BE D-- IF YOU DO; BE D-- IF YOU DON'T.

THE SITUATION OF THE ELECTRIC CAR ROUTE.

Shall It Go Up Main Street to U.S. Fish Station?

In his remarks before the council Monday night H. E. C. Daniels about hit the nail on the head when he said that so far as the selection of Main street as a route west to the U.S. fish station from Center street for the new electric car line it was a case where the council would: "Be d — i they did and be d— — if they didn't.'

No one route in the whole village will please everybody and therefore the council can only go ahead and do as they deem is most wise. There is ito question but what a good big majority of the people desire the road to extend to the U.S. fish station and as long as the company offer to run it there it should go there by all means. The company nowever does not desire to go there for their own benefit but do so because they were given to understand-that the people desired it. It is the most attractive spot for visitors in the village—in fact, about the only attraction we have and one upon which the government is laying out money every year for improvement and beautifying. The only question is the route.

In his arguments before the council Monday night Mr. Lapham stated (1) that the signers to the remon strance against Main street being used, or half a dozen names on the list, represented a large proportion of the village taxation; and (2) that it was an outrage to allow street cars to go on a street crowded with school children when it could go on two or three other streets as and (3) that in case of serious illness the noise might be latal to the sick.

Mr. Daniels thought a car line on by the school house would be danger ous for school children; a disfigure ment to the beautiful street; a noisy addition to its quiet and peacefulness

C. L. Dubuar asked why the com mittee had selected a narrow street like Main when there were plenty of others that were wider.

Mr. Neal suggested that inasmuch as the company were extending the line to the U.S. fish station at a big expense for the accommodation of the people, that if the people didn't want it to go there, the company would doubtless be glad to stop down town.

President Sessions said that no street in the whole village could be picked out that would not find objecttors-Cady, Mill, Dunlap or Main.

J. M. Simmons, another signer of the remonstrance, says that all the good reason he can see why the line should not go up Main street is that people will not be inclined to use it as a driving street because of the cars being likely to frighten their horses and that he would rather see vehicles says however that personally he would not turn his hand either way -for or against that route. He adds there would enhance the value of property on that street.

A.B. Smith, another Main street resident, says he opposes the Main street route because it doesn't come right up that street all the way from the depot. If the route will come up that way he will throw up both hands for it to go right on up to

heard on the matter of route before WAYNE BAPTIST final action is taken

Those who argue in favor of Main treet and in reply to Mr. Lapham' argument say: (1) The matter is not one of taxation at all; (2) Statistics do not show that street cars are death to children. Hundreds of cars pass the various Detroit schools every day and while occasionally There Were More than 300 People a rupil is injured by a wagon, or bicycle there is yet to be recorded the first accident to any of the school children as the result of street cars near the grounds. (3) The poor sick man or woman on a back street even though he pays no tax at all, is entitled to just as much consideration so far as the noise being liable BXPU rally occurred. Wednesday to endanger life is concerned as is a resident of any other street.

There are many who think that n asmuch as the line to the fish station will attract many visitors from Detroit, Ypsiianti and Ann Arbor as well as from heighboring will be given next week. villages it would hardly show off Northville to a good advantage to take them through the village by back streets.

It is also argued that as a stree car line through the center of Main street would leave room for a vehicle to thum out on either side, and as cars to the U.S. fish station would, in all probability not run oftener than once an hour, and with the proposed pavement between rails. after the first week of novelty had worn off people would hardly notice whether there was a car line on the street or not, so far as any inconvenience is concerned.

PRAIRIE DOG WELLS.

"The most interesting thing I have seen in many a day," said Mr. Harvey Geer, of Lamont, Col. recently, was a prairie fog well. Did you ever see one? It isn't often that a chance occurs to explore the homes and haunts of these expeditious-little inhabitants of the plains. A few miles from my town a large force of men had been at work this summer, making a deep cut for a short railroad up into the mines. friend of mine is in charge of the ob and I went out a week ago to see tim-and the work that had been done.

The most remarkable thing was the prairie dog wells that had been dus late. The cut went through a dog vil-lage, and being a deep one—some forty feet—it went below the town. There has always been a discussion about where the prairie dog gets his drink. Some say he goes eternally dry. Usually their towns are miles away from any stream and en arid country where there is no surface water at any time sufficient for the needs of an animal requiring drink. The overland travelers, back in the days of pioneering, used to find the dog towns out on the prairies scores of miles from the streams. There was no dew, the air was dry as a bone, the buffalo ares would be parched brown, and there would be absolutely nothing to quench their thirst.

Í remember a discussion begun thirty ears ago in the American Naturalist, by Dr. Sternberg, now surgeon-general, on the subject, and he argued in favor of the well theory. But near Lamont is ocular proof of the well theory. The nest holes of the dogs were five or six feet deep, but four or five holes went straight down as deep as the excavainto the water-carrying sand beneath. These holes appeared to be used by the whole colony commonly, and were a little larger than the holes use their homes."-Washington Star.

Enloying an Earthquake. #### TALMAGES SERMON.

THE HOUNDED REINDEER SUNDAY'S SUBJECT.

"As the Bact Panteth After the Water Brooks, So Panteth My Soul After Thee, O God!"-Psalms, Chap. XLII. Verse I.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.-Dr. Talmage, drawing his illustrations from a deer-hunt, in this discourse calls all the pursued and troubled of the earth to come and slake their thirst at the deep river of Divine comfort. Text: Psalms 42: 1: "As the hart panteth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after thee, O God."

David, who must some time have seen a deer-hunt, points us here to a hunted stag making for the water. The fascinating animal called in my text the hart is the same animal that in sacred and profane literature is called the stag, the roebuck, the hind, the gazelle, the reindeer. In Central Syria in Bible times there were whole pasture-fields of them, as Solomon suggests when he says, "I charge you by the hinds of the field." Their antlers jutted from the long grass as they lay down. No hunter who has been long in "John Brown's tract" will wonder that in the Bible they were classed among clean animals, for the dews, the showers, the lakes washed them as clean as the sky. When Isaac, the pa-triarch, longed for venison, Esau shot and brought-home a roebuck. Isaian compares the sprightliness of the recompares the sprightliness of the restored cripple of millennial times to the long and quick jump of the stag, saying, "The lame shall leap as the hart." Solomon expressed his disgust at a hunter who having shot a deer is too lazy to cook it, saying, "The slothin man receited not that which he fook in bunting." But one day, David while far from the home from which he had been driven and sitting near the mouth of a lonely cave where he had lodged and on the banks of a pond or river, hears a pack of hounds in swift pursuit. Because of the previous silence of the forest the clangor startles him, and he says to himself: "I wonder what those dogs are after?" Then there is a rackling in the brushwood, and the loud breathing of some rushing wonder of the woods, and the antiers of a deer rend the leaves of the thicket, and by an instinct which all hunters rec-ognize the creature plunges into a pool or lake or river to cool its thirst, and at the same time by its capacity for swifter and longer swimming to get away from the foaming harriers. Da-vid says to himself: "Aha, that is myself! Saul after me Absalom after me, enemies without number after me I am chased; their bloody muzzles at my heels, barking at my good name; barking after my body, barking after my soul. Oh the hounds, the hounds! But look there," says David to himself: "that reindeer has splashed into water. It puts its hot lips and nostrils into the cool wave that washes its lathered flanks, and it swims away from the flery canines, and it is free at last. Oh, that I might find in the deep, wide lake of God's mercy and consolation escape from my pursuers! Oh, for the waters of life and rescue! As the hart panteth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after thee,

The Adirondacks are now populous with hunters, and the deer are being clain by the score. Taking one sum-mer with a hunter, I thought I would like to see whether my text was accurate in its allusion, and as I heard the dogs having a little way off and supposed they were on the track of a deer I said to one of the hunters in rough for water when they are Eursued?" said: "Ch, yes. Mister; you see they are a hot and thirsty animal, and they know where the water is and when they hear danger in the distance they lift their antiers and sniff the breeze and start for the Racquet or Loon or Saranac and we get into our cedar with rifle loaded and ready to blaze

My friends, that is one reason why I like the Bible so muchare so true to nature. Its partridges are real partridges, its ostriches real ostriches, and its reindeer real rein deer. I do not wender that this an-tlered glory of the text makes the hunter's eye sparkle and his cheek glow and his respiration quicken. To say nothing of its usefulness, although it is the most useful of all game, its flesh delicious, its skin turned into human apparel, its sinews fashioned into bow-strings, its antiers putting han dles on cutlery, and the shavings of its horn used se a pungent restorative, the name taken from the hart and called hartshorn. But putting aside its usefulness, this enchanting creature seems made out of gracefulness and elasticity. What an eye, with a liquid brightness as if gathered up from a hundred lakes at sunset! The horns, a coronal branching into every possi-ble curve, and after it seems complete ascending into other projections of ex-quisiteness, a tree of polished bone, uplifted in pride, or swung down for awful combat. The hart is velocity em-bodied. Timidity impersonated. The enchantment of the woods. Its eye lustrous in life and pathetic in death. The splendid animal a complete rhythm of muscle, and bone, and color and attitude, and locomotion, whether couched in the grass among the shad-ows or a living bolt shot through the forest, or turning at bay to attack the hounds, or rearing for its last fall under the buckshot of the trapper. It is a splendid appearance that the painter's pencil fails to sketch, and only a hunter's dream on a pillow of hem-lock at the foot of St. Regis is able to the filly pods and, with its sharp-edged hoof, shatters the crystal of Long Lake, it is very picturesque. But only when, after miles of pursuit, with heaving sides and lolling tongue and eyes swimming in death the stag leaps. from the cliff into Upper Saranac, can you realize how much David had suffered from his troubles, and how much wanted God when he expressed himself in the words of the text: "As the hart panieth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after thee,

Well, now, let all those who have coming after them the lean hounds of poverty, or the black bounds of persecution, or the spotted hounds of vicisstude, or the pale hounds of death, or who are in any wise pursued, run to the wide, deep, glorious lake of divine solace and rescue. The most of the men and women whom I happened to know at different times, if not now, have had trouble after them, sharpmuzzled troubles swift troubles alldevouring troubles. Many of you have made the mistake of trying to fight them. Somebody meanly attacked you and you attacked them; or they overreached you in a bargain, and you-tried in Wall street partance, to get a corner on them, or you have had a bereavement, and instead of being submissive you are fighting that be reavement; you charge on the doctors who failed to effect a cure; or you charge on the carelessness of the rail-road comrany through which the accident occurred; or you are a chronic in valid, and you free, and worry, and scold, and wonder why you cannot be well like other people, and you angrily blame the neuralgia, or the lavyngitis, or the ague, or the sick headache. The of running to the waters of divine con-solation, and slaking your thirst and cooling your body and soul in the good cheer of the Gospel, and, swimming, away into the mighty deeps of God's yoù are fighting a whole kennel harriers.

I saw in the Adirondacks a dog lying across the road, and he seemed un-able to get up, and I said to some munt-ps near by "What is the matter with that dog?" They answered. "A deer-hurt him." And I saw he had a great swollen paw and a battered head, showing where the antlers struck him. And the probability is that some of you might give a mighty clip to your pursuers, you might damage their business. you might worry them into illhealth, you might hurt them as much as they have hurt you, but, after all, it is not worth while. You only have hurt a hound. Better be off for the Upper Saranac, into which the mountains of God's eternal strength look down and moor their shadows. As for your physical disorders, the worst strychnine you can take is fretulness, and the best medicine religion. I know people who re only a little disordered, yet have fretted themselves into complete valetudinarianism, while others put their trust in God and come up from the very shadow of death, and lived comfortably twenty-five years with only one lung: A man with one lung, but God with him, is better off than a godless man with two lungs.

a saw whole chains of lakes in the Adirondacks, and from one height you can see thirty, and there are said to be over eight hundred in the great wilderness of New York. So near are they to each other that your mountain guide picks up and carries the boat from lake to lake, the small distance between them for that reason called a And the ream of God's Word is one long chain of bright, refreshing lakes; each promise a lake, yery short carry between them, and though for ages the pursued have been drinking out of them, they are full-up to the top of the green banks, and the same David describes them, and they cem so near together that in three different places he speaks of them as a continuous river, saying: "There is a river, the streams whereof shall make glad the city of God;" "Thou shalt make them drink of the rivers of thy pleasures: "Thou greatly enrichest it with the river of God, which is full of you have turned your pack on that supply, and confrost your Tand circumstance, but the allowance trouble, and you are soured with your circumstances, and you are fighting soorld, and troubles, instead of driving you into the cool lake of heave ly comfort, have made you stop and turn around and lower your head, and it is simply antler against tooth. I do not blame you. Probably under the same circumstances I would have done worse. But you are all wrong. You need to do as the reindeer does in February and March-it sheds its horns. The Rabbinical writers allude to this resignation of antlers by the stag when they say of a man who ven-tures his money in risky enterprises, he has hung it on the stag's horns; and a proverb in the far East tells a man who has foolishly lost his fortune to go and find where the deer sheds her horns. My brother, quit the antagonism of your circumstances, quit misanthrophy, quit complaint, quit pitching into your pursuers, be as wise as, next spring, will be all the doer of the Adirondacks, Shed your horns.

Through Jesus Christ make this God your God and you can withstand anything and everything, and that which affrights others will inspire you. As in time of an earthquake when an old Christian woman was asked whether she was scared, answered: "No, I am glad that I have a God who can shake the world;" or, as in a financial panic, when a Christian merchant was asked if he did not fear he would break answered: "Yes, I shall break when the fiftieth Psalm breaks in the day of trouble; I will deliver thee and thou shalt glorify me." Oh, Christian men and women pursued of annoynunters dream on a pintow of hemlock at the foot of St. Regis is able to over! If ever a whelp tooks ashamed and ready to sink out of sight it is when in the Adirondacks a deer by one tremendous plunge into Big Tup per Lake gets away from him. The disappointed canine swims in a little way, but, defeated, swims out again and cringes with humiliated yawn at the feet of his master. And new abash ed and ashamed will all your earthly troubles be when you have dashed into the river from under the throne of God, and the heights and depths of heaven are between you and your pursuers! We are told in Revelation 22:15: "Without are dogs," by which conclude there is a whole kennel of hounds outside the gate of heaven, or as when a master goes in through a door, his dog lies on the steps waiting for him to come out so the troubles of this life ray follow us to the shining door but they cannot get in "Without are dogs!" I have seen dogs and owned dogs that I would not be chagrined to see in the heavenly city Some of the grand old watchdogs wh are the constabulary of the homes in solitary, places, and for years have been the only protection for wife and child; some of the shepherd dogs that drive back the wolves and bark away the flocks from going too near the precipice; and some of the dogs whose precipite: and some of the does whose neck and paw Landseer, the nainter, has made immortal, would not find me shuffing them out from the gate of shining pearl. Some of those old St. Bernard dogs that have lifted perish-ing travelers out of the Alpine snow; the dog that John Brown, the Scotch essayist, saw ready to spring at the surgeon lest in removing the cancer h too much hurt the poor woman whom the dog felt boand to protect, and dogs fact is, you are a deer at bay. Instead. that we earessed in our chudhood of running to the waters of divine condays, or that in later time lay down on the rug in seeming sympathy whos our homes were desolated. I say if some soul entering heaven should happen to leave the gate ajar, and these faith-ful-creatures should quietly walk in it would not at all disturb my heaven But all those human or brutal hounds that have chased and torn and lacerat ed the world, yea. all that now bite or worry or tear to pieces, shall be prohibited. "Without are dors!" No prohibited. "Without are dogs!" No place there for harsh critics or back biters or despoilers of the reputation

Oh, when some of you get there it will be like what a hunter tells of when pushing his cance far up north in the winter and amid the ice-floes and a hundred miles, as he thought from any other human beings!" He was startled one day as he heard a standing on the ice, and he cocked the rifle ready to meet anything that came hear. He found a man harefooted and insane from long exposure approaching him. Taking him-into his canoo and kindling fires to warm him he re stored him and found out where he had lived and took him to his home. and found all the village in great ex-citemeat. A hundred men were search ing for this lost man, and his fam-ily and friends rushed out to mee him, and, as had been agreed at his first appearance, bells were rung and guns were fired, and banquets spread Well, when some of you step out of this wilderness, where you have been chilled and torn and sometimes lost amid the icebergs into the warm greetings of all the villages of the glorifled and your friends rush out to give you welcoming kiss, the news that there is another soul forever saved will call the caterers of beaven to spread the banquet, and the belimen to lay hold of the rope in the tower, and while the chalices click at the feast, and the bells clang from the turrets, it will be a scene so uplifting I pray God I may be there to take part in the celestial merriment. "Until the day break and the shadewaree away he thou like a young hart upon the mountains of Bether."

Mr. Curzon's Salary.

The Indian vice royality was in time past regarded as the one great financial prize among satraples, but it is understood to have become, in part, no doubt, by reason of the fall in the rupee, much reduced in value. The salary ($125,000) is not large for a functionary who has to maintain so for expenses are on a very liberal scale In the case of other governorships it ciety and you are fighting a pursuing is almost impossible to "do the thing and to effect any saving out of the salary. It may be observed that wealthy men very rarely accept these positions. In fact, it may be questioned whether a wealthy man has ever held the vice royalty of India. Lord Brassey, Lord Jersey and Lord Aberdeen, among governors, are rare exceptions, and the first named, as governor of Victoria, when the salary had been reduced from $50,000 to $35,-000, refused to take it if a further reduction were made.

A man was on trial in Western America on a charge of catching a sertain fish that weighed less than two pounds. fish that weighed less than two pounds. The constable who made the arrest testified to catching the prisoner with the fish in his possession. "Where are the fish?" asked the lawyer for the defondant. "Why, they wouldn't keep," answered the officer. "What did you do with them," "Well, I knew that they receipt the research so the disposed of they wouldn't keep, so—I—disposed of them." "But what did you do with them?" "My wife cooked them." "And you are them?" "Yes." "Your Honor I ask that his case be dismissed." #### And Consider the All-Important Fact, That in addressing Mrs. Pinknam you are cor id ing your private ills to a woman—a woman whose experience in treating woman's diseases is greater than that of any living phy--male or female.

You can talk freely to a woman when it is revolting to relate your private troubles to a man-besides. man does not understand simply because he is a man. Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they ought to have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty impels them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probably examinations of even their family physician. It is unnecessary. Without money or price you can consult a woman, whose knowledge from actual experience is greater than any local physician in the world. The following invitation is freely offered; in the same spirit:

MRS PINKHAMS STANDING INVITATION.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established the eternal confidence be-tween Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken. Out of the wast volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.—Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

"The present Mrs. Pinkham sexperience in treating female ills is unparalleled, for years she worked side by side with Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and for sometime. past has had sole charge of the correspondence department of her great busi-ness, treating by letter as many as a hundred thousand ailing women a year."

The committee which visited the Howell street fair last week were most royally entertained by the officers of the Howell association and were given all kinds of pointers to aid in such an organization here next year. The visitors are loud in the praise of their treatment at Howell and cannot say too much in favor of the attraction. In comparison, county fairs are simply put in the shade. It is to be hoped that in consider ing the question of a street, railway route to the U.S. fish station, people will not imagine that it is for the per sonal benefit of the superintendent of the commission. There is such a thing as being too unappreciative Our people ought to and we believe as a rule do take pride in encouraging and assisting to improve such an institution. Not only is it a place of beauty and attraction as a fish hatchery but at the same time employment is given there to eight or nine men the year round, besides a large number of girls for three months each season and something like $9,000 is expended during the year for latior and improvements. Boys Who Were at Santiago Praised by Gen. Shafter - Bright Report of the State Labor Commissioner Long Chapter of Crimes, Accidents, Etc.

Shafter Praises Duffield.

Brig.-Gen. Duffield, who commanded the 33d and 34th Michigan and Ninth Massachusetts regiments in the Sar tingo campaign, has the vindication of his course in the much-talked of battle of Aguadores in a telegram sent by Gen. Shafter to the secretary of was in which he speaks highly of Limbeld and practically apologizes for his scanty mention of the Michigan men in his official report. Gen. Shafter's dispatch says

Gen. Duffield did all that he was expected to do and in a most satisfactor manner. His report received and for-warded today to Washington, with an indersement that will show my appreciation of his services. In looking my report over. I see that the ref-erences to his action at Aguadores were not clearly expressed and it escaped my notice. There was no intention that he should do more than make such demonstration as would hold the enemy's troops at that place. To have attacked it with a view to its capture with the force under Gen. Duffield would have been the hight of folly."

Our Industrial Condition Improved. State Labor Commissioner Cox say that a better industrial condition has not existed in Michigan for several years than at the present time. Re-ports indicate an improvement in the condition of the wageworkers and increase in wages and percentage of men employed. There are no complaints of the unemployed, but shortage of hands is reported, and the wages of common laborers have improved. There is a great demand for female demestic help. A careful canvass of the state shows that the mortgages upon farm property have been decreased millions of dollars as compared with 1896, and money is easy in all sections.

State factory inspectors report large increase in the amounts invested in manufacturing enterprises. Wages in this branch show marked improvement and indicates that the child labor prob lem is being rapidly solved.

A Terrible Crime

Pretty little 9-year-old Edith Knight was criminally assaulted near Twining by Allen McDonald, of Omer. Mrs. Mosher was caring for the Knight children during the absence of the parents. McDonald broke in the door blew out the light and then grabbed Mrs. Mosher. - She managed to break away from him and with the children run for a neighbor's house nearby. The 9-year-old girl could not keep up and was caught and carried backs of the house, where she was terribly abused by the villain. McDonald's house was surrounded and be made in attempt to escape, but was shot in the leg. The cuild was roughly used; but will recover.

Threats were made of lynching Me-Donald at Twining, but the sheriff and his deputies were armed with Winches ters and landed him safely in jail.

Pingree Knocked Oat.

The Michigan Central Railroad Co. is not compelled to sell 1,000-mire familv tickets for $20 in accordance with the of 1891. In a unanimous opinion of the supreme court, written by Jus-tice Hooker. Gov. Pingree is defeated in his efforts to compel the Michigan Central by mandamus to issue such tickets. Briefly the court holds that the Michigan Central Co. has the right to fix its own tolls under its special scharter, and that to hold the act of 1891 applicable to it would be to impair, the obligation of the contract made by the state to reimburse the company for any damage which it might sustain. The court also holds that the Michigan Central Co. has not forfeited its charter by effecting consolidations with other systems.

Tried to Kill Her Babes and Herself. Mrs. L. C. Williams, of Morrice, sent her oldest girl, aged 13, out to play and then gave poison to her two boys, aged 2 years and six months, respectively. A neighbor coming in found the babes very sick and when she began to question tha mother Mrs. Williams went down cellar. The neighbor grew suspicious, and after calling for help, rushed down into the ceiler and found Mrs. Williams in a sitting position in one corner with her throat Men were called and she was carried up stairs to her bed. On examination they found that the jugular veins were not cut. Mrs. Williams and the oldest boy may recover.

Fatal Quarret Over a Girl.

Wm. Roach, of Reading township. Hillsdale county, was shot near Litchfield, by Elmer Youngs, and died from wounds inflicted. Youngs and a friend named George Tuttle, who was his partner in the trouble, are under arrest. Both are young men, but Roach was about 50. The quarrel was over a young girl.

Beet Sugar Bounty a Big Tax, Land Commissioner French has se-lected E. L. Ferris, of Bay City, and W. E. Hall and Albert Pratt, of Essex ille, for positions in connection with the execution of the beet sugar law at the Bay City factory, which is preparing to manufacture 7,000,000 points of ugar next year, which means that the state must pay the company $70,000. Other factories are under construction and this is sure to scare the taxpayers so that the law will probably be re pealed at the next session of the legis lature. The present law, however, provides that a 1-cent bounty shall be paid for seven years.

More Railroads Must Pay Taxes.

In deciding the case of the Manistee & Northeastern Railway Co. vs. the railroad commissioner the supreme railroad commissioner court holds that the Merriman law of 1897 repeals the law of 1891, ex empting from taxation roads built north of parallel 44 of latitude since 1891. . This case affects about a dozen northern Michigan roads built since 1891. Hereafter they will be required to pay taxes under the Merriman law.

Destructive Forest Fires.

Forest fires are doing great damage about Rice Lake, Wis. Scores of farm nouses have been destroyed and large lumbering interests ruined. There is certainly some loss of life, but as all communication is cut off details certainly. cannot be received. Over 100 persons are missing. Several dead bodies have been found and they are burned beyond recognition. are burned beyond recognition.
All the attle, horses and other stock in a large district have been burned to death. Even the wild animals could not escape the flames.

A Chippewa Falls, Wis.; special says: Forest fires are doing enormous damage along the Soo and Wisconsin Central railroads. Nearly every section. of the pine woods in northern Wisconsin is ablaze. Barron, a small town on the Soo line, is entirely surrounded by fire. Glenwood, a town of 2,000, be-tween Chippewa Falls and St. Paul, was saved after 12 hours heroic work by the citizens. Mrs. Jacob Correrson was burned to death.

A large portion of Cedar Lake, a town of 600 people, is reported destroyed, and Alemena, 300 and Poskin, 200, are said to have been wiped out. Hunsaid to have been wheel out. Hundred are homeless, many even losing all their household goods. The loss of farm property in Clark, Barron and Chippewa counties is estimated at $300,000, while the lumber interests will lose over $500,000

Small Majority for Prohibition in Canada. Reports from all parts of the Dominion of Canada indicate that the vote for and against prohibition has been larger than was expected. The heav iest vote against prohibition was cast in the province of Quebec. Here the French clergy had counseled their people to vote against prohibition. The province gave majority of about 55,000 against, while the provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island combined give a majority of 35,000 in gave of doing away with the liquor traffic. Every city in Ontario except Brantford gave a majority against prohibition. But. the counties largely overcome these majorities, and the result in Ontario is that prohibition carried by a majority of about 12,000. The returns from Manitoba, the Northwest Territory and British Columbia are incomplete but it is estimated Manitoba_and the territories together will give a major ity of 12,000 to 15,000 in favor of pro-hibition, while British Columbia has gone the other way. At all events, it seems pretty clear the plebiscite has not been so decisive as to warrant the government introducing a prohibitory Dreadful Forest Fires in Colorado. Forest fires started by malicious Ute Indians in northwestern Colorado, swept through the counties of Routt, Rio Blanco, Grand, Larimer, Garfield, Eagle, Pitkin and Summit, Vast areas of timber and grazing lands being dev astated, the losses in the former case being all the more deplorable because of the fact that these forests retained the snows for months, thus furnishing the water for the streams which irrigate the lands west of the divide. The people fled from the mountain slopes in terror, saving only a few of their belongings. Hundreds of farm animals were burned. The loss cannot be esti-mated as yet, and only very heavy rains can prevent hundreds of thousands of collars more damage.

Hou. Thes. F. Bayard Dead. Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, aged 70. died at Karlstein, the summer residence of his daughter, Mrs. Samuel D. War-ren, near Dedham, Mass., after an ill-ness of six weeks. His family was all present excepting his third daughter, Countess Sauenhaupt, who was on her way to Dedham. The remains were conveyed to Delaware and the funeral services held in the old Swedish church

Mr Bayard came of an illustrious family. He was for years U.S. senator from Delaware; was twice an unsugessful candidate for Democratic nom nation for the presidency; was Cleveland's first secretary of state, and during Cleveland's second term was U.S. ambassador to Great Britain.

Want the Czar to Disarm First.

The czar's proposal for a disarmament ongress is making headway. All the owers, including France, have now accepted the invitation, but with limitations. Ulterior questions, especially all questions regarding territorial arrangements, will be strictly tabooed. German newspapers suggest that Russia should begin disarming by reduc-ing her army on the western frontier by 50,000 mer, adding that Germany and Austria would then make a similar reduction and that by exercising influence at Paris, the czar could obtain the reduction of another 25,000 men on each side of the Franco-German irontier.

The plebiscite taken in the Dominion t Canada on the prohibition question showed a majority of only about 12,000 for prohibition, which the government does not regard as large enough to warrant the passage of prohibitory laws by parliament.

Bloody Riots in Paris.

The many predictions that the Dreyfus case agitation would cause a revo lution in France seem about to come true. Paris was in a turmoil all Sunday: Crowds, scuffes, uproar, and arrests filled the day. About a score of persons are said to have been seriously wounded. In one quarter alone more than 40 arrests were made, many of them being prominent men. The riots have created intense alarm among the foreigners at the hotels, and it is probable that an exodus will occur, the guests fearing grave developments.

Mr. Edwin Wooley, contractor and carpenter of Ann Arbor, adds his voice to that of the army of Michigan people who endorse the little conqueror. Our representative found him at his place of residence, No. 618 Fountain-St. Mr. Woolev appreciates "a good thing" as do most of our readers, and he does not hesitate to tell his experience for the benefit of others. Endorsement of this kind has made Doan's Kidney Fills a household word throughout the state. The good they have done has won them many a title and such worthy names among people as the "little conqueror of kidney ills," "little enemies to back 'modern wonder-workers," etc. Mr. Wooley says:

"I was subject for years to attacks of backache or pains through loins and kidneys, generally of a dull, heavy, aching nature, but often when the weather changed or when I moved awkwardly they became sharp twinges As I was doing work which required stooping it was very painful, exceedingly so, if I caught cold, which as a rule, settled in my loins. I tried various remedies but was never successful in obtaining any permanent benefit until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. At the time my back was troubling me a great deal but shortly after I the treatment the aching abated and when I had finished it I was cured. This is months ago and up to date there has been no recurrence of the trouble.

Shell A ROMANCE Wilden. Wilden.

CHAPTER XII.—(Continued.) does not take long to recount the few small incidents which have broken its through her little frame.

"It was so stupid of you to come," remarks Ruby, during a brief pause in the dialogue going on between Mrs. Wilder and Shell, "I don't suppose we shall any of us be stopping here fore than a few days longer."

Mrs. Wilden looks surprised. "How so? I have no intention of going home just yet, Ruby," she says a little tartly. "The cottage is taken for two months, and since the rent must be paid, we may as well make the best of our bargain."

"There is no best about it," grum-Mes Violet.

"No indeed-it is a downright snare and delusion," agrees Ruby. "Since even the Champley brothers couldn't stand it there can be no wonder if we run away."

"I don't think they grew tired of the moor," says Shell honestly. "If not, why did they leave it?" demands her sister defiantly.

"Can't say," responds Shell; then,
after a pause, she continues—"I suppose you know that they are going abroad in a few days."

"Going abroad!" repeats Ruby in a tone of positive consternation. l had no idea of it; I understood that they were merely going back to Champley House." bampley House." "They are starting for Switzerland

They are starting for Switzerlain it two or three days," says Shill quietly "and I rather fancy they won't be back till autumm".

"In that case we may as well stop where we are," observes Ruby, without her ususal caution.

"My dear Ruby; their movements cannot in any way affect ours, Wilden, looking puzzled and a trifle shocked.

"No, of course not," stammers Ru-br, with a momentary flush; "only I promised Robert Champley in a way to look after the children! and, he is going abroad, I should not like to leave them alone on the moor That nurse is a very illiterate person I doubt if she can write—and of course he will want to hear how they

Shell does not laugh, but turns with impatient step from the room.

CHAPTER XIII.

"Where are you going, Shell?" asks Ruby, glancing up from an claborate band of crewel-work, destined to trim a morning-gown.

"I am going over to Meadowcroft to superintend Bob's doukey-ride I promised him yesterday I would come."

"What folly! You know he is never allowed a donkey-ride unless he has been particularly good; and when I ask Piper if he has been good enough to have one, she invariably answers

Shell gives one of those low rippling laughs of hers, which has in it a mocking ring.
"Piper does not care for running after donkeys -doubtless she considers it infra dig. As she knows that I always do the running business and leave her free, I invariably hear that the children are deserving of a ride.

"Well, it's a bore any way," grum-bles Ruby. "I wanted you to cut out my collar and cuffs, as I feel inclined for a good day's work."

"That won't take five minutes. laughs Shell, stripping off her wash leather gloves and good temperedly setting to the task.

When, some twenty minutes later she arrives at Meadowerow Farm, she finds the children established in a hayfield near the house, and Piper no where visible. "Where is Piper?" asks Shell, sink ing down in the fragrant hay. "Busy," answers, Bcb, laconically.

"Have you been good children-good enough for a donkey-ride?" pursues Shell, smiling.

"Don't know," responds Bob, with placed indifference—"s'pose not. Piper boxed my ears this morning. "Well, never mind," laughs Shell-since Piper isn't here we can't ask her-you shall have your donkey-ride today, and then you'll be a good boy tomorrow."

"Don't want a donkey-ride," respends Bob stolidly; "tell us a story

"Not want a donkey-ride? Why what sort of a boy do you call yourself?" demands Sheil, turning the child round to laugh him out of what she imagines to be a fit of the sulks: then she becomes aware that Bob' generally rosy face is pale and languid looking—that his bright merry eyes are dim and misty.

"Do you feel ill?" asks Shell, thinking that the child must have been allowed to eat something unwholesome "No-no," falters Bob, with all a boy's reluctance to give in to physical suffering; "only my head aches rather." With a strange thrill at her heart Shell turns to Meg. The little girl is sound asleep on a soft bed of hay, her attitude betokening thorough lassitude attitude betokening thorough lassitude sorry for the darling children; but—I there, where they have lived ever—one fat little arm shields her eyes can't possibly risk such a catastrophe since."

Shell is not one to waste time over speculations. Stooping down, she rais es the sleeping child in her arms, and telling Bob to follow, proceeds to the farm. At the door she is met by the farmer's wife, a kind, motherly ture, who takes in at a glance Sheil' sign to be sitent.

Mounting to the children's room which is deserted, she undresses Meg and lays her in her little cot. A few minutes' persuasion and the promise of a fairy tale soon induce Bob to follow his sister's example. But Shell has no need to cudgel her brains for the promised legend. No sooner does Bob's head touch the pillow than he, too, sinks into a troubled sleep.

Descending to the big flagged kitchn, Shell holds a hurrled consultation with the farmer's wife, the result of which is that a boy is despatched for the nearest doctor.

Whilst she is waiting his arrival, Pi per turns up explaining that she has only just been down to the village for stamps; she looks much taken a fev aback when she hears of the children's illness and finds that she cannot poohpooh it.

After two hours' waiting the doctor comes. He is an elderly man, genial, reliable and fatherly. Shell and the mistress of the house accompany him to the sick-room. When the three return to the big latchen there is a scared look on two at least of the faces.

"All connection with that part of the house must be cut off, Mrs. Pom fret, and a sheet with Condy's fluid hung at the end of the passage. I will telegraph at cuce to Mr. Champley, if you can furnish me with his address

Piper, looking scared and pale, produces the address, and the doctor takes his departure. The doctor is not certain," answers Shell in her low sweet voice—"but he fears small-pox; it seems there are some cases in the neighborhood." "Small-pox!" shricks Piper. am I expected to stop here and lose my life through nursing children with small-pox? I won't do it-no, not for Queen Victoria herself!"

"Shame upon you, woman!", cries Mrs. Pomfret wrathfully. "Do you mean to tell me you would have the heart to go away and leave them poor little babies, with their father away goodness knows where; and their poor mother lying buried? I'd nurse 'eni myself, and welcome, only I've got my own children to think of, and I can't be running to and fro to the sick-room with small-pox hanging about clothes."

"Let who will nurse 'em-1 won't, emarks Piper deggedly.

"Do you think I would allow you?" finshes Shell, her bosom heaving with suppressed scorn and anger. "Do you imagine for one moment that you are fit to be trusted to nurse them?" "You are right there, miss," agrees

Mrs. Pomfret: "for she neglects them peop dears, shameful. As for nursing, wouldn't trust ber with a sick cat; then, turning to the nurse, she continues locally-"Take your precious person out of this as soon as may be though who's to attend to them children I don't know."

Don't trouble yourself about that, Mrs. Confred I will take care of them till a proper nurse is found," says Shell gently: "You mustn't miss-it's catchingdreadful catching," remonstrates Mrs.

nervous about illness? "Cause you haven't seen much, opines Mrs. Pomfret, with a sage headshake

There is general consternation at Gerse Cottage when Shell arrives with her news.

"Small-pox! Are you quite sure he said small-pox?" cries Ruby, with a shudder. "How terrible! But surely it can't be small-pox—the children must have been vaccinated."

"That is the strange point," answers Shell. "There is no mark whatever on Meg's arm-a very faint one on Bob's. The doctor says he can't he sure for another twenty-four hours They ought to have been in bed two days ago-they do nothing but shiver and shiver and shiver."

"What is to be done?" asks Ruby blankly; and then, a bright idea suggesting itself-'We must telegraph at once to London for an experienced nurse.'

"And who is to nurse them till she arrives?"

"Piper, of course." "Piper has flown by this time. I left her packing her box." "How disgraceful of her! However, Mrs. Pomíret must get some one to see ta tnem." "Robert Champley told me that you had promised to see to them during his absence.

"How utterly absurd and unpractical you are, Shell! Of course I am very

"And they are to be left entirely to strangers, with no familiar face beside them?" queries Shell in her even

"I don't see any other possible arrangement, since you have been foolish enough to let Piper forsake her post, answers Ruby, with a sigh.

"But I see that some other arrange gent is imperative," says Shell decidedly. "It would be too cruel and cow ardly to leave them to strangers. If you won't go and remain with them till the nurse arrives I shall."

WON'T EAT WOMEN.

Peruvian Cannibals Regard the Ser a Unclean Animals.

Down in the darkest Peru, over outlying eastern ridge of the Andes, oward the very unsettled boundary lines of Brazil and Bolivia a flourishing race of cannibalistic Indians can be found. They are so fierce and unapproachable that few missionaries or explorers have ever felt courage enough to guarantee anything like a close study of their eccentricities. It was an Englishwoman who recently brought home a photograph of one of the women of a cannibal tribe, and though full of eagerness to know more of these people, she was persuaded to forego investigation. The civilized fra-dians regard them, with a horror that only cannibalism can inspire, and only at long intervals have the white resi dents of Peru seen or captured any of he Cascibos, who range the forests where the precious Peruvian bark is found, and who fight each other in the hope of securing prisoners for a can-nibalistic orgie. But there is a queer ode in their savage law. They make no effort to seize women for their fessts. The very degradation of the sex is in a way its preservation. The male ante or Cascibo regards a woman as an impure being. She is a necessary torment, but by no means a comfort, though she accepts her share of duty, and a cannibal brave would well-nigh perish of starvation before he would pollute his lips with female fiesh. No only is a woman thus despised, but her blood is feared as a poison, from the taste of which no man could recov

A PEASANT WEDDING. Mrs. Alec Tweedie, in her journeyngs through Finland, appears to have displayed a happy aptitude for forming friendly relations with all sorts and conditions of people. At one peasant cottage of the poorest sort, where she stopped to buy a bowl of milk, she fell into conversation with its mistress, a rid of. very clean and apparently very aged woman, clad in a short serge skirt, a loose white chemise and a striped arren of many colors—these simple garments being all of her own weaving. Over her head she wore a black ashmere kerchief. Her face might have belonged to a woman of a-hundred or a witch of ancient times, it was so wrinkled and takked her hands were hard and herny; and yet, after half an hour's conversation, we discovered she was only about fiftyfive. Hard work, poor food and life in dark, ill-ventilated, smoky cottages age the peasants fast; at seventeen many a girl begins to look like an old woman. TRAGEDY OF SPAIN.

HER RISE ONLY EXCEEDED BY HER FALL.

Emile Ollivier Says Her Final Expuision From the Western Hemisphere Is Merely the Just Decree of Heaven Her Past Glories.

Emile Ollivier, formerly prime min-Ister of France, contributes an article to the Century on "America, Spain, and France." M. Ollivier says: Few hisare at one and the same time more tragic and more instructive than that of the Spanish people. No rule has been wider and more brilliant. Having prevented Islamism from over fowing Europe, the Spaniards them-selves spread through the countries Which they had preserved from the Mo-hammedan invasion. Before long they were everywhere—in Italy in the Low Countries by right of conquest, in Germany through election. The domina tion of their arms, customs and literature was widely extended. They were on the point of giving a king to France and they were represented in the government of Louis XIV. People dre as they did, thought and felt as they did; and it was quite did, and it was quite as much from Spain as from Rome that our great Corneille drew the inspiration of his sublime works. Everything came to their aid. An Italian turned Spaniard discovered a new world for them. The virgin soil received first the print of heir feet, and they gave their name to the region. The sun never set on their empire. There is nothing comparable to this magnificent development of wer. unless it be the magnitude and rapidity of the decay which followed Little by little the Spaniards were everywhere driven out of Europe. They ost Italy, the Empire, the Low Coun tries. But for all these successive losses and European checks they found compensation in the New World, with its treasures, its fertile soil, its fruitful rivers, and its two ocean/7 which commanded the commerce of the globe.

But here too, though more slowly, a decline set in.

The history of Spanish colonization in America presents three phases. The first is wholly warlike in its nature. We see in it adventurers and conquerors who land on the unexplored shores, selze them, and exterminate the native opulation. The second phase is sacer dotal. The priest comes along with captain, to convert, and also to mitigate the cruelties of the soldier. And then—the third phase—after the missionaries arrive the court favorites sent out from the mother-country to enrich themselves, well typified by the Marquis of Brancilotte, who sold decorations sometimes at even so high a price as ten thousand dollars, and by Iturrigaral, who trafficked in decrees and offices. The colonies, first tortured and then converted, become prebends for all the dissolute and begging good for-nothings whom Spain wishes to get So it was not long before America began to slip away from Spain, as Europe had done. In 1820 the colonies rebelled, one after the other, and at the end of a heroic struggle repelled the Spanish troops and proclaimed independence. First the United States, and then England, recognized the new nations. The import ance of the event was seen by all the clear-sighted public men of the Old World. Vergennes, the French minis-ter who helped to free North America, said on the proclamation of the independence of the English colonies: Spanish colonies will some day become the prey of the Anglo-Saxous; and as sure as they have pushed back the Inher of her American colonies, to keep her ruined nobles, for her fortune The attentive ear has always discontent having reached the highest Cuba revolts, and calls for help, and the emancipative movement begun in 1820 fruition. What Spain still holds is on the point of being torn from her. All America with the exception of a few little islands of no consequence, is to belong to the Americans. The repub lican continent, freed from one end to the other, will become more and more dynasties and monarchical systems. Should any complaint be made at the final expulsion of Spain? Should there be an objection to the emancipation of Cuba, and should it be looked upon as a misfortune? Certainly not. We should see in it only the just decree of heaven:
