DEATH OF A VENERABLE LADY.

Mrs. Harmon, for Over Sixty Years a Resident of Michigan.

Eleanor Lowther was born in Sharon Schobhar Co., N. Y., July 2, 1811, where she married Garret Bloss Nov. 17, 1830, and they came to Michigan in 1832 and settled in the township of Greenfield. Subsequently they located on a farm on the school section in the township of Novi where Mr. Bloss died in 1843 or '44. She was married to Carlos Harmon September 6, a brother of the late Judge Henry Harmon of Detroit, and continued to reside with him on the Novi farm until her death last Saturday.

Mrs. Harmon is survived by her husband, two sons, two grandchildren, one brother, one sister and a large circle of relatives and friends. Many years ago Mr. and Mrs. Harmon joined the Baptist church at Novi. From that time until she exchanged worlds she was an example to all who came within the sphere of her influence. Her death has left a void which will never be filled. Her funeral services were held in the Baptist church, Novi, Monday afternoon conducted by her pastor, Rev. Mr. Brundage—E. S. W. in Free Press.

PROF. SHANOR'S TALK.

It Was Eloquent, Entertaining and Instructive.

The address by Prof. P. A. Shanor at the opera house last week Thursday night was one of the best of the kind ever listened to by a Northville audience. Prof. Shanor was here under the auspices of the J. O. U. A. M. His subject was "Perils of the Republic." It was a grand patriotic address, clearly and forcibly delivered. There was only half an audience present for some reason although the lecture had previously been well announced.

Every pupil and teacher of our public school should have been present. Prof. Shanor was principal of the McKeesport, Penn., public schools for some years and his words coming as they did from both orator and teacher could not have failed to have done them good. The lecture was based on the bible and christianity and every christian man and woman in our village would have been benefited by the beautiful and practical lessons drawn by the speaker. He chiefly touched upon pauper and criminal emigration and the use of the bible in our public schools.

NOW FOR SOME MUSIC.

The Band Boys Will Be Out Saturday Night.

The band has made a proposition that if the citizens will furnish them enough money with which to purchase pants to complete their uniforms they will in turn furnish the citizens with a choice lot of music every Saturday evening during the summer. The expense will be some ninety dollars and it ought to be but little trouble to raise the amount. But few villages in the state have so good a band as Northville and our people are justly proud of them. A play will be put on at the opera house in about two weeks if all goes well, after which the business men and citizens generally will be asked to subscribe the balance.

The boys will turn out tomorrow night, the weather permitting, and give an open air concert as a spring sample. Concert will commence about eight o'clock. If the music pleases, do not be afraid to let your enthusiasm be known.

Following is the program for tomorrow night:

Dashing Beauty q s	Keeler.
Loka Waltz	Patte.
Susquehanna March	Chambers.
Intermission.
Stella Polka. Baritone solo,	Heandon.
Serranade Savona	Southwell.
Washington Post March	Sousa.

Around the Country.

There's a motto hanging up around Newaygo somewhere which reads, "six days shalt thou rest and on the seventh play ball."

At the Presbytery session at Holly this week, Rev. W. T. Jaquess was chosen one of the commissioners to the general assembly.

Clarence Paxton of Monroe is held for trial in the circuit court charged with obtaining $25 from Holloway Bros. at Pontiac.

When we secure the Hawaiian Islands then we shall have sunshine all the time.—Ann Arbor Courier.

Postmaster Clark of South Lyon has solved the "sitter" question in that office by driving nails in the shoe boxes and placing bent pins on the nail heads.

The Adrian Press insinuates the Times will lie and steal. Get a pen, we refer you to Newport as a good prize fighting ground, where nothing but the cheers of the on lookers will disturb argument.

The counters of the Monroe county bank have been altered so as to make more room for the clerks.—Dundee Ledger.

Wasn't the counters for the state of Michigan recently altered for nearly the same purpose?

The Wayne Review opened its mouth last week and with one gulp swallowed up its contemporary, the Pilot. The Review's neat appearance after the swallowing process leads us to believe the feed was extremely nutritious.

The Farmington council have about concluded that unless the marshal and health officers do more business their large salary of $10 will be divided by two. Farmington is getting entirely too good and too healthy for the financial interest of those officers.

A towel with an initial "J" (Jennings of the Independent) was found and abstracted after the Midway performance at Fenton last week which was labeled "washed in 1892." Jennings says it is valuable to the owner and wants it returned before it gets broke.

The complicated South Lyon church furniture case was finished up so far as arguments were concerned in the circuit court at Pontiac last week. The judge will render his decision at the opening of the May term of court. It is conceded that the labor claims will be given preference.

Northville is proud of her water-works. A conflagration that last week opened its jaws for a whole block was squirted to death in five minutes. The Record inquires, "Where are the 24 men who voted Waterworks—No?" Probably instructing the newsboys how to save gallows buttons by hitching their suspenders with shingle nails.—Adrian Press.

Frank Tower, a Milford youngster, tried to tower above all others by climbing a ten foot ladder. Being satisfied with nothing less than the top-most rung, his ambition led him too far and he dropped back into the arms of mother earth, on a once more level with the balance of his brothers in the rising generation. He is now sufficiently recovered to commence another upward feat.

A farmer residing near Holly having a man in his employ who had lately arrived from Denmark, recently felled a tree and wishing to load it on a truck sent the employe to the barn for a cant-hook. After waiting sometime he was surprised to see the man driving a molly cow across the field in his direction. When he came up to him the farmer inquired, "What are you going to do with the cow?" The man pointing at the cow said, "Can't hook, can't hook."

This amusing little story comes from Fenton. In that nice little city in north-west Oakland lives a blue eyed damsel whose mouth is abnormally large. It is the custom of the maiden to sleep with a horseshoe under her pillow, imagining that it brings her luck. The other night she went to bed, with the horseshoe in its accustomed

Y. G. C. Club.

A special meeting of the Y. G. C. C. will be called Monday, April 23, at 7:30 p. m. to make arrangements for the annual meeting of the Club to be held at Northville Wednesday, June 6.

By Order of Sec'y.

The Water Board Met.

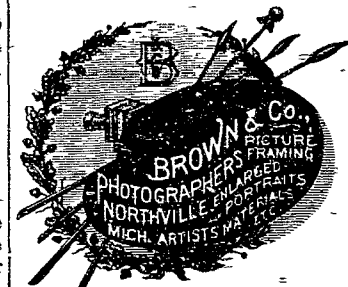

The water board held a special meeting Monday night with about the following result: They will arrange with H. M. Dunlap to act as inspector of water works to prevent the unlawful use of water, etc. A. K. Carpenter will be paid ten cents each to turn on or off water. When water is turned off where people do not want it any longer and then change their mind and want it turned on again five cents will be charged for the change of mind. "He said that some people about town who have paid for lawn privileges only are using the water in their house and vice versa. The board propose to put a yep to this. Nothing was done regarding the public drinking fountain which the council ordered procured last fall.

Memorial Day.

Allen M. Harmon Post No. 318, G. A. R., with the assistance of our citizens, will hold a public memorial service this year. Dr. J. M. Swift has consented to deliver the address in the afternoon of May 30 which occurs on Wednesday this year. The Northville Cornet Band has been secured and they are preparing to furnish appropriate music for the occasion. The W. R. C. will assist the members of the Post in decorating the graves and the Post earnestly invites the co-operation of the citizens generally in this patriotic work in which all are equally interested.

Details from the Post will visit all the outlying cemeteries which come within the jurisdiction of this Post and hold the service provided for in the service books and decorate the graves of the soldiers who sleep there in peace, undisturbed by reveille or bugle call.

Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Johnson who have been visiting their daughter Mrs. F. W. Payne of Center street returned to their home in Flint Monday.

J. D. Yerkes returned Saturday from Florida. "Uncle" Joe is much improved in health and gets around our streets now as spry as a boy of twelve.

Miss Louise Reed, the hustling editor of the Newaygo Democrat, visited in Northville a few days last week and a part of this, returning home Wednesday.

Mrs. R. C. Yerkes gave a surprise party in honor of Harry German Tuesday evening at the residence of L. W. Simmons. There were about twenty-five guests present.

Editor Osband of the Ypsilanti was here attending the directors meeting of the Globe company Saturday. He also found a few moments to make the RECORD office a pleasant call.

Byron Power of Wixom has sold his farm at that place and is moving into Mrs. Ely's house on Walnut street. Plenty of room here yet for more just such people as Mr. and Mrs. Power.

The four [U. of M. pupils are all home this week. By the way, what village or city in the United States is represented at Michigan's great university by four brighter scholars than is Northville?

Editor Bailey of the Wayne Review enjoyed the beauty of Northville Tuesday. We piloted him around town, through the Yarnall Gold Cure and other interesting places and at last left him at the hotel Park where he landed on the outside of a huge dinner.

Mrs. C. R. Stevens gave a reception at her home Saturday evening. The occasion was a farewell to her daughter Rachel who left Tuesday for Flint for a lengthy visit. After the reception the guests repaired to the library rooms where an enjoyable hop was indulged in for a few hours.

School Notes.

Miss Margie Thompson visited the school Monday.

Bert Phillips (and measles) is out of school this week.

Miss Ina Blackburn had to omit studying for two or three days on account of inflammation of the eyes.

The geometry class have reached the point where it takes a person skilled in perspective drawing to draw the figure upon the board for demonstration.

It being possible that the school house might be in flames, the scholars have been drilling to reduce the time in leaving the building without confusion. Ringing of the large or small bell is the alarm.

The organ has been so out of tune lately that the musician cannot control it, and while a march was being played the other day, the instrument struck into that old familiar tune of "After the Ball." So it surely should be repaired.

The seniors held a meeting last week in which Addie Spaulding was elected president and valedictorian; George Gibson secretary and treasurer and Harry German salutatorian. The class chose "Step by Step" for their motto and after a long discussion decided on the pansy for their class flower.

Dr. Bennett.

Michigan's successful specialist, will be at the Macomber House Wednesday, April 25.

Such cases as have failed to receive any more benefit from other sources are invited to call and get his raw ideas in their cause and cure.

A CONTRACTOR'S ADVICE.

Dullam's German Medicine Co., Gents: I take great pleasure in testifying in behalf of Dullam's Great German Blood, Liver, Stomach and Kidney Cure. I can safely say that I never took such medicine as that to cleanse the liver, stomach and kidneys. I was suffering for years with biliousness, indigestion and loss of appetite and sleep. One bottle did for me more good than six months' other treatment and I feel it my duty to testify in its behalf, so others may try it and get cured. Warren E. Russel, Flint, Mich. For sale by C. R. Stevens, Druggist.

If not satisfied with it, after you get it, we refund the stamps and let you keep the book. Address H. E. Bucklen & Co., Chicago, No. 4.

PHYSICIANS OUTDONE.

My wife has been suffering with female trouble of the severest kind for over three years. I have paid twenty five dollars during the last three months, and she has had no relief. She had doctored continually with the best of physicians. I bought three bottles each of Dullam's Great German Female Uterine Tonic and Dullam's Great German Blood, Liver, Stomach and Kidney Cure, and can say today that she is entirely cured.

WHY?

Taste of "Royal Ruby Port Wine" and you will know why we call it "Royal." A glass held up to the light will show why we call it Ruby. $500 reward for any bottle of this wine found under five years old, or in any way adulterated. It is grand in sickness and convalescence, or where a strengthening cordial is required, recommended by druggists and physicians. Be sure you get "Royal Ruby," don't let dealers impose on you with something "just as good." Sold only in bottles; price, quarts $1, pints 60 cts. Bottled by Royal Wine Co. Sold by C. R. STEVENS.

NORTHVILLE LOCALS.

Mrs. Sherman is very low.
Don't forget the men's meeting next Sunday. Rally to its support.

Arbor day next Friday. The governor's proclamation will be found on the inside pages of this issue.

One of the Michigan Novelty company's pocket fire escapes is on exhibition at the Park house.

Miss Gillett now has 83 pupils in her primary room—more than double the number any teacher ought to have.

A special business meeting of the ladies' auxiliary will be held at the institute next Monday evening. Important.

The new band officers are H. E. Cray, president; George Barley, secretary; W. E. Hilborn, treasurer; B. G. Filkins, manager.

The "Columbia Opera Company," which tried to get a date at the opera house last week and failed, fooled several neighboring villages.

D. B. Northrop will move over into L. W. Simmons' house, corner High and Dunlap streets, and Dr. M. A. Patterson will occupy Mr. Northrop's residence.

The annual memorial sermon will be delivered by Rev. Mr. Arnold at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening, May 27. The post and corps will attend in a body.

A "Midway Plaisance" social will be given at the home of C. A. Hutton next Tuesday evening by the Epworth League. The funny scenes along the Midway will be very enjoyable.

The annual reunion of the Yarnall Gold Cure club takes place here June 6. The people of the village should arrange to see that the boys are properly entertained. There will be a lot of them here.

If you have anything for sale and really want to sell it, advertise in the RECORD. We may not be able to make the sale in every case but there is no cheaper or better way of telling a thousand or more people about it.

It should be distinctly understood that the publisher now has a municipal office. We are one of the special assessors, if you please. Besides all the honor which goes with it, the salary is the same as paid to the aldermen.

The fire alarm at 11:45 Saturday noon was caused by a defective chimney on W. Pitt Johnson's house over in first ward. The departments were quick to respond but a Babcock chemical had extinguished the flames before they reached the scene.

The Shakespeare circle will begin their second reading next week and the play selected for study is Julius Caesar. If any would like to join they may hand their name to Prof. Bliss, Harrison Yerkes, Mrs. Jennie Johnson or Miss Belle Covert.

The address on the envelope of a letter received this week was as follows: For the Record, this note is intended. If the post man at Northville don't get offended.

The owner in Michigan state he will find and to hand it to him will prove an act kind.

The L. T. L. will give an entertainment in the W. C. T. U. hall next Tuesday evening. A good program will be rendered by the children and it is to be hoped that everyone will turn out and patronize them as they need funds to get supplies. No charge for admission but a collection will be taken. Be sure and come. Mrs. S. M. Reed, Leader.

Three fellows from near Farmington got to driving a little reckless on Main street Sunday night and brought up against one of the electric light poles near the State savings bank. There were two ladies in each rig and when the sudden stop was made there was a broken harness or two and six badly scared girls. 'Tis said that some of the boys had been indulging in too much adulterated water.

The Northville G. A. R. post and W. R. C. have received a very courteous invitation from the W. R. C. at Plymouth to visit them on Friday evening, April 20, when the corps will present Eddy post with a beautiful flag. Both have accepted the invitation and if the weather and roads should be propitious there will be a large number to attend. The RECORD will be able to furnish an account of the flag presentation, etc., next week.

Would it not be well for our local fire insurance agencies to get their heads together and lay some plan for a systematic inspection of all stove pipes and chimneys in every building in the village? Instead of the insurance companies lowering the rates in the village as they promised to do when the water works were completed which by the way they haven't done yet, they will be raising them still higher if these weekly fires are not discontinued.

Now is a good time to subscribe for the RECORD. It will relieve man cares incident to house cleaning.

Mrs. Luther Lapham was called to Flint by a telegram last week on account of the sudden death of her sister Mrs. Wm. J. Williams. She leaves a large circle of relatives and friends. Her life was one of high moral character and christian fortitude. The children are Mrs. Wm. H. Light-hall; C. B. cashier Alpena county savings bank; William and Clarence of Flint, and Julius who was in Florida. The funeral was held Saturday. The floral gifts were many and beautiful. Mrs. Williams was known in Northville.

Miss Franc Baker of Morenci gave an interesting foreign missionary talk at the Methodist church Sunday evening. Three lessons for $2. Satisfaction guaranteed. Miss Baker is secretary of the women's work of the Detroit conference and but few persons in this country are better posted on foreign missionary work or foreign countries than is Miss Baker. Though never having been outside of the United States she can give a better description of other nations and their inhabitants than many people who have traveled through them.

The council should raise the street peddler's license to five dollars. Our home merchants are not making any too much money at any time and that they are selling goods as cheap, (if not cheaper,) as any other merchant in the state cannot be denied. It is not fair to let those Detroit chaps come out here with a lot of sour oranges, partly decayed, bananas and the like and come in competition with home trade unless they pay a reasonable price for the privilege. This will equally apply to all the usual street fakirs of the year now that the season has just opened.

Coxey and his fellow cranks may think their "commonwealth" army, now marching on to Washington is something new and original. But it is not. The RECORD notes that the same sort of conglomeration is described in I. Samuel, xxii, 2: "And every one that was in distress, and every one that was in debt, and everyone that was disheartened, gathered themselves unto him: and he became a captain over them, and there were with him about four hundred men." So it will be seen that Coxey's collection of tramps is simply a reproduction of the gathering at the cave of Aduham.

The Globe company has started up another new industry, the manufacture of a patent telephone desk. It has every appearance of being a seller and will doubtless prove quite an important addition to the Globe's business. A Mr. Sanford of Nebraska, an expert in the way of establishing agencies and pushing sales, is here in charge of that part of the business and things will soon commence to hum. The desk is neat and finely finished and is ornamental as well as useful. It can be attached to any telephone in two seconds. The desk is supplied with a nickel plated clip and a tab of paper.

Mankind could survive the collapse of all other industries but one. The one essential man is the farmer. He is the king of all and at the same time the servant of all. His reign began with Adam, and will last as long as the sun shines and the rain falls. He is of the few laborers who never go on a strike, and who could not afford to allow a strike. His stopping work would be as bad as cutting off the world's supply of air. The farmer not only gives the world its bread and meat, not only sustains the bodily life from year to year, but he forms the vast surplus of reserve capital upon which the cities and nations are constantly drawing for the maintenance of their physical and intellectual health. Country air and country light seems to make strong minds and strong souls. The freshness, the breadth and originality which comes from close communion with nature, are needed to give life and blood to the depleted and urban system. From the beginning of our history, the farmer has contributed great men to American business and politics, providing intellectual and moral as well as physical material for the country, and we have reason to be thankful that we can look to him for this also in the future, as well as for the products of the soil.

DRESSMAKING—I am prepared to do dressmaking at your homes or at B. Freeman's, Cady street. Prices reasonable. EDITH FREEMAN.

I. N. Starkweather continues very ill.

Mr. Barnhart continues to slowly fail.

LOST—Between home and school house Wednesday, twisted neck chain with heart locket containing two sets. Will kindly return to RECORD office or Miss Mae White?

Mrs. Mary A. Allen, a prominent and well known resident of Plymouth died Wednesday evening. She was seventy-three years of age and lived there sixty-six years.

"Art and Christianity" will be the theme at the Methodist church next Sunday evening and the choir will sing the oldest known piece of Hebrew music recently found in the British museum.

The W. C. T. U. held their annual meeting Wednesday and re-elected all the old officers except recording secretary and Mrs. F. D. Adams was elected to that office. Four new members were received.

Changes in the Northville schools will necessitate two new teachers for next term. Miss Pierce of the 1st grammar room and Miss McConnell, the preceptress, have both resigned to take effect with the close of the present term.

Congressman Gorman has secured a delay in the confirmation of Mr. Pond as postmaster at Ann Arbor and during the lull he will attempt not only the removal of Superintendent Clark of the U. S. fish hatchery here, but Commissioner McDonald of Washington as well.

On Wednesday the British, murderous, Poles of Detroit fought and endeavored to kill the very people who had gave their aid and money during the past winter to keep them and their families from starving. Too severe a lesson cannot be taught such acts of lawlessness as was enacted on that occasion. Every true American citizen should read the editorial in Thursday morning's Tribune. It is one of the best articles of the kind ever placed in print.

Prof. W. A. Brush, horse educator, will give an exhibition with four trained horses under canvas on the Park house lot, Northville, on Monday evening, April 23 at 7:30 o'clock. Immediately after the exhibition H. D. Brush V. D. will deliver a lecture on "Horse Dentistry" and tooth-ache in dumb animals. They will remain in Northville three days for the purpose of teaching their new and improved theory for educating colts and horses. Who can properly value an educated and trusty horse? Satisfaction guaranteed. Bring in your horses. No horse abused. Exhibition free.

The Pontiac Times should understand that our referring to the probable time when there would be but two papers existing in that city had no reference whatever to the Times or any other particular paper. We were figuratively speaking only. We judge the Times to be as likely a stayer as any other. It has certainly shown itself to be a hustler thus far. The Republican changed our item to read four minus one equals three. Inferring the Times would be the "1" and itself one of the "3." The Republican assumes too much. We think if three papers stay, the Times, as an independent paper, stands as good a chance as two political papers of the same faith. As we said however we had no personal reference in the item whatever.

Those intending to learn the art of cutting and the principal part of dress making should not fail to see Worth's French Tailor System, is easily learned and by far superior to any system for a high class recommend. Also first class dressmaking done. Mrs. GOULD at Mrs. Macomber's Boarding House. w2p

MICHIGAN NEWS.

NEWS IN BRIEF FROM THE TWO PENINSULAS.

The Jury in the Case of ex-Secretary of State Jochim Could Not Agree on a Verdict After Over Ten Hours' Deliberations—Other Briefs.

During the second day of the trial of ex-Secretary of State John W. Jochim, the prosecution sprung a great surprise by resting their side without producing any testimony of importance. Marcus Petersen and Frank Potter were called but were only asked a few unimportant questions. The prosecution refused to call Gov. Rich and several other witnesses to the stand, but the defense held that they should at least be produced in court. The defense produced a number of witnesses who testified to Jochim's good reputation. Two or three other witnesses were examined on minor points. Then the defendant—John W. Jochim—was called. He swore that his first experience of the state canvassing board was upon the Richardson-Bell case in February, 1893; he then signed tabulated sheets prepared by clerks. His next sitting as a member of the board was April 20, 1893, and then he was told by his deputy—Lindholm—that the returns were not ready to sign. He never examined the original returns from the counties; did not in any way direct the work of his clerks in tabulating the returns. On May 16, 1893, he signed the returns in the presence of the state canvassing board. He did not verify the correctness, but signed them as Lindholm placed them before him; did not even know how many canvasses he signed; had no doubt as to their correctness; he had no intention of defrauding the state by accepting the increased salary and believed the amendment had carried. In the cross examination by the prosecution it was developed that he was densely ignorant as to the duties of the executive clerk and other employees and also as to his own duties. He had never read the statutes. He did not know it was his duty to publish the election returns until he was shown a newspaper supplement at the grand jury with the vote published under his name. He learned afterward that his deputy attended to it. Jochim said he knew a crime had been committed, but where, when and by whom he did not know.

The two following days were taken up with the arguments of the attorneys.

The jury disagreed. Ex-Secretary of State John W. Jochim does not yet know—legally—whether he is innocent or guilty of defrauding the state of Michigan by signing a fraudulent canvass of votes cast on a constitutional amendment to increase his salary together with the salaries of several other state officials. The case which attracted great attention throughout the state came to a close much sooner than was expected, but the result was a sorry disappointment to both sides. Judge Person's charge to the jury was very clear and concise, occupying about three-quarters of an hour in its reading. It was fair and considerate. Judge Person said the duty of canvassing and correctly determining the result rested with three important state officers, whose duties, as defined by the statute, were given. He advised the jury that it was the personal duty of those officers to examine the tabulation of the returns, and that if they were charged with making a false public record with intent to defraud, it stands admitted that he made a false record, but that may be true, and he still be innocent. Intent is the basis of guilt. Respondent made a false certificate. By virtue of that certificate money was illegally drawn from the state treasury. Did John W. Jochim intend to defraud the people when he signed the false record? If he believed it was correct then he cannot be found guilty.

The point in this case, it was said, is not a broad one. It is simply a question of intent. If Jochim's heart was right and he acted in good faith, he must be held to be innocent, but if his heart was dishonest or dishonorable he must be held guilty. If the facts are consistent with the theory of innocence, acquittal must follow.

F. A. Baker asked the court to charge that the jury must determine whether Jochim signed the canvass knowing it to be false, or whether he signed it believing it to be true. The court added, however, that if Jochim knew he should sign a true canvass, and purposely avoided an investigation in order not to detect a false one, he is guilty. If a false record was made by intentional avoidance of an investigation, when it was suspected to be false, it was equivalent to a knowledge of its falsity.

It was exactly 9:30 o'clock a. m. when the jury was conducted to the jury room, and the crowd in court room soon broke up. At 3 p. m. the jury was sent out that there was no chance of agreement, but Judge Person said he would like to have the jury deliberate farther. At 8:45 p. m. Judge Person mounted the bench and the jury was called in. In response to questions Foreman Armstrong said that the jury had stood six to six all day, and that the division was on a question of fact. Judge Person then dismissed the jury for the case, and the term and adjourned court.

Dr. Chas. Norton, who keeps a drug store at Kilmaster, was arrested charged with selling liquor without a license. He gave bonds for his appearance at the next term of the circuit court. There will be war declared against all saloonkeepers in Alcona county who neglect to pay their license after May 1.

Frank Leach was crushed to death by a rolling log at Niles. His body was terribly mangled. He was sawing one of a pile of logs where the ground is on an incline. The logs began to roll down hill, one of them passing over his body. He was 24 years old and was married a year ago.

While drawing a load of wood from the country, L. L. Rowley stopped his team near his house at Leelanau. His 3-year-old son climbed upon the wheel. Mr. Rowley, not seeing him, started his horses, and the boy fell under the wagon, a wheel passing over his body near the hips. The child will scarcely recover.

Arbor Day Proclamation.
Governor Rich has issued the following proclamation: "In compliance with an honored custom and with public sentiment, I hereby designate Friday, April 27, 1894, as Arbor Day. The proper observance of this day in the planting of trees, shrubs and flowers will result in beautifying and adorning our homes and highways and is most earnestly recommended. To inculcate a love of the beautiful in nature, should be a pleasant duty for the teachers in our public schools, and it is further recommended that the exercises in our schools upon that day be of such a character as will impress its beneficial object upon the minds of the pupils."

$15,000 FOR MISS POLLARD.

The Jury in the Breckinridge-Pollard Case Gives Plaintiff a Big Verdict.

At last the end has come to the odious breach of promise case brought by Miss Madeline Pollard against Congressman W. C. P. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, at Washington, D. C. The vile, disgusting testimony brought in by the various witnesses of all degrees, from the keeper of a colored house of ill-fame to the widow of a member of congress and the prominent defendant, has been thrust before the people of the whole country in the daily press. The hot-headed southern lawyers had several passages-at-arms which came near resulting in knock-down fights or duels. And at last the end has come and the blind goddess has given her favor to Miss Pollard, of whom it is not necessary to make mention.

The closing hours of the great case were full of interest. Jere Wilson, the special lawyer, closed the arguments and succeeded in pulling the defense into shreds. Then dignified Judge Bradley, who is to be highly commended for his bearing throughout the entire hearing, gave a very pointed charge to the jury, bearing principally upon the point that sentiment, public opinion or a public wrong had nothing to do with the case.

To sum it all up, if a contract of marriage was not made, or if it was agreed to with the understanding that it was not to be carried out, the verdict should be for the defendant. If a contract had been made and broken they were to find for the plaintiff, awarding such damages as they saw fit. Their verdict must be formed upon the preponderance of evidence.

The jury retired at 3:07 o'clock. At 25 minutes before 5 o'clock there was a rush toward the court room. Judge Bradley and the jury entered at one door, Col. Breckinridge, his son and Col. Phil Thompson at the other. There was no expectation of approval or disapproval from the crowd. Col. Breckinridge himself rose to make a motion for a new trial and the court adjourned.

The jury took fifteen ballots before reaching their conclusion. The difference was mainly over the amount of damages to be granted, and there was but one man on the jury who favored the defendant.

Col. Breckinridge was very cool after the verdict had been rendered. He walked away with his counsel, talking with them but declined to accept for publication, as did his attorneys. Miss Pollard, who was not present at closing scenes, was somewhat excited but not hysterical while awaiting the result, and as a woman always does, broke into tears when she heard it. She declined to be interviewed, and her attorneys said that she was anxious to efface herself from the public sight as far as possible, but that the case had ended. That Miss Pollard will not be financially bettered by the result of her case is probable, because it is well understood and has been said on trial that Col. Breckinridge has no property. He has lived up to his income for years and although his wife has money, it does not seem likely that she will care to expend it to satisfy this judgment.

Inheritance Tax Law Killed.

The law to tax inheritances which was the pride of Senator Doran in the last legislature has been trampled out of force by the supreme court of Michigan.

Two cases were brought to the supreme court from Wayne county. The opinion decides the issue in both. The proceeding was for a writ of prohibition against the probate judge restraining any proceedings under the act. Section 20 of the act provides that all taxes collected under it should be paid into the treasury of the state for the use of the state and shall be applicable to the expenses of the state government, and to such other purposes as the legislature shall by law direct.

The opinion says: "Our constitution provides that every law which imposes a tax must state the object to which it is to be applied. In this law the object was stated, and it is found that within the express terms of the constitution the money arising from it cannot be so applied. This must defeat the whole act for it is impossible for this court to say that any part of the act would have the approval of the legislature had the money arising from the tax been appropriated in the act as provided by the constitution. It is safe to say that if the legislature had supposed these moneys arising from the tax could not be appropriated to the general state fund and made applicable to the general expenses of the state government, the act would not have met with the legislature's approval." The whole act is declared unconstitutional. The opinion was written by Judge Long.

Senator Doran, of Grand Rapids, is wondering how it all happened, as his act was modeled closely after the New York law on the subject, which has been held constitutional, and the Michigan and New York state constitutions are almost identical. The senator declares that the same bill will be presented to the next legislature so modified as to avoid the defects pointed out by the supreme court.

NEWS IN GENERAL.

GATHERED FROM EVERYWHERE AND BOILED DOWN.

A Million Dollar Fire at Buffalo and Probable Loss of at Least Twelve Workmen's Lives—Disastrous Storm off New Jersey's Coast.

The plant of the American Glucose company burned. The loss will be about $1,000,000. The insurance is $855,000. The works of the company consisted of an 11-story brick building used for the manufacture of glucose and starch, an eight-story brick building used as a power house and as a place for making the cattle feeding product, an eight-story brick building used as a refinery and an eight-story store house. The fire was discovered in the dynamo room of the main building shortly after 7 p. m. by the engineer. In 10 minutes the whole 11 floors were on fire, flames were bursting through the windows and darting from the roof and in half an hour the building was destroyed. The feed house was completely destroyed. The refinery and the storehouse went next and, by 11 o'clock there was nothing left of the mammoth establishment but a few tottering walls. The glucose works were owned and controlled by C. J. Hamlin, the famous ironing horse man and his sons.

There were perhaps 125 men at work. It is known that some of the men escaped by the fire escape and some of those on the lower stories jumped into the canal. A great many men were at work on the upper floors, and it is feared that some were cremated. Four were badly hurt in jumping.

LATER: The full extent of loss of life by burning of the American Glucose works is still uncertain. About eighty men were at work in the building when the fire broke out, but how many escaped and who among them perished cannot yet be determined.

Inquiries have been made by relatives for twelve workmen who are missing and supposed to have been burned or crushed to death. The loss, although over-estimated in the early reports, is still larger than the city has experienced in five years. It is now estimated that the loss to the glucose works proper will not exceed $900,000. Six bodies have been recovered from the ruins of the burned glucose works at Buffalo.

MANY MEN DROWNED.

Fearful Gales Blow Along Old Atlantic's Shore.

Special from Manassquan N. J. The furious gale and high tides which have prevailed have left their mark all along the Jersey coast. The wind blew a full gale all day, the high seas roaring and pounding and foaming with a mighty rage. In the height and fury of the storm the three-masted schooner Albert W. Smith was driven ashore at a point midway between Seagirt and Manassquan. Less than 100 yards from the shore the vessel struck the beach and was wrecked. About eight men it is said, composed the crew none of whom have been seen since their boat was wrecked and it is impossible that any man of that crew has survived to tell the tale of his experience in the awful gale. The vessel was of 57 tons burden. She was built in 1873 at Keeneburg, Me. and was owned by Albert W. Smith of Providence, R. I. from which place she sailed. She was bound for Providence from Philadelphia.

Special from Long Branch N. J. For 24 hours the most severe northeast gale with heavy rain and snow in fourteen years, prevailed along the coast, causing much damage to shipping. At Morgan the tide was higher than it had been known in ten years. At Matavan and Keyport the tide backed up to such an extent that the meadows surrounding these places are all inundated and some of the smaller vessels which have been lying at the docks have broken loose and drifted out upon the meadows, so that when the storm abates and the tide falls they will be left lying high and dry. Directly opposite the Highland Beach station the three-masted schooner Kate Markee came ashore this morning at the outer bar. It was at first reported that the entire crew of 12 men were lost, but later reports show that two of the men were saved.

A Gallant General Dead.

Gen. Henry W. Stocum died at his residence in Brooklyn, N. Y., after about a week's illness of pneumonia. Henry Warner Stocum was born in Denawa, Onondaga county, N. Y. September 24, 1827. He was graduated at the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., in 1847. He was promoted to first lieutenant in 1852, resigned in October 1856, rejoining in New York. He was a member of the legislature in 1859, and was a member of the civil war. He was appointed colonel of the Twenty-seventh New York Volunteers. He commanded this regiment at the battle of Bull Run on July 21, 1862, where he was severely wounded. On August 9 he was commissioned brigadier-general of volunteers and succeeded to the command of the division. He was promoted to major-general of volunteers July 4, 1862. At Gettysburg he commanded the right wing of the army and was severely wounded. He was promoted to major-general in August 1864. He succeeded Gen. Joseph Hooker in command of the Twentieth corps which was the first body of troops to occupy Atlanta on September 2. Sherman's march to the sea he led command of the left wing of the army in the capture of Savannah. He was elected to congress in 1876, and re-elected in 1879. In 1881 he was again elected to congress. He was one of the commissioners of the street, iron bridge and was in favor of making it free to the public.

CONGRESSIONAL NEWS.

SENATE—Ninety-eighth day.—Senator Hale spoke in opposition to the tariff bill. From his study of the bill these things were apparent: First, it is a bill to protect the south and punish the north. Second, it is a bid for the benefit of the European manufacturer and producer at the expense of our own manufacturer and producer. Third, it is in every paragraph that deals with the products of the dominion of Canada, as brought in competition with the products of our own people along the Canadian border, a simon pure, almost unadulterated bill for the benefit of Canada, and to our corresponding hurt. Continuing he said: "The provisions of the bill strikes down the whole scheme of reciprocity, under which additional trade has been growing up with foreign countries. A strong point in Mr. Hale's speech was the inevitable annexation of Canada to the tariff. He continued: "The Wilson bill and the amendments reported by the Senate committee throw over all this advantage and instead postpone political union of the two countries." Senator Peter concluded his speech begun on a previous day. HOUSE—A deadlock in a parliamentary question prevented any business being transacted.

SENATE—Ninety-ninth day.—Senator Kyle introduced a joint resolution proposing a constitutional amendment relative to divorce and divorce, which was referred to the committee on Judiciary. The urgent deficiency bill taken up and last night the Senate passed for uniformity in the letting of government contracts for supplies at Washington, gave rise to considerable discussion, and also the paragraph for the printing of an abstract of the eleventh census. Mr. Peter concluded his speech in opposition to the tariff bill. Senator Hale introduced a bill providing for Sunday rest. It provides that no one shall perform any labor or engage in any amusement on Sunday, to the disturbance of others in any territory, district, vessel or place subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States on the Sabbath and on the day of the transportation of the mails on that day of the week. HOUSE—For several days and on several occasions the Republicans succeeded in forcing against certain measures, demanding a quorum and then refusing to vote. Under such a stress of circumstances Speaker Craythorn and Mr. Outwater comprising the Democrats and the committee on rules, decided that the time had come to set a record. A resolution was introduced and passed by a vote of 150 yeas and 100 nays. The resolution provided that the members of the new rule, and nothing themselves unable to proceed, a resolution was offered to revoke the order and compel the attendance of absentees. The Republicans succeeded in preventing the adoption of this order for six hours and a half. The House adjourned with the matter hanging fire.

SENATE—One hundredth day.—The urgent deficiency bill was taken up and Mr. Cockrell moved an amendment, which was agreed to appropriating $46,000 for the mint at Philadelphia. This made necessary by the unprecedented amount of gold at that mint. The urgent deficiency bill was displaced by the tariff bill, and Mr. Peter resumed his speech at its conclusion. Senator McNeill, of Oregon, was then recognized and spoke on the tariff bill. He argued against the adoption of the new rule to secure a voting quorum was resumed. The Republicans successfully continued their filibustering and prevented a vote, as the Democrats could not muster a quorum.

SENATE—One hundred and first day.—The first bill introduced by a new senator from Georgia Mr. Walsh was presented. It relates to reform of the judiciary. The resolution of the Senate on the bill was agreed to. A bill of amendment was introduced on the day of the hearing on the bill. The bill was taken up and Mr. Peter resumed his speech at its conclusion. Senator McNeill, of Oregon, was then recognized and spoke on the tariff bill. He argued against the adoption of the new rule to secure a voting quorum was resumed. The Republicans successfully continued their filibustering and prevented a vote, as the Democrats could not muster a quorum.

University Professor Dead.

Corydon L. Ford M. D. LL. D. professor of anatomy and physiology in the University, died at Ann Arbor. He had recently handed in his resignation and the day before his death delivered his last lecture. On his way home he was struck with apoplexy. He did not recover consciousness but quietly passed away.

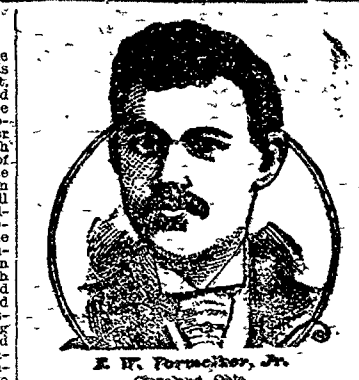

Prof. Ford was born August 29, 1813 at Lexington, Middlesex county, N. Y. The deceased received his early education in the district schools. At seventeen years of age he commenced teaching school, which he continued for nine winters, thereby receiving the means to study medicine. On Jan. 27, 1832 he graduated from the Geneva Medical college and on that day received the appointment of full demonstrator of anatomy which position he held for seven years. In June 1854 he was appointed to a professorship of his favorite branch at the University of Michigan. The ability of the deceased was marked and in his prime he was considered the best lecturer on anatomy in the United States.

Dr. Ford left an estate estimated at $250,000. His wife bequeathed $80,000 to the University of Michigan. The income to be used to purchase books for the general library and $3,000 to the Students' Christian association. About $7,000 is bequeathed to relatives. The remainder of the estate is to be divided among numerous religious and missionary associations of the Congregational denomination.

They were burned, four fatally. Those who will die are: Jack Hayden, burned about the head and shoulders; Orlando Gray, boy, breast and neck; William Cozens, colored, arm burned off; Stephen Weeks, eyes burned out. The hot metal scattered for 30 feet in all directions. The clothes were burned from all within reach. All the fatally injured are single men, except Cozens, who has a large family.

A Mere Skeleton

Very Much Reduced After The Grip.

"Gentlemen—24 December last, I was stricken down with the grip, and cannot express my suffering. When the disease left me, I was weak and had little hope of recovery. I was a mere skeleton; had no appetite, and everything I ate distressed me."

My wife called my attention to Hood's Sarsaparilla. I took the doctor I thought I would begin to take it, and he said I ought to see good. He began, and the first dose of Hood's Sarsaparilla seemed to give me a desire for food. I continued to improve, and to make a long story short, I was soon able to attend to my business. I owe all to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and think it should be kept in every home. F. W. Vandewater, Jr., 120 Broadway, N. Y. City.

Prof. Ford was born August 29, 1813 at Lexington, Middlesex county, N. Y. The deceased received his early education in the district schools. At seventeen years of age he commenced teaching school, which he continued for nine winters, thereby receiving the means to study medicine. On Jan. 27, 1832 he graduated from the Geneva Medical college and on that day received the appointment of full demonstrator of anatomy which position he held for seven years. In June 1854 he was appointed to a professorship of his favorite branch at the University of Michigan. The ability of the deceased was marked and in his prime he was considered the best lecturer on anatomy in the United States.

Dr. Ford left an estate estimated at $250,000. His wife bequeathed $80,000 to the University of Michigan. The income to be used to purchase books for the general library and $3,000 to the Students' Christian association. About $7,000 is bequeathed to relatives. The remainder of the estate is to be divided among numerous religious and missionary associations of the Congregational denomination.

The twenty-ninth anniversary of President Lincoln's death was celebrated by a memorial meeting at the People's church, Boston, at which William Lloyd Garrison presided. The speakers were Gov. Greenhalge and Judge Albion W. Tourgee.

Four fatally burned With Hot Metal. A hydraulic plunger on a converter at the Middleport steel plant, at Painesville, O., broke protesting 8,600 pounds of white hot metal among 60 workmen from a distance of 15 feet.

They were burned, four fatally. Those who will die are: Jack Hayden, burned about the head and shoulders; Orlando Gray, boy, breast and neck; William Cozens, colored, arm burned off; Stephen Weeks, eyes burned out. The hot metal scattered for 30 feet in all directions. The clothes were burned from all within reach. All the fatally injured are single men, except Cozens, who has a large family.

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitutes if offered.

TABERNACLE PULPIT.

DR. TALMAGE TALKS ABOUT HOME RELIGION.

Love Is the Corner-Stone of the Family Structure—The Christian Home Is Likened to a Kingdom of Joy and Gladness.

BROOKLYN, April 15.—In the great audience which assembled in the Brooklyn tabernacle this forenoon, were many strangers. Rev. Dr. Talmage chose for the subject of his sermon, "Home Religion," taking his text from Luke-viii: 49: "Return to thine own house, and show how great things God hath done unto thee."

After a fierce and shipwrecking night, Christ and his disciples are clumping up the slaty shelving of the beach. How pleasant it is to stand on solid ground after having been tossed so long on the billows! While the disciples are congratulating each other on their marine escape, out from a dark, deep cavern on the Gadarene hills there is something swiftly and terribly advancing. Is it an apparition? Is it a man? Is it a wild beast? It is a maniac who has broken away from his keepers, perhaps a few rags on his person, and fragments of stout shackles which he has wrenched off in terrific paroxysms. With wild yell and bleeding wounds of his own laceration, he flies down the hill.

Back to the beach, ye fishermen, and put out to sea, and escape assassination! But Christ stands his ground; so do the disciples, and as this flying fury, with gnashing teeth and uplifted fists, dashes at Christ, Christ says, "Hands off! Down at my feet; thou poor sufferer," and the demoniac drops harmless, exhausted, worshipful. "Away, ye devils," commanded Christ, and the 2,000 fiends which had been tormenting the poor man are transferred to the 2,000 swine which go to sea with their accursed cargo.

The restored demoniac sits down at Christ's feet and wants to stay there. Christ says to him practically, "Do not stop, you have a mission to execute; wash off the fish and the wounds in the sea, smooth your disheveled locks, put on decent apparel and go straight to your desolate home, and tell your wife and children that you will no more frighten them, and no more do them harm; that you are restored to reason, and that I, the Omnipotent Son of God, am entitled hereafter to the worship of your entire household. Return to thine own house, and show how great things God hath done unto thee."

Yes, for hence, the home is the first place where our religious gratitude ought to be demonstrated. In the outside world we may seem to have religion when we have it not, but the home tests whether our religion is genuine or a sham. What makes a happy home?

Well, one would say a house with great wide halls and anterooms, and a parlor with sculpture and bric-a-brac, and a dining hall with easy chairs and plenty of light and engravings on the wall, and a sleeping apartment commodious and adorned. No in such a place as that a man, stretched out on a couch, looks back to his father's house where they read their Bible by the light of a tallow candle. There were no carpets on the floor save those made from the rags which your mother cut night by night, and then sent to the weaver, who brought them in shape under his slow shuttle. Not a luxury in all the house. But, on our own part, of it this morning without tearful and grateful emotion. You and I have found out that it is not rich tapestry, or gorgeous architecture, or rare art that makes a happy home.

The wise men of Greece gave prescriptions for a happy home. Solon says a happy home is a place where a man's estate was gotten without injustice, kept without dissipation and spent without repentance. Cato says that a happy home is the place where a man rules as a monarch of a kingdom. Bias says that a happy home is a place where a man does voluntarily what he is lawfully compelled to do abroad. But you and I, under a grander light, give a better prescription: a happy home is a place where the kindness of the Gospel of the Son of God has fallen.

While I speak this morning there is knocking at our front door, if he be not already admitted, one whose looks are wet with the dew of the night. Who would take your children into his arms and would throw upon your nursery, and your sleeping apartments, and your drawing room, and your entire house a blessing that will make you rich while you live and be an inheritance to your children after you have done the last day's work for their support and made for them the last prayer. It is the lasturous one who said to the man of my text, "Return to thine own house and show how great things God hath done unto thee." Now, in the first place, we want religion in our domestic duties.

Every housekeeper needs great grace. If Martha had had more religion she could not have rushed with such bad temper to scold Mary in the presence of Christ. It is so small a thing to keep order and secure cleanliness, and mend breakages and achieve economy, and control all the affairs of the household advantageously. Expenses will run up, store bills will come in twice as large as you think they ought to be, furniture will wear out, carpets will unravel, and the martyrs of the fire are very few in comparison with the martyrs of housekeeping. Yet there are hundreds of people in this church this morning who in their home, are managing all these affairs with a composure, an adroitness, an ingenuity, and a faithfulness which they never could have reached but for the grace of our practical Christianity. The exasperations which wear out others have been to you spiritual development and sanctification. Employments which seemed to relate only to an hour have on them all the grandeur of eternal history.

You need the religion of Christ, in the discipline of your children. The rod which in other homes may be the first means used, in yours will be the last. There will be no harsh epithets—"you knave, you villain, you scoundrel, I'll thrash the life out of you, you are the worst child I ever knew." All that kind of chastisement makes thieves, pickpockets, murderers and the outlaws of society. That parent who in anger strikes his child across the head, deserves the penitentiary. And yet this work of discipline must be attended to. God's grace can direct us. Alas for those who come to the work with fierce passion and recklessness of consequences. Between severity and laxity there is no choice. Both ruinous and both destructive. But there is a healthful medium which the grace of God will show to us.

Then we need the religion of Christ to help us in setting a good example. Cowper said of the oak: "Time was when settled on thy leaf a fly could shake thee to the root. Time has been when tempest could not." In other words, your children are very impressionable just now. They are glib; they are gathering impressions you have no idea of. Have you not been surprised sometimes, months or years after some conversation, which you supposed was too profound or intricate for them to understand—some question of the child demonstrated the fact that he knew all about it?

Your children are apt to think that what you do is right. They have no ideal of truth or righteousness but yours. Things which you do knowing to be right, they reason this way: "Father always does right. Father did this. Therefore, this is right." That is good logic, but bad premises. No one ever gets over having had a bad example set him. Your conduct more than your teaching makes impression. Your laugh, your frown, your dress, your walk, your greetings, your goings, your habits at the table, the tones of your voice are making an impression which will last a million years after you are dead, and the sun will be extinguished, and the mountains will crumble, and the world will die, and eternity will roll on in perpetual cycles, but there will be no diminution of the force of your conduct upon the young eyes that saw it or the young ears that heard it.

Now I would not have by this the idea given to you that you must be a cold reserve in the presence of your children. You are not emperor; you are companion with them. As far as you can, you must walk with them, skate with them, fly kite with them, play ball with them, show them you are interested in all that interests them. Spenser's nephew and successor of Plato in the academy had pictures of joy and gladness hung around the school-room. You must not give your children the impression that when they come to you they are playful ripples striking against a rock. You must have them understand that you are a boy once yourself, that you know a boy's heart, a boy's temptations, a boy's ambition, a boy's that you are a boy yet. You may deceive them and try to give them the idea that you are some distant supernatural effulgence and you may shun them off by your rigorous behavior, but the time will come when they will find out the deception and they will have for you utter contempt.

Aristotle said that a boy should begin to study at 17 years of age, before that his mind should be given to recreation. I can not adopt that theory. But this suggests a truth in the right direction. Childhood is too brief, and we have not enough sympathy with its sportfulness. We want divine grace to help us in the adjustment of all these matters.

Readers, how are your children ever to become Christians if you yourself are not a Christian? I have noticed that however worldly and sinful parents may be, they want their children good. When young people have presented themselves for admission into our membership I have said to them, "Are your father and mother willing you shall come?" and they have said, "Oh yes; they are delighted to have us, as we have not been in church for ten or fifteen years, but they will be here next Sabbath to see me baptized." I have noticed that parents, however worldly, want their children good.

So it was demonstrated in a police court in Canada where a mother, her little child in her arms—at a table on which her own handkerchiefs lay, and the little babe took up the handkerchiefs and played with them, and had great fun. She knew not the sorrow of the hour. And then when the mother was sent to prison, the mother cried out, "Oh! God, let not my babe go into the jail. Is there not some mother here who will take this child? It is good enough for heaven. It is pure I am bad. I am wicked. Is there not some one who will take this child?" I can not have it wanted with the prison. Then a brazen creature rushed up and said, "Yes, I'll take the child." "No, no," said the mother, "not you, not you. Is there not some good mother here who will take this child?" And then when the officer of the law in mercy and pity took the child to carry it away to find a home for it, the mother kissed it lovingly good-bye, and said, "Good-bye, my darling, it is better you should never see me again."

However worldly and sinful people are they want their children good. How are you going to have them good? Buy them a few good books? Teach them a few excellent catch songs?

Bring them to church? That is all very well, but of little final result unless you do it with the grace of God in your heart. Do you not realize that your children are started for eternity? Are they on the right road? Those little forms that are now so bright and beautiful, when they have scattered in the dust there will be an immortal spirit living on in a mighty theater of action, and your faithfulness or your neglect now is deciding that destiny.

There is contention already among ministering spirits of salvation and fallen angels as to who shall have the mastery of that immortal spirit. Your children are soon going out in the world. The temptations of life will rush upon them. The most rigid resolution will bend in the blast of evil. What will be the result? It will require all the restraints of the gospel, all the strength of a father's prayer, all the influence of a Christian mother's example, to keep them.

You say it is too early to bring them. Too early to bring them to God? Do you know how early children were taken to the ancient Passover? The rule was just as soon as they could take hold of the father's hand and walk up Mount Moriah they should be taken to the Passover. Your children are not too young to come to God. While you sit here and think of them perhaps their forms now so bright and beautiful vanish from you, and you see disembodied spirit rises, and you see it after the life of virtue or crime is past and the judgment is gone and eternity is here.

A Christian minister said that in the first year of his pastorate he tried to persuade a young mechanic of the importance of family worship. Some time passed, and the mechanic came to the pastor's study and said: "Do you remember that girl? That was my own child; she died this morning very suddenly; she has gone to God. I have no doubt, but if so, she has told him what I tell you now; that child never heard a prayer in her father's house—never heard a prayer from her father's lips. Oh! if I only had her back again one day to do my duty!" It will be a tremendous thing at the last day if some one shall say to me, "I never heard my father pray; I never heard my mother pray."

Again I remark, we want religion in all our home sorrows. There are ten thousand questions that come up in the best regulated household that must be settled. Perhaps the father, the one favorite in the family, the mother, another favorite in the family, and there are many questions that need delicate treatment.

Tyranny and arbitrary decision have no place in a household. If the parents love God, there will be a spirit of self-sacrifice, and a spirit of forgiveness, and a kindness which will throw its charm over the entire household. Christ will come into that household and will say, "Husbands, love your wives and be not bitter against them; wives, see that you reverence your husbands, children, obey your parents in the Lord, servants, be obedient to your masters," and the family will be like a garden on a summer morning—the grass plot, and the flowers and the vines, and the arch of honeysuckle standing in the sunlight glittering with dew.

But then there will be sorrows that will come to the household. There are but few families that escape the stroke of financial misfortune. Financial misfortune comes to a house where there is no religion. They kick against divine allotments; they curse God for the incoming calamity, they withdraw from the world because they can not hold as high a position in society as they once did, and they fret, and they scowl, and they sorrow, and they die. During the past few years there have been tens of thousands of men destroyed by their financial distresses.

When a queen died, her three sons brought an offering to the grave. One son brought gold, another brought silver, but the third son came and stood over the grave and opened one of his veins and let the blood drop upon his mother's tomb, and all who saw it said it was the greatest demonstration of affection. My friends, what is the grandest gift we can bring to the sepulchers of a Christian ancestor? It is a life all consecrated to the God who made us and the Christ who redeemed us. I can not but believe that there are hundreds of parents in this house who have resolved to do their whole duty, and that at this moment they are passing into a better life; and having seen the grace of the gospel in this place to-day, you are now fully ready to return to your own house, and show what great things God has done unto you.

Though parents may in covenant be, And have their heaven in view; They are not happy all they see Their children happy too.

May the Lord God of Abraham and Isaac and Jacob, the God of our fathers be our God and the God of our children forever.

Nothing Lost by Being Polite. A jaguar in one's path would seem to be as undesirable a guest as a lion, and it is hard to know how to treat it. A story is told of a South American Indian finding himself suddenly confronted with a fine specimen of a jaguar that stood right in his way only a few feet ahead. There was little time to think over the situation, and it would probably have been certain death to turn and flee.

With a happy notion, therefore, the man advanced, and, taking off his big broad-brimmed hat, made the animal a low bow and bade it "Good morning."

The jaguar was so overcome by this unusual display of courtesy that it turned round and walked slowly away. Politeness costs nothing; indeed, in this story be true, it may save a life.

CAUGHT BY A MARK.

It Was the Only Evidence, and Then the Assassin Gave Himself Away.

Cases in which a man has been convicted of crime on purely circumstantial evidence are of frequent occurrence, but in the majority of instances it would not be difficult to point to at least one weak link in the chain of guilt. Though numbers of innocent persons have in this way suffered punishment here is a striking case in which a prisoner was found guilty on testimony that left no room for even the shadow of a doubt.

One night an assassin entered a drover's house in Ohio, killed the inmates and secured a sealed package containing $1,800 in bank notes. In order to conceal his crime, he set fire to the house before leaving it. The building burned slowly, and the neighbors were enabled to extinguish the flames and to discover the murderous work which had been done.

The assassin, before leaping over the fence, had torn open the wrapper of the package and flung it on the ground. This was picked up by the police and marks of blood were found upon it. It was the only clue in their possession.

After twenty-four hours the murderer returned to the town. The police suspected him, because he had been mysteriously absent and was known to have been intimate with the drover. They did not arrest him, but constantly watched him for four months.

He had been poor, but now seemed to have money. In the course of a week he married and went away on a wedding tour. Two detectives followed him. Whenever he paid a hotel bill or offered money for any purpose they secured the bank notes which had been in his possession.

Subsequently he made several journeys with the detectives behind him, and finally went to Minnesota. There he paid out a $20 bill with a red thumb mark on one corner. The police arrested him as soon as they examined it.

On the trial the torn wrapper with its blood mark was identified as having been in the drover's possession. The bank notes, which had been traced to the assassin, were put in with the last one paid out by him on the spot.

The smear of blood on the wrapper corresponded precisely with the marks of the bank notes underneath. The specialist's magnifying glass revealed unerringly now the murderer's thumb, in tearing open the envelope, had touched the first bank note. It was circumstantial evidence conclusive of guilt. The murderer was convicted and hanged.

The police in this instance understood their business. They had their theory in relation to the crime, but they had no evidence upon which to secure a conviction. They had their torn wrapper, and were confident that the bank note which had been directly underneath would have a corresponding smear of blood.

They allowed the assassin to go where he liked, and waited patiently for him to convict himself. In the end they secured evidence establishing his guilt with absolute certainty. Circumstantial evidence can be as conclusive as direct proof, and it is sometimes more trustworthy, because there is less chance for perjury or conspiracy.

Johnson, whose evidence is undisputed, says the only other places he has any use for are those he is compelled to go out after between the acts.

Mrs. H. Abby has been the guest of her cousin, Mrs. D. Cole, the past few days.

The N. P. L. will meet with P. J. Taylor April 24. It will be the time to elect officers and every member should be present.

Mrs. Delos Flint was taken very sick while attending the funeral services of Mrs. Harmon Monday. She was conveyed to C. M. Wright's. She is some better at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Harmon wish to express their sincere thanks for the kindness of their friends, during the illness and death of their mother, Mrs. Harmon. They are indeed very grateful.

A. Decker of Walled Lake is said to have done the most business of any man in the county in the past eight months. He has handled about 1,000 tons of hay besides a large quantity of farm products, poultry, etc. One would have judged by taking a glance into the postoffice one day last week that rats were quite numerous by the condition of the mail. But on making inquiry it was learned that it was a rat on wheels. On some of the mail it was almost impossible to identify the signature or address.

F. E. Quigley is an authorized representative of the Record at Novi and vicinity and will receive subscriptions or orders for job printing. He is supplied with sample books and prices and any orders entrusted to his care will receive careful attention.

John G. Smith Married.

Following from the Grass Valley Daily Tidings of April 10 will be of interest to Northville people:

"This morning was the scene of a very pretty and quiet wedding. The contracting parties were John G. Smith of Washington and Miss Delia Annie Hankins of this city. The ceremony took place at eight o'clock at the beautiful residence of the bride's parents on Richardson street and was indeed a very pretty affair. The house was tastefully decorated with flowers and holy and presented a scene appropriate for such an occasion. The nuptial knot was tied by the Rev. L. J. Garvey in the beautiful and impressive ceremony of the Congregational church. Miss Lola Crow of Stockton was the bridesmaid, while James C. Dean of Nevada City did the honors as groomsmen. The bride was charmingly attired in a dress of tan colored silk trimmed in Valenciennes lace, with diamonds as ornaments. Miss Hankins is a bright, vivacious young lady who has spent the greater part of her life in this city and is a graduate of our public schools. She enjoys the acquaintance of a large circle of friends who wish her much happiness. The groom is a young man of exemplary habits, steady and industrious, who is representing a company of Washington capitalists in this city. He is deserving of his choice and at the same time he is to be congratulated on winning so fair a bride. At the conclusion of the ceremony a bountiful wedding breakfast was served after which the happy couple departed on the morning train for San Francisco and other points, where they will spend their honeymoon. Upon their return they expect to make Grass Valley their future home."
