FALSE ARREST?

Miss Ethel Edwards-Fields Sues for $10,000.

MRS. OLDS OF DETROIT IS A DEFENDANT.

She, the Girl's Foster-Parents and the S. P. C. C. Must Answer.

Ethel Fields, whose age is given as 18 years, began a $10,000 damage suit last week against the Detroit Humane Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, Mrs. Emma Olds, its agent, and Alexander and Laura Edwards, with whom she has made her home. Judge Smith of the Wayne circuit court appointed Mrs. Helen LaGrange as the girl's special guardian for the purpose of prosecuting the suit.

It will be remembered that Miss Edwards or Fields is the young lady who recently made such a sensation by branching out as a "child medium" and whose various escapades were noticed in last week's Record.

The plaintiff says she is also known as Ethel Edwards, owing to the fact that she has lived with the defendants of that name. She alleges that, on the night of April 14 last, Mrs. Olds came to the Odd Fellows' hall, on Maybury avenue, seized her, struck her a number of violent blows, dragged her out into the street, and turned her over to a policeman. She was first taken to the Vincennes avenue station, and from there to the central station, on a street car, where she was searched and registered. She remained in custody from 10:00 o'clock at night until 11:00 o'clock the next day, without being permitted to communicate with her parents or a legal adviser. It is alleged that all these acts were committed wholly without cause or warrant of law.

Mrs. Olds declared that all the charges set forth in the declaration are false. She insisted that she never saw the young girl until after she was under arrest.

Obituary.

Mrs. A. D. Kendrick, the notice of whose death was briefly noted in last week's issue, was born in Beverly, Canada, Nov. 12, 1825. When 14 yrs of age her parents moved to Woodstock, Ontario. At 16 she was converted and joined the Baptist church. In April, 1844 she came with her parents to Mich., and settled in Dryden, Leeper Co. On the 19th of Nov. of that year she was married to Mr. A. D. Kendrick. She remained a member of the Baptist church in Dryden for 11 years, when Mr. and Mrs. Kendrick moved to Novi in 1855. Here Mr. Kendrick joined the Baptist church with her, there being no Methodist church there at that time. Three years later they came to Northville, where they have remained ever since, retaining their membership in the Baptist church till 1884.

Mrs. Kendrick was a lady of irreproachable christian character of positive convictions, which sometimes brought her in sharp opposition with others. She has been out of health for the last eight or ten years, but for a year has been much worse. A week ago last Monday night, she was taken with grippe, from which she did not rally.

Mrs. Kendrick leaves a bereaved husband, three sisters: Miss Salome Cummings of this place, and Mrs. John and Mrs. George Shoemith of Leslie, Mich., and one brother, Jephtha Cummings, also of Leslie.

CHEERED THEM ON.

Northville and Plymouth People Did the Soldier Boys Tuesday.

A hundred or more Northville people went to Plymouth Tuesday afternoon to join in the ovation tendered the soldiers of the 4th regiment, who were on their way from Detroit and Monroe to Island Lake. Shortly after 2:00 o'clock the business men, factory employes and school children to the number of 400 or more from the village headed by a martial band marched to the Union depot where the crowd was swelled to till it reached fully a thousand in number, gathered to cheer the boys of '98. The Detroit part of the 4th regiment did not come through until 3:45, but the crowd was waiting for them. All the business places, factories and schools were closed. At the depot the girls of the Plymouth High-school sang "Michigan, My Michigan," as a parting salute.

EVEN SPANISH CHICKENS

Are Said to Be Unpopular in Patriotic Northville.

Following story on "Cap" Nichols' Spanish chickens is going the rounds and as yet seems to be undepicted. "Captain Nichols of Northville is a chicken breeder of more than ordinary repute and has several varieties of thoroughbreds which are greatly admired. Among the lot is a pen of choice Black Spanish, which has hitherto been allowed the freedom of the yards and gardens of the neighborhood residents. After the news of the declaration of war was received the other day, the neighbors notified the captain that the first Spanish chicken entering on their premises after 4:00 p. m. on that day would meet with the fate of the Battleship Maine. The captain has placed the Spanish under lock and key, and they will not be liberated until the stars and stripes float over Morro castle.

WAYNE'S COUNTY HOUSE

Imposing Structures for the Care of the Poor.

Out of the Michigan Central only fifteen miles from Detroit, is situated a place called Eloise. As one passes it on the train, the buildings there look like big hotel and its attendant dwellings. It is only when one gets off the train and makes a tour of inspection—a task that takes about four hours—that one realizes the real purpose of the buildings. There is a small lake in front of the main edifice, and acres of cultivated land stretch away on all sides of it. The large building at the right is the county house proper and the other buildings are the offices, asylum, doctors' residences, barns, and so on. There are 437 acres of land divided between the asylum and county house, and most of it is under cultivation. On this land $17,000 worth of produce are raised annually.

There are at present 302 male and 55 female inmates in the institution, and all of the able-bodied ones are at work through the summer in cultivating the land or in doing the necessary work about the place; in winter there is coal to be hauled, wood to be cut and drawn and many other things to be done in the way of making carpets and other articles of use for houses. In some instances there has been a complaint made by visitors that men and women who were apparently able-bodied were not working. This is wholly unjust, as there is no chance for dodging work without a certificate of inability from one of the doctors, and neither Dr. Bennett nor Dr. Marker are men who are likely to make mistakes in this line.—Detroit Free Press.

NOVI S. S. ASS'N.

ANNUAL MEETING HELD IN THAT VILLAGE WEDNESDAY.

Every Sunday-school in the Township Was Represented.

The semi-annual meeting of the Novi Sunday-school Association was held Wednesday afternoon and evening in the Novi Baptist church as arranged. Those having the matter in charge have every reason to feel gratified at the success of their efforts, to make the meeting interesting and profitable. The four schools of the township were represented, as well as Walled Lake, Northville and Wixom schools. The attendance was much larger than was anticipated, and the interest manifested in the cause very gratifying to those who are anxious for the advancement of this great branch of church work. It was found necessary to vary the program somewhat, owing to unavoidable circumstances, but while it was regretted that all who had been chosen could not take the parts assigned, their places were ably filled.

The afternoon program, after the opening exercises, commenced with an excellent paper on "Memorizing Scripture" by Miss Effie Risner; then a short discussion on "Mis-use of Questions" ably by Mrs. V. West; a good treatment of the subject of "Parental Responsibility" by Rev. J. Monroe of Walled Lake; a short talk full of bright, practical, pithy ideas by Dr. Marshall of Novi on "How to hold Attention," a fine paper by N. A. Clapp, "The Power of the Sunday-school on the formation of Character," and a grand talk by J. H. Daniels of Northville on "Show Appreciation." These, with short discussions upon some of the subjects treated, made up a session overflowing with interest and profit to all concerned. Between the sessions one of Novi's justly celebrated suppers was served in the church dining-room, about sixty being entertained.

In the evening the time was occupied by a concise, thoughtful and helpful paper by Prof. Bell on "The Teacher's Aim," a characteristically good talk on "The Needs of the Sunday-school" by David Gage, and a timely, comprehensive paper—"Which Way" by E. R. Beal of Northville. If space permitted, it would be a pleasure to give the Record readers some of the excellent thoughts brought out by each and every one of those taking part, as they were well worth repeating and could not fail to stimulate and encourage the Sunday-school workers fortunate enough to be present.

NORTHVILLE LIGHT GUARDS.

They Applied for Admission into The State Troops.

The government's call for state troops calls to mind, that some eight years ago the Northville light guards were organized here and applied for admission to the state troops. To the application, the reply was given that the quota was full at that time but should a vacancy occur they would be ordered out. There were about 70 names regularly enrolled and Fred Wood was elected captain; Wm. Kingswell, 1st lieutenant; Frank Butler, 2d lieutenant; Lou Van, orderly sergeant. With all the state troops now ordered to the front a vacancy exists and the Northville company which has never been disbanded is able to have a chance now to get in the state troops. Inasmuch as Capt. Wood and Lieut. Kingswell are not in the township jurisdiction, the captaincy will fall upon Lieut. Butler and that will promote Sergeant Van to a lieutenantancy and 3d Sargeant D. F. Griswold will become either 2d lieutenant or orderly.

In case the boys are all ordered to the front or Island Lake, within the next ten days the local band may accompany them. The exact roster of the enlistment is now in the hands of Capt. Wood of Detroit but in case of a call will doubtless be forwarded to one of the orderlies here.

Since going to press, the roster has been sent us containing the following names:

Remember The Maine.

The greatest calamity in American history was the explosion of the U. S. Warship Maine in Havana harbor on February 15th last, when 266 brave union soldiers were killed by undoubted Spanish treachery. The sad event and the remembrance of the beautiful ship thus destroyed will remain vividly in the memory of every American citizen of today, so long as he shall live, and then on the pages of history it will be emblazoned until time shall be no more. The picture of a ship floating on the great blue ocean is a beautiful sight at any time and when the scope in a few brief moments is coupled with a catastrophe which shocked the whole civilized world, the interest is greatly intensified and we see with our minds as well as our eyes.

And so believing that our readers would appreciate a little token from the Record quite so much as a beautiful picture of the famous battleship, famous because of disaster, "Maine" we have arranged for the purchase of 1,000 or more of a fac-simile of the celebrated oil painting of the ship owned by H. A. Wheeler of Chicago. The picture is 9 x 14 inches. They are colored to life like appearance and a short time ago were sold in Chicago at 20 cents per copy. We propose to give one copy free of charge to every paid in advance subscriber to the Record.

These pictures will not be given out promiscuously to children. Parents must call for them personally or send a written order. Remember also that they are free only to subscribers who have their subscriptions paid in advance. Nearly all Record subscriptions are paid in advance anyhow and the few who are not can easily become so and receive one. We have a large supply of the pictures and are prepared for a rush. "Remember the Maine."

Suburban News.

Sousa, the famous composer and orchestra leader, has announced his intention to enlist.

Wayne has an electric road. The track was laid last week along Michigan avenue there. The road is now in operation from Detroit to Inkster, from which place to Wayne it is rapidly nearing completion.

Superintendent Oglesby, of the Fenton schools received the first wound of the war, in his section of Michigan. He touched off a cannon at the school grounds, in the way of a patriotic demonstration, and got a thumb blown to pieces.

A Nashville man was taken with cramps a few days ago while assisting his wife to lay a carpet, and his agony was so great that it was feared he would not recover, according to the News of that place. A great many men are imprudent, if not exceedingly reckless, about engaging in violent exercise of this nature, and as the spring house-cleaning time is now here they should pay heed to the above warnings, and if they indulge at all in such injurious exercise, should do so with extreme caution. And then too, Nashville is so near like Northville that the cramp epidemic is all the more likely to find ready victims here.

FROM GLOOM TO SUNLIGHT THE USURER'S DAUGHTER. BY CHARLOTTE M. BRAEME. INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

CHAPTER XXIX.—(Continued.) She glanced at him, her beautiful face full of perplexity; she had gathered a crimson carnation, and was holding it between her slender fingers. "I will tell you, Raoul, I asked my father if love were necessary for happiness, and he said 'No.' I believed him; hence my mistake. "Your father deceived you?" "He did deceive me," she replied. He looked at the downward face. "It is a sad story. Tell me, Hildred, why does your patience fail? I love, Ulric—I love you; I can judge between you. Why does your patience fail?" "I do not wish to speak evil of my husband," she replied, slowly; "the very fact that he has injured me should make me generous to him—the very fact that I dislike him should compel me to speak well of him. I love a noble one."

"How can I influence Lord Caraven?" she asked. "You can do it by patience and perseverance. Say to yourself that the task of your life shall be to make him a good man. Instead of running away from it, devote yourself to it. There is much said of woman's mission—let that be yours, and surely there can be no higher or holier mission than to rouse an indolent man to a sense of his duty; a selfish man from his self-indulgence." "But how could I do it, Raoul?" she asked. "You could do it in some fashion. The well-being of society, a conscientious steward of great wealth, a just land-owner, teach him how to be kind and just and merciful, help him to lead a fair and noble life. Could any woman wish for a more glorious task than this?" "Some of the light that shone on his face was reflected on hers. "It would be a noble task," she said, thoughtfully. "Could I accomplish it, Raoul?" "With perseverance and self-control that would amount to heroism you might," he replied. "You must be the sculptor who, from a mass of qualities, good and bad, integrates, must try to produce a perfect character." "But," she said, doubtfully, "he does not love me." "That does not matter. I prophesy that he will love you in the end—that when you have roused his soul from cost her to say 'Yes,' but she did say it, and she meant it. "Then this is what I suggest. It was about a spray of mignonette that you displeased Ulric last. Gather some beautiful sprays of it, the finest you can obtain, and take them to him. Say quite carelessly, 'You admire mignonette, so I have brought you this.' "And suppose," said Hildred, "that he repays me in kind by throwing it away?" "Never mind—courage and patience must be your watchwords. Ah, Hildred, after all, our likes and dislikes should have little to do with our duties! You will not be alone in your struggles; I shall watch over you, I shall help you, and sympathize with you." "She caught his hand and kissed it. He saw her face clear and a bright earnest light shine in her eyes.

CHAPTER XXX. HE walked slowly down the path, Sir Raoul by her side. She looked round on the four high ivied walls. "I have always loved this little pleasure," she said, "I shall love it better than ever now. It will seem almost like a church to me." "Why like a church?" he asked, with some amusement. "Because one of the best sermons I have ever heard has been preached to me here," she replied. "I have learned a lesson here. I shall never see these high ivied walls or touch a crimson carnation without thinking of you, Raoul, and all that you have said." "Then he watched her as she went from one bed of mignonette to another, looking eagerly for the choicest sprays, holding them up to him with wistful, eager face and sweet, pathetic eyes. "Will this do, and this?" she asked as simply as a child. "Oh, Raoul, I hope he will not be angry—I hope he will be pleased! I shall tell you how I get on. I am nervous about it." In another minute the beautiful face had disappeared, and Sir Raoul was left to the pleasure alone. "A man might lay down his life for such a woman as that," he said, with what was almost a sigh. Lord Caraven stood in the lilliaroom at Ravensmere; he had been playing with one of his friends, who, having received a telegram, had gone to answer it. He stood alone, leaning carelessly against the open veranda, something more than his usual indifference darkening his face; he never liked interruption during a game. "A most inopportune moment," thought the young countess, as she caught sight of him; but, having given her word to Sir Raoul, she would have marched up to the mouth of a loaded cannon rather than have broken it. Looking up, the earl could not but confess that he had seldom seen a lovelier picture than his young wife at that moment presented, with a flush on her face, and her hands filled with sprays of fragrant mignonette. "There!" said a laughing voice. "You said this morning that this was your favorite flower. I have been looking for the most fragrant sprays of it that I could find." (To be Continued.)

BLOCKADE OF HAVANA. The North Atlantic Squadron Before the Cuban Capital—Spanish Fire on It. The blockade of Havana by the North Atlantic Squadron was an established fact by the time President McKinley's proclamation ordering the blockade had been published. The arrival of the squadron before Havana just about dark was announced to the city by three cannon shots from Morro castle, and instantly there was a great stir throughout the Cuban capital. Trumpets summoned the troops; the volunteers, the marines and the regulars seized their arms and hastened to occupy their respective stations. Citizens who had not been called on to join the defending forces, armed themselves and hastened to join the troops. Orders were given to extinguish the lights of Morro castle. Capt. Gen. Blasco inspected the batteries and issued instructions for increasing the forces at the most exposed points. Thousands of people fled into the country during the night, fearing that the city would be bombarded. The guns about Havana fired a number of shots at the squadron at night, but none of them reached the mark. Not a gun was from the fleet in reply. The first shot from an American warship on the Spanish flag was fired 17 miles southwest of Key West. The flag was on the Spanish freight steamer Boeck's Ventura, and the shot was from the gunboat Nashville. The second shot was fired across the Buena Ventura's bow at a distance of half a mile before she lowered her flag. The Buena Ventura was a tramp steamer from Pascagoula, Miss., for Rotterdam with lumber. The Nashville fired a blank shot, which the Spaniards ignored. This was followed by a shot from the gunboat. The Buena Ventura then surrendered with her crew of 20 men. The Nashville towed her prize into harbor at Key West and put a prize crew on board. The news of the capture of the Spaniard set the people of Key West frantic with enthusiasm. All work was suspended and the docks crowded with people. The capture of the Buena Ventura, however, was but the beginning, for before the fleet had fairly arrived in front of Havana the flagship New York was steaming away after another prize. It required a chase of five miles and the firing of several shots to bring the Spaniard to a standstill. When a prize crew had boarded the captive she was found to be the Spanish steamer Pedro de Bilbao, loaded with rice, iron and beer. She was taken to Key West by the prize crew. The next lucky vessel of the squadron was the monitor Ericson which steamed right down under Morro's guns and drove a fishing schooner out ahead of her and turned her over to the cruiser Cincinnati. Other and important captures followed rapidly. The 3,000-ton Spanish steel steamer Catalina, valued with her cargo at a half million dollars, was captured by the cruiser Detroit, 12 miles from Havana and taken to Key West. The Catalina sailed from New Orleans for Barcelona, via Havana. The gunboat Helena brought in the Spanish steamer Michael Jover. The Jover was bound from New Orleans for Barcelona, with a cargo amounting to about 2,000 tons of cotton and staves. She had a crew of 32 men and the prize is estimated to value $400,000. The gunboat Wilmington took the schooner Candilla with a load of charcoal, which is valuable as fuel at Havana. The torpedo boat Porter captured the schooner Mathilde, loaded with sugar and rum, and having a crew of Spanish naval reserves. The torpedo boat Nashua also captured a schooner.

MRS. PINKHAM TALKS ABOUT "CHANGE OF LIFE." Women are Urged to Prepare for this Wonderful Revolution in the Economy of Their Life Blood—Mrs. Watson Tells How She Was Helped. At no time is woman more liable to physical and mental anguish with hours of suffering than at the "Turn of Life." The great want in woman's system is ability to properly adjust herself to the new conditions. The outlet, monthly, of blood is now being diminished and carried into the body for the supply food of its later years. Daughters, you can now to some extent repay your mother's early care. She must be spared every possible exertion. You must help her bear her burdens and anxieties. This critical time safely over, she will return to renewed health and happiness. That so many women fail to anticipate this change thus happily, is owing not merely to lack of care, but to ignorance. There is, however, no excuse for ignorance when experienced advice can be yours free of all cost. Write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., she has helped great numbers of women successfully through the Change of Life, and she will help you. Lydia E. CHAPTER XXXI. HE thought long before she answered him, and then she looked into his face. "I am afraid I do not remember one. Yes, there is one. I have never heard him speak falsely." Sir Raoul's face cleared. "Ulric was a truthful boy," he said. "Do you know of anything else in his favor?" "She thought again. "I think," she replied, even more slowly, "that he is tender-hearted. He is not cruel; he does not like to see people suffer; he is cruel only to me." "True in word and tender of heart—these are two good qualities; we know that he has a handsome face, and easy grace of manner, a musical voice. You see I am trying to discover his good qualities. I will tell you something else. He is a spendthrift—I do not deny it. He may oppress the poor on his estate—that I am sure is done unwittingly; but he has never yet refused to help a comrade in distress. Years ago, when I was a hard-working soldier, with nothing to rely on but my pay, if I would have borrowed, he would have lent me half his fortune. He is open-handed." "Yes," she replied. Sir Raoul smiled. "Listen again, Hildred. He has done all kinds of foolish, mad, senseless actions; but no one ever told of him that he had done a mean one." "It was mean to demand rent from the poor widow whose husband was killed in his service." "I am perfectly certain that John Blantyre has mistimed him," was the reply. "It was mean to marry me for my money," she said, with fushing face. "Ah! there I must yield! It was mean—in one sense, the worst act of his life," said Sir Raoul. "Let us make a resume, Hildred. He is true in word, tender of heart; he was never cruel; he is open-handed; he has committed but one mean action; he is handsome and accomplished, well fitted to win the heart of any woman: Tell me—do you think it quite impossible to love such a character?" "I can hardly tell," she replied, slowly. "I think that Ulric Caraven has in him the elements of a noble character, Hildred. Give to a sculptor a block of shapeless marble, and what does he fashion from it?" "A beautiful statue," she replied. "True. Given a shapeless mass of qualities, good and bad intermixed, I say that a good woman from them can mold a beautiful character. Listen—I will tell you how." He had drawn nearer to her, and the leaves of the crimson carnation fell at his feet; the western wind seemed to pause and listen—it fell with a faint, subdued sigh. "You may run away and leave your home, Hildred; but that will be a com-

"LISTEN, I WILL TELL YOU HOW." His sleep it will turn to you naturally as the sunflower turns to the sun. Do you not foresee it, Hildred? And an almost saintly enthusiasm shone on his face. "It is possible, Raoul, but—" "Nay, be brave. You must not even think of the word 'but.' You must be enthusiastic over it—nothing can be done without enthusiasm. You must give yourself up to it, as a missionary does to the conversion of the heathen; as a martyr does to his death. You must work for it, live for it, die for it. Have you the courage and the constancy for this, Hildred?" The light was deepening on her face, the fire in her eyes. The passion of his words was beginning to tell upon her. "I have both the courage and the constancy," she replied. "Think of the difference in the ending," he said. "Imagine the earl on his deathbed, tortured by the ghosts of those whom he has neglected, by the ghosts of duties left undone, ready to curse the young wife who, by flying from him and leaving him to his own devices, had hastened his ruin, body and soul—picture that. Then fancy to yourself the earl on his deathbed, blessing the dear wife, the noble woman who saved him from ruin, who woke his soul from its long sleep, who taught him how to live and to die. Could you hesitate for one moment between these two pictures?" "No, not for one moment, Raoul. I do not hesitate—I will not hesitate. I will do my life's work." "That is well said. You must resolve to overcome all difficulties—you must say to yourself from the beginning that nothing shall daunt you." "I wish," she said, "that you would tell me what to do, first. I could go on if I only knew how to begin." He smiled gravely. "Perhaps you would think my first lesson a very hard one," he said. "I will do what you tell me, Raoul, let it be what it may." "Then I shall suggest this. You wish to make a little advance—nothing very marked, but some trifling act of civility that will make amends, and show your desire to be what children call 'friends.'" He did not know what an effort it

Well satisfied. Aubrey de Vere gives, in his "Recollections," an account of meeting, in Switzerland, one of those travelers who make it a point of honor to see nothing so good as what they find at home. This man was an Irishman, with whom patriotism was so truly a mania that every word in praise of the scenery about him seemed a distinct aspersion on the land of his birth. "What can you compare here," he demanded, "with the mountains of Wicklow?" "Perhaps," said a traveler, "one might name the mountains of the Mont Blanc range." "Oh," he replied, scornfully, "they're out of all reason! I am after walking along the Chamouni valley for three days, and I only saw four of those mountains. Sure, in Wicklow, I'd have counted as many as eight of them in three hours." "Have you seen this wonderful waterfall within half a mile of here?" "I have not seen it, and I am not going to see it. Didn't I see the O'Sullivan Cascade at Killarney? Down it comes from such a height that you don't know where it comes from. Down it plunges, thundering and howling, sometimes black as ink, and sometimes white as milk, dashing itself against the right-hand rocks and smashing itself against the left-hand rocks. What is your Handeck Falls compared to that?" "Some persons would say," was the reply, "that the waterfall here is about ten times as high and six times as broad." "Ah, then," said he, with an added note of scorn, "then the O'Sullivan Cascade is not big enough for you? And tell me this now: Couldn't you take a magnifying glass to it?" Same Old Frog. George Emig, of Bellevue, Ky., was breaking a big lump of coal the other day, when a frog hopped out of a hole in the center. It had no eyes. Emig is a thoroughly reliable man, and always drinks straight Kentucky goods. Don't judge a man by his size. The biggest fiddle in the orchestra plays the fewest notes.

Change in McKinley's Cabinet. The President has sent to the Senate the following nomination: Charles Emory Smith, of Pennsylvania, to be postmaster general, vice James A. Gary, resigned. Mr. Gary resigned on account of ill health. The Pennsylvania Senators were consulted before Mr. Smith's appointment was made. The nomination was confirmed by the Senate in executive session, without objection.

GREAT POPULAR OFFER! THE FUNK & WAGNALLS Standard Dictionary OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE. It is incomparably the greatest, as it is positive, the latest, most complete, and most authoritative new dictionary in existence. It is every way the standard. ENTIRELY NEW. It is not a reprint, rehash or revision of any other work, but the result of the steady labor for five years of over twelve scores of the most eminent and authoritative scholars and specialists in the world. Nearly 100 of the leading universities, colleges and scientific institutions of the world were represented in the editorial staff; 20 United States Government experts, 10 of the editorial staff. Over 500,000 were actually expended in its production before a single complete copy was ready for the market. Never was a dictionary welcomed with such great enthusiasm the world over. As the St. James's Budget, London, declares: "It is the dictionary of Literary England." It should be a staple of Literary America. The highest praise has come from all the great American and British newspapers, reviews, universities, and colleges, as well as all classes of intelligent men and women everywhere. The Standard Dictionary is $1.00. We will now supply the complete work in one rich, massive volume, elegantly bound in full leather, at the astonishingly low price of $1.00, on the following terms: The regular subscription price of the Standard Dictionary is $1.00. Good Printing!

is like a good painting—it demands and obtains a second glance. The second glance leads to thought about and knowledge of the thing portrayed, and then on to the artist or advertiser.

The kind of printing as well as the kind of painting that it pays to do and to have done is that which obtains this "second glance." Plenty of the other kind!

We are PRINTERS. Our work obtains glances of admiration, and thus leads on to the end desired. We don't do the "other kind." Put us to the test—or if you have already done so, we congratulate you on your good taste. Do it again.

Northville and vicinity people are critics. They can't be fooled with out-of-style, "cheap John," botch stuff—no matter what line it is in, pictures or printing. That's why we like Northville and vicinity people. It's a pleasure to do artistic work for people who know how to appreciate it.

The Record Printery,

Marsh Macomber has disinfected the interior of the city jail, bedding included, with fire and water.

In nearly every church in the United States special prayers will be offered for the safety of this country and its defenders. Northville will doubtless be in line.

The local IOOF lodge attended the the Presbyterian church in a body Sunday morning and listened to a sermon by Rev. J. H. Herbener on "Truth."

The patriotism of many of Northville's citizens is in evidence this week. Jake Miller has his residence and meat market artistically and elaborately decorated with the Stars and Stripes. The Globe Co.'s big flag was also hoisted from the top of the shaft on Tuesday.

In the absence of the pastor of the Baptist church next Sunday, Rev. A. J. Bicknell, formerly of Fort Wayne, Ind., will occupy the pulpit. Subject of morning sermon "The Instructive Ministry of the Word of God." Subject for evening discourse "The Brain and Heart of the Universe."

Dr. T. B. Henry of this place has sent in his name for enlistment as surgeon in the regular army and is likely to be called to the front at any moment. Rev. J. H. Herbener has also tendered his services to the government as chaplain in case there is need for such work.

The Presbyterian young people have received an offer from the manufacturers of White Cloud soap which makes it profitable for them to collect the wrappers. In consequence of this they wish to invite their friends to try this brand of soap. All grocers keep it.

The League's "19" sociable and entertainment in the rink last week Friday proved to be a profitable as well as an entertaining affair even if it was a rainy night. The gross receipts were $19.19 and the society will net $9.19. Thus the "19" proved a lucky number all around.

The Clover Condensing company's plant was sold Tuesday on a mortgage sale to C. D. Waterman, one of the creditors. The plant was struck off for $2,300 and the fresh milk outfit for $400. When about $7,000 more is raised then the farmers of this vicinity will commence to receive their back pay. When?

The annual meeting of the WCTU was held last week and during the session the president, Mrs. VanZile, was presented with a beautiful Oak rocker. The following officers were elected: Fannie VanZile president; Emma Clarkson vice president; Lillie Peck rec. sec.; Hattie Green cor. sec.; Rosa Little treasurer.

A large number of Northville people will visit Island Lake Sunday to assist in giving the soldiers a patriotic "send-off." Heretofore the crowded visitors during the annual encampment has been enormous, but now that there is a revival of the spirit of the '60's—when the boys are to try the realities of soldier life, the enthusiasm will be unbefound.

About 700 of Northville's patriotic citizens turned out Wednesday afternoon to greet the special train carrying the company of Saginaw naval reserves to Detroit. The train passed through at full speed at 5:00 o'clock, amid cheers and waving of hats and flags. Jas. A. Dubuar turned out his whole force, to join in the ovation and the Globe Co.'s whistle blew just as the train came around the curve.

Little Ray Lanning is just about as lucky as his twin brother Day who was squeezed between some saw logs last week. While fishing off the railroad bridge Tuesday Ray fell to the edge of the water, which is quite deep at that point. During the drop he turned once complete over and caught his arm on one of the timbers, in such a manner as to at least save him from getting wet if not from being drowned.

The clerks in the various village stores are about to unite in an appeal to the public to do their trading before 8:00 o'clock p. m. They feel that the hours from 6:00 a. m. to 9:00 or 9:30 p. m. now demanded of them by the patrons of the stores to be unfair and they believe they are entitled to more consideration. The dry goods and millinery stores are now closing at 8:00 o'clock and if the public will co-operate all the other stores can follow suit. Can the people of the community do their trading earlier? and if they can, will they?

Following from the Trenton Visitor is appropriate:—"The question is often asked, 'Why didn't the editor write up this or that social gathering, wedding, banquet, etc.?' Why bless your dear souls, how could she write up what she didn't know? She was'nt there, didn't have an invitation, is no mind reader, nobody told her anything about it, and maybe thought you didn't want it known. When you have a social gathering or anything else of interest, and the editor is not present, just write an account of it and hand it in, and we will appreciate the favor."

Card of Thanks. To the many friends who so kindly rendered valuable assistance during my wife's sickness and death, I take this method of expressing my heartfelt thanks and may the Lord abundantly reward them for their aid so freely bestowed. A. D. KENDRICK.

Flower pots, Jardinières, Brass curtain rods and Novelties at Mrs. Colburn's Bazaar.

The last number of the C. L. lecture course in the Presbyterian church Tuesday night was a fitting close to the series. It was a very enjoyable affair throughout and the society ends its season's work a few dollars richer than when it commenced.

Northville and vicinity is furnishing quite a quota of volunteers for the army these days. In addition to Myron Taylor and Frank Lewis who are now with the 4th regiment at Island Lake, Ed. Mooney has also sent in his name. Albert Lyke has enlisted with the Toledo naval reserves and Jay Welfare, son of Chas. Welfare of near Novi is a regular now on the Cruiser Brooklyn. Thos. Curtis of Novi has enlisted with the cavalry and is now supposed to be at Chickamauga. Will Wesley has also gone with the state troops. Carl Daines of Detroit, formerly of Northville is another 4th regiment soldier now at Island Lake.

Myron Taylor was before Justice Lowden last week on charge of assaulting Mr. Crosby, walking boss in the Globe factory. He pleaded guilty and paid a $50.00 fine. The trouble arose over Taylor's discharge from the factory some time ago and meeting Mr. Crosby on the street last week Thursday night he struck him. Some of the men were reported to have said that they would "chip in" and help pay Taylor's fine but President Beal gave them a calling down at quitting time Saturday night and intimated that if he found out who were in the "chip in" deal there would be others looking for a job.

MICHIGAN ABLAZE.

PATRIOTISM RUNS HIGH AT ALL POINTS.

The National Guards Given Hoisting Orders. Officers at Detroit for Their Camp at Island Lake. Naval Reserves at Detroit and Saginaw Ordered to Norfolk.

War with all its sufferings, privations and horrors is upon us. The glorious old Stars and Stripes which have for over 20 years floated only over scenes of peace are now leading the thousands of Liberty's noblest sons who are to die to bring freedom to a sister nation and to hurl from his hemisphere the last remnant of the tyrant power of one of the most cruel nations God's sun ever shone upon.

And Michigan, my Michigan, as in that last great conflict, thou art ready to pour forth thy children and thy treasure to join the glorious throng.

Yes, Michigan will do her duty. Even before the call to arms was sounded thousands of brave Michigan boys had offered their lives to their country.

The island lake encampment will be a permanent one until the trouble is over. When the militia have finished drilling and been ordered to the front the grounds will be used as a camp of instruction for volunteers as long as there is any necessity for a camp of that kind.

Gov. Fitzgerald engaged military headquarters at 1307 Majestic building, Detroit. Gen. Hill will probably be in charge of the headquarters the greater part of the time.

The departure of the state troops from their various homes was made the occasion for the most enthusiastic demonstrations that have occurred since 61.

Perhaps Saginaw gave her boys the greatest send-off, over 25,000 people witnessing the procession which escorted Cos. D and E, Third Regiment, M. N. G., and No. 3 division of the Michigan Naval Reserves.

Business was practically suspended and almost every building was decorated. Hundreds of school children marched and carried flags. A life and death corps composed of prominent business men and veterans of the civil war created intense enthusiasm.

Everywhere patriotism was at a white heat. All through the towns and cities of both peninsulas the enthusiastic scenes were repeated, and the progress of the companies was one big ovation.

At Island Lake the quartermaster-general's details had been hard at work, and by the time the troops arrived the tents were up and the camp in readiness.

Gen. Wm. L. White thinks the troops will remain at Island Lake three weeks and then start for the south. There will be no drills or functions in the camp, but everything, even in the rations, will be on a war footing.

Gov. Fitzgerald has appointed Capt. Cornelius Gardner, of the 19th Infantry, U. S. A., as colonel of the Fourth regiment, M. N. G.

Two Men Drowned. Arthur Williams and Arthur Narin, aged 21 and 25 years respectively, were drowned in Manistee lake at Manistee.

Naval Reserves Called to Duty.

Gov. Fitzgerald received the following telegram from Washington: Send complement naval militia, officers and men, for Yosemite to navy yard, Norfolk, Va., immediately. Transportation by Pennsylvania railway. Consultant agent at Detroit. Telegraph commandant navy yard, Norfolk, Va. of arrival. T. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

The divisions of the Michigan Naval Reserves at Detroit and Saginaw were at once directed to prepare to act in accordance with the order, but owing to the delay in receiving supplies it was necessary to wait about three days before starting for Norfolk to take charge of the auxiliary cruiser Yosemite.

Later the following telegram was received from Capt. Crowmishield, in charge of the information bureau of the navy department: Before serving on naval vessels enlisted men or naval militia must be discharged from militia and enlisted in navy for one year unless sooner discharged.

There were many strong objections to these orders and there was still more grumbling when orders came for only 155 men. This was out of the entire Saginaw division and left 50 of the Detroit men behind.

War Enthusiasm in Michigan. Throughout the length and breadth of the peninsula the fire of patriotism is burning and thousands of Michigan's brave sons are ready to do and die for their country.

The Michigan boys will be enlisted for one year, will serve together on the Yosemite and will retain their own officers with only three regular navy officers occupying the first positions.

WAR DECLARED.

CONGRESS TAKES THE FORMAL ACTION.

President Calls for 125,000 Volunteers and They Respond at Once—Spain Declares That a State of War Exists—The Blockade of Havana.

President McKinley sent to congress a message recommending a declaration of war against Spain. The President referred to the action taken by the executive under the joint resolutions recently passed by congress for the independence of Cuba.

SPAIN BREAKS AWAY.

Gives Minister Woodford His Passports.

Washington, April 29.—The United States and Spain is a fact, though not yet officially declared so by congress. The state department received a cablegram from Minister Woodford at Madrid stating that he had been handed his passports and had been notified that official relations between the United States and Spain were ended.

The divisions of the Michigan Naval Reserves at Detroit and Saginaw were at once directed to prepare to act in accordance with the order, but owing to the delay in receiving supplies it was necessary to wait about three days before starting for Norfolk to take charge of the auxiliary cruiser Yosemite.

Later the following telegram was received from Capt. Crowmishield, in charge of the information bureau of the navy department: Before serving on naval vessels enlisted men or naval militia must be discharged from militia and enlisted in navy for one year unless sooner discharged.

There were many strong objections to these orders and there was still more grumbling when orders came for only 155 men. This was out of the entire Saginaw division and left 50 of the Detroit men behind.

War Enthusiasm in Michigan. Throughout the length and breadth of the peninsula the fire of patriotism is burning and thousands of Michigan's brave sons are ready to do and die for their country.

The Michigan boys will be enlisted for one year, will serve together on the Yosemite and will retain their own officers with only three regular navy officers occupying the first positions.

Gov. Fitzgerald engaged military headquarters at 1307 Majestic building, Detroit. Gen. Hill will probably be in charge of the headquarters the greater part of the time.

The departure of the state troops from their various homes was made the occasion for the most enthusiastic demonstrations that have occurred since 61.

Perhaps Saginaw gave her boys the greatest send-off, over 25,000 people witnessing the procession which escorted Cos. D and E, Third Regiment, M. N. G., and No. 3 division of the Michigan Naval Reserves.

Business was practically suspended and almost every building was decorated. Hundreds of school children marched and carried flags.

Everywhere patriotism was at a white heat. All through the towns and cities of both peninsulas the enthusiastic scenes were repeated.

At Island Lake the quartermaster-general's details had been hard at work, and by the time the troops arrived the tents were up and the camp in readiness.

Gov. Fitzgerald has appointed Capt. Cornelius Gardner, of the 19th Infantry, U. S. A., as colonel of the Fourth regiment, M. N. G.

Arthur Williams and Arthur Narin, aged 21 and 25 years respectively, were drowned in Manistee lake at Manistee. They were crossing in a rowboat with three other men to East Lake and tried to catch a tow with the tug Frank Canfield, which was passing them.

Uncle Sam Says: This is America's Greatest Spring Medicine.

Happiness is not self-gratification or self-sufficiency. It is merely the habit of good intentions. There is a vast difference between philosophy and felicity. To forget self even for a moment must be happiness.

Trouble for Congressman Smith.

Novi, April 28, 1898.

Editor Record: Permit me to express my regret over the appointment of a new postmaster here. It reveals a very interesting story of a political nature and it is the general opinion that Congressman Smith has again "put his foot in it," and this latest evasion of public preference and unwarranted submission to the dictates of a small minority has, as one prominent republican expressed it, cost 75 votes for him, should he again run for Congress, and the minority mentioned seems to be made up principally of Mr. Geo. W. Whipple, who has political aspirations higher than his reach, and whose following in the republican camp is presumably increased by the magnitude of his support received when his name was mentioned for supervisor at the last republican caucus where he received a total of some seven votes. And now George poses as a candidate for register of deeds, and evidently thinks he carries Novi around in his pocket.

There has been but one logical candidate for the postmastership here and that was C. E. Goodell, whom the congressman had evidently intended to appoint until he was scared on to a new track by those whose apparent aim has been to run the town to rack themselves. It is said that Mr. Wooster has done some good work for the party. No doubt of it, and the same can be truthfully said of hundreds of other loyal Novi citizens. It seems however that Mr. Goodell's candidacy for the postmastership was given a severe set back by the "push" when his brother, George Goodell an old war veteran, dared to put in a bid for carrying the mail to and from the depot. (a job that had been held by one Mr. Whipple for some 20 years) a bid which secured him the $100 a year job. If the majority of the republican party is to be of any account, Congressman Smith has not respected it in this case, for the selection has been a direct slap, on both cheeks, of the rank and file who make up the majority. The only other candidate besides Mr. Goodell was Mr. Kirby but the "push" after evidently giving him for a tool, even turned him down at the last moment and then the congressman appointed a man who had not previously been an applicant. How this will all end yet remains to be seen, but it is quite evident that Congressman Smith will be given to understand that Novi is no longer to be governed by one or two men. REPUBLICAN.

Something to Know.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the liver and kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or 1.00 per bottle at Geo. C. Huston's Drug Store.

Mrs. Cleveland's New Portrait.

Mrs. Cleveland recently had a new set of photographs taken, the first time she has been photographed since leaving the White House, and has given them to Mr. Berk with permission to publish them in THE LADIES HOME JOURNAL, where they will be probably seen for the first time. The set also includes the first authoritative photographs published of the new Princeton house of the Clevelands.

Settles Nervous Bankruptcy.

Investigation shows that men who succeed are men of brains—strong nerves—great will power. Ordinary food cannot supply the vital forces which people with active brains and bodies require. BICOLA PILLS feed the nerves—make the mind bright, muscles strong—make flesh and blood and give perfect health to men and women. THE PURVES OF PHILADELPHIA make BICOLA PILLS.

J. E. Buckley, Chief Clerk National Hotel, Washington, D. C., testifies that he was all run down—was a shadow of his former self—Bicola Pills gave him wonderful relief—he gained over twenty pounds after using them. Huston Pharmacy, Northville Agent.

Turner's Little Liver Turners—A very small pill Turn your liver. Cure Sick Headache—Biliousness—Indigestion.

M. L. Younig, Cameron, Pa., says: "I was a sufferer for ten years, trying most all kinds of pile remedies, but without success. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve was recommended to me. I used one box. It has effected a permanent cure." As a permanent cure for piles DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve has no equal. Murdock Bros.

Household Gods.

The ancient Greeks believed that the penates were the gods who attended to the welfare and prosperity of the family. They were worshipped as household gods in every home. The household god of today is Dr. King's New Discovery. For consumption, coughs, colds and for all affections of Throat, Chest and Lungs, it is invaluable. It has been tried for a quarter of a century and is guaranteed to cure, or money returned. No household should be without this good angel. It is pleasant to take and safe and sure remedy for old and young. Free trial bottles at Geo. C. Huston's Drug Store. Regular size 50c and $1. 2

General Debility and Loss of Flesh

Scott's Emulsion has been the standard remedy for nearly a quarter of a century. Physicians readily admit that they obtain results from it that they cannot get from any other flesh-forming food. There are many other preparations on the market that pretend to do what does, but they fail to perform it. The pure Norwegian Cod-liver Oil made into a delightful cream, skillfully blended with the Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, which are such valuable tonics, makes this preparation an ideal one, and checks the wasting tendency, and the patient almost immediately commences to put on flesh and gain a strength which surprises them.

Be sure you get SCOTT'S EMULSION. See that the man and fish are on the label. Sold in 50c and $1.00 bottles. SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.
