PLYMOUTH IS MOURNING

DEATH OF L. CASS HOUGH OCCURRED SATURDAY.

Had Only Been Ill Since New Years Day.

Louis C. Hough, a leading Plymouth business man and manufacturer, passed away Saturday evening at the family residence. On New Years day he exposed himself to change of weather and took pneumonia. He was born July 9, 1846, at Canton, Mich., and received his schooling in the Plymouth High school and Detroit. He spent the earlier part of his life upon a farm which he owned at the time of his death, there engaged extensively in the general produce business until 1887, when he took charge of the Pere Marquette elevator in Plymouth and ran it until he sold out last fall. He has held nearly every local office and was a member of the state senate in 1891-2. At the time of his death he was president of the school board, a director of the Dairy Mfg. Co. and a number of other industries. He will be greatly missed in both business and social circles.

ANNUAL MEETING

Monitor Insurance Co. of Oakland County.

The annual meeting of the Monitor Insurance Co. of Oakland county was held at Pontiac Monday and nearly 200 members were present. George D. Cowdin was re-elected president and William E. Carpenter was re-elected secretary. Two amendments were adopted. The first provides for insuring farm property in corporate villages or cities. The second provides that all policies of the company shall expire July 1, 1902, and every sixth year thereafter. Previously policies expired six years from date. A uniform expiration will now be the result. The company's rate of assessment this year was $ 602.

Mrs. Leonard Died Friday.

Mrs. Harriet Leonard died last week Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. J. Ball, in this place at the ripe old age of nearly 88 years. Until recently she had lived nearly all her life in Monroe county. She leaves besides Mrs. Ball, two daughters residing in that county.

Funeral services were conducted here Saturday afternoon and at La Salle, Monroe county, Sunday afternoon to which point Mr. Neal and Mrs. Ball accompanied the remains which were laid to their final rest in the La Salle cemetery in the little lot which the deceased had purchased many years ago and which was marked by a stone selected by herself.

Wayne Co. Farmers' Institute.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Wayne county Farmers' Institute held at Plymouth last week a most satisfactory program was arranged. Among the speakers are D. F. Griswold and C. C. Chadwick of Northville besides three state speakers and several from other parts of the county. The institute is to be held in Plymouth town hall Jan. 24-25. Hand bills will be out next week.

Beet Sugar Meeting.

Mayor Johnson has called a meeting of the council, the business men of the village, improvement association and others interested to be held in the council room this Friday night to talk beet sugar factory and to perfect an organization tending towards interesting capital to invest in a plant here if a committee find such a plan feasible.

Don't Like the Law.

The proposed law for old-age pensions meets with much opposition in France on the ground that the age at which the pension falls due 65, is far beyond the average life of the French workman. Many labor organizations have protested, and all on the same ground, that their members have no mind to lay by from their wages money by which they personally are little likely to profit.

A New X-Ray Method.

A new and most interesting method of obtaining X-rays has been described by M. Nordou. He states that if ordinary light is allowed to fall upon an electrified aluminum plate, preferably one electrified negatively, that the light penetrates the plate and issues from the other side in the form of X-rays.

Harmony in House Furnishings.

Women would do well to give much thought to color harmony and circumstances rather than style when choosing house furnishings. Upon the harmonious blending of wall and floor covering, together with the woodwork, depends much of the success of the room; yet some women, hearing that red walls "are the style," and seeing how effective a soft shade of it is with the pure black Flemish oak, straightway has it put on her walls to combine with yellow oak. How much better a gobelin blue curtain or carriage paper would be! Then, too, often the mistake is made of having everything of one color to match, thereby causing monotony. Artistic decorators advocate old rose in rugs and hangings as a relieving contrasting bit to gobelin blue walls and yellow oak woodwork.

A Refrigerating Egg.

One of the oddest of recent inventions is a refrigerating egg, as it might be called. It is an oval capsule of nickel-plated copper about the size and shape of a hen's egg, hollow and nearly filled with water. For use it is frozen, so that its contents become ice. If you have a glass of milk that is not cold enough, you do not like to put ice into it, because dilution with water spoils the beverage. But, if you have one of these eggs handy you may drop it into the glass and in a few moments the liquid is reduced to the desired temperature.

Queensland's Trouble.

The recent exhaustive inquiry by a commission appointed on the question of the total abolition of black labor on the sugar plantations in North Queensland has resulted in the opinion that the total abolition of that labor means the extinction of the industry. The result of the finding of the federal parliament will be interesting after the government's recent pronouncement against any further importation of Kanaka labor, with the gradual extinction of the existing black employes.

Limited Bedroom Outfit.

The bedroom outfit of a man in Topeka, Kas., comprises just two articles, a quilt and an alarm clock. On a recent sultry night, with his outfit under his arm, he went to the park, spread out his quilt on the grass, put the clock near the spot selected for his head and deliberately went to bed.

Former Governor's Candidacy.

James B. McCreary, who recently announced himself as a candidate to succeed W. J. Deboe of Kentucky in the United States senate, was formerly governor of Kentucky and is known among the mountaineers of that state as "Only Jeems."—Indianapolis News.

Liliuokalani in Politics.

Queen Liliuokalani is living quietly in Honolulu. Last year she took a hand in politics to some extent and made it known among the natives that she favored the election of Delegate Wilcox. He probably owes his election to her assistance.

G. A. R. Man 103 Years Old.

John A. Reed, aged 103, marched proudly with his comrades in the late G. A. R. parade in Cleveland. Mr. Reed lives in Decatur, Ill. He is a little more than twice the age of the youngest veteran of the civil war.

Naval Cadets as Stokers.

The British admiralty office has become impressed with the idea that stoking is a work that should not be left to the uneducated laborers who now perform the work, but should be thoroughly understood if not actually performed by all naval cadets. Hereafter all cadets or naval apprentices must take a turn at stoking.

The Judge is perfectly willing and a request is all that is necessary. The Record will very much appreciate the favor.

NORTHVILLE, MICH., JAN. 17 02

Always High Grade.

All the townships in Wayne will elect supervisors next spring, including the city of Northville. The voters will elect a Mayor, Christian Gullis, to succeed the late Mayor, and a Board of Supervisors. The fact that the voters will elect a Mayor and a Board of Supervisors is a proof of the high grade of the townships. The Board of Supervisors will have the honor to elect a Mayor and a Board of Supervisors. The fact that the voters will elect a Mayor and a Board of Supervisors is a proof of the high grade of the townships.

New Style of Necktie Holder.

Numerous devices for securing a made-up tie in its proper position in relation to the collar are already in use but there is always an opening for a novelty for a good thing in this line. The latest idea for this purpose is nothing less than a pair of spring jaws which grip the head of the collar button and bring on until made to let go. The introduction in the case of a bow tie is formed of two thin plates of steel and from the inner ends of the plates two sections are cut and bent back toward each other. The plates are hinged together and provided with a stiff spring, which throws the ends backward the tendency of the jaws is to tightly grip the shank of the button when they have once been spread apart and forced over the head. The same idea may be applied to the four-in-hand and other ties. A Pennsylvania man is the inventor.

Navies Use Balloon.

The news that the Russian admiral has ordered a number of balloons for the navy shows the growing importance of the aeronautics from a naval standpoint. For some years the French navy in the Mediterranean has owned a balloon section, and a captive balloon, towed by a cruiser, has been repeatedly employed in scouting. The employment of balloons in the British navy has been often mooted, but so far no ballooning section has been decided to that force.

Antique Gaze Linties Garrets.

The prevailing craze for antique furniture, old clocks and vent china and such things has emptied nearly all the farmhouse garrets within a radius of fifty miles of Philadelphia. The country people, who used to regard their old possessions as truck and trash, are fully educated up to the market values now, said a dealer in antiques. "They have lost their guileless innocence regarding heirlooms, and now have an eye to business."—Philadelphia Record.

Does Not Have to Fly to Live.

M. Santos-Dumont, the young Brazilian aeronaut whose flying machine is creating such a sensation in Paris, was born in Rio de Janeiro in 1873. He is the youngest of a family of ten sons, and his father is a coffee planter in San Paulo. He is now probably the largest coffee farmer in the world. He owns 4,000,000 coffee plants, employs 6,000 laborers and has forty miles of light railway on his own estate. He is known as the coffee king.—Chicago Record-Herald.

They Cordially Agree. "Yes, sir, the newspapers of this country by their extended publication of sensational crimes and incidents are doing an incalculable amount of injury." "That's right. The people shouldn't be permitted to read such details. The less they know about crime and criminals the better." "I entirely agree with you. May I ask the nature of your business?" "I'm a green goods man." "And I am a dealer in gold bricks. Shake."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Help Wanted—Wife. Mrs. Hauskeep—Goodness! This means absolutely raw. The new cook is wretched; she never cooks anything half enough. Mr. Hauskeep—Don't blame her she's only a woman. Mrs. Hauskeep—What has that to do with it? Mr. Hauskeep—Well, "woman's work is never done" you know.—Boston Traveler.

They Will Hold More. "Do you ever wish you were a girl?" asked the visitor who was waiting in the reception-room. "Only at Christmas time," answered the boy, who was lingering in the doorway. "Why do you wish it then?" "Because of the stockings they wear," was the prompt reply.—Chicago Post.

Costume All Ready. Backlots—Are you going to the fancy dress ball? Subbubs—Yes, I'm going as a tramp. Backlots—Have you got your costume all ready? Subbubs—Yes, I'll wear my dress suit. My wife forgot to put it out of the way of the moths last spring.—Buffalo Courier.

If of the Right Timber. "Josiah," asked Mrs. Chugwater, looking up from a paper she was reading, "why does a medical student have to go before a board?" "So he can bring out a shingle, I suppose," replied Mr. Chugwater. "What do you want to bother me about a thing like that for?"—Chicago Tribune.

A Risk Well Avoided. "We insure persons of every vocation," said the accident insurance solicitor, "except—" He spoke in a confidential, you-seehow-it-is-yourself tone of voice "—that of innocent bystanders. We are philanthropists and all that, but we are not foolish."—Harper's Bazar.

Had Ran Out. "Why don't you blacken your shoes?" "They are patent leather, pa, and don't need to be blackened." "If they are patent leather, the patent expired some time ago, and should be renewed."—St. Louis Republic.

Disappointed. "Da candidate was a gre't disap'ntment to me," said the old colored man. "I dunno when I has been so took down." "Why, he greeted you cordially and took you by the hand." "Yessuh, he tuck me by de han', but when he legga my han' ag'in der wasn't nuffin in it."—Washington Star.

Quite Realistic. "This is the Emment Artist, 'the study of the Cows in the Clover.'" "But where is the clover?" we asked, in a serious way. "Oh, the cows have eaten it, you know."—Eastmore American.

Crowded Out. On the car they were seated. The organist was on the new. In a row the organist. She had a promise to be true. "She's a couple feet over between us," "It's warmed with a nut. But the nut moved up closer. A letter to room for closer. Chicago Daily News.

Simply Awful.

"Gussy's got the toothache. His face has been giving him great pain." "Well, a face like his is enough to pain anyone, I should say."—Ally Sloper.

Quite a Difference. She—Do you look upon all marriage ties as the same? He—Certainly not! For an afternoon wedding a four-in-hand is worn; at an evening wedding a lawn bow.—Yonkers Statesman.

Bound Not to Agree with Him. Mrs. Benham—How do you spell Benham—What difference does it make how I spell it? You wouldn't spell it the same way.—Brooklyn Life.

Keeping the Record. "And so you're not smoking any more? Well, this is quite a surprise. When did you quit?" "Last night at 7:35."—Chicago Record-Herald.

CHIEF OF ORDNANCE.

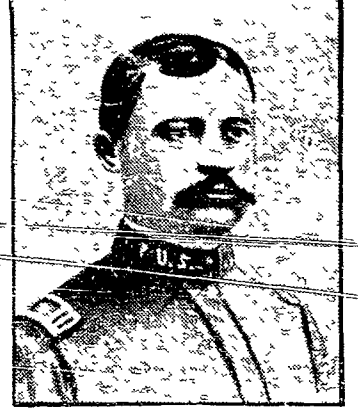

Young Man Now in Charge of Important Department.

A Few Weeks Ago William Crozier Was a Plain Captain, Now He Holds the Rank of Brigadier General in the Army.

The president recently appointed Capt. William Crozier, of the ordnance department, to be chief of the bureau of ordnance of the army with the rank of brigadier general, to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Gen. A. R. Buffington, on account of age.

The appointment of Gen. Crozier was made largely upon the recommendation of Secretary Root, who has become very favorably impressed with Gen. Crozier's ability, and who desires to surround himself with active men of high professional ability in the conduct of the military establishment. Gen. Crozier has demonstrated his ability in nearly every department of ordnance, and has shown a wide knowledge of all affairs pertaining to his profession. He was the military member for the United States delegation at the Hague peace conference, and assisted in bringing about the agreement finally reached for more humane conduct of war.

Gen. Crozier is a native of Ohio, but was appointed to the military academy from Kansas in 1872. When he graduated in 1876 he entered the artillery, and was transferred to the ordnance in 1881. He became a captain in 1890, after 14 years' service. During the Spanish war he served as a major and inspector general of volunteers. During his career as ordnance officer he has given the strictest attention to guns and gun carriages, and was a joint inventor, with Gen. Buffington, who retired the other day, of the Buffington-Crozier disappearing gun carriage.

The following is an official statement of his military record: He joined his regiment October 20, 1876, and served therewith at Fort Robinson, Neb. to November, 1876, in the field with the Powder river expedition to December 29, 1876, at Point San Jose Cal., to February 21, 1877, at Yerba Buena Island, Cal., to April 3, 1877, at Point San Jose, Cal., (on field service from June 25 to October 2, 1878), to July 21, 1879, as assistant professor of mathematics at the United States Military Academy from August 28, 1879, to August 28, 1881, on duty at Watertown Arsenal Mass. to November 1, 1885, on sick leave of absence to November 1, 1887, on duty in the office of the chief of ordnance at Washington, D. C. (on special ordnance service in Europe from November 24, 1888, to December 4, 1890, and on sick leave from May to November, 1891), to February 14, 1892; member of the ordnance board at New York city (commanding Sandy Hook proving ground, N. J., from July 22 to August 23, 1893) and on inspection duty to December 16, 1896; on duty in the office of the chief of ordnance at Washington, D. C., and on inspection duty to April 17, 1899; member of the peace commission at The Hague, Holland, to September 28, 1899, when he rejoined Washington, D. C., and was on duty at the office of the chief of ordnance until November 16, 1899; en route to and on duty in the division of the Philippines to July 14, 1900; chief ordnance officer of the China relief expedition to August 31, 1900, on duty at Washington, D. C., in connection therewith to January 18, 1901; member of the ordnance board with station at New York Arsenal, N. Y., to present date.

Some difference of opinion exists among army officers as to whether Gen. Crozier's appointment is permanent or whether it is a term of four years under the army reorganization law. The opinion of several gentlemen versed in military law is that the appointment is permanent and that the detail of four years provided for in the reorganization law applies only to the line officers detailed as chiefs of bureaus. Gen. Crozier will not retire until 1919, and if the contention is sustained that his appointment is permanent, his term as chief of ordnance will be nearly 18 years, and will preclude the possibility of any of the officers that rank him securing it at grade.

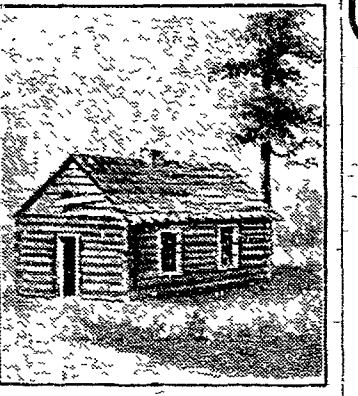

Uncle Sam is Impressed. A cadet in the United States army is paid as highly as a lieutenant in the British navy.

Mortality from Cancer. In England the mortality rate from cancer has risen from 36 per 10,000 in 1864 to 54 in 1900.

OLD SCHOOLHOUSE.

Many Men Prominent in Indiana Life Were Taught Within Its Humble Walls.

The old Vermont schoolhouse, situated six miles east of Kokomo, Ind., on the north bluff of "Wild Cat," was the principal seat of learning in Howard township, Howard county, for a half century, and deserves more than a passing notice on account of the young men of prominence who have gone out into the world from its walls. Among these are included Prof. Elmer B. Bryan, now supervisor of the normal department of the educational work in the Philipines, with headquarters in the city of Manila; Prof. John Miller, who now holds the chair of mathematics in the Indiana state university; George Miller, assistant professor of mathematics in Leland Stanford university; Ellsworth E. Robey, superintendent of the public schools of Belknap county; Prof. Rolla Trees, superintendent of the city schools at Urbana, O.; Prof. Frank L. Jones, state superintendent of public instruction; Attorney Charles De Haven, assistant clerk of the Indiana general assembly. Some of the old-time teachers who have wielded the birch and directed the young idea in this famous old schoolhouse are Department Commander Capt. Milton Gunguis, supervisor of the last census; O. A. Sumers, ex-representative; J. N. Logan and William Morton, a cousin of the late famous Indiana war governor; Rev. Sylvester Newline, pastor of the Friends church in Kokomo, as well as many others. The old schoolhouse is constructed of beech and yellow poplar logs, and is now used as a storage house for farm products and implements. It was supplanted a few years ago for school purposes by a commodious up-to-date brick and stone structure.

OLD HOOSIER SCHOOLHOUSE (Many Great Men Learned the Rudiments Within Its Walls)

NEW BRITISH STAMPS.

Postage and Revenue Portrait of Queen Victoria Yields to Bust of King Edward

With the new year in Britain began the issue of the stamps of the new reign. The penny (two cent), which will become the most familiar, is a bright red, the authorities having gone back to the old color. King Edward VII's head takes the place of Victoria's, whose portrait figured on the national stamp for more than 60 years, penny postage dating from January 10, 1840. For the greater part of her reign the queen was represented by the single portrait taken in her youth. Opinions differ as to the design for the face of King Edward, and some find difficulty in recognizing the likeness. The present issue of stamps replaces the half-penny (green), the 2 1/2 cent (blue), used especially for foreign countries, and the 5-cent (purple), all having the same design, except that the 2 1/2 cent stamp bears its denomination in figures.

THE NEW BRITISH STAMP (King Edward's Head Takes the Place of Victoria's)

Something New in Japan. The western civilization has just made its first entrance into Japan, where a "brought" suit for breach of promise, hitherto an unknown procedure in the land of the chrysanthemum. The lady in question is a wise young widow, who induced her well-to-do wooer to sign an agreement that in case either party wished to back out he or she should forfeit 1,000 yen to the other. The prospective bridegroom broke the engagement.

Declare Pe-ru-na to Be the Greatest Catarrh Remedy of The Age.

Hon. William Youngblood, Auditor of the Interior, writes from Washington, D. C., to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, O., as follows: "I've often heard of your great medicine and have persuaded my wife, who has been much of a sufferer from catarrh, to try Peruna, and after using one bottle she has wonderfully improved. It has proved all you have claimed for it."

Hon. Rufus B. Merchant, Superintendent and Disbursing Officer, U. S. Post-office, Washington, D. C., says: "I take pleasure in commending your tonic, having taken a bottle of Peruna with very beneficial results. It is recommended to me as a very excellent catarrh cure."

Congressman David F. Wüber, of Oneonta, N. Y., writes: "I am fully convinced that Peruna is all you claim for it after the use of a few bottles."

Congressman Irvine Dungan, of Jackson, O., writes: "I desire to join with my many friends in recommending your invaluable remedy Peruna to anyone in need of an invigorating spring tonic, or whose system is run down by catarrhal troubles."

Senator John M. Thurston, of Omaha, Neb., writes: "Peruna entirely relieved me of a very irritating cough. I am a firm believer in its efficacy for any such trouble."

While he was at Oxford I used to lecture to him privately on history, and afterward had to go and examine him. He never allowed me to see that he was bored, and the king who could be bored by a professor without showing that he was bored should be quite able to listen to a municipal address."

$100 Reward.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the cause of the disease, and leaving the system in a healthy condition. It is a purely vegetable preparation and is entirely harmless. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer $100.00 for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO. Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Catarrh Pills are the best.

ABOUT AUCTION BILLS!

A Good Auctioneer likes to see his name on a neat, attractive auction bill. Any old thing won't do. A neat, attractive bill with new type and cuts brings a crowd, and a good auctioneer can do the rest. Poor and unattractive bills bring a poor, no-money crowd and the auctioneer is blamed when in reality it is the printer's fault. We're up-to-date. We put up the attractive kind of bills and they cost no more than the other kind. We also give the auction and the auctioneer a good "send off" in The Record—that's free.

A burning chimney came near causing a serious conflagration at Sumner Powers' home Saturday night and but for the early discovery of the enemy and the promptness in giving battle the home world doubtless have been destroyed. When discovered the flames were just bursting through into the gutter

The stockholders of the American Bell & Foundry company held their annual meeting Wednesday afternoon and re-elected the same officers for the ensuing year: F. S. Harmon, president, Chas. Phillips, vice pres.; Win. Phillips, sec'y., E. H. Lapham, treas. The report of the president showed a very profitable year's business.

Preparations for an enjoyable time at the K. O. T. M. annual party to be given in the rink next Wednesday evening are going merrily along and the promises for a grand good time are certainly very flattering. A seven piece orchestra, including a drum, will furnish the music, and the supper will be one of those delightful affairs which the Maccabee ladies know so well how to serve.

A leaky pipe caused an explosion in the overhead tubing of the gas lighting plant in Purdy's store Wednesday evening and the interior of the building looked as if lightning had struck it. However, the damage was confined to the demolishing of the tubing and the chandeliers, and breaking of china where the falling pipes and tubing struck it. The machine put itself out of working order automatically so that there was no chance for any damage by fire.

John Smith, Mike Conroy and Jas. Flynn, all P. M. railroad construction employees, were up before Judge Webster Wednesday on charge of being drunk and disorderly. Smith pleaded guilty and paid a $3 fine and $4.75 costs in lieu of 30 days at the H. of C. The other two paid a $5 assessment and $4.75 costs each to avoid the same penalty.

So far as he has investigated the matter Supt. Wilkinson is of the opinion that the municipal electric lighting plant can furnish power at a considerable profit to the village and he will shortly prepare a report, including a summary of the contracts to be had to present to the council. The attorney general has given an opinion, based upon supreme court decisions, that any village may contract to furnish power as well as light from its electric light plant.

Presbyterian Church Notes.

The 2d division of the Ladies' Aid society will give a sleigh ride and oyster supper at Sumner G. Powers' on the base line next Monday evening. All are cordially invited. Supper 10 cents.

The Woman's Missionary society will meet at Mrs. B. A. Wheeler's at three o'clock next Wednesday. Mrs. D. B. Wells of Chicago and Mrs. Nellie Yerkes of Ypsilanti will be present. The gentlemen are invited to supper at six o'clock.

Methodist Church Notes.

The League cleared about $8.50 from the hash supper Wednesday evening.

Mr. Lloyd's subject Sunday morning will be "Jonah" and in the evening he will speak on "The Millennium."

The ladies of the W.H.M.S. are expecting their district president and secretary to meet with them at the church next Wednesday afternoon.

Clarence L. Burgeifer, the impersonator, has been engaged to give an entertainment in the Methodist church Wednesday evening, Feb. 5th.

After discussing the question of raising money to renew the insurance on the church, which expires in a few days, the official board in session Monday evening decided that there was no easier method than to ask the pastor to collect the necessary funds. Those who were present subscribed $15 to start it. We need between $50 and $70 to cover both church and parsonage. Subscriptions received so far range from 50 cents to $2.00. Let everybody help a little.

School Notes.

Motto: The boy who has acquired a reputation for punctuality has made the first contribution to the fund that is after years made by success certainly. —H. C. Brown.

Mrs. E. J. Martin visited in room No. 4 last Friday afternoon.

The eighth grade spelling contest last Friday came out a tie.

Pearl Perry has returned to school after a week's illness with mumps. The eighth grade is drawing maps on which to illustrate the different phases of the civil war.

We are having fewer tardy marks than usual these days. That helps to make a good school.

Physiology, narcotics and stimulants are being given the necessary attention throughout the school.

The parents' meeting last Friday afternoon was fairly well attended and some excellent thoughts were exchanged.

During the next few weeks from 2:30 to the close of school every alternate Friday the time will be spent with rhetorical work.

Ask the young people who remain at the school house for dinner why a couple of high-school girls turned so deathly pale about dinner time.

About twenty-five of the 300 pamphlets sent out by our State Board of Health department at Lansing remain. If any family cares for one we shall be pleased to supply it.

Through the kindness and liberality of the members of the local G. A. R. post our schools are supplied with about 275 copies of song books containing most of our national and popular war songs. Will the members please accept the hearty thanks of pupils and teachers?

Over a week ago our school sent an invitation to a neighboring school to arrange for a debate between representatives of the schools. As we have not yet heard from the invitation we naturally conclude that, in some way, the great reputation that some of our young people hold for debating must have gone abroad. SRRP.

Wise Cats in Vermont.

There are wise cats as well as wise people in Vermont. A man living at Pomfret, in that state, possessed one of them, which called him out of bed the other evening by its piteous wailings, and led him to a portion of a wood lot where a feline companion had been caught in a trap set for skunks.

Walled Lake News.

Miss Emma Rose of Detroit is visiting friends here.

Count Boyajian, one of nine Armenians who escaped at the time of the massacre, will speak in the Baptist church Sunday morning on "The Evils of Mohammedism." On Tuesday evening he and wife and sister will lecture in the Baptist church, the ladies appearing in the different costumes of the country.

Pere's Great Arc.

The French government has sent out a large party of French scientists to measure the Arc of Quito in Peru. This important survey was first made 160 years ago, but the improvements in methods and instruments for geodetic work have been so great that arcs of the earth can now be measured with almost inappreciable error. The plan is to extend the original measurements in both directions, so that the work now undertaken includes an arc of over seven degrees, or about 430 miles.

Rockefeller Never Writes Messages.

John D. Rockefeller occasionally uses the long-distance telephone when away from his New York office, but not for important business. For such purposes he never uses the mails. There is a private wire from the office to his mansion at Forest Hill, Ohio, and the Standard Oil millionaires, when at the latter point, transmits his messages just as though he were in New York. He never writes a message, but talks to a trusted and reliable operator.

Trolley in Egypt.

Tourists in Egypt can now take a trolley car if the main street of Cairo direct to the pyramids. In a short time a line will be built equipped with American cars to run from the ocean front at Tiraous to the Parthenon at Athens.

Warning.

A young woman at Garden City jerked her head back to keep from being kissed and broke her neck. She did not get kissed, either. It is a terrible warning to the girls not to jerk. —Hutchinson, Kas., News.

Harmony in Effects.

is all right, if you are too fat; and all wrong, if too thin already. Fat, enough for your habit, is healthy; a little more, or less, is no great harm. Too fat, consult a doctor; too thin, persistently thin, no matter what cause, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. There are many causes of getting too thin; they all come under these two heads: over-work and under-digestion. Stop over-work, if you can; but, whether you can or not, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, to balance yourself with your work. You can't live on it—true—but, by it, you can. There's a limit, however; you'll pay for it. Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the readiest cure for "can't eat," unless it comes of your doing no work—you can't long be well and strong, without some sort of activity.

The genuine has this picture on it, take no other. If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you. SCOTT & BOWNE Chemists, 123 West 12th Street, New York.

Prof. F. S. Goodrich of Albion college, state president of the Epworth League, was present Sunday evening during the devotional hour of the League and gave an excellent talk upon the League work, after which he gave an excellent lecture on "A Day in Jerusalem." It was almost a reality, his descriptive powers being so great. He is a fine speaker and held his audience spell-bound from beginning to end.

A Deep Mystery. It is a mystery why women endure Backache, Headache, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Melancholy, Fainting and Dizzy Spells when thousands have proved that Electric Bitters will quickly cure such troubles. "I suffered for years with kidney troubles," writes Mrs. Phebe Cherry, of Peterson, Ia., "and a lame back pained me so I could not dress myself, but Electric Bitters wholly cured me, and, although 73 years old, I now am able to do all my housework." It overcomes Constipation, improves Appetite, gives perfect health. Only 50c at Geo. C. Hueston's drug store.

Doing Well. Not long ago a certain village club arranged "a grand cricket match, admission 1 penny," for the benefit of John, the old man who looked after the ground. There were no tickets printed, and John stood at the gate of the cricket field and collected the pennies himself. It was a very hot day, there was a public-house just across the road, and John's thirst—always troublesome—was simply unquenchable. Some time after the luncheon interval a gentleman who takes a keen interest in the club approached the gate and addressed the old guardsman: "Well, John, you appear to be doing well. There's quite a big gate, I see." "Wee!" replied John, deliberately, "it ain't a bad 'un, I must say. 'Owsomever, I managed to sup (drink) the gate money so far, an' I could do wi' a trainload o' folks yet!"—London Daily Moments.

Greatest of Human Cargoes. The Kildonan castle, when first fitted out as a transport for South Africa, carried 2,700 rank and file, 170 officers in the first class, 80 in the second class and about 300 of a crew, being 3,190 in all. In addition, twelve horses were carried, and the mere fitting of the necessary accommodation occupied 3,000 men for eighteen days. The Celtic, when full in its ordinary trade, slightly exceeds this, the passenger accommodation comprising room for 374 first-class, 160 second-class and 2,352 third—a total of 2,886. In addition the deck crew numbers 64, the engine room and stokehold require 92 men, and the steward's department has 170—535 in all—making the grand total 3,221 souls—Pearson's Weekly.

Enemy of the Thistle. The Michigan farmers who paid 60 cents a gallon for gasoline that was offered to them as an exterminator of Canadian thistles found that it did the business without fail, and therefore got something for their money. Incidentally they also paid for a bit of knowledge that will enable other farmers to fight the thistle successfully, and therefore they will probably not kick themselves hard or for any great length of time.

Who Pays the Printer?

When you go around from printer to printer getting bids on a job and then giving it to the lowest bidder, you get an indifferently good job—one with no particularly good points—one that sells no goods for you, then who pays the printer?

YOU DO.

When you pick out a good printer, giving him all your work, educating him to an idea of your needs, and paying a fair price for the work you get, your printed matter (when secured at the Record-Printer) necessarily creates a favorable impression for you and for what you offer, and becomes a factor in selling your goods. Then, who pays the printer? Your customer.

The Lost Continent

By CUTCLIFFE HYNE.

Published by Harper & Bros. Copyright, 1900, by Cutcliffe Hyne.

CHAPTER I.—The story of the Lost Continent is the story of an ancient manuscript found in a cave in the Canary Islands and opens with the installation of Tatho as viceroy of Acatlan, a province of Atlantis, the latter a continent situated in the Atlantic ocean. Tatho succeeds "Eucalion," who is recalled by the queen, Phoenice, to help her in the return of her Phoenice, of whom he has heard little, he learns to be a crafty and very beautiful woman having been born the daughter of a swineherd although she claims to be a daughter of the gods. She is adopted and raised by Zaemon, governor of a province, and on the fact of her adoption is witnessed of a great ambition to rule and while still young deposes him. All attempts to capture her are unsuccessful and she finally defeats the old king and takes the throne.

CHAPTER II.—Tatho is much surprised when next day Eucalion asks the use of a ship to take him home, believing he had grown rich during his reign, as he (Tatho) would have done, but Eucalion is a poor man, having ruled only for the good of the country. Things are different in Atlantis, greed and selfishness being the universal rule.

CHAPTER III.—When near home they are halted by enemies of Phoenice, who demand the custody of Eucalion. Tatho, the captain, refuses, and a fierce fight ensues, in which he is victorious.

CHAPTER IV.—Eucalion upon his arrival is met with much pomp and ceremony and the fact that he has not really had no influence over Eucalion, he readily realized her powerful influence over others, and the fact that he had not really fallen in love with her even in his youth. Eucalion notices and the grace of the city also the poverty, squalor and starvation, and he realizes that it is the result of a siege to which the city has been for some time subjected.

"Fah!" she said, and frowned. "Have you appetite only for the sterner pleasures of life? My good Eucalion, they must have been rustic folk in that colony of yours. Well, you shall give me news now of the toothsome of this feast."

Dishes and goblets were placed before us, and we began to eat, though I had little enough appetite for victual so broken and so highly spiced. But if this smacking cookery and these luscious wines did not appeal to me, the other diners in that gorgeous hall appreciated it all to the full! They sat about in groups on the pavement beneath the light-jets like a tangle of rainbows for color, and according to the new custom they went into raptures and ecstasies over their enjoyment. Women and men both, they lingered over each titillation of the palate as though it were a caress of the gods.

Phoenice, with her quick, bright eyes, looked on, and occasionally flung one or another a few words between her talk with me, and now and again called some favored creature up to receive a scrap of food from the royal dish. This she honored one would eat with extravagant gesture, or (as happened twice) would put it away in the folds of his clothes as a treasure too dear to be profaned by human lips.

To me this flattery appeared gross and disgusting, but Phoenice, through use, perhaps, seemed to take it as merely her due. There was, one had to suppose, a weakness in her somewhere, though truly to the outward seeming none was apparent. Her face was strong enough, and it was subtle also, and moreover, it was wondrously comely. All the courtiers in the banquetting hall raved about Phoenice's beauty and the other beauties of her body and limbs, and though not given to appreciation in these matters, I could not but see that here at least they had a groundwork for their admiration: for surely the gods have never favored mortal woman more highly. Yet, lovely though she might be, for myself I preferred to look upon Ylga, the girl, who, because of her rank, was privileged to sit on the divan behind us as immediate attendant. There was an honesty in Ylga's face which Phoenice's lacked.

"They did not eat to satisfy their bodies, these feasters in the banquetting hall of the royal pyramid, but they ate to clothe themselves, and they strutted forth new usages with every platter and bowl that the slaves brought. To me some of their manners were closely touching on disrespect. At the half-way of the meal a gorgeous popinjay—he was a governor of an out-province driven into the capital by a rebellion in his own lands—thus gorgeous top, I say, walked up between the groups of feasters with flushed face and unsteady gait, and did obeisance before the divan. "Most astounding empress," cried her, "fairest among the goddesses, queen regnant of my adoring heart, hail!"

And so the feast went on, the guests practicing their gluttonies and their absurdities, and the guards standing to their arms round the circuit of the walls as motionless and as stern as the statues carved in the white stone beyond them. But a term was put to the orgie with something of suddenness. There was a stir at the farther doorway of the banquetting hall, and a clash, as two of the guards joined their spears across the entrance. But the man they tried to stop—or perhaps it was to p—passed them unharmed, and walked up over the pavement between the lights and the groups of feasters. All looked round at him; a few threw him words; but none ventured to stop his progress. A few, women chiefly, I could see shuddered as he passed them; as though a wintry chill had come over them; and in the end he walked up and stood in front of Phoenice's divan and gazed fixedly on her, but without making obeisance.

He was a frail old man, with white hair tumbling on his shoulders and tagged beard. The head of wayfaring hung in clots on his feet and legs. His wizened body was bare save for a single cloth wound about his shoulders and his loins, and he carried in his hand a wand with the symbol of our Lord the Sun glowing at its tip. That wand went to show his caste, but in no other way could I recognize him.

I took him for one of those ascetics of the Priests' clan, who had forsown the steady nurtured life of the Sacred Mountain, and who lived out in the dangerous lands among the burning hills, where there is daily peril from falling rocks, from fire streams, from evil vapors, from sudden fissuring of the ground and from other movements of those unstable territories, and from the greater lizard's and other monstrous beasts which hunt them. These keep constant in the mercury of the night of the holy gods, and the insecurity of this frail earth on which we have our resting place, and so the sojourners there become chastened in the spirit and gain power over mysteries which even the most studious and learned of other men can never hope to attain.

A silence filled the room when the old man came to his halt, and Phoenice was the first to break it. "Those two guards," she said, in her clear, carrying voice, "who held the door are not equal to their work. I cannot have imperfect servants; remove them."

The soldiers next in the rank lifted their spears and drove them home, and the two fellows who had admitted the old man fell to the ground. One shrieked once, the other gave no sound, they were never thrusts both.

The old man found his voice, thin and high and broken. "Another crime added to your tally, Phoenice. Not half your army could have hindered my entrance had I wished to come, and let me tell you that I am here to bring you your last warning. The gods have shown you much favor. They gave you merit by which you could rise above your fellows, till at last only the throne stood above you. It was seen good by those on the Sacred Mountain to let you have this vast ambition, and sit on this throne that has so long and honorably been filled by the ancient kings of Atlantis."

The empress sat back on the divan smiling. "I seemed to get these things as I chose, and in spite of your friends' teeth I may owe to you old man, a small parcel of thanks, though that I offered to repay; but for my lords the priests, their permission was of small enough value when it came. I would have you remember that I was as firm on the throne of Atlantis as this pyramid stands upon its base when your worn-out priests came up to give their totter of benediction on."

The old man waved aside her interruption. "Hear me out," he said. "I am here with no trivial message. There is nothing paltry about the threat I can throw at you, Phoenice. With your fire tubes, your handling of troops and your other fiendish cleverness, you may not be easy to overthrow by mere human means, though, forsooth, these poor rebels who yap against your city walls have contrived to hold their ground for long enough now. It may be that you are becoming enervated; I do not know. It may be that you are too wrapped up in your feasting, your dressings, your pumps and your debaucheries, to find leisure to turn to the art of war. It may be that the man's spirit has gone out from your arm and brain, and you are a woman once more—weak and pleasure-loving; again I do not know."

"But this must happen. You must undo the evil you have done; you must give bread to the people who are starving, even if you take it from these gluttons in this hall, you must restore Atlantis to the state in which it was entrusted to you, or else you must be removed. It cannot be permitted that the country should sink back into the lawlessness and barbarism from which its ancient kings have digged it. You hear, Phoenice. Now give me true answer."

"Speak him fairly. Oh, for the sake of your fortune, speak him fairly!" came Ylga's voice in a hurried whisper from behind us. But the empress took no notice of it. She leaned forward on the cushions of the divan with a knit brow.

"Do you dare to threaten me, old man, knowing what I am?" "I know your origin," he said, gravely, "as well as you know it yourself. As for my daring, that is a small matter. He need be but a timid man who dares to say words that the high gods put on his lips."

"I shall rule this kingdom as I choose. I shall brook interference from no creature on this earth, or beneath it, or in the sky above. The gods have chosen me to be their regent in Atlantis, and they do not depose me through such creatures as you. Go away, old man, and play the fanatic in another court. It is well that I have an ancient kindness for you, or you would not leave this place unharmed." "Now, indeed, you are lost," I heard Ylga murmur from behind and the old man in front of us did not move a step. Instead, he lifted up the symbol of Our Lord the Sun, and launched his curse. "Your blasphemy gives the reply I asked for. Hear me now make declaration of war on behalf of those against whom you have thrown insults. You shall be overthrown and sent to the nether gods. At whatever cost the land shall be purged of you and yours, and all the evil that has been done to it while you have sullied the throne of its ancient kings. You will not amend; neither will you yield tamely. You want that you sit as firm on your throne as this pyramid repose on its base. See how little you know of what the future carries. I say to you that, while you are yet empress, you shall see this royal pyramid which you have polluted with your debaucheries torn tie from tier, and stone from stone, and scattered as feathers spread before the wind."

"You may wreck the pyramid," said Phoenice, contemptuously. "I myself have some knowledge of the earth forces, as I have shown this night. But though you crumble every stone above us now and around into grit and dust, I shall still be empress. What force can you, crazy priests bring against me that I cannot throw back and destroy?"

"We have a weapon that was forged in no mortal smithy," I shrilled the old man, "whereof the key is now lodged in the Ark of the Mysteries. But that weapon can be used only as a last resource. The nature of it even is too awful to be told in words. Our other powers will be launched against you first, and for this poor country's sake I pray that they may cause you to wince. Yet rest assured, Phoenice, that we shall not step aside once we have put a hand to this matter. We shall carry it through, even though the cost be a universal burning and destruction. For know this, daughter of the swineherd, it is agreed among the most high gods that you are too full of sin to continue unchecked."

"Speak him fairly," Ylga urged from behind. "He has a power at which you cannot even guess."

The empress made to rise, but Ylga clung to her skirt. "For the sake of your fame," she urged, "for the sake of your life, do not defy him." But Phoenice struck her fiercely aside and faced the old man in a tumult of passion. "You dare call me a blasphemer, who blaspheme yourself? You dare cast slurs upon my birth, whom am come direct from the most high Heaven? Old man, your craziness protects you in part, but not in all. You shall be whipped. Do you hear me? I say, whipped. The lean flesh shall be scourged from your scraggy bones, and you shall totter away from this place as a red and bleeding excrement for those who would dare transude their empress. Here, some of you, I say, take that man and let him be whipped where he stands."

Her cry went out clearly enough. But not a soul among those glittering feasters stirred in his place. Not a soldier among the guards stepped from his rank. The place was hung in a terrible silence. It seemed as though no one within the hall dared so much as to draw a breath. All felt that the very air was big with fate.

Phoenice with her head crouched forward, looked from one group to another. Her face was working. "Have I no true servants?" she asked, "among all you pretty lipservers."

Still no one moved. They stood, or sat, or crouched like people fascinated. For myself with the first words he had uttered, I had recognized the old man by his voice. It was Zaemon, the weak governor who had given the empress her first step towards power, that earnest searcher into the mysteries, who knew more of the powers, than any other dweller on the Sacred Mountain, even at that time when I left for my colony. And now, during his strange hermit life, how much more might he not have learned? I was torn by warring duties. I loved much to the Priests' clan by reason of my oath and membership; it seemed I owed no less to Phoenice. And, again, was Zaemon the truly accredited envoy of the high council of the priests of the Sacred Mountain? And was the empress of a truth deposed by the high gods above, or was she still empress, and still commander of my duty? I could not tell, and so I sat in my seat awaiting what the event would show.

Phoenice's fury was growing. "Do I stand alone here?" she cried. "Have I pampered you creatures out of all touch with gratitude? It seems that at least I want a new chief to my guards. He! who will be the chief of the guards of the empress?"

There was a shifting of eyes a hesitation. Then a great burly form strode up from the farther end of the hall, and a perceptible shudder went up from all the others as they watched him.

"So, Tarca, you prefer to take the risks, and remain chief of the guard yourself?" she said, with an angry scoff. "Truly there did not seem to be many thrusting forward to strip you of the office. I shall have a fine sorting up of places in payment for this night's work. But for the present, Tarca, do your duty."

The man came up, obviously timorous. He was a solidly made fellow, but not altogether unmartial, and though but little of his cheek showed above his decorated beard, I could see that he paled as he came near to the priest. "My lord," he said, quietly, "I must ask you to come with me."

"Stand aside!" said the old man, thrusting out the symbol in front of him. I could see his eyes gather on the soldier and his brows knit with a strain of will.

Tarca saw this, too, and I thought he would have fallen, but with an effort he kept his manhood and doggedly repeated his summons. "I must obey the command of my mistress, and I would have you remember, my lord, that I am but a servant. You must come with me to the whip."

"I warn you!" cried the old man. "Stand from out of my path, you!" "It must have been with the courage of desperation that the soldier dared to use force. But the hand he stretched out dropped lumpy back to his side the moment it touched the old man's bare shoulder, as though it had been struck by some shock. He seemed almost to have expected some such repulse; yet when he picked up that hand with the other and looked at it, and saw its whiteness, he let out of him a yell like a wounded beast. "Oh, gods!" he cried, "not that. Spare me!"

But Zaemon was glowering at him still. A twitching seized the man's face, and he put up his sound hand to it and plucked at his beard, which was curled and plaited after the new fashion of the day. A woman standing near screamed as the half of the beard came off in his fingers. Beneath was silver whiteness over half of his face. Zaemon had smitten him with a sudden leprosy that was past cure.

Yet the punishment was not ended even then. Other twitchings took him on other parts of the body, and he wore off his armor and his foppish clothes, and always where the bare flesh showed there had the horrid plague written its white mark; and in the end, being unable to endure no more, the man fell to the pavement and lay there writhing.

Zaemon said no further word. He lifted the symbol before him, set his eyes on the farther door of the banquetting hall and walked for it directly, all those in his path shrinking away from him with open shudders. And through the robes of the door he passed out of our sight, still wordless, still unchecked.

I glanced up at Phoenice. The loveliness of her face was drawn and haggard. It was her first great reverse, this, she had met with in all her life, and the shock of it, and the vision of what might follow after, dazed her. Alas, if she could only have guessed at a tenth of the terrors which the future had in its womb, Atlantis might have been saved even then.

(To be continued next week.)

Training Boys for the Sea.

The practical German train boys for their steamship service by a three years' course, on fast freight ships which earn money for the company while after a field of instruction for the youth. At the end of the first year the boy becomes an ordinary seaman, and at the end of the second year an "A. B." A year later he goes on one of the company's regular steamships to get the finishing touch, and to qualify him for that year in the imperial navy which makes him what all commandants must be—a royal reserve officer.

Dinner Party of Twelve.

A charming dinner party, arranged for a party of twelve, was spread with a cloth of the finest white linen elaborately open worked, lace-edged and inserted with Hungarian handmade lace. This cloth was laid over a slip of pale green satin. The flowers chosen were sweet peas of all colors mingled with green and white ribbon roses over a carpet of delicate green ferns and white daisies and gold monardella. The glasses matched the cover glass and the silver napkins were of a rich red and drawn to match the tablecloth.—Easton Journal.

Japs. Entry Appreciated the Drama.

National drama began its career in England and Japan at about the same time. In 1575 Okuni, a priestess who ran away from the temple (but made her peace with the god Onamuyi by devoting part of the receipts to repairing his shrine), gave her first theatrical performance at Kioto. In 1576 the Earl of Leicester's servants erected the first public theater in Blackfriars—London M. A. P.

Patti's Prejudice.

Mme Patti would never play in an opera where anyone has to sit on a table. This was because she had not made the success of Carmen that she had in other operas. She attributed this entirely to the fact that she had to sit on a table in the inn scene in the second act.

Rival Sunday-School Claims.

It is said that the first Sunday school in this country was by the Dunkers, in Pennsylvania, in 1740. This claim, however, is disputed, and the assertion is made that Sunday instruction to children was given by the Puritans in New England long before this date.

An Automobile Afire.

An automobile caught fire in Broadway, at Liberty street, New York, one day recently. A fire engine was called and the blaze was put out with sand without much damage being done to the machine.

Castles in Spain.

A woman with a little red baby on her lap can look farther into the future than any one else on earth, and every view in sight is pretty enough for a chromo.—Atchison Globe.

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHIERS.

Suburban News.

The people of Ortonville want to be incorporated into all the rights and privileges of a village, including taxes and sidewalks. They will get the whole business.

Mumps are not on the wane at Wayne, as was reported—Northville Record. Of course not, they're on the jaw—a sort of chop stick, as it were.—Adrian Press

As a result of injury to her finger by carbolic acid, Mrs. Leedle of Carlton lost a finger two weeks ago, and last week it was found necessary to amputate the arm above the elbow.

The Delray Times wants to attract the attention of all the small boys to the skating on the Rouge river and so it tells in this week's paper of the 'dangerous condition of the ice' there.

Floyd Lapham has received a brand new double cylinder traction engine which he purchased of John Challis.—South Lyon Excelsior.

Must be a grist mill instead of an engine. Engines haven't to do with bran.

Editor Stearns of the Adrian Press slipped on a slippery sidewalk Tuesday night and struck her-whop on his name. Next morning the Adrian papers came out with a tale of an earthquake being felt in that city.

Frank Lee of South Lyon wants the circuit court to say that Frank Millen of that place should pay him $1,000 damages for slanderous statements alleged to have been made by Millen. Lee sets up that Millen said he was drunk.

V. F. Markham of Plymouth is a good man to have in any town. The G. A. R. post at that place was about to give up its charter owing to lack of funds to keep the organization up, when Mr. Markham came to the front last week and ordered all bills hereafter sent to him. Mr. Markham was some time ago made honorary member of that order and now the old soldiers appreciate his kindness more than ever.

Arbuckle Ryan Company of Toledo announces they will go courting to see whether the Wyandotte council will pay contract price for the boiler furnished the city by that firm. The council voted to pay but Mayor Campbell vetoed the proposition. $5,000 is involved.

Who sympathized with you when your little girl was sick? Was it your home merchant or was it Sears & Roebuck? Who carried you last winter when you were out of a job and had no money? Was it Montgomery, Ward & Co or was it your home merchant? When you want to raise money for the church or some needy person in town do you write to the Fair store in Chicago or do you go to our home merchants? How much do Seigel, Cooper & Co give toward keeping up the sidewalks of the town, or paying the minister's salary? When you were sick how many nights did Hubbard, Spencer and Bartlett sit up with you? When your loved one was buried was it your home paper which shed the tear of sympathy and uttered the cheering word, or was it some Chicago or New York paper?—E.V.

MARDI GRAS

New Orleans, Mobile and Pensacola. The Mardi Gras Carnivals will be held this year in above cities, from February 4 to 11. For this occasion the Louisville & Nashville R. R. will sell round trip tickets to New Orleans, Mobile and Pensacola at one fare for the round trip. Tickets on sale February 4 to 10 and are limited to February 28. For a very interesting illustrated booklet giving the history of the Mardi Gras, address C.L. STONE, Gen. Pass. Agt., Louisville & Nashville R. R., Louisville, Ky.

Whitney's Opera House—Detroit.

"The popular play, 'Man's Enemy,' will be the attraction at the Whitney Opera House all next week. This is the piece that is now being played in London for the sixth successive season a remarkable fact in these days when a play that has run 100 nights or even 200 nights is indeed a rara avis, but 'Man's Enemy' has been played upward of 1,200 times, no fewer than 550 performances having been given in the City of London.

Lyceum Theatre—Detroit.

"The Dairy Farm," the most successful of all domestic plays, will be the attraction at the Lyceum Theatre all of next week, opening the evening of Dec. 19. This charming play is from the pen of Miss Eleanor Herron, a very capable actress and remarkably clever playwright, who has been seen in the leading support of many of our best stars. It was first produced in New York three years ago and has never closed winter or summer since then. It will be given here by the original company, with all of the elaborate scenery, etc. The usual popular priced matinees.

Peaches of Ozark Region.

Seventy-five million peaches. One peach for every man, woman and child in the United States. This is the contribution which the Ozark fruit belt, centering in Howell and Oregon counties, has made to the world's peach crop in 1901.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Children Especially Liable.

Burns, bruises and cuts are extremely painful and if neglected often result in blood poisoning. Children are especially liable to such mishaps because not so careful. As a remedy DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is unequalled. Draws out the fire, stops the pain, soon heals the wound. Beware of counterfeits. Sure cure for piles. "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured my baby of eczema after two physicians gave her up," writes James Mock, N. Webster, Ind. "The sores were so bad she could not go to five dresses a day."—Murdock Bros.

Don't Wait Christianity.

Hamilton King, consul general of the United States in Siam, says the people of that country do not want the Christian religion. They are believers in the Buddhist faith, the faith of their fathers, of their king and of their country. But the king is willing that they should learn of Christianity and missionary work goes on unhindered.

Constipation neglected or badly treated, leads to total disability or death. Rocky Mountain Tea absolutely cures constipation in all its forms. 35c. Murdock Bros.

Red Wine King Edward's Tipples.

For many years King Edward has not touched champagne, which was at one time his favorite beverage, and which he made so fashionable. He now drinks nothing but red wine, of which he has great quantities at Marlborough House and Sandringham, and of which he is considered the finest judge in England.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Thousands Sent Into Exile.

Every year a large number of poor sufferers whose lungs are sore and racked with coughs are urged to go to another climate. But this is costly and not always sure. Don't be an exile when Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption will cure you at home. It's the most infallible medicine for coughs, colds, and all Throat and Lung diseases on earth. The first dose brings relief. Astounding cures result from persisted use. Trial bottles, free at Geo. C. Hueston's. Price, 50c and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed.

Lamps on Dogs' Collars.

A novel idea for sportsmen seems to be of Portuguese origin. An electric lamp is placed on the collar of the hunting dog, and this frightens foxes and badgers from their burrows when the dog enters.

World's Greatest Shipping Ports.

The three greatest shipping ports in the world are New York, Liverpool and Hamburg. Over 25,000 vessels arrive and depart each year at Hamburg and over 41,000 at Liverpool.

A Fatal Mistake.

Mrs. Isolate (of Lonelyville)—You say the new cook only stopped long enough at the Lonelyville railroad station to take the next train back to the city, Ferdinand? I fear you didn't show her enough little attentions on the trip out! Isolate (miserably)—I bought her everything the train boy had, but I knew I had lost her when I didn't kiss her when the train went through the tunnel!—Brooklyn Eagle.

Probably Never Heard of It.

The theological argument waxed warmer and warmer. "But, my dear sir," protested Deacon Ironside, aghast, "you don't pretend to know more about it than the Apostle Peter did, do you?" "What did the Apostle Peter know," retorted the man with the aggressive pompadour, "about the higher criticism?"—Chicago Tribune.

Satisfactorily Explained.

"Why do you talk so much?" ma cried, reproving little May. "I 'spose it's 'cause," the child replied, "I 'se got so much to say."—Catholic Standard and Times.

FATHERLY ADVICE.

"Wat's de matter, Billy?" "Me intened trow me over becuz I didn't have no automobile." "Take an old man's advice, an' don't have nothin' more to do wid her. A woman wid extravagant ideas like dat would ruin any man."—Detroit Free Press.

A Kogne's Lyceum. A Chicago embezzler who expects to be released on bail shortly proposes to lecture "in the cause of justice and the humane enforcement of the laws." A Missouri "firebug" is to take the platform, doubtless for the purpose of expressing his animosity to the fire insurance companies. Perhaps a
