THE FIRST BRITISH PARADE TO PRETORIA.

"It will be a parade to Pretoria." (British prediction at beginning of hostilities.)
IT WAS A PARADE BUT THEY WENT AS BOER PRISONERS.

From Detroit Evening News.

A NEW DRIVING AND CYCLE TRACK.

THE ASSOCIATION WAS FORMED TUESDAY NIGHT.

The Track Is Laid Out on E. M. Starkweather's Farm.

A new driving and bicycle park association was organized in the YMCA hall here Tuesday night. About forty of the enthusiasts, stockholders were present. L. L. Brooks was elected president, M. H. Sloan, vice president; E. H. Tapham, secretary; C. L. Shaffer, treasurer. E. B. Thompson, E. M. Starkweather and Floyd Northrop were elected a business committee to fit up grounds, erect buildings, etc., and J. H. Herbener, F. S. Harmon, W. H. Yarrall, E. M. Starkweather, C. C. Chadwick were appointed a committee to draft a set of by laws, after which the meeting adjourned subject to a call of the president.

The new association starts out under very auspicious circumstances and its success is already easily assured. The track has been surveyed and laid out on E. M. Starkweather's farm just west of the U. S. fish station and the work of grading has begun. When finished it will be one of the finest race courses in this part of Michigan. The track will be as well adapted for bicycle racing and other athletics as for speeding horses and to lovers of either of those sports it will be an attractive spot, and besides it will bring crowds from adjoining towns into Northville. It is expected that the buildings, stands and track will all be in "apple pie" order for the opening matinee about May 1st next at which time it seems assured that one of the new electric car lines will be running by the grounds. Heretofore the people of this vicinity have been obliged to depend upon Plymouth for a driving track and this new course, right here at home will be both convenient and attractive.

Wants $75,000 Damages.

Last winter Phillip Gaukler of Pontiac, agent for the Detroit Brewing Co., went to Detroit and got so drunk that he didn't know enough to produce his railroad ticket when on the return journey. The conductor put him off and he stayed on the track until another car came along and knocked the senses out of him so effectually that he is still non-compos-mentis with no hope of recovery. Action was brought by his son and guardian against the D. P. H. & M. R. R. for $75,000 damages. The case was non-suited at Pontiac last week with permission for new trial.

Obituary—Gideon Power.

After a long and often suffering illness Gideon Power died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. B. Cook, in this village Tuesday afternoon, of heart failure. The funeral occurred in the Farmington Universalist church Thursday afternoon, Rev. J. H. Herbener officiating.

Mr. Power was born in New York state Nov. 15, 1825, thus making him nearly 74 years of age. Next Monday he would have celebrated his fiftieth wedding anniversary. He was noted for his strict integrity and frugal ways and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. He died without an enemy to forgive or a debt unpaid.

Besides the aged wife deceased leaves two sons; Marvin, now a resident of California and Eugene, of Elk Rapids, and one daughter, Mrs. J. B. Cook of this place.

Obituary—Mortimer Palmer.

After a long illness, Mortimer L. Palmer died at his home in this village Saturday morning, aged 68 years. The funeral occurred from the late home Monday afternoon, Rev. J. H. Herbener officiating.

Mr. Palmer united in marriage with Miss Sarah Thornton in 1854 who with three daughters and one son survives him. He served in the war of '62 for some three years, participating in thirteen engagements, and was in Sherman's famous "march to the sea." While helping build a pontoon bridge across the Tennessee river near Chattanooga he received injuries from which he never recovered. On May 24, 1865 he participated in review of Gen. Sherman's army and two weeks later was mustered out of service. He returned home and bought a farm five miles north-west of Northville in Novi township, where he resided until 1884 when he came to this village where he has since resided.

Letter From L. E. Hartwick.

Carleton, Manitoba, Oct. 29, 99.
Editor Record: When a fellow is a long way from home he likes the home news and the Record is a good paper for that. Some weeks however it fails to come but I think the fault is with the car man P. M. I like the country here in Manitoba. The crops are good, mostly spring wheat. I believe here is the place for a poor man to get a start. I am 57 miles south-west of Winnipeg. In about a week I am going to leave here and go to Muskoko, Pery Sound district. Last week we were 11 miles west of here and at night the wolves came near our shanty and commenced to howl. It reminded me of the stories my father used to tell me about hearing the wolves when he was a boy. I have seen lots of prairie chickens, in large flocks. They are a very common bird here. L. E. HARTWICK.

Suburban News.

Great kickers, those U. of M. fellows.

Millford Baptists are about to make quite extensive alterations and repairs on their church edifice.

Farming has a "You-Go-I-Go" pedro club. They commenced to go last week for this season. "Save your hearts."

Hallowe'en should be spelt Hell-o-eve this year on account of the mischief the youngsters piled up.—Flat Rock News.

The president of the U. S. has notified us to be thankful on the last day of the present month. Let's do'er; turkey and all.

Miss Emma Smith, a teacher in Honolulu, Sandwich islands, visited Plymouth relatives recently. Her parents live in Adrian.

The discontinuance of the F. & P. M. trains from Wayne junction to the village is causing a lot of grumbling among people down that way. "Uncle John" Kinsman, a long time resident and musician of Millford, has recently married Mrs. Ellen Parker of Flint and has gone to that city to live.

Delray wants free mail delivery too, but her large manufacturing concerns don't sufficiently patronize home industry as represented in local post-office affairs.

A Western minister has set the time for the final revolution of this mundane sphere for tomorrow—Nov. 11. It's to be from collision with those meteors that are due about this time.

St. John's G.A.R. men have secured from the U. S. government a 4,200 pound cannon which is to be placed on the court house square of the town. It will cost about $350 to get the big gun and properly mount it in the desired location.

The Franklin correspondent of the Farmington Enterprise goes the erstwhile famous kissing bug one better by asserting that they also have "hugging bugs" down that way. Escaped bear probably; or perhaps its a boa constrictor.

A petition is being circulated and largely signed by Wyandotte citizens asking the city council to designate Nov. 17 as an annual civic holiday in honor of Capt. J. B. Ford whose birthday occurs on that date, and who is considered to have done more for Wyandotte than can be estimated.

A professor of one of Wyandotte's public schools had a local groceryman before the prosecuting attorney for selling hard cider to one of the school pupils. The grocer claims that the cider was all disposed of while in its harmless infancy. He worked hard to prove that the apple juice hadn't, while the professor worked to show that the pupil was was drunk and couldn't; and after all if the cider didn't work the attempt to punish the seller would n't work either. If the cider wasn't hard, the case was and the pupil in question was probably a hard one, anyway.

The Holly firebug has been discovered in the person of an eleven year old girl named Alice Barnes who has confessed to having started six fires for some reason unknown even to herself. She will probably be sent to the Adrian industrial school. Her father lives in Detroit and she has been living with a sister at Holly.

Ex-Editor Bloomer of Farmington who recently went to Montgomery, Tenn., to accept a lucrative position in a publishing house has been obliged to return to his Farmington home again because of ill health. Bloomer is playing in hard luck with sickness but it is hoped Michigan breezes will fix him out again in good shape.

The South Lyon Excelsior man has been trying barn building in connection with newspaper architecture but he seems to like the latter occupation better probably because there aren't any silvers in the sticks. He evidently had to sit up nights to pick the superfluous lumber out of his hands while working at carpentering.

The schools of Michigan, including those of Chelsea, have gone into the soap business; that is, they are helping a Detroit firm sell soap. This is one of the biggest nuisances that has struck town in a long time, and should be stopped. Our schools are not run as mercantile ventures, and the sooner this thing is squelched the better. Let us soap that it will stop.—Chelsea Standard.

It is rather doubtful if that statement will wash as applied to all the schools of Michigan, but it is probably done on the principle involving cleanliness and godliness and as the latter is not soap plenty as it should be better not put any bars in the way of its attainment.

Fire at Novi.

Novi, Nov. 10, '99.—Special.—From some unknown cause A. N. Wixom's dwelling house, just east of Novi, caught fire this morning and before it was squelched the upper story was badly damaged and Miss Olive Wixom's clothing was all destroyed. The fire was discovered by Mrs. Wixom, who was sick in bed, as it was eating its way through the ceiling of her room.

Committed Suicide.

Geo. Perry of Farmington suicided yesterday morning by cutting his throat. He leaves a wife and one child.

NOVEMBER THANKSGIVING.

We're eysters from the dark blue sea.
As fat and plump as they can be;
They're good to fry, and good to stew—
And good to stuff a turkey too.

The kind of oysters Fry Bros. sell
Have pearls in every other shell.
They're shipped to Fry Bros every day—
Right from the bed in Chesapeake bay.

We've celery in bunches tied.
That's good to serve with oysters fried;
The kind of celery Fry Bros. keep
Will bring to the nervous, peaceful sleep.

Thanksgiving day will soon be found.
And new fresh hickies by qt. or lb.
And fancy groceries by the score.
Will grace Fry Bros. grocery store.

School Notes.

[School notes are printed exactly as written by the pupil.]

"Who are, who are, who are we!
We are, we are, we are the!
P-e-o-p-l-e, the Northville High-school,
Don't you see!"

The First Grade pupils have begun reading in Baldwin's First Reader.

Vassel Wilson entered the High-School this week.

Carrie Brooks spelled down the Second Grade last week.

Myrtle Crampton entered the Fourth Grade last week.

Louie Brason is a new pupil of the sixth grade.

Ethel Shafer, Ethel Barnett, Winnie Mason and Vern Calkins are absent on account of sickness this week.

Some of the boys of the High School have a private music lesson in the recitation room twice a week.

The four grammar grades will celebrate Thanksgiving day with appropriate exercises.

Master Guy Filkins is the musician of the fourth grade. Guy is a very bright little fellow and plays some very pretty marches for the third and fourth grades.

Mrs. Wm. Ambler presented the fifth and sixth grade scholars with a beautiful picture entitled "Slower of Pansies."

The football game and reception which was to be held last Friday night had to be postponed on account of the Wayne Boys not being able to come. The game is expected to be played on or about Nov. 17.

On account of the absence of Miss Clark, Miss Maude Buchner taught the seventh grade and on Tuesday
Miss Buchner took the place of Mrs.
Woolley who was unable to teach.

Monday morning Rev. J. H. Herber-ner accompanied by Dr. Bruske, President of Alma College, visited the High School. The doctor gave a very interesting talk taking for his subject, "Of what use is a college education." In his talk the doctor said that if we wished to get to the top in any vocation in life, we must have a college education but if we are contented with simply a High School education we thereby signify our willingness to be "Underlings."

Frank Sump of the Eighth Grade is absent on account of sickness.

League cordially thank Messrs. DeLubar and Yarnall for pledging themselves to assume the costs of any suit which may be brought against the village council of Northville for refusing to accept the bonds offered by Geo. Stettin for the opening of another saloon in our midst.

The Search for Relief.

Sufferers from Rheumatism often spend large amounts of money and consume much time in their eager attempts to find relief or cure. This search for health is a pathetic one, because it so often ends in disappointment. We would not if we could induce any patient to try Athio-phoresol did we not know that this remedy is the absolute cure for Rheumatism in all its forms. Behold this witness!

NORTHVILLE.

The City in Brief.

"Carson Wildreds Crime" begins next week.

The stone crusher is to be put into action again.

Council proceedings on another page in this issue.

Watch out for the Epworth League social about the first week in December.

There will be Episcopal services in the WCTU hall Tuesday evening, Nov. 14, at 7:30 o'clock. Everyone made welcome.

Regular F. & A. M. meeting Monday night with M. M. degree work. Royal Arch meeting Wednesday night; also degree work at that time.

Christian Science service Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Subject, "Soul and Body;" also Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the WCTU hall. All are cordially invited.

The council has ordered the cross walks on Main street replaced. They were taken out during the summer to accommodate the street railway and the work of paving.

The new electric light power house is well under way. M. S. Ambler has the contract for furnishing lumber; Mr. Randall the brick; M. Bovee has charge of the mason work and H. O. Waid the carpenter work.

A Mother's Meeting will be held in the WCTU hall next week Thursday, Nov. 10, at 3:00 o'clock. All members of the union are requested to be present.

Watch for our new serial story which begins next week. Its another hummer. "Carson Wildreds Crime" by that prince of exciting story writers, Harry Wood Reynolds.

The Methodist Ladies' chicken pie social at the rink Tuesday night was a record breaker. The receipts were nearly $40.00 and the society will net over thirty of it.

On the heels of the Methodist ladies' chicken pie social comes the news that Geo. Rattenbury's farmhouse chicken coop was "tapped" the night before to the tune of sixty fowls, besides four set of harness from the barn.

People who call for another person's mail at the post office, says an exchange, and fail to deliver the same, are liable to a fine of $500, or one year in the penitentiary. This applies to newspapers as well as other mail matter.

The Flag festival planned by the WRC for November 15 has been indefinitely postponed and will probably be given in connection with the Michigan day entertainment which has lately been so successful an annual feature of the work of the corps.

In the resignation of J. A. Dubuar from the village water board Northville loses one of the most capable and upright officers it ever had. Mr. Dubuar has been a member of the water board since its organization and his efforts have had much to do with its success.

Ten or a dozen Northville boys, including some of the school pupils, formed a gymnasium club, hired a room, and will spend three evenings each week in pursuit of muscular proficiency. No visitors are allowed except invited guests. These will probably include the boys' parents occasionally.

A poetical gush from Albert Lyke of Co. E, 19th U. S. Inf., now in the Filipino war will be found in this issue. Besides having rather a good jingle, a good point is made at the close, which has a direct application on the tales told by the out posts who do much shooting at night, but rarely ever kill more than a dog or hog.

If your hair comes out and does not grow use Madam Graham's hair vigor. Miss Bovee.

Educate Your Bowels With Cascarets. Candy Cathartics, cure constipation forever, 10c, 25c. If C. C. fail, druggists refund money.

Rev. Mr. Meddle of Ann Arbor will occupy the Baptist pulpit Sunday. Commencing next Monday night the Hardware stores will close at 8:30 o'clock.

Remember the free-to-everybody meteoric show booked for next week Tuesday night.

The repairs on Northrop's laundry, which was recently touched by fire, are nearly complete and business will resume as usual next week.

The Austin-Weston people when they sold the stone crusher to Northville warranted it to be perfect in every particular. That it will not properly crush the hard-head stone around here shows its imperfection somewhere and we believe the council would be justified in stopping further payment on the machine until the imperfection is in some way made good.

"Experience may be a dear teacher," remarked the clergyman as the contribution box returned to him empty, "but the members of this particular flock who have experienced religion have accomplished it at a very trifling cost. The choir will sing the seventy-ninth hymn, omitting the first, third and fourth verses in order to save unnecessary wear on the organ."

Northville township's taxes this year will be $7,071.81, of which $3,993.25 is state tax; $1,276.78 county and $1,150 town, and $51.73 poor and insane. These amounts do not include the school tax however which will be nearly as much as all the others combined. County and school taxes will be about the same as last year; state taxes will be nearly double those of last year on account of the legislative session and war bills, but town taxes will be somewhat lower.

Farmers are warned to look out for a swindle which is being worked at present. It is perpetrated by a sleek young man representing that he is from Cuba or Porto Rico, and that he has in his possession a new variety of flower seed, which will produce the beautiful flowers grown in the tropics. Upon close examination, it will be observed that the seed is nothing more than the ordinary mustard seed. The young man has a very plausible story, and is said to be meeting with considerable success in his operations.

Judge Carpenter has refused to grant a mandamus compelling this village council to accept the liquor bonds of Geo. Rattenbury. The case will now be taken to the supreme court. Inasmuch as all villages in Michigan are incorporated under one and the same act it means, if Judge Carpenter's decision is sustained, that any village in the state can prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors in any saloon or hotel within its corporate limits. The outcome of the case will be looked forward to with much interest.

It is suggested now that the proposed new wood work company is not a go the executive committee of the Improvement Association get together and do something. A bonus of $8,000 ought to secure some kind of a factory. Why not negotiate with the Globe company. Possibly with that much aid that company might be able to swing both the refrigerator and wood work factory into line. The people would like to hear from the committee. There's still work to do, gentlemen.

A Card.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a 50c bottle of Green's Warranted Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cough or cold. We also guarantee a 25c bottle to prove satisfactory or money refunded.

An Expensive Carpet.

A Chicago pastor whose Ladies Aid society had purchased an $800 carpet by means of entertainments, etc., estimated that the carpet had cost the church about $4,000. He took into account the actual business losses, waste and expense resulting from the work, worry, nervous strain, bodily weariness and heart-aches of one hundred women; the heroic efforts of men, women and children to eat the things which were to be eaten and hear, see or buy things which had been provided to extract money from them; the colds, fevers and other ailments contracted while attending the entertainments and the consequent doctor's bills, and finally, the money spent in other churches, for if they come to your entertainments you must go to theirs. What will apply to Chicago will in a measure be applicable to almost every church community.

Played Hog With a Redford Farmer.

A Redford farmer had a funny experience the other night. "Along about nine o'clock a man rapped at his door and asked the farmer to come out and help him reload a dozen or so hogs which he said had got out of his wagon into the road. He was bound for Detroit with them he stated and the obliging farmer readily lent his aid and after considerable effort the porkers were all in the huckster's conveyance enroute for the metropolis. The next morning the obliging Redford farmer made the startling discovery that he had assisted in the loading of his own hogs into the peddler's wagon, the peddler having first gotten the animals out of the pen and into the road before seeking the farmer's assistance."

Thankful Methodist Ladies.

We desire to express our hearty thanks to the many friends who patronized our chicken-pie supper Tuesday evening. The abundant provision for so many guests was only made possible by an unusual large influx of chickens from various sources. We shall be prepared for a still larger crowd next time if it exhausts the resources of every chicken-coop in the community. Come again, friends.

Good Advice.

When that distressing pain seems to grab you by the back of the head and neck and your eyes seem fixed on a given point straight ahead, do not make yourself sick by taking drastic cathartics, but take a small dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It relieves the pressure on the nerve centers of the brain and aids digestion by curing constipation permanently. In 40c, 50c and $1 size at Geo. C. Hueston's.

Another great discovery has been made, and that too by a lady in this country. "Disease," fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery, by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night, and with two bottles, has been absolutely cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz. Thus writes W. C. Hamrick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Trial bottle free at Geo. C. Hueston's Drug Store. Regular size 50c and $1. Every bottle guaranteed.

This Concerns You

For I can tell by the way you walk you have indigestion. You haven't the firm dignified walk and general air that comes after one is cured of indigestion, as you surely can be by taking Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Get it at Geo. C. Hueston's.

Whitney's—Detroit.

Cole and Johnson's colored company in a novel entertainment, "A Trip to Coontown," is the attraction at the Whitney Opera House this week. The performance is an excellent one and is filled with clever specialties, cake walks, songs and dances.

"On the Suwanee River," now in its third season, comes to the Whitney Opera House next week.

The play is evidenced by the title, a story of southern life, love and hate. Years before the play opens, a Col. Mason goes away to fight in the Confederate army, leaving his estate in charge of a human vulture, one Caleb Croc, who manages to get all the property in his hands. Caleb Croc has a mortgage on the Clayton home. The Colonel borrows the money to pay it; they quarrel and the miser kills Clayton; his son coming in on the scene is felled by a blow on the head by Judge Hawk, an enemy of the family. Dora, the girl, has just had her sight restored and this is her first day at home. The shock renders her blind. The son is made almost an idiot by the blow on the head. It all ends happily of course. Dora's sight is restored and the son regains his memory by being struck again on the head and remembers his father's murderer.

Lyceum—Detroit.

John C. Rice and Sally Cohen head the brilliant company of farce artists that are appearing this week at the Lyceum in the latest skit, "Over the Fence." The piece is a novelty of unusual merit and is proving one of the most acceptable offerings of this popular play house.

Next week George W. Monroe, of "My Aunt Bridget" fame, will appear at the Lyceum in a new play, "Mrs. B. O. Shangnessy, wash lady." Mr. Monroe is making a bigger success than ever this season and his impersonation of the old Irish lady keeps the audience in the best of humor. The performance abounds in good things, in addition to the fun it affords. Miss Georgie Lingard is especially attractive as Duffy, the youngest daughter, who wears very long hair and very short dresses, and who displays, in different colors, during the performance eminently satisfactory reasons for the scantiness of her skirts. One of the features of the play is her dancing.

There are woven into the comedy a number of waxes, all of which are good, and nearly all of which are new.

MUSICAL CLUBS IN SMALL TOWN.

Branches of Work It Is Advisable for Them to Take Up.

There is one principle that must be strictly adhered to in any successful village musical society, there must be no drone, says the Ladies' Home Journal. The instant that any one is admitted to membership on any other grounds than ability the decline of the society has begun. Regular attendance can be secured only by arousing the enthusiasm of the members. The one word that expresses the possibilities of concerted instrumental music for the village is orchestra. This word, while rather pretentious in sound, may have an extremely humble application. Orchestra is mentioned as opposed to band; the orchestra, being intended for indoor practice, is capable of exerting a most refining influence. It is to chorus work that the vocal energies of the singers of the town must be mainly devoted; and it is best to assume a high stand from the outset, and establish an "oratorical society," rather than a "chorus" or "choral club." For this purpose a well-balanced group of thirty or forty voices is sufficient if it is composed of members who can really sing. A small chorus of unexpected volume of tone is much more effective than a large one with a disappointing volume. It may be just as well to call attention to the fact that the large music emporiums, especially those in Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, are always ready to give advice and assistance in the selection of music where the members of clubs, individually or collectively, do not know just what is best for their purpose.

Horse Was Lost.

An amusing race was lately organized by a New York amusement syndicate. The starters were Sid, the large elephant in captivity, ridden by his keeper, Bernard Dooley, and Ben All, camel, driven by his keeper, William Green; a bicycle, an automobile, and Australian Ben, a horse. After a preliminary canter it was arranged that the elephant and camel should start together, and that the automobile should pursue them after they had covered two laps, the horse and bicycle to follow at shorter intervals. This arrangement was found necessary because, when in line, the camel was scared by the motor car, and the horse also became very restive, while the elephant threatened to squash the cyclist with one of his forefeet. The race finished thus: Elephant Sid, 21 years old, 4 tons (Dooley); first; bicycle, Darby, 20 pounds (Schinnerer); second; automobile, no name, 1,000 pounds (Houck); third; camel, Ben All, and horse, Australian Ben, also ran.

ABOUT AUCTION BILLS!

A Good Auctioneer likes to see his name on a neat, attractive auction bill. "Any old thing" won't do. A neat, attractive bill with new type and cuts brings a crowd, and a good auctioneer can do the rest. Poor and unattractive bills bring a poor, no-money crowd and the auctioneer is blamed when in reality it is the printer's fault. We're up-to-date. We put up the attractive kind of bills and they cost no more than the other kind. We also give the auction and the auctioneer a good "send off" in The Record—that's free.

LOOKING FOR FLAWS.

Don't look for flaws as you go on through life.
 And even when you find them
 it is better to look for a star than to look for a flaw.

And look for the virtue behind them.
 For the cloudiest night has a hint of light.
 Somewhere in the shadows hiding.
 It is better by far to look for a star than the spots on the sun abiding.

The current of life runs ever away
 To the bosom of God's great ocean;
 Don't set your force 'gainst the river's course,
 And think to alter its motion.
 Don't waste a curse on the universe—
 Don't shrink at the trials before you;
 Don't butt at the storm with your puny form.
 But bend and let it go o'er you.

The world will never adjust itself
 To suit your whims to the letter.
 Some things must go wrong your whole life long.
 And the sooner you know it the better.
 It is folly to fight with the infinite,
 And go under at last in the wrestle.
 The wisest man shapes into God's plan
 As the water shapes into a vessel.

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

THE PROFESSOR'S HEART STORY.

The spring air, with its subtle stir of quickening life, had forced an entrance into the old library, penetrating through windows guileless of the char-woman's cares for years; past grime and cobwebs to the sole occupant of the room. He rose slowly, inexplicably wearying of the printed page before him, and took down another book, telling himself in justification that it was a day for Horace, but after a few minutes the odds proved charmless. Nor could philosophy, which he tried next, chain his thoughts; they wandered speculatively to a hitherto disregarded volume on the topmost shelf with no reason that he could fathom for their flight. The slender book in its brown dress seemed suddenly to possess some charm which brought it into prominence, and compelled his attention.
 The lash of curiosity touched him not unpleasantly.

He returned to his chair with the disturber of his peace in his hand and propped it up against the ponderous tome on the table while he polished his spectacles; when they were adjusted he took up the stranger with a tremulous touch. To his fancy he was settling wide the door into some enchanted world, but after one comprehensive glance at the title page his interest waned; the treasures of his beloved Greek literature found no rival in this dreary treatise on Calvinism.

He pushed the book away impatiently and, jostled by a careless elbow, it fell to the floor, its leaves fluttering open in harsh protest. As the old scholar stooped—conscience smitten—to restore it to the table he discovered a paper which had been jarred from the pages lying alongside, and thinking it some memoranda left by a former student he was about to replace it in the book when his attention was arrested despite himself.

The paper was folded and sealed and bore an address in a delicately flowing hand; it had evidently been written in the days before envelopes were in vogue
 —the days of his own young manhood.
 Singularly enough the superscription read: "To E. J." He sat looking at it curiously with an angelically accented pulse. In all his life he had never received a letter like that; the simple use of initials argued an intimacy which he had never known. What mail matter had come his way—mere dry-as-dust reports and scientific articles which he had opened with steady fingers—had always been directed to Erasmus Jenkinson, Esq.

Since the closing of the college and for a long time before he had been the only frequenter of the library; whoever had left the letter therefore had done so in the remote past and would not reclaim it. The fashion of the paper was old, the ink was faded. It was a dead message—one that had failed to reach its destination and if he replaced it in those grim pages might lie undisturbed for years and in the end careless eyes would read it. Surely it was his right of discovery and the addition of right that it bore his initials.

The next instant the bit of wax was removed and the creases in the thin paper were smoothed out almost reverently. Jenkinson bent his head to read the faint lines; after he had reached the end he kept it still lowered.

The hand holding the faint, muskscented sheet trembled; the professor's brain was in a whirl as he read and re-read the contents. "Dear: (It ran)
 "I have a secret to tell you—it's only three words and yet it holds all of earth and all of heaven to me—I love you. I ought to wait for you to say that first, I know, but you are kinder so I will give you courage. I have seen this long time what is in your heart; look at mine now and then come quick to me."

From that hour life held a different meaning for Erasmus Jenkinson. By some strange process of reasoning he convinced himself that the letter was really his, and frequent perusals of it so imbued him with its spirit as to make that belief not only possible but probable. In the long hours of dreaming with which his days were now occupied Letty was never anything more than a shadow with that suggestiveness of spring—and the spring's fairness about her.

One afternoon, when these dreams had been in progress several weeks, as he was taking his way home he missed the sense of her companionship for the first time.

He entered his door with a feeling of pride not unmixed with humility and went immediately, as was his custom, to the little bare study. The one easy chair the room contained was turned toward the window; some readjustment of house-cleaning had moved it from its usual place at the table, but to the man on the threshold it had the appearance of being turned for a watcher's convenience.

"I'm home, Letty," he said softly.
 There was a moment's throbbing silence, then from somewhere near, it seemed to him, came the words: "Welcome, dear."

He crossed the room with a happy face.

The next day an unusual thing occurred—the professor went shopping.
 It was not an extensive expedition; the purchases being confined to one shop which he had never visited until that hour. As the bell above the door announced his entrance a sudden trepidation seized upon him, every nerve in his body pulsated with the jangled wire and he would have fled incontinently had it not been for the appearance of the shop-woman. He did not respond to her greeting, but clung to the small showcase as if in need of material support, gazing helplessly around. When he could collect his dazed senses he made known his wants by a series of pantomimic gestures.
 She seemed to comprehend him for after fumbling over the contents of a box she finally produced a large bone thimble with eulogistic words. The professor found his voice.

"Smaller—much smaller," he gasped.
 "For a child?"

"Er—er—not exactly, but small and pretty—what would fit your little finger, ma'am."

The woman rummaged through her stock and obligingly tried on thimble after thimble until a satisfactory silver one was found. The professor took it into his capacious palm and inspected the simple chasing with undisguised delight.

"Needles, ma'am," he said next.
 "Course of fine?"

"Oh! fine—fine—"

She placed some little oblong packages before him and waited his further orders.

"Now what you sew with ma'am.
 What's that you call it? Cotton? Yes, some cotton."

"What number—seventy?"

"Oh! no—no—no seventy. Eighteen or twenty."

The shopkeeper regarded him with ill-concealed contempt. "You could only use a crowbar with such coarse stuff," she cried sharply; "if you want fine needles you must have cotton to match."

The professor removed his hat and mopped his brow with some perturbation.

"Seventy or eighty," he murmured half to himself. "I don't like the sound."

She got down a drawer without another word and took out two small white spools.

"These are what you need," she said,
 with the air of one who will not tolerate trifling. There was no misunderstanding her meaning. The professor might be in doubt upon other vexed questions, but this much was clear to him.

"You know best, ma'am," he faltered.
 Then, with a happy inspiration, he added: "Perhaps the numbers will come off."

She pushed a pin under the offending bits of paper and removed them deft-ly. The wrinkled face of her customer was tremulous with gratitude.

"You're very good, ma'am. They're for somebody quite young, you see, and she'll like them best so."

"Praps she'd like a basket to hold
 'em in a cushion?"

"Of course she would, ma'am—of course—I'm grateful to you for mentioning them."

He was almost feverish with impatience while she took the articles from the window; and, led them temptingly before him, that they were faded from long exposure to the sun was unnoticed by his happy eyes. He was blind to all defects; and when she added a needle-book with a marvelous bird upon its cover and a small pair of scissors to the other objects he fairly glowed with pleasure.

His happiness, however, was slight,
 in comparison to the joy he knew later when he unrolled his purchases and placed them upon the table near the big chair. He occupied the only other chair in the room; he had used it exclusively for the past few weeks. After a time he took some needles from their papers and quitted them into the fannel leaf of the little needle-book, as the shopkeeper had shown him, leaving out one which he proceeded to thread. It was a tedious operation.

He was recalled from his dreams by a summons to supper.

"Hannah," he said at last, after several ineffectual attempts to speak which her glassy stare had reduced to silence, "I—I'm expecting a friend any t—time now, so you'd better keep a place set opposite mine."

Then he fled precipitately from the room.

Several weeks later a visitor, coming one evening to the professor's gate found Hannah resting there after what she was pleased to term a hard day's work. He paused with an inquiry.

"Is the professor home? There's no light in his room."

"He's in, sir," the woman answered, recognizing the old president of the college. He's taking to sittin' in the dark lately. He's given over readin', and about time, too. 'Taint no ways good for a man to be forever poring over books."

"He's not ill? I've been away from Kingsbarn the past fortnight, but he seemed fairly well when I left—"

"No, sir, he ain't ill, and yet I don't think he'll be with us long. He's different, somehow. He looks kinder uplifted an' he holds his head sometimes as ef he was listenin' to things we can't hear. The, too, he's always bringin' in flowers—him that never in the thirty years I've known him did sech a thing before. I can't make it out, unless it's the general breakin' up."

"I'll step in and see him," the president interrupted anxiously. "It's unnecessary to announce me."

He turned and hastened up the little path to the quiet house; the door was open and a lamp was burning dimly in the hall. He peered curiously into the room where, by the hall light, he could discern the professor's gaunt figure, sitting erect near the large chair which, turned as it was from the door, might screen some neighbor who, unknown to Hannah, had slipped in for a chat. The president coughed discretely.
 "Jenkinson," he said.

There was a moment's silence, then the professor, in an unsteady voice, cried out: "Who's there?"

"It's I—Edwardes Jennings. Are you alone?"

"Oh! Jennings—Jennings—come in.
 Yes, I'm alone, quite alone. What a preposterous question to ask, man.
 Who should be with me?"

"I fancied I heard talking."

"Talking—hm! I often talk to myself. Here, take my chair—no, not that—that is broken. There! I'll push it out of the way and you sit here."

The visitor seated himself as directed and Jenkinson took up his position on the window-sill. He made no offer to get a light. The summer dusk was pleasant; it was full, too, of a sweet fragrance which at first the president thought came from without. Then he remembered what Hannah had said concerning his old friend's sudden fondness for flowers and realized that they were close at hand.

"I came home this noon," he said,
 breaking the silence, and strolled out with my pipe after supper determined to hunt you up. Has life been using you well?"

"Very well."

"It isn't such a bad thing despite our grumbling, yet it has its disappointments; we can none of us escape them.
 All we can do is to quit ourselves like men. Now that you are nearing the end, old comrade, has it been good to you?"

Jenkinson stirred a little.

"Very good," he said simply, after a moment's pause. "And to you?"

"Fairly good, fairly—not as I dreamed, in early manhood, but we speedily learn the futility of making our dreams realities in this working-day world—we live in a practical age, sir, and dreams are shadows. The failure of the college has been a sore trial, for I put my best into the work. I often question, if another hand would have shaped things differently."

"It must have failed in any event—"

"That's how I console myself. The result surely can be traced to the decrease of prosperity in Kingsbarn—everything here has gone to ruin. How-then, could we expect to attract students to us? Well, the end is at hand.
 A syndicate is formed to purchase the college building for a home for disabled firemen."

"And—the library?"

"Oh! the library is to be sold at auction. I say, Jenkinson, no one knows those books as you do. Have you ever chanced upon a paper stowed away in one of them?"

"What kind of a paper?"

"An old letter, bearing my initials."
 The president waited a moment for his companion to speak, then he went on with some disappointment apparent in his tones. "Of course it's only a supposition that it's there, but I told Farringford I'd look. You remember him, he was in our class, a quiet, self-absorbed fellow? No? Well, I met him last week and we had a talk over old days. He's like us now—white-haired and stoops. It isn't much of a story, but I—I loved his sister."

"They used to live at Toynbee and I would tramp over there to see her.
 She was like—oh! I can't find any comparison and you wouldn't understand—she was like no one or nothing but just herself. I was a timid lover, afraid to risk my happiness by a declaration. Her people, too, were richer than mine, and I thought that might make some difference. But she divined my feelings and wrote me, telling me she loved me and bidding me come to her.
 And that letter, sir, I never received.
 She intrusted it to her brother for me and he mistook it; then thinking it merely an invitation to supper, such as he had often brought me, he gave it verbally and I told him to tell her I couldn't come. My God! I said I couldn't come—"

The professor didn't speak as his guest's bitter voice fell into silence. He was only conscious that the summer night had turned very chilly.

"The next morning I was summoned unexpectedly away," the president resumed. "My father was dangerously ill.
 He died shortly after my arrival home and I remained with my people a fortnight or so. More than two months elapsed after she sent that letter before we met. Then one afternoon I started for her home, but before I reached there I saw her pony carriage

standing in Toynbee's principal street.
 As I neared it she came out of a shop and I sprang to meet her—my heart's secret on my lips—and she looked at me with no recognition in her glance.
 I might have been a stone instead of a man. The next instant she drove off with a great clatter."

"I turned the page on which that sorrow was written long ago," the old man continued after a considerable pause. "I made other ties—knew a moderate amount of content, though it never reached the high-water mark of that dead-and-gone happiness. My meeting with Farringford recently woke sad memories, and when he touched those scars they throbbled with pain. It seems that one day, in these later years, she told him why she put me from her life. It was all clear to him then. In a moment he remembered every detail concerning the letter—what he had done, what I had said in my ignorance. And the account moved her to tears. Her heart was like that, my little Letty—so gentle—so tender—His voice broke; he waited a moment to steady it.

"There was sorrow on both sides, but I never dreamed she suffered. She made a brave fight all through, Farringford said, and kept her sunny nature to the end. For the end has come for her. And—and—she formed no other ties, her home was in the homes of other people, her children the children of others. Well—well—the world is full of just such broken stories—little pitiful romances that start gloriously enough and then fade while life is still young."

The president rose stiffly and stretched himself.

"I hope your chair will be mended before I come again," he said with a forced laugh. "You're careless of your comfort, professor. I must give Hannah the hint. Oh, about that paper—Farringford has a dim recollection of slipping it into some theological book he was reading in the library. He thinks there is a chance of finding it even at this late day. You're sure you haven't seen it?"

"Seen it? No—no—"

"I must institute a search then, myself. There's no rekindling dead fires, but I want the letter my little girl wrote for old times' sake. Goodnight."

The professor sat quite motionless for hours after, his guest's departure enveloped in darkness. Finally he rose and, lighting the lamp, cast its gleam searchingly around. There was no hint, in the room, of that other presence whose nearness had been so real to him. The chair in the corner was vacant, nor could any effort of his imagination recreate that shadowy occupant again. It had fled with averted face, at his unworthy act. He was alone.

He put the lamp down wearily and took from an inner pocket the worn flat case which contained the letter.
 He opened it for the last time, he told himself in justification, but shame and remorse blinded him; he could not see a word. What was written there was for Jennings' sight. He felt himself convicted of an unpardonable desecration and without another glance at its contents he thrust the paper into an envelope, which he addressed to his old friend. If Jennings wondered at the broken seal within he would think it the accident of time or the act of some curious hand.

The east was full of the radiance of a new day, as the professor, with a bulky parcel in one hand and a bunch of faded roses in the other, left his quiet house. He came back some hours later without either. On his way to his room he encountered Hannah coming down to her work.

"You needn't fix that other place again," she stammered. "My friend is not coming—I shall henceforth be
 alone."

Phosphorescent Plants.

The phosphorescent gleam that certain flowers and plants give out in the darkness constitute one of the strange-est phenomena of the vegetable kingdom. The daughter of Linnaeus, the botanist, it is said, was the first to discover this and to attract the attention of the scientific world to the singular fact.

"While walking in her father's garden one calm, clear summer night she was surprised to see a bunch of nasturtiums shine with iridescent colors in the darkness. Fascinated by this extraordinary sight, she repeated to her father her nocturnal experience, and he accompanied her for many nights to witness the same gleam from the flowers.

Numerous other flowers possess the same properties observed in the nasturtium, among them being the marsh lily. A scientist, who closely studied this flower regarded it as the most perfect specimen of the phosphorescent species. Another scientist has discovered that the light emitted by mushrooms disappears completely in a vacuum, or when they are plunged into a vessel that contains only irrespirable gases.

An Old Oil Clock.

An interesting specimen of the old oil clock used in the seventeenth century was shown at the recent clock exhibition in Berlin. This particular clock consists of a tube of glass in the outer receiving frame, on which the hours from eight in the morning until six in the evening are indicated. The glass tube is filled with oil, and the wick in the receptacle consumes each hour just a certain portion of it, which can be seen by the numbers on the outer frame, and the time of day accordingly. Of course, this oil clock never had a reputation for accuracy but in those days there were no trains or steamships, and the doctrine that time is money had not been propound-

MICHIGAN'S WAR CLAIMS

ATTORNEY-GENERAL OREN DISCUSSES THEIR PAYMENT.

WAR DEPARTMENT HAS NOT LIVED UP TO ITS AGREEMENT.

STATES SHOULD BE PAID FOR EQUIPPING THE TROOPS.

Detroit, Mich., November 4.—Attorney-General Oren was in Detroit Friday in conference with Gov. Plagge as to the payment of Michigan's war claims by the United States government, about which there has been some dispute.

"Before the Michigan troops were enlisted as United States soldiers," said Mr. Oren, "the state paid them according to enlistment rates, $1.25 per day. Congress passed a bill providing that the states should be paid the amounts advanced by the states to the soldiers; but the war department gave the state only $13 a month for each soldier. We do not think the war department's ruling is correct, and what we have to consider is whether the matter shall be carried to the treasury department."

The statute also provides that the states shall be paid for equipping the troops, but the war department held that the United States could pay with old guns, caissons, etc. They sent a lot of the stuff to Michigan, and the state authorities refused to receive it, holding that the state paid cash and ought to be paid in kind. We shall try to get a change of ruling by the war department on this matter."

Looking for a Franchise.

Bay City, Mich., November 4.—It was developed through a letter received by the city recorder that a third company is looking for a franchise to put in a hot water heating plant in this city. It is stated that if the capitalists back of the Bay City Gas Co. succeed in purchasing the Bay County electric light works, that it will apply to the council for a heating franchise. The Chicago company which asked for a hearing before the council awarded a franchise, will have its request granted. Nothing has been heard from the Smead company for the past ten days. If that concern wishes to take the franchise with the understanding that it will give free heat to the city buildings, it will be given a franchise, but otherwise the aldermen will not deal with it.

Claims Disallowed.

Lansing, Mich., November 4.—The new state barbers' commission recently presented claims to the board of state auditors for expenses incurred by the members before the new law took effect. President F. M. Van Horn also put in a claim for $3 per day for the time expended by him in looking after board matters, and Secretary Charles Reiger included in his claim a charge of $10 for the premium on a bond which he was required to furnish the state. The auditors referred the claims to the attorney-general, and that official furnished an opinion to the effect that all the claims should be disallowed. The attorney-general states that the law in no way provides for other than the actual necessary expenses of the board.

INFESTED WITH HESSIAN FLY.

Wheat Made Little Progress During the Past Month.

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 9.—Although the weather in October was exceptionally fine, the man who prepares the crop report in the secretary of state's office says it was too warm and dry for wheat to make good growth. The November report comments upon the fine weather the farmers had in which to secure their crops.

The report contains information regarding the use of commercial fertilizers and is a new feature of the bulletin. It is shown that in the eastern and southern counties considerable fertilizer is used, in Wayne county 46 per cent of the farmers using them. In the state an average of 8 per cent of the farmers use fertilizers on wheat.

The condition of wheat, as compared with an average is 57 in the state, 85 in the southern, 88 in the central and 92 in the northern counties. Fields of wheat that were sown early made a fairly good growth; but in most parts of the state these fields of early-sown wheat are thoroughly infested with the Hessian fly. Many fields could not be properly prepared on account of the dry weather; these were of necessity sown late, and while the plant on these fields is small, it is reasonably free from the fly and may eventually yield the best crop. Some fields are spotted while others on some up-lands have been badly washed.

The total number of bushels of wheat reported marketed by farmers in October at the flouring mills is 426,102, and at the elevators 350,611, or a total of 776,713 bushels. The estimated average yield of shelled corn in bushels is in the state 20. The dry weather of August and the hard frosts that occurred in the middle of September cut the potato crop short to a considerable extent. The estimated average yield per acre in the state in bushels is 65. The average condition of horses, cattle and sheep in the state is 96, and that of swine 97. Hog cholera is prevalent in many counties throughout the state. Pastures have not been good, so that in some localities stock is not in first-class condition for winter.

DARING ATTEMPT FAILED.

Burglars Tried to Hold Up Cashier of a Furniture Company.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 9.—A daring and bold attempt was made at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon to hold up the cashier of the Kent furniture factory. It was pay day in the factory and over $10,000 was contained in the little cabinet before the cashier's window, when suddenly a man walked in, jumped over the railing and grabbed the trays. He wore a mask and shoved a revolver under the cashier's nose. He was immediately jumped upon by R. A. Wolcott and his son and after a fierce struggle they overpowered him and held him until the police arrived. He was accompanied by an accomplice who was masked and carried two revolvers, but who was apparently frightened upon getting inside the office and turned and made his escape.

At the police station the prisoner was identified as Fred Boos, aged 26, married, and has a family. He has been employed at the Berkey furniture factory and left his desk at 4 o'clock to attempt the crime. He refuses to talk. The police have been unable to locate the other man.

Fire at Port Huron.

Port Huron, Mich., Nov. 9.—The new chicory factory was considerably damaged by fire Wednesday evening, the extent of which cannot as yet be accurately determined. It started in the drying kilns at the western end of the plant, presumably from a spark from the roasting vegetables. The flames spread rapidly, and for a time threatened a serious conflagration. By good work the flames were confined to the one department, but the heat twisted the iron beams badly and an entire new roof will probably be required over that portion of the building.

No Coal To Be Had.

Houghton, Mich., Nov. 9.—The Copper Range Railroad has an agent in Cleveland, sent there especially to buy coal for the winter's work of the road. He telegraphed the management that there is not a cargo of steaming coal that can be bought in Cleveland for love or money. The Copper Range Railway is building a new line along the copper belt, between Houghton and Ontonagon, which will be operated in close connection with the St. Paul system.

Muskegon's Back Taxes.

Muskegon, Mich., Nov. 9.—County Treasurer Bolt has received from Deputy Attorney-General Chase a certified copy of the new order of the Supreme Court ordering the treasurer to show cause why a mandamus should not issue to compel him to pay to the state $23,312.82, the sum in controversy between the state and county. The matter has been placed in the hands of the prosecuting attorney, and Muskegon county will fight the matter before the Supreme Court.

Diseases in Michigan.

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 9.—Reports to the state board of health show that rheumatism, neuralgia, bronchitis, diarrhea and tonsillitis in the order named caused the most sickness in Michigan during the week ending Nov. 4. Consumption was reported at 200 places, typhoid fever 104, scarlet fever 73, diphtheria 33, measles 20, whooping-cough 17, smallpox 10, cerebrospinal meningitis 2 and suspected smallpox at 1.
