home, there where he now resides. Three years ago the Union block was taken down almost came to a standstill, and then Mr. Richardson bought out Mr. Horton's interest and up went that beautiful block of stores which are the pride of our town.

Mr. Richardson has made money in Northville to save, but he has done it by hard work and while he has made money he has also spent a lot of it too for the betterment of the town and its people. He has always been a liberal subscriber to every public cause, and any calls for help from the church, the band or from any benevolent, needy, or enterprising source has always found him ready to respond.

Would that we had more T. G. and P. R. Beals in Northville, neither of whom seem to ever tire, but are always looking for more labor and more business.

WAS BRILLIANT

The Ladies Leap Year Ball of Last Week.

MOST DELIGHTFUL OCCASION EVER HELD IN NORTHVILLE.

The Ladies Were at Their Best as Entertainers.

Grand Music—Elegant Refreshments—Beautiful Decorations—Great Success.

The Third Number on the Lecture Course.

As predicted the leap year ball given last week by the G. & L. club in honor of Washington's birthday was probably the most delightful occasion ever held in Northville. The grand march started at 8:30 and was led by Messrs. German and Shaffer and the Misses Lee and Richardson. A number of new figures were introduced, some of them very intricate, and on the whole it was very pretty. In this there were about forty couples and by ten o'clock the number on the ball room floor was seventy couples and besides these there were a number of spectators seated about the spacious room.

The decorations were very elaborate as well as beautiful, making the room look very inviting indeed. In the corner of the room where the patricesses held a reception, the floors were covered with rugs, white hats, screens, stand lamps, vase of flowers and pictures helped to make the spot a charming one.

The chief attraction overall however proved to be the orchestra. Flinney and his men, all colored, "threw" themselves, so to speak and their music was simply exquisite. It was a bustle from start to finish and the floor was no sooner cleared from one number until it was again filled for another. Flinney made a great hit and his efforts are still a pleasing remembrance to all those who participated.

The supper was dainty as well as sumptuous enough to please everybody. Finally the occasion was one long to be remembered and it is generally voted that when there is something real nice to be gotten up in the village the ladies are the ones to go ahead with it.

Among some of the beautiful costumes worn our society reporter noted the following:

The Siy vs. Flint Suit. The Siy vs. Flint suit at Pontiac yesterday was decided in favor of Mr. Flint he being awarded a judgement for $90.

Card of Thanks. Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Daly wish to return thanks to their friends who so kindly assisted them during the sickness and death of their babe: also to the choir, and the friend who sent the flowers.

Workingmen's Caucus. At the Workingmen's caucus held in the council room last night the following nominations were made: For president, C. A. Hutton; trustees, A. K. Dolph, Spencer Carls, J. H. Taylor; clerk, W. H. Nichols; treasurer, Ed H. Lapham; assessor, D. B. Northrop; committee, W. H. Brigham chairman, E. K. Starkweather, David Cook.

Salem News.

Mrs. Shannon's condition is without material change, since last week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Austin of Kidzog are making their Salem friends a brief visit.

Walter Murray, second son of Wm. Murray, is apparently nearly gone with consumption. Dr. Edward Ward visits him occasionally, but with no hope of giving him any permanent benefit.

The second meeting of the Salem Farmers' Club will be held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Smith Wednesday March 4. Hon. A. S. Kinman of Wixom has been invited to deliver an address on that occasion.

Mr. L. D. Lovewell of South Lyon gave one of his interesting lectures on his "Trip to Europe" at the Congregational church, last Thursday evening to a full house, for the benefit of the Ladies Society of the Congregational church.

Married, at the home of the bride's parents, by Rev. W. H. Shannon, at noon on Wednesday, Feb. 19th, Mr. Chas. C. Orlaman of Detroit and Miss Dora A., eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Vanatta of Salem. The ceremony was witnessed by a large company of friends and relatives who immediately thereafter partook of a sumptuous wedding dinner elegantly served. The guests were numerous, elegant and useful. The happy couple left on the evening train for Detroit where they will be at home at 97 Sibley street after Feb. 22.

The Record.

An independent newspaper published every Friday morning by The Record Proprietary at Northville, Michigan, containing news, editorials, etc., such as legal, medical, literary, etc.

Cures.

F. S. NEAL, Editor and Prop.

Gen. Weyler made it one of his first orders that no newspaper men should accompany the Spanish army. There were obvious reasons why the general would prefer to report his own battles.

There are some detectives who cling to the theory that Pearl Bryan killed herself. What we would like to have these sleuths explain is why the girl followed up suicide by decapitating her self.

There are indications that President Kruger may go to London with Secretary Chamberlain. But if the head and front of the Boers do this, it is said, that will also call at Paris and Berlin in order to have a talk about current events and show a spirit of independence.

It has been made plain that the general impression at first gained regarding the Waller case was an erroneous one and that France was perfectly justified in dealing with him as she did.

The name of the thief crucified on the right-hand side of Christ was Dismas, the name of the thief crucified on the left-hand side of Christ was Gestus. Pontius Pilate describing the tragedy says the whole world lights candles from noon until night. Thirty-three years of maltreatment. They scarce, he birth to bastardy and his death to crucifixion. A wall of the city, built about those times and recently, exposed by archaeologists, shows a caricature of Jesus Christ, evidencing the contempt in which he was held, by many in his day—that caricature on the wall representing a cross and a donkey nailed to it, and under it the inscription: "This is the Christ whom the people worship." But I rejoice that that day gone by. Our Christ is coming out from under the world's abuse. The most popular name on earth today is the name of Christ. Where he had one friend Christ was a thousand friends. The scoffers have become worshippers. Of the twenty most celebrated individuals in Great Britain in our day, sixteen have come back to Christ trying to undo the blatant mischief of their lives—sixteen out of the twenty. Every man who writes a letter or signs a document, willingly or unwillingly, honors Jesus Christ. We date everything, B. C. or A. D.—R. C., before Christ, A. D., anno Domini, in the year of our Lord. All the ages of history on the pivot of the upright beam of the Cross of the Son of God, B. C. A. D. I do not care what you call him—whether Conqueror, or King, or Morning Star, or Sun of Righteousness, or Balm of Gilead or Lebanon Cedar, or Brother, or Friend, or take the name used in the verse from which I take my text, and call him Shiloh, which means his Son, or the Tranquillizer, or the Peacemaker, Shiloh. I only want to tell you that unto him shall the gathering of the people be.

In the first place, the people are gathering around Christ for pardon. No sensible man or healthfully amb (ing) man is satisfied with his past life. A scrofulous man knows he is not. I do not care who the thoughtful man is, the review of his lifetime behavior before God and man gives him no especial satisfaction. "Oh," he says, "there have been so many things I have said I ought never to have said, there have been so many things I have written I ought never to have written, there have been so many things I have thought I ought never to have thought, I must somehow get things readjusted, I must somehow have the past reconstructed; there are days and months and years which cry out against me in horrible reprobation."

The old saw that love is blind has again been illustrated in a most striking manner. A young lady of Santa Rosa, Cal., the daughter of a multi-millionaire, the belle of the town and the recipient of a quart of proposals daily, needless each and all of the silk-hand-scarves that were buying valentines for her and fell madly in love with a drug clerk. The other day the drug clerk secured a job in St. Louis, whereupon Miss Heiress packs her handbag and elopes with her dispensing lover. The mere fact of an heiress taking up with a drug clerk is enough evidence of a woman's sympathy. Let him tell the story who, when all his foibles were gone and all the world was against him came home and found in that home a wife who could write on the top of the empty flour-barrel, "The Lord will provide," or write on the door of the empty wardrobe, "Consider the lilies of the field; if God so clothed the grass of the field, will he not clothe us and ours?" Or let that young man tell the story who has gone the whole round of dissipation. The shadow of the penitentiary is upon him, and even his father says, "Be off! never come home again." The young man finds still his mother's arm outstretched for him, and how she will stand at the wicket of the prison to whisper consolation, or get down on her knees before the governor, begging for pardon, hoping on for her wayward boy after all others are hopeless. Or let her tell the story who, under villainous allurements and impatient of parental restraint, has wandered off from a home of which she was the idol into the murky and thunderous midnight of abandonment, away from God, and further away, until some time she is tossed on the beach of that early home a mere splinter of a wreck. "Who will pity her now?" Who will gather these disheveled locks into her hair? Who will wash off the blood from the gashed forehead? Who will tell her of that Christ who came to save the lost?

He will put that weary head upon the clean white pillow and watch by day and watch by night until the hoarse voice of the sufferer becomes the whisper, and the whisper becomes only a faint motion of the lips, and the faint motion of the lips is exchanged for a silent look, and the cut feet are still, and the weary eyes are still, and the frenzied heart is still, and all is still?

Who will have compassion on her when no one else has compassion? Mother! Mother!

"Oh! there is something beautiful in sympathy—in manly sympathy, wife-ly sympathy, motherly sympathy, ye-and neighborly sympathy. Why is it that a city was aroused with excitement when a little child was kidnapped from one of the streets? Why were whole columns of the newspapers filled with the story of a little child? It was because we are all one in sympathy, and every parent said: "How if it had been my Lizzie? How if it had been my Maud? How if it had been my child? How if there had been no one unoccupied pillow in our trundle-bed to-night? How if my little one, bone of my bone and flesh of my flesh, were to-night carried captive into some den of vagabonds, never to come back to me? How if it had been my sorrow looking out of the window, watching and waiting that sorrow worse than death? Then when they found her,

why did we declare the news all through the households and everybody that knew how to pray said: "Thank God?" Because we are all one bound by one golden chain of sympathy. Oh yes, but I have to tell you that if you will aggregate all neighborhood, manly, wife-like, motherly sympathy, it will be found only a poor starving thing compared with the sympathy of our great

Shiloh, who has held in his lap the sorrows of the ages, and who is ready to nurse on his holy heart the woes of all who will come to him. Oh! what a God, what a Savior we have!

There are people who think Christ will come in person and sit on a throne,

Perhaps he may. I should like to see the scarred feet going up the stairs of a palace in which all the glories of the Alhambra, and the Taj Mahal, and the St. Marks, and the Winter Palace are gathered. I should like to see the world pay Christ a visit for what it is he done for us. Will he come to us?

Will they never again look up at us at the table?

Will they never again kneel with us at family prayer? Shall we never again look into their sunny faces? Shall we never again on earth take counsel with them for our work? Alas me, who can stand under these griefs? Oh! Christ, when canst thou do more for a bereft soul than any one else? It is he who stands beside us to tell of the resurrection. It is he who comes to us and breathes into us the spirit of submission until we can look up from the wreck and ruin of our brightest expectations and say:

"Father, not my will, but thine be done."

Oh, ye who are bereft, ye anguish-bitten, come into this refuge. The King mounts! O! what a glorious time it would be on earth if Christ would break through the heavens, and light here where he has suffered, and die here where he has suffered, and live here where he has suffered, and

die here where he has suffered, and

THE RESULT OF AN AD

Fantasia so skillfully that she never said:

"I believe that you are a professional."

"Assure you that I am not," he rejoined.

"Now you must sing," she said.

In a mellow tenor singing a selection from Mendelssohn, so pathetically that tears filled the eyes of his listeners, four in number, as his unknown voice had drawn her parents into the room.

"You may make no claims to musical ability, but it is yours," Mr. French dramatically observed, "and having it I do not understand how you came to be selling it."

"Sh!" fell from French's lips, and the sentence was not completed.

He arose from the stool was introduced to Mr. and Mrs. Reid.

"How long shall you remain in the place, Mr. French?" Mr. Reid inquired.

"I cannot say, exactly," was the answer.

"While you are here, I hope you will come to sing and play as often as you can," fell from Mr. Reid's lips.

"You must, Mr. French," the daughter interpolated in an earnest tone.

"Thank you, I shall be pleased to do so," he replied.

Soon after he and his host left the house, and on their way back to the latter's home, he explained how he had chance to be following his present vocation, causing Mr. Marsh to laughingly exclaim,

"Well, I declare!"

After breakfast the next morning he said to Mr. Marsh:

"I should like to remain here two or three weeks; can you conveniently accommodate me for that length of time?"

"As well as not," was the cordial reply.

"Thank you very much."

For two years nearly six weeks he was a member of Mr. Marsh's household, during which he discontinued his cabassing and passed most of the time with "Stella," as he soon came to address her, while he, to her, became "Andrew."

They sung—she to him, he to her, together, they played for each other, or duets, often having quite an audience. They rode, rambled, read together until—what?

She was acquainted with his antecedents and had been urgently entreated to share his future with him. Responsive to this entreaty, she said:

"If there is anything which I have always held in contempt, it is an aimless life such as has, confessedly, been yours. I think that my affection for you is as strong as it is yours for me. As soon as you are independent of your father's assistance, have some visible means of support, I shall not hesitate to comply with your request."

Within three months thereafter he had secured a situation as a teacher on a liberal salary. Then, in her home, at her request, with hearty consent of her parents, they were quietly married.

After the ceremony, grasping him by the hand, Mr. Marsh said:

"It has turned out exactly as I thought it would, Andrew, when you first met in this room."

Becoming acquainted with their daughter-in-law, his parents expressed their satisfaction with his choice of a wife.

One-Armed Woman Tennis Champion.

The woman tennis champion of New Zealand is one-armed. She is Miss Hilda Maude Hitchings. Her arm is the left one. In three fingers she holds the racquet, and between the remaining finger and the thumb she grasps the ball. A slight toss of the ball, followed by a smart rap of the racquet, results in a fast, low service, which is anything but easy to take. Besides her ability at tennis the New Zealand champion is noted for her dexterity in everything she undertakes, and especially with her needle.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

CURRENT GOSSIP OF THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

The New Home of Senator Quay—Madame de Meek of the Russian Legation Is Becoming Very Popular—Madame Dominguez.

(Washington Correspondence)

HER NEW HOME of Senator Quay, on K street, is large and imposing. It is of red sandstone and red brick, and the entrance is one of the handsomest in town, so broad and suggestive of hospitality, is it.

The windows are richly draped with yellowish tinted lace of delicate texture and design. The drawing room at the right of the entrance is very large and substantial.

The walls are hung in dull green satin brocade with gold embossed figures of a fleur-de-lis. The highly polished woods are of delicate shades, mostly pale yellow, and in the drawing room the effect of the furnishings is of a perfect color scheme in deep creams and palest gold. About the walls are fastened handsome gold candelabra capped with yellow silk shades, while the very prettiest lamp in town stands in the windows, surrounded by tall palms. The stand is of green and gold and the lamp, a rare specimen of brass, is a figure holding a bunch of flowers, to which flowers are hanging in bas relief. The shade is like a huge pale yellow.

The Japanese legation is on N street,

stately and has a superb physique. Her hair is deep black and is coiled high in Russian fashion with always a handsome circle of diamonds banding it when indoors. She has yet to master our language, although she has quite a good understanding of the more familiar words and phrases, but French, Spanish and her own native tongue come most natural in her conversation.

In reply to the question how she liked America she said: "Very much. I go out yet so much as the papers are there. I was not at 21 White House at diplomatic reception and yet 24 have in one very pretty gown." And she laughed while her beautiful dark eyes shone with pleasure at this latest bit of journalistic enterprise. Although the hour was immediately after breakfast, Madame de Meek was gowned exclusively in the rich harmonious colors one sees in a beautiful church window of stained glass with the sun shining through it. Her morning gown was of gold-colored plush, lined with velvet satin and having an open square neck in front with a handsome high collar at the back of deep yellowish lace, which continued down the sides of the front of the gown to the floor. She wore a half circle of diamonds in her dark hair, and small hoops of yellow diamonds in her ears. All about the drawing room hung embroidered bands and other hangings so quickly as to entirely cover the walls and the woodwork of the apartment, and every stitch of these rich-hued embroideries was the work of her own hands. Like all Russian ladies, she has great charms for her, and her grand piano is a source of great comfort to her amid these new surroundings.

The Japanese legation is on N street, corps this week was the arrival on Tuesday of the minister from Ecuador and the attaches of the legation. Senor Luis Felipe Carbo, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary, is located in a handsome suite of apartments on 1 street, and with him are one of his sons and the two secretaries of the legation, Senor Cristobal Velas and Senor Pablo Elias Albornoz.

The minister is a native of the city of Guayaquil, and was educated at schools in that town. At the early age of 19 he entered upon public life, accepting the office of president of the municipal council and later on that of collector of the port. When only 25 he was made secretary of state under President Veintimilla, who was the head of the Liberal party in the south, a revolution displaced the Liberals from power and Senor Carbo went for some time into banishment. On his return he took charge of a newspaper, the Times (El Tiempo), which was regarded as the chief organ of his party. He held at the same time a chair in one of the largest colleges in Ecuador, filling both positions with great honor to himself. On the 6th of last June the Conservative party fell and the Liberals came in, the president being Alfaro, who appointed Carbo to the position of secretary of state. As the president for a short time did not exercise his executive power, Carbo was placed to act in his stead, being what might be termed president-pro tem. But on the resumption of this office by the president, Senor Carbo was sent to represent his country, not only at the court of Uncle Sam, but he is also accredited to all of the nations of Europe, being the only minister sent out by Ecuador. Senor Carbo is the father of ten children, all of them very small, and his wife, who is at present in Ecuador, will join her husband within six or eight months.

ST. PAUL MISJUDGED.

Was in Favor of Old-Maid Preachers but Not Married Women.

Happily a difficulty which has afflicted the church for several centuries will soon end if the emendation of the Greek text made by a patient investigator be universally accepted, says the Boston Herald. St. Paul has always been regarded as the determined foe of all women preachers, married or spinster, and many ladies have felt very grievously this slur on their status in the Christian community and even run the risk of creating schism by preaching in defiance of the alleged apostolic command. But the crux is now solved: The investigator referred to holds that the Greek word "virne," which St. Paul uses, does not mean in that particular text women generally, but "married women" whose husbands are alive.

Some critics are capable of suggesting that the only importance of the new gloss is to go one better than the old saying of a wife being a crown to her husband by showing him that she is not a gyno-cinist spiced guinea but the emendator takes the subject most seriously. For instance, when St. Paul speaks about women keeping silence in churches he immediately adds, "Let them ask their husbands at home," showing that his prohibition of speech merely referred to wives.

Moreover in the Acts of the Apostles it is distinctly mentioned that one Philip had four daughters, unmarried, who prophesied or preached. The new contention, therefore, is that St. Paul's injunction is sufficiently met if married women cease to preach, but as far as maidens and even widows are concerned, they may discourse as much as they please without breaking any law of the church or apostolic command.

On this point it may be interesting to note that in America women preachers are increasing with amazing rapidity and promise before the next century is far advanced to equal the number of their male rivals. The denominations in which they abound are baptist, congregational, universalist, unitarian and methodist. According to recent statistics, they number 1,235, while in 1891 they were 750. The statistics do not show whether any of them have husbands alive.

Speech.

The mystery of speech is very great. To set a thought afoul on a breath is greater than launching a ship on the sea. To con a feeling and give it wings to fly on a word framed by the lips, is as if you mixed acid muriated gold and breathed into the litage a spark of your

Retailing Dry Goods

at

Reasonable Prices

Store keeping is our business;
our efforts are to constantly sell new, fresh and reliable goods.

The large quantities of merchandise we handle during the year, the leading stores in three towns, with aggregate sales of $200,000 each year (about eight times as much as ever sold by any store in Northville in the same length of time in the past) enables us to handle goods in such large quantities and buy them so cheap that we can sell on a profitable basis at same price or less than many dealers' cost. And by so selling goods the past year we have saved many people the trouble and expense of going to Detroit. As other home stores have also reduced prices, every person can now rely on getting goods in Northville as cheaply as anywhere.

Our stock this spring consists of Dress Goods, Silks, Domestics, Notions, Carpets, Cloaks, Hosiery, Underwear, Shoes, Wall Paper, Dresses, etc.

We do not handle lots of the cheap grades; our prices will be as low as any in the county during the coming year. See score and high prices are a thing of the past. Good, healthy competition is a benefit to the town. Some fellows may be compelled to sell at wholesale prices (but their wholesale price is only our retail price) but such cases only show poor buying and a half hearted interest in business. Our plan: one price to everybody. Goods satisfactory or money back guarantees you a safe place to trade. As we have many new goods coming in now, we invite you to visit our store often. You are always welcome. Our customers tell that our salespeople seem to delight in showing goods whether they sell or not.

Packages delivered when desired.
Carpets made and put down.
Curtains put up. Also made to order.

You can have exclusive patterns in Dress Goods, Silks, Carpets, etc.
This store caters to your wants—don't ask you to cater to ours.
