THE FLAME BARK.

BY U. V.

IT WAS noon upon the living waters above the sky, with its spread of blue, and its ball of fire; below the sea was clothed in its richest robe of beauty; the azure of each billow, as it rose to sport with the playful breeze that gambled over it, was liged with the golden light of the sun and as it broke into stony, sparkling foam, seemed to fall into the sunlight, a mingled treasure of pearls and diamonds.

A CORPSE ON THE DECK.

startled him, giving notice that the breeze had died away. He rose and looked around, smiling as his eye passed over the sun-brightened scene, where the waves still rose and fell, as if to woo back the departed breeze to romp with them again.

with emotion as she touched the book, and his eye grew fiery as she opened it where a card divided the leaves. For nearly a minute, with a heaving bosom and a face alternate fire and snow, her gaze was fixed, and then, bursting into tears, she dropped the book, from which the card fell, exposing to view her own features traced on it by no unskilful hand; and beneath, written in French, "En souvenir à Madeite, en malheur d'esperance, mais pour bonheur de voir malheur d'ame, Paime."

"Miss Claude will do me the justice to acknowledge that unintentional on my part was this disclosure. But well she may receive as an insult the witness of the adoration of one so much her inferior, who, an hour ago, had only valued the wave-girdled earth in his possession, that it bore her form; for the appearance of that alone has thank heaven, prevented her from smiling on the love of the son of Paul Jones."

The girl had sunk upon the sofa, and buried her face in her hands, against the arm of it. Aubrey stood near it, with an eye as languidly and a brow as calm as ever his patriot father bore, when he trod, among his cheering crew, the deck of his country's foe, his arm had prostrated. He looked around; he scanned the towering masts, extended yards, and the gay wings of his gallant craft, that now hung idly against the mast; and he thought of the days when he had rung out their folds to the sweeping blast, and sped, like the signaling arrow, from his less daring pursuers; or with them fashed to the spar, had dared the wrath of a superior or the force of the dreaded blast.

FORUS-PLASTER ROOF.

A West Virginian Shingled His House with them.

That story about the woman who bought a coin plate engraved with a name different from her own, because, as she said, her husband might die and she might marry a man by that name, and it might come in useful, is probably apocryphal, says the New York Press. But the story of Pompey Cochran, who saved his old porous plasters because they might come in useful some time, and finally shingled his house with them, is true and it comes from West Virginia.

Two hundred and forty quarts of milk saved the home of Farmer Geo. I. Platt at Millford, Conn., from being gutted by fire. Platt runs a dairy and keeps sixty cows. Saturday night's milk was stored in the barn. The farm house was newly shingled Saturday and the old shingles had been put in the cellar, where, on Saturday also, a servant put some hot ashes. At 3 o'clock Sunday morning the shingles caught fire. The well curb was broken and there was no water available, so the farm hands threw milk by the gallon on the fire. The last quart extinguished the last spark.

IDEAL GRANDMOTHERS.

Women Who Know the Laws of Nature and Obey Them May Live to Green Old Age.

Providence has allotted us each at least seventy years in which to fulfill our mission in life, and it is generally our own fault if we die prematurely. Nervous exhaustion invites disease. This statement is the positive truth. When everything becomes a burden and you cannot walk a few blocks without excessive fatigue, and you break out into perspirations easily, and your face flushes, and you grow excited and shaky at the least provocation, and you cannot bear to be crossed in anything, you are in danger; your nerves have given out; you need building up at once!

Wonders Never Cease. Salter's great catalogue paints four vegetable wonders, a Fig, a Peach and a Strawberry Tomato, also an Orange Vine, genuine, splendid novelties. His Golden Ribbed Watermelon created a tremendous sensation in 1897 and took 1,000 first prizes, selling at $1.00 apiece. His Lightning Cabbage is 18 days ahead of other gardeners' earliest. While his Early Peas, Radishes, Tomatoes, Melons, Beets, etc., ripen weeks before their relatives.

DO YOU COUGH? ON THE PLAN OF KEMP'S BALSAM. It Cures Coughs, Croup, Sore Throat, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in its first stage, and a sure relief in advanced stages.

A BACK BLOW.

The Weapon Small, but None More Certain or Effective.

In these times when backs are lame, when almost every other one we meet has now and then, or all the time, a back that aches or pains, "a weak back," "a bad back," a back that makes their life a misery to bear, and still they go on day by day in pain and suffering. Now is the easiest time in the world to give this played out back "a blow" that will relieve it, and put in its place a new one equal to any. It's just like this: bit at the cause; most backaches come from kidney derangement.

IT'S A MANLY ACT. To Speak When Speaking Means Public Benefit. When a Michigan man speaks. Makes a plain, straightforward statement. Gratefully acknowledges assistance. Tells his own personal experience. Makes it public for the public good. It's a manly act. It's manly because it helps others. So many claims made that are not true. Backed by strangers from far away places. No wonder there are skeptics. Many Michigan men appreciate this. They raise their voices with no uncertain sound. Want friends and neighbors to know about it. Know what Doan's Kidney Pills are. And appreciate the merits of a good thing. These words of praise come from Battle Creek.

Heretofore, the advent of a new lady employe in the Record Printery and the distant smell of orange blossoms have been almost simultaneous. The exception to the rule (this is the editor's opinion only) occurs this week when Miss Ella Clark (and by the way, this is Clark No. 3 now in this Printery) took a "sit" at the case.

home. The music and singing, furnished by the Northville quartet and Whipple Bros. was well received and highly appreciated, as was also the recitation by Virgil McNitt of Northville and others. The expression of satisfaction from those who heard the lecture "500 miles on horse back through the Holy Land" by Dr. H. J. Becker in the Baptist church Tuesday evening, show how well he was received. Dr. Becker is a natural and attractive orator and in recitation is a born master of elocution. His lecture was full of information, wit and humor, with his laughable and pathetic stories. With his perfect impersonations he held his audience nearly two hours. The Ladies are to be congratulated on securing so able a speaker, and that he will again soon be called to Northville for another lecture is a foregone conclusion.

Backing for His Pension Bill.

Congressman Smith is giving all his spare time to an effort to get at the real feelings of the veterans on the topics now under consideration relative to the pension problem. He has sent out a grand number of circular letters to Grand Army posts soliciting expressions of opinion on the subject of his bill cutting off the pensions of re-entranced soldiers' widows and also the proposition to limit the pension bill to old veterans. "I am beginning to receive a number of replies, and there is pronounced unanimity of sentiment both in favor of my bill and for the publication of the rolls. In my letters I suggested the desirability of having these matters brought up for discussion at all meetings of the posts and the replies I am now receiving support the strongly expressed views. I am not pressing any extra, presidential orders to reinforce it with an exhibit of the opinions I am gathering, but I have no doubt of its ultimate passage."

Mrs. Alice Hughes, Norfolk, Va., was accidentally burned on the face and neck. Pain was instantly relieved by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, which healed the injury without leaving a scar.

Has been a Bargain Grasper and a Money Saver for many a customer, and it has been a wonder to the people in general that the enormous trade we have been doing the past two or three weeks that there are any goods left; but when the Busy Big Store is full of goods it means an immense stock, and a few days of rapid moving of goods don't clean it out very easily.

And now if you intend buying anything in the line of Dry Goods, Clothing, Carpets, Wall Paper, Shoes, Rubbers, Hats, Caps, or anything in the above lines don't miss this Cost Sale, as I am making this sacrifice of prices to reduce my stock, preparatory to receiving my Spring Stock, which will be the most complete line I have ever shown the people of Northville and Vicinity.
