A BACK BLOW.

The Weapon Small—but None More Certain & Effective.

In these times when backs are lame, when most every other one we meet has now and then, or all the time, a back that aches or pains—"a weak back," "a bad back," a back that makes their life a misery to bear—and still they go on day by day in pain and suffering. Now 'tis the easiest thing in the world to give this play out back "a blow" that will settle it, and put in its place a new one equal to any. It's just like this: but at the same time, most backaches come from kidney disorders. Reach the kidneys, start their clogged-up fibers in operation; when this is done you say good-bye to backache. Here is a case from Little Creek: Mr. Joshua M. Shoup lives at 51 Broad Street, as a member of the Battle Creek police force for many years. As a member of the force he served the city well, but the rough service he was often subjected to laid the foundation of kidney disorder, which has troubled him very much. Here is what he says about it:

"About three years ago, while on the police force, I contracted from exposure a kidney trouble, which has since given me no end of trouble. The pain was right through my kidneys and across the small of my back; if sitting down and I wanted to stand up, I had to rise very slowly and gently to avoid increasing the pain; I had such tired-out feelings all the time, and I was steadily getting worse. About two months ago, hearing of Doug's 'Kidney Pills,' I got a box. Their action and effect was most complete; they removed the old aching pains for good. I can now get around as quickly as anybody. Doug's Kidney Pills are certainly as represented."

Suburban News.

A whooping-cough epidemic is prevalent in Plymouth and the Mail advocates quarantine at the beginning of school.

The Fenton Independent is crowing over a nest left at the office which was two feet long. That's nothing, a total 6 foot long left this office recently, for $2.00.

Editor Fitch has sold an interest in the Pontiac Post to Henry Coleman formerly of St. Johns. The new publishing firm will be Fitch & Coleman.

The Orion Intercis serpent was seen again last week for the first time this season. Business in the way of summer resorters has evidently commenced dropping off at Orion.

The Fowlerville Observer observes that it has moved to the terra firma too where it will be more convenient for customers to get at them. Generally an editor dreads just such a convenience.

Dashing, pretty, Missford lady cyclists to the number of half a dozen have at last braved the storm, or calm, of public opinion and donned bloomers. They made their first trip one evening last week soon after the sun had sank to rest behind the distant hills. The girls say they had a delightful time and only got frightened once, and that was when they first saw the men in the moon gazing at them. For some reason the Times failed to record the innovation.

The Wayne Review does hard. It still continues to tell how Umpire Carmichael decided the recent Northville-Wayne ball game 9 to 0 in favor of Wayne. We don't know how he decided it, but we do know how Carmichael doesn't know any more about umpiring a ball game than the writer of this column does, and his ability perhaps is best shown by the fact that during a game two weeks ago when the writer umpired here he was jumped on by both clubs and five hundred spectators and chased up through the fields into the huckleberry swamps. Carmichael should have felt the same fate.

The Visitor regrets to cause jealousy on the part of its contemporaries, but really feels a strong desire to acknowledge the present of a basket of the finest vegetables of the season from Mrs. Rose. We will refrain, however, from giving the size of the tomatoes lest they accuse us of exaggeration. Would also like to mention the beautiful bouquets received from Messmes Benoit, Hammell, and Sanders but judging from the comments of some of our exchanges with the fine chickens sent us recently, will say no more as the green-eyed monster may again take possession of their souls.—Trenton Visitor.

And this leads us to ask whether the climate around Trenton is productive of such generosity on the part of the people or is the good looking lady editor the lone stone which draws in the vegetables and poster.

THE NORTHVILLE RECORD.

SUPPLEMENT.

FRIDAY SEPTEMBER 6, 1895.

SALEM

The Sabbath school at Peck's Corner is depicted at Whitmore lake Wednesday.

Mr. H. H. Thayer entertained his Sabbath school class at his home Saturday afternoon.

D. T. Walker who has been on the sick list most of the time the past week is now convalescent.

In the case of Wm. D. VanSickle there are no symptoms that give his friends occasion to hope for improvement.

Chas. H. Colborn and George W. Miller took the Paines' excursion train here last week Thursday morning returning Monday evening.

Mrs. N. E. Rider returned from her visit to her daughter in law, Mrs. W. Rider of Grand Rapids on Friday leaving her in very poor health.

Mrs. W. H. Shumard with her three children returned from her visit to her parents near Kingston, Ont. The youngest daughter is much improved in health.

Miss McCormick of Bullock's Corner has been engaged to teach the fall term of school at the brick school house east of here. The term commenced Monday.

In the question of allowing Ambrose and family to leave the community, was submitted to a vote of their neighbor they would hear a most sympathetic and unanimous No. What will be Soden's loss, however, will be the kin of the community to which they removal.

Married at the home of the bride on Wednesday evening, by Rev. W. H. Shumard, adult only child of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Turner, and Dr. Geo. A. Waterman, one of the faculty of the Connecticut Agricultural College. The Record man extends his hearty congratulations to these highly prized young friends and bespeaks for them many years of happiness and usefulness.

Notwithstanding the heavy shower Tuesday morning Aug. 24, a large delegation of Salem people were at the other's picnic at Whitmore Lake. A light rain was preferable to the intense heat that had been flying for the two weeks. The people from all quarters were a little delayed by the weather, but by two o'clock the late crowd that usually gathers on occasions had convened. No part of the Salem Record man to detailed report of the exercises do justice to those taking part.

DRUGGIST.

Music of high order was furnished by a troupe of singers from Hamburg under the direction of Mr. Irving Hall of that village. The address of welcome by president G. Waldron was emphatically a welcome to the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

Senator from Palmer and Hon. Wm. A. Moore, each gave brief but enterprising addresses—attacking and some what the free silver sentiments of President Waldron. They were followed by a catholic father who was present with what was pronounced the most effective address of the day.

By the way, if all the clergymen in the country had been present, they might have taken points from this father's prayer of the evening. It was really a model of brevity and good sense. He invoked the blessing of God on the assemblage and prayed that hearts might be made susceptible to the influences of the truth and then said—

"He deserved an apology and only for the impropriety of the thing would no doubt have had it. Remarks were also made by Hon. Wm. Battie, Hamburg, and Dr. Augustus Peters of Solo.

see what anyone will gain if the license for street hawking is reduced from $5.00. Peddlers are just as plentiful at $5.00 as they were at $2.00, or as they would be if there no license, and prices charged for their goods would be no less. This license of $5.00 helps to pay every man's tax in the village and therefore the people will be the losers by a reduced license instead of gainers. Here is a case where the tariff is not a tax—the peddler pays it instead of the consumer—and the peddler does not object to pay it. If it can be shown that under a low license, or tariff, the consumer can buy cheaper, then we are bound to give it, but these matters and figures are important matters of news and this is the first time the people have been able to get hold of them.

water takers to July 1 was given as $1,091.99 but operating expenses to same date of about $300, not including repairs and extinctions, was omitted. Of course there's a fire protection value to be considered in addition to these figures. No one should for a moment think that The Record is finding fault with the water works system, or expressing a regret that we have it, but these matters and figures are important matters of news and this is the first time the people have been able to get hold of them.

ND TO COME!

An editor dreads just such a convenience.

Dashing, pretty, Milford lady cyclists to the number of half a dozen have at last braved the storm, or calm, of public opinion and donned bloomers. They made their first trip one evening last week soon after the sun had sunk to rest behind the distant hills. The girls say they had a delightful time and only got frightened once, and that was when they first saw the man in the moon gazing at them. For some reason the Times failed to record the innovation.

The Wayne Review dies hard. It still continues to tell how Umpire Carmichael decided the recent Northville-Wayne ball game 9 to 6 in favor of Wayne. We don't know how he decided it, but we do know that Carmichael doesn't know any more about umpiring a ball game than the writer of this column does, and his ability perhaps is best shown by the fact that during a game two weeks ago when the writer, umpired here, he was jumped on by both clubs and five hundred spectators and chased up through the fields into the buckle-beary swamps. Carmichael should have met the same fate.

The Visitor regrets to cause jealousy on the part of its contemporaries, but really feels a strong desire to acknowledge the present of a basket of the finest vegetables of the season from Mrs. Rice. We will refrain, however, from giving the size of the tomatoes lest they accuse us of exaggeration. Would also like to mention the beautiful bouquets received from Madames Benoit, Hammell, and Sanders, but judging from the comments of some of our exchanges on the fine chickens sent us recently, will say no more as the green-eyed monster may again take possession of their souls—Trenton Visitor.

And this leads us to ask whether the climate around Trenton is productive of such generosity on the part of the people or is the good-looking lady editor the lodestone which draws in the vegetables and posies.

MICHIGAN MENTION

BRIEF ITEMS ABOUT MICHIGAN PEOPLE AND THINGS.

A strong effort being made to secure pardons for the Molitor murderers. The inclinations against ex-Army General Ellis.

Molitor Murderers May be Pardoned.

An attempt is being made to secure the pardon of the alleged Molitor murderers, who were sentenced from Allegan county last year to Jackson prison for life. The prisoners are August Grosman, August Fehrmann, Henry Jacobs, Carl Vogeler and William Reiske. It will be remembered that these men were convicted of killing Albert Molitor at Rogers City on the night of August 25, 1875, and it was principally on the confession of Wm. Reiske who, after nearly 20 years says that his conscience troubled him that the confessions were secured from him, makes it difficult that the evidence he gave was false. He further represents that he was induced to swear falsely upon the trial upon the assurance that by doing so it would free himself. He further says that at the time of the first confession he was interrogated and afterward de-serted to withdraw his confession, but was not allowed to do so.

In the case of Henry Jacobs, the defense attempted to prove an alibi for the trial. It was shown that the wife of the accused gave birth to a child on August 25, 1874, two days after the murder of Molitor, and that for several days previous thereto Jacobs had been detained at home by his wife's illness.

Attorney-General Ellis was conducting the prosecution and it is now alleged that he controverted this testimony in Jacobs' defense by sharp practice. During the closing hours of the trial he introduced a certified copy of the coroner's record which showed that the child was born in 1876, a year after the "murder." But now Joseph Smith, ex-county clerk, avers amidst that there was an error of the birth of the child for both 1875 and 1876, but the church records and the testimony of the neighbors show that the latter date was erroneous. Nevertheless, Ellis directed Smith to make a certified copy of the latter entry and return the record to Rogers City. This prevented the defense from meeting this evidence before the close of the trial.

Four Drowned in the River.

Frank Ursch, his sister-in-law Mrs. Michael Druey, and Misses Sophie Chonat, Minnie Schoenhardt and Edith Conner were picnicking on Star Island, near Muskegon, in St. Croix River. They saw a storm coming up and started to row home, but when within 500 feet of the shore a small capsized the boat. Frank Ursch was a good swimmer and he managed to get the women all to the overturned boat, but instead of holding on to it they began to float. He held them up with one hand and held hold of the boat with the other until one of the women grabbed the hand on the boat, all four went down and were drowned. The schoolgirl bravely clung to the boat, and was rescued later by some boys. Miss Ursch leaves a husband and two small children. The two young ladies were about 20 years of age.

Michigan Grand Templars.

The grand lodge of Michigan of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows met at Stanton. The grand secretary reported the present membership as 6,500, a decrease of 412 since July 1, 1894. There are now 16 lodges in the state, a decrease of 6. During the year 29 lodges have been instituted and reorganized, six charters surrendered and 88 charters forged. Only about one-fourth as many lodges have been organized during the last year. Another cause of loss is hard times.

There appears to be a general falling off in interest in temperance matters. The officers of the grand lodge however, think that this fall is only temporary. The grand treasurer reports total receipts of $4,236.68; orders paid, $2,600; over draft, $8,91.

An Auto for Smalley-Bat Tie Too Late.

Mrs. John Smalley, wife of the man who was shot and killed at McRae's by two deputy sheriffs on the suspicion that he was one of the C. & W. N. train robbers and murderer of Detective Powers at Grand Rapids, has received a letter from J. C. Anderson, of Clinton, who says that Smalley was at Brinton on the night of the train robbery and also on the night of the murder of Detective Powers. S. E. Eye, a notary public of Brinton, gives confirmation of this and has affidavits proving that Smalley was visiting relatives and friends at Brinton, 75 miles from the scene of the train robbery and the murder of Detective Powers during the time of these occurrences.

Dreadful Murder and Suicide.

Mrs. John Wilson, wife of a hack driver at Battle Creek, left her husband because he did not support her. Wilson several times threatened her life if she did not return, and finally he went to the house of Lee Price, where she had rented rooms, and tried to shoot her. Wilson pulled a revolver, but his wife grabbed the weapon and threw it through a window. The enraged man then caught her by the hair and dragged her down the stairs and into the yard where he found the revolver. The woman broke away, but as she ran Wilson fired and the shot struck her behind the left ear and caused her to fall out of her eye. He then put the revolver to his temple and fired, killing himself instantly. Mrs. Wilson was taken to the hospital, but she cannot recover.

Dangerous Forest Fires.

A "600" special says: The city and river are obscured by smoke, and dangerous forest fires are raging between here and Waikiki Bay. The fire is about four miles wide. Ashes are falling in the city. Farm houses and settlements are in danger and considerable lack of progress has already resulted. It is very dry. Navigation on the river is made difficult.

Three furnaces in the Cabinet & Steel factories at South Lake Linden have been fired up after several months. There is a heavy demand for timber and warrants resumption.

TROOPS AT ISHPENING.

Men at Work on the Steam Shovels at the Mine Strike Very Suite.

In response to requisitions from both Sheriff and of Muskegon county, and Mayor Johnson of Ishpeming, Gov. Kiel ordered the companies of the Fifth regiment, Michigan National Guard, located at Houghton, Calumet, Ironwood and Marquette, to report to Col. Lyon of the Fifth at Ishpeming at once. Assistant Quartermaster General Avery left immediately with necessary camp equipage and 1,000 rounds of ammunition. The first and third divisions of the Michigan Naval militia, located at Marquette, were also ordered to be in readiness, with their battalions and ramrods guns to proceed to Ishpeming on short notice.

The cause of all of this military gathering was for the purpose of protecting the men and property at the mines at Ishpeming, it having been decided to start the steam shovels at the mines. The mining companies had asked their men to report for work, but they refused and when the companies announced that they would start the shovels with other help the strikers became very threatening.

Clark Sherrard of Corwin bought a cable from Foo Chow, China, says the commission of inquiry into the Hwang-ho massacre sitting at Kiachang progresses slowly. Over 100 arrests have been made. There have been 12 capital convictions. The victory rewards the work, refusing to give the perfect discretion. The intention is to exhaust the patience of the commissioners. At the present time trials will require a year. The imperial court issued commanding severe measures in a strict blind.

Nielsdal Hot Spring attacked the Christians, wounded four and destroyed horses. The dangerous situation is the result of the magistrate, who issued proclamations slandering the Christians. Unless America can be induced to take vigorous measures it is feared that there will be general fighting.

British weakness encourages the Chinese. The American government is the only hope. Consul Thos. C. Hartson is energetic. All the Americans have arrived at Foo Chow.

San Francisco Chester Holcomb, who had been returned from China after 20 years, is in the American legation. He says the Chinese are responsible for the recent Chinese-Japanese war. He says the whole mass of Chinese are disappointed with the result of the war and are taking revenge on all the foreigners whom they can kill with impunity.

The Chinese armies were disbanded wherever they happened to be at the close of the war and this only aggravated the situation, throwing hundreds of soldiers upon their own resources and thus readily fall into robbery, arson and murder. Mr. Holcomb predicts an early war between Japan and Russia and says that the latter is taking every opportunity to aggravate the Japanese.

Anna Schulz, aged 18, was seized by two men as she was going to work at 5 in the morning. They beat her in a buggy and prevented her from crying out while they drove rapidly towards the country. After they had driven some distance the girl managed to break loose and leaped from the buggy. Her screams then brought Thor Wilson to her rescue, but the fellow knocked him down and escaped in the buggy, leaving him and the girl alone. Miss Schulz was prostrated by the shock.

Mrs. Mary Ann Bush died at the home of her daughter, at Noel, aged 112 years and two months. She was one-fourth tall, weighed much, seldom used spectacles, had black hair and was dressed intelligently. On her last birthday there were gathered about her Mrs. Alice Sage, daughter, aged 65; Mrs. Robert, grandmother, aged 90; Mrs. F. H. Manley, great grandmother, aged 95; and Miss Maude F. Manley, great, great grandmother, aged 12. Mrs. Bush was the oldest Mason's widow in the world.

IN FLUSH TIMES.

THE OLD CATTIE man leaned back in his chair and poised between scowling fingers the last chapters of a cigar.

"No son, I never did no killin' myself but I've stood round and faced folks yet checked clear through which is more profitable. I calls to mind a killin' down to old like Stockton."

"There was big crowd at Stockton's that June day. The corral was full of pack mules, an' bull teams, an' wagons, traits from the east, an' white men, Mexicans, half-breeds, an' Indians was a-micin' an' meanderin' round, al' them an' a laughin', an' drinkin' al' the whisky mighty profuse. Four or five mule-skinners had their long, timber 16-foot whips, which are loaded with dust shot from butt to tip, an' was crackin' of em' at a mark. I've seen one of em' with the most easy, delicate, deliberate twist of the wrist make his whip sound in the air like a hurt snake an' all its worst straighten it out with the crack of twenty rifles, an' the buckskin copper would cut a hole in a loose Buffalo robe he'd hung up an' without investin' two courses of actual strength. Seven of us was a-lookin' on from the hotel porch applaudin' of the good shots, when Short Creek Dave spoke up to Jack Moore next to me an' says:

"Jack, you mind that old Navajo you斗med over on the San Simon last fall?"

"I mind it mighty clear," says Jack. "He was a-lookin' at my boss at the time, an' I kin prove it by his step on my bridge right now."

"Well," says Short Creek Dave, pointin' to a dirty, sad-faced colored half-breed who was makin' himself pretty numerous, that feller they calls Pickles is bloomin', an' you wants to look out a whole lot, for I've heard him allow that the kin of his uncle was mighty rank an' he didn't like it no how."

"That's all right," says Jack, Pickles an' me has been watchin' each other for an hour, an' I'll tell you all private if he goes to play boss a little bit, be and his uncle will be able to talk things over before night."

"Wimpy Pickles comes along where we are."

"Hello, Jack," he says, "been makin' it smoky down on San Simon lately."

"No, not since last fall," says Jack,

"an' now I thinks of it, I see that old

"Well," says Short Creek Dave, pointin' to a dirty, sad-faced colored half-breed who was makin' himself pretty numerous, that feller they calls Pickles is bloomin', an' you wants to look out a whole lot, for I've heard him allow that the kin of his uncle was mighty rank an' he didn't like it no how."

"That's all right," says Jack, "if it ain't nothin' but sowbelly."

"I'll fix you people up a feed," says old Ike, "but you can't do your feedin' in no dinin' room of mine. I'll fix it over in the camp house, other side the corral, an' you kin be festin' soakin' an' squoky us, you please. There won't be nothin' nor nobody for you to hurt or disturb over there."

"After a little while grub was got ready in the camp house, an' Jack an' Pickles walks over side, al' side. They goes in and shuts the door, an' in about five minutes bang! bang! goes two six-shooters, an' we all scatter over an' finds Jack eatin' away all right, an' Pickles over the other side with his head in his fin' pinto, and his brains runnin' out over his left eye."

"It don't look like Pickles was han'gry much after all," says Jack.

"They'd both pulled their guns as they sat down, an' put 'em on their laps, but just as I say, Pickles couldn't stand the pressure, an' gettin' nervous he grabbed for his gun, an' as he went to git it up the muzzle caught under the tune top an' there his bullet was all safe in the wood. Jack been clean strafed, had better luck."

"After dinner we impaneled a jury an' tried Jack for the killin'. Of course, we knew he'd got to be acquitted, an' the killin' was right, but it bothered a heap to find a ground to put it on."

THE MAN OF DESTINY.

MORGAN THE MOST TALKED OF MAN OF THE DAY.

The Financial Arbiter of the Nation or Whose Command Even Railroad Menaces Meekly Now—At the County's Throats.

THIS BIG MAN, NEW YORK, New York, is J. Pierpont Morgan. He is the towering, picturesquely attractive, overshadowing financial situation and is even in the thoughts of men who deal in money and securities, and who take large risks. Half of the old bankers are jealous of him, and yet lose a backslapping opportunity. The speculator and railroad magnates regard him as a wonder, and the business world connects him in some way with the revival in general activities. He is a wonderful product of the age and the times. The volatile tumult of the period and the march of development created him just as the mighty events of the war of the rebellion made Grant. The great man's desire to make a vivid and lasting impression on the country as a railroad organizer was old Commodore Vanderbilt. He is heralded in the popular estimation as the pioneer giant in railroad construction, yet he never built a railroad in his life. He simply welded a lot of railroads into a system, leaving one great system as a monument, the same as Tom Scott left another, both promising to endure through ages. Jim Hill is the only man since the days of Commodore Vanderbilt and Colonel Tom Scott who belongs to their class. P. D. Arnot and John D. Rockefeller are the only genuinely great merchants in America, showing down competition with almost fatalistic brutality, and building as founders of dynasties do, including continents in their grasp. Jay Gould was a grand "old dog" who was jealous of him, or yet Pickles, not intendin' in him personal animosity, for I would not be personal with a horned beast. I'm not only disrespectful of an Indian, an' thinks the government ought to pay a bounty for their scalps, but I statistic a belief that a mean, snarly, mud-blooded swillin', boss-atemn' mongrel of a half-breed is lower yet. I holdin' he ain't even people, ain't even nuttin' in fact. But to change the subject, as well as open an avenue for another round of drinks, I'll bet you, Pickles, you stole that boss down thar; an' that the 'K' brand on his shoulder ain't no brand at all, but just picked on with the point of a knife."

"When Jack puts it all over Pickles this way, we looked 'er some smooth shore. But Pickles couldn't steady himself on the pinch. He was jest like lots of ponies I've seed. He'd ride right at a thing as though he was goin' clean through or over, an' jest the last second he'd shy, an' flinch an' weaken. The fact is, son, it wasn't Pickles fault. Then, an' any breed of man on earth but the pure white as will play a desperate deal clean through an' call the turn for life or death at the close; an' of course, Pickles was only half white. So he laughed softer ugly at Jack's bluff, an' allowed he'd order drinks without no beatin'."

"Ah, then, Jack," he says, "I want you to take dinner with me. I'll have ske goin' on somethin' right."

"I'll go you," says Jack, "if it ain't nothin' but sowbelly."

"After a little while grub was got ready in the camp house, an' Jack an' Pickles walks over side, al' side. They goes in and shuts the door, an' in about five minutes bang! bang! goes two six-shooters, an' we all scatter over an' finds Jack eatin' away all right, an' Pickles over the other side with his head in his fin' pinto, and his brains runnin' out over his left eye."

"It don't look like Pickles was han'gry much after all," says Jack.

"They'd both pulled their guns as they sat down, an' put 'em on their laps, but just as I say, Pickles couldn't stand the pressure, an' gettin' nervous he grabbed for his gun, an' as he went to git it up the muzzle caught under the tune top an' there his bullet was all safe in the wood. Jack been clean strafed, had better luck."

He has an iron-faced face that looks strikingly like Bischoff's did twenty years ago, and his many of the traits of the ex-chancellor being arbitrary and pretentious, often comically domineering and brusque. He is growing increasingly vain, and the danger is that one of these days enough strong men will assert their independence and pull away from him to pull him off his pedestal. Once more the people of this town are all agog over a sensation which has been kept from us for nearly a year. While the general run of our many sensations have brought trouble and sorrow with them, this time the rule is reversed, and we are all glad.

"Why?" "What for?" Now read! A year ago this month our popular town clerk, Gen. W. Whipple, visited the state fair at Detroit, and while absent from home combined business with pleasure, and as a business transaction necessarily includes the party of the second part, George, with his usual forethought made this provision by taking with him Miss Nina Chamberlain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Chamberlain of Farmington.

"What did they do?" Read again. They went over to Windsor and there and then by the hand of one of the Queen's magistrates, they were made man and wife. Yes, and all this time the poor literals have laughed.

We therefore wish hereby to tender Mr. and Mrs. Gen. W. Whipple our deepest wishes in behalf of the people of Novi. Mr. Whipple is one of our enterprising young business men, being the junior partner of the firm of Nicholson & Whipple, tile and brick manufacturers, and also connected with the Whipple Bros. lumber firm. Miss Chamberlain, now the happy bride, was one of Farmington's popular and accomplished ladies, representing one of the best families of the town, so that though Farmington people will feel the loss keenly, Novi feels proud of the acquisition of so popular a lady. Mr. and Mrs. Whipple will reside at the R. M. Johnson house which has been purchased by Mr. Whipple where they expect to take up their residence in about ten days. Again we wish them all the joy and happiness possible, together with a long and prosperous career.

Don't expect to hear your comings and goings, and the visits your friends make you, in the "Novi Locals" if you don't tell the local reporters. They are neither cigrayont nor omnipresent.
