MORTGAGE SALE.

Default has been made in the conditions of a mortgage bearing date May 26, 1886, made by Henry T. Lowden to J. S. Lapham and on the 17th day of June 1892 assigned by said J. S. Lapham to William G. Lapham, which mortgage was on the 7th day of June 1886 duly recorded in the office of the Registrar of Deeds for the County of Wayne and State of Michigan in Liber 217 of mortgages on page 271 and which said assignment was duly recorded in said Register of Deeds office on the 31st day of January 1893 in Liber 36 of assignment of mortgages on page 186 by which default the power of sale in said mortgage contained has become operative. There is now claimed as past due and unpaid on said mortgage the sum of six hundred and fifty dollars and eighty-eight cents ($650.88) and no proceedings have been instituted to recover the same or any part thereof either at law or equity.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale and of the statute in such case provided, the land in said mortgage, to wit: That certain piece or parcel of land situated in the Village of Northville in the County of Wayne and State of Michigan described as follows to wit: Commencing two hundred and twenty-four (224) feet from the center of Rogers street west on the extension of Main street, thence running south nine (9) rods, thence west four (4) rods, thence north nine (9) rods, thence east along the center of said extension of Main street four (4) rods to the place of beginning, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder on the 17th day of September, 1894, at one o'clock in the afternoon at the west front door of the City Hall in the City of Detroit (that being the place where the circuit court for said County is held) in said County and State, to satisfy the amount due as aforesaid with interest then accrued and the legal costs and charges of foreclosure including an attorney fee of twenty-five dollars allowed by law and which is in said mortgage stipulated.

Dated, June 20, 1894.

Improved Tellurian for Showing the Cause of the Seasons to School Classes—A Mexican Inventor's Experiments in Telephones.

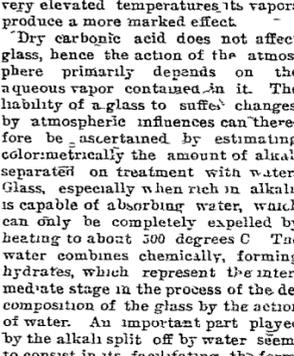

Action of Acid Upon Glass.

EXPERIMENTS made with flasks of different kinds of lime-alkali glass proved that the loss of weight resulting after heating with diluted acids to 100 degrees for six hours was always the same with the same kind of glass, and was entirely independent of the strength of the acid or of its chemical composition. Sulphuric, hydrochloric, nitric, and acetic acids gave identical results. Only very strong acids had less effect than dilute ones, which again have less action than pure water. Similar results were obtained in working at temperatures of 160 degrees and 190 degrees with pieces of glass tubing inclosed in sealed tubes. The influence of the degree of concentration was, however, more pronounced than in the previous experiments and was again in inverse ratio to the strength of the acid used. The dissolving action of the acids is therefore governed by the amount of water contained in them. Bearing in mind that the action of water upon glass consists in the liberation from it of alkali, which again further increases its vulnerability to water, the passive part played by the acid may be readily understood. In the case of glass containing an unusually large amount of alkali, the action of the acid, however, is more pronounced than that of pure water, the decomposition being analogous to that of many natural silicates. Lead glass exhibits the same peculiarities as lime-alkali glass, according to the proportion of lead contained in it. The nature of the base in combination with the silica likewise seems to influence the resisting capacity of the glass. Thus a zinc-lime-soda glass (Jena thermometer glass 16 111) was more attacked by concentrated acid than lime-soda of equivalent composition. The action of pure sulphuric acid is less strong than that of boiling water, but at very elevated temperatures its vapors produce a more marked effect.

Dry carbonic acid does not affect glass, hence the action of the atmosphere primarily depends on the aqueous vapor contained in it. The liability of a glass to suffer changes by atmospheric influences can therefore be ascertained by estimating colorimetrically the amount of alkali separated on treatment with water. Glass, especially when rich in alkali, is capable of absorbing water, which can only be completely expelled by heating to about 500 degrees C. The water combines chemically, forming hydrates, which represent the intermediate stage in the process of the decomposition of the glass by the action of water. An important part played by the alkali split off by water seems to consist in its facilitating the formation of such hydrates.—Scientific American.

This tellurian is more especially designed for use in schools, to show without much trouble, and in a very effective manner, the causes of the seasons and the relative positions of the sun, earth, and moon. It com-

Effect of Cold Upon Metals.

A series of experiments was recently made with a view to testing the relative strength of metals when heated or cold. The result was surprising even to those who conducted the tests. Under a very low temperature the tensile strength of many metals was enormously increased. The breaking strain of tin was increased from two hundred pounds to four hundred pounds; that of fusible metal from one hundred and forty pounds to four hundred and fifty pounds. The magnetic powers of metals seem to be in some way very closely related to their tensile strength, and these as well are many times multiplied by excessive cold.

Plaster of Paris as a Filler.

It is not generally known that a mixture of plaster of paris and putty ground in oil to the consistency of thick batter is one of the very best materials for filling cracks in the outside of buildings. The plaster swells and fills out all of the spaces, and the putty mixture hardens and becomes almost like stone. For fitting up an aquarium nothing is better than zinc and oil with one-third its bulk of putty and one-sixth its bulk of fine sifted plaster of paris. Made the consistency of ordinary paint, this preparation is admirable for coating garden seats, fine woodwork that is exposed to the weather.

A Weather Report.

The dainty bit of a summer girl in a bewildering fluff of gown was twittering sweetly to the rural youth, and he was so tickled he couldn't sit still. She had only been in the country two days and had met him that morning. "Is it always so warm as this in the country?" she inquired. "You don't think this is warm, do you?" he responded. "Indeed I do; I think it is positively hot." "Likely it is, but it is fine weather for corn." She looked at him doubtfully and blushed. "But I have no corn," she said, and he fell off the porch in a paroxysm.—Detroit Tribune

A New Telephone.

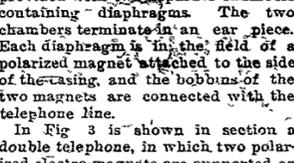

Mr. Eloy Noriega, the well-known electrical inventor of the City of Mexico, has recently patented in Mexico some improvements in telephones, for which greatly improved results are claimed.

The double receiver, shown in perspective in Fig. 1 and in section in Fig. 2, is sensitive to weak impulses and gives excellent results with the normal volume of sound and current at the transmitting end of the line.

This instrument has a cell or casing provided with two separate chambers containing diaphragms. The two chambers terminate in an ear piece. Each diaphragm is in the field of a polarized magnet attached to the side of the casing, and the bobbins of the two magnets are connected with the telephone line.

In Fig. 3 is shown in section a double telephone, in which two polarized electro-magnets are supported on opposite sides of the iron diaphragm. The diaphragm carries two arms of insulating material, one on either side of the diaphragm, each provided with a metallic electrode at its free end, which rests on a contact block attached to the binding post. The metallic electrodes are connected with the bobbins, and the arms which support them are connected with delicate curved springs extending to the blocks attached to the binding posts.

This instrument may be used for receiving from separate lines, also for transmitting to two circuits. It may also be arranged for use as a repeater, for repeating from one line to another, as indicated in Fig. 5.

The magnets used in these instruments are made from a new alloy of iron and tungsten, which is more efficient than iron or steel. The inventor claims the efficiency of these magnets ten times greater than that of the ordinary steel magnet.—Scientific American.

To Stop Hiccough.

A good deal of comment has been made upon an alleged discovery by a French physician, and a foreign medical Journal has given it considerable space in its columns. The new idea is to the effect that snuff administered until sneezing sets in will stop serious cases of hiccough. It is a curious and amusing fact that many doctors sharply resent any suggestion that they might employ "old women's remedies," and when something simple is proposed they will have none of it. Sneezing to stop hiccough has been a school child's and old nurse's remedy in this country for half a century at least. Snuff-takers need feel no satisfaction in the foreign physician's discovery, for the old nurse and the children used the frayed-out corner of an old handkerchief, or lacking that, the apron rolled into a tuxy point and touching the inner membrane of the nostril with the soft muslin. If the doctor will try a bit of rag, and leave the snuff out of the case entirely, the patient will recover more quickly.

SPEND YOUR OUTING ON THE GREAT LAKES.

Visit picturesque Mackinac Island. It will only cost you about $12.50 from Detroit; $15 from Toledo; $18 from Cleveland, for the round trip, including meals and berths. Avoid the heat and dust by traveling on the D. & C. floating palaces. The attractions of a trip to the Mackinac region are unsurpassed. The island itself is a grand romantic spot, its climate most invigorating. Two new steel passenger steamers have just been built for the upper lake route, costing $300,000 each. They are equipped with every modern convenience, annunciators, bath-rooms, etc., illuminated throughout by electricity, and are guaranteed to be the grandest, largest and safest steamers on fresh water. These steamers favorably compare with the great ocean liners in construction and speed. Four trips per week between Toledo, Detroit, Alpena, Mackinac, St. Ignace, Petoskey, Chicago, "Soo," Marquette and Duluth. Daily between Cleveland and Put-in-Bay. The cabins, parlors and staterooms of these steamers are designed for the complete entertainment of humanity under home conditions; the palatial equipment, the luxury of the appointments, makes traveling on these steamers thoroughly enjoyable. Because It is so Pure!

That's the great reason why you should know about our salt. It requires the best to produce the best. The good farmer realizes this with his seed; shall the butter-maker be less wise? Our salt is so carefully made as your butter-maker expresses for dairy work; and bright dairymen everywhere find their butter better made and their labor better paid when they use us.

DAIRY---LIVE STOCK.

INTERESTING CHAPTERS FOR OUR RURAL READERS.

How Successful Farmers Operate Their Department of the Homestead--Hints as to the Care of Live-Stock and Poultry.

Profit in Ten Cows.

Prof. H. H. Dean of the Ontario agricultural college addressed a convention as follows:

Ten cows, perhaps, is the average number which a farmer should have before he will begin to realize that he is dairying in earnest. Where but from three to five cows are milked, they are usually looked upon as a side track--"the women kin have 'em to make a little pin money." Too many persons who own cows are playing at the dairy business, just like children who keep house go visiting--and dress dolls. But in order to make money out of cows nowadays we need to study and hustle.

The first requisite is that these ten cows shall be owned and cared for by a dairyman or dairymaid. You say, "Oh, pshaw! that is easy enough." Well, now let us see whether it is or not. The following are some of the points of a good dairymaid:

He (or she) should be neat, clean, a good farmer, a good judge of cattle, a good feeder, kind, thoughtful, and should have business ability to buy and sell to advantage. The next requisite is that these cows should be the very best cows that can be had. Every one of them should be a standard cow--cows that will give 6,000 pounds of milk or make 250 pounds of butter in a year, and as much more than this as possible. To get these cows, the surest way is to breed them. Buy them if you can; they are cheap at from $40 to $50 per head. The third point is that these cows shall be properly housed and cared for, and be fed on cheap food. The money lies between the cost of production and the price obtained. The former should be as low as possible and the latter--well, all you can get. Grass and soiling crops are good for summer feed, with some bran or meal when pastures fail; and for winter use, silage, mangels, carrots, sugar beets, clover hay, peas, oats, bran, ground wheat, linseed and cottonseed meal. Give variety and all that the cows will eat up clean. After the milk has been produced in the best and cheapest manner it must then be marketed in the best way. There is great loss where this is not properly looked after. If considerable time, labor and money have been spent up to this point, it is very important that the latter part of the business should be well handled. After the needs of the family have been properly looked after--and I do not believe in selling the best and eating the poorest at home--the rest is usually disposed of in the four following methods:

1. Home Dairy.--To make a success of this it is necessary to have plenty of help, good utensils, proper milk rooms--a knowledge of how to make butter or cheese, or both, and a suitable market for the product. If a person is not near a factory or has a market near by, with previously mentioned requisites, it may be advisable to engage in the home manufacture of butter or cheese, otherwise, for the mass of farmers, the factory plan is better.

2. City or Town Milk Trade.--A good city milk trade is very profitable. By making specialties, such as bottling milk, pasteurizing milk, keeping special cows for children and invalids, supplying skim milk at reduced rates and outer milk made from cream, or skim milk--this trade is very remunerative. A great deal of labor is connected with the work, and where milk is to be shipped to middlemen there is often a great deal of risk in not getting money for milk shipped.

3. Creamery.--Creameries in Ontario are of two classes--cream gathered and separator. In the former cream is only taken from the farm and the skim milk left for feeding. This class of creamery has an advantage where roads are poor and cows scattered. To insure its success all the patrons should provide deep cans and cold water. A supply of ice is needed to cool the milk below 45 degrees. Cream raised in this manner will not give so high a test, but there will be more inches of cream from the same number of pounds of milk and it will produce a finer article of butter. High testing cream and ordinary shallow pan cream are a hindrance to the butter-maker in a cream gathering creamery. It is necessary in this kind of a creamery, as in all co-operative dairies, that all the patrons should co-operate to make theirs one of the very best. One patron can not make the reputation of a factory, though one may mar it.

4. Cheese Factory.--In sections where factories pay by the hundred, to make money out of cows (and out of your neighbors) get those cows that give a large quantity and send every drop of it to the factory--Saturday nights and Sunday mornings included.

You will doubtless have some neighbors that sell cheap butter. Buy from them and send your milk away. That's the way to make money out of cheese. A well managed joint stock company usually pays higher dividends to patrons than a private factory. If the factory divides proceeds by test it will pay to keep a few cows that give very rich milk to bring up the average of the whole. Cheese factories have paid well in the province. Support the factory--if there is one in the locality. It is somewhat difficult to raise calves in cheese factory sections, but by having the best cows drop their calves some time before the factory opens, fairly good calves may be reared. The dairy cow and the hog make a combination that it is difficult to surpass. Not only do they pay well, but they are a "combine" that does not take anything unjustly from anyone else. Give us more cow-hog combines and we'll not hear of so many farmer farm separations.

Pointers on Geese.

An exchange says: Three or four geese to a gander are all that should be allowed, if the object is to breed for eggs for hatching.

It is advisable to set the eggs early in the season, as the most vigorous young are obtained from the early broods.

When the goslings are hatched they should be copped with their mother, and fed on fresh tender grass, cut fine, also chopped cabbage and a small quantity of dough made from corn meal. Drinking water should be supplied in a shallow dish.

When about three weeks old they should be left out during fine weather and fed with only a little meal, twice a day, and at the age of six weeks whole grain can be substituted.

Grass is as much the natural food of the geese as the cow, and when let run they will naturally take to it. However, H. H. Stoddard says the tamed Canada goose and the long-necked Chinese goose depend less upon grass, finding much of their food in marshes and shallow water.

The same authority says: "In winter the supply of grain must of course be greatly increased, but it should be accompanied by some form of green fodder. Apples are useful, one being allowed daily to each bird: the cheaper sorts may be stored in autumn for this purpose. Rowen, cut fine, well soaked during several hours, and sprinkled with meal is a valuable article. Bulk may be obtained by using whole or ground coarse bran and oats. Geese, to be profitable, must have water for swimming as well as drinking purposes, but their range should be confined or the birds will swim away. Geese are very destructive to grass, eating some and tramping down a great deal more. They should have a pasture to themselves, and can be shut in with a fence, tight near the ground. They will not generally fly more than four or five feet up, and if disposed to go higher than this their wings may be clipped.

Geese can be plucked three times a year in the south, but not more than twice in the eastern states, and once or twice in the west. If plucked too near freezing weather they suffer from the cold and do not thrive.

The Winter Dairy Cow in Summer.

I am disappointed in one thing connected with winter dairying, says a writer in an exchange. My plan has been to dry off the cows in July and turn them off to pasture, but it is getting more and more difficult every year to dry them off soon enough to do this. This year I could not get them dried off till within three weeks of the time some of them were to come in, and I had to milk them once while they were away. Next year I intend to keep them at home and give them millet and corn fodder and milk them as long as they will give any. It looks as though they were going to develop into perpetual milkers and not give my wife and myself any vacation. Why is it that cows which come in in the spring will dry up so fast in July and August, while cows which come in in the preceding October are such persistent milkers, is something I do not understand. I have a Jersey cow that has given milk seventeen months and is coming in in less than a month, yet she gives over a quart a day. On the other hand, the summer cow due to come in in March or April dries up in December or perhaps in November without any trouble. You have only to turn her out to eat frost bitten grass, with a good north wind blowing and the thermometer at 20 or below, and she will dry up fast enough. She will when thus treated dry up the owner's pocketbook as well. What effect this persistent milking will have on the calves I can not tell and do not especially care. I have seen no ill effects yet, and when I do it will be time enough to think about this part of the matter.

Artificial Milk.

The Cincinnati Times-Star announces that a chemist of that city has succeeded in making a fluid which has all the properties of ordinary cow's milk, and is equal to the best for all purposes. It is a combination of water, solids and fats, and is absolutely the same as, and indistinguishable from pure milk, and has the advantage of being absolutely free from the diseases and impurities that are often found in milk. This chemical milk will raise a cream, will sour, turn to curd and water, and butter and cheese can be made from it the same as from cow's milk. At present the cost of production is more than $1 a gallon, but the chemist believes that a few more experiments he can reduce the price to 10 or 15 cents a gallon, and by making it in wholesale quantities can retail it at the usual 6 cents a quart.

MARRIED TO A COUNT.

A WORLD'S FAIR ROMANCE HAPPILY ENDED.

Count Renato Piola-Caselli Wins the Hand of Mary Pearce Phelps, a Beautiful Southern Girl--An Italian Nobleman.

Count Renato Piola-Caselli Wins the Hand of Mary Pearce Phelps, a Beautiful Southern Girl--An Italian Nobleman. The ceremony was performed in the presence of many friends of the bride's.

MISS MARY PEARCE PHELPS.

The home was beautified with an abundance of southern flowers, and was well filled with gallant men and beautiful women.

The bride, a tall and stately brunette, is the youngest of three daughters of Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Phelps of Nixa, Mo., about fifty miles from Vicksburg, in the Yazoo Delta. Dr. Phelps was a surgeon in Gen. Grant's army, and is a wealthy planter who has lived in the south since the war.

Miss Phelps is strikingly beautiful, a great favorite with her friends, an excellent horsewoman, and a remarkably attractive lady in every sense. During the Fair Miss Phelps was in Chicago, and was introduced to her intended husband by Col. Charles Page Bryan, whose guest Count Piola-Caselli was while in Chicago.

Count Paola-Caselli is the aid-de-camp of Gen. Cosenz, the chief of staff of the king of Italy, and who came here early last year as secretary of the Italian commission to the World's Fair. He is the son of Gen. Paola-Caselli, one of the foremost men in the Italian army, and is 29 years of age.

Count Paola-Caselli was a welcome guest in our best social circles, and officiated at several large functions. He was the best man last June when Miss Marie Huck was married to the Marquis Fred Spola of Portugal at the Hotel Richelieu, Chicago. He also took part in the banquet given at the Woman's building Oct. 12, on which occasion Miss Phelps also took a prominent part.

Count Paola-Caselli had the distinction of being the only foreign officer who was mounted in the dedication parade of the World's Fair, May 1, 1893. While in this country he devoted himself to the preparation of an elaborate report to the Italian minister of war on the subject of the army of the United States, paying special attention to the organization of the national guard. At the wedding the bride was attended by her two sisters.

"The Clasped Hands."

The art institute of Chicago has received from Harriet Hosmer the cast she made in 1853 of the clasped hands of Robert Browning and his wife. This is the cast of which Hawthorne wrote in "The Marble Faun," it symbolizes the individuality and heroic union of two high poetic lives. The autograph of "Elizabeth Barrett Browning, Rome, May, 1853," is on the wrist of one; "Robert Browning, Rome," is on the wrist of the other. Miss Hosmer refused in England an offer of $5,000 for this unique cast.

Sacrifice Sales.

Little shops are the ways of the big ones sometimes with absurd results. One sees now and then a tiny 10 by 12 shop fairly hidden behind hysterical declarations that a great stock must be sacrificed. Sometimes a shop that could by no possibility hold more than a few hundred dollars' worth of goods announces a great clearance sale, when a half hour's rush such as the big shops occasionally have would leave the place as bare as Mother Hubbard's cupboard.

The Evil of Filled Cheese.

While the butter makers and dealers are complaining of the inroads on their trade made by the seductive oleomargarine or butterine, or glucose filled butter; and while butchers are anxiously eyeing the growing popularity of cottage cheese and other cotton-seed oil compounds, the cheesemakers and dealers have found a casus belli against the same kind of cotton that has appeared in all these disguised forms, says a writer in Minneapolis Commercial Bulletin. The enemy of the cheese industry is what is known as "filled cheese." It has put in an appearance on this market, and being offered at 10 1/2 cents, while full cream sells at 12 1/2 cents, it is finding much favor. Just what the composition of this new cheese may be is not yet known to the general public here. It seems to be a half skimmed cheese into which some time in process of manufacture has been injected the all protean cotton-seed oil in lieu of the abstracted cream. This substitute is said to be so skillfully injected that the resulting cheese product is liable to deceive the very elect themselves. A good judge of cheese may pronounce it full cream if off his guard. The principle of this innovation is a threat to the cheese interests just as the other cotton-seed oil compounds are. It is useless for the Jersey cow to compete with the cotton field and negro labor in producing food fats. A shorthorned steer and an acre of cotton property combined in the great laboratory of Phil Armour will produce more butter, cheese and pie crust shortening than the prize Jersey of the World's Fair. These wonderful discoveries in food products, so abundant and varied in these last days of the nineteenth century, will cause the dairy and farming interests to shift to a new basis of operations for the twentieth century. Let sweet and cotton-seed oil have their place in cheap foods. If wholesome they were made for food and no law under heaven can for any considerable time stop the public from eating them. Let pure cow-milk products fill their own office. Let there be an end to spoiling good milk to make poor cheese. To steal cream from cheese and make no return is one step lower in fraud than to pay back in cotton-seed oil. As the population of this country increases as it is now increasing--by the annual addition of a half million immigrants who confess to no skill in labor and no property accumulated; as this class increases cheap food must necessarily be found. If cotton-seed oil will feed our needy unwashed brethren let them eat it. It has the merit of being clean and wholesome--a merit not always inherent in some dairy products as now made. The only point that should be insisted on is that it should be marked by its right name. So also should such pure dairy products as half-skim, three-eighths skim and other grades of skim cheese be marked.

Utilizing Waste Products.

The Elgin Dairy Report tells how J. T. Polk of Greenwood, Ind., combines horticulture and dairying. Mr. Polk is one of the largest canners of corn and peas, and has utilized the corn husks, ear, pea vines and the refuse from these two products by ensilaging them as feed for his dairy cattle. This utilization of what has heretofore been waste product to the growers of these articles for canners, shows the evolution of the times, and what can be done by a practical dairyman in many ways. The amount of labor and material that are thrown away on the ordinary dairy farm is astonishing, when the close habits of economy of the farmer are considered. This material when placed in the silo and fermented according to the process as carried out in this method of preparing feed, is of very great value, and the quantity and quality of rations that are furnished by it on the farm of Mr. Polk is astonishing. The milk immediately upon being received into the bottling room is aerated by having a draft of cold air forced through it from the bottom of the tank; it is then passed over an aerator and cooler, and in this process has passed through several straining operations, so that it comes to the bottling tank in probably as perfect a condition as is possible. The milk as it is received from the stable is 92 to 93 degrees, according to the weather, and in less than twenty minutes is in the bottling tank cooled to 45 or 50. The aeration and cooling giving the milk most excellent keeping quality, and producing a flavor that once had, a customer never wants to be without. The value of these waste products utilized for ensilage, is practically nothing, as they are at present disposed of. In this way they are worth a great many dollars every year, furnishing rations to a herd of Jersey cows, that if raised or bought would cost from $25 to $50 per cow. This is only the beginning of one of the many methods of reducing the cost of milk and increasing the profits to the producers thereof. Farmers and patrons of creameries who complain of low prices for their products, could well afford to look into the little losses that amount to so many dollars in the course of a year in their own work. It is a very common thing to see from 50 to 100 head of dairy cows traveling over a 100 acre lot, without securing any large amount of feed. If the 100 acre lot was planted in corn or some other plant suitable for ensilage, it would probably furnish feed for the fifty cows for six months in the year without any other green food, and with the addition of only a small quantity of grain, would carry them through for the whole six months. It is this method of reducing the cost and increasing the profits, that the dairyman must consider in these times.

An English newspaper, in speaking of the first classes of eggs found in London shops--new laid eggs, breakfast eggs, fresh eggs, cooking eggs and finally eggs--tells this story:

"Once upon a time a shy young curate had the honor of breakfasting with his bishop. The great man noticed that his guest was making slow progress with his boiled eggs and called cheerily across the table to ask if there was anything wrong with it. 'Oh, no, my lord,' stammered the young man in great embarrassment, 'it's a very good egg--and excellent egg--in parts.'"

SPECIMEN CASES.

S. H. Clifford, New Cassel, Wis., was troubled with neuralgia and rheumatism, his stomach was disordered, his liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him. Edward Sheperd, Harrisburg, Ill., had a running sore on his leg of eight years' standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Catawba, O., had five large fever sores on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. One bottle of Electric Bitters and one box Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold by C. R. Stevens' drug store.

A POSITIVE FACT.

Ladies do not delay your valuable time by waiting and suffering, but secure a bottle of Dullam's Great German Female Uterine Tonic and be cured of your trouble either in old or young. It is the very best prescription I have ever prescribed in my extensive practice. It has given the best results in the greatest number of cases of female troubles of any medicine that I ever used. I do not make a practice of using or recommending patent medicines, but this remedy is prepared by a very competent physician and chemist of my acquaintance and I can cheerfully and conscientiously recommend it as the best.

The Northville band of twenty pieces, F. S. Neal manager and Prof. Bert Jenkins leader, arrived yesterday morning and gave concerts during the day in the outdoor band stand between the main building and the race track. There was a big crowd around the stand all day, and the efforts of the musicians were evidently much appreciated.—Detroit Free Press.

With tomorrow's edition, Rev. J. M. Belding resumes his editorial relations with the Amsterdam Daily Democrat and Recorder, one of New York's widely circulated and influential dailies. Mr. Belding for the coming year will furnish 150 columns of historical reminiscence. His intention later on is to gather these contributions into book form.

Miss Mae E. Fry and Mr. Charles Smock of Farmington were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Fry, one mile east of here, Wednesday evening, Rev. Mr. Wallace of Plymouth officiating. The bride is a graduate of the Northville schools and her large circle of friends hereabouts will unite with the RECORD in extending congratulations.

This new exchange "chestnut" is worth printing: When you talk about there being a better state than Michigan, every potato slyly winks its eyes, every cabbage shakes its head, every beet gets red in the face, every onion gets stronger, every oat field is shocked, rye strokes its beard, corn sticks up its ears and every foot of land kicks. The horses even denounce the statement with a neigh.

The Northville band, which is to furnish music at the fair during the ten days, and which is under the management of Editor F. S. Neal, of the Northville Record and the leadership of Prof. Bert Jenkins, seemed to be one thing needed to stir the whole fair into life. As they marched in to a lively quickstep there was a quickening of pace everywhere, children, previously slow and calm, began to get excited and rushed hither and thither and everybody made a break for the band.—Tuesday's Detroit Journal.

Here is a brief statement from "Country Roads" in regard to preserving highways, which will instantly address itself to every farmer and freighter: "Front wheels and rear wheels should not 'track' make the rear axles longer than the front; tracking wheels produce deep ruts; you never saw ruts at a turn in the road." This hint will show farmers how they may drive over their fields in spring without destroying as they go. A rutted wagon track in a meadow or pasture never disappears until the ground is plowed.

The Northville band is "strictly in it" at the state fair and is proving a big attraction. The boys are doing some nice drilling, fine playing and are highly appreciated by both the management of the fair and the visitors. The Detroit papers have all given them a kindly notice, and they were invited to attend the "Fencing Master" at the Detroit opera house Tuesday night; "Kentucky Girl" at Empire Wednesday night and "Ivy Leaf" at Whitney's last night. Tonight they will see Russell's Comedians at the Lyceum and tomorrow night they play on the fair grounds.

Miss Cora Banks has returned and is now ready for dressmaking. Call at 60 Wing Street.

A well known Holly man was a visitor to our village this week for the first time in many years and after being shown about town for an hour broke out with the usual remark: "Don't you know that in passing through here on the cars I had formed the opinion that Northville was a regular old swamp hole, but after going around up town and through the residence streets I see you have one of the prettiest little villages on God's green earth, marred only by that frog pond at the depot. Why don't you clean that out?" This is the opinion of everyone who passes through our town and it is true of every visitor that gets up into the village. Ye Gods, how much longer must we suffer? How much longer will a righteous people allow a stinking, filthy looking, dirty, old frog pond to exist at the most conspicuous and most public place in the whole village. There it is as it has been for years, not only the eye-sore and nose-sore of every Northvillian that enters or leaves the F&PM depot, but at the same time calling forth the most disparaging remarks from every stranger that passes through upon the trains. "Is said that 'where there's a will there's a way.'" We believe the people are with the RECORD in the "will" part, and we shall devote the next few months of our time in an endeavor, with the co-operative aid of our citizens, to find the way, if there is one, of ridding the village of this stigma. Northville never had a better council than she has today and they stand ready to do anything in their power and there is no reason for a real good scheme to prove anything but a success. The new owners of the Argo property are representative citizens and are more than likely to render all aid in their power.

MURDER OF A BISO.

One of the most shocking crimes which has ever occurred in or about Detroit took place near Grosse Pointe, the victim being a historical Grosse Pointe road character, Charles Chesson, an old man worth probably more than a quarter of a million dollars, who has for many years lived as a hermit. The perpetrators of the deed broke into the back door of the little, tumble-down cabin, and killed the taciturn old hermit with an ax. Then they tumbled over all the articles in both rooms of the house, presumably in search of valuables, and made their escape. It is believed that they were unsuccessful in securing any money.

Edward Wasser, aged 18, died in the homeopathic hospital at Ann Arbor from the effects of having both legs crushed in the Toledo & Ann Arbor yards. To escape the ram he had crawled under a box car and fell asleep.

The sail yacht Annie Laura, bound from Macinaac to Florida via Chicago and the Mississippi river, was wrecked near Manistique, in the dense smoke and during a heavy squall. The crew managed to reach shore. The yacht is a total loss.

Two large barns, extensive sheep sheds, farm produce and utensils, owned by Hon. J. S. Crosby, and situated three miles east of Greenville, were destroyed by fire. The fire originated from sparks from a locomotive. Loss $9,000.

Robert Wierenga aged 5 years wandered away from home at Grand Rapids. A search was instituted. The lad was found in a street excavation in a lifeless condition. A large chunk of earth had fallen on him and he had been smothered to death.

Rush Culver, receiver of the U. S. land office at Marquette received a package by express from U. S. Court Commissioner Lott, of Iron River, said to contain $124. When opened in the presence of witnesses nothing was found but slips of newspapers.

Notwithstanding the fact that some rain has fallen forest fires are burning along the D. S. & A. railroad in the upper peninsula. Ewen, Sidaw and Trout Creek say that the flames come too near for comfort. In the Carp river valley the soil is of peat formation and is so dry that it is burning.

Lightning struck two large barns belonging to Frank Gates, six miles east of St. Johns. The buildings, together with contents, were entirely destroyed; loss, $2,500. Curtis Stafford, of Desplain, Clinton county, also lost a barn and contents, including three horses; loss, $1,000. Two houses in St. Johns were also struck.

NEWS IN GENERAL.

SOME ITEMS OF MORE OR LESS IMPORTANCE.

A Severe Electrical Storm Almost Totally Destroys Several Illinois Towns.—The Annual Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Pittsburg.

Towns Destroyed by Lightning.—Lightning played havoc among the various small towns about DeKalb, Ill. As a result the business portion of Malta, a town of 600 inhabitants, is in ruins, with losses aggregating $50,000.

The little settlement of Henrietta was also visited by lightning and completely wiped out. The loss will not prove very extensive. At Caledonia four buildings were struck at different times, and each of those structures was destroyed. At Elmhurst, a big barn was struck and totally destroyed.

The people had hard work to save the schoolhouse, situated near by. Rockford came in for its share of flames, and in that town three fires were caused by lightning. At Belvidere a physician's stable was struck and consumed, together with two horses. Huntley suffered the loss of three buildings, one of which was a stable. In the latter instance four horses were cremated.

At Herbet two buildings were burned. The northeastern rail road track for a stretch of 300 feet at Trout Park is washed out by the heavy flood. At Geneva also a washout occurred on the Air line, carrying away a large section of the roadbed.

THE G. A. F. ENCAMPMENT.

The Veterans Meet Once More in National Re-union at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, the metropolis of western Pennsylvania, as the host of the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, did herself proud. The number of people who took the occasion to visit that city, almost reached 100,000, and although the number of veterans present was not as large as at Washington, the enthusiasm was almost as great.

Michigan veterans were interested in pushing the claims of Judge C. D. Long as their candidate for commander-in-chief, and consequently the state was well represented. Ohio sent as large delegations as any state excepting Pennsylvania and New York. Indiana and Illinois each had a candidate for commander-in-chief, and of course a large number of veterans from those states were present.

The first spectacle of the encampment was the parade of the naval veterans. Over 1,000 men, under the command of Rear Admiral J. B. Osborn, were in line. The old salts were cheered all along the line of march. In the parade were carried many historic relics of naval warfare, among them the torn and time-stained banner which flew over the good old Bear when she added luster to the American standard on the high seas.

Their ninth annual convention of the naval veterans showed an encouraging condition of affairs and Francis H. Allen, of Hartford, Conn., was elected commander.

As is usually the case the parade of veterans was the big event of the encampment. Over 40,000 of the nation's heroes marched through the streets of Pittsburg and Allegheny in time with music such as carried them away on the lofty flights of patriotism in their younger days. Between 500,000 and 600,000 people witnessed the spectacle and cheered the veterans.

Judge Long, of Michigan, threw a cloud of disappointment over his friends by withdrawing from the race for commander-in-chief saying that he would not drag politics before the encampment. He felt that his trouble with the pension department would engender some hard feelings in the election.

50 Houses Burned in an Oh. Town.

Twenty acres in the heart of the village of Dalton, O., were devastated by fire, and over 50 houses destroyed. Assistance was sent by special train from Massillon, Orrville and Canton. The village water supply was soon exhausted and then wells and cisterns were emptied. Early in the morning a welcome rain began to fall and the flames began to die out. The fire is supposed to be of incendiary origin. The entire loss is estimated at $200,000.

40 to 60 Killed in a Collision.

Paris: The disaster to the Paris and Cologne express train at Appilly, France, was more serious than at first supposed. The first estimates placed the number of persons killed at ten with 20 injured. It is now stated that from 40 to 60 were killed or injured.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

The Populist state convention at Denver was a noisy affair, but Gov. Waite overcame all opposition and was renominated.

The fourth biennial convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen was held at Harrisburg, Pa., with 350 delegates present.

A dispatch from Shanghai says the Chinese transport Chean, with 1,100 troops on board, was wrecked, but nearly all escaped in the boats.

Ten persons were killed and 20 injured by the wreck of the Paris and Cologne express train. The accident happened at Appilly, near Brussels, and was caused by a collision of the express train with a freight train.

It is believed that the forest fire death list in Pine county, Minn., will exceed 500, as something like 100 are still unaccounted for, according to Coroner Cowan's official statement.

The national convention of the Keeley leagues of the United States was held at the Coliseum, Colorado Springs, Colo. Fully 3,000 delegates from all parts of the United States were present.

Michael Reopler was arrested and taken to Ashland, Wis., on a charge of setting fire to the forests, causing the loss of eight lives at High Bridge. He was bound over for trial and lodged in jail. The feeling is intensely bitter against him.

AN ENGINEER'S FATE.

Wrecked Three Times at One Spot in Wisconsin—The Third Time Fatal.

Three years ago Fred Almquist, of Rockland, became an engineer on the C. M. & St. P. railroad, and since that time his life has been a series of accidents. About one year ago his entire train was wrecked at Adventure bridge, 305 miles north of Milwaukee, and the bridge was destroyed. Last June he was wrecked on the same train but nine miles south of the first wreck. His engine was thrown down a 10-foot embankment and several cars piled on top of it; but Fred crawled out of the wreck without a scratch.

During the recent forest fires, he started north with the same engine and train. Fires raged fiercely each side of the track for many miles, necessitating a very careful watch and a slow run, but in spite of all precautions, when he reached the spot near Adventure bridge, where he was wrecked a year ago, the rails spread, and the engine turned over on its right side in precisely the same manner as last June, killing Fred instantly.

A passenger was due in one hour. Scores of lives were in danger. Twice brakeman Crane started ahead to flag the approaching train, but each time he was driven back by the smoke, his face burned and hair scorched. The third time he succeeded, and stopped the train just in time. Brakeman Orton was found with a broken leg.

Two Killed in a Wreck in Hoosic Tunnel.

A most horrible railroad disaster took place on the Pittsburg road in the Hoosic tunnel, near North Adams, Mass. A freight train had stopped to repair an engine which had broken down, and at about the same time a west-bound express train passed through the tunnel filling it with smoke. A second east-bound freight train was allowed to enter the tunnel contrary to the rules of the road, and the engineer being unable, on account of the dense smoke, to distinguish the lights from the train from the lights on the walls of the tunnel, went into it with a crash. A horrible disaster was the result, both trains being badly wrecked. The tunnel was blocked and two men killed outright and three seriously injured.

Linton Explains to Lochren.

Washington: Congressman Linton, of Michigan, called at the pension office to see Commissioner Lochren regarding the charges made in the commissioner's recent letters to the congressman that he has violated the regulations of the bureau and made false statements regarding claims for pensions now before the bureau. Mr. Linton's defense is based upon the carelessness of a clerk and his own lack of information as to the exact residence of certain claimants concerning whose status he had made inquiries. He also admits that he has inadvertently sent to the bureau slips containing statements not strictly true but not intended to deceive or reflect on the bureau. His explanation was satisfactory to Mr. Lochren.

Faced a Mile in 2 02 1-2.

The flag of honor floats over the track of the Indianapolis Driving club. Robert J., the great son of Hartford, reigns supreme as king of the turf. The match purse of $5,000 between Robert J. and Joe Patchen at Indianapolis was expected to bring forth some phenomenal speed but not one of the 10,000 people gathered at the track was prepared for the terrible smashing of records that began with the word "Go." The battle was a beautiful one and the heats as paced by Robert J. were first, 2:03 3/4; second, 2:02 1/2, third, 2:04 1/2.

Condition of the Treasury Improving.

Washington. Secretary Carlisle is much pleased with the condition of the treasury. Instead of a deficit the returns for July and August of this year show a surplus of nearly $7,000,000. This indicates an improvement over last year of more than $25,000,000. The cause of this is decreased expenditures, increased internal revenue and customs receipts and an improved condition of trade. Secretary Carlisle is now confident of his ability to meet all the treasury obligations without another issue of bonds.

Opium Smugglers Caught Red-Handed.

Port Collector John Denny, of Deputy Huron, and Samuel A. Harkness, of St. Clair at 2 30 a. m., arrested John Jacobs and John Green for alleged smuggling. The two men crossed from Canada to St. Clair in a row boat with two trunks and about 250 pounds of opium and just after landing they were nabbed by the detectives, who had been laying in wait. The opium was obtained in Toronto, where the alleged smugglers are said to reside. The men were taken to Port Huron.

Seven More People Burned to Death.

Seven people were burned to death in the fires at Marengo a few miles south of Ashland, Wis. The bodies are so badly burned that recognition is impossible.

Reports from the north are to the effect that Carlton Kerick and Barnum, Minn., are in danger. The fires now surround these places and are raging furiously. So dense is the smoke at Carlton that the operator there said he could not see across the street.

The Election in Maine.

The results of the Maine election is thoroughly satisfactory to the Republicans. Gov. Cleaves was re-elected by nearly 40,000 majority, the largest in the history of the party. The legislature is in the majority of the Republican camp, insuring the re-election of Senator Frye. Thomas B. Reed, C. A. Boutelle and other Republican congressmen are returned by majorities running from 10,000 to 6,000.

A Farmer's Shirt Saved the Train.

A farmer near Stevens Point, Minn., drove off a band of trainwreckers who were tearing up track on the Wisconsin Central. He then tore off his shirt, set fire to it and signalled the early morning train from Chicago, which was approaching, and which would otherwise have been derailed and thrown over a precipice.

The case of Judge Charles D. Long, of Michigan, against Secretary Hoke Smith and Pension Commissioner Lochren was before the district supreme court but was postponed until October 26.

AGAINST THE HOMESTEADERS.

Secretary of the Interior Decides a Big Land Case in Favor of a Monopoly.

Washington: Secretary of Interior Hoke Smith has decided the long awaited homestead case of Amassa Daily against the giant Michigan Land & Iron corporation. Fifteen thousand acres of land with some of the most valuable or pine timber, depended on the outcome of this test case. Over $1,000,000 worth of property.

Secretary Smith decrees that several hundred homesteaders shall be turned out and the title of the vast tract shall be confirmed to Lord Brassey, of England, and other millionaire stockholders of the Michigan Land & Iron Co. The 15,000 acres at issue—which is only a small portion of the 462,384 acres, of which 129,574 acres were fraudulently gobbled, of the monopoly's claims—are located west of Ionia in the upper peninsula on the line of the old M., H. & O. railroad. The pivotal point upon which Secretary Smith seems to hinge his decision is that the company was an "innocent purchaser" of the railroad land grant, notwithstanding that the existence of statutes known and read of all men seemed to militate against the innocent purchaser theory.

Shakespeare's Pension.

A pension case of almost equal importance to that of Judge Long is that of Gen. Wm Shakespeare, of Kalamazoo. The general has been informed that two persons have made affidavits opposing his being rated as first grade—$72 a month. The nature of the affidavits, the evidence they give and the names of the persons making them the pension commissioner declines to give. Gen. Shakespeare intends to test the question of legality of "confidential and private" evidence, and if necessary will appeal it to the highest tribunal. The legal question involved is one of constitutional right that it is the privilege of every man to be confronted by his accusers.

Canadian Lumber Free.

Washington. Secretary Carlisle was notified by the state department that the Canadian government has advised the secretary of state that hereafter no export or stumpage dues will be levied by Canada on any of the logs, timbers, planks and other articles included in the lumber schedule of the new tariff bill. Acting on this information Secretary Carlisle at once sent a telegram to collectors of customs notifying them that hereafter all Canadian lumber will be admitted free of duty.

Count of Paris Dead.

London. Louis Philippe Albert, Prince of Orleans, Count of Paris and grandson of Louis Philippe, king of France, died at the Stowe house, his London residence. With his death the mantle of the French royalists will again fall to the ground, only to be smoothed out and placed upon the shoulders of his son, the young Duke of Orleans. The Comte de Paris was born in 1845.

TALMAGE ON THE COMMUNION OF SAINTS.

The Sectarian Bigot Gets a Scathing Denunciation—Truth and Error Now On Trial—Cause of Intolerance—Liberty Coming.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Rev. Dr. Talmage, who is now in Australia, whence he will shortly sail for Ceylon and India, has selected as the subject for today's sermon through the press, "Communion of Saints," the text chosen being Judges 12:7. "Then said they unto him, say now Shibboleth; and he said Shibboleth; for he could not frame to pronounce it right. Then they took him, and slew him at the passages of Jordan."

Do you know the difference of pronunciation between shibboleth and sibboleth? A very small and unimportant difference, you say. "And yet, that difference was the difference between life and death of a great many people. The Lord's people, Gilead and Ephraim, got into a great fight, and Ephraim was worsted; and on the retreat came to the fords of the river Jordan to cross. Order was given that all Ephraimites coming there be slain. But how could it be found out who were Ephraimites? They were detected by their pronunciation. Shibboleth was a word that stood for river. The Ephraimites had a brogue of their own, and when they tried to say 'shibboleth' always left out the sound of the 'h.' When it was asked that they say shibboleth they said sibboleth, and were slain. 'Then said they unto him, say now shibboleth; and he said—sibboleth, for he could not frame to pronounce it right. Then they took him and slew him at the passages of Jordan.' A very small difference, you say, between Gilead and Ephraim, and yet how much intolerance about that small difference! The Lord's tribes in our time—by which I mean the different denominations of Christians—sometimes magnify a very small difference, and the only difference between scores of denominations to-day is the difference between shibboleth and sibboleth.

The church of God is divided into a great number of denominations. Time would fail me to tell of the Calvinists, and the Arminians, and the Sabatarians, and the Baxterians, and the Dymkers, and the Methodists, and the Baptists, and the Episcopalians, and the Lutherans, and the Congregationalists, and the Presbyterians, and the Spiritualists, and a score of other denominations of religionists, some of them founded by very good men, some of them founded by very bad men. But as I demand for myself liberty of conscience, I must give that same liberty to every other man, remembering that he no more differs from me than I differ from him. I advocate the largest liberty in all religious belief and form of worship. In art, in politics, in morals and in religion let there be no gag law, no moving of the previous question, no persecution, no intolerance.

You know that the air and the water keep pure by constant circulation and I think there is a tendency in religious discussion to purification and moral health. Between the fourth and sixteenth centuries the church proposed to make people think aright by prohibiting discussion, and by strong censorship of the press, and rack and gibbet, and hot lead down the throat, tried to make people orthodox; but it was discovered that you can not change a man's belief by twisting of his head, nor make a man see aright by putting an awl through his eyes. There is something in a man's conscience which will hurl off the mountain that you threw upon it and unsinged of the fire, out of the flame will make red wings on which the martyr will mount to glory.

In that time of which I speak, between the fourth and sixteenth centuries, people went from the house of God into the most appalling iniquity, and right along by consecrated altars there were tides of drunkenness and licentiousness such as the world never heard of, and the very sewers of perdition broke loose and flooded the church. After awhile the printing press was freed, and it broke the shackles of the human mind. Then there came a large number of bad books, and where there was one man hostile to the Christian religion, there were twenty men ready to advocate it; so I have not any nervousness in regard to this battle going on between Truth and Error. The truth will conquer just as certainly as that God is stronger than the devil. Let Error run if you only let Truth run along with it. Urged on by sceptic's shout and transcendentalist's spur, let it run, God's angels of wrath are in hot pursuit, and quicker than eagle's beak clutches out a hawk's heart, God's vengeance will tear it to pieces.

I propose to speak to you of sectarianism—its origin, its evils, and its cures. There are those who would make us think that this monster, with horns and hoofs, is religion. I shall chase it to its hiding place, and drag it out of the caverns of darkness, and rip off its hide. But I want to make a distinction between bigotry and the lawful fondness for peculiar religious beliefs and forms of worship. I have no admiration for a nothingarian.

In a world of such tremendous vicissitude and temptation, and with a soul that must after awhile stand before a throne of insufferable brightness, in a day when the rocking of the heavens and the upheaval of the seas shall be among the least of the excitements to give account for every thought, word, action, preference, and dislike—that man is mad who has no religious preference. But our early education, our physical temperament, our mental constitution, with very much decide our form of worship. George Whitefield was going over a Quaker rather roughly for some of his religious sentiments and the Quaker said: "George, I am as thou art; I am for bringing all men to the hope of the gospel; therefore, if thou wilt not quarrel with me about my broad brim, I will not quarrel with thee about thy black gown. George, give me thy hand."

In tracing out the religion of sectarianism, or bigotry, I find that a great deal of it comes from wrong education in the home circle. There are parents who do not think it wrong to caricature and jeer the peculiar forms of religion in the world, and denounce other sects and other denominations. It is very often the case that kind of education acts just opposite to what was expected, and the children grow up, and after a while, go and see, for themselves, and looking in those churches, and finding that the people are good there, and they love God and keep his commandments, by natural reaction they go and join those very churches. I could mention the names of prominent ministers of the gospel who spent their whole life bombarding other denominations and who lived to see their children preach the gospel in those very denominations. But it is often the case that bigotry starts in a household, and that the subject of it never recovers. There are tens of thousands of bigots 10 years old.

I think sectarianism and bigotry also rise from too great prominence of any one denomination in a community. All the other denominations are wrong, and his denomination is right because his denomination is the most wealthy or the most popular, or the most influential, and it is "our" church, and "our" religious organization, and "our" choir, and "our" minister, and the man tosses his head, and wags his other denominations to know their places. It is a great deal better in any community when the great denominations of Christians are about equal in power, marching side by side for the world's conquest. Mere outside prosperity mere worldly power, is no evidence that the church is acceptable to God. Better a barn with Christ in the manger than a cathedral with magnificent harmonies rolling through the long drawn aisle, and an angel from heaven in the pulpit, if there be no Christ in the chancel, and no Christ in the robes. Bigotry is often the child of ignorance.

You seldom find a man with large intellect who is a bigot. It is the man who thinks he knows a great deal, but does not. That man is always a bigot. The whole tendency to education and civilization is to bring a man out of that kind of state of mind and heart. There was in the far east a great obelisk, and one side of the obelisk was white, another side of the obelisk was green, another side of the obelisk was blue, and travelers went and looked at that obelisk but they did not walk around it. One man looked at one side, another at another side, and they came home each one looking at only one side, and they happened to meet the story says, and they got into a rank quarrel about the color of that obelisk. One man said it was white, another man said it was green, another man said it was blue, and when they were in the very heat of the controversy a more intelligent traveler came, and said, "Gentlemen, I have seen that obelisk, and you are all right, and you are all wrong. Why didn't you walk all around the obelisk?"

Look out for the man who sees only one side of a religious truth. Look out for the man who never walks around about these great theories of God and eternity and the dead. He will be a bigot inevitably—the man who only sees one side. There is no man more to be pitied than he who has in his head just one idea—no more, no less. More light, less sectarianism. There is nothing that will so soon kill bigotry as sunshine—God's sunshine. So I have set before you what I consider to be the causes of bigotry. I have set before you the origin of this great evil. What are some of the baleful effects? First of all it cripples investigation. You are wrong and I am right, and that ends it. No taste for exploration, no spirit of investigation. From the glorious realm of God's truth, over which an archangel might fly from eternity to eternity, and not reach the limit, the man shuts himself out and dies, a blind mole under a corn shock. It stops all investigation.

While each denomination of Christians is to present all the truths of the Bible, it seems to me that God has given to each denomination especially a mission to give particular emphasis to some one doctrine, and so the Calvinist churches must present the sovereignty of God, and the Arminian churches must present man's free agency, and the Episcopal churches must present the importance of order and solemn ceremony, and the Baptist churches must present the necessity of ordinance, and the Congregational churches must present the responsibility of the individual member, and the Methodist church must show what holy enthusiasm, hearty congregational singing can accomplish. While each denomination of Christians must set forth all the doctrines of the Bible, I feel it is especially incumbent upon each denomination to put particular emphasis on some one doctrine.

Another great damage done by the sectarianism and bigotry of the church is that it disgusts people with the Christian religion. Now, my friends, the church of God was never intended for a war barracks. People are afraid of a riot. You go down the street and you see an excitement, and missiles flying through the air, and you hear the shock of firearms. Do you, the peaceful and industrious citizen, go through that street? Oh, no! you will say, "I'll go around the block." Now, men come and look upon this narrow path to heaven, and sometimes see the ecclesiastical brickbats flying every which way, and they say, "Well, I guess I'll take the broad road; there is so much sharp-shooting on the narrow road I guess I'll try the broad road."

Arnold L. so hated the Lutherans that he said that if he thought there was one drop of Lutheran blood in his veins he would puncture them and let that drop out. Just as long as there is so much hostility between denomination and denomination, or between one professed Christian and another, or between one church and another, so long men will be disgusted with the Christian religion, and say, "If that is religion I want none of it."

Perhaps I might forcefully illustrate this truth by calling your attention to an incident which took place about twenty years ago. One Monday morning at about 2 o'clock, while her 900 passengers were sound asleep in her berths dreaming of home, the steamer "Atlantic" crashed into Mars Head. Five hundred souls in ten minutes landed in eternity. Oh, what a scene! Agonized men and women running up and down the gangways and clutching for the rigging, and the plunge of the helpless steamer and the clapping of the hands of the merciless sea over the drowning and the dead threw two continents into terror. But see this brave quartermaster pushing out with the life line until he gets to the rock, and see these fishermen gathering up the shipwrecked, and taking them into the cabins, and wrapping them in the flannels snug and warm; and see that minister of the gospel, with three other men, getting into a life boat, and pushing out for the wreck, pulling away across the surf, and pulling away until they saved one more man, and then getting back with him to the shore. Can those men ever forget that night? And can they ever forget their companionship in peril, companionship in struggle, companionship in a fearful catastrophe and rescue? Never! Never! In whatever part of the earth they meet they will be friends when they mention the story of that night when the "Atlantic" struck Mars Head. Well, my friends, our world has gone into a worse shipwreck. She drove into the rocks. The old ship has lurched and tossed in the tempests of six thousand years. Out with the life line! I do not care what denomination you carry it. Out with the life boat! I do not care what denomination rows it. Side by side, in the memory of common hardships and common trials, and common prayers, and common tears, let us be brothers forever. We must be.

One of my of the living God, To his command we bow; Part of the host have crossed the flood, And part are crossing now. And I expect to see the day when all denominations of Christians shall join hands around the cross of Christ and recite the creed: "I believe in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth, and in Jesus Christ, and in the communion of saints, and in life everlasting. Amen!"

TEN BRIDESMAIDS.

PRETTY SCENE AT A SELECT ENGLISH WEDDING.

Leonard Brassey and Lady Violet Gordon Joined in Matrimony After the Old English Fashion—Members of Old Families.

FASHIONABLE was the congregation that met at St. Paul's church, London, a fortnight ago to witness the marriage of Mr. Leonard Brassey of Preston Hall, Kent, with the Lady Violet Gordon Lennox, second daughter of the Earl of March and granddaughter of the Duke of Richmond and Gordon. The chancel was handsomely adorned with lilies and a variety of white flowers interspersed with palms, and the altar was covered with white exotics.

There were ten bridesmaids in attendance; the six elder ladies dressed in white satin, with yokes, sash and the lower part of the sleeves of pale pink chiffon covered with white chiffon. The full satin bodice was gathered into a deep pointed belt of ecru lace, and the skirt was edged with a full of satin headed with a fine puffing of pink and white chiffon. The four little children wore fairy-like frocks of white chiffon with pink and white sashes and yokes of the same transparent material, and round the hem fine guipure laces was inserted in festoons. All wore broad-brimmed hats of burnt straw trimmed with lace of the same color, with up-standing bows of white satin ribbon veiled with lace and clusters of pink roses over the crown.

The bridegroom presented six of the bridesmaids with diamond dagger brooches, and the four children with diamond and turquoise pendants, and all carried the graceful newly-shaped shower-boquet of pink roses. The bride wore a dress of rich white satin, the bodice made with crowsfoot folds of satin, shoulder straps embroidered with silver and finished with bows, and old lace chiffon daintily arranged round the neck and shoulders, the full court train from the neck was of satin, edged with a twist of the same and silver embroidery. She wore a narrow bandeau of orange blossoms in her hair and a tulle veil attached by a diamond pearl, and round her throat was the pearl collar divided by diamond bars, given to her by her grandfather, the Duke of Richmond and Gordon. Her train was carried by her four little bridesmaids.

Princess Edward of Saxe-Weimar was dressed in mauve and black brocade, with epaulettes of mauve chiffon, and wore a bonnet to match. Lady Settrington, sister to the bridegroom, was in dove gray satin with a pink satin collar, the dress being tastefully trimmed with lace and a gray chiffon sash; her large black velvet hat was ornamented with pink bows and small diamond buckles; her ladyship's infant daughter, and god-daughter of the bride and bridegroom, was present, and represented the fifth generation of equal to that of South Carolina, while that of the Columbia river was nearly double that of the Connecticut river. One can not help wondering whether the flavor of the Connecticut river shad is equalled by that of his Columbia cousin. The United States fish commissioner predicts that the time may come when canned shad from the Columbia will be a staple article in the eastern market, but perhaps he anticipates the complete extinction of the best eastern shad. The Connecticut shad fishing business has already so far declined as to be a mere shadow of a once great industry.

Freaks of Lightning. The electric fluid is given to queer pranks, and the unexpected is quite likely to happen when it gets possession of the atmosphere. It is reported that a physician, who was recently returning from a visit to a patient, was caught in a violent thunder storm, during which it became so dark that he could see his way along the public highway. Suddenly what appeared to be a ball of fire descended upon him, throwing him over a ditch by the roadway and into an adjoining field. After about ten minutes, he recovered from the shock, which had for the time entirely deprived him of the power of motion. He was carrying an umbrella, when the shock came, and upon gathering himself up and looking about for his parachute, found it completely wrecked. The cover was entirely burned off, and the wires were bent and twisted into every imaginable shape. Ball lightning is said to be the most dangerous of all forms assumed by this eccentric element, and, fortunately for the human family, it is the rarest.

THE LATE AUSTIN BLAIR. He Was War Governor of Michigan and a Political Reformer. Austin Blair, war governor of Michigan, who died at Jackson, a few days ago was of Scotch descent and was born in Caroline, Tompkins county, N. Y., Feb. 8, 1818. His early tuition in this common schools was supplemented by a preparation for college at the Cazenovia academy, whence he went to Hamilton, and in his junior year to Union college, graduating from the latter in 1839. The next two years were spent in his law studies in the office of Sweet & Davis, at Owego, N. Y. In June, 1841, he arrived in Jackson. In March, 1842, he removed to Eaton county and two years later back to Jackson, having in the meantime been elected clerk of Eaton county and served part of the term. In 1844 he seems to have acquired a state reputation as a political orator, contending for Henry Clay and the policies of the party which supported him.

Later in the same year he was elected governor, and re-elected in 1847, his two terms embracing all of the war period to January, 1853. He found time to introduce many reforms and changes in the interest of economy in home matters of state administration. He came out of office thousands of dollars poorer than when he entered it. In 1866 he was elected a member of the national house of representatives, and was re-elected in 1867 and 1870. His position there was prominent, and would have seemed more so had it not been overshadowed by the distinction to which he was entitled as a "war governor"

Great Grief and Head Shaving. Among the ancient shaving the head was a very common mode of expressing great grief or sorrow. Sometimes it was done by the priest or some other religious functionary formally cutting off the hair, sometimes by violently plucking it out by the roots. In extreme cases among men the beard as well as the hair was either cut off or plucked out. The idea seems to have been that mourners should divest themselves of that which under ordinary circumstances was considered most beautiful, ornamental and becoming. Lucian (and he is not the only one of the ancient writers by any means who gives points on this queer mourning custom) says that the Egyptians expressed their intense sorrow by cutting off the hair upon the death of their god Apis and that the Syrians acted in the same manner at the death of Adonis. Olympic dorus remarks, concerning Job 1, 20, that the ancients, among whom long hair was regarded as an ornament, cut it off in times of mourning, but that those who commonly wore it short suffered it upon such occasions to grow long.

Ida Lewis' Salary. The Boston Transcript says that the yearly salary of Ida Lewis, the famous keeper of the Lime Rock lighthouse, at the south end of Newport harbor, is $750 and two tons of coal. She is past 50 now, her hair slightly streaked with gray and her face somewhat rugged and weather beaten, but she is still alert and strong. She began her wonderful record of life saving with the rescue of four small boys, whose boat capsized in the harbor before her.

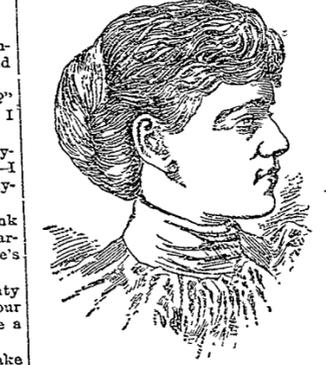

Shad on the Pacific Coast. The experiment of planting shad in the rivers of the Pacific coast has proved a marked success. Until twenty years ago shad were unknown in those waters, and even ten years ago there were no shad fisheries in California, Oregon and Washington. In 1876 about 1,000,000 shad fry were deposited in the rivers of the Pacific coast, and in 1893 535,494 shad were taken in California and 212,336 were caught in the Columbia river. The catch in California was five times that of Connecticut, four times that of Massachusetts, twenty times that of Rhode Island, nearly double that of Georgia and nearly

NOVI LOCALS.

Miss Mabel Whipple left this week for Ypsilanti. Will Goudrill has gone back on the road to work. Mrs. W. West is entertaining relatives from Toledo. Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Taylor are visiting relatives in Detroit. H. H. Jones went to Detroit Tuesday for "more goods". Mrs. Eugene Howe of Cleveland is the guest of friends here. G. H. Taylor drew Mrs. Barnhart's goods to Detroit last week. Miss Durfee of Detroit is spending a few days at John Bassett's. Chas. Northrop of Northville spent Sunday with H. B. Wight. The NPL will meet with J. Thompson this Friday to re-organize. Wilbert Kelly of Falmouth is spending a few days with relatives. Jessie West has returned from her visit in Detroit and Cleveland. The cheerful workers meet Saturday afternoon in the church parlor. John Goudrill and wife of Saginaw spent Sunday with his brother, W. Goudrill. Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson of Detroit spent Sunday with D. Flint and family. Mrs. Bert Cogsdill is enjoying a visit from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howe of Iowa. Mrs. Thomas Gurr has been seriously sick, but at this writing is slightly improving. Miss Mamie Johnson goes to Detroit this week where she will study music this winter. Miss Lulu Bogart spent last week with her sister, Mrs. Alta McGuire, at South Lyon. Cha. Rice and mother spent Sunday at Highland visiting Mrs. Rice's sister who is very low. Ralph Boyden of Kalamazoo has been spending some time among old friends in Novi. Mrs. O. M. Whipple is spending the week in Detroit visiting friends and attending the fair. Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson are enjoying a vacation visiting friends at Webberville and other points. Mrs. E. T. Hazen was at Walled Lake several days last week at her sisters, Mrs. Amos Bentley. Clark Howes of Ann Arbor was the guest of H. B. Wight last week and E. Baxter of Detroit also. P. Truesdell of Port Huron put up a monument for Mrs. Minta Coates in the Novi cemetery Tuesday. Leavenworth & Root will be prepared to thresh beans next week as their thrasher will be here Friday. Mrs. Perry who has been visiting her sister Mrs. H. Jones for a couple of weeks returned to her home at Vernon Wednesday. Miss Lillian Tingle received a telegram last week announcing the death of her grandfather, Wm. Tingle, at Lebanon, Ohio. The farmers are all smiles since the rains because the ground plows so nicely and there is some show for sowing wheat this fall. Miss Lizzie Johnson who has been the guest of R. M. Johnson and family the past few weeks has returned to her home near Hudson. Novi is to have a new side track and a cheese factory in the near future. Fred Warner of Farmington will be the proprietor of the factory. Novi is well supplied with vegetables when one can see eight peders in town at one time. All on account of Mr. Woodruff going out of the business. Don't forget young people's prayer meeting at C. M. Wight's Tuesday night. All are invited. They were pleasantly entertained at Mr. Elin's residence Tuesday night. Everybody appreciates the delightful rains we are having, except perhaps those who have beans pulled and not drawn, and we can't blame them if they wish for a few days of dry weather. S. Bassett tried a new experiment on feeding hogs; but it didn't work satisfactory. He fed them peas for breakfast, water for dinner and let them swell for supper. He buried eight the next morning. To one who passed through the count a week or two ago, and travels the same route again now, it looks as if some magic transformation had taken place. Billows of dust and cheerless stretches of dry, dead grass, have given place to smooth hard roads and fields dressed in living green, as fresh and bright as the livery of early spring. A ride which then was simply a " vexation of spirit" is now a delightful pastime. G. H. Taylor had dogs at his sheep Sunday and four of them were badly bitten and another had to be killed. His own dog was one of the victims and was killed. Other curs around town of course were not away from home, as they never are at such times. "It must have been some one else's dog" is what they all say but more will come up minus sometime if not kept at home. It is about time Novi had a shootin' match and disposed of a lot of worthless dogs that are roaming about for a living. We hope the Novi readers of the Record will remember that the paper has several correspondents here, so it is well not to be too hasty in ascribing an item to any person, especially if it is something you don't like. That's where we get a little extra latitude. "In union there is strength." Correspondents, remember "United we stand divided we fall"—out with somebody maybe. However our vantage ground would be somewhat untenable perhaps, should Record readers adopt the plan of the ingenious parent who always thrashed all of his offsprings when any mischief was done, so as to be sure to get the right one. On the whole, the safest way, (for the correspondents,) would be for any one who is offended to go for the editor. He's used to it and is supposed to enjoy it, as one of the perquisites of his profession. The Sunday school picnic last week Thursday at Walled Lake, was a very enjoyable one. After the picnic experiences of the past summer, when dust formed one of the principal diet articles it was very satisfactory to be able to eat without being obliged to sharpen one's teeth occasionally. There was a good attendance and it did not seem to require any effort for everybody to have a good time. Perhaps, however, the ball players ought to be excepted in making the last statement for they did appear to get their enjoyment by hard work, although they did not seem to consider it in that light. A. N. Kimmis took the children with a four horse team and their banner was "old glory," which is certainly a pretty good kind of a Sunday school emblem to carry. Mr. Brundage prepared for rain by taking his tent along, but it was not needed as a shelter. There was plenty to eat and a part of the company stayed to supper. One young Gentleman (we use a big G on purpose) brought a load of fine melons—enough for the whole crowd. No accident marred the harmony of the occasion, and everybody went home feeling that the Sunday school picnic had been a success.

FARMINGTON.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Newton Sept. 10, a daughter. Mrs. Selby is spending the week with Mrs. Marving at Northville. Marie Murray has a very lame foot, caused by a collision with a rusty nail. E. W. Parker and son-in-law C. B. Allen were among Detroit's guests Monday. No more crying for rain as there seems to be a goodly supply just at present. D. A. Durfee and wife of Novi were callers Sunday evening at the home of M. A. White. Miss Grace Tremper was the guest of Mrs. John Pinkerton at Northville over Sunday, returning Monday. The funeral services of the infant of Fred Geistler were held Wednesday from the house. Interment at Clarenceville. Mrs. Cetella Murray left Monday for Lansing to attend the state convention of the Lady Maccabees, a delegate from Farmington LOTM. Miss Nina Ambler of Northville was among Farmington guests one day last week. She came over on her wheel. Don't know how she returned home. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend the poverty social to be held Saturday evening at the town hall. Admission ten cents. Refreshments free, and lots of fun thrown in. Another Farmington young man to the front. C. B. Wixom is candidate for county clerk. Mr. Wixom is an enterprising young man and it is hoped that he may receive the nomination and election. Quite a number of our towns people availed themselves of the opportunity and went on the Maccabee excursion to Lansing Tuesday. The principal attractions were a grand parade, prize drill and band tournament. Since our last communication to the happy possessor of a hustling newspaper known as the Novi Record, and ye Farmington correspondent extends hearty congratulations. Quite a large number of Farmington people attended the open air concert by the Globe Furn. Co. band last Saturday evening at Northville. All felt that they were highly entertained and congratulate the boys on being the chosen band for the state fair. Last Sunday while some small boys were playing down by the river little Fred White was nearly drowned being rescued by Shelly Gates as he was sinking the third time. Now let this be a lesson to be more careful in the future. The experience social held Friday evening, Sept. 7, at the home of C. J. Sprague under the auspices of the I.U. was quite largely attended and each had an experience to relate but time and space will not permit giving them separately, but taken collectively a good time was enjoyed. About twenty friends of Miss Bessie Parker gave her a surprise last week Wednesday evening by assembling at her home. Music, games, etc., were enjoyed after which refreshments were served. Bessie has been absent all summer and is warmly welcomed home by her many friends. The Detroit conference has appointed Rev. C. E. Allen to preside over the Methodist church of this place for the next conference year. Mr. Allen comes among us highly recommended. Now let each one manifest their appreciation by extending the warm hand of fellowship and by attending church service. At the republican caucus held at the town hall Sept. 8, the following persons were chosen delegates to attend the county republican convention to be held at Pontiac Sept. 13. Horace A. Green, Elliott S. Sprague, A. J. Wixom. Legislative convention: A. B. Beach, Thomas Russell, C. Wolcott, J. L. Hogle. Hon. C. W. Green, usher at the Pontiac asylum, celebrated his 50th birthday one day last week at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. J. Moore. Mr. Green was formerly a resident of this place and is widely known throughout this and adjoining counties. He has ever been a man of liberal views and honorable dealings and has the good will of all who know him. He at this ripe old age is a smart active man. To another Novi correspondent who wants to get up on the fence and crow because of the railroad accommodation who also accuses ye Farmington correspondent of using ironical expressions, which certainly was not their intention, we will just say that the first-class train service meets with their approbation and although they are not in the habit of crowing, perhaps they can celebrate in some other manner equally as edifying. Come down and give us a call. Tuesday afternoon a large company assembled on the battlefield to witness the struggle between the Maccabee ball clubs of Franklin and Farmington Tents. A lively game was enjoyed with no accidents to speak of, therefore doctor and ambulance were not utilized. The home team was expected to distinguish themselves, so stated the Enterprise, but for some reason they were defeated, score resulting 27 to 17 in favor of Franklin. It wasn't Tom's nor Fred's fault however. In the evening the Franklin Tent assisted for work of the fourth degree. The day was as the boys express it, "just chuck full of fun."

last week. Miss Clara Benton went to the city Thursday and will remain until next week Saturday. We understand that Carl Smith of Farmington was a caller at G. P. Benton's last Sunday. There was no Sunday school session last Sunday. The sickness of Mr.

Robinson's son prevented his being in attendance. The wedding bell rang again Thursday evening, this time at Mr. Downey's home. James Downey and Maggie McKeever were the contracting parties. Rev. Mr. Belding of Northville performed the ceremony. We will say more about it next week.
