"TILL THE COURT US DO PART."

—From Detroit Journal.

THE ANNUAL VILLAGE ELECTION

THE TIME IS NEARLY UPON US AGAIN.

Caucuses Will Probably Be Held Along Next Week.

It hardly seems possible that the time for the annual village election is nearly upon the people of Northville again. The 365 days intervening between two elections travel with apparent great rapidity in these busy times.

The committee of the "Citizens" party is E. K. Starkweather, E. Bradenburgh and Frank Perrin. The "Workingmen's" committee is C. L. Dubuair, W. H. Hutton and E. K. Simonds. Inasmuch as the election occurs on March 10th it is likely that the committees will issue the call for the party caucuses next week.

The Record desires again to call the attention of the tax-payers to the fact that the business interests of the village have assumed proportions that call for the best talent obtainable in the successful management of its affairs. There will be a call for the raising of from $6,000 to $8,000 by taxation next year and the tax-payers who have to pay this should interest themselves in the caucuses as well as the election that follows.

The present council has managed the village's affairs during the last year in a very commendable manner and the people could look a-long ways and not find a better lot.

A VALUABLE BOOK

Flight of the Gillman Special Through Michigan.

The Record is in receipt of a copy of a neatly printed and interesting book entitled "On the Turtle's Back" published by President J. D. Hawks of the Detroit & Mackinaw railway company. It is a record of a trip made in the lower peninsula of Michigan by editors of newspapers published in Detroit, Northville, Flint, Bay City, Saginaw, Alpena, Philadelphia and other cities, and faithfully depicts the marvelous changes that have taken place in this section of the state and indicates the evolution from the lumbering operations, the principal product of Michigan, for so many years, into that of the beet sugar industry, the manufacturing, mining and agricultural pursuits as are followed today and which were faithfully described by the newspaper men on this memorable trip.

The article on beet sugar is from one of the best posted men in this industry in Michigan, while the other articles are from men equally well known in their respective pursuits.

The book will prove of decided value to those at all interested in the beet sugar, coal and lumber industries of the state.

BET SUGAR MEETING.

State Speakers Will Be Here Next Thursday.

A farmers' institute will be held in the rink here next week Thursday forenoon and afternoon, and among other things the beet sugar question will be thoroughly discussed. State Speaker Gilbert of Lansing, a practical beet grower, and Peter Voorhes, a practical farmer of Pontiac, and others will address the meeting. Everybody invited, and farmers especially.

STILL ANOTHER CHEESE FACTORY

FRED M. WARNER HAS SECURED THE PLYMOUTH.

Makes Six Factories the Secretary Will Now Operate.

Fred M. Warner, Secretary of State and president of the State Dairy-men's association, has secured the Johffe cheese factory at Plymouth and will now operate that in connection with his others. The Plymouth factory is the second largest plant in Michigan, and it will now make Mr. Warner's output nearly 1,000,000 pounds. Mr. Warner's factories, six in all, are now located at Plymouth, Northville, Novi, Franklin, Farmington and Springbrook.

About 90 per cent of Mr. Warner's sales is with Michigan tradesmen.

A Handsome Car.

The Detroit United Railway has recently completed an elegant new car to be used for special service. It was designed and built at the company's shops in Detroit. It is 31 feet long and is equipped with motors representing 250 horse power, capable of attaining a speed of 50 miles per hour, and is adapted for service on all the inter-urban lines operated by the Detroit system. It is a very easy riding car, is furnished with movable leather covered chairs, and has seating accommodation for 50 people. The interior wood work finish is in cherry, with dark green head linings. The windows are plate glass and the floor is richly carpeted. The car is also provided with a buffet for the convenience of people using it for private parties. This car can be chartered for special service at reasonable rates by applying at general office, 12 Woodward avenue, Detroit, Mich.

State Fair Meeting Postponed.

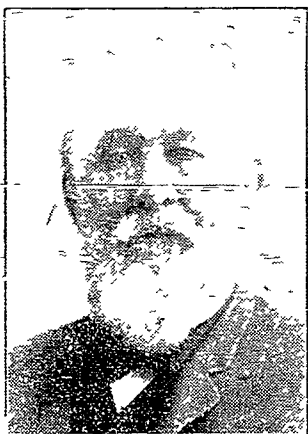

The winter meeting of the directors of the State Fair Association, which was to have been held in Pontiac Tuesday, has been postponed for one week by direction of Secretary I. H. Butterfield. A number of matters of importance will come before the directors at that meeting.

ONE OF COUNTY'S EARLY PIONEERS

HIRAM THAYER OF NEAR SALEM NOW IN POOR HEALTH.

Has Lived on the Old Homestead All the 70 Years of His Life.

One of Northville townships best known pioneers and most prosperous and highly respected citizens is Hiram B. Thayer of near Salem. On the farm where he now lives in feeble health he was born Jan. 8, 1832—just a little more than 70 years ago. There he has resided all these years and until within the last six months he has enjoyed remarkable good health and he still retains all his mental faculties though afflicted bodily.

HIRAM B. THAYER, of this township who, at the age of 70 years, is now in very poor health.

In 1855 he was united in marriage with Almira J. Wheeler, who died some two years ago. Of that union were born Will W. Thayer, now of Detroit; Mrs. Elizabeth Haskell of Ludington and Rufus Thayer of Colorado Springs, Colo. Mr. Thayer's father was a native of Vermont and if our record serves us correctly he first settled in Michigan in Farmington township in 1825. Hiram Thayer has faithfully filled many public offices. In 1875-6 he was deputy county clerk of this county and he served two years, 1877-79, as county auditor. He held the office of supervisor of the township of Plymouth for eight years from 1886 and again one year in 1882, and has been justice of the peace for years and years. He has been loyal to every trust imposed upon him and in his declining years he is enjoying the manifest regard of his neighbors as well as being surrounded by all the comforts of life and the care of his children and grandchildren and the satisfaction of the thoughts of a well-spent life. The Record trusts he will yet recover his old time health and enjoy the busy scenes of life as of yore.

R. F. D. CARRIERS

Applications Now Being Received for Northville Routes.

Postmaster Hutton has been ordered to receive applications for the position of rural mail carriers for the routes to be soon established out of Northville. Carriers are now placed under the classified service and must be able to read and write and be between the ages of 17 and 35 years. The salary is $500 per year and the carrier must furnish his own horse and wagon. A notice posted in the postoffice gives full particulars. It is expected the routes out of Northville will be established by April 1st.

Saturday's Races.

Saturday's races brought out another strenuous crowd. The races were good and everybody had a good time.

The three minute pace or trot was won by West's "Lady Nelson," with Geo. VanVleet's "Alphington" second.

In the free for all trot Ed Starkweather's "Jose D." came in first with Waterman's "Royal George" second.

In the free for all pace Geo. VanVleet's "Jeopardy" won first and Geo. Stanley's "Frank Wells" won second.

Was It Neal?

As a test of the bible knowledge of Northville which sits resplendent in the very place of the gospel, Eugene Clarkson started out the other day to find how many people of those he met could correctly locate the ten commandments without the aid of a religious chart. Sixty-three interviews were had and he sat down to ascertain results, placing the correct answers in one column and the incorrect in another, and here we have it:

Correct	61
Incorrect	2

Clarkson does not state who struck him with the right answer, but it was doubtless the pious legislative editor of the town—Detroit Tribune. It wasn't though. You see Clarkson quit before he reached the Record office.

Here's a Fish Story.

Jerome Compton of Walled Lake lost a gold watch and chain in the lake while fishing last summer. Last week his son James caught a pike which weighed 19½ pounds. The fish went into possession of Frank Angel of the Angel Inn at that place, after being won by A. Huntley of Detroit in a dice game. When the fish was opened the lost watch and chain were found within and now the question is: Who owns the watch and chain?—Free Press.

The same fish is caught and the same watch is found every year, but not quite so early in the season as this however.

The Governorship.

The labor of knockers and politicians in an effort to stir up sentiment enough against Governor Bliss to get another republican candidate in the field this fall has come to naught and the governor stands out today more popular with the people than ever before. Nothing can be said against Governor Bliss' administration—that is nothing can be truthfully said against it. He promised the people an economical and business like service and that is what they have been getting. It hasn't been of the "spread eagle" sort, perhaps, nor has there been any of the "grand stand plays" that have marked the course of some administrations, but for all that the people do not appear to be burdened by the wear and tear of sorrowful expressions of the carrying about of dejected countenance. If one or two more wealthy men could be brought into the race for the nomination this year it would mean the spending of a lot of money and to put that money into circulation seems to be the chief aim of some of the newspapers and ward heelers of the state. The taxpayers are well satisfied with Governor Bliss and there is not the least doubt but what he will be again honored with the nomination by the republicans, a few disgruntled politicians to the contrary notwithstanding.

Detroit's Bank Failure.

The failure of the City-Savings bank, better known as "Frank Andrews' bank," on Monday caused by the financial downfall of Frank Andrews himself, calls to mind the old adage that "the surest, if not the quickest way to get rich is to go slow." While he went Andrews was called Griswold street's Napoleon of finance but he allowed too deep a guess wrong on the rise and fall of the markets, and was short the tremendous sum of a million and a half of dollars, dragging his bank down with him. There seems to be out little doubt, however, but that all depositors will be paid in full and to that end Andrews has turned over all his property. About one year ago Andrews was appointed by the common council of the City of Detroit commissioner of police of that city and has made one of the best commissioners the city has ever had. Upon his failure Monday Andrews placed his resignation in the hands of Mayor Maybury who at once appointed his old chum, George W. Fowle, commissioner to succeed Andrews. Fowle & Moore, Frank Andrews and many others cannot travel the pace of J. Pierpoint Morgan even on a smaller scale. The Record believes that in the end no one except Andrews himself will lose a dollar.

Cook Bros. of the Hastings Banner says there was "boodling" used in the last campaign. The Cooks ought to know—they were there. It is generally supposed that in "boodling" there're only two people in it—the one who pays and the one who gets paid. How do the Cooks know so much about it?

Northville is not such a slow going town after all. Three pairs of twins within two week isn't so bad.

And still a robin that would sneak out of Flint and come to Northville must have some sense.

READY FOR THE END

Pope Completed All Arrangements for Funeral and Burial.

Tomb Is a Beautiful Work of Modern Art—Will Leave His Estate to Holy See—Wishes Over Successor.

The recent revival of the publication of reports of the illness of the pope's death has led to inquiries being made of Chevalier Cennia, valet de chambre to his holiness. The chevalier declared that the pope's health is excellent. "But," he added, "my master for some time past has spoken almost solely of his moral end as though it were near. The pope concerns himself daily with the questions of his death and successor. He has settled all arrangements for his funeral down to the minutest details. He says that the members of his family and not the papal government must ask the Italian government for the necessary permission for interment in the basilica of St. John Lateran. A monumental tomb is ready for fixing in its place. It is the work of the famous sculptor Giuseppe Luchetti and has cost 300,000 lire ($60,000) which has all been paid."

The tomb is a beautiful work of art. The sarcophagus is surmounted by the recumbent figure of Leo XIII. in full pontifical robes. Guarding the tomb are life-size statues of St. Thomas and St. Francis and also a statue of the Virgin and two angels, all in white Carrara marble.

The interment will take place in the early morning, with an entire absence of ceremony. By the pope's express order the actual casket in which the body will rest will be of plain white wood.

The pope later sent everything to his relatives in his will. He quite recently had among them his purely personal estate, which he bequeathed to the man, rudely.

"I have none. I thought in fact I knew that everyone had the right to come here and look up the books on genealogy." "Ah!" grinned the man, "then you knew wrong. But if you go there"—pointing to a door—"you may get permission to go up as a favor."

The lady nodded and went away. But on the morrow a man whose profession it is to search out the documents in the Palais des Archives was seen busy looking through old parchments concerning a certain Balhazar de Chaves, who was once Spanish ambassador at the court of Louis XV. He was sent there by the lady in black who had been snubbed the day before by the pope, and who was no less a personage than the ex-empress Eugenie, great granddaughter of Balhazar de Chaves.

DANIEL COIT GILMAN.
Chosen Head of the Great Carnegie University by Unanimous Vote of Trustees.

Dr. Daniel Coit Gilman who was elected president of the Carnegie university at a recent meeting of the trustees in Washington was for 26 years and until recent president of the Johns Hopkins university at Baltimore. He came to Johns Hopkins from the University of California of which he was president from 1872 to 1875. Dr. Gilman is a graduate of Yale, where he was secretary of the Sheffield scientific school and professor of physical and political geography from 1876 to 1879.

All these things says the Chicago Tribune, are perfectly familiar to the members of the Vatican, for it is the pope himself who constantly talks about them. He speaks quite as freely and as often of his successor on the papal throne. His consuming fear is that his political work so persistently and patiently performed and so fruitful of practical benefit to the church should be nullified by some rash inheritor. He would like to have the assurance that he will be succeeded by a man who will be able to carry on the work of the church as he has done.

Cardinal Jerome Maria Gotti is a Genoese, 68 years old and is of the order of Barefoot Carmelites, the most austere branch. Under his subsequent leadership the order made marked material advance. He accomplished the partial restoration of the mother house for the work in Palestine. He also visited England and the United States to counsel the order to austerity and wider service on the part of the members of the order. He was commended to go to Brazil in 1892 to look after the Catholic interest. In 1895 he was created cardinal. Personally he is below medium height but possesses of a well-rounded and well-proportioned figure. He lives modestly in a small place. His tastes are scientific. He is the best authority on canon law in the college. His friends say he is the ideal scholar, saint and diplomat. He belongs to no factions keeps out of politics and never goes into Roman society.

New York's Big Tunnel.
New York's new tunnel is far advanced and the engineers have worked out their complex problem without an error. An army of men is burrowing under the main streets of the city without interrupting traffic in the least. The blasting is under such exact control that no harm has resulted to foundations almost adjacent.

Danger in Little Knowledge.
A school-teacher in Newark, N. J., received the other day the following letter from the father of a pupil: "Dear Teacher: Please don't teach Johnny any more about his insides. It makes him sassy." It seems that Johnny had become entirely too scientific and critical concerning the family bill of fare.

SNUBBED IN PARIS.

Eugenie, Ex-Empress of the French, Has Had Experience in City She Once Ruled.

Early one morning in January a common-place landau stopped before the old Palais des Archives, in Paris, and two elderly ladies, garbed in dull black, alighted. One of them leant heavily on an ebony stick, the handle of which was an tortoise-shell mallet with gold. She entered, and was proceeding up the stairs when the porter somewhat brusquely placed his hand on her arm and said: "Where are you going like that?" "I wish to consult certain documents about my own family," the lady answered meekly. "Your permission?" demanded the man, rudely.

American's Jewelry Centers.
More than half of the jewelry made in this country is manufactured in the Attleboro, Mass. really all of the jewelry made in the United States is turned out in New England in the city of Providence, the Attleboro and the town of Mansfield. Nearly 50,000 people are directly interested in the manufacture of jewelry. Altogether there are something over 250 factories for the making of jewelry in these four communities, the output of which runs into the millions of dollars in value annually.

Salt Shut Off the Current.
Last winter, when an unusually heavy snowstorm blocked the streets of Paris, the city officials thought to expedite the clearing of the streets by sprinkling broadcast common kitchen salt. This melted the snow, but got in all the trolley slots. As salt water is a fine conductor of electricity, all the current was switched off, and not a car could move until the slots were carefully cleaned out.

A Good Dreamer.
"May I dream that you will be mine?" pleaded St. Clair Maginns, addressing the fair Minerva McGillicuddy.
"Really, Mr. Maginns," repeated the stately girl, "I should not presume to exercise a censorship over your dreams. Dream as you please, but do not fail to remember that dreams go by contraries."

"Thank you for the suggestion, Miss McGillicuddy. I had not thought of that. I shall dream that you will not marry me."

"I am yours" she hastened to add, for she saw it was useless to hold out against so efficient a dreamer.—Detroit Free Press.

requires physical and mental ability of a high degree to withstand its hard labors. The high tension to which the nervous system is constantly subjected, has a depressing effect, and soon headache, backache, neuralgia, rheumatism, sciatica, etc., develop in severe form. Such was the case of Mail Carrier S. F. Sweinhart, of Huntsville, Ala., he says:

"An attack of pneumonia left me with muscular rheumatism, headache, and pains that seemed to be all over me. I was scarcely able to move for about a month when I decided to give Dr. Miles' Pain Pills a trial. In three days I was again on my feet and in two weeks I was free from pain and gaining in flesh and strength."

An Authority on Fish.

No one in the house is a better authority on fish than Representative Minor of Wisconsin. He is a disciple of Isaac Walton, and during the summer spends much of his time with rod and line. Mr. Minor is said to be so expert with the rod that he can tell the difference between the bite of a black bass and a brook trout. Before coming to congress Mr. Minor was engaged in the shipping business.

INSURANCE IN MICHIGAN.

Commissioner Gives Out Advance Summary of Business Done in State During Last Year.

Lansing, Feb. 12.—The Insurance Commissioner has compiled a summary in advance of his annual report showing the Michigan business of the stock fire, fire-marine and marine insurance companies, also the Michigan business of the mutual companies of other states reporting to the insurance department for the year ending December 31, 1901. The fire stock companies are as follows: Paid up capital, $900,000; admitted assets, $3,216,389.41; liabilities, $334,803.04. The total for both stock and mutual companies are as follows: Taxes paid in Michigan, $161,041.27; risks written, $443,376,182; premiums received, $5,625,514; losses incurred, $3,571,143. Twenty companies retired from Michigan during the year.

TUNNELED INTO BANK.

Robbers Seize $329 from the Vault of a Savings Institution.

Muskegon, Mich., Feb. 11.—Between Saturday night and Monday morning robbers tunneled under the Muskegon savings bank until they reached the vault. They bored a hole through its thick cement floor large enough for a boy or small man to pass through. As only $329 in bills and old silver coin is missing, it is thought the thieves were frightened away before they could penetrate the steel doors of the inner vault, where larger sums were stored, although a thorough examination of the safe deposit boxes in the vault is being made.

A Strange Week.

Manistee, Feb. 12.—In a cave-in of a coalchute at Merritt, Brakeman James Herr was probably fatally and Engineer Edward Hardigan and Fireman Clark Norton were more or less seriously injured. The accident occurred while an engine and train of three coal cars were standing inside the structure. The supports suddenly gave way and the entire train crashed to the ground 15 feet below, carrying the wreckage of the coal chute with it.

Will Remember Michigan.

Washington, D. C. Feb. 12.—Senators McMillan and Burrows called on President Roosevelt to talk over Michigan patronage. Senator Burrows said the interview was quite satisfactory as the president said that he desired to give Michigan at least two good places just as soon as he could see his way clear to do so. Both senators are satisfied that the president will fulfill his promises whenever a vacancy occurs.

Library for Port Huron.

Port Huron, Feb. 12.—A communication has been received from Andrew Carnegie stating that he will give $40,000 toward a public library in Port Huron providing the common council will agree to appropriate $4,000 a year for its maintenance and secure a site. The council will take action on the matter at its next meeting.

Found Guilty.

Adrian, Feb. 10.—The jury which has been trying Bert Farrington on the charge of having murdered Jesse Hooker, whom Farrington found in a room with Mrs. Farrington about a month ago, returned a verdict against Farrington of manslaughter. The case will go to the supreme court.

Dedicated.

Cheboygan, Feb. 10.—The new G. A. R. Memorial building and armory was dedicated by company K, Third regiment, M. N. G. with a programme of vocal and instrumental music, addresses and recitations followed by a grand ball in which over 600 people participated.

To Fill Vacancy.

St. Joseph, Feb. 10.—On account of the death of County Treasurer John Gard, which occurred at his home last week, a call has been issued for a session of the board of supervisors on February 19, at which meeting the office made vacant will be filled.

Great Potato Yield.

Pontiac, Feb. 10.—From 1,141 acres of potatoes in Independence township the yield was 141,590 bushels. Orion township had a yield of 130,761 and Springfield, 126,566. Independence has the lead this year.

Brakeman Killed.

Mount Pleasant, Feb. 10.—E. D. Holden, an Ann Arbor freight brakeman, had his chest and arm crushed between two cars here and died two hours later. He was a single man and lived at Bath.

Smallpox in Michigan.

Lansing, Feb. 10.—Records of the Michigan state board of health show that smallpox is prevalent at 140 points in the state. More than 100 of the infected districts are in the upper peninsula.

Children Poisoned.

Howard City, Feb. 10.—The two children of Harvey May, aged four and two years, were poisoned by eating canned tomatoes Sunday afternoon. There is no hope for their recovery.

Grand Rapids, Feb. 10.—The total value of business buildings and dwellings erected in Grand Rapids during 1901 was $1,061,000. The number of dwelling houses erected was 319.

Will Vote on Street Paving.

Manistee, Feb. 10.—At the April election the voters of Manistee will vote on a proposition to bond the city for $125,000 for paving certain of the business streets.

DETROIT BANK SUSPENDS.

City Savings Bank in the Hands of the State Banking Commissioner.

Detroit, Feb. 11.—Vice President Frank C. Andrews, of the City savings bank, which has been in the hands of State Banking Commissioner George L. Matz since Monday morning, was arrested late Monday afternoon and arraigned at 9:30 p. m. on the charge of "willfully, fraudulently and knowingly" securing from the bank without security and without the knowledge of the other directors, a sum exceeding $1,000,000. He was released on $10,000 bail and his examination was set for February 21. Cashier Henry C. Andrews, through whom F. C. Andrews is said to have secured the money by means of overdrafts and certified checks, is seriously ill at his home with nervous prostration.

As soon as Commissioner Matz took charge of the institution he immediately began an examination of its books. It was found that Cashier Andrews had permitted F. C. Andrews to overdraw his account $914,000. Other liabilities brought F. C. Andrews' total indebtedness to the bank up to $1,158,000. In addition to this, Cashier Andrews had certified checks for F. C. Andrews, which he had deposited in other banks, to the amount of $662,000. At the close of his examination Commissioner Matz issued the following statement of the bank's condition at the close of business February 8:

Resources—Total loans and discounts, bonds, mortgages and securities, $2,363,193; overdrafts $912,552; real estate, $10,890; cash in banks $28,897; other assets, $13,822.

Liabilities—Stock, surplus and undivided profits $25,222; deposits $3,370,251.

The examination showed that the record of F. C. Andrews' transactions was not kept in the regular way, but in a memorandum book. The first record of a transaction between Cashier Andrews and F. C. Andrews is January 11, but the examiners estimate that the transactions have been going on for about six weeks. President F. C. Pingree explained the manner in which the certified checks were obtained as follows:

"F. C. Andrews would draw a check for the amount he wanted and have it certified by the cashier, Henry R. Andrews. He would present this certified check to the person with whom he was doing business and ask him to hold it out for that day, as the bank was not in funds to meet it. Perhaps he would hold it out for two or three days, and eventually when there was money enough in the bank to meet the check, he would go in and take it out. There would be only a slip of paper in the drawer, and the withdrawal would be put down as a cash item. With this money he would in person pay the certified check and tear it up. This was done time and again."

The City savings bank was the depository for the funds of the county auditors, their balance there being more than $150,000, and F. C. Andrews was arrested on a complaint sworn out by Auditor Christian, after a long conference between the auditors and Prosecutor Hunt. The warrant was served on Andrews, who is commissioner of police, by two of his detectives, in the office of the Detroit Trust company where he had been in consultation with officers of the banks holding his certified checks. The City savings bank was also the depository for the board of education, which had a total of $457,000 on deposit. Other local banks will temporarily advance funds to the board of education for salaries and running expenses.

At a meeting of the Clearing House association the following statement on the suspension was issued:

"The disaster which has befallen the City savings bank is the result of criminal frauds confined entirely to that institution and caused by the rash speculation of its vice president, who controlled the management and betrayed his trust. The bank has been expelled from the association. The officers of this association desire to state to the public that there is no need of apprehension regarding any other bank in the city. The present condition of the bank, as shown by the weekly statements furnished to the clearing house, reveals an unusually strong showing in reserve and cash resources, and the fair name and good reputation of the banks of Detroit is not sullied by reason of this trouble."

Under the speculations, especially heavy purchases of Amalgamated copper stock, are believed to be responsible for Mr. Andrews' ruin. President F. C. Pingree, of the City savings bank, says that Andrews told him that he lost $400,000 in Amalgamated copper. Andrews has refused to make any statement as yet, either in regard to his failure or the bank's suspension. Mr. Andrews has been heavily interested in suburban electric roads and at present is a large stockholder in the road being constructed from Holland to Grand Rapids in this state. Monday night Andrews resigned as police commissioner and Mayor Maybury immediately appointed George Fowle as his successor.

Detroit, Feb. 12.—The most vital question to the depositors of the wrecked City savings bank is whether the checks which Cashier H. R. Andrews certified for F. C. Andrews when he had no funds in the bank, amounting to $662,000, and which the latter deposited among four other local banks and a trust company, are legal. President F. C. Pingree said Tuesday that he believed that the checks would be decided illegal and that the depositors would receive at least 75 cents on the dollar. In the statement prepared Monday of the bank's condition these certified checks were ignored.

Has Not Lost His Cunning.

Ransom, Feb. 10.—Thomas T. Williams, celebrated his forty-ninth birthday by taking part in a rifle shoot and making a higher score than any of his younger competitors.

Shot by His Wife.

East Jordan, Feb. 10.—As a result of a family quarrel James Coates received a bullet in his body. He will recover. His wife is under arrest.

FAILED TO FILE BOND.

A Deputy Food Commissioner Is Kept from Office by His Superior.

Lansing, Feb. 10.—State Dairy and Food Commissioner Snow filed with the secretary of state a revocation of the appointment of George H. Bussey, of Detroit, as deputy food commissioner. "The immediate cause of the revocation," Commissioner Snow said, "is Bussey's failure to file his bond as required by law. It is true that this failure is of some duration, but he has passed the limit." The commissioner declined to make a statement in regard to Bussey's official acts, which are said to have been under suspicion since the arrest of a Chicago oleomargarine manufacturer for attempting to bribe the commissioner. Bussey was suspected, it is alleged, of being unduly friendly toward the oleomargarine men, but none of the evidence of that friendliness has been given out. Percy H. Heald, formerly a member of the state senate, has been appointed to succeed Bussey.

A CRUEL DEED.

Unknown Man Near St. Joseph Cuts Out the Tongue of One Horse and Injures Another.

St. Joseph, Feb. 10.—Emory Williams, a farmer living 10 miles northwest of this city, notified Sheriff Collins that some unknown person had wantonly cut and injured his horses. One horse had its sides cut and the tongue was cut out of the other. Several neighbors think the deed was committed by an insane man who escaped from Kalamazoo asylum some time ago. Williams received an unsigned letter in which it was stated unless affairs change at once he would be made a victim of treatment similar to that given to his horses.

Disease Attacks Fish.

Bay City, Feb. 10.—Commercial fishermen are again frightened about a disease that seems to prevail in the Saginaw river. A year ago the state game warden was called here to investigate a similar state of affairs, which was then attributed to the lime and other sugar factory refuse, which contaminated the water. Remedial measures were then ordered, but it now appears that the fish are still suffering, as tons of dead ones are being taken in the nets here every day. Another investigation of the cause of the trouble will be had.

Sampson's Sister Dead.

Detroit, Feb. 13.—Mrs. L. E. Ellis, wife of Dr. L. E. Ellis of this city, and a sister of Rear Admiral W. T. Sampson died at her home, 908 Military avenue, late Tuesday night. Mrs. Ellis was taken ill a week ago, but no alarming symptoms appeared until within a few days ago. Mrs. Ellis was born December 9, 1850 at Palmyra, N. Y. Besides her husband she leaves three children.

Population of Saginaw.

Saginaw, Feb. 10.—Notwithstanding the United States census taken two years ago gave Saginaw but 42,000 population, the Courier Herald now claims 61,000 for the city. This is based on the new directory just issued, which contains 24,59 names, multiplying which by 2½ gives the estimate of 61,000.

Will Have a Temple.

Port Huron, Feb. 10.—The masons of the city decided to build a home of their own and the contract for the erection of a handsome building on Sixth street was let to Contractor James O'Sullivan. The building will be three stories high and of pressed brick front. It will adjoin the Port Huron city hall.

Old Man Hangs Himself.

Saginaw, Feb. 10.—Amorose Coy's, 86 years old, a resident of this county, committed suicide by hanging himself from a step ladder in a woodshed. The rope had been tied to a step and thrown over the top, and when found his knees nearly touched the floor. Age and sickness caused the deed.

Once Worked in Corunna.

Corunna, Feb. 10.—The awful death near Butler, Pa., a few days ago of Ed and Frank Biddle calls to the minds of many Corunna people the fact that Ed once resided in Corunna. He was formerly in the employ of Attorney John T. McCurdy.

Burned to Death.

Traverse City, Feb. 10.—A Leelanau county Polish woman named Popinski left her two little children alone in the house, and returning, found them on fire. Both burned to death before she could extinguish the flames.

Dropped Dead.

Augusta, Feb. 10.—William W. Mead, an old citizen and prominent farmer living one and one-half miles east of this village dropped dead of heart failure. He was quite wealthy and very highly respected.

Officer Resigns.

Cheboygan, Feb. 10.—Lieut. Col. W. S. McArthur, of Cheboygan, Third regiment Michigan national guard, has resigned. Private business demands his attention.

Final Report Made.

Lansing, Feb. 10.—Secretary Smith, of the Michigan Pan-American exposition, has made his report. Over $11,000 was returned to the state.

Railway Earnings.

Lansing, Feb. 10.—Michigan earnings of railroads for 1901 were $42,371,509.65. An increase of over eight per cent over the previous year.

Murderer Hanged.

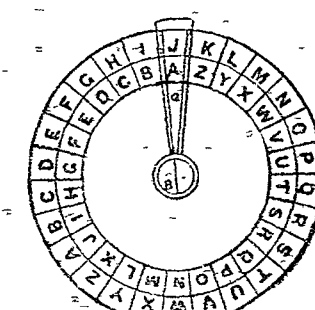

Sault Ste. Marie, Feb. 10.—Frederick Schultz was hanged here Friday for the killing of Mrs. Craig, with whom he was living.

DISPATCHES IN CIPHER.

How Army Messages Are Sent from One Corps to Another and to the War Office.

When sending messages in the army it is necessary to use a cipher, so that unauthorized persons cannot read them. A keyword and letter is agreed upon by the several generals, and anyone ignorant of these two things is unable to read the message. The instrument used, which we illustrate, is called the "cipher wheel." It consists of an outer circle, round which the usual letters of the alphabet are placed in the usual order, and an inner circle, having the letters in the reversed order.

The disc upon which the letter is inscribed is pivoted at its center, the arm A is fixed to this disc at any letter chosen by the general, arbitrarily, say A. This disc is turned round by working the mullhead B.

In the cipher wheel the letters of the keyword and those of the true message are taken from the outer ring, the letters of the cipher message being read in the inner ring.

Take the famous message sent by Sir Redvers Buller to Sir George White at Ladysmith. Suppose that the keyword is "March," and that Sir Redvers said: "I have been repulsed," which it now appears were not his words. First write the words of the true message, next the keyword, repeated as often as required, as below:

THAVEBEENREPULSED.—Text.
MARCHMARCHMARCHMARCH — Keyword.

ETRHDLWNPQLXRPIN — Cipher.

The cryptogram is obtained in this way. Set the arm of the cipher wheel at A in the inner wheel and at the first letter of the keyword in the outer wheel. Take out at once for the whole message the cipher letter of the inner wheel corresponding to the true letters on the outer wheel which appear above the first letter of the keyword when ever it occurs.

For instance, the first letter of the keyword is M. Above all the M's will be the letters I B R E W C G M and if will be found that by setting the arm at A in the inner wheel the corresponding letters on the outer wheel will be D L I Q S S F. Then, by turning the outer ring to A (the second letter of the keyword) another set of cipher letters are obtained.

Continue the same with all the letters of the keyword and the cipher as in the third line will be obtained. Thus no person could decipher any message unless in possession of the keyword.

Chilian peace compromise is now in his seventy-third year, but is said to be possessed of a vigor and agility comparable with those of a man half his years. In the Pan-American congress, which has just happily compromised the Chilian objection to arbitration, the influence of President Diaz has been powerful and fruitful. In all his strenuous labors with the Chilian delegates he has been as one with the delegates from the United States. Although primarily the soldier and the man of camp and field, President Diaz has shown himself practically the very architect of Mexico's greatness as a nation, and while he is feared by the Mexicans, he is loved by them likewise. His is the most stable of the Latin republics. For nearly 25 years he has ably and wisely guided the fortunes of his country, and his recent high endeavor for permanent peace in South and Central America are a notable testimonial to his sagacity and the soundness of his policies in general.

A SPANISH COUNT CURED OF LA GRIPPE.

COUNT DE OVIES

Count Segundo de Ovies was a Carlist exile. The signature of his uncle, Louis de Ovies, is found with that of John Quincy Adams ceding Florida to the United States in a treaty with Spain. The Count is forty-six years of age, an exile from Orietta, situated in the northern part of Spain, and has been exiled since 1876; he is wealthy, and has traveled and studied the customs, habits and languages of twenty-five different nations.

In a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., of Columbus, Ohio, the Count gives his endorsement to their great catarrh remedy, Peruna, in the following words:

The Canfield, Atlantic City, N. J.

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio:

Gentlemen:—Last winter my secretary had a severe attack of la grippe which was cured effectually by the use of four bottles of Peruna, so when I contracted the same unpleasant sickness last fall I at once sent for a bottle. It truly worked wonders, and removed the sickening and sore feeling I had within a few days. I would not be without it now for any money, and when I go away I carry Peruna as a valuable requisite to my traveling outfit."—JULIAN SEGUNDO, CONDE DE OVIES.

NEARLY everybody is having la grippe again. It resembles somewhat in the beginning a severe cold. A chill or cold spell is followed by aching bones, sore throat, headache, cough, and general weakness. Its course may be quite slight or severe, but in either case it nearly always leaves one in a miserable condition.

Unless Peruna is taken it will be weeks or months before a person regains his usual health. If the victim is fortunate enough to begin the use of Peruna at the commencement of the attack the course of the grip is much shortened, and the system is left in a natural state.

People who have had la grippe, but are still suffering from the after-effects, should not neglect to take Peruna as it will promptly restore them to health.

Henry Distin, the inventor and maker of all the band instruments of the Henry Distin Manufacturing Co., writes the following from 1841 South Ninth street, Philadelphia, Pa.:

"I had a bad attack of la grippe last December which lasted more than three months, and which left me with catarrh, and several of my friends advised me to try Peruna."

I began with a bottle the first week in March and it certainly did me a great deal of good. I was so well satisfied that I purchased another bottle and followed the directions, and can say that it has cured me."—Henry Distin.

A large per cent of those who are afflicted with this epidemic, instead of getting well as they ought to, will have chronic catarrh as the result. This is almost invariably the case unless Peruna is taken as soon as possible after the grip begins.

Every one who has observed the effect of Peruna during the last three epidemics of la grippe positively knows that this remedy will cure it permanently.

The fact is, however, that a great multitude of people will not take Peruna, and a foundation for chronic catarrh will be laid.

Even in cases where chronic catarrh has affected the lungs, and the early stages of catarrhal consumption have been developed, Peruna can be relied upon as a prompt and lasting cure. La grippe and catarrh are at present the two great enemies of life in the land. Peruna is a cure for either.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

School Notes.

Motto: "Since every young man has the requisite forces and capabilities within himself to secure the highest possibilities, it only remains for him to put these forces in motion and patiently and diligently guide and protect them, and they will surely bring a generous reward."—Bryant's Commercial Law.

No tardy marks from the eighth grade yet.

Myrta and Bessie Brown are enjoying the mumps this week.

St. Valentine's day is being observed by the school children in the usual way.

Our pupils will now have a taste of the old time way of carrying water to supply the thirsty, as the water pipe from the main to the building was frozen up.

Several visitors were present last Friday afternoon during rhetorical exercises. Remember, these are held every other Friday afternoon beginning at 2:30 above the sixth grade and 2:45 in the lower grades.

At the parents' meeting last Friday evening the question, "To whom does the child belong," called out a variety of opinions. Some thought the child belonged to God, some to his parents, others to himself, and still others to the state.

We expect to have a school entertainment about the last of this month, and intend to reproduce, in part, just what we have at school. The object is to get our children out before the public, and also to afford parents and the public an opportunity of seeing and hearing the pupils take part in a public entertainment. It will be held in the rink and we hope to have it well filled. More complete notice will be given in next week's school notes.

The debate between representatives of the Plymouth and Northville High-schools will be held in this village on Friday evening, March 14. The question, Resolved, "That the interests of our country, looking to the future, will be best served by an Anglo Saxon Alliance," is to be discussed, Plymouth taking the affirmative and Northville the negative. Paul Dubuay, Will Slesator and Elbridge Lapham have been elected to take part in behalf of the Northville school.

Food Commissioner Ousted.

State Dairy and Food Commissioner Snow has filed with the secretary of state a revocation of the appointment of George H. Bussey, of Detroit, as deputy food commissioner. "The immediate cause of the revocation," Commissioner Snow said, "is Bussey's failure to file his bond as required by law."

Oleo Law Invalid.

Judge C. C. Cluttsenden, in the circuit court in Cadillac, declared the state law prohibiting the sale of colored oleomargarine was unconstitutional and discharged Frank Johnson, who was being prosecuted under that law. State Food Commissioner Snow will carry the case to the supreme court.

Clerk's Wife Suggestion.

I have lately been much troubled with dyspepsia, belching and sour stomach. Mrs. M. S. May, lecturer on the subject of Antidotes, Mass., could not help suggesting, without success, the use of Kado's Digestive Cure which I had with me for some time. I have not had a single indigestion since I began to use Kado's Digestive Cure. You do not have to diet. Eat all the good food you want but do not crowd the stomach. Kado's Digestive Cure gives you a fine, clear, bright complexion.

ABOUT AUCTION BILLS!

A Good Auctioneer likes to see his name on a neat, attractive auction bill. "Any old thing" won't do. A neat, attractive bill with new type and cuts brings a crowd. and a good auctioneer can do the rest. Poor and unattractive bills bring a poor, no-money crowd and the auctioneer is blamed when in reality it is the printer's fault. We're up-to-date. We put up the attractive kind of bills and they cost no more than the other kind. We also give the auction and the auctioneer a good "send off" in The Record—that's free.

The City in Brief.

Fine sleighing these days.

Saturday's races were hummers again.

George Rattenburg's fast pacer "Gray Fred" died Monday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hunt, Feb. 9, twins, a boy and a girl.

Mrs. Smith, mother of Mrs. B. O. Webster, is seriously ill with spinal complaint.

Mrs. A. Stillson continues very poorly and there appears to be but little hope for her permanent recovery.

Flossie, wife of Herbert Packell of Dun and, formerly of this place, died last week Friday of pneumonia. She was ill but a few days.

At the annual meeting of the State Dairy men's association at Lansing last week Hon. F. M. Warner of Farmington was elected president.

Miss Timson who has been in Harper hospital, Detroit, three months and has undergone three successful operations returned home last Tuesday.

Prof. I. B. Gilbert of St. Johns, a former superintendent of the Northville schools, has just accepted the same position with the Traverse City schools at a salary of $1,500.

Frank Bachelor of North Farmington who was struck by an electric car near his place last week and severely injured is a son-in-law of Mrs. J. M. Armstrong of this place.

Mr. Olde was a depositor of the City Savings Bank for about $2,000 and Will Butch had in a nest egg of about $200. Mr. Olde says he has no fear but what he will in time be paid in full.

Bear in mind the entertainment given in the Opera House tonight by the Presbyterian society. It will be a fine affair and it will also be the last entertainment given in the Opera House.

Northville schools are having inter-grade spelling bees. The plan would be a good one for all public schools to adopt, judging from the spelling mistakes indulged in by the average modern high-school graduate.—Ypsilantian.

The first robins of the season have already been seen in Northville. A number of them were hopping around in the trees Tuesday and it is now reported that some were seen over in Northside two weeks ago. Mighty foolish birds. Must have been spending the winter up at Flint.

Mrs. S. E. Cranson is recovering from a week's illness.

Every baby born in Northville lately has been twins.

Jas. Wooly has recovered from his attack of typhoid fever.

Mrs. McLain, who has been so seriously ill, is up and around again.

E. S. Horton suffered a paralytic stroke on Monday but is somewhat better today.

Mrs. Milton Burrows is very ill and may shortly be taken to the hospital for treatment.

The Women's club will meet at the home of Mrs. Marvin Bovee next week Friday at three o'clock.

Mrs. Geo. Larkins slipped on an icy walk Tuesday and fractured one of her legs just above the ankle.

Nelson Bogart is moving back to the Smonds farm just east of town and will again enjoy city life, street cars, etc.

L. V. Carpenter suffered a paralytic stroke Saturday which badly affected his palate and tongue. He is now quite a bit better and is on the way toward complete recovery.

William Groner of Holly who was head on the charge of Blackmail at Pontiac Saturday succeeded in getting bail in the sum of $500 through the efforts of Attorney S. J. Patterson.

The Methodist people will serve a New England supper in the rink next week Wednesday night. A little entertainment will be given in connection with the supper. 15 cents pays the bill.

While in some of the battles over in the Philippines a year or so ago Frank Lewis received a bullet wound that has caused him so much trouble that the doctors now fear an amputation is necessary.

The Lady Maccabees will give another one of their popular hops on Feb. 26th. Everybody knows how popular and enjoyable the Maccabee parties are and this will be in keeping with their former efforts.

In connection with the New England supper to be given by the Methodist church society next week Wednesday night there will be given a musical program which promises to be both amusing and interesting.

Mrs. Kilpatrick, wife of the secretary to Congressman Fordney, who last week went so heroically to the hospital with her five months old babe, who is afflicted with smallpox, is a cousin of Mrs. Chas. Woodman of this place. Her home is at Owosso.

A board which Robt. Lansing was cutting at the Hubbar factory Wednesday flew back and struck him on the right hand, breaking one of the bones. Dr. Henry was summoned and readjusted the fracture and Robt. will be at work again in a week or two.

Whether it was an infant earthquake, powder explosion or some one falling on a side walk, there was a noisy rattling of windows and doors about the town at 6:55 Sunday night. The disturbance was also felt at Mead's Mills, Salem and other towns.

The entertainment at the opera house tonight promises to be one of the best ever given in this village. Over 100 advance sale seats have already been sold. There's plenty of room yet, however, so that no one need stay away for fear of too big a crowd.

Luther Lapham Dead.

Luther Lapham, one of Northville's pioneers and aged about 70 years, died last night. He had been ill for more than a year past. The funeral will probably be held Sunday. Deceased leaves a widow and one daughter, Mrs. O. D. Murray of Detroit.

Lyceum Theatre—Detroit.

Whitney Opera House's attraction for the week of Feb. 16th is Whitaker and Lawrence's greatest success "Not Guilty." This firm has already produced two of the most successful melodramas now on the road, namely "At Cripple Creek" and "On the Stroke of Twelve." Matinees daily except Wednesday.

Whitney's Opera House—Detroit.

With the greatest scenic equipment ever carried with a minstrel company with entirely new and beautiful costumes and brilliant electrical effects, Wm. H. West's Big Minstrel Jubilee will come to the Lyceum Theatre for a week's engagement beginning the evening of Feb. 16th. The genial, popular Billy West is without any doubt the leading minstrel of the world. Never before has Mr. West carried so strong a lot of singers. Matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

Presbyterian Church Notes.

We were all glad to see Mrs. Barnhart in the congregation Sunday.

Miss Beth Wheeler officiated at the organ Sunday evening very acceptably.

The sermon next Sunday evening will be on "Lessons from the Life of Lincoln."

Mrs. Jerome addressed the Ladies Missionary society of the Central church, Detroit, on Tuesday at Mrs. F. D. Eatherly's 636 Jefferson avenue.

Don't forget the concert and humorous entertainment this evening at the Opera House. A large number of seats have been sold and there will be a large attendance.

In last Sunday's morning service the pastor referred to the recent deaths of Mrs. Harriet White, Mrs. Jane Hutchinson and Miss Emma (Clarkson) which occurred during his absence.

Methodist Church Notes.

The monthly meeting of the official board occurs next Monday evening.

Mr. Budd entertained his Sunday-school class at his home one evening last week.

Our people are planning to have a New England supper at the rink next Wednesday evening.

Mr. Huston's class surprised Louis Barnum and wife Monday evening and report two or three hours of thorough enjoyment.

Pastor Lloyd will discuss "Our Duty to the American Negro" Sunday morning; and the topic for evening will be "Fortune Bubbles."

The observance of the birthdays of Presidents McKinley, Lincoln and Washington with patriotic exercises during the first half hour of Sunday-school is proving very interesting.

Gov. Bliss and his wife are loyal Methodists, and it is no matter for surprise to those who know them to hear that Mrs. Bliss has responded to the appeal of our Ladies' Aid by sending them a handkerchief pie, prepared by herself for their Handkerchief bazaar.

NEGROES TAKING TO TEA.

Blacks and Poor Whites Have Quit Using Sassafras.

The increased consumption of tea is one of the interesting phases of modern commercial life in the south," said a drummer for a New Orleans house, "and you would be surprised at the vast change which has taken place in this respect. The fact is that during the last few years the changes in the tea business have amounted to a revolution. I have just returned from a trip on the road, and I touched some of the more remote places in Texas and Mississippi and while I have been out before in the same territory, I was surprised at the increased number of tea drinkers. Up to a few years ago in the more remote sections of the country, tea was used almost exclusively in the work room. Tea had to be brought to the country from the drugstore. The man who dealt in general merchandise rarely thought of selling tea unless he had a medicine counter in his store. Tea was something strictly something to be given to the convalescing patient along with crackers, rice and broth and things of that sort. This is not the case now. Tea is brought in rather large quantities by country merchants, and the country to a use for other than sick-room purposes. It is extensively used throughout the country. There is a still more interesting fact in connection with the growth of the tea trade. Negroes are now great tea consumers. You would be surprised at the amount of tea consumed by this element of the population. Using tea is a new thing with the negro element, but since they have got into the tea-drinking habit they have vastly increased the consumption of the product. Yes, they have about quit using sassafras roots for tea-making purposes, and this rather primitive drink is now used for its medicinal properties. It has exchanged places with the other tea. There are some reasons for the increased consumption of tea. There are, of course many other special and general causes for the new demand and altogether the changes form a rather interesting subject, so far as modern commerce is concerned."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

HELEN KELLER'S HAND.

Plaster Cast of It in Collection of Lawrence Hutton.

Mr. Lawrence Hutton is making a collection of plaster casts of hands, says a Trenton special in the New York Sun. He already has about fifteen specimens. He brought back with him from Europe recently the original cast of the hand of Thomas Carlyle, which he picked up in a London shop for a trifling sum. Among others in the collection are likenesses of the hands of Rossetti, Robert Louis Stevenson, Lincoln and Thackeray, and the mummified hands of an Egyptian princess of the time of Moses. These Mr. Hutton has hanging on the walls of his library. He also has a cast of the hand of Helen Keller, the wonderful blind mute, which he regards very highly on account of its artistic finish. All the lines in the skin and even the little nerve cushions on the tips of her fingers, with which she feels so accurately, are plainly discernible in the plaster. Beneath each case Mr. Hutton has written some appropriate lines. Beneath that of Miss Keller's hand is the following:

"She is deaf to sounds all about us. What she sees we cannot understand. But her sight is at the tip of her fingers. And she hears through the touch of her hands."

Hardships Endured by Gorak.

Although Maxime Gorak has been known as a writer only eight years more criticisms have been devoted to him than to any Russian author except Tolstoy. He is only thirty-three years of age, was born in Nijni Novgorod, lost his father and mother before he was nine years old, and set out to make his way in the world at a very early age. He wandered all over Russia, undergoing such privations and sufferings that on one occasion he tried to commit suicide. At last, after herding with rogues and vagabonds and tramps, both in Europe and in Asia, he discovered his vocation.

Fur Work Wanted.

I wish to announce to the public that I am prepared to do all kinds of fur work, such as making over or altering ladies' furs, fur capes, etc.; also gloves, mittens, robes and coats, made to order or re-lined, at "live and let live" prices. Correspondence relative to the above earnestly solicited. Address W. B. Mosher, Plymouth, Mich. R. R. No. 1.

That Cough Hangs On

You have used all sorts of cough remedies but it does not yield; it is too deep seated. It may wear itself out in time, but it is more liable to produce la grippe, pneumonia or a serious throat affection. You need something that will give you strength and build up the body.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

will do this when everything else fails. There is no doubt about it. It nourishes, strengthens, builds up and makes the body strong and healthy, not only to throw off this hard cough, but to fortify the system against further attacks. If you are run down or emaciated you should certainly take this nourishing food medicine.

Wes. Faint, demonstrator and salesman representing the Detroit White Lead Works and Detroit Varnish company, is on the road and doing a very successful business in his line.

After painting 36 years it is met that he should now take to the road and teach others his art. He is versatile, knows all about his business, and with his material before him and an audience he can grain, paint pictures, sell paint, talk paint and demonstrate all at the same time and not ruffle a hair. We say Wes has struck his gait and we predict for him a glowing success in the years to come.—Birmingham Eclectic.

Mrs. Armstrong, who had been spending the past two months at the home of her son Rev. F. A. Armstrong, has returned to her home in Stockholm.

Mrs. Jane McManus is in Detroit taking care of her daughter, Mrs. B. F. Pierogi, who is sick with the measles. The two children are also down with the same disease.

Miss May McCracken of Detroit and Miss Nellie McCracken of Ann Arbor have been visiting at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McCracken, the past few days.

Special meetings have continued through the week in the Methodist church. Rev. Mr. Russell of Franklin has been assisting the pastor, Rev. F. A. Armstrong.

Sunday, Feb. 9th, was the twenty-sixth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wolfe. The children and John Bond and family assembled at their home and gave them a complete and joyful surprise. A very handsome lamp was given as a token of love. The day was very pleasantly spent and will be a happy remembrance not only to the father and mother but to each one present.

Saved Her Child's Life.

"In three weeks our chubby little boy was changed by pneumonia almost to a skeleton," writes W. Watkins of Pleasant City, O. "A terrible cough set in that in spite of a good doctor's treatment for several weeks grew worse every day. We then used Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption and our darling was soon sound and well. We are sure this grand medicine saved his life." Much as we know it is the only sure cure for coughs, colds and lung diseases.

Dr. King's New Discovery is sold by all druggists. 75c. $1.00. Trial bottles free.

A Legacy of the Grip.

Is often a run-down system. Weakness, nervousness, lack of appetite, energy and ambition, with disordered liver and kidneys often follow an attack of this dreaded disease. The greatest need then is Electric Bitters, the splendid tonic, blood purifier and regulator of stomach, liver and kidneys. Thousands have proved that they wonderfully strengthen the nerves, build up the system and restore health and good spirits after an attack of grip. If suffering, try them. Only 50c. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed by Geo. C. Hueston.

A Prominent Trades Unionist.

Thomas Atkinson of England, who helped Stephenson build the Rocket, has been seventy years in a trades union and heads the membership list of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers. He is ninety years of age and has drawn benefit money from the union for twenty-seven years.

A Night Alarm.

Worse than an alarm of fire at night is the brassy cough of croup, which sounds like the children's death knell and it means death unless something is done quickly. Foley's Honey and Tar never fails to give instant relief and quickly cures the worst forms of croup. Mrs. P. L. Cordier of Mannington, Ky., writes: "My three-year-old girl had a severe case of croup, the doctor said she could not live. I got a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar, the first dose gave quick relief and saved her life." Refuse substitutes. Murdock Bros.

California's Crop of Olives.

This year California's crop of olives will reach eight hundred tons, or 5,600 barrels, an increase of 3,600 barrels over last year. The price this year has dropped $3.13 per cent. Olives now bring only $40 a ton as they come from the tree, half of which goes to the packers, thus allowing the growers only $20 a ton.

Saved Him From Torture.

There is no more agonizing torture than piles. The constant itching and cutting make life intolerable. No poison is contagious. The torture is unbearable. Beware of cures. Watch Hazel Salve cure piles at once. For skin diseases, cuts, burns, bruises, all kinds of wounds it is unequalled. J. S. Gerall St. Paul, Ark., says: "From 1851 I suffered with the protruding bleeding piles and could find nothing to help me until I used DeWitt's 'Witch Hazel Salve.' A few boxes completely cured me." Beware of counterfeits. Murdock Bros.

Rival of Olive Oil.

Of the many substitutes for olive oil the favorite is cottonseed oil, but German experiments are reported to have shown a formidable rival in sunflower seed oil. This cheap material promises to become quite important. It is adapted for many uses and seems to be especially desirable as a lamp oil, for dyeing purposes, and for soap-making.

Marquis It's Caution.

When Marquis Itto, the Japanese statesman, was in this country the manager of a certain western railway sent him a pass over his line. The pass was returned with this polite note: "I have no claim on your esteemed company. I should not feel right in traveling over your most excellent road without paying for the great pleasure."

A Thousand Dollars Thrown Away.

Mr. W. W. Baker of Plainview, Neb., writes: "My wife had lung trouble for over fifteen years. We tried a number of doctors and spent over a thousand dollars without any relief. She was very low and I lost all hope, when a friend suggested trying Foley's Honey and Tar, which I did; and thanks be to this great remedy it saved her life. She is stronger and enjoys better health than she has ever known in ten years. We shall never be without Foley's Honey and Tar and would ask those afflicted to try it. Murdock Bros.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—The story of the Lost Continent is the translation of an ancient manuscript found in a cave in the Canary Islands and opens with the installation of Tatho as viceroy of Xucatan, a province of Atlantis, the latter a continent situated in the Atlantic ocean. Tatho succeeds Deucalion, who is recalled by the queen, Phoenice, to help prop the tottering throne. Phoenice, of whom he has heard little, learns is a crafty and very beautiful woman, having been born the daughter of a swineherd, although she is to be a daughter of the gods. She is adopted and raised by Zaemon, governor of a province and one of the high priests. She is possessed of a great ambition to rule and while still young deposes him. All attempts to capture her are unsuccessful and she finally escapes the old king and takes the throne.

CHAPTER II.—Tatho is much surprised when next day Deucalion asks the use of a ship to take him home, believing he has grown rich during his reign, as he (Tatho) would have done, but Deucalion is a poor man, having ruled only for the good of the country. Things are different in Atlantis, greed and selfishness being the universal rule.

CHAPTER III.—When near home they are halted by enemies of Phoenice, who are the enemies of Deucalion. Tatho, the captain, refuses, and a fierce fight ensues, in which he is victorious.

CHAPTER IV.—Deucalion upon his arrival is met with much pomp and ceremony by Phoenice. Although women have had no influence over Deucalion, he readily realises her powerful influence over others, and the fact that he does not immediately fall in love with her evidently piques her. Deucalion notices and the grandeur of the city also the poverty, squalor and stagnation, and he learns that it is partly the result of a plague to which the city has been for some time subjected.

CHAPTER V.—Deucalion is taken to the palace and a magnificent feast is spread in his honor. While they are eating, a trail of old man passes the guards and approaches the queen, declaring that she must undo the evil she has caused, feed the starving and restore Atlantis to its former glory. This talk nettles Phoenice and she angrily orders him away. He refuses, and launches a curse that she will be overthrown by the high gods whom she has shunned against. She faces him in a tumult of passion and orders the guards to have him whipped before her. He warns them not to touch him, and when one of them does he falls to the floor, writhing in agony, striking a fatal leprosy. Zaemon then silently leaves.

CHAPTER VI.—The same evening Deucalion decides to investigate the plague. He goes to one of the gates of the city and there he meets a man, who tells him that the plague is spreading among himself and the populace by throwing prisoners to two huge tigers in the circus between the city walls. Deucalion is the only hope for the city, he is stripped, placed in the circus and with the help of Deucalion he escapes. She tells him that her name is Nais and that he must return to become the husband of Phoenice.

CHAPTER VII.—While seeking robes for her in the captain's chambers the floor suddenly gives way and Deucalion is rushed and bound. He later learns that the besiegers had tunneled under the walls and had accidentally come up under the caplain's room, having been misled by the walls. He is taken to a small, abandoned temple where Nais, who is the daughter of Zaemon, is hiding. She has faith in him and will help him escape and return to the city as soon as darkness arrives, a mutual love having sprung up between them.

CHAPTER VIII.—When night comes and they are waiting to go to the blowing of horns announcing the arrival of some one. It is Zaemon, and he addresses the people. Nais and Deucalion listen and the latter is observed by Zaemon. Zaemon tells him that he is the only hope for the city, the saving of Atlantis and that he must return to the city and become husband to Phoenice, for the sake of the people. He agrees to return and Zaemon then leads him to a secret entrance to the city.

CHAPTER IX.

PHOENICE, GODDESS

A motley crowd filled the street which ran past the front of the obscure temple, through which I gained entrance to the city, and all were hurrying one way. With what I had been told, it did not take much art to guess that the great stone circle of our Lord the Sun was their mark, and it grieved me to think of how many venerable centuries that great fane had appeared before the weather and the earth tremors, without such profanation as it would witness to-day. And also the thought occurred to me: "Was our Great Lord above drawing this woman on to her destruction? Would He take some vast and final act of vengeance when she consummated her final sacrifice?" But the crowd pressed on, thrilled and excited, and thinking little (as is a crowd's wont) on the deeper matters which lay beneath the bare spectacle. From one quarter of the city walls the din of an attack from the besiegers made itself clearly heard from over the houses, and the temples and the palaces intervening, but no one heeded it. They had grown callous, these townsfolk, to the battering of rams, and the flight of fire-darts, and the other emotions of a bombardment. Their nerves, their hunger, their desperation were stung to such a pitch that little short of an actual storm could stir them into new excitement over the siege.

All were weaponed. The naked carried arms in the hope of meeting some one whom they could overcome and rob; those that had a possession walked ready to do a battle for its ownership. There was no security, no trust, the lesson of civilization had dropped away from these common people as mud is washed from the feet by rain, and in their new habits and their thoughts they had gone back to the grade from which savages like those of Europe have never yet emerged. It was a grim commentary on the success of Phoenice's rule.

The crowd merged me into their ranks without question, and with them I pressed forward down the winding streets, once so clean and trim, now so foul and mud-strewn. Men and women had died of hunger in these streets these latter years, and rotted where they lay, and we trod their bones under foot as we walked. Yet rising out of this squalor, and this misery were great pyramids and palaces, the like of which for splendor and magnificence had never been seen before. It was a jarring admixture.

In time we came to the open space in the center of the city, which even Phoenice had not dared to encroach upon with her ambitious building schemes, and stood on the secular ground which surrounds the most ancient, the most grand, and the best of all this world's temples.

"Since the beginning of time, when man first emerged among the beasts, our Lord the Sun has always been his chiefest god, and legend says that he raised this circle of stones himself to be a place where votaries should offer him worship. It is the fashion among us moderns not to take these old tales in a too literal sense; but for myself, this one satisfies me. By our wits we can lift blocks weighing 600 men, and set them as the capstones of our great pyramids. But to appear the stones of that great circle would be beyond all our art, and much more would it be impossible to-day to transport them from their distant quarries across the rugged mountains."

There were nine-and-forty of the stones, alternating with spaces, and set in an accurate circle, and across the tops of them other stones were set, equally huge. The stones were undressed and rugged; but the huge massiveness of them impressed the eye more than all the temples and daily-tooled pyramids of our wondrous city. And in the center of the circle was that still greater stone which formed the altar, and round which was carved, in the rude chiseling of the ancients, the snake and the outstretched hand.

The crowd which bore me on came to a standstill before the circle of stones. To trespass beyond this is death for the common people, and for myself, although I had the right of entrance, I chose to stay where I was for the present, unnoticed among the mob, and wait upon events.

Nearer and nearer drew the drums and the braying of the other music, and presently the head of a glittering procession began to arrive and dispose itself in the space which had been set apart. Many a thousand poor, starving wretches sighed when they saw the wanton splendor of it. But these lords and these courtiers of this new Atlantis had no concern beyond their own bellies and their own backs, except for their own alien regard—their sinning affection for Phoenice.

I think, though, their loyalty for the empress was real enough, and it was not to be wondered at, since everything they had came from her lavish hands. Indeed, the woman had a charm that cannot be denied; for when she appeared riding in the golden castle (where I also had ridden) on the back of her monstrous shaggy mammoth, the starved, sullen faces of the crowd brightened as though a meal and sudden prosperity had been bestowed upon them, and without a word of command, without a trace of compulsion, they burst into spontaneous shouts of welcome.

She acknowledged it with a smile of thanks. Her cheeks were a little flushed, her movements quick, her manner high-strung, as all well might be, seeing the horrible sacrilege she had in mind. But she was undeniably lovely; yes, more adorably beautiful than ever with her present thrill of excitement; and when the star was brought, and she walked down from the mammoth's back to the ground, those near fell to their knees and gave her worship, out of sheer fascination for her beauty and charm.

Ylga, the fan-girl, alone of all the vast multitude round the sun temple, contained herself within her formal paces and duties. She looked pained and troubled. It was plain to see, even from the distance where I stood, that she carried a heavy heart under the jewels of her robe. It was fitting, too, that this should be so. Though she had been long enough favored from her care and fostered by the empress, Ylga was a daughter of Zaemon, and he was the chiefest of our Lord the Sun's ministers here on earth. She could not forget her upbringing now at this supreme moment when the highest of the old gods was to be formally defied. And perhaps also (having a kindness for Phoenice) she was not a little dreadful of the consequences.

But the empress had no eye for one sad look among all the sea of glowing faces. Boldly and proudly she strode out into the circle, as though she had been the duly appointed priest for the sacrifice. And after her came a knot of men, dressed as priests, and bearing the victim. Some of these were creatures of her own, and it was easy to forgive mere ignorant laymen, won over by the glamour of Phoenice's presence. But some, to their shame, were men born in the Priests' clan, and brought up in the groves and colleges of the Sacred Mountain, and for their apostasy there could be no palliation.

The wood had already been stacked on the altar-stone in the due form required by the ancient symbolism, and the empress stood aside while those who followed did what was needful. As they opened out, I saw that the victim was one of the small, cloven-hoofed horses that roam the plains—a most acceptable sacrifice. They bound its feet with metal gyves, and put it on the pyre, where, for awhile, it lay neighing. Then they stepped aside, and left it living. Here was an innovation.

The false priests went back to the farther side of the circle, and Phoenice stood alone before the altar. She lifted up her voice, sweet, tuneful and carrying, and, though the din of the siege still came from over the city, no ear there lost a word of what was spoken.

She raised her glance aloft, and all other eyes followed it. The heaven was clear as the deep sea, a gorgeous blue. But as the words came from her, so a small mist was born in the sky, wheeling and circling like a ball, although the day was windless, and rapidly growing darker and more compact. So dense had it become that presently it threw a shadow on part of the sacred circle that soothed it into twilight, though all without, where the people stood, was still garish day. And in the ball of mist were little quick stabs and splashes of noiseless flame.

She spoke not in the priests' sacred tongue—though such was her wicked cleverness, that she may very well have learned it—but in the common speech of the people, so that all who heard might understand, and she told of her wondrous birth (as she chose to name it), and of the direct aid of the most high gods, which had enabled her to work so many marvels. And in the end she lifted both of her fair white arms towards the blackness above, and with her lovely face set with the strain of will, uttered her final cry:

"O my high father, the sun, I pray you now to acknowledge me as your very daughter. Give this people a sign that I am indeed a child of the gods, and no trait mortal. Here is sacrifice, and where mortal priests with their puny fires had weekly, since the foundation of this land, sent savory smoke towards the sky, I pray you send down the heavenly fire to burn this beast here offered, in token that though you still rule on high, you have given me Atlantis to be my kingdom, and the people of the earth to be my worshippers."

She broke off and strained towards the sky. Her face was contorted. Her limbs shook. "O mighty father," she cried, "who hast made me a god and an equal, hear me! hear me!"

Out of the black cloud overhead there came a blinding flash of light, which spat downward on to the altar. The cloven-hoofed horse gave one shrill neigh, and one convulsion, and fell back dead. Flames crackled out from the woodpile, and the air became rich with the smell of burning flesh. And lo! in another moment the cloud above had melted into nothingness, and the flames burned pile, and the smoke went up in a thin blue spiral towards the deeper blue of the sky.

Phoenice the empress stood there before the great stone, and before the snake and the outstretched hand of life which were inscribed upon it, flushed, exultant, and once more radiantly lovely; and the knot of priests within the circle, and the great mob of people without, fell to the ground adoring.

"Phoenice, goddess!" they cried. "Phoenice, goddess of all Atlantis!" But for myself, I did not kneel. I would have no part in this apostasy, so I stood there awaiting fate.

CHAPTER X.

A VOING

When the silence had grown again, and Phoenice turned and saw me standing alone among all the prostrate worshippers, I stepped out from the crowd and passed between two of the great stones, and went across to where she stood beside the altar. I did not prostrate myself. At the prescribed distance I made the salutation which she herself had ordered when she made me her chief minister, and then hailed her with formal decorum as empress.

"Deucalion, man of ice," she retorted. "I still adhere to the old gods!"

"I was not referring to that," said she, and looked at me with a sidelong smile.

But here Ylga came up to us with a face that was white and a hand that shook and made supplication for my life. "If he will not leave the old gods yet," she pleaded, "surely you will pardon him? He is a strong man, and does not become a convert easily. You may change him later. But think, Phoenice, he is a Deucalion; and if you slay him here for this one thing, there is no other man within all the marches of Atlantis who could so worthily serve."

The empress took the words from her. "You slay," she cried out. "I have you near me to appoint my warder and carry my fan, and you dare to put a meddling finger in my policies? Back with you, outside this circle, or I'll have you whipped. Aye, and I'll do more. I'll serve you as Zaemon served my captain, Tarca. Still I point a finger at you, and smite your pretty skin with a sudden leprosy!"

The girl bowed her shoulders and went away cowed, and Phoenice turned to me. "My lord," she said, "I am like a young bird in the nest that has suddenly found its wings. Wings have so many uses that I am curious to try them all."

"May each new flight they take be for the good of Atlantis."

"Oh," she said, with an eye-flash, "I know what you have most at heart. But we will go back to the pyramid and talk this out at more leisure. I pray you now, my lord, conduct me back to my riding beast."

It appeared then that I was to be condoned for not offering her worship, and so putting public question on her deification. It appeared also that Ylga's interference was looked upon as untimely, and, though I could not understand the exact reasons for either of these things, I accepted them as they were, seeing that they forwarded the scheme that Zaemon had bidden me to carry out.

So when the empress lent me her fingers—warm, delicate fingers they were, though so skillful to grasp the weapons of war—I took them gravely, and led her out of the great circle, which she had polluted with her trickeries. I had expected to see our Lord the Sun take vengeance on the profanation while it was still in act; but none had come, and I knew that he would choose his own good time for retribution and appoint what instrument he thought best, without my raising a puny arm to guard his mighty honor.

So I led this lovely, sinful woman back to the huge red mammoth which stood there tamely in waiting, and the smell of the sacrifice came after us as we walked. She mounted the stair to the golden castle on the shaggy beast's back, and bade me mount also and take seat beside her. But the place of the fan-girl behind her was empty, and what we said as we rode back through the streets there was none to overhear.

"She was eager to know what had befallen me after the attack on the gate, and I told the tale, laying stress on the worthlessness of Nais, and uttering an opinion that with care the girl might be won back to allegiance again. Only the commands that Zaemon laid upon me, when he and I spoke together in the sacred tongue, did I withhold, as it is not lawful to repeat these matters save only in the high council of the priests' self as they sit before the Ark of Mysteries."

"You seem to have an unusual kindness for this rebel Nais," said Phoenice.

"She showed herself to me as more clever and thoughtful than the common herd."

"Aye," she answered, with a sigh that I think was real enough in its way, "an empress loses much that meaner woman gets as her common due."

"In what particular?"

"She misses the honest wooing of her equals."

"If you set up for a goddess—" I said.

"Pah! I wish to be no goddess to you, Deucalion. That was for the common people; it gives me more power with them; it helps my schemes. All you seven higher priests know that trick of calling down the fire, and it pleases me to alight it. Can you not be generous, and admit that a woman may be as clever in finding out these natural laws as your musty elder priests?"

"Remains that you are empress."

"Nor empress either. Just think that there is a woman seated beside you on this cushion, Deucalion, and look upon her, and say what words come first to your lips. Have done with ceremonies, and have done with statecraft. Do you wish to wait on as you are till all your manhood withers? It is well not to hurry unduly in these matters; I am with you there. Yet who but a fool watches a fruit grow ripe, and then leaves it till it is past its prime?"

I looked on her glorious beauty, but as I did I left me cold. But I remembered the command that had been laid upon me, and forced a smile. "I may have been fastidious," I said, "but I do not regret waiting thus long."

"Nor I! But I have played my life as a maid time enough. I am a woman, ripe and full-blooded, and the day has come when I should be more than what I have been."

I let my hand clench on hers. "Take me to husband then, and I will be a good man to you. But, as I am bidden speak to Phoenice the woman now, and not to the empress, I offer her fair warning that I will be no puppet."

She looked at me sidelong. "I have been master so long that I think it will come as enjoyment to be mastered some time. No, Deucalion, I promise that—you shall be no puppet. Indeed, it would take a lusty lung to do the piping if you were to dance against your will."

"Then as man and wife we will live together in the royal pyramid, and we will rule this country with all the wit that it has pleased the high gods to bestow on us. These miserable differences shall be swept aside; the rebels shall go back to their homes, and hunt, and fight the beasts in the provinces, and the Priests' clan shall be pacified. Phoenice, you and I will throw ourselves brain and soul into the government, and we will make Atlantis rise as a nation that shall once more surpass all the world for peace and prosperity."

Suburban News.

South Lyon people are after Northville's sugar beet factory.

Things are likely to be very sticky around Fenton this year. Three new cement plants are to be put in operation.

The Rochester Beet Sugar factory is soliciting farmers around South Lyon to plant 100 acres of beets to be delivered at Rochester.

D. H. Powers has opened up a bank at Birmingham.—Northville Record. Up stairs, presumably—Adrian Press.

No, that would be "opened a bank up." Might be a burglar, though.

South Lyon people have petitioned the council to submit a $5,000 bonding proposition for the people to vote on this spring as a bonus for some factory. Better build an electric light plant.

Charley Restrick, a Delray lumber dealer says he is going to do "business on a large scale this year." Restrick must be thinking he is going to sell coal. Or weight a minute—maybe it's all right after all for they do scale logs.

Will Priest, a Carleton laundry man, is moving his outfit to River Rouge, where he can get more water, but Carleton folks are going to send their washin's over to the Priest by the River Rouge, beyond George Clippert's brick yard, just the same.

Holly and Wyandotte are both proud possessors of basketball clubs. The players are all ladies of course and when dressed up in the regulation bloomer uniform present a very attractive appearance. Judging by the way the men folks keep their eyes glued on the ladies' feet they have an idea the girls kick the ball instead of catching it with their hands.

On his death bed the late Abram Shearer of Plymouth made a present to Mrs. Rachel Adams, who had been his housekeeper. It is claimed on behalf of the heirs that he gave her only $500, but Mrs. Adams has 45 shares of stock in the Plymouth bank valued at about $5,100, which she says shearer gave her. Wm. H. Crippen, executor, filed a bill to set the transfer aside and Judge Donovan is now trying the case.

The 3:30 o'clock Northwestern electric car ran on the track at Farmington last week and jumped into a big locust tree near the hotel breaking a number of limbs—on the tree. The tree backed quite a lot and was so cur up that it threatened to leave and would really have done so except that owing to its broken limbs it couldn't carry its trunk. (Isn't that awful, and so many sick people in town, too.)

A correspondent writes "We think that Mrs. Frank Vowles is entitled to be mentioned as a successful poultry raiser. She has sold ten dollars' worth of eggs, every egg laid between the third of January and the first of February, 1902. Can you beat it? The number of hens Mrs. Vowles keeps was not stated.—Michigan Times.

Certainly we can beat em—that is if they are good eggs and not too ripe.

The Northville Record holds out the inducement that Northville would contribute liberally to secure the court house away from Pontiac. It states that "the village backs up" against the county line, and a lovely location could be furnished on the north side of the base up. The fact that Northville is in Wayne ought not to count much. It's such a little way over the line, and would certainly furnish a fine backdrop.—Detroit Tribune.

But you only have to step across the street to get into Oakland county.

Rev. Fr. Commend, a very popular Trenton priest, has fitted up his new parish house with a club room for the young people of this place. Besides containing all that is late and good in the line of literature the room is nicely equipped with many different kinds of games as well as bars, riags, clubs, etc., for athletic sports. The club room is open to all the young people of the village without regard to denomination. The idea is certainly a very commendable one and undoubtedly is much appreciated.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Bank Doors Close.

Vice President Francis C. Andrews, of the City savings bank in Detroit, which has been in the hands of State Banking Commissioner George L. Maltz several days, has been arrested and arraigned on the charge of "willfully, fraudulently and knowingly" securing from the bank, without security and without the knowledge of the other directors, a sum exceeding $1,000,000. He was released on $10,000 bail and his examination was set for February 21. Unfortunately speculations, especially heavy purchases of Amalgamated copper stock, are believed to be responsible for Mr. Andrews' ruin.

State Inspector Wanted.

The State Dairy men's association held its annual meeting in Lansing. A resolution was adopted asking the state board of agriculture to appoint a state inspector of cheese factories and dairies for the general instruction of persons engaged in making butter and cheese. The following officers were elected: President, Fred M. Warner, Farmington; vice president, Ira O. Johnson, Grand Rapids; secretary and treasurer, S. J. Wilson, Flint.

Insurance Companies.

State School Commissioner Barry received and turned into the state treasury during the month of January over $200,000 which was paid by the insurance companies for the privilege of doing business in the state. Michigan companies are not required to pay a tax on their business. Foreign fire insurance companies pay a tax of three per cent on the premiums received and life companies pay two per cent.

Not Liable.

Ardel Westervelt, a 15-year old girl, sued the Benton Harbor school board for $10,000 damages because of an illness alleged to have resulted from the girl sitting in a schoolroom that was unhealthy because of the negligence of the directors. In the circuit court Judge Collidge decided that "schools are not liable in private action for injuries sustained through the negligence of the school officials."

Tunneled into a Bank.

Robbers tunneled under the Muskegon savings bank until they reached the vault. They bored a hole through its thick cement floor large enough for a boy or small man to pass through. As only $325 in bills and old silver coin is missing it is thought the thieves were frightened away before they could penetrate the steel doors of the inner vault, where larger sums were stored.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the state board of health from 75 observers in various portions of the state indicate that during the last week inflammation of the bowels, scarlet fever and whooping cough increased, and measles decreased in area of prevalence. Consumption was reported at 215 places, measles at 60, typhoid fever at 48, whooping cough at 27, diphtheria at 27, scarlet fever at 117, and smallpox at 129 places.

News Briefly Stated.

Edwin Dutton, aged 65, died in Dowagiac of cancer. He was one of the pioneer business men.

Royal Stradine, pioneer, died at Willow Run, aged 87. Mrs. Stradine died a few days before.

James H. Gardner, aged 77, a carpenter, overworked while helping to unload coal in Jackson, ruptured the muscles of his chest and died as a result.

W. B. Northrup, for many years cashier of the state bank of Reading and for the past year a resident of Fitchburg, died suddenly of heart disease.

William Penayer, one of the first settlers in the vicinity of Fitchburg, is dead. He drove the first team that came into the township.

Michigan capitalists, headed by Gov. Bliss, have made a strike of high grade gold ore in the Rittenhouse mine on Good Hill, Colorado.

The post office known as Hoppertown, Allegan county, has been changed to Pullman.

The State Supervisors' association will not hold its regular annual meeting this year.

City Treasurer Fred W. Hagen has been removed from office by the Alpena council on a charge of neglect of duties.

Mattie Gerbens, aged nine, while waiting for a freight train to pass at Lansing, was killed by a log which fell from one of the cars.

The Battle Creek Pure Food company has been sold to the Malta-Vita Food company. The capital of the new company is $5,000,000, paid up.

State Banking Commissioner Maltz announces the appointment of Elmer E. Ford, of Kalamazoo, as state banking examiner to fill a vacancy.

UNANIMOUS ENDORSEMENT.

Kind Word from Every Newspaper in the Third District.

From Flat Rock Register.

Frank S. Neal the popular and gifted editor of the Northville Record, will be a candidate this year for renomination on the republican ticket for representative from this district, and will doubtless have a walk-away. His party surely could make no better selection.

From Plymouth Mail.

It is but fair to say that Representative Neal, of Northville, will again be a candidate for renomination from this district and as he has committed no serious breaks, party custom has been to allow a second term.

From Belleville Enterprise.

The many friends, in this place and vicinity, of the Hon. Frank S. Neal of Northville, are pleased to learn that he will again be a candidate for member of the Legislature. During the last Legislature of which Mr. Neal was a member, he was an active and energetic worker and was always on the alert for the interest of his constituents. No mistake will be made by the republicans of the third district of Wayne County in placing him on the ticket for re-election, as his record in the Legislature is beyond reproach.

From Livonia Cor. Farmington Enterprise.

Representative F. S. Neal of Northville, has announced that he would again be a candidate for representative to the legislature next year. The people of Livonia feel that Mr. Neal represented his district very faithfully and loyally while there and that according to all past custom established by party precedent of the Republican party he is entitled to a renomination without opposition. There is no doubt but he will be returned and the people will feel assured that they have a man who will work to the best interest of his constituents.

From Wyandotte Herald.

As the time approaches when politics will begin to warm up again, candidates are coming forward for the various offices within the gift of the people. We notice that several gentlemen are reported as being ambitious to fill the shoes that at present grace the pedal extremities of Representative F. S. Neal of Northville. It strikes the Herald that Mr. Neal is entitled to a second term, and he will probably let it be when the time comes. He was a hard working, conscientious member of the last Legislature. He has learned the ropes something that a new man would have to do over again, and is in a position to give his constituents the best of service. He is considered both in the light of faith and party service and party precedent, Mr. Neal is entitled to a renomination, hands down.

From Wayne Review.

We understand that Mr. F. S. Neal, editor of the Northville Record, and our present representative in the house in the Legislature of 1901-2, is a candidate for renomination. If this is true, he should be nominated by acclamation, as he was a credit to the district he represented, and while the legislature was in session was always to be found at his post of duty. Not only was he prompt, but intelligent and energetic in his work for the interests of the State in general and his own district in particular. Of course, if he desires a second term, he is entitled to it from party usage, and there can be no doubt he will receive it. He deserves it if he wants it, and we hope to see him again represent this district in the state legislature.

From Trenton Times.

A year or more before the gentleman composing the list Michigan state legislature took their seats the present editor of the Times had about concluded to "go wavy back and sit down," eschew politics and get acquainted with his family.

In the shuffle, somehow, it turns out that we have come to the scene of action just when there is to be a new deal, and when our old-time friend, F. S. Neal, of the Northville Record, is trying to keep his "bee" alive. Well, notwithstanding, he got into a pretty tough alley, we don't think he stole "fat copy" or juffed for a blind pig. He acted square with the boys and his party ought to give him a renomination and then stand by its action on election day.

Cab Rates in Cities.

In New York, Chicago, Washington and other cities it costs $5 for a carriage for a theater party, a dinner or a ball. In Berlin it costs about fifty cents. There is a cab stand every few blocks, the locations being fixed by police regulations. One pays for the distance.

Strategem. "I understand that close political friend of yours has been taking money from the opposition," said the alert politician.

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum; "he and I talked the matter over. All he had to do was to make a few promises, and we concluded that the more of the opposition's money we could get the worse it would be for the opposition."—Washington Star.

THE GREATEST

Overcoat Selling

Ever Known in Michigan.

THE REASON: Our great purchase of over NINETEEN HUNDRED Men's Fine Overcoats—bought at our own price. The overloaded manufacturer came to us for relief. He knew our immense outlet and capacity to handle such quantities. After several days' dickering he came to our terms and the Coats were shipped. We knew nothing but a low price would move them quickly and that's the way they are going—selling as they were bought—At One-Half Their Regular Values.

Crude Fancies in Asia Minor.

Perhaps Asia Minor is richer in crude and interesting fancies than any other country. When children hear an owl hooting from the cypress groves they cry "Good news for us; good messages for you." If they catch an owl they hold it up by the beak and chant, "Palm Sunday owl, how does your mother dance?" The meaning of the rite is lost, but the habit lingers.
