NORTHVILLE WELL REPRESENTED

IN THE PRESENT DIFFICULTIES WITH SPAIN.

No Less than Twenty of Her Boys Have Enlisted.

In the present Cuban war Northville is well represented. Besides the present independent military company organized some time ago and which at the present hour has over thirty men drilling and anxious to go to the front, some twenty of the boys have already enlisted.

As near as we are able with the data at our command the following is a complete roster of the enlistment from Northville and where located:

SECRET SOCIETY PIN.

How It Comforted a Little 8-year Monroe Miss.

On one of the trains arriving in the city this week was a little lady accompanied by a body-guard of seven big, strapping men, ranging in age from 21 to 50 years and every want was anticipated and every attention possible was being paid her; and the little queen, although only 8 years old, seemed perfectly happy and contented, says the Mt. Pleasant Times. But hers was a sad story. Bereft of father and mother at once by a terrible accident in a little town in Wisconsin, she had been put on board a train ticketed for Monroe, Mich. Only on nearing Mt. Pleasant had she learned that she would be compelled to spend the night here alone and among strangers. No wonder the little heart was breaking and the little body shaking with sobs. The frightened, distressed look upon her face appealed to the kind heart of a gentleman sitting near and sympathetic consolation soon drew from her the sad story. While she was telling the facts he noticed upon a handkerchief about her neck a society pin corresponding to the one he wore on his watch guard. She told him that it had belonged to her papa. Little did she understand its value, but it proved the talisman that summoned her knight-errant, for the gentleman soon passed through the train and found six similar badges, and as soon as the story was known seven men were devoting themselves to the little waif. Among the number was one who lived in the city and the little one was taken to his home and cared for along his own dear ones and escorted to the south bound train in the morning. The badge did it. Sure, it might have happened without; but it was a reminder to them of obligations, of duty, and it drove away the clouds and seven men were better, happier and stronger for the incident. If all members of fraternities would live the lessons taught them in the lodge room how much brighter this world would be!

He Won The Race.

One day last week an Oakland farmer started to take two ladies and a boy to Orion, driving a span of somewhat spirited horses, the ladies sitting on the back seat of the vehicle, relates the Rochester Era. All went well until another team drove up and the equines, not to be outdone in speed, started at a lively gallop, breaking the back seat and precipitating the ladies to the ground. The man who had driven up used all his available lung power to stop the farmer's team and inform him that he had lost his passengers, but it was not until over a mile was passed that he succeeded in informing him of what had happened. Then they returned to the place of the accident and found the ladies badly scared and somewhat injured, one having fainted away, but except for a severe shock and some bruises, no serious injury was done.

A $4,000 COURT HOUSE JOB.

Beal & Daniels Captured One Last Week.

While out for his firm last week H. E. C. Daniels secured a contract for the Globe company for the interior furnishings of a new court house near Chicago. The job will amount to about $4,000. The competition for the contract was very lively, Chicago, Grand Rapids and other well known furniture cities being represented.

IT WANTED TO BE A METHODIST.

A BAPTIST MINISTER'S BOY'S EXPERIENCE.

He Tried to Save the Cat by the Immersion Process.

The following real good story comes to the Record reporter all the way from Farmer, New York, and as an actual occurrence it is just about the funniest thing ever put in print.

In that thriving little hamlet, lives Rev. Mr. St. John, pastor of the Baptist church. The family are blessed with one four-year old son, Merrill by name, who has inherited from his father all the traditional importance of baptism by immersion and by close attention given to the ceremonies as performed in the church, is able to repeat it word by word. A few days ago he managed to fill a tub in the back kitchen with water and, catching the family cat and her two young offspring, proceeded to inculcate into them one of the essential rites of the Baptist church. At the end of the ceremony, each of the kittens took their immersion with a calm-like spirit, but when the mother was posed on her back and the "dip" commenced, there was a splutter, and a scramble and two long red lines from the cats claws were left along the little fellow's arms. Realizing only the importance of his work he soon had the mother cat back in position and after once more going through the ceremony the plunge was attempted, but the result was more disastrous even than before. The scratching and biting was too much for the boy, and as he threw the cat from him he exclaimed, "Damn it, be a Methodist then if you want to."

THE RECORD IS ALL RIGHT.

So Says Such High Authority As Newspaperdom.

The following compliment is from no less a source than Newspaperdom, of New York city, one of the leading newspaper journals of the United States.

"The Northville (Mich) Record presents a handsome face, the result of the installation of a new Babcock press. The Record's job department is turning out work that is much above the average in artistic beauty and mechanical execution. With the new press in, arrangements now making will soon permit the Record to become an all-home-print paper."

Orion is now having its annual crop of burglars.

It is stated that all recruiting for the army and navy has now ceased as the call for volunteers has been filled.

Among the wounded at Santiago last week's Pontiac papers announces the name of Bert Allen a popular young man of their city.

One of our exchanges (South Lyon) has coined a brand new word. It tells of a marriage that was lately "solemnated" in that village.

The Orion Camp Ground Assembly was formally opened last week Tuesday with a large attendance and a fine program of addresses and music.

Those new cement walks at Farmington have stimulated a desire for more improvements and now the main street stores are to have new awnings.

An Orion man has a horse with a mane 4 feet and 8 inches and a tail 7½ feet long, according to the Pontiac Gazette. Its a very horsey tale, but may be true in the main points.

A dozen or more brave Oxford ladies last week succeeded in killing an eight inch snake along the village streets and they will ask congress to give them medals for their bravery. Don't forget the harvest feast July 21.—Plymouth Mail.

O certainly not, since you insist but you don't want to invite too many hungry editors you know, charity begins first at home—and thereafter.

Bert Parker, who assaulted his employer near Holly last week, has been exonerated by the coroner's jury of causing the death of Mr. Halstead, an autopsy having demonstrated that the death of the latter was the result of heart disease.

An E. M. A. man lost $60 on Saginaw street in Pontiac one evening last week. He did the "early bird" act next morning and got the worm his was after in the shape of his nice little roll of bills which he found lying undisturbed on the side walk.

Pontiac people are agitating the early closing movement for the business places of the city. It is proposed to except one or two evenings in the week, but Saturday night is not desired as one of these, and to obviate the necessity of its being so it is suggested that Monday be the pay day of the factories etc.

Henry Ward is driving cattle to his farming lands in Northern Michigan. A herd of over 300 started last week. He designs to make about ten miles a day, feeding along the way and in the meantime buying up all the cattle he can. He will make another similar trip in the fall.—Orion Review.

Two negro boys, ten and seven years old, shamefully maltreated the five year old grandson of City Marshal Davis of Pontiac recently. The authorities are puzzled what to do in the case, as one of the young wretches is not old enough to be arrested and the other seems to furnish no adequate method of dealing with the other.

A. J. Miles near Oxford, 50 years old, left his home July 6th to deposit $200 in the bank, and has not been seen or heard of since. He left a wife and five children without means of support. His home life was happy and he was a man of good habits. A man answering to his description was drowned a few days ago in Detroit, to which city he has been traced.

An old lady from Oxford, Mich., who with her husband has spent the winter in this state, was asked by one of her neighbors if she had heard an earthquake while in California.

"Yes, I heard one," she answered, "and rather enjoyed it; for it was the first thing that happened since John and I have been married that he did not think I was to blame for it."—The (San Francisco) Argonaut.

The electric railway to Northville seems to have completely subsided into a quiet rest without even a decent burial. A month and a half ago it was just hustling things, became incorporated, had bonds for sale, hauled material on the ground for its construction, was going to be ready to carry passengers from Northville down here the Fourth, etc. But now? It may be existence but a close scrutiny of the horizon fails to bring even a dim outline of its cars in sight. The only outline known of was on paper and there is where the road is yet and it is liable to remain there for all time as far as we know.—Wayne Review.

FOR CONGRESS.

THE ADRIAN ATTORNEY WAS NOMINATED.

Took 393 Ballots to Settle the Republican Battle.

The unexpected happened at the republican congressional caucus at Ann Arbor yesterday afternoon and on the 393d ballot Henry C. Smith, the Adrian attorney was nominated. General Spalding's defeat is attributed in a great measure to J. H. Bishop of Wyandotte.

Cashier Power Wanted the Spaniard's Autograph.

PONTIAC, Mich., (Special Telegram to Tribune July 21).—At the time of Admiral Cervera's imprisonment at Annapolis, Cashier D. H. Power of the Oakland County Savings bank of this city, sent the admiral a letter, requesting his autograph. Mr. Power inclosed a check for $1, asking the admiral to have a good cigar. Yesterday Mr. Power received a letter from the admiral's son and inclosing the check. The following is the letter:

"My Dear Sir: The admiral (my father) directs me to tell you that he takes great pleasure in sending you his autograph, as he does. However much he would like to smoke a good cigar with you (if he smoked) You will understand that he cannot take the dollar for that and directs me to return the check yours,

HOW WM. LYNDON OF PLYMOUTH DID NOT LOSE $3.

A Detroit Clothier Tried to Flim-flam Him Tuesday.

William Lyndon went into Detroit from Plymouth Tuesday with friends. They dropped into the store of M. Bush at 370 Gratiot Ave., and looked over some clothing. Finally Lyndon thought he found a suit for $3 that was the proper thing for him. He forked over the $3 and Bush asked for $2 more. Lyndon demurred and said he thought the price of the suit was $3. Bush said he would keep the money as a deposit and Lyndon could get the suit when he furnished the $2 balance. Again Lyndon remonstrated, but in vain. Then he sought the police justice and swore out a warrant charging Bush with larceny by conversion of the $3. After listening to the evidence in police court Wednesday Police Justice Whelan fined Bush $10.

Fine Groceries for Fine People.

Four reasons why many of our first families go out of their way to buy here:

Do you know that many of our customers are the most particular people in this town? They are people who have tried other stores—but were never fully satisfied until they came here.

WHY?

- First—because we sell "guaranteed groceries"—groceries guaranteed to be best in every way. No auction groceries; no seconds.
- Second—because we give you your money back the minute you want it—the minute our goods fail to please.
- Third—because our groceries are fresh and clean and pure. Nothing is allowed to grow old or old looking. We think we have the model grocery of Northville.
- Fourth—because our prices are lower than many other grocers who sell good groceries.

If you are not fully pleased with your present grocer, send us a trial order. You can go back to him again—if you choose.

SUNFLOWER PHILOSOPHY.

A girl just naturally hates boys until she is 12 or 13 years old. Other people don't take as much interest in your children as you do. Half the people work too much, while the other half don't work enough. Rob with a velvet hand instead of a pistol, if you want to get away with it. Every time a circus comes to town all the local band men want to join the band. A woman regards her social debts as sacred as her debts at the dry-goods stores. Haying to work very hard every minute is as good for a man's soul as religion. One of the worst things about friends is the manner in which they abuse each other. Seventeen Atchison women have been blacklisted, they go to all the parties and never give any. People have become so accustomed to tough luck of late that they do not pay much attention to it. About all some people do is to follow other men around complaining of the way they do their work. A woman never gets so old that she outlives an attachment for the wedding presents which were given her. This is not the year for a fat man to be ashamed of his weight, the point is to have a great displacement. Some people think that if they put "Town" on an envelope instead of "City" it is a sure sign of culture. A sober man hates a drunkard. Men who occasionally "get full" should remember this and keep out of sight. Women are now working a great graft by saying they can't wear silk stockings because they hurt their feet. The people waste a terrible portion of their lives in trying to be prettier than the Lord ever intended them to be. The women are looking up Physicians who order their patients to spend the summer at some resort for their health—Atchison Globe.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT.

Erver Wardman, editor of the New York Press, is a private in Troop A First New York cavalry, doing active duty at Camp Alger. The Sons of the Revolution of the state of New York recently unveiled a handsome monument to the memory of Gen. Seth Pomeroy, a revolutionary patriot in Peekskill, N. Y. Ira D. Sankey, the famous evangelist, has sent to a New York paper a parody on "Marching Through Georgia," which, he says, is very popular with the soldiers at Tampa. George Frederick Watts, R. A., has placed his famous portrait of the late William E. Gladstone at the disposal of the trustees of the National Portrait Gallery of London. Hall Caine, writing in McClure's Magazine, claims that he knows his bible as few literary men know it, and that the inspiration for all his stories was found in that one book. The Oxford Union is the first in the field with a memorial to Mr. Gladstone. He was president of the Union in 1829, an office which he held six months after Sir Thomas Acland, whose death so closely coincided with his. The memorial is to take the shape of a bust. Lieut. Victor Blue is a graduate of the United States Naval academy, a late Col. John Gilchrist Blue of South Carolina, who was a gallant Confederate officer, the grandson of Col. John Blue, who served with eminent distinction in the war of 1812, and the great-grandson of Capt. John Blue of the revolutionary war, and of Capt. John Gilchrist of the British navy. When the Astor Battery men get through with their Manila engagement they will go to the Paris international exhibition. It is the present intention of Col. Astor to go to Paris with the battery, and should accident or casual circumstances prevent this, he has made such disposition as will enable his agents not only to carry out his idea, but to supplement it with an extended European tour.

WORTH REMEMBERING.

Spain was one of the first three powers to recognize the belligerency of the confederacy. The vocabulary of an ordinarily intelligent educated person includes only about 4,000 words. The double entry system of book keeping, now in common use, was first practiced in Italy in the latter part of the fifteenth century. The first vessel to carry the American flag around the world was the ship Columbia which sailed from port of Boston, Sept. 30, 1787.

ADMIRAL DEWEY WAS FIRM.

Asked German Commander to State His Position.

INTERNATIONAL-LAW QUOTED.

The Germans Resented the Boarding of their Vessels on Entering the Harbor—Are Asked if Their Nation is a Friend or a Foe.

Manila Bay, July 15 (via Hongkong, July 20).—Admiral Dewey has requested from Admiral Diederichs an explanation of Germany's position in the Philippines. He has also protested against the German admiral's disregard of the American blockade of Manila. For several weeks Germany has been constantly enlarging its fleet in these waters, until now all German ships on the Asiatic station, with the exception of the Deutschland, the Arcona and the Gefion, are either in Manila bay or in its vicinity. The German naval officers have taken pains to show particular friendliness toward the Spaniards, as for example in saluting the Spanish flag at Manila on the arrival of every additional German ship. The German officers have visited the Spanish fortifications and trenches and the Manila newspapers have asserted that the presence before the city of so many German ships enabled the Spanish authorities and the people of Manila to regard the American fleet with complacency.

Three weeks ago the German admiral told Admiral Dewey that three of his ships were to depart, but they went only as far as Mariveles, Subig-bay and Cebu. On June 27 the McCulloch met the Irene, one of the German fleet, at Corregidor Island, preparing to enter the bay, and signaled to her: "We wish to communicate with you." The Irene paid no attention to the signal, and proceeded on her way until a small boat was sent out to her from the McCulloch. The captain of the Irene explained the matter by saying that he had misunderstood the signal. The action of the Irene in interfering with the attack by the insurgent vessel, Filipinas on the Spanish garrison at Isla Grande, in Subig bay, was in line with the attitude adopted by the German naval officers here. As soon as the insurgents reported the matter to Admiral Dewey he dispatched the Raleigh and Concord to Subig bay and captured the Spanish garrison, the Irene departing hastily on the arrival of the American warships.

Four days ago Admiral Dewey sent an officer to the German flagship with a request that Admiral Diederichs make a statement of the German attitude in the matter of the blockade of Manila. At the same time he delivered a protest against various actions by German officers, such as have been mentioned here. The German admiral sent an immediate explanation. Two days later, however, he sent a protest to Admiral Dewey against the action of American officers in boarding German ships coming to Manila from Mariveles. He cited the incident of the McCulloch and the Irene at Corregidor. Admiral Dewey replied to this very courteously, but very firmly. He pointed out to the German admiral that international law gave to the commander of a blockading fleet authority to communicate with all ships entering a blockaded port. As international law permitted warships to fly any flag they chose in order to deceive the enemy, the nationality of vessels entering the bay could not be determined absolutely without communicating with them. He announced his intention to communicate with all ships entering the bay. For the German admiral's further information Admiral Dewey told him that if Germany was at peace with the United States the German naval officers here would have to change their methods, and that if Germany was at war with his nation he desired to know it at once in order that he might act accordingly.

Presumably the German admiral is still meditating on this message. The German warships now here are: The Kaiser, flagship, a first-class armored cruiser of 7,500 tons, mounting eight ten-inch guns and a formidable secondary battery, the Kaiserin Augusta, a first-class steel cruiser of 6,000 tons, with twelve five-inch guns and a quick-firing battery; the Irene, a second-class cruiser of 4,500 tons, mounting five-inch and quick-firing guns; the Cormoran, a third-class cruiser, about the size of the Concord, but scarcely so well armed; the Prinzess Wilhelm, a second-class cruiser, as large as the Baltimore, but out-classed by her in armament and speed. The Boston has gone to meet the transports conveying to Manila the second detachment of troops.

Book-Paper Mills Shut Down.

Appleton, Wis., July 20.—It is reported here that the Western Book-Paper Makers' association, which comprises chiefly the Wisconsin, Michigan and Ohio manufacturers of this grade of paper, have determined to shut down for the summer months at least. Four Appleton mills are affected. A big rise in the price of book paper is looked for.

Twenty-Four Die in a Mine.

Breslau, July 20.—A dispatch from Gletwitz, Prussian Silesia, says that twenty-four persons have been killed by a cage accident at the Paulus colliery, near Morgersdorf.

No Agreement Reached.

London, July 20.—The conference of coal owners and miners at Cardiff failed to reach any agreement. The Welsh coal miners' strike therefore continues.

SCHLEY IN SANTIAGO HARBOR.

Spanish Flag Lowered from the Heights of the Fortifications.

Santiago, de Cuba, via Playa del Este, July 20.—At exactly 9 o'clock Sunday morning the Spanish flag, was lowered from the staff crowning the heights upon which battered Morro Castle spreads half way. The lowering of this emblem of the defunct sovereignty of Spain in this part of the world was witnessed by a few Spanish and American troops on shore and by the Brooklyn, New York, Vixen and Vesuvius, lying within a few hundred yards of the harbor entrance.

Almost immediately after the flag was hauled down steam-launches commanded by Lieuts. Hobson and Palmer entered the harbor, penetrating as far as the firing stations of the submarine mines. These mines were judged to be not so formidable as expected, and later in the afternoon they were all exploded under the supervision of the Vixen. Six or seven steamers in the harbor fall as prizes to the army and navy. The Spanish gunboat Alvarez had already been taken possession of by a prize crew from the New York. The other vessels lie at the other end of the harbor, at Santiago proper.

Scotfield After Information.

Madison, Wis., July 20.—Gov. Scofield telegraphed to Col. Born of the Second and Col. Moore of the Third Wisconsin regiments at Charleston to get official information of the alleged overtaking of the members of the regiments last Saturday when they were marched ten miles at Charleston with no breakfast and the temperature 110°. It was reported that only a few of the men stood the ordeal, and many were in the hospital from the effects. Gov. Scofield would not say what he should do if the facts were as bad as reported, but it is thought a protest may be filed at Washington.

Glassmakers to Resound.

Anderson, Ind., July 20.—The Wagoner Flint Glass Company, operating plants at Ingalls and Frankton, and the McCollough Company, operating plants at Marion, have notified union flint glass workers that because of the union's refusal to permit its men to work in the summer they will immediately reopen their plants with non-union workmen and manufacture fruit jars. The market is cleaned, prices are high and the demand is enormous—the greatest since 1891.

Two Killed in a Train Wreck.

Jeffersonville, Ind., July 20.—The west-bound air-line passenger train leaving Louisville at 6 o'clock Monday was wrecked at Georgetown, nine miles below here, and Engineer William Cravens and John Elwood, a passenger, were killed. Cravens lived in New Albany and Elwood at Corydon Junction. A tramp who was beating his way was fatally injured. The wreck was caused by a repair engine which had stopped temporarily and failed to hang out a signal.

Two Killed in a Storm.

Elma, Ia., July 20.—A severe electric storm accompanied by a high wind passed over this section about 5 o'clock Monday afternoon, causing loss of life and doing great damage to farm property. At the farm of John Beaver, four miles west of town, the family had taken refuge in the cellar, when lightning struck the building and instantly killed Mrs. Beaver and a 14-year-old daughter, and so seriously injured a younger child that her recovery is considered doubtful.

Spain Gets Ready for Watson.

Madrid, July 20.—The defense works are being actively pushed at all the Spanish ports. The newspapers here assert that the United States intends to demand an enormous indemnity "in order to have the pretext to seize the Philippine Islands as a guaranty." The supposed American peace terms are greatly exciting the public, and the opinion is expressed among the people that war to the death would be preferable to the ruin of Spain.

Coal Discovered in Alaska.

San Francisco, Cal., July 20.—A rich deposit of coal, said to be equal in quality to Pennsylvania anthracite, has, according to advices from St. Michael's, been discovered some 400 miles up the Koyukuk. The river empties into the Yukon, and is navigable up to where the coal has been located. Should the statement prove true it will revolutionize gold mining in the Klondike.

Want Immigration Checked.

Topeka, Kan., July 20.—State Labor Commissioner Johnson has tabulated figures, showing the condition of laboring classes of Kansas. He finds that 96 per cent of those reporting favor the restriction of foreign immigration, the remaining 4 per cent being non-committal.

Foresters' Case in Court.

Milwaukee, July 20.—The injunction case of the supreme court, United Order of Foresters, having lodges in the northwestern states, came up in the superior court before Judge Ludwig Monday, who, after hearing argument of counsel on both sides, took the case under advisement until Wednesday.

Gold Output Not Large.

San Francisco, Cal., July 20.—The Klondike miners who have returned to civilization on the steamer St. Paul place the total output of the district surrounding Dawson City at about $10,000,000 a season. This is considerably less than previous estimates.

Case Is Still Open.

London, July 20.—The Times declares that there is no foundation for the reports that a decision is imminent in the Delagoa bay arbitration, with an award of £2,500. It says the case will not be settled for at least three months.

ARE BETTER BICYCLES THAN CAN BE BOUGHT IN AMERICA FOR THE SAME MONEY

We employ no traveling men, issue no expensive circulars, sell our entire output to the riders for cash only, have no bad debts, therefore can sell BICYCLES 100 per cent cheaper than any manufacturer in the United States. We never deceive the public. No one can succeed in so doing. Our bicycles are sent subject to approval without any advance whatever. We expect to sell 15,000 bicycles in 1898 and we only want to make $1 each. We much prefer to sell 15,000 at a profit of $1 each than 1,000 at $15 each. Any price above ours made by other concerns are made so by extravagant expenses, and don't let anyone convince you that you should pay for extravagances and bad debts of others. INDIANS AT OMAHA.

ASSEMBLY OF ALL THE TRIBES AT THE EXPOSITION.

Congress Provided for This Rare Ethnological Exhibition—Aboriginal Habits, Games, Etc., to be Illustrated—The East Gathering of the Kind.

Before the 55th congress adjourned an appropriation of $40,000 was made for the purpose of having an assembly of all the Indian tribes at the Trans-Mississippi Exposition at Omaha this summer. This will undoubtedly be the rarest ethnological exhibition ever attempted in this or any other land. Situated in the heart of the great American union, within easy reach of all the remaining great Indian reservations, it has been possible, at comparatively slight expense, to gather upon the Exposition grounds a show which would be possible nowhere else in America.

Delegations from every tribe in the Union will be on the grounds at one time or another during the Exposition in their wickiups, tepees, wigwags and cabins, pursuing their usual avocations and illustrating their dances, religious rites and savage customs, make up a show unlike anything ever before presented. Each type will be exhibited in appropriate costume with weapons, utensils, industrial appliances and handicraft. Their games, solemn festivals, peculiar customs and natural surroundings will be reproduced. In connection with these illustrations of savage life, exhibits of their industrial advancement, their school work and other incidents of their sure but slow movement toward civilization and enlightenment will be prominent.

The Indian department at Washington has placed at the disposal of the Exposition its facilities for making up this notable exhibit. It is probably the last opportunity of seeing the American Indian as a savage, for government work now in progress will lift the savage Indian into American citizenship, will wipe out the Indian reservation and will make the savage Indian and the reservation Indian but a thing of history.

Blood-Cleaning.

House-cleaning is a duty in every well-regulated household. People don't wait until the filth becomes painfully apparent, but it stands to reason that in every day use more or less dirt or dirt accumulates. It is so with the human blood. From the enormous variety of entanglements taken into the stomach, a quantity of useless material is bound to accumulate in the blood and clog the free and wholesome flow in the vessels. Every person should from time to time have a "blood-cleaning" and the best cleanser and blood purifier is Cascarella's Candy Cathartic. We recommend them to all our readers.

STONE IN HER STOMACH.

From the Gazette, Blandville, Ill.

The wife of the Rev. A. R. Adams, pastor of the Bedford Christian Church at Blandville, Ill., was for years compelled to live a life of torture from disease. Her case baffled the physicians, but today she is alive and well and tells the story of her recovery as follows:

"About six years ago," said Mrs. Adams, "I weighed about 140 pounds, but my health began to fail and I lost flesh. My food did not agree with me and felt like a stone in my stomach. I began to bloat all over until I thought I had dropsy."

"I had pains and soreness in my left side which extended clear across my back and also into the region of my heart. During these spells a hard ridge would appear on the left side of my stomach and around the left side."

"These attacks left me sore and exhausted. All last summer I was so nervous that the children laughing and playing nearby drove me wild. I suffered also from female troubles and doctored with ten different physicians without receiving any help."

"My husband having read in the newspaper of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, induced me to try them."

"I began taking them last November but experienced no relief until I had taken six boxes. I am now taking the eleventh box and have been greatly benefited."

"I was also troubled with nervous prostration and numbness of my right arm and hand so that at times I could hardly endure the pain, but that has all passed away. I now have a good appetite and am able to do my own work. Have done more this summer than in the past four years put together. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People cured me, and I think it my duty to let other sufferers know it."

Hundreds of equally remarkable cases have been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Some doctors could make a decided hit by impersonating an individual scheduled to die in the first act.

A man isn't mighty because he never falls but because of his ability to rise when he tumbles.

WAS A BRAVE SOLDIER.

COLONEL CROFTON WHO RECENTLY PASSED AWAY.

His First Surrender Was to the Death—Messenger—Noted as an Indian Fighter and a Terror to the Red Skins of the Northwest.

Col. Robert Erskine Anderson Crofton, retired, of the army, died at Washington recently, aged about 63. Col. Crofton was one of the twelve papal zouaves who left the army of Pope Pius IX at the outbreak of the civil war in this country to join the union forces. In May, 1861, through the influence of Archbishop Hughes of Cincinnati, he was gazetted from Delaware as a captain in the Sixteenth United States infantry. His abilities as a disciplinarian and tactician were made evident at once. In December, 1861, he was attached to the command of Gen. Buell with the First battalion of the Sixteenth infantry and fought at Corinth, Shiloh and through the campaign against Bragg in Alabama, Tennessee and Kentucky. He risked his life at Stone River, was wounded at Chickasaw maul, and won honors at Missionary Ridge. His wounds kept him out of the service until 1864, when he became commandant at Fort Ontario, New York, and superintendent of the regimental recruiting service. From March to August of 1865 he was in command of the First and Second battalions of his regiment at Lookout Mountain. He commanded Gen. Thomas' bodyguard at Nashville until October, 1865, and the remainder of the year was commander of the First battalion at Nashville. At the end of the war he was placed in charge of the post at Augusta, Ga., and subsequently transferred.

successively to the posts at Savannah, Macon and Atlanta. His promotion to the majorship of the Fourteenth infantry came Sept. 25, 1868, his colonelcy of the Thirteenth infantry April 27, 1879, and his colonelcy of the Fifteenth infantry Oct. 13, 1888. Crofton's best reputation as a fighter was made in Indian campaigns after the war. The brunt of the hard service of this kind in the Dakotas, Colorado and New Mexico fell upon the Fifteenth infantry, and so well was the test met that the regiment became known among the Indians as the "fighting regiment." Col. Crofton was one of the kind of army officers who relish engagements, and his men were made to know it. He was born in Ireland sixty-three years ago and his father before him was an officer of distinction in the English army during the peninsular campaign. Col. Crofton was retired from the army in December, 1896, and took up his residence in Washington. His wife, who died a short time ago, was a Miss Dupont, sister to Col. Dupont of the famous Sixth United States artillery, and a relative of Senator Dupont of Delaware. Two papal zouaves who came to this country with Col. Crofton were Gen. Coppinger and the noted Myles Keough, who was killed with Custer. Col. Crofton leaves a son, now in the regular army, and two daughters.

Home Rule for American Cities.

The electors of San Francisco have adopted a charter which is an advanced example of the exercise of municipal home rule. Under the state constitution, which vests cities with the right of framing their own charters, subject only to the veto power of the legislature, San Francisco put into its new charter several provisions that are uncommon to the American municipalities. Absolute home rule is guaranteed by a clause giving the people the right to make such amendments from time to time as they deem necessary or advantageous without first seeking the approval of the legislature. Another striking feature is the introduction of the Swiss system known as the "initiative and referendum." Whenever 15 per cent of the electors unite in a petition for the purpose they can have any subject of legislation brought up for a vote, and if it is approved by a majority of the voters, it becomes a part of the municipal law without reference or appeal to the legislature.

A Dinner for 3 Cents.

The city of Grenoble, France, says an English journal has been running a municipal restaurant and kitchen for fifty years. Meals are supplied at cost in the restaurant, or delivered at residences, as may be desired. The food is of the best quality, the cooks are as skillful as any in Paris, and the service is excellent. One may dine there for three cents on bread and soup, and have his hunger thoroughly appeased; or one may pay twelve cents and enjoy a full-course dinner.

And such Is Fame.

Miss Olive (of St. Louis)—"Who was that man you just recognized?" Mr. Wabash—"Why, that was Damrosch, the great musical conductor." Miss Olive—"Indeed! What road is he conductor on?"

THE SAMOAN WIDOW'S GRIEF.

It Clustered Around the Family Rifle After Her Husband Had Been Killed.

The Samoan will give away anything which he possesses when another member of his family comes along and asks for it. This makes "personal property" a most fluctuating value. One thing, however, is never given away under any circumstances, and that is the rifle which each man keeps in good order and in readiness for the outbreak of hostilities. No attempt has been made by the European official to disarm the natives, but a close watch is kept on the importation of any new munitions of war. When the yacht John Williams of the London Missionary Society returned from a tour of the stations in New Guinea, which are served by Samoan pastors, it brought the sad news that Neemia, a respected native missionary in a remote nook of the Gulf of Papua, had been eaten by his imperfectly converted congregation. The mission vessel arrived too late to save the pastor, but just in time to rescue his wife Masina, who was defending her house with a single rifle against a horde of savages. Masina was brought back to Apia in the John Williams, her grief somewhat tempered by the knowledge that for some time to come she would be a central figure at all district meetings of the mission, while she would be expected to tell her story. In a few days the treaty officials received from King Maletoa an official communication signed with the royal sign manual and duly sealed with the great seal. In it he recited the cannibalism which had been practiced upon Neemia and the bravery of Masina. In consideration of these sad events and the great grief into which the widow was plunged, he had given her permission to retain the family rifle and her store of ammunition and to bring it ashore with her. The mission chief had been done and was beyond repair. All that remained for the official board to do was sharply to remind the king that he had no power to grant landing permits for the contraband munitions of war, and to assure him that the Berlin treaty took no cognizance of grief so profound that it must be assuaged by rifles.

GIRLS WANT POCKETS.

Their Cycling Suits Need an Important Addition.

One long, unpassioned cry goes up from the wheelwomen all over the world—"Pockets, more pockets—we must have more pockets." At present pocket question is one of the most serious problems that confront the feminine cyclist. Tailors and dressmakers expend much time and strength over other details of her costumes, the length or shortness of her skirt, the fullness or scantiness thereof, her legged or unlegged extremities, all these things have become matters of world-wide comment and consideration. But the pocket that essential to feminine comfort, either on or off the wheel, has somehow been ignored, and never was there a slight more keenly felt. Many tailors utterly refuse to put a pocket in a cycling skirt, because it spoils the shape or "hang." It must be confessed that, as in any skirt, it is a delicate contrivance to adjust, but that doesn't lessen the need of it. Pockets in the bodice, too, are apt to bulge awkwardly and protruberantly, ruining the outlines of what should be a perfectly smooth surface. As yet no key to the situation has been offered. Most wheelwomen employ pocket substitutes of one sort or another that are graceful or otherwise, as the case may be. Any one who wishes to contribute to the lasting comfort of the wheelwoman can do so in no more practical way than by solving this pocket problem of the cycle costume.

MARRIED BEFORE HE SAILED.

When the war broke out Capt. Fred Buchanan, company B, Twentieth Kansas, and Miss Lucinda M. Smith of Lawrence, in that state, were engaged to be married. Buchanan's regiment was ordered to San Francisco. At the parting it was understood that the wedding was not to occur until the end of the war. But absence makes the heart grow fonder. The two wrote to each other every day, but the dreadful shadow of the Philippines was over all. They couldn't stand it. The storm burst. The climax came. Miss Smith was hurriedly summoned to San Francisco and got there just in time to be married before the steamer sailed transporting her husband afar.

THANKFUL TO MRS. PINKHAM.

Earnest Words From Women Who Have Been Relieved of Backache—Mrs. Pinkham Warns Against Neglect.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been thankful a thousand times, since I wrote you, for what your Vegetable Compound has done for me. I followed your advice carefully, and now I feel like a different person. My troubles were backache, headache, nervous tired feeling, painful menstruation and leucorrhea.

I took four bottles of Vegetable Compound, one box of Liver Pills, and used one package of Sanative Wash, and am now well. I thank you again for the good you have done for me.—ELZA E. BRENNER, East Rochester, Ohio.

Great numbers of such letters as the above are constantly being received by Mrs. Pinkham from women who owe their health and happiness to her advice and medicine.

Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass. Her advice is offered free to all suffering women who are puzzled about themselves.

If you have backache don't neglect it, try heroically to "work it down," you must reach the root of the trouble, and nothing will do this so safely and surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Backache is accompanied by a lot of other aches and wearying sensations, but they nearly always come from the same source. Remove the cause of these distressing things, and you become well and strong. Mrs. S. J. SWANSON, of Gibson City, Ill., tells her experience in the following letter:

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Before using your medicine I was troubled with headache and my back ached so that I could not rest. Your medicine is the best I have ever used; it has relieved me of my troubles, and I feel like myself again. Thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham.

I would advise any one troubled with female weakness to take your medicine. I shall also recommend it wherever I can as a great reliever of pain.

A Million Women Have Been Benefited by Mrs. Pinkham's Advice and Medicine.

is like a plant. What makes the plant fade and wither? Usually lack of necessary nourishment. The reason why Dr. Ayer's Hair Vigor restores gray or faded hair to its normal color, stops hair from falling, and makes it grow, is because it supplies the nourishment the hair needs.

"When a girl at school, in Reading, Ohio, I had a severe attack of brain fever. One day my hair fell out, and I was left with a bald head. For a long time, I feared I should be permanently so. Friends urged me to use Dr. Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, on doing so, my hair immediately began to grow, and I now have as heavy and fine a head of hair as one could wish for, being changed, however, from blonde to dark brown."—Mrs. J. STATE OF MICHIGAN.—In the Circuit Court for the County of Wayne, in Chancery
MAJOR D. GERTON, Complainant vs.
JOSEPH BETLEY, et al Defendants.

Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the County of Wayne in Chancery, at Detroit on the 14th day of July A. D. 1898. Present,
Hon. Geo. S. Hosmer, Circuit Judge.

In this cause it appearing to the said
Hon. Judge that the Defendant, ELIZABETH L. T.
FARRAND is not a resident of this state, but resides at Milwaukee in the State of Wisconsin, on motion of D. C. Griffen, Complainant's
Solicitor, it is ordered that the said Defendant, ELIZABETH L. T. FARRAND, cause her appearance to be entered herein, within four months from the date of this order, and in case of her appearance that she cause her answer to the Complainant's Bill of Complaint to be filed, and a copy thereof to be served on said Complainant's Solicitor, within twenty days after service on her of a copy of said bill and notice of this order, and that in default thereof, said bill be taken as confessed by the said non-resident Defendant.

And it is further ordered that within twenty days the said Complainant cause a notice of this order, to be published in the Northville Record a newspaper printed, published and circulating in said county, and that such publication be continued there at least once in each week, for six weeks in succession or that he cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said non-resident Defendant, at least twenty days before the time above prescribed for her appearance.

DYSPEPTICS—REJOICE.

Results of the New Cure for Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

Dr. Horton said recently in an article on the Stomach and its most prevailing disease—dyspepsia, "that very few people today possess a healthy sound stomach. And this class requires no aid to digestion, while the other portion which figure fully 80 per cent, ought not to force digestion in a diseased stomach, as blood produced in such conditions will eventually contaminate the whole system. Medicine has been comparatively at a standstill as to a reliable treatment for stomach diseases in all of their manifold forms, although many preparations are offered to sufferers, yet their uses are usually more serious than delay."

But the saying that "necessity is the mother of invention" seems evidently verified in Prof. Drake's production of his marvelous treatment known as Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer. This well-spring of life is flowing into thousands of homes today, many who have tried nearly everything with little or no relief, are now rejoicing over the results of this new method treatment, for in this treatment the idea of tying sufferers down to an endless dosing of drugs and nostrums is entirely lost sight of, as results in its use from bad complicated cases show that all that is required is a little perseverance in following out the plain instructions which accompany each treatment, when a speedy and permanent cure will invariably be the result. For sale by Geo. C. Hueston, Northville. A book on Stomach and Nerve troubles, their symptoms and cure, given free for the asking at the above mentioned store.

"We have this to say to the grocers: We are the injured parties! No complaint should come from you! With keen business sagacity and untiring energy, you have practically ruined our trade in Northville! But you have reached the limit of injury. You may re-double your effort, but only failure is a-head of you. However worthy your effort to down a home industry, employing home labor, and distributing capital that comes almost directly back to you, there is an element of justice and fair-play against which you are now contending, that will have its effect. Our local trade has already trebled; and will treble again when our position becomes more thoroughly understood." YERKES BROS.

New Rotary Washer.

Messrs. Schram & Lockhart have secured the agency for the sale of the celebrated "Rotary" Washing Machine for Wayne county. This machine is entirely different from all others, but combines the washing principal of all, and is an exact imitation of the work done with the hands on the wash board. It has taken first premium at seven state fairs and more than forty county fairs and has had an unparalleled sale wherever introduced. The leading newspapers of nine states endorse it and everyone, who has seen it tried pronounce it the best ever shown. A number of our citizens have tested it thoroughly and speak in highest praise. Try it yourselves and be satisfied. It is highly durable, easily operated, and washes everything from lace to horse blankets. See it and you will want no other.

IN OUR GREAT STATE.

THE HAPPENINGS IN MICHIGAN BRIEFLY RELATED.

Michigan Soldiers Wounded at Santiago
Brought to the Northern Hospitals—
Michigan Officers Have Yellow Fever—
Capt. Gutman, Co. M, 31st Mich., Dead

Michigan's Wounded Soldiers.

Of about 890 wounded U. S. soldiers from Santiago placed in the hospitals at Fortress Monroe, Va., 28 are Michigan volunteers. Eleven arrived on the City of Washington 17 on the Breakwater. They are members of the 3rd and 34th Michigan volunteers. Army regulations forbidding giving out information regarding hospital patients, but it is known that none of the Michigan men are in danger, the majority of the wounds being minor gunshot received at the battle of Agnadore. Some of the members of the 33d who were severely wounded were left at Siboney, as their condition was too critical for them to undertake such a journey. Some of the men now in the hospital will be well enough to go home on furlough shortly, as the air is having a beneficial effect and everything possible is being done for the sick and wounded.

The following are the Michigan boys at Fortress Monroe: Thirty-third regiment—Sergeants, Giesel, Co. M, Saginaw; Edwards, J. Stephens, Co. I, Benton Harbor; R. O. Woodruff, Co. G, Owasco; Privates, Edward M. Hillborn, Jr., hospital corps, Benton Harbor; Fred Lewis, Co. C, Bay City; Walter S. Martin, Co. I, Benton Harbor; Morton, Co. J, Don A. Stark, Co. L, Ann Arbor; Warren, Co. A, Otisville; James B. Hutson, Co. L, Sons of Veterans; George W. Moore, Co. L, Byron; Robert, Co. L, B. Evans, Co. K, St. Joseph; E. Kaiser, Co. K, St. Joseph; Irving, Co. L, Sons of Veterans; Moore, Co. G, Owasco; H. McDonald, Co. K, St. Joseph; Paul Co. H, De Moines; Co. E, St. Joseph; Owasco, George G. Tucker, Co. K, St. Joseph. Thirty-fourth regiment—Scout Harry Rice, Co. I, Ionia; Privates Frank Reando, Co. L, Marquette; John S. C. Smith, Co. M, Ionia; Co. C, Mackinac; James A. McNally, Co. G, South St. Marie; Taylor, Co. G, Wilson; Co. K, Mt. Clemens. The Olive branch carried to the Brooklyn and Clinton N. Y. hospitals the following Michigan boys who are wounded: Thirty-third—Andrew G. Leacock, Co. D, Saginaw; Corp. Fred Ransom, Co. L, Lawton; Thirty-fourth—Arthur D. Scott, Co. M, Traverse City. L. W. S. Wagner, trumpeter, Co. I, 31st Michigan, is at Fort Thomas, Ky., recovering from a wound.

Michigan Officers Have Yellow Fever.

Washington—There was a rumor all that Brig. Gen. Duffield, of Michigan, was one of the victims of yellow fever at Santiago, but no official information was obtainable. The transport City of Washington, which has arrived at Fort Monroe, Va., with wounded from Santiago, brings confirmation of the news of the appearance of yellow fever at Siboney and officers on board report that Maj. Merrill E. Webb, of the 1st Michigan volunteers, was among the first cases. But McIntosh, well known actor and correspondent, was an early case. Two cases developed on the City of Washington on the trip north. Stephen Crane, famous novelist and correspondent, being one.

Later dispatches say Gen. Duffield is suffering from malarial fever and is recovering. He is still commanding at Siboney in the place of the Gen. Young, who is sick and on his way home.

The cases of Maj. Webb and the other Michigan men who have yellow fever developed about July 4. Others have been discovered since. The Michigan boys were the only troops left to guard the base of supplies at Siboney during the fighting at Santiago and it was while on this duty they became infected.

The following dispatch has been received from Santiago: Gen. Duffield has yellow fever and is at the hospital but is doing nicely.

Hot Fire at East Lake.

Flames were discovered issuing from the residence of Mrs. Pentland, at East Lake and in a very short time the entire building was consumed. The East Lake fire company was soon on hand but not before the adjoining residence of Wm. Eddy was in flames. The Congregational church and the dwelling of Frank Wilson, being in line with the strong wind, were all consumed by the flames. How the fire originated is unknown, as Mrs. Pentland was away from home at the time, and there had been no fire in the store for several hours. The loss exceeds $5,000, insurance $3,000.

Michigan Captain Dead.

Capt. John Gutman, of Monroe, Co. M, 31st Michigan, died of typhoid fever at the Read house, Chattanooga. He had been sick for two weeks. He left Camp Thomas to go home, accompanied by his wife, brother and Dr. Heath, who came to attend him, but was not able to travel further.

Capt. Gutman had been 17 years in the National Guard and 13 years an officer of his company. Maj. Harrah, Capt. Baxter, Capt. Sink, Lieut. Harrington and Schmidt, Co. M, and 20 men from Co. M, went to Chattanooga to act as a guard of honor.

John Hart, died at St. Joseph from the effect of sunstroke while picking berries.

New Michigan postmasters: Big Prairie Newaygo, Lania E. Rannels, vice Mrs. A. Foxwood, removed, Hagerford, Newaygo, Andrew C. Peck, vice John W. Rutherford, resigned.

MICHIGAN MS.

The barn, sheds, three horses, 40 loads of hay and the newly-harvested wheat on Joseph Bloyleck's farm, near Vassar, were destroyed by fire.

Albert Thiede, formerly of Wyandotte, was killed at Springfield, O., by Frank Hurlinger who objected to Thiede paying attention to his young sister.

Adelbert D. Grimes, Co. E, whose father is a wealthy farmer near Mason, Mich., died at Letter hospital, Camp Thomas, Chickamauga, with fever.

O'Brien Atkinson, who went to Island Lake as captain of the Port Huron-Ypsilanti company has been promoted to major of the 33th Michigan regiment.

E. C. Barber is under arrest at Lansing at the request of Clinton county officials. It is alleged that he had been "raising the wind" by impersonating a regular army recruiting officer.

While going home from a circus at Saginaw, Julia Beck, aged 16 and her escort were attacked by four villains, the young man was driven away and the four brutes assaulted the girl before rescuers could arrive.

The farm residence of John Klink, six miles east of Eaton Rapids, burned to the ground, together with all its contents. The family were away and there had been no fire in the house since morning. Loss, $1,500.

Frank C. Putnam sergeant of Co. H, Twelfth U. S. Infantry, was killed at Santiago. He was a Saginaw boy, 23 years of age, and was on his second enlistment. He was visiting his home when the war began and was ordered to join his command.

The state military board will soon organize a regiment for the Michigan National Guard. The boys will be armed with Blauke rifles and the regiment will be organized on a strictly military basis as to physical condition and military experience.

Thomas Walker and half a dozen other Port Huron men wrote to Ford, Michigan, a roadhouse five miles out and got into a mole with Hoffman and his late man Steve Allen. Several shots were fired and Walker was fatally wounded in the stomach.

With Neighen and several other youths of Decker's village, wheeled over to Forest and after a short row upon the lake went in bathing. The boys were warm and three of them were soon in a helpless condition. Luce Clark and Will Martin succeeded in rescuing two of them but Will Neighen was drowned.

Warner P. Sutton, formerly of Saginaw, spent some time in Porto Rico and spoke Spanish fluently. He worked himself into the grasp of Porto Rican revolutionists in this country and has thus been able to supply the war department with valuable maps and other information which will be used by the Porto Rican expedition.

Gov. Pinney and Lieut. Col. White went to Washington to present Michigan's war claim of $750,000 against the national government and incidentally to try and exert enough influence with the war department to get the 34th regiment into some kind of service as soon as possible. The 35th would not object to going to Honolulu but would prefer to go to Porto Rico or Havana.

Frank Phiscator, the Baroda gold king, of St. Joseph county, has just arrived from the Klondike with $120,000 in gold nuggets. Last year this time Phiscator came out of the Klondike with $100,000 in gold. He sold four of his best claims to an English syndicate for $1,000,000. Early this spring he made a trip to Dawson City and has taken $120,000 from his remaining claim.

As soon as the 35th regiment is mustered in and is in shape for it Col. Irish proposes to desert Camp Eaton and put the regiment in heavy marching order and tramp about the country. Shelter tents will be carried and the men will be given a sample of service hardships. Col. Irish says the men should have such experience to prepare them for what is to come, and he proposes to give them a good dose of army life.

The flag that was raised over the city of Santiago at the time of the surrender and which was selected for this purpose, was carried by a Michigan regiment through the late war and was sent to Secretary Alger by a number of his old comrades, who requested that it should be the first flag raised when Santiago surrendered to the American army. The flag is one of unusually large proportions and can be seen far out at sea.

A heavy thunderstorm which assumed the character of a young cyclone did considerable damage in the various portions of the state. Near Benton Harbor for a distance of one mile, a strip of land 80 rods wide is a scene of desolation. Peach, pear and apple trees and sturdy oaks were pulled up by the roots and twisted off. Several farm buildings were damaged and the surrounding country also suffered. In the vicinity of Traverse City and Menominee there was also much wreckage of farm property.

Joseph Eatough, Fred Suddaby and Wm. McCarthy were drowned while bathing in the bay south of Gladstone. The men were alone at the time, so nothing is known as to how they met their deaths, but it is supposed that one of the number was taken with cramps and in the attempt to rescue him lost their lives. Eatough was formerly city marshal and leaves a family, the others were single men. Suddaby was an engineer on the Soo locks and McCarthy an employe at Soo railroad shops.

Mrs. Margaret Baxter, of Saginaw, went to bed leaving a lamp burning. The lamp exploded. Loss, $1,300.

GERMANS INTERFERED.

When Insurgents Attacked Isla Grande, but Dewey Taught 'Em a Lesson.

Manila, via Hong Kong. The insurgents reported that the German gunboat Irene in Subig Bay refused to permit them to attack the Spaniards on Isla Grande. Rear Admiral Dewey at once dispatched the U. S. cruisers Raleigh and Concord to the scene. On entering Subig Bay, the Raleigh opened fire on the forts, whereupon the Irene slipped her cable, leaving her anchor in the bay, and steamed out by the other channel. The result of the fire of the American warship was that the Spaniards, numbering over 500 men, surrendered everything. On returning to Manila the Irene explained that she had interfered in the cause of humanity.

A Hong Kong correspondent says that it is "now known that Admiral Dewey requested the correspondents at Manila not to give the full history of the Irene incident for fear of arousing feeling in America which might lead to complications with Germany." When the full details transpire it will be seen that the incident was more serious than it first appeared to be.

Gen. Aguinaldo, the insurgent leader, declares that both the Spaniards and the Germans have made overtures to him. U. S. Consul Wildman, at Hong Kong says Dewey's dispatches show that the Germans continually interfere, their action causing much anxiety, as they are assisting the Spaniards by landing flour and other supplies and moreover, that the German officers have been seen in the Spanish trenches. The Germans have not been careful to observe the naval courtesies required by the situation. They have given Admiral Dewey much annoyance by going against his regulations and by insisting on sending their boats around the bay after dark. At the same time the German admiral informed Admiral Dewey that he has no intention of giving offense to America and that his movements are not to be construed as any demonstration of ill-will. Admiral Dewey is said to have replied: "Perhaps it would be better if matters were arranged a little differently."

On the report that the German fleet was landing large quantities of rice and flour, the Spaniards in the American admiral decided to be more strict and has put a boat at the end of the jetty to overhaul all launches. The blockade will hereafter be more rigid. Although the attitude of the Germans is irritating, Admiral Dewey is managing them with great diplomacy and he does not expect any trouble with them.

Yellow Fever Among American Troops.

The dreaded yellow fever has found a foothold among the United States forces before Santiago and while the authorities at Washington and at the front are naturally alarmed they are taking every precaution to stamp it out and prevent its spread and express confidence in their ability to obviate a serious epidemic. The 11 cases which were first discovered in the field hospital at Siboney were immediately isolated in a hospital which had been established by Dr. John Gutters, the famous yellow fever expert, for just such an emergency. This hospital is in charge of immune surgeons and nurses. The first 14 cases were all from the quartermaster's department—teamsters and others—but later cases have appeared among the troops nearest the coast. All cases are mild, however.

As a further precaution the little town of Juanaoeta (Siboney), where the field hospital is located, was burned under the orders of the army health authorities. Almost every building of the 50 along the irregular bluff was set fire to during the war and the Cuban inhabitants fled to the caves in the overhanging hillside for shelter. The action was taken at the urgent request of the hospital corps, and served to rid the hospital camp of the unhealthy and dirty buildings and drive away scores of Cuban followers whose presence was a serious inconvenience to the hospital workers.

There are several kinds of fevers in Cuba all of which are classed generally as malarial unless the decided symptoms of yellow jack show themselves. Army medical officers say that in the Cuban climate yellow fever is not necessarily a deadly plague. Indeed they claim that typhoid and malarial fevers are worse, that with proper tents, nurses and medicines, soldiers will go through the fever with little if any loss.

"Everything needed to bring that army through all right will be sent," said Secretary Alger. "Large, comfortable tents, plenty of cots, ample extra clothing, nurses, medicine and doctors will be taken down by special ship. Camps will be pitched for different commands upon the highest, driest land to be reached. Patients will be segregated. And as fast as a command has been there a certain number of days without developing a case it will be taken off the island and transferred to a more salubrious climate in the United States, where the soldiers can soon recuperate from their terrible exertions."

So far, cases among the troops have been very mild and they say that yellow fever often runs that way in Cuba. In fact the natives have very little fear of it. By the system proposed by Secretary Alger, with perhaps a further detention station at Dry Tortugas, it is expected that the volunteers will be withdrawn from Santiago without much if any loss and their places taken by the immune regiments.

No complete has become the confidence in the exemption of our ports from attack by hostile vessels that the government in response to pressure of communicated messages, has ordered all mines planted in our harbors to be removed. They will be exploded as the easiest method of removing them.

MOVE ON PORTO RICO.

GEN. MILES HEADS THE EXPEDITION TO THAT ISLAND.

Transports Will Sail as Rapidly as They Can be Loaded—Chickamauga to Furnish a Large Force—A Short and Vigorous Campaign Expected.

Washington. After three days' consultation between President McKinley, Secretary Alger and Maj. Gen. Brooke, during which there was frequent communication with Gen. Miles at Siboney, the details of the Porto Rican expedition were perfected and the expedition itself was gotten under way. Gen. Miles with some artillery and troops sailing from Santiago for Porto Rico on the auxiliary cruiser Yale, to be followed quickly by an army of about 30,000 men. The same day Gen. Miles sailed from Santiago three regiments of volunteers embarked at Charleston, S. C., for Porto Rico and others will follow from various ports as rapidly as transports can be provided and made ready for the journey.

Maj. Gen. Brooke will be the senior officer in Miles' command and upon him will fall the responsibility for the execution of the details of his superior's plans.

The part which the navy is to take in the assault against Porto Rico has been fully matured. The several transport fleets will have with them one or two auxiliary craft carrying strong secondary batteries. Secretary Long said that no time had been fixed for the departure of Admiral Sampson's fleet for San Juan. As to the naval plans, he would only say that they would co-operate in every way with the movements of the army. The movement of the ships from Santiago to their new fields of action will begin at once and it is probable that some of Admiral Sampson's ships were detached and proceeded with Gen. Miles first expedition toward Porto Rico. They will be needed to cover the debarkation of the troops on Porto Rican soil. The others will follow as soon as the full army expedition is ready to make a landing when the attacks will begin simultaneously from land and sea.

The purpose of Secretary Alger is to make the Porto Rican campaign a short one. An overwhelming force will be thrown upon the island, and it is expected that the Spanish will soon become convinced that they have no reasonable chance to resist successfully. The expedition is to comprise 30,000 men at the start, and it will be swelled soon to 40,000 men and if necessary to 70,000 men, the equipment of the volunteer forces having now progressed so well as to warrant the statement that that number of men can be ready for service in Porto Rico in a short time. The preparations are to be more complete and ample than have ever before been made by any government in any enterprise of a similar nature. Ships and wagons, hospitals and supplies, doctors and nurses, ammunition and provisions, artillery and fittings, all are to receive such care as to make the enterprise a swift and deadly one for Spanish hopes in the remaining island of the West Indies dominated by Spain.

It is probable that the preliminary expedition will make its first landing at Porto Ponce, on the south coast of the island, has a harbor that can float ships of 25 feet draught. It is healthy, has plenty of good water and is defended only by a couple of small batteries. The 6,000 regulars and the artillery with Miles can hold the place and, having established a base of operations, Gen. Brooke can bring on his army of occupation and land his forces with deliberation. It is the expectation of the secretary of war that by August 1 an army of 10,000 men will be encamped on Porto Rican soil.

The entire body of troops at Tampa will be taken, numbering 13,000 men, and including a lot of heavy and light artillery under command of Gen. Rodgers. The expedition will be particularly strong with artillery, as some of that at Santiago, commanded by Gen. Randolph, is to be drawn upon. The Tampa troops are known as the Fourth corps under Maj. Gen. Coppinger, comprising the Eleventh and Nineteenth U. S. Infantry Second New York, Fifth Maryland Third Pennsylvania, 15th Indiana, First Ohio, Third Michigan, 69th New York, Second Georgia, the provisional cavalry brigade under Col. Noyes and consisting of detachments of the First, Second, Third, Sixth and Tenth U. S. cavalry and eight troops of Rough Riders; artillery brigade under Gen. Randolph, consisting of two light and 10 heavy batteries.

Gen. Brooke will take with him from Chickamauga most of the First and Second brigades of his army corps, comprising the Fourth Ohio, Sixth Ohio, 31st Michigan, Third Illinois, Fifth Illinois, Fourth Pennsylvania, First Kentucky, Third Kentucky, First Georgia, 15th Indiana, 16th Indiana, First West Virginia, First Pennsylvania, 14th Minnesota.

There will be plenty of stores and supplies provided for the army. From Newport News will be shipped 6,000,000 pounds of stores and 200,000 pounds of refrigerated beef. The transport Roumanian has left with 800,000 pounds of fodder for 1,000 animals.

The troops which have already sailed from Charleston are the Second and Third Wisconsin and Sixteenth Pennsylvania.

Six barges with structural iron for bridges have left New York for Santiago.

Senor Du Bose and Lieut. Carranza, formerly of the Spanish legation at Washington, but later conducting a spy system throughout the U. S. with headquarters in Canada, have finally sailed for Spain after repeated requests that they do so had been made by the Canadian government.

DEWEY AND THE GERMANS.

Gunboat McCulloch Fires on the German Cruiser Irene.

A Hong Kong correspondent says: U. S. Consul Wildman informs me that as the German cruiser Irene was passing Mariveles, off Manila, the other day the United States gunboat Hugh McCulloch was sent after her to ask her to stop. As the Irene refused to obey a shell was sent across her bow and a small boat went to discover what she was doing. The German admiral protested and insisted that German ships had a right to enter the harbor without being searched, a claim which Admiral Dewey declined to recognize. It is reported that Admiral von Diederichs, who is in command of the German squadron at Manila, interviewed Capt. Childerster of the British cruiser Immortalite as to what he would do if the Germans interfered with the bombardment of Manila. Capt. Childerster replied that only Admiral Dewey and himself knew that.

It is said that Admiral Dewey sent a messenger to the German admiral recently to inquire whether America and Germany are at peace or at war. If they are at peace he demanded that the German warships should pursue a different course. If they are at war he wanted to know if so he could govern himself accordingly.

Admiral Dewey was prompted to send this peremptory message by the action of the German cruiser Irene in preventing an insurgent attack upon the Spanish garrison at Subig bay, which greatly displeased him, and by the persistence of the Germans in violating the rules of the blockade.

Admiral von Diederichs, returned a verbal answer, which was apologetic in tone and satisfactory. But afterward he sent to Admiral Dewey a note stating that he objected to the Americans stopping German ships which have been in the bay once and been visited. Admiral Dewey replied that Manila is a blockaded port and that he would continue to have all ships communicated with when he desired, whether on the first of the hundredth time of entering the bay.

Aguinaldo False to Dewey.

A Hong Kong dispatch says Aguinaldo, the Philippine insurgent chief, held an interview with Capt. Gen. August in which he urged the Spanish commander to surrender the city asserting that 50,000 insurgents surrounded it and could take it at any time. Aguinaldo said that if the insurgents stormed the city it would be "with the inevitable slaughter unparalleled in history, because in the excitement of battle they cannot discriminate." Aguinaldo proposed a reconciliation between the Spaniards in the Philippines, under a republican flag and a joint endeavor to persuade the Americans to abandon hostilities in the Philippines islands. Finally, the representatives of the insurgents proposed an appeal to the powers to recognize the independence of the Philippine islands. The captain-general replied that he must fight, however hopeless the Spanish cause.

Duffield's Brigade Isolated.

It is altogether likely that the outbreak of yellow fever will put an effective stopper upon any further military operations by the men of Brigadier Duffield's command as well as subject them to an indefinite stay at Santiago. The war department has decided to isolate the 33rd and 34th Michigan and Ninth Massachusetts regiments until all danger of their spreading the fever is past. They will be placed upon the high altitudes surrounding Santiago, where it is said the fever can be easily combated. None of the command will be sent to Porto Rico on any other expedition, but as soon as it is safe to do so they will be brought back home.

Spanish deserters from Guantanamo say their soldiers there are absolutely starving and would surrender but for the fear of being murdered by the Americans as their officers tell them they would be.

Within the past month the first iron bridge erected in the State of Ohio has been removed. This bridge was over Salt Creek, on the Central Ohio railroad of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, in Muskingum county, and was built in 1851. It was a single span, 71 feet in length, and was known as a "Bollman deck truss bridge with plate girders." Bollman was at that time chief engineer of construction of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Important to Mothers.

The manufacturers of Castoria have been compelled to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars to reimburse the public for the signature of Chas. E. Fletcher. This has been necessitated by reason of pirates counterfeiting the Castoria trade mark. This counterfeiting is a crime not only against the proprietors of Castoria, but against the growing generation. All persons should be careful that Castoria bears the signature of Chas. E. Fletcher, if they would guard the health of their children. Parents and mothers, in particular, ought to carefully examine the Castoria advertisements which have been appearing in this paper, and to remember that the wrapper of every box of genuine Castoria bears the fac-simile signature of Chas. E. Fletcher, under whose supervision it has been manufactured continuously for over thirty years.

FROM GLOOM TO SUNLIGHT

OR THE USURER'S DAUGHTER.

BY CHARLOTTE M. BRAEME.
INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

"I am not at all sure that my daughter will see you," said Arley Ransome. "I must say that she has been cruelly treated. You are a peer of the realm, Lord Caraven, and have you behaved as a gentleman to my child? Have you treated her with courtesy or affection?"

"Let me go to her at once," said Lord Caraven. "Do not be hard on me, Mr. Ransome—I have had a great deal to suffer. And these few words disarmed the lawyer.

They went together to Hildred's room. Arley Ransome spoke first.

"Hildred, I have something very particular to say to you—open the door."

There was not a sound, and Lord Caraven began to feel slightly alarmed.

"Hildred," cried the father, "I have a message from your husband."

Still there was no sound, and, unable to control himself, the earl cried out:

"Hildred, for heaven's sake, speak to me! Let me in—I want to see you!"

The sound of his voice seemed to have an electric effect upon her. The next moment she turned the key in the lock and opened wide the door.

With a cry of fear and surprise he started back when he saw her. He had seen her lately so beautiful, so radiant—now her long black hair hung in disorder over her shoulders; her face was pale and stained with tears, her eyes were dim, her lips white. He hardly knew her.

"Hildred," he cried. She looked at him with dim, sad eyes.

"You," she said. "Is it you who thought me guilty of murder?"

Lord Caraven turned to Arley Ransome.

"Leave me alone with her," he said. "I have much to say."

Mr. Ransome went away. The earl entered the room and closed the door. He went to his wife, holding out both his hands.

"Will you forgive me?" he said. "I can never pardon myself."

But she shrank from him.

"You believe that I committed murder," she answered. "No, I can not touch your hands."

"Hildred, listen. It was almost all your own fault—you said you were guilty."

"Not of murder," she rejoined. "I could not have supposed that you would think me capable of that, much as you dislike me."

"I do not dislike you, Hildred," said the earl, in a voice full of emotion, "and I am indeed grieved at having offended you. Do not refuse to pardon me."

"There can be no pardon, my lord, for the wrong you have done me," she replied.

And then the earl knew that, if ever he won his wife's pardon, it would be a work of patience and of time.

He gazed anxiously at her. She looked pale and wan, with the stains of bitter weeping on her face. He saw, too, that she shivered like one seized with mortal cold.

"Hildred," he cried, "do forgive me—you do not know how grieved I am to see you like this. I want to tell you how the misunderstanding happened. Will you listen?"

"Yes," she replied, mechanically, and she sat silent and motionless while he told her the story. She looked at him when it was ended with dull, dim eyes.

"I am very sorry," she said, "that Blantyre made the mistake. I almost wish that he had shot me through the heart. What have I to live for?"

"I could not spare you, Hildred—you have been the good angel of my life," he cried.

"You would be better without me. Your estates are free and unincumbered now—you have roused yourself to a sense of your duties—you know how to perform them. I am of no more use. I am sorry that John Blantyre missed his aim."

This is not like you, Hildred. Where is your bright energy, your hope, your cheerful animation?"

She clasped her hands with a shudder.

"I am sick," she said; "sick with a terrible despair."

He was at a loss what to say to her—she seemed immovable. Suddenly her face flushed, and a bright light came into the eyes that had been so dim.

"You have said so, Hildred. I hope you will say the same again," he answered.

"Never, if you thought me guilty of murder," she said, decisively. "My life has been a sore disappointment to me; it has been hard to bear; it has not had one gleam of light. But it is all over now. Now that you have accused me of murder, I have no further interest in it."

She looked so hopeless and so dreary that he was deeply pained. It struck him, too, that she looked terribly ill.

"Hildred," he said, gently, "be merciful. I am much to blame; but you will surely pardon me."

He tried to touch her hands, but she drew them proudly away. She stood before him erect and defiant.

"I had my life given me to enjoy, as others had," she said. "I had the power of loving, the longing for happiness, as others had. What right had you to crush them? What right had you, because you wanted my money, to take my life and break it? What right had you to inflict all these years of shame and sorrow upon me? What have I ever done to you that you should repay me after this fashion?"

"Nothing," he replied. "I am guilty."

"When you thought I had tried to commit murder, you turned me from your doors; in the darkness of night, alone and unfriended, you made me begone. Which kind of murder is worse—that which destroys a body, or that which slays heart, mind, brain, and hope? I say that in this sense you have slain me."

"Hildred, be merciful to me," he cried.

"I will show you the same mercy that you have shown me. Go from my presence and do not let me see you again."

"Do you mean that, Hildred?" he asked, sadly.

"I do. You have disliked, despised, scorned me; ever since we first met. Now that you have suspected me of a crime you have reached the climax. We shall meet no more."

"You said that you loved me, Hildred," he pleaded.

"Did I?" she replied, with a harsh laugh. "Then I take back my words. I love you no more; you have been cruel to me—as cruel as the men who put out the bright eyes of a little bird that may sing more sweetly. Let me pass, I have no more to say."

With shiny eyes and pale, passionate face she swept from the room, leaving the earl over come with astonishment.

"She is the most high-minded woman I have ever met in my life," he thought. "I have been blind, indeed. How superb she looked in her indignation! I will win her yet. I have never cared about winning her before, but I swear to give my life to the task now."

It seemed probable that it would be a very long one, for Lady Caraven positively refused to see her husband again. In vain Arley Ransome pleaded for him, she was inexorable.

"Even a worm will turn when it is trodden," she said. "I have suffered my last indignity at his hands."

The earl was compelled to return to Ravensmere, and he did so almost despairingly. Lady Hamilton was fast improving, she would be able to go to her own home soon, the doctor said, and all anxiety about her was quite at an end. The truth of the story had come to light, all the papers had it; every one knew that Lady Hamilton had been shot by mistake and that it was the young Countess of Caraven whom John Blantyre had intended to kill.

The earl considered the result of his mission to Sir Raoul, who was not much surprised.

"You have tried her beyond her strength," he said; "I should advise you without loss of time to return to London again."

Lord Caraven did so, but his journey was fruitless. Hildred refused to see him; to all entreaties from her father she answered simply:

"I have not one word to add to what I have said," and with that answer the earl was obliged to be content.

In sheer despair he sent for Sir Raoul, who, though almost unfit to travel, hastened to him; he besought him to use his influence with the beautiful young wife who had no pity for him. Then he grew wildly jealous at the idea that he would listen to Sir Raoul when she refused absolutely to listen to him.

"Why should you have more influence over her than I have?" he asked half angrily.

"Because," said Sir Raoul, "I understand the higher, better, nobler part of her nature, as you, I fear, will never understand it. I will try what I can do."

"Tell her, then, Raoul," went on the earl, his tone and manner changing suddenly, "that I was blind to her beauty, her goodness, her truth, but that I see all now; tell her that I did not love her when I first knew her, but that I love her now; tell her, if she will but forgive me, I will make the devotion of my whole life atone for my past neglect."

Sir Raoul promised. Lady Caraven did not refuse to see him. He was shocked and startled at the terrible change a few days had wrought in her. He looked at the pale face.

"How you have suffered, Hildred!" he said.

"Yes, I came to the end of my patience at last. I can bear it no longer, Raoul; it was a life of torture after all, and I will never return to it. I could not be brave any longer."

"Poor child!" said the grave, pitying voice. "Some words are running in my mind, Hildred, about those who, having put their hands to the plow, turn back. May I ask, are you one of those, Hildred?"

"What would you have me do?" she asked.

"I would have you lay aside your coldness, your pride, your reserve," he told her. "Do not become a revengeful woman. Your husband has, it is true, outraged and insulted you, but it was a mistake, and he deplores it bitterly. Be generous; leave revenge to small souls and narrow minds; rise above it and forgive him."

She was quite silent for a few minutes, and then, as the mist rolls from the hillsides before the light of the sun, all shadow passed from her face, and she answered him:

"I will. I will do all you advise, Raoul. I will forgive my husband. You say that he loves me now. I shall put his love to the test. If it fails, well and good—I will do my duty without the sunshine of love to cheer me, if it stands the test, I will try to crown his life with my love."

"He looked long and lovingly at her. 'You are a brave girl, Hildred—you are a good woman,'" he said, admiringly. "I wish there were more like you. I will tell Ulric that you are willing to see him now."

"If you please," she responded; "but Raoul, do not repeat what I have said. I want to test his love myself."

The Bee as a Dispatch Bearer.

An experiment has been made in England which has resulted in proving that bees fly faster than carrier pigeons, in fact, that a little, insignificant looking, hot-footed bee can beat the handsomest pigeon home, in five cases out of six. This being the case, the future must witness the supplanting of carrier pigeons by carrier bees. The latter have much to recommend them for this purpose. A carrier bee will be hard to hit. A marksman that would bring down a pigeon would utterly fail to hit a bee. Then there is nothing in a pigeon's tail to inspire the respect of a foe. There is in a bee's. The rude hand of the trifler that would try to stop the carrier bee in his errand would be withdrawn suddenly and rubbed vehemently. With the aid of micro-photography, the carrying of long messages by a bee would be a matter presenting no obstacles. A column of reading matter could be fastened to its thighs, and a long dispatch affixed to one of its feet.

In the Early Morning.

In the early morning as soon as you awake to consciousness, remember that you are in the very presence chamber of God, who has been watching beside you through the long, dark hours; look up into His face and thank Him. Consecrate to Him those first few moments before you leave your couch. Look on towards the coming day, through the golden haze of the light that streams from the angel of His presence. You can forecast very largely what your difficulties are likely to be, the quarters from which you may be attacked, the burdens that may need carrying. Take care not to view any of these apart from God. Be sure that he will be between you and them, as the ship is between the traveler and the ocean, be it fair or stormy.—Rev. F. B. Meyer.

Terrible.

"What's the matter, old man? You seem dejected." "I am. I did a terrible thing this morning." "I hope you didn't lose any money on wheat?" "No, but I forgot one of my clerks when the directory canvasser was here, and so that'll cut down the estimate of our population. I don't know how I shall ever be able to look my fellow citizens in the face again."

Emancipation Proclamation.

The Wife—You can't blame me for wanting nice dresses. All women are slaves to fashion. The Husband—Well, I'm a strong abolitionist, and I can't consistently give money toward encouraging slavery in any form.

Smooth Afterward.

Miss Singleton—They say that happy marriages are rare. Tell me, did you ever have any trouble with your husband? Mrs. May Todd—No trouble that I recollect, except in getting him.—Tid Bits.

She—I hope you were polite to papa, dear? He—Indeed I was. I gave him a cordial invitation to make his house my home.—Tid Bits.

SANTIAGO HAS SURRENDERED

Old Glory Floats Over the City—Our Terms Accepted.

EASTERN END OF CUBA IS OURS

The Spanish Surrendered with the Understanding that Their Troops be Sent Back to Spain—Praise for Shafter from Miles.

Four different times the Americans under Gen. Shafter prepared for a final assault upon Santiago, but each time Gen. Toral sent out a flag of truce and quibbled over terms of surrender. Gen. Shafter's patience at last gave out and, on advice from Washington, he gave the Spanish 24 hours to come to his terms.

The Spanish general delayed his final action until within one hour of the time set by Gen. Shafter for beginning the assault upon Santiago and then he decided to surrender and sent a request for the appointment of commissioners to arrange for the capitulation of the city. The war department received the following dispatch from Gen. Shafter:

Have just returned from interview with Gen. Toral. He agrees to surrender under the basis of being returned to Spain. This proposition embraces all of eastern Cuba from Acerraderos on the south to Sagua on the north, via Palma, with practically the Fourth army corps. Commissioners meet this afternoon to definitely arrange the terms.

A short time later a dispatch was received from Gen. Miles, evidently written before the final surrender, as follows:

Gen. Toral formally surrendered the troops of his army—troops and division of Santiago—on the terms and understanding that his troops shall be returned to Spain. Gen. Shafter will appoint commissioners to draw up the conditions of arrangement carrying out the terms of surrender. This is very gratifying and Gen. Shafter and the officers and men of this command are entitled to great credit for their energy and fortitude in overcoming the almost insuperable obstacles which they encountered. A portion of the army has been infected with yellow fever and efforts will be made to separate those who are infected and those who are free from it, and keep those who are on board ship separated from those on shore. Arrangements will be immediately made for carrying out further instructions of the President and yourself.

This was almost immediately followed by a cable saying, "Santiago surrendered at 3."

Later dispatches related the story of the surrender. It was within an hour of the time set for ending the truce when Gen. Toral, acting on Capt. Gen. Blanco's instructions, asked time to communicate by cable with Madrid, the surrender of Santiago being too important a step to be taken without royal authority. In the meantime Gen. Blanco offered to appoint a joint commission to arrange terms. Gen. Miles and Gen. Shafter decided to call for a personal interview with Gen. Toral, his message being ambiguous. They rode out between the lines shortly before noon and met Gen. Toral, who said he had received, a few minutes before, authority from Capt. Gen. Blanco to capitulate and to make the work of the commissioners final. Gen. Toral named Robert Mason, British consul, Gen. Toral and his own (Toral's) chief of staff, Gen. Miles named Gen. Wheeler, Gen. Lawton and Capt. Miles, of Gen. Shafter's staff. The commission at once began work on the terms of the surrender.

All was not clear sailing even after the commissioners had been appointed, for Gen. Toral at once raised some unexpected questions and with true Spanish deceptiveness endeavored to make conditions productive of credit to himself. Most important of these was an insistence that the Spanish troops should retain their arms when they returned to Spain. There was an entire willingness on the part of Gen. Toral to turn over the arms to Gen. Shafter at the time of the surrender, but with this was to be the understanding that the arms were to be returned to the Spanish troops when Spanish soil was reached.

When this trouble was communicated to Washington by Gen. Shafter, the President called a council of war at which a decision was reached that there should be no further parley with Gen. Toral. The next move would have to be a surrender upon the terms which the United States government proposed or an attack upon the Spanish forces by the army and navy.

Gen. Toral found difficulty in surrendering that part of the force under his command which was not in the city of Santiago. Gen. Shafter estimates that there are from 12,000 to 15,000 men in Santiago and nearly as many more in the province outside the city. The delay in the negotiations was made necessary in order to secure the surrender of the outlying garrisons, some of which questioned Toral's authority to surrender them without definite instructions to that effect from Madrid.

The firm demands of the American government brought the Spaniards to time, finally, and Gen. Shafter was enabled to send the following dispatch, dated Santiago, July 17:

I have the honor to announce that the American flag was at 12 o'clock noon hoisted over the house of the civil government in the city of Santiago. An immense concourse of people present. A squad of cavalry and a regiment of infantry presenting arms and band playing national airs. Light battery fired salute, 21 guns. Perfect order is being maintained by municipal government. Distress is very great but little sickness in town. Scarcely any yellow fever. A small gunboat and about 200 seamen left by Cervera have surrendered to me. Obstructions are being removed from mouth of harbor. On coming into the city I discovered a perfect entanglement of defenses. Fighting as the Spaniards did the first day it would have cost 5,000 lives to have taken it. Battalions of Spanish troops have been depositing arms since daylight in armory over which I have guard. Gen. Toral formally surrendered the plaza and all stores at 9 a. m. My ordnance officers report about 7,000 rifles turned in today and 600,000 cartridges. At the mouth of the harbor there are quite a number of fine, modern guns, about six-inch; also two batteries of mountain guns, together with a saluting battery of 15 old bronze guns. Disarming and turning in will go on tomorrow. List of prisoners not yet taken.

The scene of the final act of surrender are described as very impressive. Gen. Shafter and the American division and brigade commanders and their staffs were escorted by a "roop" of cavalry, and Gen. Toral and his staff by one hundred picked men. The Spanish troops marched out and laid down their arms. Trumpeters on both sides saluted with flourishes. Gen. Shafter returned to Gen. Toral the latter's sword after it had been handed to the American commander. Our troops lined up at the trenches, were eye-witnesses of the ceremony. Gen. Shafter and his escort, accompanied by Gen. Toral, rode through the city taking formal possession. The city had been sacked before they arrived by the Spaniards.

The first troops to enter the city were the men of the Ninth infantry. The position of honor was given them as a reward for their heroic assault on San Juan hill in the first day's fighting. As the Ninth entered the city the spectacle was thrilling. Many in the crowds waved a welcome to our men. From none came threats or words of discontent. Even the Spanish soldiers took the arrival of the Americans calmly. Gens. Shafter, Wheeler, Kent, Lawton, Ames, Sumner and McKibbin rode straight to the captain-general's palace where they met by the municipal authorities the archbishop of Santiago and the generals of the defeated Spanish army. Gens. Toral and Uscario and their staffs received our generals with every possible courtesy. Gen. Toral apologized for the non-appearance of Lieut. Gen. Linares, who was prevented from being present by his wound.

The ceremony of hoisting the stars and stripes was worth all the blood and treasure it cost. A vast concourse of 10,000 people witnessed the stirring and thrilling scene that will live forever in the minds of all the Americans present. A finer stage setting for a dramatic episode it would be difficult to imagine. The palace, a picturesque old dwelling in the Moorish style of architecture, faces the Plaza de la Reina, the principal public square. Across the Plaza was drawn up the Ninth infantry, headed by the Sixth cavalry band. In the street facing the palace stood a picket troop of the Second cavalry, with drawn sabres, under command of Capt. Brett. Massed on the stone flagging between the band and the line of horsemen were the brigade and division commanders of Gen. Shafter's corps, with their staffs. On the red tiled roof of the palace stood Capt. McKibbin, Capt. Miles and Gen. Wheeler. All about, pressing against the veranda rails crowding to windows and doors and living the roof, were the people of the town, principally women and non-combatants. As the chimes of the old cathedral across the plaza rang out the hour of 12 the infantry and cavalry presented arms. Every American uncovered, and Capt. McKibbin shouted the stars and stripes. As the brilliant folds unfurled in a gentle breeze against a fleckless sky the cavalry band broke into the strains of the "Star Spangled Banner," making the American heart throb with joy. At the same instant the sound of the booming of Capt. Capron's battery, firing a salute of 31 guns, drifted in, and from all along the American line came floating across the plaza the strains of the regimental bands and the cheers of our troops. Gen. McKibbin called for three cheers for Gen. Shafter which were given with great enthusiasm the band playing Sousa's "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

The ceremony over, Gen. Shafter and his staff returned to the American lines, leaving the city in the possession of the municipal authorities subject to control of Brig. Gen. Chambers McKibbin who had been appointed temporary military governor.

What will be done with Gen. Shafter's force is not yet fully decided. The physicians declare that the army, owing to hardships and the fever, will not be fit for active duty for some time to come, and Gen. Miles is believed to be seriously considering the proposition to leave only immune regiments to hold the conquered province and return the body of the corps to the United States and send other immunes to reinforce the Santiago detachment if necessary. Many of the troops are eager to participate in the Porto Rico campaign, but this is strongly opposed by the surgeons.

As soon as the surrender had been completed a heavy stream of refugees began pouring into the city, some naked, and all hungry, skeleton and foot-sore. Many had fallen by the wayside. The town of Santiago presents a dismal appearance. Most of the houses have been sacked and the stores have all been looted, and nothing to eat could be had for love or money in the city, at the intrenchments, at the breastworks and at every 100 feet or so of the barbed wire fence, were the living skeletons of Spanish soldiers. Over 20,000 refugees are quartered at El Caney, 5,000 at Firmza and 5,000 at Boniato and San Vincente, where they have been living since the city was first bombarded.

The entrance of the refugees was quiet and peaceful, they viewing their wrecked homes philosophically as the fortune of war. Admiral Sampson's last bombardment of Santiago wrecked 37 homes in the city, causing heavy damage.

The first chapter in the land campaign of the United States against Spain closed when the Spanish colors gave place over Santiago to the American flag. Next will follow the transportation of the Spanish troops back to their native land and the capture of the island of Porto Rico, unless peace soon intervenes. The siege of Santiago had lasted two weeks and was remarkable in many respects, and in many more than the heavy price of loss through death and sickness of soldiers engaged on both sides. Looking back over the record of these two weeks it is seen that a great ironical Spanish squadron has been destroyed, that nearly 1,000 Spanish sailors have been drowned, killed by shell and flame, and that an untold number of Spanish soldiers have died in the trenches of Santiago. On the other hand about 250 American soldiers have been killed, and, in round numbers, 2,000 more have been sent to the hospitals from wounds, fevers and other ailments. Our fleet had a remarkable exception from disaster in the many engagements it has had with the forts at the entrance of the harbor and with the Spanish squadron.

The territory surrendered to us by Gen. Toral makes about 5,000 square miles. The Spanish soldiers to be sent to Spain is estimated at 15,000 men. The statement that the Spanish proposition embraces all eastern Cuba from Acerraderos to Sagua is important in that it shows the surrender to embrace all the harbor and contiguous territory of Santiago. It does not include Holguin and Manzanillo, where the Spaniards are reported to have considerable bodies of soldiers, as these places are to the west of the surrendered zone. The territory includes a population exceeding 125,000 when the country is in its normal state. It includes the important cities of Santiago de Cuba, Guantanamo, Sagua de Panama, and Baracoa. It is exceedingly rich in minerals, sugar and coffee. The large iron and copper mines at Inyanga, Baiquiri and vicinity are owned by American companies. In the Guantanamo district are extensive plantations. Baracoa carried on an extensive fruit trade with the United States. The line begins at Acerraderos, about 15 miles west of Santiago harbor, and then runs due north about 25 miles to Palma Soriano. Had the line continued due north it would have passed west of Holguin, thus taking the Spanish garrison at that point. Evidently Gen. Toral wishes to avoid the inclusion of Holguin so the line turns to the northeast of Palma and runs to the coast town of Boca del Sagua. The extreme length of this surrendered tract is about 110, extreme width about 50 miles, and is a rugged mountainous country. Santiago, with its fine harbor, is the main point, while Guantanamo is second in importance.

Great attention will now be given to the care of our sick and fever stricken soldiers on the island. In the opinion of the army surgeons the sick can be best treated by removal to the high ground back of the southern coast, where the heat is less severe and where recovery could proceed without fear of communicating disease to the rest of the army. Secretary Algeo is anxious to bring the entire army back as soon as it can be done with safety to the men themselves without jeopardy to other troops in Florida and to the public. The active preparations made to deal with the emergency are such that it is felt the question of disease can be coped with successfully, now that the military situation has been simplified.

The plan of the war department for returning the surrendered army of Gen. Toral to Spain will not necessarily use the use of American vessels. It is the purpose of the department to ask for proposals from all steamship companies which desire to compete for transporting the Spanish troops to Spain and the most advantageous bid will be accepted. The prices of Gen. Shafter state that the number of Spanish prisoners to be between 12,000 and 15,000.

Secretary of War Algers says that the Porto Rican expedition would go forward immediately. It will comprise new men entirely. The warriors in the trenches before Santiago have distinguished themselves, and it is not deemed prudent to bring them in unnecessary contact with new troops in view of the danger of spreading contagion. The sick soldiers will be nursed back to health and brought to the United States as soon as they can be safely moved. Immune regiments will be ordered to Santiago to garrison the town, and two of these regiments are already under orders to proceed. The Porto Rican expedition will be commanded by Gen. Miles in person, though Gen. Brooke, now in command at Camp Thomas, is expected to be in his main dependence. The size of the expedition will depend upon Gen. Miles' wishes, although it is believed that 25,000 men will be sufficient for the purpose. At San Juan the navy will be of greater assistance than it was at Santiago owing to the possibility of approaching the town more closely without risking contact with mines. The experience gained in dispatching Shafter's expedition, it is expected will aid the officials in their determination to make short work of the Porto Rican affair. There will be plenty of transports available for the expedition. Porto Rico is not expected to offer a very formidable resistance. It is believed that the moral effect of the surrender at Santiago will be to discourage the defenders at San Juan. There is however always the prospect that peace may ensue before hostilities have progressed against Spain's easternmost West Indian island.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE IN IRELAND

Single Women and Widows May Vote—How History Repeats Itself.

During the annual meeting of the National Woman Suffrage association, held recently in Brooklyn, Mrs. Carrie Lane Chapman Catt, chairman of the committee of organization, N. A. W. S. A., said to a reporter for the New York Tribune that England was getting far ahead of America in the extension of political liberty to women. "The parliament of England," she said, "has just conferred municipal suffrage upon single women and widows of Ireland, upon substantially the same terms as men. Municipal suffrage was granted to the women of England in 1869, and was so successful in its operation that in 1881 it was extended to the women of Scotland. Now, after twenty-nine years of satisfactory experience in England, and seventeen years in Scotland, it is extended to the women of Ireland. Full suffrage, including the parliamentary vote, was conferred upon the women of the Isle of Man in 1880, to the women of New Zealand in 1893, and in 1894 the same privilege was extended to the women of South Australia. The United States was the first of the nations to extend the suffrage to men upon liberal terms, England rather tardily following her example; but the rapid far-reaching extensions of suffrage to women within the domain of the British government seem to indicate that England has been more ready, after all, to recognize the logic of democratic principles. It is a timely query to make, why English and Irish women who are qualified to vote in their native countries should be disfranchised if they chance to remove to the United States. In Sweden and Norway tax-paying women may vote by proxy, and it is fair to ask why such women in the United States should enjoy less political dignity."

A WOMAN'S REFERENCE.

How She Treated Her Husband's Gout to Herbed Tea.

One of the most prominent figures on the Supreme bench of Louisiana in ante-bellum days was a certain Judge B., whose locale was the parish of St. Landry, says the Philadelphia Times. The judge was a man of old-school elegance, his wife was one of the most brilliant women of her day in the state. Their St. Landry home was noted for the elegance of its appointments no less than for the grandeur of its hospitality. Their entertainments were noted throughout the countryside. More than one white haired man prominent in latter-day Louisiana politics can tell you that he proposed to his wife, at a ball at Judge B.'s, and if you should care to know the wife can describe the elegant gowns all the ladies and particularly Mrs. B. wore on that occasion. These would make pleasant stories. I am to tell you one of another sort. Upon a certain occasion Judge B. gave a dinner to the bar of St. Landry. When the guests arrived they found everything awaiting their reception. In the drawing-room a bright wood fire glowed behind polished brasses; waxen tapers gleamed from silver candelabra to be multiplied and reflected again and again from surrounding mirrors. The judge greeted them with his usual magnificent courtesy of manner, while his wife, attired in a trailing gown of black velvet and rare old lace, with diamonds sparkling from her hair and her throat and her hands, seemed more than ever brilliant, beautiful and gracious. When presently a slave held the door open and ushered their guests into the dining hall, the elegance of the occasion seemed complete. Snow-white linen, frailest china, brightest crystal, most polished silver adorned the board. With that rare grace which was at all times her distinguishing charm, Mrs. B. dished the soup from the steaming silver urn, her brilliant wit and clever repartee scintillating the while. As each guest was served his glance fell upon a plate of palest amber liquid, with tiny, indistinguishable bits of something floating therein. Finally the hostess lifted her spoon and, with a graceful wave of her hand, gave the signal to begin. There was a smile upon her parted lips as she said "Gentlemen, I have prepared a new soup for your delectation today. I trust it may please your palate. Should you like the recipe I can tell you it is made from the cowhide with which Judge B. whipped me this morning."

Something to Know

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigorous condition is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the liver and kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Sold for 50c or 1.00 per bottle at Geo. C. Did You Take Scott's Emulsion through the winter? If so, we are sure it quieted your cough, healed the rawness in your throat, increased your weight, gave you more color, and made you feel better in every way. But perhaps your cough has come back again, or you are getting a little thinner and pale.

Then, why not continue the same helpful remedy right through the summer? It will do you as much good as when the weather is cold.

Its persistent use will certainly give you a better appetite and a stronger digestion.

It will cure your weak throat and heal your inflamed lungs. It will cure every case of consumption, when a cure is possible.

Don't be persuaded to take something they say is just as good.
