No. 5.

NORTHVILLE, MICH., FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1898.

OUR BRAVE SOLDIERS.

One by One They Are Returning to Their Homes.

ALL HAVE THE SAME SAD TALE TO TELL.

Improper Sanitary and Medical Facilities.

One by one Northville's brave soldier boys are returning home, and though but one, Bert Hills, has so far been in a real battle, yet nearly all those of the 32d have encountered a worse enemy than the Spaniard, and the sad experience of each is like unto the other.

Albert Lyke.

In a talk with a Record representative this week Albert Lyke tells some of his experiences as a soldier in Uncle Sam's service, and according to the picture he draws there are more hardships and dangers to be encountered in camp than in battle. Lyke speaks of his experience in a modest unassuming manner that at once impresses one of its truthfulness. Of the 19 enlisted boys from Northville he was the first to return. As was stated last week he came home from one of the Florida hospitals on a 30 days furlough. Lyke first enlisted with the Toledo naval reserves but they were so slow about getting away that he got released to enlist in the 1st Ohio cavalry with whom he served until the malaria captured him about six weeks ago. He says the hospital life was the only redeemable part of the whole business. He says he not only got good care there, but palatable food.

Lyke says he speaks the sentiment of the whole Ohio regiment when he says that when Uncle Sam wants more volunteers he will have to draft for them so far as the 1st Ohio Cavalry is concerned. The boys say that state prison food and labor would be a picnic compared with hard tack and milkless coffee, hard, butterless bread and "sow belly." The boys were rationed with flour, but inasmuch as not a man in the company could make a loaf of bread fit for a dog to eat, the flour might as well have been in Chicago, except as they made a deal with the commissary man to sell it for them, but even then they saw little or no money from those sales. The reason they never got potatoes, he says, was because the commissary was allowed to stand on the tracks until the "murfys" were nearly rotten, and when the good ones were sorted out, only the companies with "pulls" seemed to get them.

According to Lyke the officers said the men must sleep on the ground in order to toughen them. One night during a rain he woke and found a stream of rain running under him like a river under a bridge. Next day he felt so rheumatic that he bought a cot, but he was promptly informed that the ground was the proper seasoning place for a soldier and out the cot went. Lyke says not a boy would have made a whimper at such state of affairs existing in Cuba or anywhere else where there was necessity, but right here at home in the "land of milk and honey" where there was no apparent need of it, a kick is justifiable. Instead of toughening the soldiers it threw large numbers into the hospitals. In speaking of expenses Lyke says that one morning 100 men in his company were obliged to make a whole meal on oatmeal and sugar at a total expense of less than $1 for the whole company. All the Northville boys have been in the hospital except those at Island Lake, and they are expected home now soon.

Frank Lewis.

Among the invalid soldiers who came into Detroit Saturday night was one who refused all the kindly offers of those who wished to give him a comfortable night's lodging, and all the attention and care to which any one wearing the blue carried an instant passport. He was too near home to risk any delay and the first train that came Northvilleward in the early morning hours brought a weak tired but happy Frank Lewis to the home from which he had been absent for only five months it is true; but we venture to say that taken as a whole they were about as long a five months as he has ever counted. For nearly two of them he has been in the toils of disease, and probably owes his life to the fact that he was fortunate enough to receive better care than so many whose lives paid for their readiness to serve under the stars and stripes. His story verifies the sad truth that hundreds of mourning homes would have been happy today but for the lack of proper sanitary and medical facilities. These sick boys, himself among the number, were left in their tents with scarcely any attention until their condition became alarming, when they were placed in the regimental hospital—an unrecognized department for which there was no military authority—and there cared for by men detailed from the ranks without any regard for their future fitness for the work, and no extra pay, as a stimulant for special effort. Frank's condition was such that his captain detailed Myron Taylor, his tent mate, to devote his time entirely to him, and by the unflinching faithfulness with which he performed the task, he has placed upon his comrades and those near and dear to him, a debt of gratitude which can never be discharged.

As to Frank's story of camps and rations, it has been told and retold by many at Tampa the sanitary conditions were simply murderous; the contents of the tents floating around in water during rains, and water to wade in if one stepped outside. At Fernandina there was nothing to complain of as to the situation. Frank speaks in the highest terms of the hospital at Ft. McPherson, with its trained nurses and competent doctors. And when the convalescence begins, the Daughters of the Revolution and the ladies of the Red Cross are ready to offer every delicacy and attention possible to the invalids. Two weeks sickness in his tent, three at the regimental hospital, and two weeks at Ft. McPherson, then a furlough and home, is the record of the last two months for Frank Lewis. He can receive his discharge at home, but if he gets well enough wants to go to Camp Eaton and be mustered out with his regiment. He is gaining slowly but is still extremely weak.

SAYS THE WATER IS ALL RIGHT.

DR. HENRY HAS MADE AN EXAMINATION

Of the Northville Water Works Water.

Dr. Henry has made a thorough investigation of Northville's water works system and furnishes in brief the following statement:

"Regulation army tests made for four consecutive days failed to reveal evidences of organic matter. Organic material alone is not harmful except as it is a good culture ground for germs which produce disease. Nitrates and chlorides which would indicate contamination by decomposition and sewage respectively were not present to any extent."

"It is unreasonable to suppose that there are pathogenic micro-organisms present without evidences in the sickness of villages. No typhoid fever since the water works have been put in and very few cases of malaria fever in the village, many of whom use well water entirely."

"The springs do not supply more water than required by village; in fact sometimes not enough, consequently is fresh and flowing at all times."

"Inspection of springs corroborates the statement of President Ambler that they are frequently cleaned."

"Suggestion—People should let water run for a few minutes each morning before using, as water frequently tastes of the pipes."

FOUGHT WITH ADMIRAL SCHLEY.

GUNNER JAY WELFARE OF NOVI HAS BEEN HOME.

He Helped to Destroy Admiral Cervera's Fleet.

"The grand part our Michigan boys have played in the war is too well known for comment, but it is safe to say that none in this section of country can point to a more thrilling experience than has fallen to the lot of the big, athletic, fine looking sailor boy who surprised his parents and friends by appearing at his home near Novi, last Saturday—Jay Welfare, gunner on Admiral Schley's flagship, the now world famous Brooklyn. His story and appearance are a striking contrast to those of the returning soldiers. Nature has given him a magnificent physique, and his year's service on salt water notwithstanding the episodes connected therewith, has left him the picture of health and strength. He has not seen a day's sickness, and speaks in the highest terms of his treatment, both as to discipline and rations. He says the admiral is regarded with the greatest affection by his men. When questioned as to his sensations at the beginning of the Cervera battle, he confessed that the hearts of the boys beat pretty lively when the fleet bore down on the flagship, but when the action had commenced they forgot everything but business. The Brooklyn's part that day is history, but the incidents can be adequately described only by the eye witnesses. The wonderful escape from fatalities was emphasized by the young gunner in the telling of how one of the 13 shots which struck the ship pierced the berth deck and burst into a score of pieces among twelve men, not one of whom was touched, except as one received a slight scratch on the hand, though some of the fragments were imbedded even in the iron beams."

Jay has many very interesting souvenirs which he secured from the Spanish ship Vizcaya—shells of various sizes, some of the famous Mauser and the deadly brass bullets, a shark hook, and many other things which he did not bring home. He has two years more to serve, and though he will then be only 25, he has already seen the shores of many countries and condensed into his few years experiences vouchsafed to but few lifetimes. He makes but a brief visit, but has been constantly surrounded during his stay, as he is of course the hero of the hour among his many acquaintances and friends."

WANT TO BE MUSTERED OUT.

THAA'S WHAT THE BOYS OF THE 31st DESIRE.

Another Interesting Letter from Corporal Slater.

Camp Poland, Knoxville, Sept. 3. Editor Record: I have been very busy for the past few weeks because of the removal of our regiment from Chickamauga to Knoxville. We are now located on the side of a mountain about one mile from the city. It is the most beautiful scenery here I ever witnessed and the people treat us as kings. We are allowed ten passes from each company every day and you have no idea how we look forward for our time to come for a pass.

Some of the Detroit papers have said that the boys of the 31st want to do garrison duty. I associate daily with the enlisted men and think that I have a better idea as to their wishes than any reporter who may be sent here, and I know positively that the men do not want to do garrison duty, but do want to be mustered out, and could some of the parents who have sons in this regiment, but spend one day in camp Poland, they would make the effort of their lives to have their dear ones discharged. Our hospital is full, and many poor fellows who would fearlessly have faced the Spanish bullets, are now lying sick with fevers, in a tent with nothing for a bed but a pine board, a shelter-tent and a rubber poncha. Such scenes as this certainly help to cast a gloom over the entire regiment, and a soldier who has not lost from ten to fifteen pounds in weight is a curiosity. I don't care to work too much on the feelings of the people at home, but I feel as though they should know something as to the condition of the boys. As for myself, I have lost ten pounds in weight, but feel as well as ever, and play ball some every day. One day of this week I was corporal of a provost guard at Knoxville. The guard is kept there to keep the soldiers from raising any disturbance. I must say that I never saw a more civil lot of young men than there is in Gen. McKee's division, and I had very little trouble although my relief was posted on the Bowery, which is considered to be the toughest in the city. One of the famous Hatfield families of Virginia started a small riot, but when the soldiers appeared and ordered him away he lost all of his fighting blood, and once more peace reigned supreme on the Bowery."

"I think that when the several regiments from Michigan get home there will be some very sensational investigations, and some who are now high up in authority may find themselves asked to answer some questions which might embarrass them. In this volunteer army it is not always the men who wear shoulder straps that have the most brains, but an enlisted man must not make any very rash assertions, or he may have a court martial to face, but as the saying goes 'There'll come a time.'"

Day before yesterday, Private Harry Gould of Co. L was taken to the regimental hospital dying with fever and other complications. Yesterday he was granted a furlough and started for home in Detroit. A few hours after the train had left Knoxville Capt. Baxter received a telegram stating that Harry had passed away while on board the train only about forty miles from the camp. Today the hospital corps is being criticized by a great many of the enlisted men. This is about all of the news now, but I wish to impress most forcibly upon the people of Michigan the exact condition of the 31st regiment. CORP. FRED M. SLATER.

Henry S. Ingraham of St. Johns expects the appointment to the task of superintending the removal of the bodies of the American dead from the Santiago battle field to this country. There are from 300 to 400 of them, and they were wrapped in sacking when buried. They are to be brought to their friends and to the national cemeteries in sealed metallic coffins. The work is to be done in October and November and the price to be obtained for the terrible risk incurred is to be $10 per day—or the superintendent of the work. ## The New Bicycle Ordinance.

There's at least one commendable feature about the new bicycle ordinance—there's nothing to compel the riders to ring their bells. Ordinarily a bell on a bicycle is a dangerous thing on a wheel. A wheelman left to himself will silently pass people without a bit of danger; when if a bell is rung folks are sure to jump right in front of the wheel and an accident results. Many riders carry bells for their own protection and occasionally the rider saves a little breath by fingling the alarm instead of "look out there!" but more times he glides silently by, and if people on foot will move along about their business and pay no attention to him he will dodge in and out of even a crowd and rarely ever touch any one. As for riding on the sidewalks,
Sec. 11 of Ordinance No. 4 is identical and the village has prosecuted under
it. Sec. 7 of the same ordinance prohibited the riding, or driving of any vehicle through the streets at a faster clip than 8 miles per hour except cutters on Dunlap street between 2:00 and 5:00 p. m. Bicycles are, in the eyes of the law, vehicles. A new ordinance, without amending or repealing the old ones, might lead to the asking "where we are at."

NORTHVILLE.

The City in Brief.

Mrs. Chas. Sessions is seriously ill. Mrs. A. K. Carpenter has been on the sick list this week.

Anyhow the council ought to stand well with bicycle bell dealers. The County Auditors' bi-monthly report will be found on page 6 of this issue.

Watch out for the bicycle bell. It means there is a dangerous wheel and a bad man behind it.

A regular meeting of the LOM will occur Sept. 13. All members are requested to be present. By order of committee.

J. M. Dixon, Northville's florist, has recently built a large addition to his already commodious green house in order to be able to meet his extensive trade.

The carnival of arts and sports, to take place at Jackson Sept. 20, 21, 22 and 23, will be an innovation in the way of street fairs. There will be fun for everybody.

Mrs. Chas. B. Button of near Farmington died last week Wednesday. The funeral occurred Friday, Rev. J. H. Herbener of this place officiating. She was 82 years of age.

See Ambler for your Coal and Wood

Letters for the following persons are advertised at the postoffice this week:

Alice Lyon

Samuel Eving

John Little is slowly recovering from his recent illness.

Fry Bros. & Co. started their new delivery wagon last Friday.

Mrs. E. C. Hinkley has been suffering from an attack of quinsy.

Miss Olive Shepard has been seriously ill this week, but is now better.

"I will now present you with a ring," says the bicycle rider as he jingles his bell.

At a meeting of the state board L. A. W. in Detroit Monday, E. H. Hines, well known in Northville, was nominated chief consul.

Miss Bertina VanZile was a successful applicant for a teacher's certificate at the recent examination at Pontiac and will teach in the Jud Chapman district this year.

Christian Science services in the WCTU hall next Sunday. Morning service at 10:30. Subject: "Matter." Evening service at 7:30. Subject: "Sinfulness is Captivity."

The BYPC will have a "Fruit social" at the residence of J. K. Lowden this evening. A musical and literary program will be rendered. All are most cordially invited.

The Baptist ladies had a sales day of home-made baking last Saturday in Schantz store, and in the evening sold ice cream from which the receipts were something over $12.

The Baptist Juniors have elected the following officers for the ensuing term: President, Mary Holt; Vice president, Borridal Parmenter, Secretary, Cassie Parmenter; Treasurer, Leah Judson.

There are yet about 160 of our subscribers who are entitled to one of the Maine battleship pictures. We have about that many on hand which we will be pleased to deliver on application.

The Baptist ladies will have their second sale of Home Baking one week from Saturday, Sept. 17, at S. S. Schantz' store. They will be prepared to supply all who come or leave an order.

Mr. Lewis D. Tower of this place and Miss Huldah Kuehn were married Wednesday at the home of the bride's parents at Richmond. Mr. and Mrs. Tower will commence housekeeping at once at No. 13 Cady street.

R. H. Beal will dispose of his household goods at public auction at his residence on Randolph street, tomorrow (Saturday) at 1:30 p. m. The list comprises stoves, bedroom suites, tables and many other articles.

Some people do not seem to understand that revenue stamps will not pay postage, as the postmaster informs us that he frequently finds letters deposited in the post-office with revenue instead of postage stamps affixed. Such letters are treated as without postage.

Rev. Mr. Ward has been setting type and learning other branches of the printers' art this week. Almost everybody knows what the newest printer in an office is called, but when he gets all daubed with ink, as beginners usually do, even the preacher will be glad to admit that "the devil is not as black as he is painted."

Gov. Pingree has received a petition signed by 1,004 men of the 31st Michigan, asking that they be mustered out. It will be given consideration as soon as possible, and it is very probable that the governor will sanction it, as he has often expressed the opinion that the men, and not the officers, should be the judges of what they wanted to do.

Everybody in Northville interested in singing is invited to meet in the Presbyterian church this Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock. Mr. Herbener will begin a singing school. There will be nothing of a worshipful nature and everybody, whether they sing themselves or enjoy hearing others sing, is welcome to come. Something in the way of entertainment will also be provided.

On Wednesday evening at the Presbyterian manse Mr. Thomas J. Gibson of North Farmington was married by Rev. J. H. Herbener to Miss Pearl Blanchard of the same place in the presence of the brother and sister of the bride, who is a niece of our townsman, Dr. Blanchard. Mr. and Mrs. Gibson took the 9:00 o'clock train for a short bridal tour via Detroit. Their future home will be on Mr. Gibson's farm near Farmington.

The engine room and main shaft belt in the J. A. Dubuar factory were damaged about $150 by fire about 8:30 Wednesday night. The alarm was quickly given but before even the quick arrival of the fire company the flames were subdued by the prompt turning on of some hand hose. Employees were at once set to work putting on a new belt and clearing up the charred engine room material, and the factory started up as usual yesterday morning. The fire doubtless caught by a spark dropping from the engine before quitting time and which in the cleaning up had been overlooked. The loss is covered by insurance.

Plymouth Rock Flour makes good bread. Try it.

School opened this week with an enrollment of 340 pupils as follows: High-school 55; 8th grade 22; 7th 35; 6th and 5th 62; 4th 26; 3d 24; 2d 39; 1st 67. Prof. Gilbert has taken hold of the work like a veteran and he as well as his corps of assistants are much pleased with the outlook.

In speaking of the tests made of the water from the Northville water works Dr. Fest says: "I made the test according to the standard text books of hygiene and according to the formula of the U. S. pharmacopoeia and that those who examined the water and declared it pure were mistaken in the proportion of the reagents to be used."

There's one unique thing about the Howell street fair, if we may judge by the advertising matter distributed here last week. The only thing really promised is a "Howling" time. There's a band of Indians and a picture on the walls but there's nothing to indicate they will be at Howell. There's a balloon picture but it is not promised that any will go up. In the stock, mechanic, vegetable and other departments the bill says "we expect an exhibit." The bill invites everybody to visit midway but there is no assertion that there will be a midway to visit. Anyhow there will be no chance after the fair is over for people to say that Howell people didn't do all they advertised to do.

Postmaster Hutton does not claim to be a clairvoyant nor anything of that sort and says there is nothing mystic about any of his office force. They do not live in the past or future, nor "soar 'mong the clouds." They are just plain, common every-day kind of folks and therefore they can not dispatch mail unless it is addressed. We called the attention of our readers to the fact that many letters and papers are dropped into the mail box from week to week without any address on them. Of course such matter lays dead in the office; but still the postmaster informs us that it is no unusual thing to find from one to half a dozen such articles every day several letters and postal cards being mailed in that condition this week. Mail properly addressed will reach its destination much quicker than otherwise.

Annual School Meeting.

The annual school meeting Monday night was largely attended, by both men and women. The amount of $3,625 will be expended for teachers and $400 for incidentals. L. A. Babbitt was elected trustee for three years. The question of free text books was defeated by a great majority, and that of uniform text books was adopted by a majority of 37.

The question relative to the repairing, or replacing of a new side walk on the north side of the school ground, was left to the discretion of the school board with power to act in the matter.

See Ambler for your Coal and Wood.

Truth wears well. People have learned that DeWitt's Little Early Risers are reliable little pills for regulating the bowels, during constipation and sick headache. They don't gripe. Murdoch Bros.

Keeps Folks Well.

It is better to keep well than to get well, although when one is sick it is desirable to get well. When we consider that eight-tenths of the ailments that afflict the American people are caused by constipation, we shall realize why it is that Baxter's Mandrake Bitters "keeps folks well," or if sick, enables them to get well. Baxter's Mandrake Bitters cures constipation.

Price 25 Cents per Bottle.

Why not step in and get a bottle and by using it be assured of good health through the trying hot months. We sell it and guarantee it to give satisfaction or money refunded. Geo. C. Hueston, Murdoch Bros.

The Greatest Discovery Yet.

W. M. Replac, editor Tiakiwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the flu remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at Geo. C. Hueston's Drug Store.

Farmers Read This!

Farmers read this and tell your neighbors that I have got the best outfit for grinding feed in this part of the country. I grind cob and all first over rolls and then over a 4 1-2 foot stone and it is ground even and fine; and it costs you no more than it does to have it ground on rolls alone as other mills have to grind it. Bring me a grist and be convinced that I do as I claim, and if you want some nice Flour and some that will make a nice moist loaf of bread bring some wheat and try it. I am a practical miller and can assure you first-class work. Once tried you will come again.

A ROMANCE

CHAPTER VII.

One-the-following morning, as Shell is carefully folding in tissue-paper the superfluous tea-spoons brought into use on the previous evening, Ruby once more bursts in upon her solitude.

"I have brought over one of Meg's dresses as a guide; and I think this merino ought to make up prettily," she says, unfolding a parcel which she carries, and displaying with some triumph a tiny cotton frock and a piece of some light blue material.

Shell pauses in the act of rubbing an imaginary spot from one of the spoons and stares at the articles produced with wondering eyes.

"What are you talking about?" she asks, with bewildered stress on the word "are."

"Why, I am going to make a dress for poor little Meg," explains Ruby in a rather impatient and injured tone. "You must have noticed how badly the poor child's things fit her."

Shell turns perfectly crimson.

"You can't mean what you say, Ruby," she cries in a voice of horror. "You have surely not been offering to make clothes for Robert Champley's children?"

"Why not?" demands Ruby, with a faint flush. "I consider it only a common act of charity to help the poor man when he is in such dire need of help."

"Oh, then, he asked you to see about it?" queries Shell, looking relieved.

"Well, not exactly. We were talking about the children, and I remarked that the nurse seemed to have no idea how to dress them properly. Of course he objected to my taking any trouble in the matter, but I could see that he was distressed by what I told him. So this morning I went over and caught the nurse just about to cut out another monstrous, so I just marched off her stuff, and one of Meg's dresses for a pattern."

"Wasn't the nurse a trifle surprised?" asks Shell, in dry sarcastic tone.

"She did seem a little put out," admits Ruby, with a quick flush. "I shall warn Robert Champley against that woman. I think he must be mistaken in her—she has most shocking manners."

"Do you set up as being a judge of manners?" asks Shell, still sneering.

"I set up for knowing when people are rude and disagreeable," answers Ruby shortly.

Shell, having carefully disposed of her last spoon, is turning silently from the room, when Ruby calls her back.

"Where are you going?" she asks crossly.

"I am going to lock up the silver," replies Shell, without retracing her steps.

"When you have done that I wish you would help me to cut out Meg's dress—you are so much more used to that kind of thing than I am," says Ruby, gazing despondently at the little dress, which she has been turning inside out to see how it is fashioned.

"I am really very sorry," answers Shell coldly, "but I can't possibly help you. I never cut out a child's dress in my life."

"Nonsense—don't be so cross—you must do it for me!" cries Ruby, beginning to look alarmed. "Of course I quite reckoned on you, or I should never have undertaken such a task."

"I am very sorry," repeats Shell, in a hard, unfeeling voice, "but I don't in the least understand children's things. I should advise you to send for patterns or put it out—you will get no help from me." And then she hurries from the room, nearly upsetting Violet, whom she meets in the passage.

"Would you believe it, Vi?—that wretch of a Shell has turned sulky," grumbles Ruby, as her cousin enters the room. "She vows she won't help me with Meg's dress, or even cut it out. Isn't it disagreeable of her?"

"What on earth will you do? I know you can't manage it yourself," laughs Violet—instead of sympathizing she seems only amused at her cousin's dilemma.

"I am sure I don't know. Do you think you could cut one out?" asks Ruby hopelessly.

Violet turns the little dress all round about, then holds it out at arm's length by both sleeves.

"Not if hanging were the alternative," she laughs; "it is quite beyond me."

But for Ruby it is no laughing matter—tears of mortification and vexation force themselves into her eyes.

"Eh! Don't take it to heart," cries Violet lightly—"we'll send for some patterns, and then make an ostentatious show of cutting it out in Shell's presence. She won't be able to withstand that. I know, for she hates to see good stuff wasted."

And Violet's ruse proves successful. For when, a few days later, having obtained some patterns from London, Ruby deliberately begins to arrange them the wrong way of the stuff, Shell impatiently comes to the rescue, and, having once taken possession of the scissors, wields them to the end. Having cut out the dress, she soon decides to make it; she is a good work-woman, and never before has such a ference respecting his children has become almost unbearable—and changes which takes him from her immediate neighborhood cannot fail to be greeted with enthusiasm.

"It seems such a pity to leave Champley House just when the flowers are so beautiful," sighs Ruby sentimentally.

"I will tell the gardener to send over a basketful twice a week," returns Robert quickly.

"Thanks; you are too—too kind," gushes Ruby; whilst Vi, leaning back in her chair, smiles lazily at the little comedy being enacted before her.

"Oakmoor," muses Ruby aloud, after a short pause. "It sounds so rural and nice, only just a little vague. What part of Oakmoor are you going to?"

"Our farm house is about a quarter of a mile from the village of Oakford," "Oakford—Oakford?" repeats Ruby. "I suppose it is a very healthy spot?"

"I should think so. Oakford stands nearly eight hundred feet above the sea, and there's remarkably good fishing in the neighborhood."

"Oh, how I wish I could induce mamma to go there for a time—I am sure the change would do her good!" sighs Ruby.

"I am really afraid you wouldn't like it," cries Robert, looking alarmed. "There is only the most primitive accommodations to be had, and—ladies are not used to roughing it."

"That is just like you—always so thoughtful," says Ruby in rather an absent tone; "but I don't think we should mind roughing it a little, since the air is so invigorating."

"I know I should mind!" interposes Violet quickly. "I hate invigorating air—it gives one no excuse for being lazy; as for out-of-the-way places, I abominate them—no society, no library, perhaps even no piano!"

"I don't imagine that there is any hope of our going," says Ruby, looking blackly at her cousin.

"There is no need to regret that fact—you would be tired of the place in less than a week," laughs Robert confidentially, "as for Ted and me, it is otherwise—we shall have our fishing."

"Yes, of course. Well, I am sure I wish you may enjoy it," says Ruby, trying to look in earnest; and then, when their visitor has taken his departure, she falls into a meditative mood, from which Vi's bantering remarks are powerless to rouse her.

On the following morning Bob and Meg arrive with the nurse in their little donkey-trap, looking very important and well pleased with themselves.

"Please, Miss Wilden, we have come to wish you good-by, and please take this with our love," says Bob, striding first into the room and repeating the words that have been drilled into him with a slight frown.

"How handsome—how lovely! Oh, how kind!" she cries, then, unfolding a small scrap of paper contained in the case, she reads the somewhat stiffly-worded note enclosed.

"Dear Miss Wilden—Please accept the watch from Bob and Meg as a small token of their regard and gratitude. Yours truly,

"ROBERT CHAMPLEY."

Whilst Mrs. Wilden and Violet are admiring the watch, and Ruby is perusing the note with a feeling of disappointment, notwithstanding the costliness of her present, Meg makes her way to Shell, and, thrusting a parcel into her lap, cries triumphantly—

"Dat is for oo, dear Sell!"

"Dear Sell!" looks anything but delighted at the information.

"Nonsense, Meg—you have made a mistake!" she says, so coldly that Meg begins to pour her under lip preparatory to a cry.

"Me naivent!" she says stoutly. "Dat is for oo—pa said so."

Hearing that her parcel is of no intrinsic value, Shell condescends to open it. Having done so, a handsome bound copy of Tennyson's poems lies exposed to view.

The War Is Over.

And now our thoughts are all of peace and home. There are, too often, people to be found who have no home, and it is to them these few words are addressed. If you really want a home you can easily get one, but you should act at once before the relapse from the war puts pieces on the advance. In Marinette County, Wisconsin, the very finest farming land is to be had now at a most modest figure. Excellent home markets are at hand to take whatever the farmer raises, and good prices are given. These lands are on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, and full information concerning them will cheerfully be furnished by C. E. Rollins, Immigration Agent, 161 La Salle Street, Chicago.

HAGERMAN PASS, 11,580 feet high, is the route used by the Colorado Midland and the highest point reached by a standard gauge railway. The scenery on the Colorado Midland through the mountains is incomparable, train service the best and rates always as low as the lowest. If you have a trip in view through the Rocky Mountains write to the General Passenger Agent, Colorado Midland Railway, Denver, for information as to rates, train service, etc. Printed matter, including hand some illustrated pamphlets, furnished upon application.

Cincinnati, Sept. 5, 1898.—C. C. Mr. Riley came to the Baltimore & Ohio South Western Railway from the C. C. & St. L. Railway about a year ago, and has earned his promotion by meritorious services.

AFTER 20 YEARS.

A Lady of Grand Rapids Stalks the Right Thing.

Many extraordinary cases of the work of the little conqueror are coming to light in Michigan. Hundreds of them have been investigated by our representative and each but gives added strength to those which have gone before. Such well deserved words of praise are daily showered on this modern wonder worker from all parts of the Union. Speaking of her experience a lady of Grand Rapids, Mrs. Jno. Gardner, who resides at No. 309 Second street, says:

"For over 20 years I was bothered with kidney trouble, and despite treatment by physicians and using almost every remedy that came to my notice, I received no permanent relief until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. No one except those who have been through the mill of kidney complaint can tell the torture that one endures. It is a con- tinuous agony, my back extending up the right side, totally unable to lie on my right side the stiffness and numbness of my limbs. The extraordinary pain is something much more easily to stand at than to express. When a time my husband had to rub my back to get up the circulation before I was able to get out of bed. His family called me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, but as I had used dozens of other remedies I had very little hope of finding relief. They persisted in their advice and in the fall of 1897 I used three boxes. I felt like a different person. I was in better health than I had been in years. They paid my back and I felt well. I am now able to do my housework as well as I ever could, and I give the entire credit to Doan's Kidney Pills. I make this statement so that other women, who suffer as I suffered may be in a position to know what to do if they wish to get rid of that too prevalent disease, kidney complaint."

LOOMERS CORSETS!

Loomer's Improved cutaway

Easy, Comfortable Stylish and Graceful. Combining all the good points of the new French, Short Corset, with improvements—try one and enjoy ease.

1st. Molded Corsets are the only perfect shaped Corsets manufactured.

2nd. It is utterly impossible to produce an elegant fitting corset by the old-fashioned, crude ironing process.

3rd. Molded Corsets cost no more to the consumer than cheaply ironed corsets.

4th. Manufacturers can use a cheaper grade of cloth in ironed corsets because the starch covers a multitude of imperfections in the material.

5th. In Molded Corsets no starch is used, and the material shows its quality at a glance.

6th. Molded Corsets are better sewed because they cannot be moulded unless carefully made, and therefore operator must work slowly and cannot hurry or slight her work.

7th. They are the best made and most perfect shaped Corsets that are manufactured in this country.

8th. A remarkable feature of Molded Corsets is that the bones do not become dry and brittle by this process of finish, while the ironing of corsets is sure to dry up the bones and destroy their elasticity, thereby rendering them very unserviceable.

We guarantee them for 4 months against breakage. No risk on your part. See window display.
