

THE NORTHVILLE RECORD.

Vol. XXVI, No. 33

THURSDAY, MARCH 28, 1895.

$1.00 per year, in advance.

THE BALANCE OF THE TICKET The Result of the Democrat and Prohibition Caucuses.

Besides the republican township ticket as given in last week's extra edition the democrats at their caucus held at Plymouth last week Friday put up the following ticket:

Supervisor—L. A. Babbitt.

Clerk—Will Conner.

Treasurer—Ed. Leaffer.

Justice—J. M. Ward.

Highway Com.—A. Hook.

Drain Com.—Frank Park.

School Ins.—Chas. Booth.

Ind. Review—D. B. Northron.

Constables—C. Stewart, Geo. Wager.

The prohibition people held their caucus here Saturday and put up the following ticket:

Supervisor—P. C. Safford.

Clerk—F. D. Adams.

Treasurer—Jacob Bogart.

Highway Com.—M. D. Gorton.

Drain Com.—Lafayette Dead.

Justice—Henry Hurd.

Ed. Review—Geo. E. Bradney.

Constables—Lee Lamoreaux, Jas.

Hannigan, T. F. Carlson, John Suve.

Here now are three good tickets in the field and may the best man win.

SENATOR BRIGGS' BILL.

It Will Compel Publishers to Adopt the Pay-in-Advance Plan.

The following newspaper bill has been introduced by Senator Briggs:

Sac. 1. The People of the State of Michigan enact, That no publisher or publishers of any newspaper or periodical shall send or transmit by mail, or deliver any newspaper or periodical for a longer period than that ordered by the subscriber, or for a longer period than that for which the money paid by such subscriber shall pay for such newspaper or periodical, in the regular rates charged for.

Sac. 2. If such newspapers or periodicals are sent by any such publisher or publishers after the period ordered by the subscriber, or for a longer period than the money paid by such subscriber, paid for at the regular rates charged for such newspaper or periodical, such publisher (publishers) shall be deemed to intent that the person to whom such paper or periodical is sent is to receive the same free of charge, and such publisher (publishers) shall have no claim or demand whatever against the person to whom such paper or periodical is sent.

So far as the Record is concerned it is to be hoped the bill will pass. It will benefit reliable publishers, and shut off a lot of unscrupulous ones who will persist in forcing their papers upon people whether they wish it or not, and then try to force payment.

Death of Mrs. John J. Thompson.

Mrs. Isabell E., wife of John J. Thompson one of the best known and wealthiest farmers in Wayne and Oakland counties, died quite suddenly at her home near the village Sunday, of pneumonia. She was sixty-seven years of age. The funeral occurred from the home Tuesday afternoon conducted by Rev. Seth Reed. The remains were placed in the vault in Oakwood and will afterwards be laid to rest in the Thayer cemetery. Mrs. Thompson was an exemplary Christian woman in her home life. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson had been married for forty-three years.

Suburban News.

Wyandotte sent in $3,178.29 worth of unpaid taxes.

The Petersburg Sun man has a $3,000 libel suit shoving on his hands.

According to the Argus, Ann Arbor is just one point removed in wickedness from Chicago.

The Dundee hotel d'calabosco registers 14 tramp rooms during the winter just past.

The Pontiac Times notes it as a sign of spring that tramps are beginning to crawl out of their winter quarters.

Milan had thirteen deaths last year the same as Plymouth. Now who says thirteen is not an unlucky number?

The editor of the Trenton Visitor is sighing for some weddin' cake, and cites the fact that she can just begin to smell the cake in the bake oven.

A Wonderland representative was at Milford all last week in search of a 11,000 pound horse which Bert Welch advertised for sale in the Times.

A ladies library association—some thing like Northville's is about to be organized at Milford. With Miss Carrie Jackson of the Times as secretary and one of the active members, the success of the venture is assured. We notice that Mrs. D. Barrett, daughter of the late Ed. S. Woodman of Northville, is also actively engaged in the work and is one of the membership committee.

A Sunken Island hotel is what they are going to have at Fenton's Silver Lake. People who invest in the scheme and those who patronize the resort will sunken their silver.

Plymouth has booked her fair for Sept. 17-20. The grounds have been leased for another ten years and the stock will be increased by $2,500. The old officers have been re-elected.

The voters of Northville took Editor Neal at his word, and elected him like blazes for clerk. What's the use of spoiling a good newspaper man to make a village clerk—good or poor?

Adrian Press.

Mrs. Nichols of Farmington while going down the cellar stairs stepped on the family cat instead of a banana peel. Neither the cat nor she, good lady, were injured beyond a few bruises.

Rochester has let the contract for putting in her water works system to T. C. Brooks of Jackson for $21,000 to be completed within sixty days from April 15. The system will be similar to Northville's.

Among the Wayne county marriage licensees this week we note that of William D. Rattenburg and Miss Abbie Jorgenson of Livonia. It is to be hoped they will be as happy as their names are long and sunny.

D. R. Crampton, our old friend of the Monroe Democrat, has been awarded the post office plum at Monroe. "Cram" was an untiring worker for his party and certainly deserved this recognition if any man ever did.

With new county buildings, new county house buildings and a raise in the salaries of the state officers, coupled with the anomaly necessary to pay the legislative session this year, taxes may possibly be just a trifle high next year.

Mrs. Shock of Wyandotte is not a subject for charity notwithstanding the published city reports showed her having received aid from the poor fund. The report was a shock to the lady. It was another Mrs. Shock who got the most.

The other day a deaf man was locked up in the county jail until his hearing recovered, says the Pontiac Times, and about the same time a blind man was served likewise until he could see his mistake. We wonder which will first gain his freedom.

Fred Cook of Fowlerville has a patent for man-or-beast feed box which will require a factory in that burg to supply the demand. The new arrangement will do away with the trough entirely and also prevent a man from getting in "with both feet" while eating.

The spring freshet and the new brass band struck the streets of Orion at the same time last week. The freshet bed to the river, and the people to the woods. The Orion sea serpent will have no terrors for the summer resorters this season. A new and more terrible agony awaits them.

Miss Mary Smith, the 10 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smith, spelled down the entire grammar room last Friday afternoon.—Trenton Visitor.

Was this the day she visitor was telling about when there was but one pupil present in the grammar room?

With its daily edition to draw from and modern make-up in its size of its weekly the Pontiac Gazette has reached the foremost ranks in the newspaper field of Michigan. The Gazette being the recognized organ of the republican party of Oakland county, exerts a wide influence and has a large following. What may be said of the Gazette in the republican ranks may also be said of the Post as the democratic standard bearer; and with the hustling bright and newsy Times in the independent field, Pontiac is certainly well cared for both in the news and political departments.

A lady entered the Wixom telegraph office recently and sent a message to her husband who was out of town, and waited for an answer. Suddenly the peculiar halting click of the receiving machine sounded in the office, and she said to her companion: "That's from my husband, I know; I can tell his stories."

The Holly Advertiser is making things very lively for those who pledged their votes for Slocum for village president and then went back on him. "Jim" dub them "liars," "sneaks," "horse thieves," "drunken bums" etc.

Slocum is getting more advertising, more fun, more glory and more money out of it than as if he had been elected.

George Gibson, one mile south of town, will sell at public auction next Saturday, a fine lot of young horses, cows, sheep, pigs and farm implements. Sale commences at 10 o'clock. See bills.

Lee Wager was home over Sunday.
Geo. E. Conley of Detroit was in town Saturday.

Will Brown of Plymouth was in the village Tuesday.

Mrs. Hunt visited over Sunday with Detroit relatives.

Miss Minnie Smith is spending a few days at Bay City.

Miss Nellie Gillett was in Detroit a few days this week.

W. H. Phillips spent Sunday with his mother at Orion.

Mrs. Wm. Holly of Detroit is a guest at the Methodist parsonage.

Mr. Rockwell and daughter have returned from their Toledo visit.

Misses Head and Greer were home from Albion or Hugo this week for the spring vacation.

Ed. Robinson of Detroit was the visitor to the Northville and their friends over Sunday.

W. H. Proulx of Wyoming & T. J. Smith & Co.'s, next door. He is a brother of Mrs. Clara Hagen.

Mr. and Mrs. Hathaway of York were guests of their nephew, A. F. Whitehead and wife this week.

"Cuelin" J. D. Verles has returned from the south and is warmly welcomed by his many Northville friends.

The YPSGM delegates to Bay City last week were Misses Isa Blackbird and May Bovee, Charles Norrlund and Louis Root.

Misses Nina Ambler and Anna Blair attended the Epworth League convention at Detroit this week, as delegates from the Northville chapter.

Miss Mabel Clark was borne from Ann Arbor over Sunday. Miss Clark is one of the graduates from the U. of M. high school there this summer.

The following vets attended the state G.A.R. encampment at Mt. Clemens this week: E. K. Starkweather, T. P. Banks, Jas. Hamilton, A. Houk.

Miss Sterling, stenographer at the Gold Cure, was called to Ypsilanti Monday by a telegram announcing the sudden death of her sister, the wife of

Prof. Bowen.

Mrs. Geo. Waterman returned from her Detroit trip Saturday evening accompanied by her husband who had just arrived home from a ten week's trip for the Columbia Refrigerator Co.

Mrs. C. M. Joslin of this place, Grand Associate Correspondent of the O.E.S., attended the banquet tendered last night at Jackson by the local Eastern Star to the Grand Lodge officers.

N. H. Power has moved with his family to Detroit this week to be upon the same line of road with his postal route. Again Northville loses a valued citizen. It is to be hoped that Mr. and Mrs. Power will again take up their shade here at no distant day.

L. D. Evans, Robt. Cameron, B. S. Webster, Mrs. McCullum and Ed. Warner were guests of the Detroit IOOF lodge last Saturday night and witnessed the degree work exemplified by the Leamington Out team. The guests were afterward banqueted by Master Easier of the St. Clair hotel.

Mrs. John Pinkerton broke up housekeeping this week and shipped their goods to Green Lake, Me., where John is in the employ of the U. S. fish commission. Mrs. P. will visit in and about Northville and Farmington until about April 15 before joining her husband. It is with much regret that Northville people part with Mr. and Mrs. Pinkerton.

SALEM.

Mrs. O. A. Sober of Superior called on her sister, Mrs. C. Burnett, Sunday.

At the prohibition caucus held here Mrs. Murray was nominated for supervisor.

Mrs. Frank Hugley of Ypsilanti spent Sunday with her son-in-law, Will H. House.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith of Dearborn visited Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Stailes, on Monday.

Mrs. Lucy Newton of Ypsilanti spent the Sabbath with her Salem cousins, returning Monday afternoon. Deacon Wm. E. Manning has moved from the firm he recently sold to his Tenant to his residence in the village.

Mr. Crosby and daughter of Iggy Axe visited their relatives, J. D. and Frank Hayward and families, over the Sabbath.

Miss McNaughton of Ann Arbor is teaching the spring term of school in the Walker district, about two miles west of here.

Mrs. Adah Dale, daughter of Mr. David Dale, returned from the Panhandle last week much improved in health and mind.

On account of the poor health of the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. Compton, Fred Herrick accepted the pastorate at the Baptist church last Sabbath morning.

At the republican camp held here on Saturday most of the present incumbents were re-nominated. Supervisor Fred C. Wheeler, agent, Marshal Wilcox, treasurer, Bert Nield, Highways commissioner, &c. &c.

So many of the children did not take part in the day's exercises at the Baptist church last Sabbath evening are sick with the prevailing epidemic; the observance of the day was postponed indefinitely.

Mrs. W. H. Shannon has been at Grand Rapids this week attending the annual meeting of the Michigan branch of the W.M.F. Board of Missions of the Interior of which Mrs. Jas. B. Augell of Ann Arbor is president.

Otis Walker, student at one of the medical colleges in Detroit, son of Dr. A. L. Walker of this place, came home on Saturday and will spend the summer vacation under the parental roof.

Miss Sterling, stenographer at the Gold Cure, was called to Ypsilanti Monday by a telegram announcing the sudden death of her sister, the wife of David Dunlap, who died so suddenly last week at his home in South Lyon was a son-in-law of the late E. C. Roberts of this place. Though Mr. Dunlap had been in delicate health for some time his condition was not considered at all critical and his death was a surprise to the entire community.

He went to his grave honored and respected by all.

L. M. Laribee received a telegram from St. Louis on Saturday last announcing the sudden death of the mother of his late wife at that place. This is the third death in the family inside of four years. Decedents leave one son and three daughters. Funeral from Howell Presbyterian church on Tuesday morning, Rev. pastor, Rev. Wm. A. Service, officiating.

A REMARKABLE CURE.

Mrs. H. B. Adams, 1809 Wabash Ave., Chicago, says: "I had a serofusant taint of the blood from childhood, which, however, remained dormant. An ulcer began on the side of the nose having all the appearances of a malignant cancer. The agony of mind I suffered cannot be described as I contemplated the progress of such a malignant disease. Finally I was induced to try Foley's Sarsaparilla. It appeared to neutralize the poison in the blood. The growth of the ulcer ceased. The diseased tissue in the bottom and edges of the sore seemed to loosen and the natural flesh to take its place. No part of the disease remains."

The RECORD received many complements for its enterprise in getting out the "extra" containing the result of the republican caucus last week. The "extra" was in the post office within thirty-five minutes after the caucus was over.

Let's see, was it the Plymouth Mail who criticised the Ladies' Edition of the RECORD for not evening up ads and reading matter? Last week the Mail's first page contained less than one and one-half columns of reading and over five of ads.

The Woman's Baptist Missionary society will meet tomorrow at three o'clock with Mrs. Harrington on Main street. Every member is requested to attend as business of importance is to come before the meeting. Mrs. Beal of Plymouth will be present by invitation of the society.

Some people seem to be laboring under the delusion that re-registration is necessary for the coming town election. Such is not the case. The general re-registration law will not take effect until 1896. However if you are not positive as to whether you are now registered or not, see it at once.

There will be a special meeting of the Uniform Rank, K of P next week

Thursday night, at which time the division will be inspected by a deputy of the colonel commanding the first regiment.

Rev. P. S. Reitan of Detroit will lecture before the BYPC at the Baptist church next Tuesday evening.

Mr. Delos Flint of Novi will lead the singing and give one or more solos.

The public is invited to a most excellent free entertainment.

The first regular meeting of the new coucil occurs next Monday night.

On account of its being election day, they may adjourn for one week at which time there is a regular stated meeting for the purpose of approving a marshal and street commissioners.

The Northville fire department will give an oyster supper in the vacant store in the Kelling block Saturday night. Supper served from 6 to 9 for the small sum of 25 cents. Last opportunity for an oyster supper for some time. The boys should be well patronized.

If you don't want to have the county bonded for $1,500,000 for new county buildings, which are not really needed and which are to benefit the city of Detroit, vote "no" on the amendment next Monday. If the present city-hall is not large enough it can be made larger and cheaper there is plenty of available room to be had or will be long before the new county buildings could be finished. The state officer's salary amendment raise deserves a "yes" vote instead of the new building scheme.

Geo. E. Bradley has been in the thoroughbred poultry business for about four years. He has a fine flock of 100 of the Butterfield strain of Brown Leghorns. He selected ten from his flock January 1, 1894, which laid 144 eggs each during the year.

He sold 42 of them for breeding purposes. The remainder were sold in Northville at the market price. The average per dozen for the year was 18c making $1.92 each. It cost for feed 70 cents each leaving $1.22 cents net profit per hen. Now if there isn't more profit in the hen business than in running a newspaper we are greatly mistaken. Just think what a thousand hens would do at this rate.

A good joke happened last week on some of our well known seators. During a not very interesting night session of the legislature last week our Senator Briggs with two or three other of the law makers strolled out of the legislative hall and quietly slid over to the opera house. A joyful brother senator noticing their absence, and suspecting their whereabouts, made a motion that the sergeant-at-arms be instructed to gather in those members who were absent without leave. The motion carried and the officer started on his mission. He made for the opera house and quickly located the senators. The play was "Black Crook" and the why lawmakers induced the officer to not only forego the arrest but to remain and see the show with them. Next day in the senate the joke came near being a tragedy when one of the sober and staid senators, who didn't see the joke, in dead earnest made a motion that the sergeant-at-arms be censured for delict of duty.

Rich Red Blood

In the body of an adult person there are about 18 pounds of blood.

The blood has as its most important elements small round corpuscles, red and white, in proportion of about 800,000 to 1 cubic mill.

If the number of red corpuscles becomes diminished and the white ones increased the blood is impure, thin, lacking in the nutrition necessary to sustain the health and nerve strength of the body.

Then there comes a nervous second, due to one of the long trials of life according to the temperament and disposition, attack the system.

The only permanent remedy is found in suitable blood medicines like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts upon the red corpuscles, enrolling them and increasing their number. It thus restores the vital fluid to healthy condition, expels all impurity, cures Nervousness, That Tug-of-Fight, Scruples and all other dispositions arising from or promoted by low state of the blood.

In view of the benefit I have had from Hood's Sarsaparilla I wish to give the following testimonial. I have several times been ill.

Poisoned With Creeping Ivy. As the old school of medicine taught me to remove the symptoms instead of the source of them, much of the poison was left in my system to appear in an agonizing humor in my body with every violent exertion in warm weather. At times there were more or less indications of poison in my blood, up to a year ago last winter when

AN ENGAGEMENT

There could no longer be any reasonable doubt. Poor Jack Lester had been drowned in the wreck of the Orient mind, and Celia Grey was the most unhappy girl in Woodbury. She was forced to keep her grief to herself, because she had not been officially engaged to Jack. She thought it might have been a little easier to bear it if her friends had known how unhappy she was, and with what good reason.

With this great secret sorrow, it became the ordinary routine of life grew painful. She had no spirit for tennis parties. She hated her gay summer frocks. She even wished she need not act as bridesmaid to her cousin, Susie. She used to lie awake at night, and wonder how much he had minded being drowned.

As she went into the stationer's one day, she saw Fannie Potter there, a girl she knew slightly, and disliked. If it had been possible she would have escaped from the shop rather than speak to Fannie, but she was recognized at once.

"Good morning, Celia," said Miss Potter, putting down a packet of black-edged envelopes and coming forward. For a short time some relief—no, the girls had been in the same class at the high school, and on the seventh of this month continued to address Celia by her Christian name. She did not often have the chance of doing so, the Peters were not people with whom the girls wished to be on friendly terms. Mr. Potter was an attorney of doubtful reputation, it was well known that his daughter had threatened a well-to-do farmer with a breach of promise case, and that the young man had only got off by paying a substantial sum.

Since that time Fannie had dressed more fashionably than ever, but she had not been asked for her hand and heart again.

Celia bought what she wanted, and was about to leave the shop, when Fannie followed her, and said that they might as well walk a little way together. She was going past Bectonale. You must find that gown rather heavy," said Celia, who saw that her companion wore a mourning deep enough for a young widow.

"My heart is very heavy," said Fannie, with an accentuated sigh.

Celia reflected. She had not heard of Mr. Potter's demise, and Mrs. Potter had not seen at the station dressed in bright blue.

I did not know you were in trouble," she said evenly.

It was rather difficult to be more than civil, because Fannie gazed her great eyes with an objectionable way. She had pulled off a pocket handkerchief with a broad black border, and was holding it so firmly that any one who passed stared at them.

"Did you know?" panted Fannie.

"No," said Celia. "What is the matter?"

"I thought every one knew. I am staying with the Lester's. That is why I have to tell you about it."

Celia told her her heart sloped to the moment, and then went on her greatest misery. There was no comfort in her laugh, which was embarrassed.

"Jack," exclaimed his father, sternly, "I mean Miss Potter."

"I don't know what you mean. You are not in mourning because you are staying with the Lester's. I suppose?"

"What a foolish girl you must be to make us when we are in such trouble," said Fannie. She pranced while a wave of extra strong emotion shook her breast, and then she uttered in a squalid tone, "Poor Jack Lester is drowned!"

"I know that," said Celia sharply, "but I don't see why you should be in mourning."

"Jack and I were engaged."

Celia turned ashen white, otherwise she gave no sign. She walked ahead dolefully, and kept her open hands clasped close against her bosom.

"He gave me this ring," continued Fannie, pulling off her glove. "Look at it. Poor Jack and Fannie is entombed inside. Poor dear Jack."

Celia clasped her hands like a little girl, and glanced at the ring. She thought it rather vulgar, and quite suitable for Miss Potter. It consisted of a large emerald surrounded by coarse-cut diamonds. She thought it did not look Jackie's choice.

"How long," she began, and then to her vexation, she could not go on. Her heart beat too much.

"How long were we engaged? Oh, only just before he sailed. No one knew of it, but when I heard that he was drowned I wrote to his father, and mother. I felt sure they would be glad, poor old things. I am saying with them now."

"Really?" said Celia, and then having arrived at her gate of Bectonale, she rather abruptly bade goodbye.

From her mother Celia learned that the impossible story was true. Woodbury rang with the news. The Lester's were great people. The Potters very rich. None could understand why Jack Lester should have made such a trumpet choice, or how Fannie, with her blowsy beauty, had managed to captivate him. Without the ring she would have hardly persuaded anyone that she told the truth. Directly the confirmation of his death arrived, she had put herself into mourning, and drawn down the purple blinds, while Mr. and Mrs. Potter, with an air of great surprise spread the story of her extravagance. Woodbury, however, did not seem to care. The town's people were too common. When John Gorman of No. 40 died, his wife received a four-hundred-dollar death benefit. She indulged in the luxury of a one-hundred-and-twenty-dollar funeral, and within a week was in want.

Overproduction of children is another source of trouble. Whether the children live or whether they die, they are about equally expensive. The more desperate the family circumstances, the faster the children come.

And yet nature seems to smile on this form of insipiditude in the lost rural children are transformed to breadwinners by time. Thus the family, damaged down at first by its surplus of children, is often exalted by this very thing at the end. Contentedness, the love comes quite as often to the heads of the large families as to the childless couples, since the latter have no bread winners to call on when they themselves cease to win bread.—The Forum.

Celia drooped. Her mother, though a strong woman, was losing color and weight so fast. The poor child was grievously hurt. She had loved Jack Lester, and believed in him. There had been enough of an understanding between them to warrant his hopes. Had he deceived her? And what made her head ache most—the tale of his treachery or the thought that he was dead?

About a month after the wreck of the Orient mind, Mrs. Grey said that she must go and see Mrs. Lester one afternoon, and she hoped that Celia would accompany her.

"You go without me," said Celia.

"Mrs. Lester is so fond of you," observed Mrs. Grey.

"Oh, but she has the Potter gift," said Celia, dejectedly.

Nevertheless, when the afternoon came she went to Dallmohne with her mother. They were shown into the drawing-room, and found Mrs. Lester and her guest at tea. Miss Potter had come to meet them, and without any loss of time began to show how much she felt at home.

But neither Mrs. Grey nor Celia took very much notice of the young woman. Mr. Lester welcomed his old friend with affection, led them to a distant part of the large room and gave her orders to Wilkins. It was not until Col. Lester appeared that Miss Potter had a chance of reassessing him.

Col. Lester looked delighted to see Celia, but he asked her why she had grown so white and thin.

"What can a young girl have to fret over?" she said.

"On colonics," signed Miss Potter, reprobatively.

Every one had finished tea, and Mrs. Lester proposed an adjournment to the garden, where they were stopped by Wilkins coming in and asking for a sister's voice for his master. The old servant looked scared and upset.

"What is it, Wilkins?" said Miss Potter. "Anything I can do?" The colonel was the glad, hopeful spirit of the new year more evident in the brilliant gathering of beautiful women, and eleven men who form so large a proportion of the visitors to those fascinating entertainments, and, when the clock had struck striking midnight, a joyful echo started 1913 upon its career in a giddy fashion. PRETTY NITA CARLYON THE TALK OF LONDON

This Year She Captured the Flower Award Bestowed By Sir Augustus Harmsworth on Covent Garden, Name Lit with Electric Currents

THE THIRD OF the series of brilliant fancy dress balls with which Sir Augustus Harmsworth, the flower king of Covent Garden, has lit up the London season, was held yesterday evening at the Savoy Hotel, where the charming reunions are in progress, passed off with quite as great success as its predecessors. That the old year lay a dying as the merry-makers began their festivity implied no check upon their vivacity. Rather, it was the glad, hopeful spirit of the new year more evident in the brilliant gathering of beautiful women, and eleven men who form so large a proportion of the visitors to those fascinating entertainments, and, when the clock had struck striking midnight, a joyful echo started 1913 upon its career in a giddy fashion.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that the latest and greatest flower king of the year is Sir Augustus Harmsworth, who is the only Englishman to have been elected to the medical faculty of Cambridge being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Sir Augustus' flower king is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood sinews and sinuses of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Millions of dollars to any one who can cure the Grand Trunk Railway, says it was troubled for some months with urinary complaints. He who succeeds in passing it through the Grand Trunk Railway, will receive One Hundred Millions of dollars to him.

Mr. Harmsworth, who is the author of the book "The Flower King," has also given a $10,000.00 prize to the best flower arrangement, and a $5,000.00 prize to the best costume.

There is a flower which suits in honor and gives out tears.
