No. 32.

NORTHVILLE, MICH., FRIDAY, MARCH 24, 1899.

Vol. XXX

A GREAT BIG CAUCUS.

Republicans Held a Buster on Saturday.

AS MANY AS 250 PEOPLE WERE PRESENT.

E. R. Benton Unanimously Nominated for Supervisor.

Saturday's republican township caucus, was in point of attendance, probably the largest ever held in either the new township of Northville or the old township of Plymouth. At one time as many as 247 ballots were cast. L. C. Chadwick, township chairman, called the meeting to order, Dr. J. M. Burgess was made chairman, Prof. I. B. Gilbert secretary, C. C. Chadwick, E. G. Fikins, W. H. Hutton and E. H. Lapham tellers. Mr. Chadwick in a concise manner presented the name of E. R. Benton for supervisor and out of the 159 ballots cast, Cass had 'em all. S. E. Cranson for clerk also went in a sailing, getting the entire 156 votes cast. For treasurer, Mr. VanZue presented S. W. Knapp's name and Mr. Daniels that of B. A. Wheeler. The first ballot gave Wheeler 98, Knapp 82, Clarkson 16. The second ballot gave Wheeler 113, Knapp 114, Clarkson 20. Here was a big jump from 159 votes on the supervisor to 247 on treasurer and a motion was quickly carried that everybody get in line and give their votes to the tellers, personally on the next ballot, and that reduced the actual count to 227. Wheeler had 105, Knapp 110 and Clarkson 9. The contest was getting warm and 'every thing went' or at least it seemed to. It was charged that among those in line and voting every time for treasurer were a number of democrats but they were not challenged. The tellers 'were busier than a chipmunk in a whirlwind' and two of them, both Wheeler men in the excitement of the last ballot forgot to vote and the count gave the nomination to Knapp by just two votes.

Then Ed Starkweather was unanimously nominated for Highway Commissioner, Prof. I. B. Gilbert for School Inspector, W. G. Yerkes for Mem Bd of Review, T. N. Perin, D. Vradnberg, H. Green and Fred Tousey for Constables. Will Tousey was nominated for justice. For township board, J. M. Burgess, W. J. McRobert and S. E. Curington were elected.

The republican ticket in the main is conceded to be a strong one but the democrats say they will put up one tonight that will at least make it interesting, and it is said it will, in part, be something like this: C. A. Sessions for supervisor, T. E. Murdock clerk, L. A. Babbitt treasurer, F. E. Fern commissioner, B. A. Northrop, justice and John Steels for Bd. of Review.

NORTHVILLE HAS A CANDIDATE.

MRS. ARTHUR NICHOLS NOMINATED FOR CO. SCHOOL COM.

Democratic-Union Convention Did It Last Week.

The Democratic-Union Silver convention at Detroit last week nominated Mrs. Perla F. Nichols, wife of Arthur S. Nichols of this place, for county school commissioner. Mrs. Nichols, who is now a teacher in the Northville school, is a native of Cass county, and the only daughter of D. B. Ferris who was a well known educator of that county and school commissioner for eight years. In college Mr. Ferris was a school-mate of ex-President Garfield.

or so ago where she has since instructed also with marked success. Mrs. Nichols is not only a successful teacher but has also a thorough knowledge of business, and newspaper work. In the latter profession she has held every position from "devil" to editor and is capable of "kicking" off a job on a Gordon press, "setting" news matter or writing "catching" editorials.

A PARALYTIC STROKE.
Mrs. A. M. Evans De. Here Monday Morning.

Mrs. A. M. Evans, 68 years old, mother of Mrs. Dr. H. H. Torne of this place, died at the latter's home Monday morning as the result of a paralytic stroke which she suffered a week ago. Previously Mrs. Evans' maiden name was Thomas and in her early life she lived in Syracuse, N. Y. She was well known in both Jackson and Farmington where she had resided for many years and where a host of friends will learn with regret the news of her death. The funeral occurred here on Wednesday afternoon Rev. W. M. Ward officiating. The remains were placed in the Oakwood vault and later will be removed to Strauce and laid beside those of her husband who died some 22 years ago.

LARGEST PAY ROLL SINCE YEAR 1893.

THE GLOBE FURNITURE CO. STILL "SAWING WOOD" HERE.

Part of the Property Is Sold to Another Company.

There has been a large amount of gossip and talk in our village regarding the Globe Furniture Co. during the past week, and the record is pleased to have authority for saying that the business of the company is running as usual with a larger weekly pay roll than any time since 1893, for the same months, and it is likely to continue. It is true that they have sold a part of their property to another company which expects to be able to save a large amount of the money that has been laid away in the excessive cost of selling goods and to eliminate a lot of the abuses and expenses that have crept into the business so as to be able to realize a reasonable margin of profit from the business without any material advance in cost to the purchaser. The record is of the opinion that a Northville people will realize that a good deal of the talk that has been recently indulged in quite freely, is detrimental to the best interests of the village and that it rests upon the people themselves to see that this and all other manufacturing interests of our town are fairly treated, then it is reasonable to believe that the owners of the business will keep right along "sawing wood" as usual.

HAVE ELECTRIC BELLS.

Electric Car Companies Must at Road Crossings.

Rep Goodell has succeeded in getting through his bill compelling the electric roads to maintain automatic bell signals operated by moving cars at highway crossings. It gives the highway commissioner discretionary power when petitioned by twenty freeholders of a township to investigate the necessity of having such a signal. A penalty of $5 a day is imposed for failure to comply with the orders of the highway commissioner. There were only sixty-seven votes in the house and it could not be given immediate effect, however.

Hoyt close by, also caught fire and was destroyed. There was a heavy wind and the whole town had a narrow escape. Both buildings were owned by Mrs. Hoyt her loss is $2,000. Gage's loss is 7,000, insured $2,500. The Michigan Telephone Co. office was located in Gage's store and was also completely wiped out.

TO DETROIT FOR 11 CENTS.

How Two Northville Ladies Made the Trip Last Week.

Does this car stop at Plymouth depot? engaged a couple of snuffly dressed. Each evening ladies of Northville of the F. & P. M. conductor on the forenoon train one day last week "certainly" replied the good natured ticket puncher and he wandered down the aisle, thinking of course the ladies meant any old depot. The train stopped as usual at the Plymouth depot the brake man yelled out, "Plymouth's Exchange cars for Wayne, New Boston, Monroe and Toledo" but the ladies clung to their seats like flies to a molasses pie. When the train 35 minutes late, got down the track about three miles and ran into a huge rain storm, the ladies woke from their trance and discovered they were lost. In their rage they held up the conductor and demanded to be "backed up" to Plymouth. He declined to back but offered to drop them off in the mud amid the spring shower. The ladies declined to drop and neither having a cent of money with them, a compromise was finally agreed upon that they should both be hauled into Detroit and brought back to Plymouth on the evening train. That settled it and the ladies in the end got a Detroit and return ride for just 22 cents each. They had forgotten that the forenoon train carries no Wayne cars, though they had previously been over the route dozens of times. Hereafter when a Northville lady asks that conductor a question he will take a day on and find out what she wants.

PLANS HIS OVERTHROW.

A Combine of Senators Will Work to Secure Political Death of Gov. Pingree.

IT ORGANIZES A STRONG OPPOSITION.

Will Not Permit Adjournment of the Legislature if the Governor Undertakes to Withhold Nominations—Wesselsius Sets Even for His Deposition.

(Special Correspondence)
Lansing, March 20.—Gov. Pingree has awakened to the fact that he has a large-sized row on his hands. His fight with a majority of the senate over the confirmation of his appointees has assumed alarming proportions. More than a score of the total of 32 senators, all of whom voted to reject the nominations of Oakman and Irish for railway assessors, have formed, it is alleged, a combination to continue the session of the legislature indefinitely if the governor maintains his announced determination that no more nominations will be made until the senate adjourns so that he may appoint without reference to that body.

The senators in the combine are confident that republicans can easily be convinced that the proper thing to do is to effectually dispose of Pingree, and that existing circumstances warrant the employment of any means which will bring about the result. Among other contributing causes cited are the governor's connection with the recently published call for a socialist convention at Buffalo. The plan is to insist upon having all nominating made before the regular business of the legislature is finished and if they are not forthcoming to take a recess for a few months after dismissing all but the principal employees so as to reduce expenses.

The senators who are in this deal are confident that the Atkinson taxation law which has been submitted to the supreme court will be declared to be unconstitutional and that this legislation will be called upon to enact valid legislation on this subject. In the event they will simply increase the rates provided in the present Meriman specific tax law thus increasing the revenue from the railroads to the desired figure.

The house Monday night tabled the resolution providing for final adjournment on May 17. Complications between the governor and the senate makes it impossible to figure on the end of the session with any degree of accuracy.

There is a rumor that the senate will not confirm Chase S. Osborn, who was appointed railroad commissioner to succeed by heat Wesselsius until the close of the session thus leaving Wesselsius in office against the wishes of the governor.

The sensation of the week was the governor's removal from office of Railroad Commissioner Wesselsius and the latter's caustic open letter in which he charged the governor with incompetence and political treachery. Wesselsius in a letter declared in effect that he had been the victim of a political reform administration which have not the slightest chance of writing his messages and fighting his battles in a fact that he made the governor politically. The governor is accused of extravagantly using the funds of the state in connection with the hiring of troops for the use and of being controlled by the military lord.

He says the government proposed to stop the expenditures but failed to do so. "The chief source of all this is the noise of the brass band being played at the work of reform. Commissioner Wesselsius attributes his discharge to the military lord the chief of which were persons who had incurred their enmity by protesting against the extravagant use of the people's money which has plunged the state heavily into debt.

Gov. Pingree takes the Wesselsius "to the quarter" as it were something to be expected. On Thursday a resolution endorsing the Wesselsius administration was offered in the house thus raising an issue between the administration and anti-Pingree factions. Only 12 of the 100 members voted on the resolution which was adopted. Representative Davis of Kalamazoo absolutely refused to vote and for this violation of the rules he was ordered reprimanded by the speaker. This in effect is without precedent in the state.

A-MAGNIFICENT SUM.

Second Adventists at Battle Creek Are Highly Elated by a Gift to the Church of $400,000.

Battle Creek, March 18.—A remarkable incident in connection with the Seventh Day Adventist conference recently in session in this city, is being related. Among those in attendance is Elder P. H. Westphal, who has charge of their mission in Buenos Ayres, South America. He came from Southampton on the Hamburg line because it was the cheapest, and met on board a ship a Capt. Norman, reported to be several times millionaire. The captain became interested in the Adventist faith and came to the meeting here. As a climax he has given the magnificent sum of $400,000. The Adventists believe that the coming of Elder Westphal when he could not really afford the expense and meeting Capt. Norman was an act of providence.

A NEW CIRCUIT.

Plans for a New Racing Combination for Towns in This State.

Detroit, March 18.—The Michigan trotting and pacing circuit has been formed here by horsemen from the state and Windsor, Ont. It was decided half-mile tracks must give at least $300 purses and the amount was left optional with mile tracks, although there was an effort made to make the minimum $500. Loeh Saginaw and Highland Park claim the second week in July dates and a clash is imminent, as it looks as though neither would yield. The amount to be given to the association follows: Saginaw, $16,000; Highland Park, $12,000; Windsor, $12,000; Grand Rapids, $5,000; Jackson, $4,500; Port Huron, $4,500; Bay City, $4,500; Pontiac, $5,000; Flint, $4,500; Springport, $3,700; total, $88,700.

AN UNEXPECTED GIFT.

A Bay City Man Receives a Check for Old Times' Sake from a Former Friend.

Bay City, March 22.—Paul Rivard, of West Bay City, was much surprised a few days ago when he opened a letter and found it to contain a check for $2,000 on a Superior bank. It came from an old friend named Durkee, a president a dozen years ago he worked in the woods with Durkee and became very intimate with him. For the last five or six years the mendicant became separated, Rivard not knowing where his former companion was living. The letter that accompanied the check said that Durkee was on his deathbed and having no relative to leave the money to had concluded to give it to his old chum of the woods.

MURDER IN DETROIT.

Detroit, March 20.—John Dean, a bricklayer employed by the board of public works on Saturday killed his wife with a flint in the kitchen of the boarding house where she lived. Jealousy is believed to have been the motive of the terrible deed. Mrs. Dean lived but 15 minutes after the terrible assault. The couple had been married six years, but could not agree and about six months ago separated. Mrs. Dean going to live at the house where she met her death. Dean after committing the crime calmly put the iron back on the stove, donned his overcoat and hat and proceeded to his mother's residence where the police arrested him shortly thereafter.

A youth was seen
Whose face was flushed,
As through the multitude he rushed—
Intent to spend his cash once more,
Where reads the sign—

"Fry Bros.' Store."

He's ushered in with grace and ease,
And buys a supply of groceries,
And home he goes, of fobs bereft,
With bargains rare—and money left—
And vows to trade where o'er the door
Still hangs the sign;

"Fry Bros.' Store."

Competitors around him sway,
And try to get his cash away;
Get back! he cries and cease your roar,

A Rhyming Critic.

For her critics report before the Northville Woman's club last week Mrs. Harmon gave the following and the club strayed a point in their by-laws in order that it might be published:

Just a moment for your ear
While—gravelly analyze—
The exercises orthographic lore,
And though it may cause her trouble—
Tries to puncture every bubble
Cast by wave of rhetoric on diction's shore
She may say—without apology,
All her knowledge of philology,
And no matter though her hearers write
Cast by wave of rhetoric on diction's shore

Consistently may hammer
At each doubtful bit of grammar
And syntactical deficiencies explain.
Backed by Webster's Dictionary,
Did pronouncements vary?
She is ready to recall the derivation
From rhetorical correctness
With reformative directness
And to-day, next week, herself the combina-

So, most fully realizing
That it need not be surprising
If my strictures should perchance bring
Future woe,
I bethought me I might mention—
To prove my kind intention—
The good instructive things that pleased us so

We were taught of immigration,
And its bearing on our nation
In a manner clear, concise and entertaining,
And we grew so interested
That the fact we manifested
By almost all at once our views, explaining
Of poetry and bird-love
We would yet have gladly heard more—
And of queer quotations and their authors too.

Though we know if we should get them
We'd undoubtedly, longer them,
As we all confessed we had been told to do

But less praise too careless make you
I confess these were mistakes too
Mrs. Harmon came with far too long an I

SHAVING IN PORTO RICO.

No Use for American Razors or the Customary Soap.

The natives of our new territory, Porto Rico, have no need to buy soap for the wooded country abounds in plants whose leaves and bulbs supply most fully the place of that indispensable article. Among the best of these is the soap-tree, so-called, though it is more a bush than a tree. Its bulb when rubbed on wet clothes makes a snow-white lather, which has an odor like brown Windsor soap. The Porto Ricans, who are all, from the highest to the lowest, great dandies in their way, make soap out of cocoanut oil and homemade lye—and a fine soap it is, smooth and fragrant. This cocoanut oil soap is used for shaving. When a man wishes to have a shave in the morning he starts out with his cocoanut shell cup and his donkey tail brush and bottle. It is never any trouble to find an empty bottle in Porto Rico, Cuba, Jamaica, or almost any of the larger West India islands, even in remote spots in the mountains. At least twenty generations of thirsty people have lived there and thrown away bottles. The man carries no mirror, he is too poor to own such a luxury. Not one house in twenty in Porto Rico has even the very cheapest looking glass. But generously rich nature provides the mirror, as well as the soap. The man goes to some convenient pool in the mountain stream where the water is quite still—there is his mirror. He breaks his bottle on a stone, and deftly picks out a sharp piece of suitable size. Then he lathers his face profusely and begins to scrape away with his piece of glass, which in his hands works as well as the best steel razor. A cut, or even a slight scratch, is extremely rare as a result of this al fresco form of shaving.

Betrayed by a Postage Stamp.

Some folks always stamp their letters upside down for luck, and a postage inspector in a neutral mood said others put the stamp on the back which makes the cancellation clerk forget his religion. I remember we caught a fellow once through the peculiar way he stamped a letter. He was wanted for fornication with the lady of Table 8 in the club. I slipped out and so I had to look for him. I saw some of his correspondence and noticed that he always put a small stamp on the envelope as he wrote. I was sure that he was the man I was looking for. I got down a copy of a letter and found that it was from a certain club. I then went to the club and asked the clerk for the letter. He showed it to me and I saw that it was indeed the letter I was looking for. I then went to the club and asked the clerk for the letter. He showed it to me and I saw that it was indeed the letter I was looking for.

One Bread

The Swedes, as the people of Sweden are called, bake their bread once in two or three times a year and what is making it is to be saved. It lasts for a week or more, and how low is every one! They do not bake their bread in loaves but they make it in flat cakes about the size of a dinner plate with a large hole in the middle.

Clay Pipes

The British museum contains a very full collection of clay pipes, dating back as far as the sixteenth century. The custom of waving the pipe to prevent it sticking to the lips was introduced by the Dutch about the year 1700.

And here we've been yearning after the heathen in various directions and never knew we had a supply on hand right at home. Expansion is demanded. No use going to the antipodes for material to practice the elevating action when there is such evident need of civilizing agents for the home market. Government missionaries are respectfully requested to yearn in the direction of Trenton. Christianizing influences might not be as effective there as elsewhere in disposing of surplus population for rescued and rescued, but if we don't civilize our own heathen some other country may philanthropically decide to do it for us.

ABOUT AUCTION BILLS!

A Good Auctioneer likes to see his name on a neat attractive auction bill. Any old thing won't do. A neat, attractive bill with new type and cuts brings a crowd and a good auctioneer can do the best. Poor and unattractive bills bring a poor, no-money crowd and the auctioneer is blamed when in reality it is the printer's fault. We're up-to-date. We put up the attractive kind of bills and they cost no more than the other kind. We also give the auction and the auctioneer a good send-off in the Record—that's free.

THE LAMP THAT LASTS. The New Rochester.

Fifteen years ago we began the manufacture of centre draft lamps. A dealer bought one of the first and placed it in his show window. Each day it is filled and lighted; occasionally it is cleaned and reworked. That lamp is good to-day.

Soon as The Rochester was demonstrated a success, a host of imitations sprang up. A few of the better ones still survive; the rest are gone. Why? You can fool all the people some of the time, but not all the time.

One New Rochester Lamp in a household is not a beginning. Soon there will be others. Do you want to know why? Write for printed matter if interested.

LOST MAN'S LANE.

A SECOND EPISODE
IN THE LIFE OF AMELIA BUTTERWORTH
BY ANNA KATHARINE GREEN

Synopsis of Preceding Chapters of Lost Man's Lane.

CHAPTER I.—Amelia Butterworth, who had done clever detective work, is called upon by Mr. Gryce, a professional detective, to take up an interesting case. He tells her that in a certain village several persons have suddenly disappeared. In this place lives a family of the name of Knollys, the children of a former friend of Miss Butterworth. Mr. Gryce desires Miss Butterworth to enter this family for detective work. Miss Butterworth goes to visit the Knollys' home, finding there Miss Lucetta and Loren Knollys and their brother William, V. VI and VII. Miss Butterworth dines with the family and is taken to her room. She remains awake during the night, and hearing strange noises, goes into the hall and calls Lucetta, who gives unsatisfactory reasons for the disturbance.

CHAPTER II.

When my mind is set free from doubt and fully settled upon any course, I am capable of much good nature and seeming simplicity. I was therefore able to maintain my own at the breakfast table with some success, so that the meal passed off without any of the disagreeable experiences of the night before. Perhaps the fact that Loren presided at the coffee urn instead of Lucetta had something to do with this. Her calm, even looks seemed to put some restraint upon the boisterous outbursts to which William was only too liable, while her less excitable nature suffered less if by any chance he did break out and startle the decorous silence by one of his rude guffaws.

CHAPTER III.

I instantly made up my mind I would go there, and that too, before the arranging process was over. But first I thought that he was not a very promising subject as I turned back to him and followed his huge but ungainly figure toward the front of the house. "I thought you might like to see the grounds," he growled, evidently not enjoying the role assigned him. "They are so attractive," he sneered. "Childrea hereabout call them the jungle."

CHAPTER IV.

"Why, Trohm," he cried, "is that you? Well, it's an age since I have seen you turn that corner on a visit to us." "Some time, certainly," answered a hearty and pleasant voice, and before I could quite drop the look of mingled severity with which I was endeavoring to shun me this young man into some decent show of interest in this place and as he the more becoming aspect of a lady, taught me to smile at an early morning when plinking flowers from a street and straightening a gentleman step into sight on the other side of the fence, with a look and a bow so genial and devoid of a severity that I experienced for the first time since entering the gloomy recesses of this town a complete satisfaction.

CHAPTER V.

"I should think," said I, "that it would be a pleasure for you to give that much assistance to your sisters. They do not seem to be enjoying their attempts to please you."

CHAPTER VI.

"Useful," he sneered. "It's a pity that a man like me can dispense with. Do you know what I would like?" We were standing in one of the tangled pathways with our faces turned toward the house. As he spoke he looked up and made a rude sort of gesture toward the blank expanse of empty and frequently curtailless windows.

CHAPTER VII.

"I would like that great house all by itself, to make one huge bachelor's hall of it. I would like to feel that I could tramp from one end of it to the other without awakening an echo I did not choose to hear there. I would not find it too big. I would not find it too lonesome. I and my dogs would know how to fill it, wouldn't we, Saracen? Oh, I forgot, Saracen is locked up."

He turned upon me with a look of anger that made his features positively ugly.

am, and were left at my house by mistake. "I could not hide my astonishment." "I live in the next house below," said he. "The boy who brought these from the postoffice—you see they are registered mail matter—madam—was a stupid lad, and I could not induce him to come any farther up the road. I hope you will excuse the me-out, me-anger and believe there has been no delay."

CHAPTER X. SECRET INSTRUCTIONS. For a moment William and myself stood looking at each other over this frail and prostrate figure. Then he stooped and with an unexpected show of kindness raised her up and began carrying her toward the house.

"I am afraid Miss Butterworth will not stand your allusions, Mr. Knollys," he said in her first visit in town. As his manner showed even more feeling than the occasion seemed to warrant I made haste to answer that I was well acquainted with the tradition of the lane; that its name alone showed what had happened here.

"I am glad," said he, "to find you so well informed. I was afraid—here he cast another very strange glance at William—that your young friends here might have shrank, from some sense of delicacy from telling you what might frighten most guests from a lonely road like this. I compliment you upon their thoughtfulness."

William bowed as if the words of the other contained no other suggestion than that which was openly apparent. Was he so dull, or was he—I had not time to finish my conjectures even in my own mind, for at this moment a quick eye appeared, and Lucetta's light figure behind us running toward us with every indication of excitement.

"What—what has procured us the honor of this visit?" she asked moving up beside William as if she would add her own contribution to the conversation.

"I have not to interfere with Hannah just then. I had my letter to read and wished to do it undisturbed. So I slipped into the sitting room and carefully closed the door. Then I opened my letter."

HEART FAILURE

has often been styled the cause of death in persons who have long lingered in disease. The amazing work which the heart regularly performs would certainly pre-suppose its breaking down. The most active climber can raise himself 1000 feet in an hour, the best locomotive 4000 feet and the heart 20,000 feet. To preserve his energies in full glow and force, Pabst Malt Extract, The "Best" Tonic, will act as an effective and practical No. 1 steam wick-outfire. No energy without food. No staying power without rich supplies of blood. The heart is the great engine of the body. Keep it going, steadily, easily, persistently, unto a ripe old age.

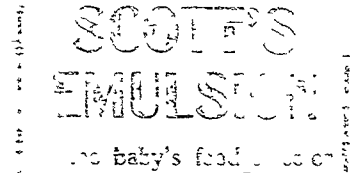

I have used your Malt Extract where a "Best" Tonic seemed to be indicated, and the results have proved quite satisfactory. Where a malt preparation is required, I shall not hesitate to suggest the use of your preparation.

THOS. SHRINER, M. D.

At all drug stores. hesitated. It was evidently their wish to have me spend my morning elsewhere than with them. Should I humor them or find excuses for remaining home. Either course harbors difficulties. If I went, what might not take place in my absence. If I remained, what suspicious thoughts would start for even if I did not quite go there.

Is Baby Too Thin?

If so, there must be some trouble with its food. Weak babies are plump; only the sick are thin. Are you sure the food is all right? Can't your doctor help but give them must grow if their food nourishes them. Perhaps a mistake was made in the past and as a result the digestion is weakened. If it is so, don't give the baby a lot of medicine; it will only make him sicker. Try Scott's Emulsion.

SCOTT'S EMULSION. The baby's food is not getting a day. The gold begins the very first day. Give it to your sick baby. It will give the baby a better night. If the baby is nursing and does not thrive, then a mother should take the Emulsion. It will have a good effect both upon the mother and child. Twenty years proves this fact.

Calling Cards.

As will be out of the world, so to speak, you know that's an old saw, but in these days it's ever true.

There is no such rule and fast in calling cards as in a New Yorker's or in a shoe or dress or woman. What people set out to make calls, they usually put on their best bib and tucker. And just here comes in the Calling Cards.

First the first thing to make cards without leaving Calling Cards.

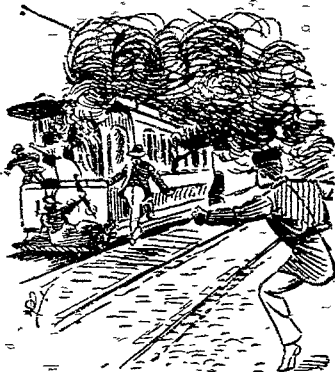

Calling cards that are the real stylish thing are the Engraved and Printed ones will do it. Engraved ones cannot afford the engraved ones. TROLLEY CAR ON FIRE

Brooklyn (N. Y.) Street Car Is Pursued for Some Distance by Fire Engines and Trucks.

The spectacle of a trolley car ablaze and its passengers heroically rescuing themselves by hurried exits from doors and windows, while three fire engines and one truck followed in its wake was presented to Brooklynites at the corner of Myrtle avenue and Washington street recently. Car No. 1306, of the Myrtle avenue line, was loaded with people on their way home from work in Manhattan. The temperature increased every foot of the way from the bridge and at the corner where the engines were hurriedly called into service.

TROLLEY CAR ABLAZE

Ice the passengers thought it was the middle of July and that they were bound for Coney Island. It was 120 degrees Fahrenheit bear the open door when flames began to shoot from the bottom of the car. The passengers fell out of the windows and flung themselves out of doors and rear doors. The motor man and conductor left their posts to avoid the rush and watched the rest of the proceedings from the sidewalk. An excited Italian bootblack yanked the flames twisting around the wheels of the passengers and sent many into a panic. An inspector hurried to the next car behind and the shrieking and blowing policy was forced down Myrtle avenue at full speed. Just then the engine began to sputter. They gave chase and extinguished the fire at the corner of Regal street and Myrtle avenue. The passengers ran in a perspiring and smoke-begun steam after the engines and the trolley clamoring for transfers. It is a failing of Brooklynites that they want their money's worth. Nearly all the woodwork of the car was destroyed. The fire was caused by the burning out of the fuse. Several men and women were scorched. The wounded were hurried with transfers to the hospital.

CRAZED BY THE WAR

Insane Woman Climbs Post in Police Station and Declares Flag Must Float Over Fort

A well-dressed woman entered the squad room of the Harrison street police station at Chicago last night and without a word started to climb one of the iron posts. For an instant the officers gazing after her in surprise. Then Sergeant Mooney walked over to her. "What are you doing?" he asked. "Going to fly the flag over the fort," she replied, striving to make her way up the smooth pillar. The sergeant pulled her to the floor. "Let me go! I must fly the flag," she cried. "Let me go! I must fly the flag," she cried. "Let me go! I must fly the flag," she cried.

CLIMBING THE POST

up bodily and carried her down into a cell where she became so violent that it was necessary to strap her to a chair. She said that she was a daughter of Gen. Miles and took Sergeant Mooney for a brother who served as a corporal in the Cuban war in which it was gathered her husband had also fought.

The woman was examined during the evening by Assistant Physician Bergeron, who pronounced her insane. She was removed to the detention hospital. Nothing could be learned in regard to her except that her name is Mary McGuire. From the nature of her talk it is supposed that some incident in the late war caused her present condition.
