

THE NORTHVILLE RECORD.

Vol. XXXI: No. 8.

NORTHVILLE, MICH., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1899.

$1.00 Per year in Advance

SCENE AT MONDAY'S BIG YACHT RACE.

DRAWN FROM THE DETAILED TELEGRAPHIC DISPATCHES.
—From Detroit Evening News

PLYMOUTH'S AFTER AN INJUNCTION.

AGAINST THE D. P. & N. ELECTRIC RAILWAY COMPANY.

Claims Company Is Not Doing It Agreed.

The village of Plymouth, by George Gartner, solicitor, has filed a bill in chancery, making the Detroit, Plymouth & Northville Railway defendant, and alleging that the latter has failed to comply with the terms of the ordinance granting its running powers through the village. It is averred that defendant has failed to lay planks between its rails, or outside of them, that it has not graded the streets where cuts were made, except on a small portion near the northern terminus in the village, that the crossings of intersecting streets are not planked, and that a number of cross-walks cut by defendant in laying its tracks were left in an impassable condition. The complainant asks that the defendants be enjoined from running their cars in the village until the planking provided by the ordinance is done, and that defendants be commanded to plank and grade the roads as provided by the ordinance. An order to show cause was made, returnable to-day.

SAYS THERE ARE OTHERS.

Anent the Brief History of the Town- ship of Novi.

Editor Record.—Having read the short history of the township of Novi in a recent issue of the Record I have concluded your historian could not have lived in those pioneer days as the names of the pioneers given are mostly the sons of the real pioneers; and besides the names of many of the oldest residents of the town are omitted—those who with brawny arm felled the noble forest trees and helped to make the fair township of Novi bud and blossom as a rose. Among these may be named Samuel White, Jonathan Neal, Joseph Chambers, Stephen Andrews, James Palmer, George Rodgers, Samuel Hangerford, Randall Chapman, Philip Shaw, George Dennis and many others I do not now recall. These have gone to their long rest all of them well advanced in years. The sons without doubt bore a noble part in the burdens of those pioneer days but the fathers led the way.

E. N. STEWARD.
Fowler, Mich., Sept. 28, '99.

Suburban News.

Millford GAR post will "campfire" on Oct. 25.

The new Pontiac Business University opened last week with 39 students as a starter.

With refreshing and unprecedented frankness the Oakland Excelsior heads its funny column "a few old jokes."

Mr. Hammer is agent for a road making machine at Wayne. He ought to be able to drive a good bargain.

Both Plymouth and Millford would be improved by a lecture course in the opinion of the editors of the papers of those towns.

One of Ed Trump's plum trees has been working overtime and after bearing a good crop of fruit is now white with blossoms.—Millford Times

Uncle Sam's stamp store at Wayne was tapped by burglars last week Friday night and a few pennies removed—probably for their value as copper.

The last, but not least—Fenton fair, Oct. 10-13, is the last exhibition in the state. It is also the last fair on the old grounds, but with a fine list of attractions, will be a hummer.

The threshing race at the Redford fair had only one contestant, who went a distance of thirty rods, set his outfit, threshed out 12½ bushels of oats and got back to his place of starting within ten minutes.

The Flat Rock News last week told of two local fishermen who "caught 26 large fish in less than three hours, besides a nice string of bull-heads." It would seem that the bull-heads down that way are not all fishes.

A Chelsea man has a crop of onions averaging $50 bushels to the acre. This will be a strong inducement to others to grow onions, but they may be in the soup after all. It requires a good deal of smartness to succeed in this business.

And now the usual weather predictions are flying in all directions. "A severe and early winter," "an open winter" and "a cold fall" are already spoken for. There is not the slightest doubt that some of these prognostications will prove correct as they are all proven in advance by unmistakable signs.

The Pontiac Post accounts for the fact of Oakland county having so many criminal cases by its proximity to Wayne county. We had read that far and were just getting ready to go out and demolish the plant, editor, etc., when we noticed that the responsibility was placed on that part of Wayne county called Detroit.

Don't be led astray and made to believe that there's something just as good as Rocky Mountain Tea. There's nothing half as good. Ask your Druggist.

Detroit can resent if she chooses, being big enough to take care of herself or lay it all to her nearness to Canada.

Oma Fish is a Hudson meat market proprietor. Omy, what a name for a fish.—Adrian Press.

Well if that isn't a scaly joke! It's bad enough to make the whales blubber.

Oakland county authorities are hot on the trail of violators of the law against selling liquor to minors and are also making existence a burden to the manipulators of "nickie in the slot" machines.

Mr. Stove is a Lyons, O., minister. Of course he is not a grate preacher, but he gives 'em red hot sermons.—Adrian Press

He naturally would. And no one ought to object if he smoked occasionally, though it would probably put a damper on some people's admiration for him.

A thirsty Anna Arfente stole a jug of kerosene from a wagon on the streets there the other night, but has not yet reported how he liked it. If he took a good "swig" before he found out his mistake he had the opportunity of a life-time to become a shining light.

And now the cup of satisfaction is filled to overflowing for the erstwhile ice man. All summer long he has absorbed our spare change to keep us cool, when, lo, we find our friend metamorphosed into a coal dealer, making us hustle to keep warm.—Wayne Echo.

The suburban electric roads find that a large portion of their energy must be spent in fighting suits brought by citizens and corporations along the line. The roads have the appearance of a sort of punching bag at which the lawyers, newspapers, politicians and disgruntled citizens take a whirl when business is not good or an issue is needed.—Wayne Review.

And yet everybody is anxious to have them—before they come.

The Michigan Alkali Co. has lately presented the Emergency hospital at Wyandotte with a $500 ambulance. The Independent of that city says a representative of that paper enjoyed a ride in the new wagon, but he is probably the last person who will feel that way about it. Some people—notably newspaper folks—can enjoy most anything.

South Lyon property owners have presented a petition to their village council asking that all walks hereafter constructed there be of cement, part of the cost to be paid by the village. The Excelsior voices an idea that has occurred to a good many people when it says: "The walks when built are for the use of the public, and no individual should be asked or expected to build or keep the walk around his property in shape for the public any more than he should be expected to keep the street in front of his property in shape for public use. Cement walks at present prices are the cheapest and most profitable walk to build and the village should at least stand one-half of the first expense."

Work on the new power house is progressing favorably when the weather permits and in another week there is every prospect of the foundation walls being sufficiently far enough advanced for the first floor timbers to be laid. The teams are now busy hauling brick from the kiln to the ground.—Farmington Enterprise

Mrs. Sherman 84 years of age caught a five pound pickerel in the mill pond last Friday. She was fishing from shore and caught the monster with a worm—Brooklyn Exposition. The monster with a worm was in hard luck sure. Pickerels with a worm are something of a novelty. The fish should have been sent to the U. S. fish factory at Northville.—Adrian Press

A Chicago paper gravely asserts that a citizen of that city has invented an "automobile goat" for secret societies that will do anything that could be expected of the genuine animal—except devour tin cans and similar articles popularly supposed to be edible for the goat family. It can unseat its rider with accuracy and despatch and is even supplied with an aroma that would deceive the "elect."

"The corset trust may succeed but it will be a tight squeeze" says an old joke lately resurrected. Well it is certainly an economical industry as it utilizes all waist material, a paying one as it is largely bone-us, and has a reliable market because it always stays about the same notwithstanding the many steels on all sides. Of corsets possible somebody may have made similar remarks on this subject before but we trust not.

Judge Smith of the Oakland county circuit court granted permission last week Monday to nine persons to board for various periods at different state resorts. The shortest rustication was allowed Minnie Pierce of Millard who is to stay at Detroit for three months, and the longest was given Frank Temple of Royal Oak who will reside at Marquette for 20 years. There is nothing indefinite about Judge Smith except his name.

Convention Call.

There is to be an "Old Maids' Convention" at the Opera House Friday evening Oct. 13. Prof. Makeover will be there with his wonderful machine; also several of his specimens, who will render a fine program consisting of music and recitations. This is a real Convention even to a "sneaking reporter." Come and see it and laugh once more. Popular prices.

Hand Painted Lamp Globes

Etched Crystal Lamp Globes

Just Received.
Prices Talk.

FROM

65c to $4.00 Each

4 lbs Oyster Crackers for	25c
4 lbs Salted Crackers for	25c
1 lbs Vail & Crane Crackers for	25c
Select Oysters, can.	28c
Standard Oysters, can.	23c
McLaren Imperial Cheese for	25c
3 lbs 4-Crown Raisins for	25c
5 lbs 2-Crown Raisins for	25c

ROLLIN H. PURDY.

Groceries, Crockery, Lamps, Etc.

Over $1,000 worth of Stoves.

114

To select from. Largest Assortment ever shown within 20 miles

100 Oil Cloth Patterns. 5 Beautiful Linoleum Patterns.

Coal. Coal. Coal.

Order this Month. Chestnut, Stove or Egg. We also carry Pocahontas, Jackson, Massillon and Smithing.

C. Y. & H.

Drugs and Druggists Sundries, Ice Cream and Ice Cream Soda.

You will find everything at Hueston's Pharmacy, both for the sick and for the well. Patent medicines at cut rate prices.

66 Main St. NORTHVILLE, MICH. Hueston's Pharmacy.

Hoosier Whole Wheat Pancake Flour

This is all right and only 10c pkg

We have the Marvel Minnesota Flour 65c sack

IN CANNED GOODS we can give you

3 cans Tomatoes for	25c
3 cans Corn for	25c
Early June Peas, per can	10c
String Beans, per can	7c
Red Kidney Beans, per can	5c
We still have 12 lbs Baltimore Sweet Potatoes for	25c
New Figs, per lb	20c

B. A. WHEELER.

1997, 1998, 1999, 2000, 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, 2005, 2006, 2007, 2008, 2009, 2010, 2011, 2012, 2013, 2014, 2015, 2016, 2017, 2018, 2019, 2020, 2021, 2022, 2023, 2024, 2025, 2026, 2027, 2028, 2029, 2030, 2031, 2032, 2033, 2034, 2035, 2036, 2037, 2038, 2039, 2040, 2041, 2042, 2043, 2044, 2045, 2046, 2047, 2048, 2049, 2050, 2051, 2052, 2053, 2054, 2055, 2056, 2057, 2058, 2059, 2060, 2061, 2062, 2063, 2064, 2065, 2066, 2067, 2068, 2069, 2070, 2071, 2072, 2073, 2074, 2075, 2076, 2077, 2078, 2079, 2080, 2081, 2082, 2083, 2084, 2085, 2086, 2087, 2088, 2089, 2090, 2091, 2092, 2093, 2094, 2095, 2096, 2097, 2098, 2099, 2100, 2101, 2102, 2103, 2104, 2105, 2106, 2107, 2108, 2109, 2110, 2111, 2112, 2113, 2114, 2115, 2116, 2117, 2118, 2119, 2120, 2121, 2122, 2123, 2124, 2125, 2126, 2127, 2128, 2129, 2130, 2131, 2132, 2133, 2134, 2135, 2136, 2137, 2138, 2139, 2140, 2141, 2142, 2143, 2144, 2145, 2146, 2147, 2148, 2149, 2150, 2151, 2152, 2153, 2154, 2155, 2156, 2157, 2158, 2159, 2160, 2161, 2162, 2163, 2164, 2165, 2166, 2167, 2168, 2169, 2170, 2171, 2172, 2173, 2174, 2175, 2176, 2177, 2178, 2179, 2180, 2181, 2182, 2183, 2184, 2185, 2186, 2187, 2188, 2189, 2190, 2191, 2192, 2193, 2194, 2195, 2196, 2197, 2198, 2199, 2200, 2201, 2202, 2203, 2204, 2205, 2206, 2207, 2208, 2209, 2210, 2211, 2212, 2213, 2214, 2215, 2216, 2217, 2218, 2219, 2220, 2221, 2222, 2223, 2224, 2225, 2226, 2227, 2228, 2229, 2230, 2231, 2232, 2233, 2234, 2235, 2236, 2237, 2238, 2239, 2240, 2241, 2242, 2243, 2244, 2245, 2246, 2247, 2248, 2249, 2250, 2251, 2252, 2253, 2254, 2255, 2256, 2257, 2258, 2259, 2260, 2261, 2262, 2263, 2264, 2265, 2266, 2267, 2268, 2269, 2270, 2271, 2272, 2273, 2274, 2275, 2276, 2277, 2278, 2279, 2280, 2281, 2282, 2283, 2284, 2285, 2286, 2287, 2288, 2289, 2290, 2291, 2292, 2293, 2294, 2295, 2296, 2297, 2298, 2299, 2300, 2301, 2302, 2303, 2304, 2305, 2306, 2307, 2308, 2309, 2310, 2311, 2312, 2313, 2314, 2315, 2316, 2317, 2318, 2319, 2320, 2321, 2322, 2323, 2324, 2325, 2326, 2327, 2328, 2329, 2330, 2331, 2332, 2333, 2334, 2335, 2336, 2337, 2338, 2339, 2340, 2341, 2342, 2343, 2344, 2345, 2346, 2347, 2348, 2349, 2350, 2351, 2352, 2353, 2354, 2355, 2356, 2357, 2358, 2359, 2360, 2361, 2362, 2363, 2364, 2365, 2366, 2367, 2368, 2369, 2370, 2371, 2372, 2373, 2374, 2375, 2376, 2377, 2378, 2379, 2380, 2381, 2382, 2383, 2384, 2385, 2386, 2387, 2388, 2389, 2390, 2391, 2392, 2393, 2394, 2395, 2396, 2397, 2398, 2399, 2400, 2401, 2402, 2403, 2404, 2405, 2406, 2407, 2408, 2409, 2410, 2411, 2412, 2413, 2414, 2415, 2416, 2417, 2418, 2419, 2420, 2421, 2422, 2423, 2424, 2425, 2426, 2427, 2428, 2429, 2430, 2431, 2432, 2433, 2434, 2435, 2436, 2437, 2438, 2439, 2440, 2441, 2442, 2443, 2444, 2445, 2446, 2447, 2448, 2449, 2450, 2451, 2452, 2453, 2454, 2455, 2456, 2457, 2458, 2459, 2460, 2461, 2462, 2463, 2464, 2465, 2466, 2467, 2468, 2469, 2470, 2471, 2472, 2473, 2474, 2475, 2476, 2477, 2478, 2479, 2480, 2481, 2482, 2483, 2484, 2485, 2486, 2487, 2488, 2489, 2490, 2491, 2492, 2493, 2494, 2495, 2496, 2497, 2498, 2499, 2500, 2501, 2502, 2503, 2504, 2505, 2506, 2507, 2508, 2509, 2510, 2511, 2512, 2513, 2514, 2515, 2516, 2517, 2518, 2519, 2520, 2521, 2522, 2523, 2524, 2525, 2526, 2527, 2528, 2529, 2530, 2531, 2532, 2533, 2534, 2535, 2536, 2537, 2538, 2539, 2540, 2541, 2542, 2543, 2544, 2545, 2546, 2547, 2548, 2549, 2550, 2551, 2552, 2553, 2554, 2555, 2556, 2557, 2558, 2559, 2560, 2561, 2562, 2563, 2564, 2565, 2566, 2567, 2568, 2569, 2570, 2571, 2572, 2573, 2574, 2575, 2576, 2577, 2578, 2579, 2580, 2581, 2582, 2583, 2584, 2585, 2586, 2587, 2588, 2589, 2590, 2591, 2592, 2593, 2594, 2595, 2596, 2597, 2598, 2599, 2600, 2601, 2602, 2603, 2604, 2605, 2606, 2607, 2608, 2609, 2610, 2611, 2612, 2613, 2614, 2615, 2616, 2617, 2618, 2619, 2620, 2621, 2622, 2623, 2624, 2625, 2626, 2627, 2628, 2629, 2630, 2631, 2632, 2633, 2634, 2635, 2636, 2637, 2638, 2639, 2640, 2641, 2642, 2643, 2644, 2645, 2646, 2647, 2648, 2649, 2650, 2651, 2652, 2653, 2654, 2655, 2656, 2657, 2658, 2659, 2660, 2661, 2662, 2663, 2664, 2665, 2666, 2667, 2668, 2669, 2670, 2671, 2672, 2673, 2674, 2675, 2676, 2677, 2678, 26

Have You Been Sick?

Perhaps you have had the gripe or a hard cold. You may be recovering from malaria or a slow fever; or possibly some of the children are just getting over the measles or whooping cough.

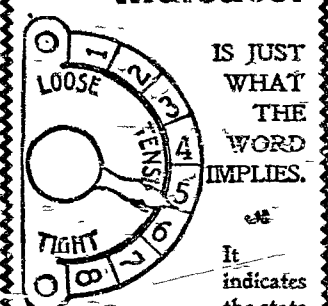

Are you recovering as fast as you should? Has not your old trouble left your blood full of impurities? And isn't this the reason you keep so poorly? Don't delay recovery longer but

Take
Ayer's
Sarsaparilla.

It will remove all impurities from your blood. It is also a tonic of immense value. Give nature a little help at this time. Aid her by removing all the products of disease from your blood. If your bowels are not just right, Ayer's Pills will make them so. Send for our book on Diet in Constipation.

Write to our Doctors.
We have the exclusive services of some of the most eminent physicians in the United States. Write freely and receive a prompt reply, without cost.
Address, Dr. J. C. Ayer, Lowell, Mass.

A Tension Indicator

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES. It indicates the state of the tension at a glance. Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the

WHITE
Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

THE Best Hotel in Detroit

Can do no more for you in the way of comfortable beds and good meals than the FRANKLIN HOUSE, at Bates and Larned Sts. Rates are $1.50 to $2.00 per day, American plan. Woodward and Jefferson Aves. are only a block away, with cars to all parts of the city. Excellent accommodations for wheelmen.

H. H. JAMES & SON, Proprietors.
Bates and Larned Sts., Detroit, Mich.

BAD BREATH

"I have been using CASCARET and as a mild and effective laxative they are simply wonderful. My daughter and I were both with sick stomach and on breath was very bad. After taking a few doses of CASCARET we have improved wonderfully. They are a great help in the family."

WILHELMINA NAGEL
1127 Biltmore House, 22, Cincinnati, Ohio

Placid, Palatable, Potent, Taste Good, Do Good, Never Sicken, Weaken or Grip, 25c 50c
CURE CONSTIPATION.
Selling Sundry Company, Chicago, Montreal, New York, St. Louis
NO-TO-BAC Sold and guaranteed by all druggists to CURE TOBACCO HABIT.

THE NATION'S GIFT TO DEWEY

Sword Voted by Congress Presented to the Admiral.

BRILLIANT MILITARY PARADE.

Cheering Crowds Line the Route Taken by President McKinley and the Great Sailor—Secretary Long Makes Presentation Speech.

Washington, Oct. 3—Washington went wild over the hero of Manila today and gave him such an ovation as was rarely, if ever, been seen in the national capital.

The start from Mrs. McLean's residence was made promptly at 10 o'clock. Admiral Dewey emerged from the house with Chairman Moses of the local reception committee, and the two took their seats together in Mrs. McLean's carriage. When the admiral appeared, resplendent in heavy epaulettes and gold lace, the great throng that had assembled in the adjacent streets and in Farragut square broke out into a long and loud burst of applause. There was also a demonstration when Capt. Lamberton and Lieut. Brumby and Caldwell came out and took the second carriage.

Accompanied by an escort of police and committeemen, and headed by the Marine band, the admiral was driven to the white house through the cheering crowds. His progress was slow, and he repeatedly bowed and smiled his acknowledgment of the greetings given him. He entered the white house grounds by the west gate, and on reaching the portico Admiral Dewey quickly alighted and was shown into the white room, where he was met by the president and members of the cabinet.

Capt. Lamberton, Lieut. Brumby and Lieut. Caldwell also left their carriages, and were warmly greeted by the members of the reception committee, the commissioners of the district and a few friends who had gathered there.

Only a few minutes elapsed before the admiral reappeared with the president and took seats in the white house carriage. The members of the cabinet occupied the next three carriages, former Secretary Alger sitting with Secretary Long, and then followed the various officials who had been assigned places near the central figure of the demonstration. The carriages swept briskly down the curved driveway into Pennsylvania avenue, where there was a blare of bugle commands, a crash of bands and the great procession started.

It was a magnificent and inspiring sight as the parade swung into the long stretch of the handsome thoroughfare. Through the broad street, cleared from curb to curb with the majestic capitol towering from the further end and the treasury behind, the marching hosts moved between two solid walls of enthusiastic, shouting, gesticulating humanity banded solidly from the curbs, and rising tier on tier, on every conceivable kind of structure to the crowded roofs and windows, while above, below and all about fluttered flags, bunting and Dewey emblems and devices forming a background of brilliant color.

At the head of the line rode Major Gen. Nelson A. Miles, commanding general of the army, in the full uniform of his rank, with the yellow field marshal's sash from shoulder to hip. He was astride a superb gray horse richly caparisoned. Back of him was rank after rank of military aides all officers of high rank. The brilliant coated Marine band added color and inspiring music to the gay scene and following it came every describable kind of soldier, sailor and marine mounted and about infantry, artillery cavalry, the marines in their short blouses and helmets, the jacksies from the Raleigh and other war ships batter, after battery of light artillery the mammoth eight-inch siege guns of the Seventh artillery, each drawn by eight horses. Then the crimson trappings of the artillery changed to the yellow of cavalry, as line after line of the yellow-plumed troopers rode by.

And then, Dewey. All that had gone before was but a brilliant prelude to the coming of the man of Manila, riding with the president, on his way to the capitol to receive the nation's tribute. They were in the president's private carriage, seated on the rear seat, the president on the right. Mr. McKinley raised his hat only occasionally, leaving the admiral to acknowledge the plaudits of the multitude by lifting his champagne. What an ovation!

From end to end the avenue rang with deafening cheers and the banks of humanity took on life and motion as flags and handkerchiefs were waved madly.

At the capitol the ceremonies were singularly impressive. The presentation speech was made by Secretary Long, who paid a glowing tribute to the man who today fills the hearts and minds of his countrymen.

The sword, except its steel blade and the body metal of its scabbard is entirely of twenty-two karat gold. On the pommel is carved the name of the battleship Olympia and the zodiacal sign for December, in which lucky month Dewey was born. Circling these is a closely woven wreath of oak leaves, long employed to indicate and adorn rank. Below these the pommel is embraced by a gold collar, on the front of which are the arms of the United States, with the blue field of the shield in enamel. Below them are the arms of Vermont, Dewey's native state, with the motto, "Freedom and Unity," and the colors of the shield in enamel.

The plain part of the gold collar is decorated with stars, and a graceful finish is given to it by a narrow band of oak leaves. The sword blade is damascened with the inscription:

The gift of the Nation to Rear-Admiral George Dewey, U. S. N., in Memory of the Victory at Manila Bay, May 1, 1898.

The sword grip is covered with fine shark-skin, bound with gold wire, and inlaid with gold stars. The guard is an eagle terminating in a claw, which grasps the top in which the blade is set; the eagles' outstretched wings form the guard proper.

The scabbard is of thin steel, damascened in gold, with sprays of delicate sea plant, the rosettes, typical of fidelity, constancy and remembrance. These sprays are interlaced; stars fill the inner spaces, dolphins the outer spaces. Sprays of oak leaves and acorns secure the rings and trappings of the scabbard, above these on the front of the scabbard is a raised monogram of diamonds, entwining the letters "G D" and immediately under them are letters "U S N," surrounded by sprays of the sea-plant.

The ferrule, or lower end of the scabbard, terminates in entwined gold dolphins.

The sword box is of white oak, inlaid with black velvet, and at the center of the cover has a gold shield surmounted by an eagle, and inscribed with a single star and the words Rear-Admiral George Dewey, U. S. N.

VENEZUELA BOUNDARY REPORT

Commissioner's Decision is Regarded as a Compromise.

Paris, Oct. 4.—By the decision of the Anglo-Venezuelan boundary arbitration commission some of Great Britain's claims as to the interior and on the coast are disallowed. Her frontier will start at the Vauca river.

The award was unanimous. It is considered in the nature of a compromise rather than as favoring Venezuela.

Capt. Parker on the Shamrock

New York, Oct. 4.—A dispatch to the World from London says "It is learned on reliable authority that Capt. Ben Parker, commander of Emperor William's yacht Meteor, is now in New York incognito. He sailed from here on the liner New York on her last trip, traveling under an assumed name, and landed last Saturday. His presence was carefully concealed from the other passengers. Just what his purpose is can not be stated, but the surmise is that he will advise with the captains of Shamrock and give them the benefit of his wide experience as one of Europe's best-known and most successful sailing masters."

New Yorkers Pay Heavy Taxes

New York, Oct. 4.—Taxes for the current year have just become payable. On the first day of collection these payments, by the largest property owners in the city were made. William Waldorf Astor $406,896; Arnold, Constable & Co. $265,000; New York Central, $350,000; John Jacob Astor, $225,000; Ogden Goelet, $250,000; J. Pierpont Morgan $150,000; Central Trust company $113,000; estate of William H. Vanderbilt $200,000; Lorillard estate, $140,000; George Ehrert, $101,000; estate of George Bliss, $100,000; Fourth National bank $100,000; Orlando Potter estate $70,000; August Belmont $75,000; Tiffany & Co. $60,000. Could estate $36,000.

Liqueur Present for Dewey

New York, Oct. 4.—A committee representing the shipping interests of the port of New York presented to Admiral Dewey a Dewey album. The presentation was made by letter. As Admiral Dewey has no permanent home at present his cousin, Edward W. Dewey, will act as custodian of the gift, pending instructions from the admiral. The book weighs about 350 pounds. It is bound in seal, with sterling silver corners and nameplate appropriately engraved. In the volume are contained 10,200 clippings, and the title of each newspaper and date is engrossed over each clipping.

For Municipal Improvement

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 4.—The sixth annual convention of the American Society of Municipal Improvement began its sessions in the new city hall today under favorable auspices. The cities represented include Milwaukee, St. Paul, New York, Chicago, Rochester, Montreal, Cincinnati, Bloomington, Ill., Lafayette, Ind., Parkersburg, W. Va., Birmingham, Ala.; Grand Rapids, St. Louis and Peoria, Ill. The sessions of the convention will cover three days and a whole range of subjects relating to municipal improvement will be discussed.

Live Stock Boards to Meet

Chicago, Oct. 4.—The annual meeting of the interstate live stock sanitary boards, of which Charles P. Johnson of Springfield is president, will be held at the assembly hall of the Chicago live stock exchange commencing at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, Oct. 11. The subjects up for discussion are "Tuberculosis," "The Quarantining of Cattle" and other matters of interest to stockmen. Delegates from sixteen states will be in attendance.

Excitement in Chinese Colony

San Francisco, Oct. 4.—The Chinese colony in this city is considerably excited over the fact that large placards containing a revolutionary proclamation have been posted in Chinatown. The document is an appeal in behalf of the deposed Emperor Kwang Hsu and a call for aid to dethrone the dowager empress.

PORTO RICO'S QUEER FISH.

Curious Specimens Brought Back by Uncle Sam's Fish Experts.

Porto Rico's queer fish, sea turtles, ep-sea clams, oysters, devil fish and "mermaids" is the subject of a most interesting report, just made by the United States Fish Commission's expedition, which was sent to Porto Rico to investigate its aquatic life for Uncle Sam. The steamer Fish Hawk, having on board the Government fish scientists, led by Professor W. Evermann, brought back 250 species of fish, many of them new to science.

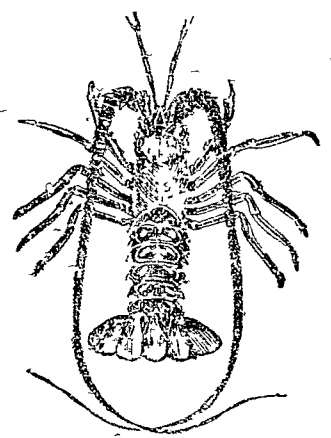

In summer there is a great abundance of huge sea turtles in that vicinity, especially about Culebra Island. Decoys are used to take them—i. e., counterfeit turtles cut rudely out of thick board and an hored out. Sometime, indeed, a picture of a turtle is simply painted on the upper side of a large piece of plank, and the latter is set afloat. Evidently the big marine rounds, some of which weigh 1,000 pounds apiece or more, are remarkably stupid creatures, inasmuch as they take the decoys for females and seek them so persistently that they can hardly be driven away. They are secured by passing nets around them in the water.

A kind of devil fish of a most ugly sort was found. A sword fish with monstrous fin extending straight up from its back and feelers reaching far beneath the body was added to the collection of freaks.

Another old fish found by the Government fish hunters was the fat fish. Oysters are plentiful, though small, being of a different species from the bivalves of the Atlantic coast of the United States. They are very good to eat but it is doubtful if the fishery for them will ever amount to much commercially. Small round clams were brought up by the dredges in considerable numbers from a depth of forty fathoms or 240 feet. They were of species distinct from ours, and were found to be not edible.

No lobsters like ours seem to occur in Porto Rican waters, but there is a so-called "spiny lobster" which is eaten by the natives. It attains a length of about eighteen inches. Blue crabs are extremely plentiful about the island. There are lots of fresh water crabs. Some day these crabs may be exported in quantities to the United States, for they are very delicious, but they have to be tightly packed for the journey to their backs, else they will work their feet until exhausted, and so die. The Porto Rican crayfish gets a living by impaling small fishes and little frogs on its "tusk," as the horn between its eyes is called.

There is no fishery for the manatee in Porto Rico, though specimens of that huge marine mammal are sometimes seen in the tidal rivers. The creature is a near relative of the extinct thynna, or sea cow. It attains a length of eight feet and a weight of nearly a ton. Columbus saw several specimens on his voyages to America, and in his writings he spoke of them as "mermaids." He said: "They are not as handsome as painted but their faces are somewhat human-like. In 1570 there was a manatee at the London Zoological Gardens. It would not eat a thing but lettuce and this had to be of the French sort. Inasmuch as it consumed one hundred pounds a day the least board bill was pretty steep.

PORTO RICAN CRAB

Two species of fishes found in the neighborhood of Porto Rico are poisonous. One of these is the puer, a kind of mackerel which attains a weight of twenty pounds. Another is the melitta, a tropical herring, the most dangerous part of which is the roe. It is not easily distinguished from another herring, which is harmless. A funny curve of those waters is the bafin, which imitates a piece of coral so artistically that it is difficult to detect the cheat unless the creature moves. When it does move it seems to walk on four legs, which are in reality fins. It has a second pair of eyes, looking forward, near the tail.

Most interesting of all the creatures that inhabit Porto Rican waters are the great marine tortoises. These are of three species—the green turtle, loggerhead and the hawksbill. The loggerhead has been known to attain a weight of 1,600 pounds. At 1,000 it is eight feet long and nine feet across the back, including the flippers. It is a very fast and strong swimmer, and the only way to take it is to catch it asleep on the water. Often specimens are seen many miles from land, floating on the waves in peaceful slumber. Unlike the other big sea turtles, the loggerhead is carnivorous. With its powerful jaws it easily cracks the shells of large conches, eating the "meats" of those mollusks. It feeds on crabs and shellfish of all sorts.

The green turtles are the ones that are chiefly sought with decoys of the kind previously described. They sometimes weigh as much as 1,000 pounds, and their flesh is one of the most prized of table delicacies. Living in deep water, they feed on sea plants.

After hovering on these ocean pastures they go to the river mouths for baths in fresh water, which they seem need from time to time. A curious discovery was the fact that the fish in Porto Rican mountain streams live in caves and holes in the rocky banks and cannot be caught by traps or otherwise. In the current this is not on account of timidity or wariness as in the case of our brook trout but because of a peculiar necessity which compels the fish to hide itself.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS

Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher
The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE D. F. TAYLOR CO. INC., 27 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY

What Have You to Print?

Good printing means revenue—poor printing expense. Printing, like clothes, should be made to fit you. The more exacting the job, the more certain you are to be satisfied here. Why shouldn't good printing hold precedence over commonplace efforts? A thoughtful expenditure in printing is the wisest economy. Test the matter—save the dollars. Every taste finds satisfaction here.

Printing That Pleases. Full Count. Quick Work.

PRINTING FOR PARTICULAR PEOPLE AT PLEASING PRICES.

The Record Printery,
NORTHVILLE, MICH.
PHONE NO. 43
BOTH LINES

Beautiful Half-Tones

APPEAR EACH SUNDAY IN THE

DETROIT NEWS-TRIBUNE

A pictorial presentation of scenes the world over. All the news of all the world will be found in its 24 to 32 pages.

2 Cents a Week pays for it when taken regularly with The Detroit Evening News or The Detroit Tribune.

TELL YOUR NEWSBOY TO LEAVE A COPY.

FLORIDA
NEW ORLEANS

CINCINNATI, HAMILTON & DAYTON RY.

THE SHORT LINE TO
Cincinnati and the South

DIRECT CONNECTION MADE AT CINCINNATI FOR

LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, ASHEVILLE, KNOXVILLE, CHATTANOOGA, CUBA, MEMPHIS, JACKSONVILLE, ST. AUGUSTINE, TAMPA.

G. E. GILMAN, Mgr. Night Pass. Agt.

A Little of Everything.

For crackers, biscuit, wafers, buns, For old folks, young folks, little ones, Fry Brothers have an ample store; Some twenty brands and maybe more.

They've all the latest kinds of flakes And lots of fancy ginger cakes— Put up in boxes by the pound, In shapes oblong, square and round.

All seasoned for a taste refined The school marm and professor kind, The Brothers Fry at their resort Have oysters by the pint or quart.

All pickles for immediate use, In brine preserved with all their juice; The inference is, if you are wise, Fry Brothers you will patronize.

Striped Suitings!

Striped Suitings are THE thing for Fall and Winter Wear and they must be of the wide stripe kind. We have them and you might as well be out of the world as out of style. Come in and see the new patterns and the styles for fall and winter.

B. Freydel, The Tailor.

"May Ruthven's Secret"

PAGE 7.

Furniture, Carpets and Undertaking!

Come in and look at our different lines. Everything New and Up-to-date Styles

Just what you want in Iron Beds, Fancy Rockers, Couches, Bedroom Suites, Sideboards, Book Cases, Tables, Etc.

See our windows for the latest thing in imitation of the Platinum Photos, all reproductions of famous pictures. 10c, 15c each

Lewis & Lewis,
NORTHVILLE.

Little Giant

School Shoes manufactured by Hill & Green, Athol, Mass., are the best wearing, best looking, easiest on the feet and cost no more than ordinary shoes. Try a pair and be convinced that "Little Giants" are all we claim for them. Sold only by

Agents for
W. L. Douglas' $3 Shoe.

STARK BROS.,
The Shoemen.

Wanted, to Rent, For Sale, Etc.

Notice under this head inserted for 15c first issue and 10c per week for each subsequent issue.

FOR RENT—Nice house on Northside Apply to C. J. Ball. 471

FOR RENT—The East part of the Ely house on Main street Apply to H. E. C. Daniels. 511

FOR SALE—Ideal Organ, in excellent condition $25.00 buys it Mrs. J. D. Hazen. 743

FOR SALE—Sixth Premier Typewriter First class order. Less than half price Apply to Record office. 511

FOR SALE—Office detached at the whole sale price. Good as new Sands & Porter 511

FOR SALE—15 Hampden Down Breeding Eggs also 3 ran 1/2 lbs. All thoroughbreds Apply to Nelson Bogert. 411

FOR SALE—Domestic Sewing machine, good condition. $10 buys it Also good extension table for $5 Apply to Record office. 511

FOR SALE—White Bicycle Gentle, almost good as new. Never been run over 100 miles. Less than $25.00 buys it Apply to Record office. 511

FOR SALE—One Horse and Lot corner Wing and Main street; also vacant Lot joining same 65x110 feet on Wing street and one House and Lot on Beutown known as the Shafter House For price and terms address F. D. Adams 403 Grand River Ave. Detroit, Mich. 181

WANTED—SALESMEN to solicit orders for choice and hardy line of Nursery Stock. Steady work and big pay. Stock replaced free. If you cannot work steady, take a local agency. Secure territory by writing at once to the HAWKS NURSERY COMPANY Rochester, N. Y. 111

WANTED—SEVERAL BRIGHT AND HONEST persons to represent us as Managers in this and close by counties. Salary $300 a year and expenses. Straight bona-fide, no more, no less salary. Position permanent. Our references are in bank in any town. It is mainly office work conducted at home. Reference Enclose self-addressed stamped envelope THE DOMINION CO Dept 3 Chicago Ill. 7419

THE WERNER COMPANY of Akron, Ohio is the largest concern of its kind in the world. They write us that they are in position to offer paying employment to an energetic man or woman in this country. We would advise those of our readers, who are in position to consider a good offer, to write at once to Department E, THE WERNER CO., Akron, O. You must send good references (Editor of this paper) 745

Farmers!

Improve your laying stock by introducing—Black Minorcas—Stock for Sale.
Northville. J. S. HADDOCK.

NORTHVILLE.

Purely Personal.

Miss Minnie Smith is visiting in Mason

Mrs. Jane Starkweather is visiting in Flint

Miss Hart Rowe is receiving a visit from her sister.

Mrs. C. J. Ball is visiting in Monroe and vicinity towns

Carl Patke has gone to Wabash, Ind. to work in a furniture factory.

Mrs. Harley H. Harris of Manton, Mich. was a guest at Wm Case's this week

Miss Lida McRobert is clerking in the cloak department in Hudson's store, Detroit

Mrs. W. J. Holmes of Chicago has been the guest of Mrs. W. H. Horton the past week

I. T. Mahoney has resigned his position as foreman at the Globe factory and is moving to Duinith

Miss Ferguson, Miss McManis and Miss Carothers of St. Thomas, Ont., are visiting Dr. and Mrs. Carothers

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Hazen of Novi were guests last Saturday afternoon and evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hammon

Shirley Timham and Jennie Thornton gave a party at the home of the latter Wednesday evening to about fifty of their young friends

H. F. Brown, Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Herbener and the latter's mother, Mrs. Mitchell, enjoyed a few days' outing, hunting and fishing at Union Lake this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Carryther returned last week from the shore where Mrs. C. has been spending the summer and where Mr. C. has been for a two weeks' outing.

Dr. Patterson will be in Northville for practice every Monday between 10:00 a. m. and 3:00 p. m. and will be glad to see his old friends at his former home, corner Wing and Dunlap streets.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Vorden of Detroit spent a few days with their parents Mr. and Mrs. Darlington here last week. Mr. and Mrs. Darlington returned home with their daughter and will spend the winter in Detroit.

Mrs. Lucinda Withee of Imlay City, mother of L. W. Horton, is visiting friends and relatives here. Though 86 years old she is as spry as a youngster of 20 and if you wish to find a real old lady you will have to look for some one older than she appears to be Beauty Is Blood Deep.

Clean blood means a clean skin. No beauty without it. Cascarets, Candy Cathartic clean your blood and keep it clean, by stirring up the lazy liver and driving all impurities from the body. Begin to-day to banish pimples, boils, blotches, blackheads, and that sickly, sallow complexion by taking Cascarets—beauty for ten cents. All druggists, satisfaction guaranteed, 10c, 25c, 50c.

NEWS FOR MICHIGANERS.

A Whole Regiment of News Items From Michigan Towns

CAPTURED FOR BRIEF READING.

A Bold and Daring Attempt at Jail Delivery at Kalamazoo was Discovered by Officials in the Nick of Time—Warden Morse's Report for September

Daring Attempt at Jail Delivery.

Almost daring attempt at jail delivery was discovered at Kalamazoo on the 2d. The prisoners, in the cage, had literally torn it to pieces and were awaiting a chance for a suitable opportunity to escape. By means of wrenches and saws the big iron bar that releases the door to the cell and other bars had been loosened and fastened up with wires. The large steel hinge three inches wide, had been pried and broken by use of one of the big steel bars previously loosened. The prisoners had the cage so well wrecked that when the suitable time arrived they could, by loosening a few small wires, open the cage and walk out.

Then they would have very quickly made their escape from the interior of the jail by means of the iron bars. The men in the cage were Larry Spellman, awaiting trial for the Richmond bank robbery; Holsinger, sentenced last week to Jackson for burglary; John Thompson, alleged house thief, and Frank Webb, charged with trying to get books containing saws and files to Slater and Allison, Richmond bank robbers.

Game Warden's Report for September.

Game Warden Morse reports that the work of his department last month was confined to a general enforcement of the game and fish laws, including a second inspection of the commercial fisheries. With very few exceptions the commercial fisheries were found to be closely conforming to the law, both as regards the size of the fish and the retention of immature fish. The decrease in the number and extent of the seizures proving this. The total number of cases investigated during the month was 165. There were 98 prosecutions commenced. These resulted in 54 convictions, two acquittals, three dismissals, while 39 cases are pending. The total amount of fines and costs imposed was $783.05, and the value of the fish and nets seized $390.28. Forty-seven of the cases for violation of the game laws and 51 for violations of the fish laws.

Had Acted Before Request was Received.

President McKinley, through Secretary Porter, has replied to the recent communication, including resolutions passed by the Holy Name society of Kalamazoo, in regard to the alleged desecration of church property in the Philippines. The President says that the subject referred to is now under investigation. The letter closes as follows: "Some time prior to the receipt of this communication, the President had caused to be instituted an inquiry into such matters, and had directed the United States authorities in the Philippine Islands, that special respect be paid to all church property."

New Tax Law Caused a Law suit.

Arrangements have been perfected for commencing a case to secure a ruling of the supreme court on the application of the amendment made to the tax law by the last legislature increasing from 8 to 12 per cent the interest to be charged on payments of delinquent taxes. Auditor-General Dix has instructed county treasurers to charge the 12 per cent a month from Sept. 23, when the new law became operative. Applicants now refused to pay this increase claiming that the law could not apply to taxes returned before the amendment was passed. The court will be asked for a mandamus to compel the acceptance of the old rate.

Flint's Appointment.

Gov. Pingree has appointed Murdock Grant, of Alpena, agent for the state board of correction and charities for Alpena county. Edmund S. Black, of Marine City, James McCall, of Yali, and S. C. McLouth, of Marine City, have been appointed members of the jury commissioners for St. Clair county for the term of four years from March 15 last, and Charles Jacobs, of Center Line, Henry Fernier, of Lake Shore, and Charles C. Bradley, of Romeo, members of the jury commissioners for Macomb county for the term of four years from April 17 last.

Killed Two of Her Children.

Domestic troubles caused Mrs. Clara Rheiner, of Detroit, to kill her 3-year-old son and a baby, while herself and a daughter—aged 7—were nearly exhausted when a brother of the woman forced his way into the house and found them grasping for breath on the night of the 26th. Illuminating gas and morphine were the means used. Her husband left her three days before the tragedy which she admitted at the hospital was the cause of her rash act. Mrs. Rheiner was 34 years old and had been married nine years.

Tramp Burned to Death.

The charred remains of a man were found at Traverse City in the ruins of the house of Charles Felt, which burned recently. Near the skull lay a clay pipe, and a kerosene can was close by. Without doubt the body is that of a tramp who broke in the house while the family was away from home, and accidentally set fire to the kerosene while getting some supper, as a half-out beef bone lay by his hand.

The unharvested apple crop in Benzie county on Sept. 29 was about 25,000 bushels.

ST. JOSEPH.

Six inches of snow fell at St. Joseph on Sept. 30.

Gaylord's first snow storm arrived on the 28th.

An inch of snow fell in the upper peninsula on the 28th.

A class of 60 v. as confirmed by Bishop Foley at Kalamazoo on the 28th.

The People's university is to establish a college at Berrien Springs.

Whitefish are being caught at Monroe this fall—something unusual.

The potato crop in the vicinity of Hart has been damaged by frosts.

Port Huron claims the lowest mortality rate of any city in the state.

The beet sugar factory at Holland will not be in operation before Nov. 1.

The pickle factory at Dundee used 12,000 bushels of cucumbers this season.

The State Sunday School association will meet at Battle Creek, Nov. 14-18.

Fully $15,000 worth of property at Concord was destroyed by fire on the 2d.

Only one free rural mail delivery route will be established out of Ann Arbor this fall.

The severe frost at New Boston on the 26th is believed to have killed the sugar beet crop.

Everything in the line of vegetation at Three Rivers was frozen stiff on the night of Sept. 30.

The Harris Milling Co., of Three Rivers, will manufacture its own barrels in the future.

In spite of a big deficit, the Marquette county fair directors will pay all premiums in full.

Durand's village authorities announce that they will collect the poll tax or know the reason why.

The Harris mill on Pigeon river, east of Indian river, burned. Loss, $2,000, no insurance. It will be rebuilt.

Jos. Frazier, of Algonac, claims to be the oldest resident in St. Clair county. He was born March 13, 1800.

The Washtenaw County Medical society wants a branch insane asylum established at Ann Arbor by the state.

President McKinley will visit Kalamazoo, Oct. 17, the first day of the carnival, on his return trip from the west.

It will require 25 tenement houses at Omer to house the families who desire to move to that bustling village this fall.

While Mrs. Geo. Stanley, of Tipton, was trying to rescue her 14-month-old baby from an eastern, she fell in and both were drowned.

Davidson & Wonsley's salt block at Marine City was burned to the ground on the morning of Sept. 29. Loss, $35,000; insurance, $3,000.

The Presbyterian synod of Michigan will meet in the Warren Avenue Presbyterian church at Saginaw for a three days' session Tuesday, Oct. 10.

The Howell Manufacturing company with a capital of $50,000 has been reorganized and will soon commence the manufacture of wire fence at Howell.

The early frosts have killed all late potatoes in Livingston county and shortened the crop to such an extent that they will be a luxury next winter.

The farmers around Plainwell, who experimented with sugar beet raising this year, are well satisfied and a large acreage will be devoted to beets next year.

Chicago capitalists are talking of establishing one of the largest canning factories in the state at Berrien Springs. The village will donate a sight.

Fred Bailey, of Harrison, found a sealed envelope under his plate on the morning of his 21st birthday. It contained a deed for 80 acres of land, the gift of his parents.

Walter O. Ashley, senior member of the vessel firm of Ashley & Dustin of Detroit, dropped dead on the street about noon on the 27th. Deceased was nearly 74 years of age.

Port Sanilac apple evaporator employs 15 hands and will double the number next month. Fifteen thousand dollars have already been paid for apples in the vicinity.

Port Huron is to have a new industry. It is a tannery, and the process to be used is one where the skins, with hair on, can be tanned without destroying the fibre or luster.

Apple buyers are buying up Clara county orchards at higher prices than usual. Rates range from $1.25 to $1.50, and some varieties of winter fruit are contracted for at $3 per barrel.

The League of Michigan Municipalities, in session at Grand Rapids on the 27th, favored a constitutional amendment which would permit of municipal ownership of all public utilities.

Mrs. Ida Lehman, of Detroit, is in critical condition at one of the hospitals as a result of a gasoline stove explosion. She attempted to fill the tank while one of the burners was lighted.

An unknown man was killed by an F. & P. M. northbound passenger train near Grand Blanc on the 3d. It is supposed he was a tramp stealing a ride. The body was cut in two. He was a middle-aged man, of medium height and clean shaven.

Samuel Wagner was putting a felt on the rollers at a Three Rivers paper mill when his hand was caught between the rollers. He was slowly drawn in and was facing a horrible death when the machinery was stopped. His arm was crushed to the shoulder.

The long-tailed electric road which is to take the Grand Traverse fruit region, is again being agitated. It is proposed to run it down the west shore of the peninsula, including the resorts of Edgewood, Bower's Harbor, N. ah-ta-wanta, Old Mission, back on the east shore to East Bay, to Traverse City, making a loop line.

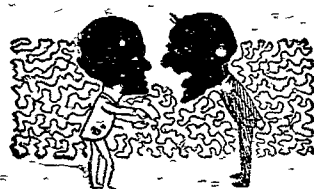

Dr. Walker Cures Diseases that "Hang on".

Dr. W. C. Walker of Detroit was here three weeks ago and will be here as usual on Tuesday Oct. 10, that being the date of the doctor's next regular monthly visit. All who are afflicted with a disease that "hangs on" should see Dr. Walker. His success in the treatment of chronic diseases has been remarkable. See him at the Park House Northville, Oct. 10. No charges for consultation. Remember the date.

(No. 11.)

STATE OF OHIO, City of Toledo, Lucas County, ss.—Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, county and state aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of One Hundred Dollars for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. F. J. CHENEY.

Signed before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December A.D. 1886. [Seal] A. W. GLADSON, Notary Public. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials free. F. J. CHENEY & CO. Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

WE WANT YOU TO UNDERSTAND that we are Headquarters for everything in the reading line. MAGAZINES, PAPER NOVELS, BOUND BOOKS and WEEKLY PAPERS. Having made special rates with publishers, we can give you inside prices on all Periodicals. See us before you send in your Yearly Subscriptions. Merritt & Co., Jewelers and Booksellers.

Price on Cut Flowers!

Roses, doz. . . . 75c, $1
Carnations, doz. 25, 35c
Aster, doz. 25c
Chrysanthemums, in pots, 10c, 15c (this month before repotting)
Dutch Hyacinths . . . 8c
Tulips, choice. 3c
Narcissus 3c
Roman Hyacinths. . . 6c

NORTHVILLE GREEN-HOUSES.
Corner Grace Ave. and Yerkes St.

GORDAN ALLAN TAILOR.

Has just received his Fall and Winter Samples. They are all very desirable and at low figures.

OVER POST-OFFICE.

Northville, Michigan

Go to Woodman & Cray for your

FRESH SALI and SMOKED Meats.

Fresh Fish received every Thursday evening.

Give us a Trial. Telephone 51.

Woodman & Cray,
Jake Miller's old stand,
75 Center St., NORTHVILLE.

BUSINESS University
DETROIT, MICH.

The best place in America for young men and women to secure a Business Education, Shortland, Mechanical Drawing, Penmanship, Thorough System of Actual Business, Session entire year. Students begin any time. Catalogue Free. Reference, All Detroit. W. F. JEWELL, Pres. F. R. SPENCER, Sec.

Men's Suits and Overcoats

FOR FALL WEAR
ARE READY.....

Stripes are the fashion—almost the rage, but there are others—and we have them if you prefer in Heavy Weight Blue Serge, Cassimeres, Fancy Worsteds and English Miltons, in Double or Single Breasted Suits every whit as good as your tailor would charge you one-half more for, and not fit better.

FALL OVERCOATS.

It isn't cold enough yet to wear a winter overcoat but it is just chilly enough for you to enjoy one of our medium weight Overcoats. We show them in plain browns, and herringbone weaves, strictly all wool fabrics at $10.

MEN'S UNDERWEAR.

The best the market produces for the money and just the right weight for this time of year.

A great variety at, per garment, 50c
In half fleeced, tan, ribbed or blue and grey.

In heavy winter weight wool fleeced, either in blue or fawn, all sizes, per garment 50c
Shirts 34-45; Pants 30-44.

MEN'S NECKWEAR.

A new line of Imperial Scarfs in Yale blue navy and cardinal at 50c
Bows and String Ties at 25c
Fall Caps 25c, 50c, $1
Fall Gloves 25c, 50c, 75c, $1
Fall Shirts 50c, 75c, $1
Fall Half Hose 15c, 25c, 50c
Tams for the Children 50c
Caps for the Children 25c, 50c

81-83
Main Street.

The Star Clothing House,

Northville,
Mich.

Red Cross Coal Stoves,
Red Cross Heaters,
Red Cross Cook Stoves.
There are none better.
Air-Tight Heaters,
Hot-Blast Soft Coal
Burners,
Stove Pipe, Zinc Boards,
Oilcloth and Linoleum.

SEE THEM
BEFORE YOU BUY

E. J. COX & CO.,
HARDWARE.

P. S. Your Stoves Blacked and Set Up to Order

NEW!

We have just added fifty patterns of the most beautiful natural wood picture frame mouldings ever designed by any factory. Black, gray, golden and fluted oaks, ebony, mahogany, sycamores, etc., in all the popular new finishes and widths. No city art store carries a more elegant line. How about prices? Just about half what you pay in the city for the same goods. We invite inspection and comparison.

BROWN,

Northville. Photographer.

Praises Garfield Relief Plaster.

"I have found great relief from lame back by using Garfield Relief Plaster. They are rightly named as a few hours will tell what they will do. I would advise others to try them."

MRS. A. R. MCCULLOUGH.

For sale by

MURDOCK BROTHERS,
...DRUGGISTS....

62 Main Street Telephone.

25 Cent Detroit Excursion.

The F. & P. M. railway company is still running its Wednesday and Saturday Detroit cheap excursions. Special train leaves Northville at 9:30 a. m., standard time on above days, and for the return trip leaves Detroit at 5:30 p. m. Round trip fare 25 cents.

CASTORIA.

The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Wm. D. Mitchell

NORTHVILLE.

The City in Brief.

Dancing school to-night
Lee Cook is seriously ill with typhoid fever
Born to Mr. and Mrs. Harley Johnson Oct. 1, a boy.
Uncle Tom's Cabin at the opera house next Tuesday night
Young People's Class, in dancing to be formed at Princes' rink to-night
Miss Hauve Root is just out again from a week's tussle with "summer" grip
F. E. Quigley lost $75 worth of grapes by the freeze last Saturday night
Evidently there is some good hunting right in the village. Robert Yerkes, Sr. shot a nice fat coon down on his brother Purd's flats Monday.

Quarterly meeting services will be conducted by Presiding Elder Shier Sunday morning in the Methodist church, beginning with a Love-feast at 9:30 a. m.
Christian Science service Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Subject: "Doctrine of Atonement;" also on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the WCTU hall.

Rev. Herbener of Northville last Sunday preached on "Gideon's Three Hundred." According to the ideas he has of this band it couldn't be duplicated today in Northville. No one belongs to Gideon's band there. —Adrian Press
Cummings & Alexander's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company will play at the opera house here next week Tuesday night. The company is a strong one, carrying sixteen people, a brass band and orchestra and the usual number of blood hounds, donkeys, etc. The prices of admission will be 15c for the gallery and 25c down stairs. No reserved seats will be placed on sale—first come first served.

Grace—Better doctor your health before applying beautifying remedies. Rid yourself of constipation, indigestion, with Rocky Mountain Tea, and you'll have a beautiful face. Ask your Druggist
How Are Your Kidneys?
Dr. Hobbs' Special Kidney Pills. This Sample free. Add Stirling Remedy Co., Chicago or N. Y.

Edna and Your Bowels With Castoreta.
Candy Cathartic, cure constipation for 10c, 25c. If C. C. C. fail, druggists refund money.

Dancing school begins to-night.

Miss Genevieve Clark has been quite ill with malarial fever, but is now some better.

Landlord Shafer of the Park house has put a new steam heater in his hotel and is again ready for all kinds of cold weather.

Postmaster Hutton, it is said, will begin his annual clearance sale of stamps next week, selling 13 two-cent postage stamps for "a cent and a quarter."

Will Thayer has been appointed foreman of the Alpena U. S. fish station and has been detailed with Filkins to take charge of the Detroit station during the fall and winter season.

J. R. Smith & Son, who have been stationed at Northville and Plymouth for the past four years, moved to this place last week and rented rooms in the Birch and Draper blocks, where they are ready to do all kinds of repairing and upholstery—South Lyon Excellence.

The D-P & N street cars are still coming, though last week saw little or no progress. However the locality has been here for some time and the contact of the big copper trolleys with some telephone wires caused a lot of fireworks display and several burn-outs.

The stone walk in front of C. J. Ball's property on Center street was put down by Will Walters, and Mr. Ball figures that the total cost is only 7 cents a square foot. Mr. Walters apparently can pay just as good a walk as Detroit parties and certainly the cost is much less.

We have never yet heard of an accident occurring where the F & P M crosses the highway at the Northville-Plymouth town line just north of Phoenix. With safety switches and proper precautions we fail to see much more necessity for a tunnel on the part of the street car company at this point than at any other crossing along the route.

The ladies of the Home Missionary society of the Methodist church to the number of about twenty met at the home of Mrs. Elia Woodman last Friday afternoon and tied off two comfortable after which supper was served and later on in the evening a "young" gentleman drove up with his two-seated carriage and conveyed all the ladies to their homes.

The Teachers' association of Wayne county will feel very grateful to County School Commissioner Yost for his endeavors to save their paying association fees. He has arranged with State Superintendent Hammond to pay all incidental expenses of the County Teachers' association out of the institute fund, thereby saving superintendents, principals and High school teachers, who do not feel the need of the academic work done at the Summer Institute, some remuneration for their institute fees, and at the same time relieving district school teachers of the necessity of paying association dues.

All intending to join the Young People's Class in Dancing should attend to-night.

"I wish to express my thanks to the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for having put on the market such a wonderful medicine," says W. W. Massengill of Benmont, Texas. There are many thousands of mothers whose children have been saved from attacks of dysentery and cholera infantum who must also feel thankful. It is for sale by Geo. C. Hurst Druggist.

We issue certificates payable on demand in gold coin, with interest at 4% for the exact time between 1 month and 1 year.

J. S. Lapham & Co.
BANKERS,

ESTABLISHED 1869.

Don't forget to attend Dancing School to-night.

Mark Twain has an article on Christian Science in the October Cosmopolitan.

Elliot and Tatham will resume their Saturday night dances at Princes' rink on Saturday evening Oct. 14. Five cents.

So far this season L. L. Brooks has purchased about 4,000 barrels of apples. The prices have ranged from $75 to $1.50 per barrel for the fruit.

The Dry Goods, Clothing, Boot and Shoe Store commence their early closing movement week after next. Please remember the date—Oct. 16.

The Wayne County Teachers' association will meet at Belleville, Nov. 2 and discuss "Teaching of reading in the eighth grades," "Nature study in the grades," "How to manage restless and disobedient children," "How to use papers for current events." The speakers will be Wm. Lightbody, Fanny Begole, George Rogers, G. R. Brandt, Fred Corbett and Grace Houghton.

The D & N W. electric railway company has its line graded to within a few miles of Northville. The gang of men finished as far as Powers' cheese factory last Saturday night, but the work from that point into Northville will, on account of the big hills, necessarily be slow. At one point this side of the Simmons place there is a mile requiring about eleven foot fill.

The contract for furnishing the electric lighting plant has been let to the Northville Construction company for $27,500 as will be seen by the council proceedings published elsewhere. The plant will be erected on a piece of land purchased of W. P. Yerkes near the Beal avenue bridge on the North side of the street. The Construction company has been reorganized and now consists of L. A. Babbitt and C. A. Sessions and W. H. Ambler.

While driving down Main street Saturday with his house on a wagon, stove repair outfit G. P. Allen met with a funny little accident or else the accident met him. The wheels of his wagon caught along the side of the street car track when he tried to cross and turn down Church street and during the sliding and slewing, the outfit was turned wrong side up. Frank Macomber caught the horse and then the house commenced to open up and midst all kinds of tools and repairs Allen crawled out and except for a couple of skinned shins on the proprietor nothing was injured.

To Close Evenings at 8:00 O'clock.

The undersigned Northville business men have agreed to close their stores at 8:00 o'clock each evening, from Oct. 16, to April 1, next, excepting Saturdays and from Dec. 11, to 25. T. J. Perkins & Co., C. A. Sessions, Star Clothing House, Stark Bros. and T. G. Richardson.

$5.00 Reward.

A reward of $5.00 will be given by the undersigned for sufficient proof to arrest and convict any person of killing quail or partridge during the closed season within five miles of Northville.

THE NORTHVILLE GUN CLUB.

To Cure Constipation Forever.
Take Cascarets, Candy Cathartic, 10c or 25c. If C. C. C. fail to cure, druggists refund money.

LUMBER

Well Seasoned Lumber will be scarce later on. Better provide for your wants in the Lumber line while you can get dry stock.

C. L.

Dubuar Lumber Co.

RETAIL LUMBER DEALERS

Northville, Mich.

TELEPHONE

The law recently passed relating to the change in the percentage of interest legal and allowed, in the state of Michigan, went into effect Friday. Probably there were many among business men who were not aware of the fact, and some odd complications may result. Under the old law, in force up to September 22, the legal rate in Michigan was 6 per cent with 5 per cent allowed by consent. On and after the 22d the legal rate is reduced to 5 per cent while the allowed rate is but 7 per cent. All paper, therefore, which was executed before the 22d bears a legal rate, while that which was executed thereafter will bear the new.

Said a small property owner to the Record the other day, "While I cannot give much for the promotion of the prosperity of the town, I am always willing to do something. I hope I will never occupy the position in the community that will cause committees to say, 'There is no use going to him, he will not subscribe.' If I ever get that reputation I hope I will soon cease to be a citizen. If there is any man to be despised in a thriving place, it is he whom they never call upon for help to further local progress." That man has the right idea. He esteems the worth of living in a pushing community, and desires to do his part toward promoting prosperity.

The bishop of the M. E. church who made the Michigan appointments began to wish he had left his appointments as he announced them. In some way they have had ministers on the run ever since he allowed some one to influence a change from the announced list over around Northville. Every time a deal is made some one kicks. The presiding elder went and saw the bishop and they tried to fix things, but the fixtures won't pan out. Northville does not seem to get any one in Mr. Ward's place and can't keep Ward. As fast as some new assignment is made, then there's a protest from the place affected. We expect the bishop to direct us to fill that pulpit. We can do it if ordered. And we know just what kind of preaching is needed there too.—Adrian Press.

On the 10th of December 1897 Rev. S. A. Donahoe, pastor M. E. church, South Pt. Pleasant W. V., contracted a severe cold which was attended from the beginning by violent coughing. He says: "After resorting to a number of so-called 'spasms,' usually kept in the house to no purpose, I purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which I used night and day. I most cheerfully recommend it to the public. For sale by Geo. C. Hurst Druggist."

EXCURSIONISTS STOP AT LIBRARY PARK HOTEL,
BEAUMER & FRANK PROP.
European Plan. Rooms 50c to $1.50 per day.
Meals, 25c.
Elevator, Electric Lights, Return Call Bells in Every Room, Electric Fire Alarm Bells.
DETROIT, - MICH.

Perpetual Motion? Interest!

It works
When you cannot work;
On a rainy day;
While you sleep;
While you are awake.
It never stops.

Deposit your savings in

NORTHVILLE
State Savings Bank

3 Per Cent INTEREST PAID!

YOUR COMMERCIAL
ACCOUNTS SOLICITED.

OFFICERS.

L. W. SIMMONS, President
E. A. CHAPMAN, Vice President
L. A. BABBITT, Cashier

Banking Hours
9 to 12 a. m., 12:30 to 3:30 p. m.

Dr. W. C. Walker

The successful specialist of Detroit, Mich., will make the following regular monthly visits

PARK HOUSE,

Northville, Tuesday, Oct. 10th.

MILFORD HOUSE

Milford, Wednesday, Sept. 11th

Office Hours: 9:00 a. m. to 6:00 p. m.

SPECIALTIES:

Nervous Diseases, and

Diseases of the Stomach, Heart, Liver and

Kidneys, Chronic Catarrh, Blood and Skin

Diseases. Special

Treatment for Weak

Men and Women, and all Diseases of the

Genito-Urinary System

Consultation

Free.

Dr. Walker has made a specialty of the above diseases for number of years and his success is well known.

No cases will be taken for treatment unless there is a possibility of a cure and he will so inform you.

All wishing to consult the Doctor are requested to bring two to four ounces of urine, first passed in the morning preferred for analysis. Remember date of visit.

Those unable to see him may address,

W. C. WALKER, M. D.,

Lock Box 78

Detroit, Mich.

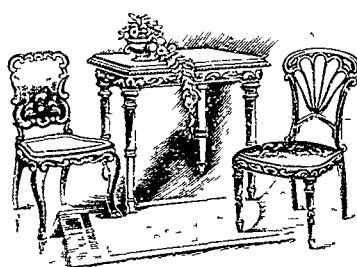

Jardiniere Stands

... GALORE ...

AT SNAP
PRICES.

Get One While They're Going.

SANDS & PORTER.

DR. R. M. JOHNSON, PHYSICIAN AND Surgeon. Office Swift building Main street; residence 114 Center street. Calls promptly attended day or night. Office hours 1:00 to 9:00 p. m. Telephone connection, day or night.

DR. T. S. MURDOCK, RESIDENCE 145 Main street. Office hours at home from 12:00 m. to 2:30 p. m. Forenoon and evenings at Murdock Bros. Drug store, Northville. Calls in town or country, answered promptly. Phone 93. -2271

E. N. ROOT, DENTAL PARLORS, 60 Center street. St. Louis, Mo. and Vitalize air administered. All work guaranteed and prices reasonable. Phone 363.

DR. F. CARROTHERS, DENTIST, OF 605 over T. G. S. store. Main street. Preservation of the Natural Teeth. Crown and Bridge Work a Specialty. Phone 422.

J. B. HOAR, DENTAL PARLORS, OF 47 Main street, Northville. Satisfaction guaranteed on all kinds of Dental work. Teeth extracted without pain by use of vitalizer. For sale by all druggists.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

DR. T. H. TURNER, HOMEOPATHIC Physician and Surgeon. Office and residence corner Wing and Main street. Office hours, 7:00 to 9:00 a. m., 12:00 to 2:00 p. m., 7:00 to 9:00 p. m. Night calls promptly attended. Telephone, 491.

DR. T. B. HENRY, PHYSICIAN AND Surgeon. Office and residence, 31 Main street. Office hours 9:00 to 10:00 a. m., 1:00 to 3:00 p. m., and 7:00 to 9:00 p. m. Night calls promptly attended. Telephone, 491.

J. HENRY SMITH
Teacher
of Music.
(Piano, Organ and Singing)
Terms reasonable. Address or call at 30 High st., Northville.

THE CHEAPEST
place to get Flower Pots, Jarlinettes, Brass, Curtain Rods and other Bazaar Goods is at Mrs. COLEBURN'S BAZAAR

Cash.
Highest market prices for EGGS, FOWLS,
SPRING CHICKENS,
DUCKS, EGGS,
AND TURKEYS.
Bring them to the Corner Feed Store.

Perrin's
Livery, Feed and Sale Stable.
106 Bus to and from all Trains.
Best Rigs in Town. Telephone Connection.
F. N. PERRIN, Prop.

Some of the reasons why you should buy your milk at
BENTON'S DAIRY:
FIRST. Having been nine years in the business we know something about the handling of milk.
SECOND. We produce all our milk while we have of years back been compelled to buy milk at times, we have this season increased our dairy to the full extent of our customers' and while increasing quantity we have not failed to raise the quality.
THIRD. The thorough, efficient clean and wholesome way of handling has given us the reputation of furnishing milk for infants that has brought forth the results looked for from the most fond and loving mother.

1st is why they do.
2nd is why you should
3rd is why you will

Calling Cards!

Special prices for Engraving
Just the thing for Present.

50 Cards and Plate - 90c
50 Cards from Your Plate - 60c

THE RECORD PRINTERY.
Northville.

Ask Him! Who?
JONES OF BINGHAMTON,
BINGHAMTON, N. Y.
What? Why on Scales
"He Pays the Freight."

DON'T BE FOOLED!
The market is being flooded with worthless imitations of
ROCKY MOUNTAIN
TEA.
To protect the public we call special attention to our trademark, printed on every package. Demand the genuine.
For Sale by all druggists.

NEIGHBORHOOD

Salem-News.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher of Corinna are visiting Salem friends this week.

Mrs. Lina Hamilton died at her home near Pebbles Corners on Thursday of last week.

The Salem Farmers' club meeting for October which was to have been held at Wm. Jarvis' this week has been postponed to Oct. 11, on account of the Ann Arbor fair.

Mead's Mills.

Arthur Wilkinson is having apples to Detroit.

Our school is progressing nicely under Miss Spicer's care.

When will the electric cars be running? Echo answers, when?

Miss Avis Greene is spending a few days with Mrs. Clara Leslie at Geddes.

Mrs. Cal Stevens visited Wednesday and Thursday at Ypsilanti with her aunt, Mrs. Adelaide Sly.

Mrs. Joseph Kyle of Commerce and son from Chicago were visitors at David Barber's last Sunday.

Wixom News.

Dame rumor says we may soon hear wedding bells.

Misses Anna and Allie Madison visited at Novi last week.

Mrs. Taylor visited with Mrs. Skinner at Milford Tuesday.

Mrs. Shannon and daughter Grace visited Northville friends Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Burch and Mrs. Elizabeth Burch of Milford were Wixom visitors Tuesday.

Our hardware merchants here are filling up their store in fine shape with stoves of every description.

Rev. Dr. Everett Chambers of Buffalo, a brother of A. F. Chambers of this village died last week Tuesday.

Mrs. Phillips and son George and daughter Mame leave here this week for Chicago where they expect to make their home.

The pumpkin pie social held at Mr. Parker's last Saturday evening was not as well attended as usual but a pleasant time was reported.

Wm. Lee has built an addition to his house. John Bannell a new stoop on his house and Lester Lee has had a new wall built under his house.

Mr. and Mrs. Heath and Mrs. Hodges were New Hudson visitors Saturday. Mr. Heath is going to make us feel quite chilled with a fine cement walk on Main street.

Mrs. J. Sibley and son Standish are here this week for Detroit. She will keep house there for the boys while they attend school. Mr. and Mrs. Moses expect to occupy a part of Mr. Sibley's house while they are in the city.

Walled Lake News.

J. J. Moore has been quite sick the past week.

The wire granite ware, etc., at C. I. Ross.

Mrs. W. S. Parmenter is visiting friends at Pontiac.

Arthur Lough has been suffering from an attack of tonsillitis.

Miss Carrie Baldwin of New York is visiting her cousin, Mrs. Oliver Cronk.

Ben Arnold has been quite sick with pleurisy this week but is able to be out again.

Mrs. Aleck Kenyon and daughter of Ontario are spending a few weeks at J. G. Kenyon's.

Miss Florence Strong of Chicago visited her brother, John Strong, here the first of the week.

Jos. Taylor and family and Dan Taylor started for Virginia Wednesday where they expect to make their home.

Our new landlord, Mr. Thompson, took possession of the hotel this week. Mr. Nichols moved to his new house lately occupied by Mr. Thompson.

The funeral of Daniel Sly, a former resident of this place, was held at the Methodist church Tuesday. Rev. Mr. Maryn officiating. The remains were brought here from Bangor where he had lived for the past few years with his daughter. Many old friends and neighbors were in attendance at the funeral to pay their last respects to a man who was respected and honored by all. Deceased was a few weeks over ninety years of age. The remains were placed in the cemetery here by the Rev. Mr. Sly, who died a few years ago.

A Frightful Blunder

Will often cause a horrible burn, Scald, Cut or Bruise. Buckle's Arnica Salve, the best in the world will kill the pain and promptly heal it. Cures Old Sores, Ulcers, Eruptions, Boils, Fevers, Corns, all Skin Eruptions. Best Fine cure on earth. Only 25 cts a box. Cure guaranteed. Sold by G. C. Hueston, Druggist, 1-5

WAYNE HOTEL, DETROIT
AMERICAN AND EUROPEAN PLAN.
$2.50 to $5.00
SINGLE MEALS, 60c. 1-10 CENTS CAFE.

HEROES IN THE LAND PARADE

Second Spectacle of the Dewey Celebration Saturday.

THE OLYMPIA'S SAILORS LEAD.

Form a Guard of Honor for the Carriage Containing the Admiral and Mayor Van Wyck - Sixteen States Represented in the Procession.

Before the eyes of a countless host passed the great land parade of the Dewey celebration in New York, on Saturday, Sept. 30th.

The parade started from Grant's tomb at 11 a. m. It formed in the avenue and cross streets east of Riverside drive between One Hundred and Fourteenth street on the south, One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street on the north and Columbus avenue on the extreme west.

The troops were forming while Admiral Dewey was on his way by boat from the foot of Warren street to Claremont. He reached the latter point at 10.30, and half an hour was consumed in placing the guests and their escorts in carriages in the proper order.

Olympia's Men Led.

There were 2,000 sailors and marines in line. The men of the Olympia were at the head of the column, marching directly in front of the four-horse carriage containing Admiral Dewey and the mayor. Sousa's band of 180 pieces, the finest marching band ever got together, furnished the music for the Olympia's tars.

In the naval division were the officers and men who destroyed Cervera's fleet off Santiago and Montezuma's fleet in Manila bay.

In the two carriages immediately following the admiral were four of Dewey's captains at Manila - Coglian, Wildes, Dyer and Lamberton.

Every branch of the service was represented in the 2,000 troops forming the regular army division, including the West Point cadets.

Practically the entire strength of the national guard of New York, 15,000 men, were in line, with Gov. Theodore Roosevelt riding at their head, squadron A acting as his special escort.

Fifteen other states had 10,000 men in line. The visiting troops marched in the order of the admission of their states to the union - namely, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Georgia, Connecticut, Maryland, South Carolina, North Carolina, Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, Maine, Florida and Texas.

Famous military organizations which have done much to give luster to the American army were in line, also the younger veterans, who gave it new glory during the war with Spain.

ADMIRAL RECEIVES HIS MEDAL

Grateful Words from the Recipient of All Unprecedented Honors

New York, Sept. 30 - Admiral Dewey made the longest speech of his life when he responded to Mayor Van Wyck's welcome to New York. He said:

"Mr. Mayor and Gentlemen - Of course it would be needless for me to attempt to make a speech, but my heart appreciates all that you have said."

"How it is that you have overrated my work so much I cannot understand. It is beyond anything I can conceive of why there should be such an upsurge of the country. I simply did what any naval captain in the service would have done. I believe."

Admiral said Mayor Van Wyck "no tongue can ever utter or pen write an overestimate of what you did for your country. The city of New York has made to commemorate this reception to you, the hero of the Spanish-American war, a badge, a memorial of which they desire I should present to you in commemoration of the event."

"How splendid! exclaimed Admiral Dewey as he received the medal. 'Oh, that is too beautiful. I am sure that it will drop off my back.'

"At Reception Dress."

Col. John Jacobus was the chief of the procession. He rode at the head of the Manhattan regiment of Spanish war veterans.

Committee on Land Parade.

Parade of 20,000 men from the Olympia.

Parade of 20,000 men from the Olympia.

Parade of 20,000 men from the Olympia.

Parade of 20,000 men from the Olympia.

Parade of 20,000 men from the Olympia.

Parade of 20,000 men from the Olympia.

Parade of 20,000 men from the Olympia.

Parade of 20,000 men from the Olympia.

New York aidmen.
Naval brigade North Atlantic squadron United States regulars.
Governor Roosevelt.
New York National Guard.
Governor Stone of Pennsylvania.
Pennsylvania state troops.
Governor of New Jersey.
New Jersey state troops.
Governor of Georgia.
Georgia state troops.
Connecticut state troops.
Maryland state troops.
Governor of South Carolina.
South Carolina state troops.
Governor of New Hampshire.
New Hampshire state troops.
Governor of North Carolina.
North Carolina state troops.
Governor of Ohio.
Ohio state troops.
Indiana state troops.
Mississippi state troops.
Maine state troops.
Florida state troops.
Texas state troops.
District of Columbia troops.
General O. O. Howard.
War veterans.
Navy veterans.
Colonel John Jacobus Astor.
Astor Battery.
Spanish-American volunteers.

No parade that ever marched in this city has marched over a route so magnificently decorated as are the thoroughfares through which the procession passed. The nearest approach to the festival dress of the city was during the Washington centennial celebration of ten years ago.

A temporary arch, since perpetuated, was erected for that event in Washington Square, but this structure in elaborateness of detail and magnificence of adornment fell far short of the splendid creation in the shadow of which Admiral Dewey reviewed the parade at Madison Square.

To perpetuate the Washington arch cost $25,000. The sculptural work alone on the Dewey triumphal arch has an estimated value of $400,000, all contributed gratis by the members of the National Sculpture society. No such monument as this was ever erected in any country for merely temporary purposes.

In six hours the troops passed under it and then the direct object for which it was built was achieved.

From Thirty-fourth street to the northern colonnade of the arch at Twenty-sixth street the troops passed through an aisle of magnificently decorated triumphal pillars, as beautiful in their way as the arch to which they led.

Behind all the others came 1,200 of the host who fought the battles of '61-'65 most of them union veterans, a few confederates - the former under the old one-armed warrior, Gen. O. O. Howard the latter under Gen. Roger A. Pryor.

Most inspiring of all was the scene when the admiral's carriage turned from Seventy-second street into Central Park west. Banked high on a stand against the park wall were 2,200 school children in blue and white so arranged as to spell the word "Dewey," and when the admiral appeared the little ones sang in unison, "See, the Conquering Hero Comes."

The only special halt in the parade was made at this point to give the admiral a few minutes to see and hear the little ones.

Entertainment for Crew.

The men behind the guns of the Olympia had their particular innings in the celebration at night at the Waldorf Astoria and if they happened to be weary after marching in the long parade, the smoker buffet lunches and vaudeville performance arranged for their enjoyment were doubly attractive.

There were 450 jockies at the smoker, 250 from the Olympia twenty-five each from the ships in Sampson's squadron, the New York Brooklyn, Massachusetts and Texas and seventy-five from all the other navy vessels in the parade.

The smoker began at 8 o'clock and the lunch, which was really something more, was served the first thing.

Dewey Day at Santiago, Cuba.

Santiago de Cuba, Sept. 30 - The Americans in Santiago de Cuba celebrated "Dewey day" Friday. The government buildings and the residences of Americans were gayly decorated.

There was a miniature naval parade of jacks on the water together with a band of cannon crackers in the harbor.

The celebration was a most successful one. They are limited to present Admiral Dewey's reported statement that the Philippine archipelago is now under the control of the United States.

Chief of the parade.

Chief of the parade.

Chief of the parade.

Chief of the parade.

Chief of the parade.

Chief of the parade.

Chief of the parade.

Chief of the parade.

Chief of the parade.

Chief of the parade.

Chief of the parade.

Chief of the parade.

Chief of the parade.

Chief of the parade.

Chief of the parade.

Chief of the parade.

Chief of the parade.

BUY A
King's Daughters' Cook Book...

Just the thing to get recipes from to make your Cooking an ease. We have a few now left which can be had for a Coupon and loc.

THIS COUPON and ten cents (40c) gets a King's Daughters' Cook Book at the Record office.

NAME

ADDRESS

Without this Coupon the books are 25c.

By procuring these Books you not only get 50c value for 10c but at the same time you help a worthy cause.

The Record Printery,

Opera House Building.

Northville.

"Modern" Printing.

Opera House Building.
NORTHVILLE, MICHIGAN.
F. S. NEAL, Proprietor.

The wide-awake business man must provide himself with Modern Printing. By "Modern" we mean Printing that is Neatly and Artistically Set with Up-to-date Faces of Type and then Printed on Appropriate Stock with Good Presses by Skilled Pressmen. We are here to provide for the needs of the wide-awake Business Man.

The Record Printery.

THE LAMP THAT LASTS.
The New Rochester.

Fifteen years ago we began the manufacture of centre draft lamps. A dealer bought one of the first and placed it in his show window. Each day it is filled and lighted; occasionally it is cleaned and rewicked. That lamp is good to-day.
Soon as The Rochester was demonstrated a success, a host of imitations sprang up. A few of the better ones still survive; the rest are gone. Why? "You can't fool all the people some of the time," but not all the time.
One New Rochester Lamp in a household is but a beginning. Soon there will be others. Do you want to know why? Write for printed matter if interested.
The Rochester Lamp Co.,
38 Park Place and 33 Barclay St., New York.

For a SUMMER CRUISE take the COAST LINE TO MACKINAC

NEW STEEL
DAWNING
COMFORT
SAFETY

Equipment for the Coast Line to Mackinac.

TOLEDO, DETROIT AND MACKINAC

DETROIT AND CLEVELAND

EVERY DAY AND NIGHT BETWEEN
Cleveland, Put-in-Bay and Toledo.
Send for Illustrated Pamphlet. Address
DETROIT AND CLEVELAND NAVIGATION COMPANY.

MAY'S RUTHVEN'S SECRET

BY JOAN
RUTHERFORD.

CHAPTER II.

How it happened Captain Ruthven could never tell, but he found himself in love with May Brooke, and he knew that the world held no treasure so priceless for him as that pure young heart.

The captain was a brave man. He had met the enemy under the most adverse conditions. Once he had saved the life of a brother in arms at the risk of his own. He had led a forlorn hope. But now his courage failed him and he blushed and trembled like a sensitive girl. He felt that he dared not risk the happiness of his life, that he dared not ask for May Brooke's love, lest she should refuse him. Who was he, he asked himself, that he could hope to win that fair, innocent girl, whose mind and heart were so far above his own? He went to church with her once and knelt by her side. As he listened to her clear, sweet voice, a sense of his own unworthiness came over him and smote him with keen pain. Could this pure, tender girl ever love or care for him?

He could not tell whether she loved him. She was always shy and sensitive. He could not remember that she had ever uttered a single word that was what he called encouraging. He did not know that in the little boy that held all her girlish treasures, wrapped in many folds of tissue paper, lay the spray of hawthorn that he had given her. He did not see her give to that night and morning what she had refused, even in play, to give to him.

He loved her the better for her reserve. Of all charms, better than beauty, far above grace, talents, and accomplishments, he prized the modest, retiring grace that distinguished May Brooke. He knew that, if she once said that she loved him, she would be true to him until death.

It was a daily visitor at Woodbine Cottage, where Miss Brooke, May's aunt, resided. He had some pretext or other for calling constantly. Miss Brooke was a great invalid, she had been ailing for many years, and there were some days when she suffered great pain and required constant attention. One such day came in the hot month of July. From sunrise to sunset she had been in one long agony, and May had soothed and tended her. It was over at last, the cruel pain had worn itself out, and the poor lady longed to be alone and at rest. All that hot day, when the flowers had been parched with thirst, May had spent in the sick room, and now, when the cool evening breeze was bringing relief, Miss Brooke told her to go out into the garden to refresh herself.

"I shall not want you," said the invalid, "go, May, and spend an hour or two out in the open air."

It so happened that Captain Ruthven, restless and unable to remain at home, had come out merely intending to gladden himself by looking at the house where she dwelt. He did not hope to see her, for he knew that her aunt was ill, but in the garden he caught a glimpse of her white dress. The temptation was too strong for him; he opened the gate, and in a few seconds was by her side.

Could he doubt that she loved him? Had he no eyes to see the warm blush that colored the fair face the glad light that came into the shy, sweet eyes? Could he not see how the girl's lips trembled and quivered as she of my brother officers that he did not think I should live. 'Poor Charley,' said his friend, 'I suppose Travers would take his place.' Then, do you know, Miss Brooke, I turned my face to the wall and wept like a child. Who was there to care whether I lived or died? If I died, there would be a military funeral; for a few weeks the men would talk about me, they would give me a gravestone, and on it would say, 'In affectionate remembrance,' and then Travers would take my place. In whose heart would my memory live? Who would shed one tear over my grave? Those are not pleasant thoughts for any man.

May's eyes were filled with tears and then in some broken way the captain asked her to be the one who would love and care for him and brighten his life. He told her how he had learned to love her and how he feared to ask her to be his wife because he felt so unworthy of her.

The sweet face was half turned from him, but in the dim evening light he could see how her cheeks grew pale; he felt the little hands he clasped so tightly in his own tremble and grow cold.

"If you will only love me, May," he pleaded, "and be my wife, I will give my life to you. I will make you the happiest woman in the world. My love shall shield you from every anxiety. Can you care for me?"

She was silent for some minutes, then she turned, and said gently, "I do love you, and I will be true to you until death."

How he thanked her! How his heart filled with gratitude and love! And then Captain Ruthven redeemed his ring twenty times over, and she said nothing against it!

That evening, when Captain Ruthven told the doctor of the treasure that he had won, his friend's calm, sensible face was strangely moved.

"I am glad you are happy, Charley," he said. "You have won the best girl in the world. Take care of her."

He did not cloud the young soldier's happiness by telling him that he had won the only girl he had ever loved; and to this day no one knows why Frank Brent never married.

"I am not jealous," said Captain Ruthven to May one evening, some few weeks before their marriage—at least I think not. I have never been jealous. But I know I am very peculiar. Some of my notions Dr. Brent used to tell me that I should never be married, because I loved so much in a wife."

"You have not shown that in choosing me," remarked May, with a bright smile.

"Indeed I have! You are everything I wished for. I have some inveterate prejudices. I would never have married an authoress or an artist for instance. I have a dislike to them that I could never overcome. I want a sensible, educated companion; but my opinion of a true woman is that her mission begins and ends at home."

"Do not think you are quite right," said May, doubtfully.

"Never mind; we will not argue the question. It is enough for me that I have been so fortunate as to win the dear little wife I have pictured to myself for many years past."

"If I wrote books, then, or painted pictures, you would not marry me?" said May.

"No," said the captain, stoutly; "for in that case I could not make you happy. We should be best apart. But do not talk of such a thing, May. I should sooner expect to see a modest little violet change into a glaring sunflower than to find my little May working and thinking for the world at large instead of me."

"You do not call that selfish, I suppose?" questioned May, with a little laugh.

"All love is more or less so," was the reply, and then the captain went off into a long and learned discourse upon the subject in question.

So the wooing went on through the long bright summer months, and at length the day was settled for the marriage—the tenth of September. Almost all the inhabitants of Upton were in the little church to see it. No such wedding was remembered by the old or the young. It was scarcely to be believed that a brave young officer, wounded in one of the terrible wars that they had read of, had come to their quiet little town and found a wife there. And to think that he should have selected quiet modest little May, whose name had never been so much as mentioned in connection with that of any lover before! If it had been one of those dashing, brilliant Misses Sewell or even Miss Lane, they would not have been so much surprised.

Yet no one could fairly wonder, for a more lovely bride had never been seen in Upton. The sweet face hidden by the white bridal veil, the orange blossoms that crowned the graceful head, the white-robed, slender figure, were all perfect; and many envied the brave captain as he came back with his wife's little hand resting upon his arm. Those who had seen the wedding spoke of it for many a long day afterward. The sun was shining its brightest, the world that morning seemed full of fragrance and melody and beauty.

The children threw flowers in the bride's path and she smiled as her little feet walked over them. They were but a type she thought, of the fair existence opening before her.

The church bells pealed gayly when the young officer and his bride bade adieu to quiet Upton. No one noticed the white pointed look on Dr. Brent's face as he gazed after them. His marriage prospects gave forth the death-knell of the fairest hope of his life.

Captain Ruthven, by his wife's express wish, took her to a quiet little seaside town in North Wales, and their honeymoon was spent there.

CHAPTER III.

Captain Ruthven and his wife lingered by the sea until the autumn was over; and then he brought his wife to London, where he intended to reside during the rest of his stay in England, which would not exceed a year and a half at the most.

They had a pleasant little home in one of the streets leading to Regent's Park. How happy they were! The first trouble that came to them was the death of Miss Brooke. It was sudden at last. Her maid going one morning to call her found her dead, with a smile on her lips and a look on her face such as it had not worn for many years. She had left the whole of her little fortune, amounting to two hundred a year, to May.

"If it were not for you, Charley," said the young wife, "I should be alone in the world. Aunt Bessie was the only relative I had living."

"I always wonder," remarked the captain, "at my own good fortune in winning you. It seems so strange to me that everyone did not want to marry you."

"People did not see me with your eyes," was the laughing reply.

"I was your first lover and your first love," he continued, looking at her sweet face.

"My first, last, and only love, Charley."

"That is some comfort. I should not like to have married a woman who had ever loved another man. I should always fancy she was thinking of him and wishing she had married him instead of me."

"Charley," said May quietly, "you have made one mistake. You said you were not jealous. Now I believe you to be one of the most jealous men that ever lived. Beware of the feeling!"

"I begin to think so too. When I said I was not jealous, I said also that I had never been tried. Remember, May, I have never loved or been loved before; and I know that my wife will never arouse my jealousy."

"No," said May, simply, "I never shall."

So the first six months of their married life passed away, and then Captain Ruthven began to perceive a change in his wife. It was so gradual that he could hardly tell how it first began. She seemed quieter than ever, she had lost in some measure the frank open manner that had charmed him. Once or twice he saw her with a pained, preoccupied look on her face, as though she had some care or trouble of which he knew nothing.

Ever since they had been in London he had spent some hours daily away from home. He had business to attend to, commissions to execute for his friends. Several times when he returned earlier than he had intended, she seemed flushed and agitated, her face flushed, and she seemed more frightened than pleased at seeing him. Captain Ruthven was a jealous man, and he thought much of these little things.

One morning after a walk and restful night, he made up his mind to speak to his wife. She looked at him with a bright smile as he entered the breakfast room. She was arranging some spring flowers in the vases and she looked so bright and beautiful, so happy and loving, as she smiled at him, that the captain's suspicious vanished into the air. Still he had resolved to speak to her, and both in small and great things, he was a man who rigidly adhered to his resolutions.

"May," he said folding the little figure tenderly in his arms, "you have not seemed like yourself lately. I cannot tell how you have changed, but you seem changed to me. Are you not happy?"

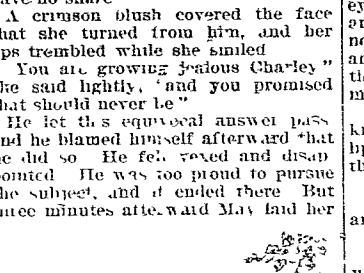

"Happy?" she repeated, looking up with eyes that tried how much she loved him. "I never dreamed even of being as happy as I am now."

"Then you have some secret you are hiding from me? Is there something in your life that I do not know of—something, pain or pleasure, in which I have no share?"

A crimson blush covered the face that she turned from him, and her lips trembled while she smiled.

You are growing jealous, Charley," she said lightly, "and you promised that should never be."

He let this equivocal answer pass, and he blamed himself afterward that he did so. He felt, vexed and disappointed. He was too proud to pursue the subject, and it ended there. But three minutes afterward May had her beautiful head upon his shoulder and whispered to him that he was foolish to be angry, for she loved him so dearly, and then he felt happy again.

HE OPENED THE GATE.

Three or four days after that, Mrs. Ruthven told her husband one morning that she was going out shopping.

Write one or two notes for me before you go," he said, for the captain had fallen into the idle way, so natural to some husbands, of never writing a letter to his wife, but always asking her to do it for him.

May consented, with a smile at his laziness. He watched her as she unlocked her desk and sat down to answer his letter. His eyes dwelt fondly on the sweet earnest, true the graceful figure and the little white hands. He thought how beautiful she was, how gently and truly he loved her, how different his life was now that he called May Brooke wife.

He smiled when he saw how carefully she looked up the little desk. Then she kissed him and said "Good morning." She was going to buy some of the things she thought it time to prepare for taking to India.

For many long, sad weeks Captain Ruthven remembered his wife's face as she gayly bade him "Good morning."

He continued to read his newspaper for sometime after she had gone, and then he remembered another and most important letter that he had forgotten to mention to his wife.

Her desk was locked, but he produced his own bunch of keys and found that one of them opened it. He took some paper, wrote his letter and directed it, but could not find any way with which to seal the envelope. Another of Captain Ruthven's peculiarities was his want of tact. In attractive envelopes—every letter he wrote must be sealed; but in this case it seemed as though the wax was not forthcoming. He turned over one paper after another hurriedly, for he could not bear delay, and he was doing his eyes fell upon a half-sheet of paper, covered with his wife's handwriting, the beautiful, clear running hand that he had so often admired. It was but the half-sheet of what seemed to have been a letter torn hastily in two. At first he put it aside with the rest, then he thought it might be some sudden impulse he turned to it again and read it through.

As he did so his face grew livid and terrible to behold, his lips white and rigid and a flame of wrath gleamed in his eyes. Slowly he read it over and over again, as though to master the full sense of it; then, as if seized with a sudden hope, he compared the handwriting with that upon the envelope which his wife had only a short time before addressed. They were the same—the man in his senses could doubt it. The words were not pleasant ones for a husband to read, for they ran as follows:

"I know I am wrong in writing one mistake does not excuse another. Mine has been the mistake of a lifetime. I married without love and I must endure the consequences of my own act until the end. Do not let me see you again. I can live without love; but I cannot and will not do wrong. Would it would be to see you and open to you again."

And those words were written by his own wife—the woman who had loved him only that he was her "first and only love," the woman who had lived her head upon his shoulder and said how dearly she loved him!

He was a strong man; but his very heart seemed as if he thought of her. He felt the foul wrong she had done him, his marriage without love. Then he remembered her as he had seen her first, so sweet, so modest, so true, the thought of the golden hour when the lime-trees "when he had asked her to be his wife, and she had promised to be true to him until death. He could not realize the fact that this innocent child had played him false, had deceived him, with the most cruel deceit. Her looks, her words, her love had all been lies; for she had written to him one thing and she had married without love. All the fairy fabric of his happiness fell to the ground—the hope and the love of his life died in that hour. The only woman he had ever loved was false and had never cared for him.

He groaned aloud as these thoughts ran through his mind. He would far rather have seen her dead at his feet than have to live and scorn her. She was dead to him. Never should she deceive him with her sweet words and smiles again. Better the loneliness that shadowed his life than this false love. He could go back to India and live as he had lived—alone.

Then his self-control gave way and he laid his head down upon the table and wept like a child. He did not know how time passed, he never heard the hours chime. He was aroused by a light touch upon his shoulder, and a sweet voice said gently—

"Charley, you are asleep? You lazy boy, to waste this bright morning so!"

He raised his head and his wife's eyes fell upon his white, haggard face and upon the sheet of paper that lay near him. The color left even her lips, and she clasped her hands together, as though she would plead to him for mercy.

Yes," he said honestly, "you see I know it all but only from your own lips will I confess you. Did you write this?"

"Yes," she answered faintly.

"And you have knowingly, willingly, and wantonly deceived me?"

"Yes, Mr. Charley."

"Hush!" he said sternly, "not a word! Have you any explanation to give that could lessen the wrong you have done?"

"None," she answered, "save that I could not help it. Some day I meant to have told you all."

She did not speak angrily, but rather as one who quietly deplored.

"And you live without sorrow now?" she asked, "Can you stand there and look at me and not feel that it would have been better for you to have died than have deceived me as you have done?"

"Charley," she began trembling as she spoke, but he interrupted her again.

"I will not have you call me so," he said. "You are no wife of mine! Only answer me one more question. How long has this been going on? Speak truly!"

(To be continued next week.)

was his want of tact. In attractive envelopes—every letter he wrote must be sealed; but in this case it seemed as though the wax was not forthcoming. He turned over one paper after another hurriedly, for he could not bear delay, and he was doing his eyes fell upon a half-sheet of paper, covered with his wife's handwriting, the beautiful, clear running hand that he had so often admired. It was but the half-sheet of what seemed to have been a letter torn hastily in two. At first he put it aside with the rest, then he thought it might be some sudden impulse he turned to it again and read it through.

As he did so his face grew livid and terrible to behold, his lips white and rigid and a flame of wrath gleamed in his eyes. Slowly he read it over and over again, as though to master the full sense of it; then, as if seized with a sudden hope, he compared the handwriting with that upon the envelope which his wife had only a short time before addressed. They were the same—the man in his senses could doubt it. The words were not pleasant ones for a husband to read, for they ran as follows:

"I know I am wrong in writing one mistake does not excuse another. Mine has been the mistake of a lifetime. I married without love and I must endure the consequences of my own act until the end. Do not let me see you again. I can live without love; but I cannot and will not do wrong. Would it would be to see you and open to you again."

And those words were written by his own wife—the woman who had loved him only that he was her "first and only love," the woman who had lived her head upon his shoulder and said how dearly she loved him!

He was a strong man; but his very heart seemed as if he thought of her. He felt the foul wrong she had done him, his marriage without love. Then he remembered her as he had seen her first, so sweet, so modest, so true, the thought of the golden hour when the lime-trees "when he had asked her to be his wife, and she had promised to be true to him until death. He could not realize the fact that this innocent child had played him false, had deceived him, with the most cruel deceit. Her looks, her words, her love had all been lies; for she had written to him one thing and she had married without love. All the fairy fabric of his happiness fell to the ground—the hope and the love of his life died in that hour. The only woman he had ever loved was false and had never cared for him.

He groaned aloud as these thoughts ran through his mind. He would far rather have seen her dead at his feet than have to live and scorn her. She was dead to him. Never should she deceive him with her sweet words and smiles again. Better the loneliness that shadowed his life than this false love. He could go back to India and live as he had lived—alone.

Then his self-control gave way and he laid his head down upon the table and wept like a child. He did not know how time passed, he never heard the hours chime. He was aroused by a light touch upon his shoulder, and a sweet voice said gently—

"Charley, you are asleep? You lazy boy, to waste this bright morning so!"

He raised his head and his wife's eyes fell upon his white, haggard face and upon the sheet of paper that lay near him. The color left even her lips, and she clasped her hands together, as though she would plead to him for mercy.

Yes," he said honestly, "you see I know it all but only from your own lips will I confess you. Did you write this?"

"Yes," she answered faintly.

"And you have knowingly, willingly, and wantonly deceived me?"

"Yes, Mr. Charley."

"Hush!" he said sternly, "not a word! Have you any explanation to give that could lessen the wrong you have done?"

"None," she answered, "save that I could not help it. Some day I meant to have told you all."

She did not speak angrily, but rather as one who quietly deplored.

"And you live without sorrow now?" she asked, "Can you stand there and look at me and not feel that it would have been better for you to have died than have deceived me as you have done?"

"Charley," she began trembling as she spoke, but he interrupted her again.

"I will not have you call me so," he said. "You are no wife of mine! Only answer me one more question. How long has this been going on? Speak truly!"

(To be continued next week.)

So the first six months of their married life passed away, and then Captain Ruthven began to perceive a change in his wife. It was so gradual that he could hardly tell how it first began. She seemed quieter than ever, she had lost in some measure the frank open manner that had charmed him. Once or twice he saw her with a pained, preoccupied look on her face, as though she had some care or trouble of which he knew nothing.

Ever since they had been in London he had spent some hours daily away from home. He had business to attend to, commissions to execute for his friends. Several times when he returned earlier than he had intended, she seemed flushed and agitated, her face flushed, and she seemed more frightened than pleased at seeing him. Captain Ruthven was a jealous man, and he thought much of these little things.

One morning after a walk and restful night, he made up his mind to speak to his wife. She looked at him with a bright smile as he entered the breakfast room. She was arranging some spring flowers in the vases and she looked so bright and beautiful, so happy and loving, as she smiled at him, that the captain's suspicious vanished into the air. Still he had resolved to speak to her, and both in small and great things, he was a man who rigidly adhered to his resolutions.

"May," he said folding the little figure tenderly in his arms, "you have not seemed like yourself lately. I cannot tell how you have changed, but you seem changed to me. Are you not happy?"

"Happy?" she repeated, looking up with eyes that tried how much she loved him. "I never dreamed even of being as happy as I am now."

"Then you have some secret you are hiding from me? Is there something in your life that I do not know of—something, pain or pleasure, in which I have no share?"

A crimson blush covered the face that she turned from him, and her lips trembled while she smiled.

You are growing jealous, Charley," she said lightly, "and you promised that should never be."

He let this equivocal answer pass, and he blamed himself afterward that he did so. He felt, vexed and disappointed. He was too proud to pursue the subject, and it ended there. But three minutes afterward May had her beautiful head upon his shoulder and whispered to him that he was foolish to be angry, for she loved him so dearly, and then he felt happy again.

Three or four days after that, Mrs. Ruthven told her husband one morning that she was going out shopping.

Write one or two notes for me before you go," he said, for the captain had fallen into the idle way, so natural to some husbands, of never writing a letter to his wife, but always asking her to do it for him.

May consented, with a smile at his laziness. He watched her as she unlocked her desk and sat down to answer his letter. His eyes dwelt fondly on the sweet earnest, true the graceful figure and the little white hands. He thought how beautiful she was, how gently and truly he loved her, how different his life was now that he called May Brooke wife.

He smiled when he saw how carefully she looked up the little desk. Then she kissed him and said "Good morning." She was going to buy some of the things she thought it time to prepare for taking to India.

For many long, sad weeks Captain Ruthven remembered his wife's face as she gayly bade him "Good morning."

He continued to read his newspaper for sometime after she had gone, and then he remembered another and most important letter that he had forgotten to mention to his wife.

Her desk was locked, but he produced his own bunch of keys and found that one of them opened it. He took some paper, wrote his letter and directed it, but could not find any way with which to seal the envelope. Another of Captain Ruthven's peculiarities was his want of tact. In attractive envelopes—every letter he wrote must be sealed; but in this case it seemed as though the wax was not forthcoming. He turned over one paper after another hurriedly, for he could not bear delay, and he was doing his eyes fell upon a half-sheet of paper, covered with his wife's handwriting, the beautiful, clear running hand that he had so often admired. It was but the half-sheet of what seemed to have been a letter torn hastily in two. At first he put it aside with the rest, then he thought it might be some sudden impulse he turned to it again and read it through.

As he did so his face grew livid and terrible to behold, his lips white and rigid and a flame of wrath gleamed in his eyes. Slowly he read it over and over again, as though to master the full sense of it; then, as if seized with a sudden hope, he compared the handwriting with that upon the envelope which his wife had only a short time before addressed. They were the same—the man in his senses could doubt it. The words were not pleasant ones for a husband to read, for they ran as follows:

"I know I am wrong in writing one mistake does not excuse another. Mine has been the mistake of a lifetime. I married without love and I must endure the consequences of my own act until the end. Do not let me see you again. I can live without love; but I cannot and will not do wrong. Would it would be to see you and open to you again."

And those words were written by his own wife—the woman who had loved him only that he was her "first and only love," the woman who had lived her head upon his shoulder and said how dearly she loved him!

He was a strong man; but his very heart seemed as if he thought of her. He felt the foul wrong she had done him, his marriage without love. Then he remembered her as he had seen her first, so sweet, so modest, so true, the thought of the golden hour when the lime-trees "when he had asked her to be his wife, and she had promised to be true to him until death. He could not realize the fact that this innocent child had played him false, had deceived him, with the most cruel deceit. Her looks, her words, her love had all been lies; for she had written to him one thing and she had married without love. All the fairy fabric of his happiness fell to the ground—the hope and the love of his life died in that hour. The only woman he had ever loved was false and had never cared for him.

He groaned aloud as these thoughts ran through his mind. He would far rather have seen her dead at his feet than have to live and scorn her. She was dead to him. Never should she deceive him with her sweet words and smiles again. Better the loneliness that shadowed his life than this false love. He could go back to India and live as he had lived—alone.

Then his self-control gave way and he laid his head down upon the table and wept like a child. He did not know how time passed, he never heard the hours chime. He was aroused by a light touch upon his shoulder, and a sweet voice said gently—

"Charley, you are asleep? You lazy boy, to waste this bright morning so!"

He raised his head and his wife's eyes fell upon his white, haggard face and upon the sheet of paper that lay near him. The color left even her lips, and she clasped her hands together, as though she would plead to him for mercy.

Yes," he said honestly, "you see I know it all but only from your own lips will I confess you. Did you write this?"

"Yes," she answered faintly.

"And you have knowingly, willingly, and wantonly deceived me?"

"Yes, Mr. Charley."

"Hush!" he said sternly, "not a word! Have you any explanation to give that could lessen the wrong you have done?"

"None," she answered, "save that I could not help it. Some day I meant to have told you all."

She did not speak angrily, but rather as one who quietly deplored.

"And you live without sorrow now?" she asked, "Can you stand there and look at me and not feel that it would have been better for you to have died than have deceived me as you have done?"

"Charley," she began trembling as she spoke, but he interrupted her again.

"I will not have you call me so," he said. "You are no wife of mine! Only answer me one more question. How long has this been going on? Speak truly!"

(To be continued next week.)

So the first six months of their married life passed away, and then Captain Ruthven began to perceive a change in his wife. It was so gradual that he could hardly tell how it first began. She seemed quieter than ever, she had lost in some measure the frank open manner that had charmed him. Once or twice he saw her with a pained, preoccupied look on her face, as though she had some care or trouble of which he knew nothing.

Ever since they had been in London he had spent some hours daily away from home. He had business to attend to, commissions to execute for his friends. Several times when he returned earlier than he had intended, she seemed flushed and agitated, her face flushed, and she seemed more frightened than pleased at seeing him. Captain Ruthven was a jealous man, and he thought much of these little things.

One morning after a walk and restful night, he made up his mind to speak to his wife. She looked at him with a bright smile as he entered the breakfast room. She was arranging some spring flowers in the vases and she looked so bright and beautiful, so happy and loving, as she smiled at him, that the captain's suspicious vanished into the air. Still he had resolved to speak to her, and both in small and great things, he was a man who rigidly adhered to his resolutions.

"May," he said folding the little figure tenderly in his arms, "you have not seemed like yourself lately. I cannot tell how you have changed, but you seem changed to me. Are you not happy?"

"Happy?" she repeated, looking up with eyes that tried how much she loved him. "I never dreamed even of being as happy as I am now."

"Then you have some secret you are hiding from me? Is there something in your life that I do not know of—something, pain or pleasure, in which I have no share?"

A crimson blush covered the face that she turned from him, and her lips trembled while she smiled.

You are growing jealous, Charley," she said lightly, "and you promised that should never be."

He let this equivocal answer pass, and he blamed himself afterward that he did so. He felt, vexed and disappointed. He was too proud to pursue the subject, and it ended there. But three minutes afterward May had her beautiful head upon his shoulder and whispered to him that he was foolish to be angry, for she loved him so dearly, and then he felt happy again.

Three or four days after that, Mrs. Ruthven told her husband one morning that she was going out shopping.

Write one or two notes for me before you go," he said, for the captain had fallen into the idle way, so natural to some husbands, of never writing a letter to his wife, but always asking her to do it for him.

May consented, with a smile at his laziness. He watched her as she unlocked her desk and sat down to answer his letter. His eyes dwelt fondly on the sweet earnest, true the graceful figure and the little white hands. He thought how beautiful she was, how gently and truly he loved her, how different his life was now that he called May Brooke wife.

He smiled when he saw how carefully she looked up the little desk. Then she kissed him and said "Good morning." She was going to buy some of the things she thought it time to prepare for taking to India.

For many long, sad weeks Captain Ruthven remembered his wife's face as she gayly bade him "Good morning."

He continued to read his newspaper for sometime after she had gone, and then he remembered another and most important letter that he had forgotten to mention to his wife.

Her desk was locked, but he produced his own bunch of keys and found that one of them opened it. He took some paper, wrote his letter and directed it, but could not find any way with which to seal the envelope. Another of Captain Ruthven's peculiarities was his want of tact. In attractive envelopes—every letter he wrote must be sealed; but in this case it seemed as though the wax was not forthcoming. He turned over one paper after another hurriedly, for he could not bear delay, and he was doing his eyes fell upon a half-sheet of paper, covered with his wife's handwriting, the beautiful, clear running hand that he had so often admired. It was but the half-sheet of what seemed to have been a letter torn hastily in two. At first he put it aside with the rest, then he thought it might be some sudden impulse he turned to it again and read it through.

As he did so his face grew livid and terrible to behold, his lips white and rigid and a flame of wrath gleamed in his eyes. Slowly he read it over and over again, as though to master the full sense of it; then, as if seized with a sudden hope, he compared the handwriting with that upon the envelope which his wife had only a short time before addressed. They were the same—the man in his senses could doubt it. The words were not pleasant ones for a husband to read, for they ran as follows:

"I know I am wrong in writing one mistake does not excuse another. Mine has been the mistake of a lifetime. I married without love and I must endure the consequences of my own act until the end. Do not let me see you again. I can live without love; but I cannot and will not do wrong. Would it would be to see you and open to you again."

And those words were written by his own wife—the woman who had loved him only that he was her "first and only love," the woman who had lived her head upon his shoulder and said how dearly she loved him!

He was a strong man; but his very heart seemed as if he thought of her. He felt the foul wrong she had done him, his marriage without love. Then he remembered her as he had seen her first, so sweet, so modest, so true, the thought of the golden hour when the lime-trees "when he had asked her to be his wife, and she had promised to be true to him until death. He could not realize the fact that this innocent child had played him false, had deceived him, with the most cruel deceit. Her looks, her words, her love had all been lies; for she had written to him one thing and she had married without love. All the fairy fabric of his happiness fell to the ground—the hope and the love of his life died in that hour. The only woman he had ever loved was false and had never cared for him.

He groaned aloud as these thoughts ran through his mind. He would far rather have seen her dead at his feet than have to live and scorn her. She was dead to him. Never should she deceive him with her sweet words and smiles again. Better the loneliness that shadowed his life than this false love. He could go back to India and live as he had lived—alone.

Then his self-control gave way and he laid his head down upon the table and wept like a child. He did not know how time passed, he never heard the hours chime. He was aroused by a light touch upon his shoulder, and a sweet voice said gently—

"Charley, you are asleep? You lazy boy, to waste this bright morning so!"

He raised his head and his wife's eyes fell upon his white, haggard face and upon the sheet of paper that lay near him. The color left even her lips, and she clasped her hands together, as though she would plead to him for mercy.

Yes," he said honestly, "you see I know it all but only from your own lips will I confess you. Did you write this?"

"Yes," she answered faintly.

"And you have knowingly, willingly, and wantonly deceived me?"

"Yes, Mr. Charley."

"Hush!" he said sternly, "not a word! Have you any explanation to give that could lessen the wrong you have done?"

"None," she answered, "save that I could not help it. Some day I meant to have told you all."

She did not speak angrily, but rather as one who quietly deplored.

"And you live without sorrow now?" she asked, "Can you stand there and look at me and not feel that it would have been better for you to have died than have deceived me as you have done?"

"Charley," she began trembling as she spoke, but he interrupted her again.

"I will not have you call me so," he said. "You are no wife of mine! Only answer me one more question. How long has this been going on? Speak truly!"

(To be continued next week.)

So the first six months of their married life passed away, and then Captain Ruthven began to perceive a change in his wife. It was so gradual that he could hardly tell how it first began. She seemed quieter than ever, she had lost in some measure the frank open manner that had charmed him. Once or twice he saw her with a pained, preoccupied look on her face, as though she had some care or trouble of which he knew nothing.

Ever since they had been in London he had spent some hours daily away from home. He had business to attend to, commissions to execute for his friends. Several times when he returned earlier than he had intended, she seemed flushed and agitated, her face flushed, and she seemed more frightened than pleased at seeing him. Captain Ruthven was a jealous man, and he thought much of these little things.

One morning after a walk and restful night, he made up his mind to speak to his wife. She looked at him with a bright smile as he entered the breakfast room. She was arranging some spring flowers in the vases and she looked so bright and beautiful, so happy and loving, as she smiled at him, that the captain's suspicious vanished into the air. Still he had resolved to speak to her, and both in small and great things, he was a man who rigidly adhered to his resolutions.

"May," he said folding the little figure tenderly in his arms, "you have not seemed like yourself lately. I cannot tell how you have changed, but you seem changed to me. Are you not happy?"

"Happy?" she repeated, looking up with eyes that tried how much she loved him. "I never dreamed even of being as happy as I am now."

"Then you have some secret you are hiding from me? Is there something in your life that I do not know of—something, pain or pleasure, in which I have no share?"

A crimson blush covered the face that she turned from him, and her lips trembled while she smiled.

You are growing jealous, Charley," she said lightly, "and you promised that should never be."

He let this equivocal answer pass, and he blamed himself afterward that he did so. He felt, vexed and disappointed. He was too proud to pursue the subject, and it ended there. But three minutes afterward May had her beautiful head upon his shoulder and whispered to him that he was foolish to be angry, for she loved him so dearly, and then he felt happy again.

Three or four days after that, Mrs. Ruthven told her husband one morning that she was going out shopping.

Write one or two notes for me before you go," he said, for the captain had fallen into the idle way, so natural to some husbands, of never writing a letter to his wife, but always asking her to do it for him.

May consented, with a smile at his laziness. He watched her as she unlocked her desk and sat down to answer his letter. His eyes dwelt fondly on the sweet earnest, true the graceful figure and the little white hands. He thought how beautiful she was, how gently and truly he loved her, how different his life was now that he called May Brooke wife.

He smiled when he saw how carefully she looked up the little desk. Then she kissed him and said "Good morning." She was going to buy some of the things she thought it time to prepare for taking to India.

For many long, sad weeks Captain Ruthven remembered his wife's face as she gayly bade him "Good morning."

He continued to read his newspaper for sometime after she had gone, and then he remembered another and most important letter that he had forgotten to mention to his wife.

Her desk was locked, but he produced his own bunch of keys and found that one of them opened it. He took some paper, wrote his letter and directed it, but could not find any way with which to seal the envelope. Another of Captain Ruthven's peculiarities was his want of tact. In attractive envelopes—every letter he wrote must be sealed; but in this case it seemed as though the wax was not forthcoming. He turned over one paper after another hurriedly, for he could not bear delay, and he was doing his eyes fell upon a half-sheet of paper, covered with his wife's handwriting, the beautiful, clear running hand that he had so often admired. It was but the half-sheet of what seemed to have been a letter torn hastily in two. At first he put it aside with the rest, then he thought it might be some sudden impulse he turned to it again and read it through.

As he did so his face grew livid and terrible to behold, his lips white and rigid and a flame of wrath gleamed in his eyes. Slowly he read it over and over again, as though to master the full sense of it; then, as if seized with a sudden hope, he compared the handwriting with that upon the envelope which his wife had only a short time before addressed. They were the same—the man in his senses could doubt it. The words were not pleasant ones for a husband to read, for they ran as follows:

"I know I am wrong in writing one mistake does not excuse another. Mine has been the mistake of a lifetime. I married without love and I must endure the consequences of my own act until the end. Do not let me see you again. I can live without love; but I cannot and will not do wrong. Would it would be to see you and open to you again."

And those words were written by his own wife—the woman who had loved him only that he was her "first and only love," the woman who had lived her head upon his shoulder and said how dearly she loved him!

He was a strong man; but his very heart seemed as if he thought of her. He felt the foul wrong she had done him, his marriage without love. Then he remembered her as he had seen her first, so sweet, so modest, so true, the thought of the golden hour when the lime-trees "when he had asked her to be his wife, and she had promised to be true to him until death. He could not realize the fact that this innocent child had played him false, had deceived him, with the most cruel deceit. Her looks, her words, her love had all been lies; for she had written to him one thing and she had married without love. All the fairy fabric of his happiness fell to the ground—the hope and the love of his life died in that hour. The only woman he had ever loved was false and had never cared for him.

He groaned aloud as these thoughts ran through his mind. He would far rather have seen her dead at his feet than have to live and scorn her. She was dead to him. Never should she deceive him with her sweet words and smiles again. Better the loneliness that shadowed his life than this false love. He could go back to India and live as he had lived—alone.

Then his self-control gave way and he laid his head down upon the table and wept like a child. He did not know how time passed, he never heard the hours chime. He was aroused by a light touch upon his shoulder, and a sweet voice said gently—

"Charley, you are asleep? You lazy boy, to waste this bright morning so!"

He raised his head and his wife's eyes fell upon his white, haggard face and upon the sheet of paper that lay near him. The color left even her lips, and she clasped her hands together, as though she would plead to him for mercy.

Yes," he said honestly, "you see I know it all but only from your own lips will I confess you. Did you write this?"

"Yes," she answered faintly.

"And you have knowingly, willingly, and wantonly deceived me?"

"Yes, Mr. Charley."

"Hush!" he said sternly, "not a word! Have you any explanation to give that could lessen the wrong you have done?"

"None," she answered, "save that I could not help it. Some day I meant to have told you all."

She did not speak angrily, but rather as one who quietly deplored.

"And you live without sorrow now?" she asked, "Can you stand there and look at me and not feel that it would have been better for you to have died than have deceived me as you have done?"

"Charley," she began trembling as she spoke, but he interrupted her again.

"I will not have you call me so," he said. "You are no wife of mine! Only answer me one more question. How long has this been going on? Speak truly!"

(To be continued next week.)

So the first six months of their married life passed away, and then Captain Ruthven began to perceive a change in his wife. It was so gradual that he could hardly tell how it first began. She seemed quieter than ever, she had lost in some measure the frank open manner that had charmed him. Once or twice he saw her with a pained, preoccupied look on her face, as though she had some care or trouble of which he knew nothing.

Ever since they had been in London he had spent some hours daily away from home. He had business to attend to, commissions to execute for his friends. Several times when he returned earlier than he had intended, she seemed flushed and agitated, her face flushed, and she seemed more frightened than pleased at seeing him. Captain Ruthven was a jealous man, and he thought much of these little things.

One morning after a walk and restful night, he made up his mind to speak to his wife. She looked at him with a bright smile as he entered the breakfast room. She was arranging some spring flowers in the vases and she looked so bright and beautiful, so happy and loving, as she smiled at him, that the captain's suspicious vanished into the air. Still he had resolved to speak to her, and both in small and great things, he was a man who rigidly adhered to his resolutions.

"May," he said folding the little figure tenderly in his arms, "you have not seemed like yourself lately. I cannot tell how you have changed, but you seem changed to me. Are you not happy?"

"Happy?" she repeated, looking up with eyes that tried how much she loved him. "I never dreamed even of being as happy as I am now."

"Then you have some secret you are hiding from me?

We Want

to show you our line Caps for Men, Boys Children... We have a large variety of Gloves for Fall and Winter Wear... We have the best line of Horse Blankets we have ever shown at reasonable prices.

SEE

GOODELL,

TELEPHONE - The Novi Man.

THE STAFF OF LIFE IS BREAD

But as long as supplies last most of us want

BUTTER, BEST TEAS, COFFEES, POTATOES,

while some of us want still more in the grocery line. Whatever your wants may be always call at Kerby's and see where prices are right and goods in sight.

Wanted BUTTER AND EGGS.

A. M. Kerby,
NOVI, MICH.

Special Sale Underwear.

Ladies' fine Jersey Vests and Pants, heavily fleeced 2c
Boys' extra heavy fleeced Underwear, all sizes, 25c
Men's heavy fleeced Shirts and Drawers, shirts double breasted 39c
Men's 75c woolen Undershirts 50c
Men's $1, all wool, blue lined Shirts and Drawers 75c
We have everything in the Underwear line and lots of it—Infants, Childrens and adults
Men's Fine Woolen Socks 10c
Men's Overcoats $3.50
An elegant line Kersey and light brown, fancy plaid inside, no lining Overcoats and extra heavy, all wool flannels at $7.50
Heavy Rubber lined Duck Coats $1.00
Lot of $2 heavy Woolen Pants go at $1.50
Good Corduroy Pants $1.75

D. K. SMITH,
Farmington, Michigan.

W. A. DAME, Mgr.
Life of Novato in Detroit

We give Trading Stamps

NEIGHBORHOOD

Novi News.

Evie Frum is at home
Geo. Hogle was in town this week.
You hear those wedding bells again?
Frank Gravelin has moved back to Franklin
Novi was well represented at the Milford fair
Mrs. Winton and Stella Perkins are on the sick list
Mrs. J. L. Becker is visiting in Milford this week
Mrs. Wagoner has bought Mr. Burts house and lot
H. H. Jones and I. W. Bloomer were in Detroit last week
Ed Bellknap has moved into James Monroe's house west of town
Roy Van Atta of Waterford visited at W. D. Stark's over Sunday
Miss Lottie Paulger of Detroit and cousin, Mr. Lapham, of Northville called on friends here Sunday. Miss Effie Eisher accompanied Miss Paul.

That Throbbing Headache

Would quickly leave you, if you used Dr. King's New Life Pills. Thousands of sufferers have proved their matchless merit for Sick and Nervous Headaches. They make pure blood and strong nerves and build up your health. Easy to take. Try them. Only 25 cents. Money back if not cured. Sold by Geo. C. Hueston, Druggist ger home to spend a few weeks in the city.

Mrs. Harry Hammond was a Detroit visitor one day last week.

Miss Blanch Van Atta returned to her home near Emery, Tuesday.

Henry Moore and family have left James Elmore's town residence, returning to their farm east of Novi. The WNDU will hold its annual meeting tomorrow night, Oct. 7, for the election of officers and making preparation for the winter work.

It is rumored that H. Skinner and family are shortly to become residents of Farmington village. Mr. Skinner is said to be looking in the direction of a conductorship on the electric road.

While Herman Schroder and his sister were on their way to the factory one morning last week the horse became frightened at a pile of barrels, throwing the occupants out. Everybody escaped uninjured except for several severe bruises.

The second Literary contest will be given in the Methodist church Saturday evening, Oct. 7. The contestants are the Misses Lida Smith, Susie Danis, Lottie Parks, Lulu Smith, Lulu Becker and Aggie McCrumb. Besides the recitations there is to be some good music. Admission 5 and 10 cents.

Mrs. Jud Richardson's sister, Mrs. Lina Hamilton, whose illness has been noted in the Record, died at her home near Salem last week Thursday. The funeral occurred the following Sunday. Mrs. Hamilton possessed that Christian character which enabled her to win a host of friends. May her example live forever in the wish of many of her friends here who "knew her in to love her."

Lyceum—Detroit.

The scenes depicted in "For her Sake," the Russian military drama which Edwin Gordon Lawrence will present at the Lyceum theatre all this week, are those of a military encampment with its incidental maneuvers and hustle, and lowly none of the serf, the grand palace of the master and the dreary road leading to Siberia. The story deals with nihilists, serfs, Poles, secret police and the Russian nobility. It is, as might be expected, a story of love, hate, intrigue and revenge, in the course of which the peculiar characteristics of the Russian race are shown.

Next week Hoyt's famous "A Trip to Chinatown"

Whitney's - Detroit.

"London Life," a drama in five acts, adapted by Matty Field and Arthur Shirley, had its first production in Detroit this week at the Whitney Opera House. The play is an adaptation from the French drama of "Le Camille," which was very successful in Paris, and the adaptation it is said has been quite popular in London. The story pictured is one of the devotion of a disowned young man to his pretty cousin after she has been compelled to become the bride of another, and of his ultimate triumph over her enemies and persecutors. The plot is well worked out and the climax is startling. "London Life" runs all the week with matinees daily except Wednesday.

Next week Blaney's scenic production of "King of the Opium Ring." This drama is a kaleidoscopic view of life in San Francisco's famous Chinatown and had a long run in New York last season.

A Thousand Tongues

Could not express the rapture of Annie E. Springer of 1125 Howard St., Philadelphia, Pa., when she found that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption had completely cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. All other remedies and doctors could give her no help, but she says of this Royal Cure—"It soon removed the pain in my chest and I can now sleep soundly, something I can scarcely remember doing before." I feel like sounding its praises throughout the streets. So will everyone who knows Dr. King's New Discovery for any trouble of the throat, chest or lungs. Price 50c and $1.00 Trial bottles free at G. C. Hueston's Drug Store, every bottle guaranteed.

Long Timer.

A Birmingham (Eng.) money lender sued for payment of the balance of a loan. The judge made an order for payment at the rate of one penny a month, thus allowing 60 years for the repayment of the money.—N. Y. Post.

During the winter of 1907 Mr. James Reed, one of the leading citizens and merchants of Clay, Clay Co., W. Va., struck his leg against a cake of ice in such a manner as to freeze it severely. It became very much swollen and pained him so badly that he could not walk without the aid of crutches. He was treated by physicians also used several kinds of liniment and two and a half gallons of whisky in bathing it, but nothing gave any relief until he began using Chamberlain's Pain Balm. This brought about a complete cure in a week's time and he believes that had he not used this remedy his leg would have had to be amputated. Pain Balm is unequalled for sprains, bruises and rheumatism. For sale by Geo. Hueston Druggist.

CASTORIA.

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Farmington News.

Mrs. E. F. Holcomb is numbered with the sick.

Genie Lapham of Buffalo is visiting relatives here this week.

Fred Follett has secured a position as clerk in D. K. Smith's store.

Miss Sadie Francis and little Gladys Perry are the happy possessors of new pianos.

Roy Sprague left Wednesday for Ypsilanti where he expects to attend the Normal.

Miss Josie Ward was entertained at the home of Maude Edwards over Sunday.

Miss Bessie Parker left Sunday for Detroit where she will enter the Business college.

Mr. McKinnon and wife will occupy the house owned by Mrs. Sarah Adams, on West Main street.

All who attended the Redford fair report a fine time altho the weather was somewhat unfavorable.

Rev. D. M. Ward and family left Friday for their new home in Eagle May success crown their efforts there.

All who missed the sermon given by the Rev. G. E. Sloan, the new M. E. pastor on Sunday, missed a great treat.

The church services in the future will commence earlier. Epworth League at 6:30 o'clock, preaching service at 7:00.

Miss Jennie Dames who was unable, owing to poor health, to commence school at the beginning of the term, entered Monday.

Don't forget the description Social to be given Oct. 7, at Mr. Kennedy's, for the benefit of the intermediate and primary departments of the schools.

All report a fine time at the party given in honor of Miss Lulu Grace Friday evening. About twenty were present and all left wishing Miss Lulu many happy returns of the day.

The heartfelt sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Ira Tolman in the death of their daughter, Mrs. Emma Bunney, which occurred at their home Tuesday morning. Mrs. Bunney came here from Grand Rapids last summer in hopes of regaining her former health, but all that medical attention could do proved unavailing. Deceased leaves two children and a husband to mourn her loss. The funeral occurred Saturday from the Methodist church, Rev. George Sloan officiating. The remains were interred in the village cemetery.

The Northville Record has a new foreman, who is a "mixer." He "makes up" in the easiest way possible and checks items of correspondence from one place under locals or personals or with correspondence from other places. He never lets his left hand know what his right hand doeth, and we guess he don't know himself. At all events, Neal is having all the blunders to the "new foreman," who has already got half a dozen correspondents cross-eyed. We think Neal used the make up himself and was worried over that vote of thanks.—Adrian Press.

A very pleasant wedding was held at 162 Lafayette Ave., Detroit, on Wednesday of last week, the contracting parties being A. E. McKinnon formerly of Boston and Miss Florence Ranby of Detroit. They were married by Rev. G. E. Sloan of Farmington in the presence of about thirty guests. Numerous and valuable presents were received, many coming from Boston and Dayton, Ohio, the latter place being the former home of the bride. Mr. McKinnon has lately bought the Farmington Enterprise plant and from this time on will wield the editorial pen at that office and will make his permanent residence in Farmington. The happy couple have the best wishes of all who know them.

Question Answered.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never taught you using anything else for Indigestion or Biliousness. Doctors were scarce and they seldom heard of Appendicitis, Nervous Prostration or Heart Failure etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower in liquid form to make you satisfied there is nothing sweeter the mixer with you simple bottles at Murdock Bros.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians gave me up. Fortunately a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters,' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50c, guaranteed, at Geo. C. Hueston's Drug Store.

Stormy Weather—the Dread of the Rheumatic Sufferer.

A very doubtful accomplishment possessed by the patient who is undergoing the ordeal of Rheumatism or Neuralgia is that of foretelling the weather.

At the photo ros. takes this gift away. If you want to stop being a weather shark, buy a bottle at the nearest drug store, and we guarantee that your prophetic abilities in this line will entirely cease. Mrs. Della Henderson's experience is right along this line.

For Sale at Druggists. 12 East Scott St. Pamphlet to The A-H-o-phoros Co., New Haven, Conn.

Notice to Tax-payers.

All village taxes not paid on or before Oct. 16 will be returned to the county treasurer. Remember that Oct. 16 is the last day and the law permits no extension.

To Cure La Grippe in Two Days.

Take LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE TABLETS. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature on every box. 25c.

Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away. To quit tobacco easily and forever be magnetic, full of life, nerve and vigor, take No. 10. BAC, the wonder worker, that makes weak men strong. All druggists, 50c per box. Guaranteed. Booklet and sample free. Address: Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or New York.

The Revenge of Time.

Visitor—Your boy is very tall, Mrs. Winkle.
Mrs. Winkle—Yes; he takes after my family. He is nearly a head taller than his father now.
"I'm growing" too, all the time, and pretty soon my pants'll have to be cut down for dad."—N. Y. World.

CASTORIA.

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

The Parent Before the Teacher.

Let us ask for a moment what it is "to deal honestly, with a child's moral and intellectual life." Is it not to set before him a worthy example, to fill him with honest aspirations, to inculcate pure motives, to aid him in his endeavors to overcome evil influences? Is it not to give him a glimpse, even if it be only a glimpse, of the highest possible ideal? If this is put off until the child reaches school age, if it is not done in the home under the influence of the father and mother, if they do not persist in it while the child remains under the parental roof, it is often in vain to attempt it in school.—Teachers' World.

Targets with you whether you continue the nerve-racking tobacco habit. NO-TO-BAC removes the desire for tobacco, without any of the distress, dizziness, headache, loss of sleep, loss of appetite, loss of strength, loss of health, nervousness, etc. Sold, 100,000,000. Buy your own drug store, who will furnish you a box of NO-TO-BAC from and pocket book. Guaranteed to cure or we refund money. Write for free literature. One box $1, usually 5 boxes $2.50. Guaranteed to cure or we refund money. Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago, Montreal, New York.

POSITIVELY!

Yes, positively, we will close out at once.

Our Line of Buggies
Regardless of Cost.

We must have the store room and will give you the greatest bargain in the state if you call at once.

Office, Foot of Main Street,
NORTHVILLE, MICHIGAN.

MARK S. AMBLER,

It's Coming Our Way—trade we mean.

Prices, selections and quality are the three essentials to make the public appreciate our efforts. This is Comfortable weather. We have some beauties, soft and fluffy, at $1.50, $2; or if you wish to make them can furnish you the Print at 3 1-2c yd, and Batting at 5c roll. BLANKETS in all styles and prices, 50c to $4. UNDERWEAR is in demand at this season of the year. See our window display of Gents' Fleeced Shirts and Drawers, the proper garment and less than proper prices. We bought these goods last April shipped to us direct from the factory and have just arrived. You get the benefit, one round 4 pcs for $1.75. You will pay elsewhere $2; all sizes, 32 to 44 drawers, 34 to 44 shirts. Don't pass us by when in need of SUITS, OVERCOATS or ULSTERS. $10 gets you Suit or Overcoat.

NORTHVILLE.

T. J. Perkins & Co.