SALEM.

Mrs. John Asplin is somewhat improved in health, though still quite feeble.

A light shower came early Monday morning, for which everybody was grateful.

Mr. White of near Kingston, Ont., has been spending several days with his friends, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Shannon.

Miss Grace Habicht, Miss Carrie Thayer and Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Thayer, visited friends at Farmington on Tuesday.

Rev. Mr. Farham, pastor of the Baptist church at Kensington, and Rev. D. H. Conrad of the Salem church, exchanged pulpits last Sabbath.

Mrs. Harry Clark on the base line road gave a dinner party on Thursday to a large company of ladies, in honor of her sister, Mrs. John Clark of Collinsport, Ontario.

The four-months old babe of Mr. and Mrs. John Bennett died of cholera infantum, on Sunday about four o'clock p. m. A brief funeral service was held at the house on Monday p. m., conducted by Rev. W. H. Shannon; burial in the Walker's cemetery.

Miss Grace Babbitt of Chicago, eldest daughter of the late Wm. D. Babbitt, is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Peter Coldron. Miss Babbitt is returning from Mt. Clemens, where she has been taking mineral water baths. She will return to Chicago next week.

Isaac Savory near Lapham's Corners has recently dug a well. He did not go quite through to Pekin, only went one hundred and sixty-eight feet. He feels like defying the drought however, as he has one hundred and twenty-four feet of water in the well.

Suburban News.

Faintly now we catch the odor, Of the circumambient air, Of the moth-eaten, which all summer, Has been in our winter wear.

A lady barber is the new woman at Birmingham.

Houses are being numbered and names assigned to streets in Dundee, a la Northville.

A "copper contest" is how the Flat Rock News describes one of the L.L.L. speaking contests.

Rev. Mr. Bolater has returned to Plymouth just as mysteriously as he disappeared a few weeks ago.

The 16th Mich. Inf. will have a reunion at Plymouth Oct. 23. The 16th we believe was known as the Iron Brigade.

A Monroe doctor was recently telegraphed for to go to Niagara to remove a cancer and he never "fumbled," his said, until he got there.

Lynn and Ling are two South Lyon youngsters. Contrary to the indications of their names however neither are Chinamen, and are expert cyclists.

Aureast Dundee men named Wallace played a mean trick on some boys who were gathering his waifs last week. Wallace just quietly laid behind the fence until the lads had it hatched all ready for market, when he appeared on the scene and corralled the whole outfit minus the boys.

E. R. Edwards of Farmington is probably the champion potato digger of Oakland county. Ninety bushels was his dig and pick-up for one day last week.

F. S. Hubble proposes, with the free use of the village's new engine, to furnish Milford with its light and water supply for $2,200 per year. Mr. Hubble will probably get "der job."

Dolph Amport of Treadon jumped off an electric car the other night after his $1.50 hat which the zephyr breezes had switched off and his $2,000 insurance policy came within an ace of becoming due.

The secretary of the Fowlerville fair always puts his pocket book under his pillow at night. When he gathered up his pulse strings one morning last week he beheld it was his tobacco pouch, which he had hidden instead of his money.

The comparative nice weather of yesterday rather made a success of the Milford fair after all. Wednesday it was too chilly for the general public to fully appreciate the big pumpkins and "aters." The horse racing and stock exhibit was exceptionally good.

A Holly lady occupying the upper berth in the sleeper coming out from Detroit on the early E.P.V. train Sunday morning raised a great commotion soon after leaving Plymouth by casting the starting intelligence at the porter that there was a man under her bed.

The Adria Press man notes that he has engaged lodgings with his friend Churchill at Petoskey when he next visits the frigid zone. What Brother Stearns needs most to look after is his reference to his rooms in the terrid zone. This is what stares him stern in the face.

A. F. Johnson of Bill Mountain recently dug a potato, which weighed four pounds and nine ounces. The mammoth product of the Magic Murphy kind is something after the Siamese order, only there are nine distinct parts instead of two. The potato is of the Green Mountain variety and requires only about seven hills for a bushel.—Pouting Post.

Treadon is using up all of its spare wage works, money in building new ordinances which they will never enforce. Here's one: "Sec. 9. No person shall keep hogs in pens or otherwise so as to become offensive to his neighbor." No objection at all is made against those who collect around the stove of the corner grocery or ride in the Wyandotte street railway cars.

THE RECORD.

F. S. NEAL, Publisher.

The Americans may have cornered the English cycle tube output, but the Britons still have plenty of the filling for the tubes.

Certainly it's no advance for women when the sex begins jumping from Brooklyn bridge. On the contrary, it is a great come down.

Low Wallace says: "When the woman takes hold of the bicycle its future is secure." But what about the woman? People still feel anxious about her.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox utters a truth when she says there are twenty leaders to one supporter. And they too often make the one supporter very lean.

Some one has figured out that in 1930 Chicago will be the largest city in the world except London. The Chicago census takers can be depended upon to bring this about long before 1930.

The owners of the Defender manifest confidence in the power of their boat to contest creditably and probably successfully with the fastest vessel that Europe can produce. It is their intention to sail her in the waters of the English Channel and the Mediterranean Sea, and to compete with the French and English races that are open to foreign craft. It is to be hoped that the Defender will meet Valkyrie III on her own cruising grounds, and that the contest may be unmarred by accident. The American belief is that the Defender can outcall the Valkyrie, or any other yacht, on any course and in any weather. Nothing will be more gratifying than proof positive of the soundness of that belief. The confidence of the owners of the Defender is shared by all their countrymen, and their resolution is approved by all.

This year the Swiss government has made a new departure in the way of monopolizing manufacture. It has declared the making of matches a federal exclusive right. The gains derived therefrom will not go into the federal treasury, but will be expended, first, toward improving the manufacture of matches and, second, to reduce as much as possible their selling price. The use of yellow phosphorus in the manufacture of matches is prohibited, because it is injurious to the health of the workmen employed in match factories, and because it is, in many ways, dangerous to the public. The sale of matches in a retail way will be open to all, subject, however, to such restrictive regulations as will prevent misuse. The government supplying the retail trade, exclusively. Federal legislation will regulate the traffic.

A paper devoted to the oil and print trade says: "The flux crop of 1924 is now found to have amounted to only 7,500,000 bushels, which is but little more than one-half of the average crops of the four years preceding, and falls 5,000,000 bushels below the crop of 1923. The largest crop was that of 1921, which amounted to 14,000,000 bushels. The small crop of the past year would have caused a scarcity but for the large importations of Calcutta seed, and this has also prevented an increase in price which the smaller supply of domestic seed otherwise warranted. At the close of the crop year the price for cash seed at Chicago, while lower than a year ago, was higher than at the close of either of the three preceding years, but at the close of the crop year of 1923-24, and on the eve of a then almost unprecedentedly large crop, the price was nearly 12 per cent higher. This may be taken as indicating the influence of free imports of foreign seeds. As to the crop of 1925 estimates vary greatly, but it appears to be conceded that it will exceed 10,000,000 bushels."

Considerable interest is being aroused in England by a suggestion to adopt the metric system of weights and measures instead of the intricate methods now in use. The same applies with equal force to the United States. We have taken one step in advance of England in having put our money on the decimal system, and we should follow it up by adopting the metric system throughout. Congress has already put its official seal on the metric system, which is more than can be said of the old systems. People, however, still cling to the old methods, because they can not be dispensed with except by a concerted movement. The people are in favor of the change, on account of the increased simplicity of all measures of quantity under the metric system. Most of the European countries have adopted the decimal system. When the change was made it was by the government setting a day when the old measures and weights were to cease and the new ones were to come into vogue. After a period of grace, those found using the old systems were fined. Thus the old order passed, and the new came into use. Americans want the metric (decimal) system.

The Scandinavian Methodist conference held in Milwaukee decided to divorce religion from business, declaring that no minister should engage in other pursuits. Why isn't that perfectly proper? A good blacksmith, you know, never has but one iron in the fire at a time.

Sidney H. Preston writes from England to inform us that the stories told about the $40,000,000 Holmes estate is the purest fabrication possible. We knew well enough it was a fabrication, but did not know what kind.

THE KINDLY LIGHT.

RELIGION AND REFORM THE WORLD OVER.

There's a Word of Tender Beauty in the Sayings of Our Lord—Share Cuts From the Rama's Mera—About Converts to Religion.

HERE'S a word of tender beauty in the sayings of our Lord. How it stirs the heart to music, waking up a student's sweet chord. For it tells me that "Our Father" From His throne of royal might, Bends to note a falling sparrow, For 'tis precious in His sight. Chorus: Though I'm Reast of all His children, So unworthy of His love, Yet for His there's kind remembrance To the Father heart above. He will ever save and keep me, He will guide me on the way, For my Savior gently whispers, "Are we not much more than they?" Chorus: Oh, the wondrous words of Jesus, All the springs of life control, Is there any ill can harm me, While His blood is on my soul? Let me like the little sparrow, Trust Him, where I cannot see, In the sunshine and the shadow, Singing, He will care for me. Chorus: In my Father's blessed keeping I am happy, safe, and free, While His eye is on the sparrow, I will not be forgotten be.

Now is God's pay day, not next week, Until we learn to give right, we can not learn to pray right. The man who rides a hobby eats and sleeps in the saddle. Praying is expensive business when it is done as it should be. We pray for nobody, unless we pray for everybody on the globe. Before Jesus died he made a will in favor of every Christian. People who blow their swa horns make poor music for other folks. The man who dishonors God will live so that he can respect himself. Unless praying is done on praying ground, it is breath winted. It was Job's faith in God that made him rich, not his sheep, and cattle. Doing good will be found more profitable in the end, than digging gold. The man who keeps close to Christ will be sure to draw the devil's fire. The devil never feels ashamed of himself in the company of a stingy man. Troubles, frighten the good only when they forget that they have a God. One step away from sin will bring the soul where God can make it white. —Rain's Horn.

Converts to Religion.

It ought not to be expected, and must not be demanded, of the young convert that he appreciate at once those deep traits of human weakness and sinfulness which are born only of the deeper and deeper conflicts of faith. In short, the young convert must be dealt with in a natural way. He must be regarded as a beginner, to be carefully taught and developed. All artificiality of language and experience must be laid aside. His attention must be drawn to his obligation to obey his Lord, and to the promise of divine help and comfort. All the rest will come of itself. And now the care of these converts is laid upon the churches. There must be careful watching and interest and sympathy. If these are given, as they should be, they will in no wise fail of blessed results.

Accomplishing Great Things.

A man who is to accomplish a great work must have infinite patience in dealing with all manner of obstacles. These very obstacles are the test of the greatness of his aim and the steadfastness of his soul. If he survives them he is worthy to achieve; if he yields to them he is not the man to win the victory. That is reserved for men of greater insight and of stronger grasp. It is easy for raw recruits to make a charge, no matter how forlorn, but it is very difficult to keep them steady, under continuous fire. There is a certain joy in a dash, however dangerous, which is absent from a perilous position long maintained. There are many men who can brilliantly and successfully lead a short and quick movement, but the men who can successfully guide a long and stubbornly contested reform in any department are few. For such men must possess, not only clear moral convictions and the ability to make these convictions contagious, but also the reserve power of soul which is a base of supplies to a commander on a long march in the face of numberless discouragements, obstacles and failures of support. There is something divine in patience, because it is the quality which makes great works possible.

Make Companions of Your Children.

Do not terrify them and quench the love in their hearts by playing the tyrant. The pain will recoil on your head some day. If you do, and besides, you are missing a foretaste of heaven in thus forfeiting your children's confidence, for no earthly happiness can surpass that of a good father and mother, surrounded by a loving, trustful family. No character but has a key to it. Draw out your children's ideas of themselves, their longings and ambiwhere would city Christianity be without the men and women of strong, stable character that are added from the country? Who made their character? This man who is unheard of, who is too often badgered about raising money, who has the lowest stipend, who goes home feeling himself a burden on the church. Let him lift up his head. His is lasting work, for he has wrought an imperishable material, not in silver or gold but in the souls of men. His Master knoweth; his reward remaineth.

Freedom.

Is true freedom but to break fetters for our own dear sake, And with leathern hearts, forget That we owe mankind a debt? No! true freedom is to share All the chains our brothers wear And, with heart and hand, to be Earnest to make others free!

They are slaves who fear to speak, Fetters for our own dear sake, They are slaves who will not choose Hated, scorned, and abused, Rather than in silence shrink From the truth they needs must think. They are slaves who dare not be In the right with two or three.

—James Russell Lowell.

A sturdy reality.

An unperverted mind will conceive of the Scriptural idea of prayer as that of one of the most downright, sturdy realities in the universe. Right in the heart of God's plan of government is lodged as a power to smolder the conflicts which are going on in the evolution of that plan. It stands as a power to all the intricacies of divine working and the mysteries of divine decree. It reaches out silently as a power. In the mind of God, we may be assured, the conception of prayer is no fiction, whatever man may think of it. More things are wrought by prayer than this world's dreams of. —Austin Phelps.

Justice.

To those who love justice it can make no difference whether she triumph or fall; but to those who believe in a divine order of affairs, there comes the comforting assurance that in the end justice will prevail. On this rock good men and great build their faith. Be they few or many, as long as they believe their cause is just they do not waver. Whether correct in their belief or not, sooner or later mankind comes to recognize that theirs was the true course and sets a proper value upon their career.

Straight to God's Work.

Surely woman should bring the best she has, whatever that is, to the work of God's world. It does not make a thing good that it is remarkable that a woman should have been able to do it, neither does it make a thing bad which would have been made good if a man had done it. It has been done by a woman. O, leave these fancies and go your way straight to God's work in simplicity and singleness of heart. —Florence Nightingale.

Religion and Reform.

Moody is to hold evangelistic services in Atlanta in November. It is proposed to build a memorial to Mrs. Mary T. Lathrop, in connection with the American Temperance University at Harrison, Tenn., of which she was a trustee. The memorial will take form as Lathrop Chapel, and be connected with Fisk Memorial Hall. Membership in the new world's Christian Endeavor Union will be open to all present Christian Endeavorers. All that become members before the convention at Washington next year, at which time the first meeting of the World's union will be held, will be regarded as charter members of the union. From Los Angeles, Cal., Andrew Spence has started on a missionary tour around the world by bicycle. The bicycle is fitted with masts and sails and when the wind is favorable Mr. Spence simply rests on his pedals and allows the wheel to cut its own racing pace; when he encounters a calm or contrary winds taking in sails and working it as usual. The Church of Christ in Japan (the Presbyterian Church) has just appointed a missionary to work among the Yeta, the pariahs of this land, a degraded people of uncertain origin scattered through the Japanese islands. The Japanese hold them in utter contempt, and they have suffered a good deal of oppression. Buddhism shuts them out from all hope of a future life. Sir Wilfred Lawson, the Neal Dow of England, tells this story on himself: "There was a school in the north of England, and the master gave the children a long disquisition upon the steam engine, and when he thought they all understood it, he asked: 'What is it that does the work of forty horses and drinks nothing but water?' and they all called out, 'Sir Wilfred Lawson!'" According to the latest reports the Lutheran church in this country has 26 theological seminaries, with 1,033 students and 99 professors; 35 colleges, with 61,622 students and 207 professors; 27 academies and 17 female seminaries, with 5,227 students and 301 teachers; 35 orphan homes, with 1,742 orphan children; 44 English church papers, 49 German and 40 in several other languages.

One of the new departments of work established by the recent council of the National British Women's Temperance Association is that of parliamentary franchise for women. Systematic work is now under consideration, and plans are being made with the object of educating those women who already possess the qualifications to vote in municipal elections, on the subject of the responsibility of citizenship.

CHICKAMAUGA

A MICHIGAN EDITOR'S NOTES ON THE NATIONAL PARK.

An Interesting Sketch of the Scenes and Memories of that Historic Battlefield.

Lookout Mt. Tenn. Sept. 23, '85.
As the first of a series of lectures, it may be fairly to introduce the writer briefly. One nearly consists of three in search of health for one of the number. The writer is a newspaper man and the observations which may be made will be made through the eyes of a newspaper man.

The past week at this city has witnessed the gathering of the hosts from north, south, east and west, the occasion being the dedication of the battle-grounds of Chickamauga and Missionary Ridge, being the thirty-second anniversary of the former. So much has been written and wired to the press of the country that any attempt at a resume of the events of the three days, the 18th, 19th and 20th, in detail would at this time be late and superfluous.

The battle of Chickamauga was fought at a spot ranging from ten to fifteen miles from Chattanooga on the 18th and 20th of September, 1862. The battles of Lookout Mountain and Missionary Ridge were fought two months later. From the extreme north of General Sherman's position on Missionary Ridge to the extreme south of the position of General Crittenden, of the Confederate forces, is a distance of about eighteen miles. During the past four years the government has had large forces of men engaged in restoring the historical features of this stretch of country to the condition it was in at the time of the battles. Innumerable macadamized roads have been constructed over the entire distance, amounting in all to nearly 200 miles. The location of different brigades upon different days has been accurately determined and tablets reflecting these facts erected and are to be seen on every hand as one drives along the elegant roadways. These tablets are constructed of plates of iron about one-half inch thick and ranging in size from 12x2 feet to 2x2 feet. The letters are cast in the iron and their bronze. The tablets are fastened to iron posts and set in the rocks. These tablets occur by the thousand. There has been constructed throughout this stretch of country pointed to the Chickamauga and Missionary Ridge National Park seven observation towers located in commanding positions upon the top of the highest ridges upon ground rendered historical by some special feat of valor or by being the position of the headquarters of some of the generals in command. These towers are constructed of steel network, each about 25 feet square at the base and 150 feet in height.

The most prominent features of the park, however, are the magnificent monuments of granite, granite and bronze erected by the different states of the north and south in memory of the valor of the boys in blue and gray who fought over the different positions in the field. There are several hundred of these monuments erected by the different states, Ohio coming first with 50 and Michigan second with 20. The other states follow with lesser numbers.

The one point of interest above all others on Chickamauga's field is the site of Gen. Thomas' headquarters on Snodgrass Hill. Upon the crest of this hill is the finest observation tower of the seven so far constructed. There are also here a number of granite, marble and bronze monuments. A few roads have been laid upon the hillside in the Sandgrass house at which Gen. Thomas had his headquarters. This house was occupied by the widow of the owner at the time of Gen. Thomas' occupation by the time of the purchase of the farm by the government about a year since. The house is a typical southern hill farm house. It consists of one room, is built of logs, has neither doors or windows. There are holes in the walls for the purpose of admitting light, which are closed with rough wooden shutters. There are two holes in the sides, ostensibly for doorways, each about four and a half feet in height. A few rough boards hung upon wooden hinges serve the place of a door. The roof is of roughly split shakes, held in place by logs laid upon the roof, which in turn are held in place by wooden pins driven through holes bored in them and into the rafters. There is a stick and mud chimney built upon the outside at one end. The cooking is done upon a fireplace. At present the house is occupied by one of the laborers engaged in government work. This house is situated upon the left side of the crest of the hill as one stands facing the east. Farther to the left is the Kelley farm, a semi-circular hill of several hundred acres belonging to the Dror farm and to the Widow Glenn, all of historic mention at the time of the battle. The Widow Glenn house and that of Dror are of a little more pretentious order than that of Snodgrass. All of these houses, as well as all others on the battle field, are still in the same condition they were in at the time of the battle, or are to be restored to that condition. Many an "old vet" will remember the large spring in the low ground in the open field below Snodgrass hill on the Dror farm. This spring was the chief source of supply of water for the immense throng which captured the battle field during the past week. It became a little muddy, but everything in the way of water went. People were not fastidious when walking under a scorching Georgia sun with the temperature at 90 in the shade.

The grand stand erected for the dedication ceremony was in a ravine to the right of Snodgrass hill. It had a seating capacity for 20,000. These seats were fully occupied and fully 10,000 more occupied seats on a side hill or stood up.

The park is reached by the Chattanooga, Rome & Columbus Railroad, which on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday runs every fifteen minutes. Fully 20,000 people were taken out Thursday in wagons and carriages. Every sort of vehicle was pressed into service, and many were the unique equipments forced into use. Thursday it was stated in the city press that fully 30,000 people were expected to walk back to the city from Barfield station, a distance of 12 miles, because of inadequate provisions for moving the crowd.

The Chickamauga Park covers a territory of three and a half by four and a half miles in area, reaching from Crawford Spring on the south to the Kelley farm on the north, and from Rossville Gap on the west to the east line of hills, three and a half miles. The government has already expended $734,000 in clearing up and constructing drives in the Chickamauga Park and Missionary Ridge Park, the latter covering only a few hundred acres, although connected with Chickamauga Park by a series of magnificent drives lined with monuments and tablets. These drives are the home of the bicyclist. The grades over the hills, ridges and into the hollows and ravines have been made easy by taking winding courses and by grading and filling. The government work has practically just been commenced, while the work of erecting monuments and tablets by the different states is still in its infancy, as is shown by numerous boards bearing inscriptions stating that a monument of tablet will be erected here, which are met with on every hand.

One peculiarly pathetic incident came under the writer's observation Thursday at Chickamauga. An old Confederate veteran was stretched upon a cot upon the crest of a large hill near Snodgrass. His feet were under a large chestnut. The old fellow was warped out of all semblance to the "runny-bone" variety. A tablet upon his cot stated that he was wounded by a musket ball under the identical chestnut the first day of the battle and he there 48 hours unaided for. His wound had subsequently exposed and resulted in his deformity. Many were the quizzers, half-dollars, dollars, and even five-dollar pieces that were cast into the cup which he was holding out to the crowd. It was observed that there was nothing less than a quarter donated. An attendant removed the contents of the cup every few moments, returning it to the fellow with perhaps one five-dollar bill and two silver dollars remaining in it as a nest egg to induce more. It would have required a considerable nerve to approach to put less than a quarter into the cup with these large pieces of money staring him in the face. Undoubtedly the old fellow had a "cluck" on the best thing on the ground. It is to be hoped he received enough to supply well his temporal wants for the rest of his days, which cannot be long drawn out if his physical ailments can be taken as a guide to his longevity.

When the government shall have made all the improvements contemplated in the park by the construction of many new roads, the transformation of the several hundred acres of open fields into immense lawns and flower gardens, when the thousands of acres of woodlands have received their carpet of blue grass, all the monuments removed, when the states have erected all their monuments and tablets, when all the old farm buildings have been removed to their proper sites, when the three fine lawns changed into beautiful parks, when indeed all Chickamauga Park be the most grand park of the world, to say nothing of the surrounding parts of Missionary Ridge and Lookout.

It will be interesting to old soldiers to know that the government paid the widow Glenn and her sister $13,000 each for their respective portions of the Georgia soil and their still more worthless buildings; that Snodgrass and Kelley received $7,500 each for their still more worthless farms. These are sums that are simply fabulous for Tennessee and Georgia mountain farms.

It was to understand the past week to see "old vets" and others digging over the graves in the park in the relics of the war in the way of bullets, sabers, bayonets, gas boxes, knives, etc. And it was no uncommon thing for their efforts to be rewarded by the finding of relics of considerable value as well. It did not require a prolonged search to locate a hundred rifles shattered with shot and shell. Many of these could still be seen protruding from the tree sides, partially grown over by the lopes of 32 years. A large live oak tree in front of the Snodgrass house, to which Gen. Thomas had his horse dead during a greater portion of the engagement of September 20, '62, still shows four pieces of shell, three rifle balls and two projectiles from cannon. The pine tree upon the top of Snodgrass hill, in the top of which Gen. Thomas made his observations, is riddled from top to bottom with shot and shell. It is still alive and is the center of much search.

Two months after the battle of Chickamauga the last stand for the field having been made by the federal army near the crest of Snodgrass hill, on the evening of September 20, before retreating to Chattanooga. A point marked by the government by a magnificent granite monument was fought the battle of Missionary Ridge. This battle was notable more for the daring of its conception than for the slaughter which accompanied it.

Gen. Grant, learning of the Confederate victory at Chickamauga, determined to render the victory only temporary. He was then in Nashville and centered his forces in Chattanooga. Gen. Hooker was encamped on Missionary Ridge. He crossed over the Tennessee river at night with about 3,500 men, coming upon Gen. Walker from Wauhatchie. The point of encounter was at the Creen farm on the plateau of Lookout Mountain just below the palisades of Point Lookout. The assault was made at daybreak and the rising sun found the plateau engulfed in sunlight while the city of Chattanooga was obscured by clouds. This instance is what has gone down to history as the "battle above the clouds." The plateau upon which the skirmish took place is only about 300 feet above the Tennessee river, while the crest of the mountain is 2,900 feet in elevation and the foot of the cliff is 1,700 feet above. From Lookout Mountain retreated to Missionary Ridge, where Gen. Bragg was entrenched besieging Chattanooga, then under Grant. It was Grant's intention to flank

Bragg by sending Thomas around through Ross's Gap on the south and Sherman around by Trappel Hill on the north, while a demonstration was kept up in front to distract attention. After a prolonged wait the troops in front of Bragg became uneasy and on November 23 made a charge up the Ridge without orders. Grant from Fort Wood saw the charge and hastened to inquire of his subordinates who had ordered the charge. Finding that no order had been given, and that his intention to flank would be lost, he resigned himself to the inevitable with the reply that "all hell can stop them." The force in the charge was small, but was successful in routing Bragg, who retreated to Dalton, Ga.

On conversation with "old vets" on both sides of the conflict the one impression is encountered that it can not be conceived how Bragg was ever routed. While the battle was undecisive in its immediate results, yet it opened the way for Sherman to Atlanta and the sea and the fall of the Confederacy incidental to it.

Confederates found fault with Bragg because he did not follow up the victory at Chickamauga when the federal forces retreated disordered to Chattanooga. Had he followed close the federal troops must have been forced to surrender. There was no way of getting out of Chattanooga to the north or east without swimming the Tennessee river. But Bragg failed to follow up his victory, entrenching himself on Missionary Ridge while Grant assembled 45,000 troops in front of him. Chattanooga was impregnable, a veritable Gibraltar, except upon the occasion of the disorganized retreat from Chickamauga.

Wednesday the 18th was given up to the dedication of monuments at Chickamauga by different states, those of Michigan being the first upon the program of the day. Thursday was given up to the dedication of tablets in memory of the fallen soldiers. The program of the day, the dedication of the Point Lookout Hotel, was given up to the dedication of tablets in memory of the fallen soldiers. The program of the day, the dedication of the Point Lookout Hotel, was given up to the dedication of tablets in memory of the fallen soldiers.

When the government shall have made all the improvements contemplated in the park by the construction of many new roads, the transformation of the several hundred acres of open fields into immense lawns and flower gardens, when the thousands of acres of woodlands have received their carpet of blue grass, all the monuments removed, when the states have erected all their monuments and tablets, when all the old farm buildings have been removed to their proper sites, when the three fine lawns changed into beautiful parks, when indeed all Chickamauga Park be the most grand park of the world, to say nothing of the surrounding parts of Missionary Ridge and Lookout.

It will be interesting to old soldiers to know that the government paid the widow Glenn and her sister $13,000 each for their respective portions of the Georgia soil and their still more worthless buildings; that Snodgrass and Kelley received $7,500 each for their still more worthless farms. These are sums that are simply fabulous for Tennessee and Georgia mountain farms.

COOLEY AIR SHIP A SUCCESS

Material in Its Flight, and World's First Successful Flight.

Rochester, N. Y., Special.—Two tests of the Cooley air ship were made yesterday in this city, the second one being successful. After drawing all the ropes tight Mr. Cooley gave the signal and the ship shot up with surprising rapidity. A strong west wind was blowing at the time and the air and pride of the inventor shined in a moment across the meadow to a tree and entangled one of the ropes in it. This caused the ship to shift its position so that it no longer faced the wind, and it made a dive to the earth amid the lamentations of a thousand spectators. When Mr. Cooley reached the ship he found it to all appearances, a complete wreck, but he set to work with a will and soon found that he would be able to use but a single set of sails on the next trial, for the cross spars were broken in several parts. The useless set of sails were accordingly removed, and with the help of several men the ship was again placed in a correct position, the ropes tightened and fastened, and several extra braces added to assure stability of the two parts. About 5 o'clock all was in readiness for the second trial and the ship was carried far out in the meadow away from any dangerous trees, and ten men held the ropes preparatory to the signal from the inventor. When finally the signal came the ship arose slowly in the air to the height of 20 feet, and instead of drifting downward it stayed right where it was. It was evident, too, that it wished to go higher, for it tugged at its ropes, and then facing that it could not go farther began its course, dipping and with great ease. It alighted about 500 feet from the spot of its flight upward and settled slowly to the earth without damage.

At the same time, says Kelly in his "Memoirs," the ferry tower in which was Mrs. Crouch, sank down in a blaze with a violent crash. She uttered a scream of terror. Providentially I was not hurt by the fall, and, catching her in my arms, carried her to the front of the stage. The accident was not a natural one, as it happened it could not have been so great an effect. It was not the escape which made this incident memorable, but Kelly's fall. He was furious at the accident, and rushed at Keable, who was the manager, saying: "I might have been killed entirely, and who then—who would have maintained me for the rest of my life?"

The following story is told about Superintendent Floyd of Evergreen cemetery in Leaning, Maine: It wasn't long ago that a certain Portland citizen died, his widow purchased a lot in the cemetery, but did not pay for it. Mr. Floyd told her it was contrary to rules to bury a person in the cemetery until the lot was paid for. This made no difference to the widow. She went ahead with the funeral, and had her husband's body carried to the cemetery and the coffin left on top of the lot, where, of course, no grave had been dug. Then she went to Mr. Floyd, and with tears running down her cheeks, said: "Mr. Floyd, there is something you can do for me. My husband is buried in the cemetery, but I haven't paid for the lot. Can you do anything for me?"

Salvation of Hopkinton. The Salvation Army of Denver has organized a cavalry corps of young women. They present a striking appearance in their uniforms of dark blue skirts, regulation red waists, with wide, rolling collars and regulation banquet. The corps enjoys the distinction of being the only mounted Salvation Army fighters in the world. It exists on immediately for a tour of the mountain towns.

WORTH KNOWING. California has a new law, which permits three-fourths of a jury, in civil cases, to render a verdict. About 13,000 murders are annually committed in the United States. The number of executions is less than 200. Goggles are worn by the officers and sailors on the fast English torpedo boats, because the high speed is hurtful to the eyes. Tricycle cabs are in use in London. They are propelled by two men, one in front of the passenger, and the other behind him. An elevated bicycle track, between Chicago and Milwaukee, has been proposed. A toll of ten cents will be charged for the use of the entire road. Telegraph poles made of paper pulp are being used in Copenhagen. They are hollow, and a coating of silicate of potash protects them from decay. Maynooth college, Ireland, receives the income of an endowment of $250,000.

Woman Who Talks Out of Her Face. No dinner table is well appointed without good talkers; and the basis of interesting conversation is reality. After a course of London dinners, Sir Walter Scott said: "The Bishops and the lawyers talked better than the wits; that is, the wits talked for the sake of talking, and the church and the law had something to talk about. Yet, specialists and Bobbies are not admissible at a dinner table, and women who can only talk on her own had has to business in society. She ought to write a pamphlet, or go on the lecture platform, for any conversation at the dinner table that is a strain on the attention of the patience soon becomes a bore. Indeed, one of the chief elements of pleasant company is a readiness to talk, or to be talked to, on any rational subject."

God is still calling to some people to do small things. That Joyful Feeling. With the exhilarating sense of renewed health and strength and internal cleanliness which follows the use of Syrup of Figs is unknown to a few who have not progressed beyond the old time medicines and the cheap substitutes sometimes offered but never accepted by the well-informed. God's warriors are always chosen from his worshippers. It is so easy to remove some with hindrances that we wonder so many will endure them. Get hindrances removed and see how nicely it takes them out. The God never does good unless the heart of love holds it.

Even in the most severe cases of sprain or bruise, cut or burn, Thomas' Electric Oil gives almost instant relief. It is the ideal family medicine. Take all people with whom the head is heavy (the Indians regard it as a blessing and place it out. What seems but a case of simple diarrhea frequently develops into the most dangerous of bowel troubles, if neglected. Dr. Fowler's Best of Wild Strawberry is a never-failing specific in all such cases. The skin of the Indian is thicker than that of either the white or the Negro, and more easily tanned. After suffering from dyspepsia for three years, I decided to try Burdock Blood Purifiers. Two bottles cured me entirely. Mrs. G. C. White, Taberg, Oneida County, New York. The most ancient Egyptian monuments display elegant taste in art and remarkable skill and execution. Thousands are suffering excruciating misery from that plague of the night, itching piles, and say nothing about it through a sense of delicacy. Instant relief in Doan's treatment. It never fails. Poorly shared is poorly doubled. Sin is greatly only when it is not done right. For all fits of dizziness, perplexity and fear the following cure may be relied upon, for it comes from the great physician, and it is the burden upon the Lord and to shall sustain you.

Keep the Baby Fat.

"GIVE SPRING, GA., May 21, 1901. "My baby was a living skeleton. The doctors said he was dying of marasmus, indigestion, etc. The various foods I tried seemed to keep him alive, but did not strengthen or fatten him. At thirteen months old he weighed exactly what he did at birth, seven pounds. I began using 'SCOTT'S EMULSION' sometimes putting a few drops in his bottle, then again feeding it with a spoon. Then again by the absorption method of rubbing it into his body. The effect was marvelous. Baby began to sicken and fatten, and became a beautiful plump baby, a wonder to all. SCOTT'S EMULSION supplied the one thing he needed."

"Mrs. KENSON WILLIAMS"

is especially useful for sickly, delicate children when their other food fails to nourish them. It supplies in a concentrated, easily digestible form, just the nourishment they need to build them up and give them health and strength. It is Cod-liver Oil made palatable and easy to assimilate, combined with the Hypophosphites, both of which are most remarkable nutrients.

Our former friends who wish to see the up-to-date accounts may now bring the Record in a load of hard dry wood.

Miss Myrtle Phillips is copy-essent and her many friends will be glad to know that she may resume her work in the post-office next week.

E. S. Horton is dividing his interests now between living in Detroit's delightful residential suburb—Northville—and running a big flouring mill in the metropolis, in which he has half interest.

The members of the Methodist church and congregation, to the number of about 250, tendered Rev. and Mrs. Turner a reception at the parsonage Tuesday evening. It was a delightful affair.

The village is over-run with dogs of various values and breeds until they have become a regular nuisance. If the village fathers can devise any means of lessening the number or protecting the people they will confer a general favor and fill a long felt want.

Charley Rogers and U. Dingman had a slight misunderstanding last week Friday and during the controversy Dingman hit Rogers in the face. Dingman soon after went before Justice Webster and pleaded guilty to assault and paid a fine of $5.00 and $1.50 costs.

Lee C. Whitman formerly instructor in the Strassburg dancing academy, Detroit, will organize another dancing class here next Saturday as per his announcement elsewhere in this issue. Mr. Whitman as the successful teacher of last winter's classes here needs no further introduction to Northville people.

A visitor to the U. of M. will have to look very diligently and at the same time hopelessly, about the great school of learning to find brighter pupils than are there from Northville. They are, Miss Marguerite Thompson, Messrs. Thad J. Knapp, Ralph Horton, Clarence Clark, George Gibson and Royal Starkweather, all former students of the Northville High school.

The Plymouth Mall apologizes for the incomplete report of the fair exhibits. It needs to do so. The Mall's very meager report of the fair not only does the association injustice but at the same time the exhibitors as well. Northville's patronage and exhibits contributed largely to the success of the fair and many of the displays this year were superior to anything ever before seen on the grounds. At least a mention was deserving.

A delightful home wedding occurred at St. Johns yesterday afternoon when Mr. Frank Fry of this city and Miss Belle Hundey of that place were united in holy wedlock at the home of the bride's parents. Young boys who are snatching out windows and doing other disgraceful deeds to houses in Northville will get into trouble. Plans are laid to catch them and if they are identified arrests will follow.

An agricultural exchange thinks nothing is gained by raising large hogs. The market demands hogs of about 150 pounds each, and such pork can be produced quickly by turning the pigs on clover, and feeding corn later on. They bring better prices proportionately than large hogs, and are always in demand.

Holmes, Dancer & Co. will open a large assortment of stamped license, art squares, center pieces, etc. the first of next month. They will have them on exhibition for a few days so that lovers of fancy work can see the latest ideas in that line. If those who could pay their debts and do not would as once settle with the merchant, the doctor, the seamstress and others, then many of those who would pay their debts but cannot would become able to pay them. In this way three-fourths of the debtors would become free and happy in mind, and an equal number of creditors would be made to rejoice.

Fred Wilcox went down to San Antonio week before last and last week he returned with a bride. Miss Mary Oswald was the lady's name and the marriage took place in that "Lone Star" city Sept. 16. Fred was formerly sergeant in the U. S. cavalry stationed at San Antonio, the home of the bride, and the acquaintance formed there resulted in more than mere friendship as the wedding bells pronounced. Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox are now keeping house at 48 Wing street. The many Northville friends of the groom unite with The Record in warm congratulations.

A pleasant wedding occurred at Mt. Pleasant yesterday evening in which two young people well known in Northville were united—Miss M. Ellen Maxwell and Mr. Rollin B. Purdy. Rev. Mr. Buhl officiated. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Purdy left for Vermont and other eastern points to be absent about three weeks. They will be "at home" after Nov. 20. The bride was for some years preceptress in the Northville schools, where she was not only honored as an instructor, but also the esteem of the whole community. She will be welcomed now with open arms as a permanent resident of the village. Mr. Purdy is one of our most prominent and hustling young business men. He has been engaged in the mercantile trade here for a number of years, and enjoys the respect and confidence of the people in general among whom he has built up a prosperous business. The Record joins with a host of others in hearty congratulations.

The Dubuar factory is shut down for a few days while the engine boiler is undergoing some repairs.

Nellie Steele & Co. will open a new millinery store in the opera house block next week Wednesday, Oct. 9.

The attention of our readers is called to the ad of J. B. Porter Portrait Co. on page 2. That these people do first class work is proven by specimens seen in the village.

The Methodist ladies interested in the "talent" social are requested to get their work completed as quickly as possible. The date will be announced in a very short time.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Woodworth died on Friday of last week. The funeral occurred on Sunday, Rev. F. Arnold officiating. The interment was in Thayer's cemetery.

Speaking of Detroit's mail and express service it is a well known fact that an order can be sent to Chicago and the merchandise in turn received as quickly as from Detroit—sometimes quicker.

All people do not seem to quite understand that when they are called upon to send money away that they can obtain drafts at either of the local banks as cheap as express or money orders. Drafts are just as safe and most people prefer them.

The limit of the time for collecting the village taxes expires on Monday next. All taxes on real property not paid within one week from that time will be returned to the county treasurer, in accordance with the new law, where it will be treated under the provisions of the general state law and the property sold under the tax sale act. Delinquents should understand there is no longer any way to evade the tax gatherer. The property goes the same as for town taxes. It's pay up or some one else will own your property before you know it.

The Record is quite sure that the people of Northville and the surrounding country will do what they can to assist the business men of Northville in making the 5:00 o'clock closing movement the repeated success it has been for the two years past. There is none of us but whom can get our trading done nights before 5:00 o'clock, and by so doing we will not only give the merchants and clerks an opportunity to spend an evening at home, with some neighbors, attend a party or church, and at the same time as other fellows, not finding a store to loiter in, will have the same golden opportunity. To the business people and clerks The Record only repeats what it said one year ago. Let each one observe the contract to the letter and we will watch the other fellow. The new order takes effect Oct. 14.

Millinery opening. New store in opera house block next week Wednesday. Nellie Steele & Co.

The Record Printery will receive subscriptions for any publication in the United States or Canada, and will save money to subscribers besides the trouble and expense of sending the cash themselves.

Northville School Notes.

The High school enrolled another foreign pupil last week.
Two of our bright boys are endeavoring to pass the high school in three years.
John Joslin of the 5th grade has been absent a few days on account of sickness.
Twenty-four of the primary room were neither absent nor tardy last month.
Twenty-two pupils of Miss Covett's room were neither absent nor tardy during September.
S. L. Houghton of Detroit made the high school a pleasant call Tuesday afternoon.
Something quite laughable occurred by the 4th grade this week: "Teacher—What is a senator? Pupil—Senators are people who don't work but get money for it."
Parents should send their children to school for nothing is more beneficial than a good education. While we have one of the finest schools in Michigan, and eight of the best and brightest teachers, yet many children are deprived from attending.

him and his genius. He was one of the originators and incorporators of the Novi and Commerce Plank Road Company, and for many years one of its directors. He outlined the work on the big embankment three miles below this city and supervised its construction. Young Eisenlord was for many years slight in build and delicate in constitution but the bracing climate of Colorado has had much to do with his development. Mr. Eisenlord when he began his course of training he weighed 70 pounds. Today his weight is 185 pounds, his chest measurement 32 inches and his expansion 12 1/2 inches, being exceeded in the latter only by Gaudow whose expansion is 14 inches. As a long distance bicycle rider, Mr. Eisenlord has never found his equal. He is a modest young man and the record takes great pride and pleasure in introducing him to his Novi readers.

The chicken pie social held at the Methodist church parlors, and the entertainment which followed in the auditorium last Friday evening, was the best and most successful of anything of the nature attempted in the history of the church. The supper was good, and 25 cents would have been more appropriate than the 10 charged. The entertainment consisted of singing by a large and well trained choir, and to put it mildly, it was the best that Novi people have had the pleasure of listening to in years. Mrs. Kate Simmons of Farmington presided at the organ, and our prodigy Hazel Coats, presided at the piano. Besides the musical selections, there were recitations, readings, etc., concluding by a few very fitting remarks on "What is a Christian," by the pastor, Rev. W. C. McIntosh. In a word, the whole affair was delightful. Proceeds $11.20.

Novi can justly lay claim to that youthful athlete and greatest of all long distance riders, Mr. W. H. Eisenlord, now of Denver, Col. While Mr. Eisenlord never resided here his father Mr. N. Eisenlord, now manager of the Chicago Dispatch, was born and lived here many years. He left his impress on this town and many of the great things of Novi may be attributed to

Mrs. H. W. Lee was pleasantly surprised Friday evening, Oct. 18, by the assembly of the Methodist choir and a few near relatives and friends at her home on Main street west. In behalf of the choir and friends a purse of money was presented by Miss Jennie L. White, as a token of appreciation for her services as organist for the past few months. Mrs. Lee responded with a very appropriate speech. A part of the choir then took possession of the kitchen for a short time and soon an informal supper, consisting of oysters, cake, etc., was served. A pleasant time was enjoyed and all returned to their homes feeling that it had been indeed good to be there.
