FRIDAY, AUGUST 24, 1895.

$1.00 per year, in advance.

VOL. XXVII. NO. 2.

EIGHTEEN ANSWERED ROLL CALL.

At the Nineteenth Annual Reunion of Co. D.

Co. D., 5th Mich. Cavalry held its nineteenth annual reunion on the beautiful lawn of S. G. Harrington in the village on the 14th last, the occasion being the thirty-third anniversary of the organization. The day was a beautiful one and though warm, the heat was not oppressive at all.

When Co. D. was organized in '61 it was expected that C. G. Harrington would be its captain, but owing to his inability to arrange business matters satisfactorily E. H. Simonds completed the organization and led the company to the front as its commander. Of that gallant band but eighteen answered to roll call on this occasion. There were: Capt. Simonds, C. S. Wheeler, S. C. Wheeler, J. L. Bullock, M. B.
Lane, A. T. Blair, J. Redner, M. S.
Root, W. D. Macomber, J. P. Quirk, J. M. Gardner, E. S. Horton, E. S.
Hastings, A. Holm, J. E. Lovelace, K. Starkweather, H. Lount, H. M.
White, Comrades Williams of Co. F and Johnson of Co. C. were also present, as well as two from the 24th, 2 of the 20th, 1 of the 18th, 3 from the 1st and 1 from the 4th to choir the day's audience.

The ladies assisted Mrs. Holk in serving a bounteous repast at noon and at two o'clock the regular exercises of the day commenced by a prayer by Rev. Seth Reed. This was followed by remarks by President Wheeler, F.
B. Seal, Revs. Turner and Jaques, and a poem by Miss Matilda White. Comrade Lowden followed with an extremely interesting paper "The trial from Washington to Appomattox." This was listened to with very close attention as the scenes and trials of Co. D. in those dark days were brought vividly back to their view.

By a unanimous vote Messrs. Seal and Harrington were elected honorary members of the organization, and Mr.
Harrington was given a vote of thanks for the use of his lawn.

A JUG HANDLED AFFAIR.

Was Saturday's Ball Game with the Yales.

The Yale-Northville game here was a "corner," if you know what I mean.
With Garrison in bed and no substitute pitcher to be had the Northville practically gave up and sent word to the Detroiters not to come, but Manager Black of the Yales said he would bring out a pitcher. Then some hustling was done to get a nine together between Northville and Plymouth. The game was raised. Black brought his pitcher (?) all right and he was stood up in the box while Manager Black went in to umpire. In the first three innings Black's men had pounded Black's pitcher under Black's upping, for 18 runs. After the meeting house had fallen on them and the steeple was just toppling over the Northville manager, or captain, or the crowd, or someone, commenced to tumble to the situation and after registering a few valo kicks on the umpire, Penny was put into the box for Northville in place of Black's men.
Penny held them down in good shape but the tank umpiring at critical points and the big lead attained by the Yales disengaged the local team to such an extent that they played in a listless sort of a way allowing the Detroit to bite up nine more runs ending the game at a score of 9 to 27.
Bad German been in shape, or even had Penny been put in at the beginning of the second, the result would have been entirely different.

The fact that Black can umpire, and has in some of the best games ever seen on a Northville Diamond, only added to the grievance caused by his glaring, unjust decisions during this game.

The Ladies' Flower Show.

Suburban News.

As a result of thirty days of hustling a Milford man only succeeded in securing three days work during the month of July.

The address of the Tribune Visitor acknowledges that she likes the idea of being sick occasionally—for instance last week—because it gives her a real delay people are in for recuperation.
They want to be tickled either on the Detroit or Northville they don't care which—the latter probably preferred.

The Holly Advertiser says tomatoes taken with an extra amount of salt will cure the liquor habit. It is safe to say that Slocum will eat no more tomatoes.

A Milan dealer advertises some bargains in small sized ladies shoes.

It was generally supposed that the two-county town was noted for its giantess-like women instead of the Lilliputian variety.

The Fenton ladies band have disbanded by mutual consent.

This famous band was organized fourteen years ago and have played in many of the important cities of the United States—including Northville.

The Herald says if Wyandotte en-bars in the bathing business it will be as a "side issue." The "side" will doubtless be the inside and instead of making a scarcity-of-water the issue will "bulb" the price of bows.

Pouliac is putting on metropolitan status. The latest is a dog catcher and a pound and the drowning in dole once a week. The superintendent and general of the post office business good. Jay Clark was caught out today this week but was released on his own admission that he was a PUP—Holly Advertiser.

The Ypsilanti figures it out that Ypsilanti's Co. G. was the crack company at the state encampment at Grand Sable this year. Imagine what Northville had no company there we are perfectly willing that Ypsi should have the glory.

The Plymouth Mail says: "Nothing is finer than Sheer's Old Clinton Brandy." Gray is authority on almost any subject, but if he keeps on in this way the Plymouth WCTU people will have to send him over here to the Gold Cure for about three weeks.

The Review claims that the Wayne Northville ball game played here last week Tuesday was decided by the umpire 9 to 0 in Wayne's favor, and yet the umpire didn't get around to make this decision until after supper.
The bluff didn't work. The score of 13 to 14 was all right.

Farnington is liable to give an electric railroad to Detroit after all.
Hon. Fred Warner and two other gentlemen have been granted a franchise for its operation through Farmington township. The road is to be in operation by Feb. 15, 1897 and is to connect with the street car line at Detroit.

The Adrian Press says: "If a fellow comes to your house with a tube filled with cotton batting and some chemicals that will cure catarrh and 'blast' your suspenders when you sneeze, don't entertain him as a friend, but as a fool and brain him with a ball club. He does not sell out rents the catarrh cure and will come around and refill the tubes; then he fails to come and you keep your catarrh and tubes. The man has done business in the surrounding counties."

Weak and Weary

Details of a depicted condition of the blood. The remedy is to be found in purified, enriched and vitalized blood, which will be given by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier. It will tone the stomach, create an appetite and give renewed strength. Remember.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the only true blood purifier prominently in the public eye today. $1.50 for 16 oz.
Hood's Pills $1.00 per bottle.

THE ROTTING OF THE WINE.

The Swiss method of preparing the liquid through its preparation for sale.

The wine in Switzerland is left in the casks till the following spring, and it is here that fermentation takes place and the liquid is converted into wine. The change begins almost immediately; the liquid becomes turbid, carbonic acid gas is evolved, a scum is thrown up on the surface and the temperature rises. A climax is reached; the intensity of the fermentation diminishes; subsides, the scum settles as a slimy deposit at the bottom of the cask and a clear yellow liquid is left above. The grape sugar has almost entirely disappeared, a corresponding amount of alcohol has taken its place and the sweet taste of the fruit has given place to the characteristic vinous flavor of the wine. In the early stages of fermentation enormous quantities of carbonic acid gas are given off, and nooses are made in the barrels to drive it away. But at the time I write of (October, 1882) when the vintage was the finest of the century, when barrels to hold the must could not be purchased for a love or money, when every cellar on the lake from Geneva to Villeneuve, was packed with casks of must, so great was the amount of carbonic acid gas in the air that in spite of every precaution, several deaths from suffocation took place among the workers. In the spring the wine is drawn off clear into other barrels, then bottled. An ordinary bottle of wine sold at all the little wine shops, with which Switzerland abounds, is drawn off into quaint little glass decanters, containing half a liter each, and so served to the unvarying Swiss, who drink it round little tables under the trees on the sunny pathways or over wooden benches inside the red-curtained wine-shops.

WE WANT TO TELL YOU

Why Your Back is Lame—Why it Aches and Pains, and How to Cure it.

Do you know what it is to have a back that is never free from aches and constant pain, a lame back, a sore back, an aching back, in fact, a back that makes your life a burden? What have you done for it? And does it still keep you from the happiness that perfect health brings to all? We know full well if such is your condition a cure for it will be a blessing you do not desire. Plasters won't do it, but don't think in bringing strength. Liniment won't do it; for, whilst it may give temporary relief, it does not reach the cause. The cause, there's the point; there's where to make the attack. Most diseases come from disordered kidneys. Therefore you must correct their action if you would be cured. Read the following from D. D. Cook, whose address is No. 18 Michigan Street, Grand Rapids. He says:

"I have used Doin's Kidney Pills and wish to say it is a truly great medicine. Thirty years ago I had nervous prostration while in the army, where I served for over four years. I think it was during this service that the seeds were sown which have caused all my trouble. Seven billious attacks bothered me, and at such times my kidneys were worse. It is almost impossible to describe the pain which so often lame me. I have been lame that to stand up after I had been sitting down required a great exertion. Walking was at times so impossible, even at night I did not rest being forced to get up during the night. I tried Doin's Kidney Pills and wondered if they could make an almost lame man well. I got some and soon after taking them began to feel their good effects. I used them for some time, my lameness all left me and, I have not felt it since. Doin's Kidney Pills have done me an inestimable amount of good."

For sale by all dealers, price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name, Doin's, and take no other.

Information Wanted.

Editor of The Record—I am a youthful person (a lady) but not a bicyclist and am anxious to gain a little information from you as I can find no printed reference which will give any light on the subject. The question which has troubled my mind is this: What is the article of wearing apparel which the bicyclists' uses in lieu of suspender? If you can satisfactorily answer this question, it will greatly relieve my mind.

there lie in wait for the sparkling fish and then return home and lie in wait for the same fish?

The ticket sales at the T&P office here will amount to nearly $15,000 a ably go double that, while the outgoing shipments will doubtless reach $100,000.

A reward of $50.00 will be given for the return of the money taken at the Baptist church Sunday Aug. 4. Or $50.00 will be given for information

The Methodist Sunday school was never so large as on Wednesday last when they picnicked at Wall's lake.
About two hundred went from Northville in all sorts of vehicles, and that was not all, for many were kept at home by business or duty.

The Salen ball club will play Brooks wool stockings here Tuesday afternoon. This is Northville's new ball team and a great game may be expected. Manager Brooks is going to be a hustler and from now on the Northville district will run out more fun and excitement than town meeting.

Our The Crocker of the Globe band has been engaged to play a concert solo on Belle Isle, Detroit, on the occasion of the Wayne county Sunday-school Aug. 29. There are but few cornetists in Michigan who are superior to Mr. Crocker and he will be equal to any expectation which the association may build upon him on this occasion.

Stark Bros. have leased the Highland store of Mr. Richardson and expect to move about Sept. 1st. C. E.
Smith will move into the store vacated by Stark Bros. There are several applicants for Mr. Ball's store, which is in one of the best grocery locations in the village, but just who will get it is not yet quite decided.

The annual meeting of the Loyal Temperance Legion of the first district of Michigan will be held in the Baptist church next Monday beginning at 10:30. A Cooper contest will be held in the evening. A large delegation is expected and our neighbors are asked to help entertain delegates for the day.
Those who will do so please leave their names at A. W. Reed's store or with Mrs. Peck.

The annual school meeting will occur Monday evening, Sept. 2, at which time there should be a large representation of the voters present.
The school board has just completed a $200 job about the premises such as putting in new floors up stairs, building a new fence, painting out buildings, haisomining and cleaning inside, etc.
Some of this may have been an extravagant and useless expenditure of the people's money, and if so this will be a good time for the tax payers to investigate the matter and express their disapproval.

The Globe Furniture Co. band will escort the Northville crowd to Detroit next week Thursday, the occasion being the Wayne county Sunday school rally day. The band has also been engaged to occupy the grand stand on Belle Isle and play during the exercises of the afternoon. A special train will be run from Northville on that day not stopping after leaving this place until Detroit is reached. Everybody can go who wishes to. The fare will be 60¢ round trip children 30¢. For complete pro-

Figures of the expert book keeper who has just been putting the water works books in shape, show that Engineer Parker's estimate for building the Northville reservoir was $2,000, but other figures show that the reservoir at completion cost the village about $10,500. Parker also said that iron crocks would work all right from the springs to the reservoir, and crocks it was, but they have had to be largely replaced with iron pipes at a great expense to the village. And yet a member of the water board recommended him the other day to a certain Michigan city as being a thoroughly competent engineer to put in a system of water works. We hardly think that our neighboring village of Plymouth, or the majority of our own people, would agree with this.

The days have arrived when house flies are hatching; when small boys well worth catching; when city husbands are batching; when ball clubs great games are matching; and when newa gatherers for items are laborious by scratching.

The water board, or some one else should see that the deluging of the streets with water while sprinkling causing mud holes through which carriages are obliged to drive, is stopped. It is not only a waste of water but also a nuisance and does more harm than good.

One of the boarders was using the water out of hours at Mrs. Macoubre's boarding house Wednesday noon and the water was shut off and a fine imposed. During the evening Frank Macoubre took the president of the water board to task for ordering the water shut off in this case and a war of words ensued. Frank claimed that the president had exceeded his rights, etc. A large crowd collected and for a time the whole police force was called into requisition to keep the streets passable.

extra copies to send to friends at a dis-

Friends of the Record having business at the Probate court should insert that the notices be published in this paper where those interested will see it.

The Northville Record of August 16th contains notice of three births, all boys. One more evidence of the thriving condition of Northville enterprise.—Pontiac D. Gazette.

And three more this week, only that two of them were girls.

It is all nonsense for the water board to make a rule and then not enforce it.

The flagrant violations of the rule relative to sprinkling hours should be stopped. It is no uncommon sight to see people in various parts of the village wetting down their lawns at almost any hour of the day or night.

The majority of the people are obeying orders and using the hose from 6:30 to 7:30 only and these citizens desire that their neighbors also obey the mandate.

A NARROW WORLD.

SOMETHING HAD HAPPENED.

There was such a rosy flush on her cheek, so bright a gleam in her eye, and on her face such an utter abandonment of joy, that any one even the most hard-boiled could have guessed the truth.

Fortunately, they had chosen the hill road, the less traveled of all, and so had been led down from the mountains to Valley City, Santa Barbara, and for the first half-hour after the evening met no one.

It was what the inhabitants of the Chemain City call a "magnum Santa Barbara day." The sun shone warm and bright and a soft perfumed breeze came out of the west. There was June in the air, although the calendar was set for mid-winter. The birds sang in the trees above them, the squirrels chirped from the bushes, and their horses, wandering at times from the road, sank to the knee in a waving sea of flowers.

"First of all," she said, breaking the silence of a whole minute, "you must tell my father."

"Certainly," said the young man. "You have never seen papa do the role of the cruel parent," said the girl. "He can be quite a dragon. As you are a kinsman, however—"

"A kinsman!" cried the young man, with a laugh.

"Well, fifth cousins are better than nothing, aren't they?"

"Truly, how else should we be here today?" Then the young man added with peculiar and significant emphasis, "I am inclined to pride myself on that little scheme."

The girl brought her horse to a sudden stop and turned her clear brown eyes half-closed under their long lashes upon her companion.

"That little scheme," she repeated slowly, "I don't understand."

The young man laughed merrily. "Why, Catherine," said he, "you don't mean that you have believed in the interesting fiction about our great-great-grandfather?"

"Old Ebenezer Strong," exclaimed the girl. "How dare you call him so! When I saw his portrait at my own grandfather's."

"As your ancestor, my dear one, he is an undoubted reality, but as mine, I regret to say, he is merely a figment of your worthy father's imagination. In short, I would fain break it to you as gently as possible—yes not fitfully at all, but just plain for-

"Not fifth cousins!"

"My darling, and if you are going to take leave of this world with your head right here on my shoulder."

"I won't. Watch me, how could you possibly pose game?"

"I didn't calculate him. He deserved himself. From the very beginning of our acquaintance he seemed determined to locate me somewhere on the Weston family tree, and you, affed, and shelter him in the meantime."

"Richard Strong, how can you?"

"I have a sweet and gentle disposition, and when he asked me if I was not descended from Ebenezer Strong of West Brighton, Ontario, and you judged at me so appealingly—"

"I didn't say much thing."

"Why shouldn't I? I ascent? I have dubious but several hundred ancestors named Strong, and I took chances that some one of them related to the lawn, and they were well into town before they were discovered.

Then, fearful of observation, they sped off homeward.

They turned into State street, and stopped at the postoffice, the morning mail having constituted the chief cause for the trip to town. Richard Strong dismounted, and presently appeared with a letter in his hand.

"None for you," he said. "This is for me, from the governor. I'll wager he has something in it about cousins."

"Let me see," said the girl, holding out her hand. He tore the letter open and gave it to her. Then he swung himself into his saddle, and they started slowly down the street.

Suddenly the girl gave a faint cry.

"Papa has been writing to him," she explained.

"Writing to him? What for?"

"He has asked him to day as a visit on the score of relationship, and your father—"

"Well?" said the young man, excited.

"He says he will start immediately the next day."

"Let me see the date of the letter to gools." It had been delayed. He must have got hers this morning.

"The train has been in two hours," said, glancing at her watch.

"I must see him immediately," said her companion, nervously turning his horse first one way and then another.

"Who would have dreamed that both the old boys would take that cousinship so seriously?"

"I did," said he, "from the very beginning that it would make trouble some time."

"From the very beginning I repented the young man, pausing in his excitement long enough to note the force of this chance admission. So you acknowledge to you?"

"There is a hotel up the hill," said the girl, suddenly looking up. "We hope the driver can tell us something."

"A long, amby vehicle was passing them on its way up the street. Strong called to the driver, and he stopped.

"Did you bring up tall gentleman this morning with a white mustache and goatee and gold eyeglasses?"

"Yes, sir. Your father, don't you mean?"

The young people exchanged startled glances.

"How did you know?"

"I was waiting for you, sir, as soon as ever we got to the hotel, and when he found you were gone he went and hired a buggy."

"A buggy—what for?"

"He begged the way to Judge Weston's place in the Monticello. He said the judge was a near relative of his."

"Near relative?" repeated the horrified Strong; while his companion turned away her face, although whether to conceal a touch of anguish or a laugh still never known.

"The minutes proceeded on its way."

"We must hurry," said the young man, surging his horse to a canter.

"The less time they have together before explanations are made the better."

"What do you think they will do?" asked the girl.

"I don't dare to think." You see on everything except this family tree business our respective parents are as far apart as civilized human can be. Your father, now, is an elder in the church, while mine has lost all the religion he ever had, and has never recovered from the habit of using swear words acquired during years of service in the regular army."

"O dear! O dear!"

"Then again, Judge Weston is an ardent Republican."

"And is your father a Democrat?"

"Worse than that—he is a Multivamp."

"How interesting! I have always longed to see one of them."

"And my father believes that Iagon wrote Shakespeare's plays."

"Heavenly! Let us ride faster. Papa will have seen him before we get there."

"Really, Catherine," said the young man, when they had slackened their pace to climb the hills, "it would not surprise me if they had positively refused to enter into partnership as father-in-law."

"Never mind, Richard," said the girl smilingly. "Father has never yet refused me anything when my happiness was at stake, as it is now."

Strong slumped his shoulders. "Hilda," he answered, "he is made of that old general, and if he should take it into his head to say so it would be awkward in ways I don't like to mention."

"Never mind," said the girl, smiling.

On a slight knoll surrounded by a grove of live oaks and faced with an avenue of palm trees stood the ample residence of Judge Weston. As the young people came through the gate and entered upon the gravelled roadway they observed two elderly gentlemen emerge from a small forest of rose bushes and start briskly down the path toward them. Presently the shorter of the two took his companion's arm, and they walked along in evident peace and amity.

"They haven't found it out yet," the young man whispered.

Judge Weston assisted his daughter to alight. "Catherine," said he, "this is General Strong, the father of our young friend."

The general bent low in an old-fashioned courtesy, and Miss Catherine instinctively made him a courtesy out of the moment.

"Father!"

"Dick, my dear boy!"

"See here," exclaimed the judge suddenly. "You were mistaken, Richard, in what you told me about old Ebenezer Strong."

The young man braced himself for a struggle.

"And to think, Dick," cried the general reproachfully, "that you never once mentioned to the judge that your great-great grandfather, Hezekiah Strong, married a Weston."

"And that brings us even nearer than we had supposed," added the judge.

"It was stupid of me to forget that," said the young man huskily.

"And now that I have been Miss Catherine," said the general, taking her hand and passing his arm about her waist, "my only regret is that the relationship is not several degrees nearer yet."

"Perhaps it was wrong," he continued, after a moment of reflection, "to play upon that little peculiarity of yours ever to get into his good graces, but you must consider the extraordinary provocation, dear! It seemed like my only chance—are you sorry I took it?"

She looked her answer, but did not speak it, and then, avoiding the hand extended to seize her own, she struck her horse a light blow and dashed down the road.

"She looks even sadder in silence," said the young man.

THEY WRITE MUSIC

NEW YORK WOMEN WHO PROFIT BY MELODY

They are, however, forced by price to use the names of men—men whose compositions would not sell so well otherwise.

(New York Correspondence.)

NEW YORK has an extensive list of women who compose music. This assertion will make the average music dealer or violinist even, for he little knows that he is carrying in stock the compositions of three same composers.

These women writers of music written by a woman?

No, the music dealer would refuse to buy from the publisher anything that bore the name of a woman, but the title page of the music.

The public won't buy music written by women," he says, and the publisher caters to this sentiment. So this simple announcement will be a revelation to many a retail dealer.

The prospective Atlanta (Ga.) exposition, so extensively heralded, will disclose the secret, and it is confidently expected by those having the matter in charge that after the secret is out the existing prejudice will be eliminated.

It was heresy that when a woman writes to the public, a man comes up to her and asks her to make up a name, and then takes the name as though the work had been written by a man. The New Woman has now tired of masquerading under false pretenses and proposes, through the medium of a music room at the Atlanta exposition to show the world her guileless. It has been in buying music.

New York is in the lead. Miss Emma Steinert is the leading name for herself. But at first it was hard work, the usual objection was offered—that is, the dealers stated to her that inability to sell the compositions of a woman-musician.

Miss Steinert, however, has achieved success in musical compositions. She is also a graduate in law, and because of her attainments was requested by the managers of the exposition to take charge of the Law and Music Committee for New York, and she has thrown herself heart and soul into the duties required to be performed.

"When I began the work," says Miss Steinert, "I took the quizzical attitude of I imagined, to find out the names of the women composers of music in New York. I went to the dealers in sheet music. There are 1,000 women composers. If there are 1,000, heard of them, was the invariable answer, but I knew there were many of them. I've found them."

And Mrs. Steinert's apartments at the Berkeley, No. 20 Fifth avenue, bear witness to the truth of her statements.
