American capital is in protestant hands while we number 60,000,000 to their 10,000,000—hence it concludes, "If their purposes of Roman catholicism need for any reason to be exposed or resisted, let us oppose and resist them like men." I add my amen to that.

His refutation of my remarks concerning Spain is mere bosh. Rome has over eighty colleges in America and not one of them is endowed. The catholic college or school is only a feeder to the church, hence in the face of the fact that densely populated Spain has its few institutions of learning—an alarmingly large per cent (80) of her people are unable to read or write. He speaks of Mexico—falsely. She has made no advance save as protestantism has broken thro catholicism and brought the light to a darkened people. The Pope advised the catholics to crush out protestant worship, but they failed. (Appleton's Annual 1865, p. 749.) "The people need governing and must be governed, they must have a master. We wish this country to come under the power of Rome." (Breemson.)

As to the Boston school question I only used it as an illustration. "The Roman catholic school board," not only discharged, Mr. Travis, a teacher, because he said indulgence could not be granted by the R. Ch. but they threw Scripture's history from the school because it told the truth. All our historians are under the ban of the R. Ch.—Macaulay and Hume, (skippers), Gibbon, (jofdel), Green, Swinton, and so on; while Leo XIII. advised the re-writing of the history of the world to suit the temper of the church. Yes, every reputable historian's work is in Rome's index: Expurgatorius, because Romanism is condemned by history. He asks for proof of the anti-American position of Catholic leaders. Well, proofs are as thick as blackberries. "Religious liberty is merely endured until the opposite can be carried into effect without peril to the catholic world." (Bishop O'Connor.) "Liberty of conscience" says Pope Pius IX, Aug. 15, 1854, "is a most pestiferous error." In the "Papacy of the Civil Power," page 200, the freedom of the press is called a "pestilence" which should be abolished, "a delinquent of the faith" etc.

"The attitude of the catholic church toward the public schools of this country, as far as we can determine from papal documents, the decrees of the Council of Baltimore and the pastorals of the several bishops is one of non-approval of the system itself, of censure of the manner of conducting them that prevails in most places, and of solemn admonition to pastors and parents to guard against the dangers to faith and morals arising from frequenting them." (The Vicar-General of Boston, March 12, 1879.)

"It will be a glorious day for the catholics of this country when under the blows of justice and morality our school system shall be shattered to pieces." (The Catholic Telegraph, same date.)

Cardinal McCloskey said of the catholics of the United States: "They are as strongly devoted to the sustenance and maintenance of the temporal power of the holy father as catholics in any part of the world; and it should be necessary to prove it by acts, they are ready to do so."

Take your choice, if you want one hundred more like the enclosed samples, you shall have them.

ASTORY OF BLOOD.

BY M. E. LADDON.

He had a vague idea that Irish men and women were a kind of savages who inhabited a barren land on the wild Atlantic, and ran about half-naked among the rocks.

"Yes, but these girls have never been in Ireland. They were educated in a convent near Bruges. They are young ladies, pious, well-conducted, although they work for their daily bread. Durand, my neighbor, the young cabinet-maker, is over head and ears in love with the elder sister, and I think there will be a marriage before long."

"Durand! What the sturdy broad-shouldered youth at No. 7, who whistles and sings so loud as he goes in and out?"

"Yes, a fine frank nature."

"Noisy enough, in all conscience," said Gaston, and he went on to get his breakfast.

He was in no humor for conversation this morning, and Suzon Miché's practice bored him. He read, or seemed to be reading, the Figaro while she was talking—a rudeness which galled the widow.

"Do you know those two young ladies in the Rue Git le Coeur, the house I live in?" he asked presently, without looking up from his paper.

"Young ladies?" echoed Suzon contemptuously. "A gentleman may live in the Rue Git le Coeur; a gentleman may live anywhere, but it is understood that young ladies—that is too much! I know two girls who work for the artificial flower-maker, on the Boulevard St. Germain."

"They are ladies by birth and education, I am told."

"They are snooty mixers, and although that young one has come to my shop every day for the last six years she does not think me worthy of five minutes' conversation; a little nod, and 'Bonne nuit, madame,' and she's out of my shop as if she thought the place polluted by her."

"She is snooty, perhaps," said Gaston. "I should not think she could be proud."

Suzon looked at him sharply with those flashing eyes of hers—blue eyes, tall, black, luminous, but not altogether beautiful.

"What does Monsieur know of this young person that she is so ready to transfer her heart to?"

"Very little. I passed her in the street just now. I doubt if I ever saw her till that moment, though we live in the same house. Some force can be read at a glance. In her I saw purity, sweetness, truth, simplicity."

"My faith! You are skillful at reading faces," rejoined Madame Miché; "but it is easy to see virtues of that kind in a pretty woman. Had Madame Hara been ugly you would not have discovered half these qualities in her face."

"I might have been there, perhaps; but I don't think I should not have looked so keenly. She is the image of a Grace in the Louvre. You know the picture in the Louvre?"

"Not much," said Suzon, with a careless shrug.

"Why, you go there nearly every Sunday afternoon?"

"True; but I go to look at the people, not the pictures."

Gaston paid for his breakfast, and strolled on, to his house, thinking that some force could be read at a glance. In her I saw purity, sweetness, truth, simplicity.
