A Grand Rapids-Ypsilanti Couple Forgot to Bring It.

THE GROOM MAKES A MIDNIGHT DRIVE TO ANN ARBOR

For the Necessary Document and Returns at Two O'clock A. M.

The Couple Happily Wedded at Last Early Sunday Morning

A handsome and blushing to be bride and a happy to be groom stepped from the evening train here Saturday and with light footsteps and fluttering hearts made their way to the Methodist parsonage to have a nuptial knot.

When the clergyman asked for a license the groom's hair began to and the bride's face assumed the posse of a summer's rainbow. He had forgotten to procure the all important document and as the groom from Grand Rapids and the bride from Ypsilanti the nearest license market was Ann Arbor. But when "love laughs at lock-smiths" a distance of 25 miles more or less between Northville and Ann Arbor cuts no figure and in a very few moments the fleetest horse in the local livery stable was scurrying away, with a carriage containing the persevering groom, toward the L. of M. town. The hour of arrival in that city was late and not expecting callers at such a time Washburn's county clerk had "hitched himself to his downy couch." But when one wants a license to wed they want it both badly and quickly and the clerk was ruthlessly dragged from his repose, where he was found after diligent search, to the county building and just before the midnight hour the required document was placed in the groom's hand and the return trip to the village was commenced. It was 2 a. m. Sunday when the clatter of the gallant knight's steed was heard again upon our pavements.

As the roosters commenced to the approaching noon the first parsonage door bell was rung and in a few moments the twins were made one and so they boarded the 6:30 a. m. Detroit clergyman who performed the service pledged to secrecy as the con parties wished to have it a secret. A telegraph from the Rev. W. Wesley P. Wilcox of Gladstone and the bride was born of Ypsilanti.

BRUNSWICK NEWS.

Leslie Jackson is in. Mrs. Clark Graham is seriously ill. Miss M. F. Dietrich has returned home.

Mrs. C. F. Williams returned home from Hudson.

The Misses Collins and Mrs. Armstrong of Elmira were the Christmas Center of interest. They were dressed dead white gauze and white lace.

The Kindergarten opened on Nov. 1, 1896, and thereafter the session runs from 1:15 and closes at 4 p. m. A class will be formed at the beginning of the term for the accommodation of beginners.

The Christmas entertainment held in the Methodist church was a pleasant one. An infant class drill by the infant class drilled by Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Mead.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Ames of Grand Rapids have been spending a week with us here.

W. and M. being Kate Hughes sixteenth birthday the young people gathered there to the evening for merriment.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

Forty-eight diplomas were handed out last week Tuesday at the Cleary college commencement.

The Springwell Times remarks that after taking the gold cure Uncle Sam must have gone to sleep.

The Fenton Independent says that every city and village in Michigan wants the state encampment except Brighton.

Gov.-elect Pingree offers a prize of $25 to the law student of the university who shall enumerate the greatest number of unenforced laws.

An advertiser in the Bancroft Commercial promises "hot bargains" to his customers. He must be a dealer in cocaine, pepper, mustard and colic medicine.

The Holly paper tells of a bride who has had to lose one of her eyes as a result of the popular practice of rice throwing on wedding occasions. Better save the cereal for pudding.

Chelsea folks are agitating a plan to clean out their defunct old pond, flooded from the water works, and then let nature finish the job of converting the resuscitated reservoir into a skating rink. Good scheme, but sposen old Nate won't do it.

William Taylor of Hudson was preparing for soft-soap making when he received a dose of ashes in the right eye that nearly destroyed the sight. "And he winks his other eye." This is no lie—Admiral Press.

Such an antediluvian pun as that should be allowed to lie still in its grave, soap please leave it there. Peace to its ashes.

An exchange says that Lewis W. Miller of Lansing is at work at a job furnished him by the legislature of making a new "complication" of the laws of Michigan. What ever possessed those fellows to delegate authority of that sort? They have always shown themselves to possess original jurisdiction in cases of that nature.

A Toledo father has issued a circular asking for information regarding his two sons 10 and 12 years old who have left home. They are described as follows. "Light complexion, wore light clothes blue caps square cut coats, and fine pants. Eldest has scar on left corner of mouth, youngest scar on left hand." The father's address is Geo. Halstead, Toledo O., care hotel Jefferson.

A New Boston farmer went to Detroit with a load of produce and proceeded to blow in the proceeds thereof finally bringing up to police headquarters as the victim of a sneak thief. A search brought to light the fact that he had an American flag wrapped around his body under his clothes. The Detroit Courier suggests that he probably thought that if "Old Rye" downed him "Old Glory" would protect him from serious consequences.

A printer doesn't rush to a doctor whenever he is out of "sorts" nor to the baker when he is out of "pigs," nor to hell when he wants the "devil," nor to the woodpile when he wants a "stick," nor to the bible when he wants a "good rule," nor to the gun-shop when he wants a "shooting stick," nor to a cabinet shop when he wants "furniture," nor to the bank when he wants "loans," nor to a girl when he wants a "puss," nor to a lawyer when he has a "dirty case," nor to the butcher when he wants "pork," nor to a pump when he is dry, and has ten cents in his pocket.—Unknown origin.

The Scientific American voices a plan that has been suggested of combining with the beginning of the 20th century to divide the year into 13 months, thus making each month except one exactly 4 weeks or 28 days, and the new month 29 days long, with one day added to it for leap years making 365. One advantage claimed for this plan is that calendars would not be needed for reference, as the days of the week in each month would always come on the same dates throughout the year; for instance, if Jan. 1st were Sunday, each Sunday in the year would be on the 1st, 8th, 15th and 22nd, the Mondays on the 2nd, 9th, 16th and 23rd, etc. Other seasons connected with the moon's changes, Easter and various matters are mentioned. Some figuring would be required to get our birthday anniversaries and legal holidays in proper shape, but otherwise all would be plain sailing.

Christmas and New Year Holidays

The F&P M. Co. will sell excursion tickets between all stations on Dec. 29th, 30th and 31st, 1897, and January 1st, 1897, limited for return up to and including Jan. 4th, 1897, at one and one-third fare, for the round trip.

WALLED LAKE NEWS.

Mrs. Maria Wilson is visiting her son James at South Lyon.

Daisy Gould is visiting Mrs. C. C. Green at Drayton Plains this week.

The Methodist Sunday school has elected the following officers: Robert Carns, supt.; John Erwin, assistant; E. Farmer, secretary; Marge Hoyt treasurer.

The Christmas exercises at both churches were very pleasing and both very well attended. The trees were loaded with presents for the children and many of the grown people as well.

SALINIAN NEWS.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Colburn gave a party at their residence on Monday evening in honor of Mrs. Colburn's brother Ed. H. Ryder and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. Ryders here for Traverse City on Wednesday morning where Mr. Ryders will resume his duties in the High school next week.

Dr. Otis Walker, eldest son of Dr. Albert Walker, died at the residence of his parents Tuesday morning, after an illness of several months. The young doctor completed his medical studies and graduated honorably at the Detroit medical college last spring. Incipient consumption had made its appearance in his case at that time and with the hope of averting its later and fatal stages he went early thereafter to southern California but the insidious disease had already fastened itself too strongly upon his system and the exhilarating and salubrious climate of that health giving region was not sufficient to bring back his health.

After a few weeks spent there his mother visited him and thought it best to return to Michigan with him before his enervated and emaciated condition would forbid his taking the journey. Since returning the disease has been steadily wearing him out until death came to his relief. He was a genial companion, a loyal friend, a dutiful son and his early death is universally deplored. His funeral was attended at the congregational church on Thursday at 11 a. m. under the direction of Undertaker Porter of Northville, service conducted by Rev. W. H. Shannon of Wayne. The burial was in the Walkerville cemetery.

HERE was an expectant smile on Grandma Bartlett's face. She pulled the shade over the lamp and drew the curtains, shutting her room in cozily. The clock on the mantel was the old year away from us as it could burst. It was duck and New Year's eve, and that was the time for the cushion ceremony. At half past Fred met Alice on the stairs, and Belle and Arthur came along the hall. Little Letty in her arms, and they each bore a bristling little red cushion in their hands. Grandmother had placed the stockings in a row.

"Come, dearies," she called out, to Arthur's subdued knock. They filed in, laughing.

"Stools of repentance," cried tall Belle, dropping into her hassock. "Grandma my cushion is full of pins, I broke my resolution every other day. I resolved to keep my temper, you know, and I got so tired of poking in a pin, a slip, nights at bedtime."

"Look at my jazz pins," mourned Fred.

"And my behind-time stockings," chimed in Alice.

"I didn't think I did put off things so often," sighed Arthur, and then Baby Letty stuck up her cushion. It was empty.

"Now, dears," said grandma, "please with the ceremony."

"Soberly" they each tumbled their pins into a box on the table. Another stood near it.

"Why, there's not hair so many as last year, grandma!" cried Fred.

"Why, why! And we all felt so badly."

"Clean cushions again," said grandma happily, picking up Letty to hug her. "Now for grandma's New Year's presents."

"There were beautiful books and games."

"Railways feel as if you paid for being naughty," said Alice, looking up with a smile from her book. "But I wouldn't part with my Resolution Cushion for the world!"

Arthur looked at his empty cushion.

"I'm glad those pins are gone," he said. "A clean start for a happy New Year. I say, grandma, how we love you!"

And four impetuous pairs of arms almost smothered dear, gentle grandma.

The error of the Julian year was corrected in the Gregorian calendar by the suppression of three intercalations in 400 years. In order to restore the commencement of the year to the same place in the seasons that it had occupied at the time of the Council of Nice, Gregory directed the day following the feast of St. Francis, that is to say, the 5th of October, to be reckoned the 15th of that month. By this regulation the vernal equinox which then happened on the 11th of March was restored to the 21st. From 1582 to 1700 the difference between the old and new style continued to be ten days; but 1700 being a leap year in the Julian calendar is a common year in the Gregorian calendar, the difference of the styles during the century was eleven days. The 1390 was also common in the new style, and consequently the difference in the present century is twelve days. Between 2100 inclusive it is 11 days.

For the first time in some years we didn't have a "green" Christmas. There was both good sleighing and skating in all parts of Michigan.

The price of spectator admission tickets for the OES hop this Friday evening is but 15 cents, not 45 cents as some people seem to have misunderstood.

The morning session at the Presbyterian church was devoted to the special Sunday school exercises. The program was a nice one and the singing was especially good.

The young men's social club annual ball given Christmas night was a very fine affair and was enjoyed by about 60 couples from Northville, Farmington, Salem and Plymouth.

Wayne county farmers institute at Plymouth January 14 and 15. The secretary wished to particularly impress upon the farmers of the vicinity of Northville the importance of being present.

One of our exchanges is giving some hints on swimming. It is a little out of season for that pastime, but we assume it was intended for the persons of those who persist in skating on the ice.

The Methodist people had Christmas week. On Thursday night of last a far-distance Hutton acted as Santa Claus among the candy and other sweets among the children after which the young girls he children after which tables of cake filled from well known confectionaries.

Election of officer Sunday school for the Methodist will be as follows: the ensuing year re-

The Plymouth Mail says the encampment could not well be the state from Island lake because the buildings there are all up. We had always supposed that soldiers camped in tents. But then of course if the men objects to the encampment being held in Northville, that settles it.

In renewing his subscription to the Region R. J. Little of Battle Creek a former Northville man says, "The Record has improved with age. I was present when it was born and the editor didn't have a second shirt to his back." As was noted in last week's issue the founder of the paper is now a well-to-do Lansing, real estate dealer.

Every lover of the horse is especially invited to come to the Methodist church next Sunday evening and hear what Rev. W. M. Ward has to say about horses and the gospel. This is the first of a series of Sunday evening addresses to special classes of people. They will be bright and instructive and the public generally is invited.

Some of our exchanges are telling of teachers sending home all children who come to school with onion breaths and not allowing them to come back till they have disinfected their mouths. Yet some time these same schoolmen will actually love their husbands, in spite of breaths redolent of cheap whisky and 5 cent tobacco.

Mrs. Crampton received a severe injury on the right elbow Tuesday morning while attempting to get into a carriage. She stepped on one of the spokes of the wheel which was standing on a slippery place and in turning it threw her to the ground bending her fore-arm back nearly double and fracturing the membrane of the elbow.

The U. S. fish station here has so far this year shipped out 3,000,000 eggs and have handled about 13,000,000 in all. The poor eggs numbered but three million this year and there are now about seven million here in the process of hatching. About 200,000 of the fish will be kept on hand for rearing purposes and the balance shipped as fry. The new hatchery building has greatly facilitated this work at the station this year.

W. F. Potter for many years the well known General superintendent of the F&P railroad has resigned to accept the position of general manager of the Long Island and Railway with headquarters in New York city. Mr. Potter had been connected with the F&P for over twenty years, beginning as a train man and to his efforts may be attributed the advanced position that that railroad now holds among the great systems of the country. Mr. Potter's departure will be greatly regretted by those who came into business relations with the F&P.

The Eastern Stars ball at the rock tonight promises to be a highly enjoyable affair. No programs will be used but the ladies assure the public that at least half of the numbers will be quadrilles.

The employees of the whole system feel that they have lost a personal friend.

There is talk of presenting Mr. Potter with a testimonial as a mark of their appreciation of his kindness toward them. W. A. Trump a former Milford boy, a former Milford boy, succeeds Mr. Potter.

The state legislature caucuses next Tuesday night and convenes on Wednesday. It is expected that there will be some very exciting times for two or three days.

The men's meeting next Sunday afternoon will be presided over by that versatile and accomplished writer, F. E. Quigley, better known to the readers of the Record as "Pat Quig."

Something very fine may be expected by those who are present at the appointed hour.

Mrs. Crumbley, who has been a sufferer from Bright's disease for over a year, and who had been pronounced incurable by her physicians, has been successfully treated by a Detroit magnetic healer. About two weeks ago she was taken to Detroit for treatment and is now said to be entirely well.

It will be well for the party coming into power, if it wishes to retain its prestige with the people, that in its efforts to make the revenues of the government meet expenses, it will relieve the poor and struggling classes so far as possible and place the burden of taxation where it can the easiest borne. It is stated the program is to increase the taxes on woolens, raise the rates on embroidery and glass to reimpose duties on lumber, eggs, potatoes, oysters, oysters, and hay, but to continue the exemption of wealth in every form. Instead of too much of this, it would not be better to increase the revenue possibly provide for income tax?

The Ladies Library association received, from John J. Thompson, a Christmas gift of a cord of the best body maple wood, cut from a single tree. The wood was accompanied by a poem, too long to quote here, descriptive with real poetic feeling the natural influences under which the tree grew to stately maturity and how it formed a safe meeting place for Indians and hunters. In early times and how the product of time and creative energy was laid low by a single storm, but is now fulfilling a new and good mission in ministering to the moral and intellectual upbuilding of the community. The board of directors thank Mr. Thompson both for his material gift, and for the happy thought associated with it.

The following good cheer is from Charles Dickens as appropriate for this time: "They do not select the merriest of the 365 days for your doleful recollections, but draw your chair nearer the blazing fire, and if your room be smaller than it was a dozen years ago put good face on the matter and troll off the old ditty you used to sing and thank God it's no worse. Look on the merry faces of your children, if you have any, as they sit around the fire. One little seat may be empty, one slight form that gladdened the father's and mother's pride to look upon may not be there. Reflect upon your present blessings, not upon your past misfortunes, of which all men have some, and Christians will be merry and your New Year a happy one."

Thanking all for past favor we would respectfully solicit a share of your patronage in the future. Mrs. A. O. Coleburn
