FUN BEGINS AT SUNRISE AND LASTS 24 HOURS.

Superb Train Service on the F&P&M Railway.

Brass Bands, Parades, Fireworks, Etc.

Till You Can't Rest.

Already the village is putting on celebration airs and the stores are packed full of flags, fire crackers, fireworks and bengal lights in anticipation of the crowds and enthusiasm. Every team and conveyance in the town has been chartered for the great trades parade, so that this part of the program is likely to prove an interesting feature. Entries for the races are being made almost every moment. The music will be supplied by the celebrated Ladies band of Fenton, the Salem Cornet band and the Northville Clique band.

Without further comment the RECORD gives in full below the magnificent program which speaks for itself and it will not conclude until every body is satisfied that they have seen the biggest and best celebration in the world.

In addition to the above there will be dancing day and evening in the Princess Inn and in Slater's hall and a band benefit play "Over the Hills," under the management of that well known actor, Prof. McMurra, at the opera house. Everyone should lay away life's care for a single day and prepare to celebrate the Nation's greatest day in "The Village Among the Hills."

Through the courtesy of the F&P&M officials the following special train service has been granted to Northville people for the occasion. A special train on the F&P&M from the south will leave stations as follows:

Monroe 8:00 a.m.; Warner 8:05; Steiner 8:15; Grafton 8:25; Carleton 8:28; Waite 8:35; Willow 8:40; New Boston 8:45; Wayne 9:00; Canton 9:05; Plymouth (up town depo) 9:15, arriving at Northville 9:25.

After the fireworks a special "run" will leave for Monroe at 10 p.m., and another for Holly at 10:30 p.m. Besides this special service there are four regular trains each day. Tickets good on either regular or special trains.

Spend Sunday in Detroit.

Most delightful place in Michigan with its broad river and beautiful Belle Isle Park. At no other place can so much pleasure be enjoyed on Sunday as in Detroit. To enable you to visit this paradise, the D&L&N will run an excursion on Sunday, June 30th leaving Plymouth at 10:40 a.m. and arriving at Detroit at 1:00 a.m. Returning leave at 7:00 p.m. Round trip $1.50.

FOUR DEATHS IN CHRONICLE.

R. H. Banks—Dr. Kingsbury—Mrs. Deborah Rogers, Miss Dunlap.

The announcement in the RECORD of three deaths in a single week is something unusual. However but two may be said to have been regular residents of the village.

DR. KINGSBURY

Dr. Kingsbury, for many years a well known and respected citizen and practicing physician of this village, died at the Soldiers' Home where he had been in a feeble condition for some time past, on Saturday morning. The funeral and interment occurred at that place. The doctor was a member of the G.A.R. post here. He leaves one son, Frank, now of Plymouth village.

MRS. DEBORAH ROGERS

Mrs. Rogers died very suddenly on Friday of heart failure at the home of relatives at Ovid where she was visiting. Mrs. Rogers was a sister of Wm. Pinkerton who lives north east of the village. She was sixty-six years of age, and was widely known, and highly respected throughout this vicinity. Mr. Rogers, it will be remembered, met with a tragic death in Detroit some years ago, where he had gone to dispose of some farm produce, and at which time he was robbed and murdered. The funeral of Mrs. Rogers occurred at the home of Mr. Pinkerton on Sunday afternoon, Rev. Seth Reed officiating. The burial was in the Verke cemetery.

MRS. ELIA DUNLAP

Miss Elia Dunlap, one of the best known and highly respected maiden ladies in Northville, died Monday, aged about fifty years. For some years Miss Dunlap was interested in the photographic business here as one of the firm of Brown & Co. About one year ago she went to one of the Detroit hospitals for treatment for an affection of one of her limbs and as a result the amputation of one of her feet was found necessary. This however only proved but temporary relief and since returning home she had been a great, though patient, sufferer until death came to her relief.

The funeral occurred from the home Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Arnold officiating.

F. H. BANKS

Frederick H. Banks, one of the oldest pioneers in Michigan, died at his home in this village early Sunday morning. He was born in Newberg, N. Y., in 1803, and therefore had reached the remarkable age of ninety-two years. Until quite recently he had been as bold and hearty as many men at fifty or sixty, possessing unusual vitality and retaining his mental faculties even to the last. For several months past he had been a great sufferer and death came only as a relief.

Mr. Banks came to Michigan in 1833 and settled at Walled Lake, where he took up 20 acres of government land. They moved into this village about twenty-one years ago where they have since resided. Mrs. Banks died some three years ago. The children are Dr. Gertrude Banks of Detroit, Mrs. Sibley of Wixom, Charles H. of Novi and T. P. of this place.

The funeral occurred from the home Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Arnold of the Baptist church, of which denomination deceased was a member, officiating. The interment was in the family lot at Walled Lake.

VACATION DAYS

A Delightful Place to Spend Them.

The approach of vacation days is a time for selecting some interesting place for a summer outing. A few days combine so many advantages that will quickly suggest themselves when vacation plans are canvassed. One of these is always Bay View, rich in varied recreative delights, social and educational advantages, and growing more interesting every year. This season's summer announcements are particularly attractive, filling nearly sixty pages of the Bay View Magazine, and beautiful with hundred half-tone views. The Flint & Pere Marquette railroad has secured a quantity of the magazines and placed liberal supply at their ticket office in this place for the public.

All persons planning a vacation, or intending to attend some summer school will be interested in the Bay View announcements. The public is invited to call for copies.

The F. & P. M. R. R. will as usual make very low rates to Bay View.

Besides the low priced summer tourist tickets now on sale, half fare tickets to Bay View will be sold from July 8 to 17 inclusive, return limit July 15.

An Explosion

Will not cause the excitement that the announcement that prices on FIRE WORKS are cut in two. Northville is bound to make a NOISE, and we have the material to help 'em out. If you want Roman Candles, Colored Rockets, Colored Exhibition Candles, Vertical Wheels, Giant Fire Crackers, Fire Crackers, Torpedoes, Flags, Pistols, Chinese and Japanese Lanterns, or anything in Fire Works, remember we have em at about 1-2 former prices.

Lunches, Ice Cream, Soft Drinks, Etc., served all day July Fourth. Come and CELEBRATE WITH US!

Short of Figures.

The shortage of figures in the Record office prevents our giving a complete score of the great Northville-Milford business men's ball game at Milford Wednesday. The Northvillians were defeated by a single score, but it was hard to tell which side felt the best about it. It was a great game for fun and everybody had more than a barrel of it. Northville people, and there were nearly fifty of them, were in for a good time and with Milford's assistance they had it. Claude Burgess umpired in a very satisfactory manner.

On the return trip the Northvillians were brought home on a regular herald train, there being nine newly wedded couples on board enroute for Detroit. Three were from Milford.

L. L. A. Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Ladies Library Association occurred at the library rooms last Friday afternoon.

The report of the secretary shows that the affairs of the association were never before in so good condition as at present. The society during the past year has been under obligations to Mrs. W. G. Lapham for books presented to the value of $25.00 to Miss M. E. Lapham for catalogue catalog valued at $80.00 and also ten valuable books besides free rent of library rooms, to F. R. Bell for electric light, etc. The event of the year of course was the Woman's editor of the Northville Record by whom through the generosity of Mr. Neal the society realized $153.00 net profit.

Total number of books now in the library 1,925; number of subscribers 153.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. D. C. Bliss; vice-president, Miss C. C. Steers, treasurer; Mrs. A. K. Carpenter, secretary; Mrs. S. Clarkson; trustees, Mrs. J. O. Knapp, Mrs. W. G. Lapham.

Respectfully Submitted,
Mrs. C. C. Steers, Sec'y.

THE RECORD.

F. S. NEAL, Publisher.

Most of the issues before the people carry more crew in the quarter deck than in the forecastle.

Senator Stewart has been making financial speeches in New England. He got the Quincy granite heart.

The Richmond Dispatch suggests the tobacco plant for the national flower. The nation ought to favor that suggestion, perhaps, because tobacco plants so many flowers.

The accounts furnished by the winners of the Chicago road race of the way they won are good enough sermons in brief for any young man in any walk (or ride) of life. "I got right at it and plugged," they each say in substance, "and every man I saw ahead of me passed." That is the formula of success.

It made little difference to Lord Rosebery that the house of commons expressed its contempt for a sporting premier, otherwise good for nothing, by refusing for the second time in his history to adjourn for Derby day. So long as Lord Rosebery wins, racing stakes it of no moment to him what his party or the country loses.

The city of Glasgow, Scotland, proposes to build a home for widows and widowers with children. In this new home a man or a woman with children may find comfortable lodgings at a cost of about 16 cents a day, and children will be fed at a cost of about 35 cents a week. The people of Glasgow have reduced their charities to a business-like basis, where they cease to be charities and become self-supporting institutions that do not pauperize the people.

Carey Lee's experiment in chemical action may have a practical value. He recently obtained metallic mercury from corrosive sublimate by triturating the sublimate in thin powder until mechanical force became chemical action and the sublimate was resolved into its elements. The experiment may have a bearing on the reduction of metallic ores, especially those of the previous metals. It is possible that a strong electric current may be successfully substituted for the trituration.

The Railroad Gazette in its next issue will publish a tributary of orders for freight cars placed by railroad companies, which gives the number of cars at 2,000. These are ordered, and are sent now for an additional 3,000 cars approximately. The passenger cars ordered amount to seventy-two, with contracts for thirteen more to be given out shortly. This represents an investment of over ten million dollars. The Railroad Gazette says that the total output of the contracting car shops for five months of this year exceeds that of the entire year 1894, over 5,000 cars.

With regard to the introduction of American money and the introduction of a new capital are offered by the Japanese government Japan has just closed with China. A protocol is made that China shall hereafter open to the right action of all forms of orders in America, and that such machine shall be adjusted to a standard. An iron column made very stout is brought directly from the new gear presented as follows also telephones, etc., lights, pumping presses, and many other articles of civilization which heretofore have been kept out of China.

Eight hundred school children in New York were on a rampage last week because the proprietor of an entertainment advertised to give each child a handsome present and then distributed brass rings that they didn't like. They tore the interior decorations of the hall to pieces, smashed the windows, broke chairs, and did other damage, amounting in all to about $300. A number of arrests were made. Little folk are fast acquiring big folks' tempers and bad habits. With the pace set by Chicago's Industrial Home girls and New York school children the regular, old-fashioned rioters will have to hump themselves to keep up.

Magical stockings are among the latest fashions. They are not only musical, however, merely visible so. Their openwork bands, running perpetually up the ankles, are patterned in the notes and bars of the musical clef. Of course, different tunes are used for different occasions. Upon full dress hose very grand operas are appropriately inscribed. Lighter compositions appear upon those dedicated to functions less important, and for every-day stockings quite every-day duties are used. Stockings to be worn upon Sunday alone are an interesting phase of the fashion. These are, of course, embellished with hymn tunes and other sacred music.

David Weaver of Cairo, Ritchie county, W. Va., on whose land a big 240-barrels-a-day oil well was struck one day, last week, died the next day of heart disease resulting from excitement over his stroke of good fortune. He had been a poor man all his life and the prospect of sudden wealth was too much for him.

It is cheering to know that Gen. Bushnell is not a candidate for president. That simplifies the Ohio situation, leaving only three candidates in that state.

SECOR A WIZARD, TOO

INVENTOR EDISON HAS A NEW RIVAL.

John A. Secor promises to revolutionize transatlantic navigation with his new system of propulsion—neither steam nor electricity.

HIS recent reports of the transatlantic steamship companies make it apparent that many of these corporations are either losing money or barely meeting expenses. The savings made by the debt and credit accounts of the two great railroads is exceedingly discouraging in this so-called age of steam. It is painfully evident that these ships carry to and from coal back and forward between New York and Queenstown. More than half of the available space in the interior of the Campania and the Lucania, for example, is occupied by the machinery and boilers, in addition to which there are 2,500 tons of dead weight in the shape of coal to be carried out of the port of departure. So little space is left for merchandise and passengers that the ships cannot be made self-supporting. Such is the explanation made by the engineers. The mind of a Julia Verne can very readily imagine a time when if the dumping of coal ashes into the Atlantic continues a causeway will be formed between Sandy Hook and Ronse's Point.

The dream of scientists and engineers of Edison and Tesla especially is the direct conversion of fuel into electricity which they expect to convert into a propulsive mechanical force. Such a dream is now realized by John A. Secor, who has attained the direct conversion of fuel into a propelling force sufficient to move vessels without intermediate transformation. The writer recently saw the latest Secor boat propelled by the direct combustion of fuel. This craft had no screw, paddle, boiler or steam engine, and it is within the bounds of truth to say that the control over the machinery is unimpeded that of any steam engine in existence. A party of engineers were seated in the boat, and it was propelled up Newton Creek by its own engine. Started in its simplest form, the Secor system consists in the use of several inclosed cylinders into which are introduced a mixture of oil and atomized fuel, which being automatically ignited, is discharged directly against the external water at the stern of the vessel. The instantaneous explosion of the gases drives the vessel forward in the air. The explosion, under full control, is produced with a regularity and average of 200 per minute.

The commercial evolution likely to be effected by the success of this direct system of propulsion will be as great as that following the original invention of steam. The economy of the steam is so great and the lack of the fuel to

In the lowest hell-savers were seen frozen in ice, with only their imploring heads and arms above, and stretching their hands in vain agony toward the fires from which others as vainly strove to reach the ice. While at the very bottom was seen the three-faced Lucifer, author of all this endless agony.

Now imagine with all this, the skillful use of colored lights, unearthly sounds, stage illusions, and visual deceptions managed by the best dramatic experts, and it may be seen that "Infernals Regions" was hardly a misnomer. And into that scene were ushered the half-twisted boy and his friends.

Mr. Gust had ventured to permit Joe to witness this exhibition not without misgivings; and before going into the special audience room he had taken the lad through the museum proper, where he had been delighted with stuffed birds and beasts he had never seen.

On entering the region of the Inferno it was found, however, that while others were horrified, Joe was so far unable to appreciate the scene that he laughed outright at what he called the "big devil," and thought all was the greatest "fun." A few minutes after entering Joe, who had been cautioned and had carefully kept his hands off the bars, stood toying with the medal suspended by its silver chain from his neck. He dropped the medal, still attached to its chain upon one of the bars. Quick as lightning an electric shock struck him to the floor as dead! The shock had been too great a jolt near being fatal. In the alarm and confusion which followed Mr. Gust retained his presence of mind. With the aid of Miss Gust he carried Joe down the stairs and into the private room of the proprietor, Mr. Dorvalle. That gentleman in undressed the case at once. He stripped Joe of his clothing, doused him with cold water, laid him upon a bed, rubbed him violently with flannels and when he revived, a few minutes later, wrapped him with warm blankets and enjoyed rest.

After breathing and the blood's circulation were established the poor boy was carried to the street, placed in a carriage and taken home. He was perfectly happy and it was feared, paralyzed. In a brief time Dr. Ross was called who watched with Joe, administering restoratives, until morning.

About midnight Joe began to move his limbs. There will be no paralysis.

"MOTHER."

said the doctor much to the relief of Mr. and Mrs. Gust, who had not been out of the room.

Soon the sufferer groaned a little. In a low tone and at length he opened his eyes and looking round curiously, said:

"Mother?"

"Here I am, Joe," said Mrs. Gust. "Are you better, Joe?"

"Where is my papa?" said the boy, not appearing to observe Mrs. Gust.

"Here, Joe—I am here," said Mr. Gust. But Joe said in a tone of disappointment.

"I want my papa. Where are the horses?"

Husband and wife looked inquiringly at each other, and Dr. Ross said exultingly:

"It is a new birth! He is born of the lightning; I expected it at some time, and it has come like a thunder-clap. Henceforth Joe will return to himself as before the tornado bereft his senses. I will return at this morning in the meantime, treat your charge as among new-found friends—as if the catastrophe at the mill-dam had just occurred."

And the doctor went out, happy at the boy's apparent restoration, and proud of his own frequent prophecies that such would be the event in the history of what he termed "the boy with the double life."

The scenes which occurred in Joe's bed-room during the next few hours are beyond the power of words. Reason was re-seating herself upon the throne, and the newly awaked "Hotel," but where that was he did not know. At last resort Mr. Gust published a brief statement of these facts, and hoped thus to reach the lad's friends and restore him to his home. But if this notice ever reached Gray Sulphur hotel, it fell into the hands of Sam Blake and was by him destroyed. But all efforts to find Joe's home and kindred failed, and he remained a permanent member of Mr. Gust's family.

After all hope of discovering Joe's parentage had been abandoned, Mr. Gust adopted him as his son with legal forms, and thenceforth he and his wife lavished upon him all their love and means in educating and training him for a noble manhood, of which he gave such promise.

It was found that the boy had been taught to read a little by his mother, though he had never been at school. He learned with rapidity, grew in many traits as in stature, and gave promise of many admirable qualities. And so, for the present, he will be left to the kindly care of his adopted parents.

CHAPTER VI.
OLD CHARLEY MOILER AND HIS DAUGHTER.

BOUT THE year 1831, and previously, a lady named Dewees kept a "Young Ladies' Academy" on Sixth street, between Main and Walnut. It was something better than most of the schools of that day, with similar high-sounding titles. Mrs. Dewees was learned in English literature and belles-lettres, drawing, water color painting and many little arts considered essential to female education in that day, and many of Cincinnati's women sent their daughters to Mrs. Dewees to "furnish their education" and receive the wonted accomplishments. Among the inmates of the academy at this time was a young woman who did not board in the house, but at home in the city. She was about 19 years old, of fine figure and proportions, though esteemed too voluptuous for pure beauty, by other handsome girls, a light bracelet in complexion, with dark hair—almost black, and falling gracefully about her temples and neck in easy curves, eyes black as coal, which sparkled like diamonds, a face full of vivacity and beaming with love and a manner which should have won the regard and respect of her companions at school without exception. But it did not though the girl was without a blushing heart and pure as a snowflake. But her father—"Old Charley Moiler"—did not have a reputation of that sort, though no criminal act had ever been legally traced to his hands. He was reported to be rich, and that made the society of his daughter Vivette at least supportable, though it was not known how much money the old Frenchman could command, how he got what he had, or where he kept it. He had formerly deposited his cash in the old Miami Exporting company's bank, but on the very day before that famous bank stopped payment and closed its vaults on all depositors and bill-holders. Moiler had drawn out his money as if forewarned, and had then put it—no one knew where. But the evidences of continued wealth were still shown in the education and outfit of his beloved daughter. She wore the best and most costly attire (modestly made and without useless ornamentation), and always in good taste, and no means nor money was spared to give her the best education the city could afford, including music, embroidery, painting, and the French language, and literature.

This talk of four years' residence among these strange people in a strange city was too much for the lad's still confused memory, and he lapsed into silence. But the breakfast roused him and he ate heartily. Shortly afterward Dr. Ross came in. Joe knew him as having been present during the night and he politely asked when he could get up.

"Just as soon as you feel able," replied the doctor. Then for the purpose of testing the full significance of the change which had occurred to Joe, he asked:

"What time is it, Joe?"

"I have had my breakfast, sir," replied Joe, at the same time looking round the room for a clock.

"Joe is no longer a living time keeper," remarked the doctor to Mr. Gust. Then he said:

"Joe, please let us see your medal."

The boy felt for it in his bosom, drew it out and exhibited it still with the chain on his neck. The doctor read the inscription.

"Little Joe June 26, 1813. My dear boy, you were 11 years old yesterday, and your new birth came on the anniversary of your advent into the world—a remarkable coincidence."

"My mother says I am 7 years old, sir," said Joe politely, but much mystified.

"But that was four years ago my son. Look at yourself and see how you have grown."

The boy looked curiously at himself—large and well formed even at eleven years—smiled, but not knowing what to say. Then the doctor undertook to give the lad such a statement of events in his history for the past four years as he supposed might be understood—dwelling especially on the kind treatment he had received at the hands of his foster parents.

In a few days Joe was up and about in his usual vigor, but in a mental condition wholly changed. He soon learned to love his kind friends, and to call them father and mother. But so far, nothing he could tell as to past memories threw any light upon his true parentage, or their place of residence. He remembered his mother, by no other name: he heard his papa called "Jeff" sometimes. Had a grandpapa, but knew him by no other name, and an uncle "Sam," and a few negroes with but a single name each. His home had been

SIX DAYS IN A TRANCE.

Alfred Wootton Was Put to Sleep by a Hypnotizer and Watched by Doctor. A dramatic illustration of hypnotism accompanied by many gory scenes has been given in London by Prof. Morris, who seems to possess extraordinary powers of a mysterious nature, says the New York World. He put a man to sleep in a coffin-shaped glass case and kept him there nearly a week, and at the end of that time awakened him in the presence of a large number of witnesses. The victim of this achievement, one Alfred Wootton, is a stained-glass-worker, 35 years of age. During the whole of the time he was asleep or in a trance he was exhibited in a public hall. When the experiment was ready to begin on Monday he had readily climbed into the coffin-shaped case, and many people watched the hypnotist, as he proceeded to exercise his mysterious power holding Wootton by the forehead and chin, the hypnotist gazing steadily into his eyes. He then made a few downward passes from above the eyes along the side of the face, from time to time examining the pupils of the eyes. The man it was found, had, by this time become rigid. One minute after the experiment began the hypnotist asked Dr. Forbes to examine the man. He was found to be thoroughly unconscious. His pulse was 96, the exact number of beats registered before he became unconscious. His respiration was about 16, the breathing chiefly abdominal. Temperature was 98.2, or normal. The pupils of the eyes were contracted almost to disappearance. During the following days the respiration, temperature and pulse changed slightly, but the man remained in a trance condition. His beard continued to grow. When he was awakened by Prof. Morris the following Saturday evening, he could not be convinced that he had been in a hypnotic trance for nearly a week, until he felt the thick growth of beard on his face. He said it seemed to him that he had only been asleep for a few minutes. It did not take longer than a minute to wake him up. The professor made a few passes of his hand across the man's face and lifted his head and shoulders from the coffin-shaped case. Wootton then opened his eyes and instantly recognized friends in the crowd about him, with whom he began to converse. The only notable sensation he experienced upon waking he said was that of hunger. A short time after being awakened he put on his coat and walked out of the building with his friends. He had been constantly watched during the whole time in the trance and even of much interest in the records of the doctors Prof. Morris had previously tried a similar experiment with one Henry Nolan, but the doctors who were watching him then expressed the opinion that Nolan was not physically strong enough to undergo the ordeal.

ANCIENT WARRIOR.

NOT SO LARGE NOR STRONG AS THE MONGOLIANS.

THE POPULAR TENDENCY TO ENLARGE EVERYTHING IS FAR OFF AND TO POINT TO THAT WHICH IS CLOSE BY AS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE OPINION THAT THE MOST OF THE PRESENT TIME ARE DEGENERATE REDUCTIONS OF THE MEN OF MEDIEVAL TIMES, WHO WERE GIANTS CLAD IN IRON AND WITH IRONS OF STEEL. THE FAIR FIGURE THUS SHOWS THE ABSURDITY OF THIS OPINION. OUR LEARNED PHYSIOLOGISTS, AFTER HAVING MEASURED HUNDREDS OF SKELETONS, TESTIFY THAT THE MEN OF OUR TIMES ARE FROM ONE TO TWO CENTIMETERS TALLER THAN THE MEN OF THE MIDDLE AGES. WE POSSESS THEIR GARMENTS, AND IT TURNS OUT THAT WE APPEAR NOT ONLY TO HAVE GROWN TALLER SINCE THE TIME WHEN THESE WERE MANUFACTURED, BUT OUR SHOULDERS COULD NEVER FIT INTO THE STEEL CORSETS OF OUR SO-CALLED ATHLETIC FOREFATHERS. THE SUPERINTENDENT OF THE MUSEUMS UNDER THE SECOND EMPIRE, WISHING TO PUT ON THE ARMOR OF FRANCIS II, THE LARGEST OF ALL IN THE MUSEUM, OR ARTILLERY, WAS UNABLE TO DO SO. IT WAS TOO SMALL FOR HIM, THOUGH HE WAS IN NO SENSE A GIANT. AND HERE IS ANOTHER EXAMPLE. IN SWITZERLAND RECENTLY, ON THE OCCASION OF A GYMNASTIC TOURNAMENT, THE YOUNG MEN, WISHING TO CLOSE THE FESTIVITIES BY A PROCESSION IN HISTORICAL COSTUMES, BORROWED THE ARMS AND ARMOR OF THE ARSENAL. BUT IT IS EVIDENT THAT THEIR ANCESTORS, PEOPLE OF LITTLE FORESIGHT, NEVER THOUGHT OF THEIR GRANDCHILDREN, AND THESE GRANDCHILDREN WERE UNABLE TO PUT ON THE ARMOR. IT WAS TOO SMALL FOR THEM. SO MUCH FOR THE STATURE OF OUR ANCESTORS. AS TO THEIR SUPPOSED ENORMOUS STRENGTH, WE HAVE NO PROOF, BUT THE WEIGHT OF THE EQUIPMENT OF THE MEN-AT-ARMS. BUT THE HARNESS OF THE KNIGHTS WAS VERY MUCH LIGHTER THAN HAS COMMONLY BEEN SUSPENDED. ACCORDING TO ONE OF THE CATALOGUES OF THE MUSEUM OR ARTILLERY, THE WEIGHT OF THE COMPLETE ARMOR DID NOT, AS A RULE, EXCEED FIFTY POUNDS, AND AS MUCH AS THOSE WHO WORE IT WERE HORSEMEN, IT WAS THE HORSE THAT HAD TO CARRY THE GREATER PART OF THE LOAD.

As far as the Record has been able to learn, after a careful canvass of the cities, villages, and the country for ninety miles around there will on July 4th be the largest crowd of people here ever seen in Northville. And now, not with standing the provisions already made by the hotels, boarding houses, societies, there is yet need for more accommodations to be made at once.

There will be from eight to ten thousand people here and they must be taken care of. More eating places must be provided without delay.

Last Sunday Rev. Mr. Beding surprised his congregation by announcing his determination to leave Northville leaving his resignation to the session.

He then briefly reviewed his

HAWAIIAN FILIBUSTERS.

The schooner George W. Watson, which cleared from Seattle, Wash., with a big cargo of lumber for Honolulu, intends to take on field pieces, small arms, and ammunition on Cape Plattey. A large shipment of arms and ammunition has been made to the sound by rail and is now stored at various points along the sound. The arms are intended for an uprising in Hawaii, and after the Watson rounds Cape Plattey she will head for a small island in the Hawaiian group which has been selected and is recently adopted to the landing of filibuster cargo. If her plans do not miscarry an insurrection may be expected to follow. It was calculated that the strength of the royalists and the supposed allies of ex-Queen Liliuokalani at San Francisco would greatly help out the scheme. Authorities at Washington have been notified of this and other proposed expeditions against Hawaii and will take immediate steps to stop them.
