SOMETHING NEW

A Firm to Manufacture a Shoe Protector.

A firm has been organized here known as the Eureka Mfg. Co., with F. S. Neal as manager, for the manufacture and sale of an article known as the Eureka shoe protector, recently patented. It is designed particularly for painters and decorators as a protection to shoes while at work. The invention will also prove of great value to workmen generally who are employed in stores, shops or factories where paints, oils, varnishes, glue and the like are used.

The protector is made of the best quality of 14 oz. white duck. The hood or toe piece is made from a superior quality of elastic leather while the rubber elastic at the heel and shank is made by an Eastern factory especially for this firm.

Sufficient capital is available with which to push the manufacture and sale of this new invention to its utmost extent, and it is thought that in time it will be of little importance among Northville's industries. Arrangements are being made to secure representatives in all the leading cities of the United States.

Wherever painters have been shown a sample, they have been highly pleased with the new invention and although not a pair has yet been put upon the market, numerous queries are already at hand for pairs, dozens, and agencies, from leading union painters and others.

The firm expect to get their business in shape to commence the immediate manufacture of the article in order to be ready for the spring trade.

Around the Country.

"Get a move on you, this is no nursery," said Rev. Sam Betters at Oxford one night last week as he ordered a lady with a child out of church.

The Dundee Reporter thinks that instead of engaging in foreign missionary work the churches can find plenty of work among the heathen at home. Dundee didn't use to be such a bad town.

Trenton people will no longer be accused of being too fresh. A great big salt well has been discovered there and is now being brought forth from the briny deep to the fresh and vigorous air above, or words to that effect.

The Holly Advertiser recently made some damaging statements about Neal, of the Northville Record, and that gentleman naturally is right for revenge. We think pants is right, isn't it Neal?—Fenton Independent.

To the dogs wild der pauts

Two boys from the phi chi class '99 Dundee college had a "rush" in the city post office the other night and besides smashing several dollars worth of glass windows very nearly ruined a number of oil paintings of "Columbus in sight of land."

Dr. George F. Hunter's judgment of $19,000 and costs against Holly Village was affirmed in the Supreme Court at Washington Monday. The amount with costs will reach $15,000 and will be $5 on each hundred assessed. The blow is a severe one to Holly.

Both Wayne papers now agree that all M. C. trains "go by" the new depot instead of "into" it. They go by at about forty miles an hour and passengers who really want to take a train still contrive to walk a mile or two in the direction of Ypsilanti.

S. M. Gage's thermometer at Walley Lake registered twelve below zero during the recent cold snap and Mr. Gage had a terrible time to keep from freezing to death until he found that the register was broke and in consequence was fifteen degrees too slow.

The Living Issues took Rev. Calkins South Lyon's village president to task for all the evil that was transacted in the town two weeks ago, but they tackled the wrong man that time. The Elder gave the L. L. such a Dainty water colors at Brown's Gallery. Just the thing for X-mas presents.

Now is a good time to subscribe for the RECORD.

WHAT THEY DID

At the Regular Council Meeting Last Week.

There was but three shivering aldermen, and the clerk present when President Dubois's gavel went forth, which on the official desk about 7:30. Wheeler, Johnson and Burgess. "Was a little early to commence, for even Ald. Rayson who is always prompt, came in fifteen minutes late. When it came to committee's report Ald. Johnson called attention to the need of a new electric light at the intersection of Beal avenue and the continuation of Church street and Ald. Rayson seconded his motion to take that question from the table and it was carried. Johnson said it would cost four or five dollars to have the one near Purd Yer es' moved down there as some had talked. At it was needed where it was in favor of a new light being put up in front of George Bradley's place. Ald. Rayson said he was sorry that the Aldermen from St. James' ward who opposed the new light was not present. He seems to think no lights are needed except in the ward. We want a new light down on Beal avenue, gentlemen." Ald. Wheeler said he was opposed to putting up any more lights at present. If one was put up there, every man in town would want one at another place and there would be no end to it. Ald. Burgess thought if the light was moved about half way down the street it would be alright, and then Ald. Wheeler moved that the matter be referred to a light committee, but the president ruled the motion out of order. Ald. Wheeler and Burgess voted "no" on the new light motion and Johnson and Rayson "yes." Ald. Clark just then came in, explaining his tardiness as due to the fact that he thought it just as well to stay home and read the evening paper for an hour as to come up and sit around the city hall as he had done before waiting for the other members. He voted "no" and the motion was lost.

Ald. Wheeler and Clark said that already complaint was made regarding the non-compliance with the ordinance relative to cleaning snow from off the walks and suggested that some measures be taken to enforce the ordinance. Marshal White said that the people of South Center street were opposed to wading through snow this winter as they did all of last to get up to Main street. Ald. Wheeler thought there were equally bad walks on North Center street and in North-side. President Dubois suggested that an example be made of some one as a warning to others. The committee was then instructed to enforce the ordinance. Just then Ald. Johnson saw Ald. Wheeler shiveringly reach for his overcoat and he motioned to adjourn, and the fire in the stove and the assembled body silently went out.

THE REVIVAL MEETINGS.

Large Attendance and Much Enthusiasm Manifested.

Evangelists Smart and McLaughlin joined the pastors and workers on Sunday last and the special campaign began. The morning services in the churches were marked with great interest. The men's meeting in the afternoon, reached the climax in its history. The evening service in the Methodist church was unexcelled in numbers and enthusiasm. As a result, the meetings could not be taken to the Baptist church for lack of room. The work continues and grows apace. Some forty people have already signed the inquirers' card which reads, "I desire to become a Christian. Will you pray for me?" Mr. Smart's preaching is biblical, practical, pungent and all his methods so businesslike and common sense that no reasonable person can be justly offended. The chorus choir is doing splendid work and Mr. McLaughlin with his sweet and pertinent solos is a large factor of usefulness.

The pastors are earnestly and lovingly united in the work and their people largely follow their example. People are coming in large numbers from near by towns. Six cottage meetings were held in various parts of the village on Wednesday at 12 a. m. with an attendance of a dozen or more each. Honest thought, sincere consideration, personal duty, easy approach and widespread decision and action in matters of personal religion seem to be in the moral atmosphere.

The program is as follows: Children's meeting at 4:00 p. m. today. Usual services tonight. Saturday evening, the evangelists will meet the Sunday school superintendents, officers and teachers at the Methodist church at 8:00 p. m. for a special conference. Parents and others especially interested in the religious welfare of the children and youth will be welcome.

SUNDAY, DEC. 17.
9:30 a. m. Commemorative service in Methodist church.

10:30 a. m. Regular services in all the churches conducted by the respective pastors.

12:00 m. The various Sabbath schools meet.

3:30 p. m. Men's meeting in the W. C. T. U. hall; Women's meeting in the Presbyterian church, conducted by the evangelists and pastors.

5:45 p. m. Young Peoples meeting in Baptist church.

7:00 p. m. General rally at the Methodist church.

Meetings will continue next week after the same general order pursued this week. The afternoon Bible Readings, 2:30 p. m. are very attractive, and should not be missed by those who can possibly attend.

Novi Taxpayers Attention.

I will be at Novi town hall Dec. 7, 14, 21, 28, at Wixom: Dec. 8, 15, 22, 29 and at Ambler's store, Northville Dec. 9, 16, 23 and 30, for the purpose of collecting taxes. ARTHUR JOHNS, Township Treasurer of Novi. 1793

OFFICE IN OPERA HOUSE BLOCK.

FRIDAY DECEMBER 15, 1893.

PURELY PERSONAL.

Miss Nina Ambler visited Detroit friends this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Rider of Salem visited at Major Gorton's last week.

Mrs. Warner of near Flat Rock spent Sunday with her husband who is working here.

Mrs. Lillian Wright of Hancock visited her aunt, Mrs. John Sands, one day this week.

On Wednesday Mrs. H. E. Bigelow Muskegon, Mich. visited at her uncle's, Chas. Noble, this village.

A. B. McCullough, who has been confined to the house the past week with the grippe, is out again.

Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Ely were called to Detroit last week by the serious illness of Mrs. Ely's mother.

Will Strong of Leasforth, Canada has returned home from a few days visit at his uncle's, A. B. McCullough.

Rev. J. M. Belding next Sunday will preach on "What Think Ye of Christ," the ghost of John the Baptist.

Clarence English for the past year employed as foreman of our job printing department has resigned and G. A. Walters is filling the vacancy.

H. F. Jackson is just home from the Pacific coast for a month's visit. He brought with him several silver salmon, weighing some twenty pounds each, which he had captured in the ocean. He also brought with him as trophies the hides of some of the animals which inhabit that far away country.

The Art Amateur.

That The Art Amateur was the only art publication to receive a Medal at the World's Columbian Exposition is a fact which when one looks at the superb Christmas issue just received. The forty-eight pages are crammed with good things for the connoisseur, the artist, teacher and art student. The exquisite color plates continue to be a great feature, but the magazine would still be worth much more than the price charged for it even if they were omitted. In "My Note Book" the editor warns the public against the frauds in the sales of "antique" oriental rugs, which he has discovered are treated chemically to give them a mellow appearance. Even hitherto reputable firms are compromised by this discovery. Prominent among the articles are: "Art in the Public Schools and Colleges," reviews of "The German and English Painting at the World's Fair," "Drawing Colors," "Hints on Painting Landscapes in Oil," on "Illustrating for the Magazines," on "Figure Painting on China," "Notes for China Painters," on "The Floral Decoration of Churches at Christmas" with unique illustrations and diagrams which every church committee should consult. In the department, "The House" we find illustrated designs of "Some Artistic Interiors," "How to Furnish a Studio" and "Incised Wood Work." There are articles on Mr. Fry, the veteran wood carver and designer, on "Church Embroidery," and "Valuable Notes on Tapestry Painting." The three exquisite color plates are: "Jacqueline's Roses," by Patty Thum, "A New England Homestead," by Carl Weber, and "Three Little Kittens" by Helene Maguire. There are also eight pages of full sized working designs for wood carving, china and glass painting, embroidery, etc. The whole number has a cheery, Christmas look; and the issue is, perhaps, the best that has ever appeared. Price, 35 Cents. MORTIMER MARKS, Publisher, 23 Union Square, New York.

J. Henry Ling, Detroit's enterprising music dealer, is having a clearing sale of pianos, organs, music boxes, violins, guitars, banjos, mandolins, accordions, musical toys, etc. Celebrated $10 Bauer violin for $4. Our readers have an unprecedented opportunity to secure the best of Christmas gifts from the largest and best stock of musical merchandise in Michigan at greatly reduced prices. NORTHVILLE LOCALS.

We note that Mr. Smith is closing out his grocery stock at cost.

A ladies gold pin with stone setting awaits an owner at this office.

Copy for change of ads should be handed in not later than Tuesday.

Already people have commenced talking about the annual K. P. ball to be held in February.

Grip seems to be getting in its best work, about one-fourth of our people are wrestling with it.

Remember the quarterly meeting of the library association at the library

We heard a farmer say this week that he took 130 head of sheep to Detroit last week and sold them for $35.

Found—Two stray sheep. Owner can obtain same by applying to Glen Richardson at the house, High street.

Among the new books in the library are Princes of England and Agnes Strickland's Queens of England.

John Sands has been quite ill for a week past. Frank Emery assigned Mr. Porter in the store. Mr. Sands is now out again.

Nearly every advertiser in this paper changed their ad this week. Every one must be read to learn of all the news and bargains.

Probably the finest line of Christmas ware ever brought to Northville are on exhibition at C. R. Smith's.

Through an error the name of W. B.
Safford was left out of the R. of P.
election of officers last week. Mr.
Safford was re-elected master of arms.

There are so many of our village people sick this week that it is almost impossible to enumerate them. But few cases are of a serious nature, however.

Though the Presbyterian church improvements will not be completed for ten days, the people expect to worship in their own house next Sunday.

The chief ushers during the revival meetings are Fred Ward, Frank Moore, B. O. Webster, Harry German, Alfred Ely, J. W. Dolph. Two were appointed for each church.

The New York Democrat of which E.

If a number of our other contemporaries

When the tower clock is put up, Northville should have a regular holiday and celebrate the event in a proper manner. Next week will doubtless be the time. Here is a good suggestion, let it be acted upon.

The tower clock folks notify Mr.
Rockwell that the delay in the putting up of the Northville time piece is caused by their tower clock expert being delayed in the south. They promise however to have it in place and running before Christmas morning.

It is said that a couple of strange young men of unspotted character but with a great show of eloquence and persuasive vocabulary, acting as canvassers for a tailor-made clothing house recently did up some Northville innocent people for $200. That's all right. Patronize home industry.
Home merchants will never swindle you.

An exchange truthfully says that a perfect town is that in which you see the farmers patronize the home merchants; the merchants advertise in the local papers, the laborers spend the money they earn with their own tradesmen, and all animated by a spirit that they will not purchase articles abroad if they can be purchased at home. A Northville.

cally: "Can any one in this room tell me of a perfect man?" There was a dead silence. "Has anyone," he continued, "heard of a perfect woman?" Then a black dress, rose up at the back of the auditorium and answered: "There was one, I've often heard of her, but she's dead now. She was my husband's first wife."

We are informed on reliable authority that if celery were eaten freely, sufferers from rheumatism would be comparatively few. It is a mistaken idea that cold and damp produce the disease—they simply develop it. Acid blood is the primary and sustaining cause. If celery is eaten largely an alkaline blood is the result and where this exists there can be neither rheumatism nor gout. It should be eaten cooked.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment, when rightly used. The many who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, are more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative, effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers, and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the kidneys, liver and bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

"August Flower"

"One of my neighbors, Mr. John Gilbert, has been sick for a long time. All thought him past recovery. He was horribly emaciated from the inaction of his liver and kidneys. It is difficult to describe his appearance and the miserable state of his health at that time. Help from any source seemed impossible. He tried your August Flower and the effect upon him was magical. It restored him to perfect health to the great astonishment of his family and friends." John Quibell, Holt, Ont. @

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER. I discovered it was really the stomach, liver and kidneys, and a pleasant laxative. I am now well, I am very grateful to you as I feel that it saved me from a life of unold agony, and shall take pleasure in speaking only words of praise for the wonderful medicine, and in recommending it to all.

LANE'S MEDICINE

ALL DRUGGISTS SELL IT. 50c and $1 a bottle. If you cannot get it send your address for a free sample. LANE'S MEDICINE is made from purest herbs and is prepared for use at all seasons of the year. O. K. LANE, WOODBRIDGE, LEXINGTON, N.Y.

Scrofula

Miss Della Stevens, of Boston, Mass., writes: "I have always suffered from hereditary Scrofula, for which I tried various remedies, and many reliable physicians, but none relieved me. After taking six bottles of SCROFULA I am now well. I am very grateful to you as I feel that it saved me from a life of unold agony, and shall take pleasure in speaking only words of praise for the wonderful medicine, and in recommending it to all."

TABERNACLE PULPIT.

DR. TALMAGE PREACHES AT BIRMINGHAM.

And As He Journeyed He Came Near Damascus, and Suddenly There Shined About Him a Light from Heaven.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 10.—Rev. Dr. Talmage, who lectured in this city yesterday, having spoken during the week at Nashville, Memphis, and other cities, preached here this afternoon to a large audience under the auspices of the Baptist church. The subject was, "Unholy," and the text chosen was, Acts 9: 3-5. "And as he journeyed, he came near Damascus; and suddenly there shined round about him a light from heaven; and he fell to the earth; and he heard a voice saying unto him, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? And he said, Who art thou, Lord? And the Lord said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest."

The Damascus of bible times still stands, with a population of 135,000. It was a gay city of white and glittering architecture, its minarets and crescents and domes playing with the light of the morning sun; embowered in groves of olive, and citron, and orange, and pomegranate; a famous river plunging its brightness into the scene; a city by the ancients styled "a pearl surrounded by emeralds."

A group of horsemen are advancing upon that city. Let the Christians of the place bide, for that caravan coming over the hills is made up of persecutors; their leader small and unattractive in some respects, as leaders sometimes are insignificant in person; witness the Duke of Wellington and Dr. Archibald Alexander. But there is something very intent in the eye of this man of the text, and the horse he rides is lathered with the foam of a long and quick travel of 125 miles. He urges on his steed, for these Christians must be captured and silenced, and that religion of the cross must be annihilated. Suddenly the horses shy off, and plunge into the river; and the persecutors are precipitated. Freed from their riders, the horses bound snorting away. You know that dumb animals, at the sight of an eclipse, or an earthquake, or anything like a supernatural appearance, sometimes become very uncontrollable. A new sun has been kindled in the heavens, putting out the glare of the ordinary sun. Christ with the glories of heaven wrapped about him, looked out from a cloud, and the splendor was insufferable, and no wonder the horses sprang and the equestrians dropped. Dust-covered and bruised, Saul attempts to get up, shading his eyes with his hands from the severe luster of the heavens, but unsuccessfully, for he is struck stone blind as he cries out, "Who art thou, Lord?" and Jesus answered him, "I am the one you have been chasing. He that whips, and scourges; these Damascus Christians, whips and scourges me. It is not their back that is bleeding; it is mine. It is not their heart that is breaking; it is mine. I am Jesus whom thou persecutest."

From that wild, exciting and overwhelming scene there rises up the greatest preacher of all this age—Paul, in whose behalf prisons were rocked down, before whose soldiers turned pale, into whose hands, Mediterranean sea captains put control of their shipwrecking craft, and whose epistles are the want courier of a resurrection day.

I learn from this scene that a worldly fall sometimes precedes a spiritual uplifting. A man does not get much sympathy by falling off a horse. People say he ought not to have got into the saddle if he could not ride. Those of us who were brought up in the country remember well how the whitemen laughed when, on our way back from the brook, we suddenly lost our ride. When in our Grand Review a general toppled from the stirrups it became a national merriment. Here is Paul on horseback—a proud man, riding on with government documents in his pocket, a graduate of a most famous school in which the debilitated Dr. Gamaliel had been a professor, perhaps having already attained two or three titles of the school—Rab, the first; Rabbi, the second; and on his way to Rabbak, the third and highest title. I know from his temperament that his horse was ahead of the other horses. But without time to think of what pasture he should take, or without consideration for his dignity, he is tumbled into the dust. And yet that was the bestride Paul ever took. Out of that violent fall he arose into the apostleship. So it has been in all ages and so it is now.

You will never be worth much for God and the church until you lose your fortune, or have your reputation upset, or in some way, somehow, are thrown and humiliated. You must go down before you go up. Joseph finds his path to the Egyptian court through the pit into which his brothers threw him. Daniel would never have walked amidst the bronze lions that adorned the Babylonian throne if he had not first walked amidst the real lions of the cave. And Paul marshals all the generations of Christendom by falling flat on his face on the road to Damascus. Men who have been always prosperous may be efficient servants of Christ. You may ride majestically seated on your charger, rein in hand, foot in stirrup, but you will never be worth anything spiritually until you fall off. They who graduate from the school of Christ with the highest honors have on their diploma the seal of a lion's muddy paw, or the pluck of an angry ware, or the drop of a stray tear, or the brown sear of a persecutor's fire. In nine hundred and ninety-nine cases out of a thousand there is no moral or spiritual elevation until there has been a thorough worldly upsetting.

Again, I learn from the subject that the religion of Christ is not a pusillanimous thing. People in this day try to make us believe that Christianity is something for men of small caliber, for women with no capacity to reason, for children in the infant class under six years of age, but not for stalwart men. Look at this man of the text. Do you not think that the religion that could capture such a man as that must have some power in it? He was a logician, he was a metaphysician, he was an all-conquering orator, he was a poet of the highest type. He had a nature that could swamp the leading men of his own day, and, hurled against the Sanhedrim, he made it tremble. He learned all he could get in the school of his native village; then he had gone to a higher school, and there mastered the Greek and the Hebrew, and perfected himself in belles lettres, until in after years he astonished the Cretans, and the Corinthians, and the Athenians, by quotations from their own authors. I have never found anything in Carlele, or Goethe, or Herbert Spencer that could compare in strength or beauty with Paul's epistles. I do not think there is anything in the writings of Sir William Hamilton that shows such mental discipline as you find in Paul's argument about justification and the resurrection. I have not found anything in Milton finer in the way of imagination than I can find in Paul's illustrations drawn from the amphitheater. There was nothing in Robert Emmet pleading for his life, or in Edmund Burke assigning Warren Hastings in Westminster hall, that compared with the scene in the court room when before robed officials, Paul bowed and began his speech, saying, "I thank myself happy, King Agrippa, because I shall answer for myself this day." I repeat, that a religion that can capture a man like that must have some power in it. It is time you stopped talking as though all the brain of the world were opposed to Christianity. Where Paul leads, we can afford to follow. I am glad to know Christ has in the different ages of the world had in his discipleship a Mozart and a Handel in music; a Raphael and a Reynolds in painting; an Angelo and a Canova in sculpture; a Rosh and a Harvey in medicine; a Grotius and a Washington in statesmanship; a Blackstone, a Marshall, and a Kent in law; and the time will come when the religion of Christ will conquer all the observatories and universities, and Philosophy will through her telescope behold the morning star of Jesus, and in her laboratory see that all things work together for good, and with her geological hammer discover the "Rock of Ages." Oh, instead of covering and shivering when the skeptic stands before you and talks of religion, as though it were a pusillanimous thing—instead of that take your New Testament from your pocket and show him the picture of the intellectual giant of all the ages, prostrated on the road to Damascus while his horse is flying wildly away; then ask yourself what it was that frightened the one and threw the other? Oh, no, it is no weak gospel. It is a glorious gospel. It is an all-conquering gospel. It is the power of God and the wisdom of God unto salvation.

Again, I learn from the text, a man can not become a Christian until he is unholy. The trouble is we want to ride into the kingdom of God, just as the knight rode into castle gate on palfrey, beautifully caparisoned. We want to come into the kingdom of God in fine style. No kneeling down at the altar, no sitting on "anxious seats," no crying over sin, no begging at the door of God's mercy. Clear the road, and let us come in all prancing in the pride of our soul. No, we will never get into heaven that way. We must dismount. There is no knight-errantry in religion, no fringed trappings of repentance, but an utter prostration before God, a going down in the dust, with the cry, "Unclean, unclean!"—a bewailing of the soul, like David from the belly of hell—a going down in the dust, until Christ shall by his grace lift us up as he lifted Paul. Oh, proud-hearted hearer, you must get off of that horse. May a light from the throne of God brighter than the sun throw you down into the dust and cry for pardon, and life, and heaven.

Again, I learn from this scene of the text that the grace of God can overcome the persecutor. Christ and Paul were boys at the same time in different villages, and Paul's sympathy to Christ was increasing. He hated everything about Christ. He was going down then with writs in his pockets to have Christ's disciples arrested. He was not going as a sheriff goes to arrest a man against whom he had no spite, but Paul was going down to arrest those people because he was glad to arrest them. The bible says, "He breathed out slaughter." He wanted them captured, and he wanted them butchered. I hear the click and clank, and clatter of the hoofs of the galloping steeds on the way to Damascus. Oh, do you think that proud man on horseback can ever become a Christian? Yes, there is a voice from heaven like a thunder-clap uttering two words, the second word the same as the first, but uttered with more emphasis, so that the proud equestrian may have no doubt as to who is meant, "Saul, Saul!" That man was saved, and he was a persecutor; and so God can by his grace overcome any persecutor. The days of sword and fire for Christians seem to have gone by. The bayonets of Napoleon I. pried open the "Inquisition" and let the roving wretches out. The ancient dungeons around Rome are to-day mere curiosities for the travelers. The Coliseum, where wild beasts used to suck up the life of the martyrs while the emperor watched and Lolita Paulina sat with emerald adornments worth 50,000,000 sesterces clapping her hands as the Christians died under the paw and the tooth of the lion—that Coliseum is a ruin now. The scene of the Smithfield fires is a hay market. The day of fire and sword for Christians seems to have gone by, but has the day of persecution ceased? No. Are you not persecuted for your religion? In proportion as you try to serve God and be faithful to him, are you not sometimes martyred? That woman finds it hard to be a Christian, as her husband talks and jeers while she is trying to say her prayers or read the bible. That daughter finds it hard to be a Christian with her whole family arrayed against her—father, mother, brother and sister making her the target of ridicule. That young man finds it hard to be a Christian in the shop, or factory or store, when his comrades jeer at him because he will not go to the gambling hall or other places of iniquity. Oh, no, the days of persecution have not ceased, and will not until the end of the world. But, oh, you persecuted ones, is it not time that you began to pray for your persecutors? They are no proud men, no fierce, no more set in their way than was this persecutor of the text. He fell. They will fall if Christ from the heavens grandly and gloriously look out on them. God can by his grace make a Roman believe in the divinity of Jesus, and a Tyndal in the worth of prayer. Robert Newton, stamped the ship's deck in derisive indignation at Christianity only a little while before he became a Christian. "Out of my house," said a father to his daughter, "if you will keep praying, yet before many months passed, the father knelt at the same altar with the child. And the Lord Jesus is willing to look out from heaven upon that derisive opponent of the Christian religion, and address him now in glittering generalities, but calling him by name, 'John! George! Henry! Saul! Saul! why persecutest thou me?'"

Again, I learn from this subject that there is hope for the worst offenders. Saul was particularly outrageous. That Saul should have gone to Damascus on that errand, Jesus Christ, had been dead only three years, and the story of his kindness and his generosity and his love filled all the air. It was a new story. Jesus had only three summers ago been in these very places, and Saul every day in Jerusalem must have met people who knew Christ, people with good eyesight whom Jesus had cured of blindness, people who were dead and who had been resurrected by the Savior, and people who could tell Paul all the particulars of the crucifixion—just how Jesus looked in the last hour—just how the heavens grew black in the face at the torture. He heard that recited every day by people who were acquainted with all the circumstances, and yet in the fresh memory of that scene he goes to persecute Christ's disciples. Impatient at the time it takes to feed the horses at the inn, not pulling at the snaffle, but riding with loose rein faster and faster. Oh, he was the chief of sinners. No outbreak of modesty when he said that. He was a murderer. He stood by when Stephen died, and helped in the execution of that good man. When the rabble wanted to be unmolested in their work of destroying Stephen, and wanted to take off their coats, but did not dare to lay them down lest they be stolen, Paul said, "I'll take care of the coats," and they put them down at the feet of Paul, and he watched the horrid mangling of glorious Stephen. Is it a wonder that when he fell from the horse he did not break his neck—that his foot did not catch somewhere in the trap-pings of the saddle and he was not dragged and kicked to death? He deserved to be miserably wretchedly and forever, notwithstanding all his metaphysics and his eloquence, and his logic. He was the chief of sinners. He said what was true when he said that. And yet the grace of God saved him, and so it will you. If there is any man in this house who thinks he is too bad to be saved, and says, "I have wandered very grievously from God, I do not believe there is any hope for me," I tell you the story of this man in the text who was brought to Jesus Christ in spite of his sins and opposition. There may be some here who are as stoutly opposed to Christ as Paul was. There may be some here who are captive of their sins as much so as the young man who said in regard to his dissipating habits, "I will keep on with them. I know I am breaking my mother's heart, and I know I am killing myself, and I know that when I die I shall go to hell, but it is now too late to stop."

The steed on which you ride may be swifter, and stronger, and higher-mettled than that on which the Cilician persecutor rode, but Christ can catch it by the bridle, and hurl it back and hurl it down. There is mercy for you who say you are too bad to be saved. You say you have put off the matter so long. Paul had neglected it a great while. You say that the sin you have committed has been amidst the most aggravating circumstances. "That was so with Paul's. You say you have experienced Christ and ceased your own ruin. So did Paul. And yet he sits to-day on one of the highest of the heavenly thrones, and there is mercy for you, and good days for you, and gladness for you, if you will only take the same Christ which first threw him down and then raised him up. It seems to me as if I can see Paul to-day rising up from the highway to Damascus and brushing off the dust from his cloak and wiping the sweat of excitement from his brow, as he turns to us and all the ages, saying, "This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners, of whom I am chief."

Once more, I learn from this subject that there is a tremendous reality in religion. If it had been a mere optical delusion on the road to Damascus, was not Paul just the man to find it out? If it had been a sham and pretense, would he not have pricked the bubble? He was a man of facts and arguments, of the most gigantic intellectual nature, and not a man of hallucinations. And when I see him fall from the saddle, blunder and overwhelmed, I say there must have been something in it. And my dear brother, you will find that there is something in religion somewhere. The only question is, where?

There was a man who rode from Stamford to London, ninety-five miles in five hours, on horseback. Very swift. There was a woman of Newmarket who rode on horseback a thousand miles in a thousand hours. Very swift. But there are those here, ay, all of us, are speeding on at tenfold that velocity, at a thousandfold that rate, toward eternity. May Almighty God, from the opening heavens, flash upon your soul this hour the question of your eternal destiny, and oh that Jesus would this hour greyen you with his pardoning mercy, as he stands here with the pathos of a broken heart and sob into your ear, "I have come for thee. I come with my back raw from the beating. I come with my feet mangled with the nails. I come with my brow aching from the thristed bridle. I come with my heart bursting for your woes. I can stand it no longer. I am Jesus whom thou persecutest."

A RICH RUSSIAN BROTHER.

Ivan Had a Great Opinion of Him and His Ability to Get Frank.

"The house on the right," says Ivan, with some pride, "belongs to my brother, who is the richest man in the village. He has five grown-up sons, and therefore a large amount of land; four good horses and six cows; he lives well."

"Does he drink?" we inquire.

"Of course he does," says Ivan, "hard on holidays; but he is a good worker, and with five sons, can spare two or three to work in town. Three of his are laborers, and most of their wages come home. As for the last, my brother and his two sons and their wives can easily cultivate it. Ah, but it's a great thing for us mortals to have grown-up sons!"

Ivan's remarks were true enough. The large family in a Russian village is a co-operative concern, and pays well.

"Is your brother at work to-day?" we asked.

Ivan made a tipsy comical gesture of horror, he spat upon the ground with unnecessary vehemence and then crossed himself.

"The bar is pleased to joke," he said. "It is a holiday. My brother and his sons are not sinners. They do not work on a holiday. They are all at the babak as they should be!"

"Drunk?" I ventured.

"Drunk, bar! certainly!" said Ivan. "Why, what would you have?"

WHEN THE QUEEN CALLED.

Joe Jefferson Was Unfortunate. Not at Home.

Jefferson, the famous American actor, was once asked to spend a week with a Scotch peer. Among the guests was a brilliant and happy lady, who was the daughter of an earl. "Isn't she a beauty?" says Mr. Jefferson, "there must have been a homespun flavor in my American manner that amused her, for she made a dead-set at quizzing me. I did not detect it at first and answered some of her absurd questions about America quite innocently. She kept her face so well that I might never have discovered this but for the broad grin upon the smooth face of one of her boyish admirers; and then I felt for the honor of my country that, if she ever made another thrust at me, I would parry it if I could. I had not long to wait, for emboldened by her late success, she turned upon me and said: 'By-the-by, have you met the queen lately?' 'No, madame,' replied I, with perfect seriousness. 'I was out when her majesty called upon me.' She colored slightly, and then turned away, and never spoke to me again, but I was revenged."

SKITS AND SQUIGS.

"Is this building fire-proof?" asked the man with blue glasses and a large gripack. "Not if you're a book agent," replied the janitor, concluding.

"She—You abominable man! No flowers, no reception, barely a pleasant word—and I have been away eight weeks! He—You are right—I am indeed an ungrateful wretch."

Mudge—Was just thinking of the resemblance between my salary and my breath. Tabbley—How's that, all wild? "No-o. Not that exactly. But as soon as I draw it I have to blow it."

"I wish, sir, to ask for the hand of your daughter in marriage." "But are you in a position to support a family?" "Oh, I think so, sir." "Yes; but you must consider the matter pretty carefully, for there are ten of us."

Old Friend—My dear fellow, now that your day's work is over, come along with me and we'll have a long talk. Bank Clerk—Oh, you really must excuse me, as I have barely time to catch a train. Come to the bank some day when I am at work and then we can talk to our hearts' content.

"What's the matter, Footlite," said an actor. "I thought you had a splendid engagement." "So did I. But I had to give it up." "Why?" "You see they cast me for the villain in a melodrama." "I should think you would make a good villain." "No, I'm physically incapacitated. I abominate cigarettes."

"At a certain town named M—, a class at a school was to be examined in scripture. The examination went on all right till the examiner asked the head scholar to name a text in the bible. The scholar gave the text, 'And Judas went and hanged himself.' 'Quite right,' said the examiner, 'give me another.' 'Go, thou and do likewise.'"

There is more Ostrich in this section of the country than all other birds. It is supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by the steady failure of these cure without success, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Ostrich to be a constitutional disease, and therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by E. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only catarrh cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case of Catarrh not cured by this remedy. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, E. J. CHENEY & CO., TOLEDO, O.

John S. Tibbets died on Sunday night, aged about seventy-four years. He had lived in Plymouth sixty-eight years. He was principal of Plymouth schools several years and also auditor of Wayne county. He was supervisor of this township for seven years and was a staunch whig and republican all his life. He was well known throughout the county.

Remember the proceeds of the dance that is to take place tonight in the Penniman hall will go toward purchasing rubber coats and helmets for our fire companies. They have offered their services and now it is the duty of our people to help them out. Therefore if you cannot come, send your one dollar, or more, with your name and it will be very thankfully received.

Some people think that Rauch has gone out of the grocery business, but don't you fool yourself. Just call and see. He has the most complete line of groceries and crockery in Plymouth.

We have heard a number of remarks made about the business men's club just formed in this place, such as "It is nothing but a high toned saloon," or a "gambling den," etc. Now we are a member of this club and assure everyone that it is neither of these, but it is a pleasant comfortable place for anyone to spend their leisure hours instead of laying around stores, hotels and saloons. Please do not think because these rooms have their card and billiard tables that there is any gambling going on, for gambling and drinks of any kind is strictly against the rules and would not be tolerated for a moment. Games are all under lock and key all day Sunday and all that is used is the reading rooms. If any of these statements are doubted, go up to the rooms at any time and see for yourself.

The meeting of the Plymouth Columbian literary society was called to order by the president last Friday evening at eight o'clock. After roll call, one new member, Geo. Bentley, was taken into the society. The secretary's report was read and accepted and then came the election of officers, resulting as follows: Roy Beals, president; Miss Ada Safford, vice president; Miss Maud Packard, secretary; Geo. Bentley, treasurer; Scott Hodge, 1st teller; Miss Clara Kinyon, 2nd teller. Some readings and recitations were given by members of the society after which the subject, "Resolved that a reward is more incentive to exertion than fear of punishment." Chief affirmative was Samuel Spicer, with colleagues, C. H. Rauch and Frank Miller. The other side had Scott Hodge for chief and Hiram Roe and Samuel Ableson for colleagues. The affirmative won the day (or night rather). After this the vice president called for some toasts and responses were made by Miss Myrtle Decker and Harvey Packard. The meeting was then adjourned for two weeks.
