

THE NORTHVILLE RECORD.

Vol. XXVII, No. 3.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 30, 1895.

$1.00 per year, in advance.

WHAT IT COST.

Expense incurred on Northville's Water Works System.

UP-TO-DATE IT HAS REACHED $41,891.54.

An Elegant System, but It Cost a Lot of Money.

From the books in the clerk's office, which have just been put in shape and accounts rendered, charged and balanced up for the first time, the exact cost of Northville's great water works system to August 1 is ascertained to be $41,891.54. This in detail was as follows:

Paid for springs	$2,714.08
engineering	159.45
legal expenses	104.50
printing and advtg.	156.00
sanitary expenses	374.72
receiving well	205.00
reservoir and piping	7,153.35
apex with iron pipe	10,657.77
reservoir	29,462.98
pipe line attention	697.00
right of way	697.00

Total $41,891.54.

Up to July 1, there has been received from water takers $1,694.80. The water tapping expenses have been $1,408.72, the receipts for same have been $1,521.00. The bonded debt is $30,000 at 4 per cent held by the Union Trust Co. of Detroit and $8,000 at 4 per cent held by the Northville State Savings bank, the interest on both being $2,180.

It is an elegant system but it has cost the village a good bit of money. Experience, it is said, is a great teacher but also a dear one. Northville has probably in the neighborhood of $15,000 invested in experience, for there is little doubt but what a saving of that amount could be made were it possible to now commence new again and complete the same system. But there is no use in crying over spilled milk. Northville has one of the best water works systems in the world, even though she did go a few thousand above the market price.

THIRD ANNUAL CONVENTION.

The District L. T. L.'s Met in Northville Monday.

About 70 delegates from abroad were in Northville Monday in attendance at the district convention of the L. T. L.'s held at the Baptist church. There were but three companies not represented. The day was pleasant and people of all ages and both sexes were well entertained by the reports of past work and the outlines for the future.

The morning program chiefly consisted of business. After opening with song and prayer, a roll was called that showed an absence of many of the superintendents and officers, some of whom arrived later in the day. The two minute talks by the superintendents were interesting for they brought out the greater works undertaken by the Legionists. Mrs. Steeking of Detroit gave a brief description of a fountain to be erected at the entrance to Belle Isle bridge just in the center of foliage plants. It will cost between three and five thousand dollars and they hope to have it finished by the warm weather of '96. "It is designed," the speaker said, "to give thirsty souls a drink of pure, cold water in the driest place in America—there are three saloons in close proximity." The figure of a little girl holding a cup and the daisies will be the model used.

One lady suggested that our 4th of July games and races be supplanted by a grand temperance jubilee that will leave no wish for greased pigs, tub and sack races and kindred sports. Another proposes to ask for more sermons on temperance and prohibition. A third explained the kindness (?) of a Dearborn congressman who kept a paper signed by ninety-five men and all the women in general, until the vote to allow the bonds of their one bar-keeper was carried.

The election of officers followed: Richard Cudmore of Detroit was re-elected president, and Lattie Colfax of Wyandotte and Harlow Green were elected to the corresponding and recording secretaryships in given order. Miss Learned of Dearborn treasurer.

The afternoon exercises were opened by song and prayer by Mrs. Preston who later in the program gave James Lane Allen's "Two gentlemen from Kentucky" in place of Mr. Arnold's address, he being obliged to be absent on account of sickness. Mrs. Bear of Plymouth sang very sweetly, the solo part of a song in which she was joined by a ringing chorus of fifteen childish voices from the Plymouth L. T. L. The children wriggled through a lesson in parliamentary laws, helped by the seniors who posed as "model class." They have decided that local option does not help temperance. Prohibition is the only cure, and that must come through the ballot.

Mrs. B. R. Green demonstrated by an experiment the presence of from five to eight per cent of alcohol in our harmless (?) root beer, and while it has more poison, authorities were quoted who claimed it to have less of the tonic and helpful properties than hop and malt liquor. Ginger ale was said to be innocuous—"one might drink a barrel," she said, "and not get a teaspoonful of that liquor." President Cudmore made a fine address at the beginning of the evening meeting, and the Misses Millard of Plymouth sang a duet in their usual good form; also Miss Kelleigh delighted the audience by singing a very sweet solo. The prizes offered by the contest for the two best essays on temperance were given to Lorraine Reed and Flora Wilds. The Cooper contest on "Women's suffrage" instead of temperance, the contestants were: Misses May Brazel, Mamie Forsyth, Lottie Elliott, Blanche Cliff, Etta Daugherty, Etta Foster, Gertrude Lawrence and Mrs. Mae Katar. Miss Daugherty won first prize on "Fattie Ryan demands her rights" and Miss Forsyth second on "Why a tax-paying woman believes in equal suffrage."

DEATH OF MRS. RACHEL BEAL.

The Aged Lady Passed Away Monday Morning.

Mrs. Rachel Light-Beal, mother of Francis R. Beal, died at 5:30 o'clock Monday morning, after a long illness. The funeral occurred Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Belding officiating. The interment was in Rural Hill. Mrs. Beal on account of illness had for many years lived a retired life so that her acquaintances were limited in number. Those who did know her held her in high esteem.

The choice remembrance of her many friends in the countless flowers that filled the house of mourning, the tender eulogies, the beautiful music and large attendance of our citizens all bespoke the warm and affectionate place she occupied in the hearts of our people.

Rachel Light was born in the state of Conn. in the year 1816, but at an early age her parents removed to western N. Y. and here for some years near the village of Canadigua. Early in the thirties the family came to Michigan and first settled on the farm now owned by C. M. Thornton.

Mrs. Light taught school in some of the neighboring districts up to the time of her marriage in 1835, to James Beal. Since that date she has resided continuously in this village with the exception of two years, spent in Ypsilanti.

She was the mother of six children: Francis R., Susan L., Alfred N., (who died in 1863), Ellen J., now Mrs. A. G. Wilcox of Cadillac, James M. (who died in 1857) and Alice M., who married N. I. Collins and died in 1892.

Mrs. Beal has been considered an invalid for forty years, but has shown very strong vitality and had nearly reached the age of four score. In her early years she became a member of the Presbyterian church going with the "new school" faction, when that church was organized and remaining with it when the church was re-organized. Her membership must date back nearly, or quite, sixty years.

Suburban News.

Belleville has fifty bicycle manipulators.

The Moroner Observatory has a eleven year old type setter.

Trenton has a Stone Quarry ball club. They are said to be hard hitters.

And now Wyandotte will have a glass bottle factory. A big and keg factory will come next.

Rev. R. H. Beals of Northville will occupy the Baptist pulpit Sunday morning.—Plymouth Mail.

And who pray is Rev. R. H. Beals? After a thirteen week's fight against the ready-print combination the "Northville Observer" will again get back to an eight page edition.

An L. O. P. order is on tap for Wayne and the Review wants to know if a canny or billy goat is required? The one that makes the best butter to be sure.

Plymouth W. C. T. U. people will conduct a daily paper there during the fair. A number of Northville merchants are patrons for the advertising space.

AND TRADE AT PURDY'S.

We are the people that want your trade in Groceries and Provisions, Crockery, Fancy China, Glassware and Lamps.

We are the acknowledged leaders in the above lines and we are hustling to stay there.

Rollin H. Purdy, 88 Main St. Northville.

business man in their local paper.

They'd want something that smart and so they will start a catch-up factory.

Ann Arbor is grasping after yesterday's underwear industry. This is likely to unravel the friendship of the twins which never was very friendly.

Mrs. Bird is a Pontiac milliner. She hasn't got wings however, but here is a tip that she wears hooded sleeves and rides a bicycle. It's a feather in her cap that she has no need for wings.

"Have you observed," said a merchant to a customer, "the handsome advertisements I have just painted on the fence between Milford and—"

"No," the customer said, "but if you will bring the fence to our house I will try to read the announcement. I read the papers but haven't time to read the bill boards."—Milford Times.

Ratz (pronounced rats) is the name of a Brighton business man. Let's see, where have we heard that name before? Ah! we have it—it was when we admired the Novi-Northville game Saturday. Next time people call for you, Mr. Ratz, please stand up and save confusion and dodging on our part.

A Detroit paper mentions a town of 600 inhabitants which has no Afro-American residents, as a curiosity; yet here is Oxford, with 1,200, and not a colored person among them, and nothing curious about it either.—Oxford Review.

And then here's Northville with 2,000 and not a "colored yassa" a resident of the place.

If you want pants see Carpenter & Jacobus and then see their pants.—South Lyon Excelsior.

We don't know so much about Carpenter's, but the last time we saw Jacobus' pants they had two large patches on the chair side, and were blowerly sagged at the knees. No sir, Carpenter & Jacobus' pants have no further attractions for us.

W. H. Grover's ad last week for a good girl, wanted at once, was answered Saturday morning by the appearance of a Miss Grover, weight eight pounds.—Milford Times.

Now we don't know whether this proof of the results of advertising can all be credited to the Times or not. Grover had the same ad in The Record the week previous—except that there was no "at once" to it.

Monroe merchants are after some fellows who are breaking down advertising boards around the country, there and contemplate sickening the law to deal with the Adrian Press facetiously, with truth, remarks: "A merchant of real good sense will do nothing of the kind, but follow his nose to the newspaper office and place his advertisement under the nose of its readers. Did you ever have a newspaper publisher's assistant spit out the boards with stones, or filled with bullets and bird-shot?"

The editor's desk was graced with two lovely bouquets, the gifts of Miss Clara Pelland and Mrs. Millard, for which we are truly thankful.—Plymouth Mail.

Yes, this is the way things are this, just as quick as Mrs. Gray goes to the seaside for a few weeks a lot of the best looking Plymouth ladies fall over each other in an endeavor to get lovely bouquets on the Mail editor's desk.

Form A, youngest daughter of J. H. Clark of Merrill, formerly of this place, died on the 10th inst. She was six years old. Although a little less than six years of age, she had won by her sweet, innocent ways, many warm friendships. In fact, none knew her but to love her."

The Northville-Salem ball game here Tuesday was exceptionally good. The feature of game was the fine pitching of Burgess and the long 3-bagger by Yerkes. The Northville pitchers struck out 19 men, the Salem man 8. Mr. Jaquess acted as umpire and did it very satisfactorily. Score: Northville 5 6 1 3 1 0 2 16 12 6. Salem 0 2 1 0 3 1 0 1 6 8 10.

Jas. Taylor of Novi with John Parmenter of this place applied to Justice Webster Wednesday morning for a warrant for Frank Touss, a former resident of this place. Touss has been boarding at Taylor's house and is said to have stolen a mortgage and a deed Tuesday morning from Taylor and a coat and vest belonging to Parmenter. Touss' home is near Lansing. The justice referred them to an Oakland county court for their warrant, it being out of his jurisdiction.

In speaking of the organization of a branch of the Granite State Loan and Building Association here last week we should have added that upon application to the home office a charter was issued. And now with this branch at Northville one of the strongest local organizations in this part of the state has been completed. It is to be hoped all the subscribers will take an active interest in the enterprise that the distinction it now enjoys may be maintained. All payments of dues should be made to the Northville state savings bank.

The marshal arrested Jap Elliott at Mrs. Safford's house Saturday night for being drunk and disorderly. Before Justice Webster Monday morning he pleaded not guilty and gave $100 bail to appear for trial at nine o'clock this morning. A warrant was also issued for Mrs. Safford, but as yet she has not been apprehended. When in his right mind Jap is a skilled engineer and mechanic, but a little booze makes him very hilarious. The neighbors say that on this occasion the yelling and tearing around was enough to waken the dead.

The Novi-Northville ball game here Saturday was a really enjoyable affair. The crowd was enthusiastic if not large and what was lacking in numbers was made up in fun. Northville was short several players for one cause or another and had to put in substitutes to an alarming extent. Lewis was put in the box for Northville but the Oakland countryites pounded out eleven runs on him up to the seventh inning—five of which were made however in the 7th after three men were really out but by an erroneous decision of the umpire—Seal was the man—the Northvillians were compelled to put out four men. Burgess was put in the last inning and the Novis only made one run off of him. For Novi, Thornton pitched a good game, but was poorly supported in the field. He struck out eleven of the Northville players however which stopped much of their run getting. Archer caught for Northville and Brown for Novi. The game was very friendly throughout and there was just enough kicking to make things interesting. The score by innings was:

2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
Novi 4 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 12
Northville 3 4 2 2 1 0 0 0 15

Mr. Neeland's little boy fell into a cistern last week but was rescued with little damage besides the involuntary bath. After being pulled out with a rope the little fellow laughed for a long time over what he considered a huge joke.

Win. Heuty of Meads Mills was in the police court Wednesday morning on charge of assault and battery preferred by Duane Taylor of the same place. He was fined $1.00 and costs. The impression in the neighborhood, and among the throwers, where the difficulty occurred, is that Taylor didn't get half what he deserved.

Two rich games are thus promised and they will doubtless be witnessed as they should be, by a large crowd of people. Farmington will come over en masse the following Friday for a return game.

Communion services at the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning. Topic, A bunch of grapes. Evening topic, A glimpse beyond the gates. This will be Mr. Hollis' farewell sermon, although he will not leave Northville momentarily. It will commemorate two and one half years of work here, the first year being the most successful in the history of the church for twenty years. Reports first of kind given the Northville church in the phenomenal position of 3rd in the presidency of Detroit—the Trumble Avenue church and the Westminster only having secured a larger membership on professional faith. The gifts to the various church boards have been commensurate with the increase of membership.

It is noticed that some of our dealers are violating the law by not labeling cans of gasoline with the proper tag. What game very near being serious accidents in several cases lately have been averted only by chance on the part of the consumer. In such cases the gasoline was put in kerosene cans without labels. Following is the law: "Every druggist, grocer or other person who shall sell and deliver at retail any gasoline, benzine or kerosene, without having the true name thereof, and the words 'explosive when mixed with air' plainly printed upon a label securely attached to the can, bottle or other vessel containing the same, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars." These labels furnished by The Record Printery postpaid for 25c per hundred.

As briefly noted last week James Slocum has sold his Holly Advertiser plant. Slocum was, among the latter part, one of the most popular newspaper men in the state and there are, possibly with two exceptions, none but whom will regret his departure from the newspaper field. One of the best known and most successful business men and manufacturers in Michigan once said to The Record, "Holly is a dead, dead town with but one live thing in it and that is Jim Slocum." Certainly it is that, he has done more to advance its interests than any other fifty men there and yet neither he nor his work was ever fully appreciated, and there was always just enough fighting and kicking against him to make life unpleasant. Slocum always came out best however and kept what was his. Publishing one of the best papers in the state. He is at the head of the Brewster Mfg. Co. and will hereafter give his entire attention to their business. No one will be surprised if in the near future he moves his entire business to Flint or Northville, and then perhaps Holly people will wake up to find they have, by their half hearted support, lost a factory as well as a hustling citizen.

ELL, old fellow, I wish you were here," said Huntly Johnson, when his friend Dick Beaufort after the fashion of the newly-accepted lover, had finished a panegyric in praise of his lady-love.

Dick Beaufort and Huntly Johnson were bosom friends; and young Beaufort, who had just returned from the city, had a great deal to say on a serious quarter.

"Don't you think she is quite the loveliest girl in London, Huntly?" concluded Beaufort, ardently.

"Yes, old man," replied his friend; "I think she is much better looking than that celebrated actress, Kitty Hay, though, whom you—well, were rather sweet on, don't you know?"

"I certainly did make a fool of myself over that girl, but that was some time ago. I hope Dorothy has never heard about it. You know she is just a little more jealous than Dick Beaufort, a little more so."

"Yes, I think she is rather jealous," said his friend.

"How in the world do you know anything about it, old chap?" said Beaufort, rather surprised.

"I have heard from her father gone on her fourth birthday, and in fact, that you proposed to her."

"Perhaps I did," said Johnson, starting back at the telling.

"Well, I'm going out this evening. Sorry I can't take you to come with me. Hope you'll enjoy yourself, old man. I'll be sure to say a word for you when I'm writing to you again."

"I know where you are going, at any rate, it is nowhere where an old bachelor like myself is wanted."

"The door banged, and Huntly Johnson was left alone, with his thoughts which were not of the most pleasing character.

"So she has jilted me and accepted Dick Beaufort, has she?" soliloquized the young man. "Well, I always thought that I was rather more of a favorite with the girls than Dick Beaufort, and he is so handsome and intelligent for something, and he has pandered his face to a doctor and dicker. No, he suddenly shouted, "he shall marry her, though he is his greatest friend. God knows I love her more than I do Dick. But how can I prevent it?" He thought again for some time, and then murmured to himself, softly, "I know. What is the good of the hobby if one does not use it for practical purposes?"

It thus, he was explained that Huntly Johnson was an exceedingly successful amateur photographer, and he had been called in the phraseology of the photographer "doubtful printing." This consisted in printing different pictures on the same piece of paper by using two distinct negatives. Now, Huntly Johnson had taken a snap-shot of Dick Beaufort kissing his sister some time back, which Miss Parquhar had not seen; he had also taken a photo of Kitty Hawthorne.

He now prepared to print Kitty Hawthorne's face instead of Miss Parquhar's into the photograph, and as the girls were of similar size and build, the photograph would appear to represent Dick embracing Kitty Hawthorne. If Dorothy were to see this photograph, Johnson reflected that she would probably break off her engagement with Dick Beaufort immediately, especially as the photograph would be carefully dated some days after her betrothal. It was a mean trick to play any man, and Huntly Johnson felt more than ever ashamed of himself for acting in such a dishonorable manner toward his old friend. But he was of a very firm nature, and had determined that by fair means or foul he would prevent the marriage.

The next morning Johnson went to his dark-room, and, bringing out the negative, succeeded, by means of the process before described, in producing the desired result. He chuckled to himself when he thought of the effect which it would have on Dorothy Parquhar, but his pleasure was considerably lessened when he pictured to himself the pain which he would cause a friend who had always acted nobly toward him.

As Dick Beaufort was not out that evening, Johnson asked him, if he thought Miss Parquhar would care to come in on a certain date which he mentioned and look over some photos which he had taken lately. Dick Beaufort knew that Dorothy, who took what is called a "sisterly interest" in Huntly Johnson, would be pleased to come, especially as she took a great interest in photography herself, so he replied, "Certainly, old fellow, I'll give her your messages. I'm sure that there are no doubt you two will be quite interested discussing photography."

Johnson thought it just as well that Dick should be out on that particular date, and he quite agreed with his friend that Dorothy Parquhar and he would be very much interested, perhaps painfully so as to one party.

Huntly Johnson had all his latest photographs in readiness on the day in question, and as he heard the knock at the door, which announced Miss Parquhar's arrival, he placed a certain photograph on the table in a fairly conspicuous place.

Johnson forgot all about Dick and the sassy trick he was playing him as he talked to this charming girl. "What lovely photographs you take, Mr. Johnson. I really think they are better than those of many professional photographers."

CHARACTERISTIC SKETCH OF POULTNEY BIGELOW.

When a Boy He Played with the Present Emperor of Germany—Now Writing a History of the Empire—A Great Traveler.

Copyright, 1904, by H. B. S. P. Co., New York.

POULTNEY BIGELOW, the son of an American, and that word is beginning to be used in all the newspapers, is a man who has been in the goal of the destinies of this republic. He has the additional claim of a boyhood in New England, and his father, John Bigelow, who is his father, Bigelow himself, will no doubt be highly offended when I call him a cosmopolitan, or a citizen of the world, but still that will not invalidate his claim as to the fact of his Americanism. I shall so describe him; and after all, it is much more difficult to be a cosmopolitan than an American, or any other person with one language, one set of prejudices, and one set of habits, for getting his breakfast. The reason why I am asked to write about Mr. Bigelow is that I do not know him. It was in 1870, when I was the editor of the Tale Courier, I had such aspirations as an artist, and I discovered that he would print one of my pictures, which he did. I then came to the point of the small discovery of Mr. Bigelow, and also I am glad to say that I made a real discovery some years later, when he published some more of my pictures in his magazine, Outing. He signed against the public, and cannot expect to divide the responsibility.

This sketch is supposed to be a biography of a man, but I think it is a biography of one thing, the subject of them until they are about roughly speaking—a hundred years out of print. There are exceptions to this rule, but I do not think Bigelow would advance any claims. In order to progress I must say he was born in 1833, and he himself began to be interested in what was going on in the world when he found himself in Paris, at the age of five years, where he had been taken by his father, who was an American minister. He was there for seven years, and absorbed his French through his skin. His French to this day is not off the tongue, and he is a man who has been in the goal of the destinies of this republic. He has the additional claim of a boyhood in New England, and his father, John Bigelow, who is his father, Bigelow himself, will no doubt be highly offended when I call him a cosmopolitan, or a citizen of the world, but still that will not invalidate his claim as to the fact of his Americanism. WHERE THE BALL WENT.

Lost Sphere in a Cricket Match Found in a Spectator's Pocket.

Cricket balls have been lost in many various ways, such as by being struck into a passing train, into a crowd, and other birds nesting down chimneys and steeples, and it is likely that last Saturday's loss of a more instance to this class of singular events, says the Leeds (Eng.) Mercury, in view of their own ground, were playing Wisden—the leaders in the West-Bradford league, and when J. Smith (nick) of the latter team was in the struck, a ball to square leg. The ball went to the boundary, passing under a seat which was filled by spectators. Seeing that it was a boundary hit, the spectators began to look for the ball, but they could not find it. Then some of the cricketers joined in the search, but the ball could not be seen, though they made a close scrutiny of all the holes in the wall, but which it was wittily suggested they should send a fiver eventually the search was abandoned. A fresh ball was secured, and the match continued, when it had been in progress for some time, some of the spectators who were seated near the place where the ball was lost suggested that they should all feel in their pockets and see if it was in any of them. This they did, and singular to say, it was found in the side pocket of a gentleman wearing a jacket whose pockets had frequently carried small birds that he had shot with his gun. Evidently the ball had run up the wall behind the seat, and a small projecting stone had then caused it to drop downward into the gentleman's pocket, and he, being seated, had never felt the extra weight, as his pocket rested on the seat.

TO HEAR THE TELEPHONE.

Manager Fowler of the Telephone Exchange, Ashland, Ky., has devised an ingenious attachment for telephones, to be used in factories and shops where the amount of noise makes it almost impossible to hear the call bell of the instrument. It consists of a steam whistle, which is turned on by means of a lever operated by magnetism. When the instrument is called from the exchange the bell rings as usual, and by the electric current passing through a magnet, a weight is raised which pulls the lever to stop the whistle. Once started, the whistle keeps up its shrill note until some has answered the call and turns off the steam, which is done by simply replacing the weight. One of these attachments is being placed at the local steel plant, another at the laundry, and several more will probably be installed in sawmills and similar establishments.

Mrs. Mary Stevenson and son James of Chicago spent last week with friends and relatives here.
Mrs. D. A. Fuller and Mrs. Della Hurmon spent last week Thursday with Wixom friends.
The ladies of the Methodist church will give an ice cream social on Philip McCrumb's lawn Sat. evening.

Mrs. Willard Arms and daughter Eva, who have been spending some time with friends in Novi and Northville, returned to their home in Southville Saturday.
Miss Kate Perrigo has returned to her home in Detroit after a four months stay at Wixom. She expects to attend a business college during the fall and winter.
A Wayne gentleman recently entertained his grand-children on his 72nd birthday by standing on his head in a fashion that would have done credit to a professional acrobat. Fact.
In handling items for publication, please bear in mind that such items should be in our hands not later than Tuesday afternoon. Anything of importance may be handled in Wednesday.
About 21 young people from Ann Arbor have been camping near Walled Lake. There is a rumor that that a large tourists hotel is to be erected on the east shore of the lake the coming season. If such is the case, Walled Lake will, in a very few years, become a leading resort.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Harmon have been enjoying a week's visit from Mrs. George Lawther and two little daughters of Chicago. Mrs. Lawther left Tuesday afternoon for Wayne, where she will spend some time with her mother Mrs. Miller, before returning home.
It is reported that a syndicate of hardware men has been formed which will have 400,000 bicycles built this winter, ready to put on the market next spring at $50 retail. It is further reported that a Buffalo firm has taken the contract to build 5,000 of the wheels and will turn out 100 per day, the contract price to be $16.50 each.
Dr. Wiggins completed the little bridge of the right hand at the knuckle joint for Martin Hultz, who was recently injured by a pressure powder blast on his arm. Martin considers himself very fortunate in not having lost his life. He sat astride the rock he had drilled and boomed and was put, thing in the last of the wedding with a iron, when the discharge occurred, blowing the rock to pieces.
The young people will hang up their prayer-reading hour on Tuesday evening, September 16, and give a "red, white and blue social" after which a beautiful supper will be served. Every lady will please bring two of the smallest sized flags, and the boys be prepared to find their partners by buying a flag, 50c per pair. Let every one turn out, and thus encourage the young people. Entertainment free. A committee has also been appointed to entertain basket young men.
We must once more call attention to the fact that The Record has several Novi correspondents and would ask as a personal favor that if you see anything in the paper you don't like you will lay it to the other fellow, or go for the editor. The latter gentleman is used to it and—apparently—rather likes it. Although he doesn't look very aggressive he is well armed. The tongue is mightier than the club—sometimes. (If you want any help Mr. Editor in consequence of this item, do not hesitate to call on your Novi correspondent. "Come one come all" etc.)
Miss McCrumb soon goes to confer with the board and understand that the desire of a change of location. The Methodist church of Novi ought to endeavor to become a part of Farmington charge, and then petition the conference to allow Rev. Mr. Allen to remain on the Farmington charge. Rev. McIntosh has given excellent satisfaction with the possible exception of two or three members of his church who would find fault with the Saviour, were he here to preach to them. The church would probably do a wise thing if the names of those members were stricken from its books.

Mr. and Mrs. Cal Stevens helped to swell the crowd at Whitmore lake Saturday.
J. Pawles and family attended the annual gathering at Walled Lake of the Hazen and Greer families Tuesday.
School begins next Monday and the house has been so well repaired that both teachers and pupils will feel as though they had moved into new quarters.

Several from here were among the great number of those who gathered at the home of the late Mrs. J. Wilcox last Sabbath to pay their last tribute of respect to that estimable woman.
Some misanthrop visited P. Hanson's mill; pelted a few nights ago, plugging the largest melon and then left Peter ought to have happened that way just then and treated them to suit or beans.

The following is going the rounds of the press and is applicable to almost any community. "When your neighbor requests the loan of your paper, just ask him why he does not subscribe for himself. You are generous enough and public-spirited enough to take your home paper, while he would cheat the public and wrong you by keeping his dollar in his pocket and making you pay for his reading. Give him the reply given by a friend of ours a few weeks ago. He was asked for his local paper shortly after receiving it out of the post office and promptly asked the man why he did not subscribe for it. "Oh, it wouldn't do me any good to take it" was his reply. "Then it wouldn't do you any good to read it, and you can't have it," was the prompt rejoinder. If all the borrowers were treated in like manner publishers could give better value to those who do pay."
