SENATOR EARLE'S GOOD ROADS TRAIN

SAYS THE CITIES WANT TO HELP BUILD GOOD ROADS

But the Farmers Are Not Willing to Let Them Do It.

Here's an allegory by Senator
Earle of good roads fame:

"In school district No. 13 there were 12 boys, five of them were the sons of Mr. Farmer, four were the sons of Mr. City and three were the sons of Mr. Corporation.

"They schooled together, played together and fought each other as school boys do, but at last they quit school and at their life's work went.

"The sons of Farmer went to farming, the sons of City into the professional and mercantile business and the sons of Corporation into manufacturing, railroading and mining.

"At the age of fifty they happened to meet and each was anxious to know how all the others had gotten along in life, and after some time had been spent in sort of an experience social it was found that the

to pay their share of the expense of the banquet.

"They would vote tomorrow to tax themselves, but the sons of Farmer say, 'No. We will pay the whole bill.' So we have roads of a few by a few for the whole, instead of what we ought to have, roads of all by all and for all."

HORATIO S. EARLE,
President Michigan
Highway Com., President American Road-Makers, Originator of the Good Roads Trail Idea, Promoter of the First International Good Roads Congress.

Harry McCracken Did It.

Harry McCracken, the handsome,
blushing editor of the Farmington Enterprise, eloped with himself Sunday night and had not returned up to last evening. Undoubtedly he went away to get married to some mighty fine young lady and intends to surprise his Farmington friends.

No Raise in Price of Milk.

The Northville Milk dealers all give notice they will not raise the price as has been talked but instead as soon as the hot weather sets in they will make but one trip a day and that in the late afternoon and evening.

COL. BALDWIN'S BRAVERY AGAIN

UNEXCELLED PERFORMANCE OF GALLANTRY.

Brig. Gen. Davis Lauds Baldwin's
Work at Bayan, P. I.

The following is the full substance of Brig. Gen. George W. Davis's message:

"Eighty-four survivors Bayan surrendered unconditionally this morning at 7 o'clock. Bayan, Raja, Muda.

COLONEL FRANK D. BALDWIN

Bayan, Sultan Pandapatan and all leading datus dead and many of their followers. The assault on the principal fort which surrendered last night was one of the most gallant performances of American arms.
Col. Frank D. Baldwin and his regiment deserve all praise for a hand-to-hand struggle in four lines of ditches under the walls of the fort. These trenches are lined with Moro dead from our rifle fire. Have never seen nor heard of any performance excelling this gallantry and grit."

COMMITTED SUICIDE

Mrs. Andrew Yerkes Did It in Detroit Wednesday.

Mrs. Andrew Yerkes, a former resident of Northville, committed suicide by taking chloroform in Detroit Wednesday night. She lived with a family named McFarlane and it is believed she had become insane through the complications incident to her connection with the settlement of the McIntyre estate at Sand Hill which has been so long in litigation.

Opera House Given Away.

Mr. Shafer has donated the use of the opera house for the evening of Friday, May 16, to the "Gleaner Class" of the Baptist Sunday school.

They have secured at great expense some of the best talent ever presented to a Northville audience: Mr.
Charles Berry, baritone soloist, Detroit; Miss Robertson, contralto soloist, Ypsilanti; Miss Matthews, violin soloist; Miss Richardson and Mr. Berry in a vocal duet Mrs. E.
H. Lapham, pianist and accompanist, C. A. Gardner, vocal funny-isms and an 18-act Border Drama with three bad actors. The piece is called "Was She or Is He, or does a rolling stone gather oyster stews."

This piece has been well received in all the eastern cities. They left their trunks in Elm and Lomb in Beach.

Admission 10c, 15c, 25c. Reserved seats at Murdock's without extra charge. Sale of seats opens Monday at 5 o'clock sharp.

Don't Take Other People's Mail.

Postal authorities at Washington, D. C., recognizing the liability of postmasters to make mistakes in getting letters in wrong boxes, have fixed a penalty of $200 on persons taking mail out of the office, other than their own, and not returning it.
The law is to have people look at their mail before taking it out of the office, and if they should have mail other than their own they must return it at once. It also includes newspapers. The excuse that it is the postmaster's fault "cuts no ice."
If you have been getting other people's mail, take warning and keep out of trouble.

The Graphophone.

This wonder working instrument is making its appearance in those parts of the world whose history dates far back beyond the time when Caesar's dreaded galleys appeared on the coast of America. It is a wonder like race of men waded out into the water, spears in hand, to give the Romans battle. A few days ago the Chicago office of the Columbia Phonograph Company sold to Maj. C. H.
Loch, of the British army, a complete graphophone outfit to be shipped to Calcutta, whence it will be taken up into the "hills of India." For the greater part of the distance comprising the overland journey the machine will be conveyed strapped on the heads of native carriers. The outfit was destined for a part of the country where they have never heard of talking machines before, and will doubtless create a great sensation when the strains of "Good Morning, Carrie," and "When Reuben Comes to Town," strike the tympanums of the benighted Tartar-Afghan inhabitants of the far away uplands of India.

The Shah of Persia, like the bird that cometh and singeth all night long, is again in evidence and this time he desires the smallest graphophone that can be made. Mr. T. H.
Macdonald, admittedly the prince of all the talking machine experts, is now designing this miniature affair.
No talking machine upon such a small scale was ever constructed before.
This is a far cry from the paleozoic to the strictly up-to-date stage, but the Shah has made himself heard the distance and in the matter of grapho-phones may be said to be ahead of time. He seems to know what he wants and that the things he craves are not all of the conventional kind does not dim the picturesque figure which he represents in the great moving picture of those who rule the world. Last year he invaded Yankee land, in spirit, at least, with an order for a duplicate of a three-horned, triple record graphophone which was built solely for exhibition purposes at the Universal Exposition of 1900. He saw the machine in Paris and ordered one like it which was duly constructed and, together with thirty-two barrels of mammoth records, was shipped from Bridgeport last summer to Batum, on the shore of the Black Sea, sons of Farmer were comfortably well off, the sons of City were rich and the sons of Corporation were rolling in wealth.

"Owing to such good fortune it was decided to have a great banquet and a regular Belshazzar feast too, and to cost a thousand dollars a plate.

"Then one of the sons of Corporation takes out his pocketbook to pay his thousand dollars, up goes the hands of all the sons of Farmer, who all declared they would not have anything to do with the banquet unless they were allowed to pay the whole bill. All the sons of City and Corporation remonstrated with them, telling them that as they were the least able financially to stand this expense, and as they were to all share alike in the enjoyment it was only fair for those who could not afford to do at least pay their share, but all was of no avail, the sons of Farmer were stubborn for once at least and they had their way. The feast was held and they paid the bill and all enjoyed it together, but not as well as would they had the sons of Farmer allowed the sons of City and Corporation to share in the expense of the banquet so that it might have been a banquet of all, by all and for all, instead of one, of a few by a few for the whole.

"This illustrates the exact status of affairs in the most of the Central Western States today, where fivetwelfths of the assessed valuation is farm property, four-twelfths city property and three-twelfths property of corporations.

"The roads are for the whole to enjoy alike, to use for business purposes alike.

"They are built and kept in repair by the five sons of Farmer and because he is like the five sons that would pay the whole bill at the banquet, stubborn and foolish.

favor of state aid, that is they want

Suggestion for Memorial Day.

NORTHVILLE, May 1, 1902.
Editor Record: In behalf of the old soldiers who are still with us, as well as every other loyal and patriotic citizen, and in memory of the fallen heroes of the sixties, who though mustered out still live, I wish to suggest through the columns of the Record which are always open for any good purpose, that this year there be no games or field sports indulged in on Memorial Day, in our village, but that we unite in properly observing the day, and keep it sacred to the memory of our nation's honored dead.

"Ausie" Kimmis Gets It.

George S. Lord, head of the building and loan department of the secretary of state's office, has tendered his resignation to take effect July 1.
Secretary of State Warner announces the appointment of Hon. A. N.
Kimmis of Midland, formerly a representative in the legislature from Novi to fill the vacancy. Mr. Kim-mis is well known in Northville as well as in Oakland county and the appointment is regarded as a most excellent selection.

Spent Eight Cents in Campaign.

candidate for the London common council and was defeated, in his report of expenses declared that he had spent only fourpence in his campaign.

Hard to Tell Chinaman's Age.
How old is a Chinaman? Can you give a good guess? It is harder to tell than the age of a negro. The Chinaman has no beard and his hair is of a jet and glossy blackness, which turns gray only at an extreme age, when a Caucasian head would be either snow white or bald.

Then, again, the Chinese have the most perfect nervous system of any people in the world and do not wrinkle up with age. They can stand any amount of opium smoking without material injury that would send a white man to his grave or an insane asylum.
So you have little to go by.

A Chinaman will look 30 when he is 20 and when he is 50. If you ask him his age he will place it at least 10 years ahead, for he holds old age to be honorable, and among his people he will be respected and looked up to by all his juniors.—Washington Post.

Carnegie's Private Library.

Mr Carnegie has taken steps for the formation of a private library at Sri bo castle. The work of selection has been entrusted to Lord Acton, professor of history at Oxford. The library will probably number 8,000 volumes.

Artificial Island.
A scheme is on foot to create an island in the center of the Lake of Neuchatel, in Switzerland. In the middle of the lake there is a submerged mountain six or seven feet below
the water, and it is on this mountain that the island will be constructed. A large hotel will be constructed on the island. The capital, which is already subscribed, will come from England and America.

Gutta Serena From Peat.
Advices from Germany are to the effect that a very satisfactory artificial gutta serena has been derived from peat, and great things are expected to result from the discovery in cheapening the cost of insulating ocean cables.
Gutta serena is the only substance
thus far discovered for protecting a wire against the corrosive action of salt water, and the product is not or-limited, but is controlled by an F lish firm of cable manufacturers.

What Do They Want Him to Do?

The opponents of Gov. Bliss candidacy for reelection in other parts of the state seem to harp mostly on one string—that he hasn't "done anything." It would be interesting to his friends to know what it is necessary that he should have done aside from fulfilling as he has, his duties as executive to the best of a very excellent ability. If it is incumbent upon the governor to signalize his administration by some sort of spectacular, grand stand sensational act he certainly hasn't "done anything," but if the people really demand something of the sort it isn't too late yet for him to shake up the state capital by the judicious disposal of a few dynamite cartridges, execute a big train robbery or break into a bank, or something which shall demonstrate his ability to make a spectacle of himself in some way or other. People too often forget that a governor is elected to see that laws are executed—not to make laws.

Good for "Ausie."

The selection of Hon. A. N. Kimmis for the head of the building and loan department of his office by Secretary of State Warner is certainly an excellent one. Mr. Kimmis is a polished gentleman, highly educated, a lawyer and mathematician of no mean ability, a man who has spent some years in the study of state affairs and is therefore particularly well fitted for this position. Mr. Kimmis' numerous friends in this section, where he was born and where he spent so many years of his life will, in congratulating Mr. Warner upon the wisdom of his choice, rejoice to hear of "Ausie's" good fortune.

Possibly Mr. Stearns' workmen got hold of the wrong barrel. The first one rolled out has evidently only contained mud.

British Increase in Height.

No nation is increasing in height and weight so rapidly as the English, says a British statistician. The proof of this is shown in statistics recently collected of the height of 10,000 boys and men. At the age of 17 these averaged 5 feet 8 inches, at the age of 22, 5 feet 9 inches. In 17 years the average has gone up for the whole nation from 5 feet 7 1/2 inches to 5 feet 8 1/2 inches.

Shotgun Quarantine Against Johnnies. The authorities of the East Mississippi Female College at Jackson, have taken drastic steps toward keeping the young lady students of the institution from falling with the boys of the town. They have established a shotgun quarantine around the building and zone of the boys are allowed to come around so they can make "goo-goo eyes" at the girls.

Vagaries of Our Language. In a book which has just been published on that never-failing topic, the vagaries of the English language, the strange meaning of the word "pocket handkerchief" is described. A "kerchief" (couvrechef) means a small piece of cloth made to put on the head, so that a "pocket handkerchief" means literally a small piece of cloth to cover the head to be held in the hand to be put in the pocket.—London Globe.

His Philosophy.

"There is one consolation, gentlemen," said the able editor of the Poughwash (Mich.) Weekly Stinger, as he was ridden out of town on the top side of a saw-edged rail, upborne and escorted by a delegation of his unappreciative subscribers: "You may maltreat me, you may destroy our Lanes and Penates, you may make our good name a hissing and a byword but, thank heaven! you are not able to rob us of the greatest of all the inalienable rights of journalism—you can't make us pay for transportation!"—Puck.

A Serious Matter.

"What makes you so blue, old man?" "Oh, Mabel has sent me back my ring." "The deuce! What is the matter?" "We've—we've had a quarrel." "But what about?" "Why, I hesitated when she asked if I was sure I'd have loved her just the same if we'd never met."—Town Topics.

Careless George.

Georgiana—George, pa says that I can't marry you because you don't wear overshoes. George—Overshoes! What have they got to do with it? Georgiana—Why, George, pa says a man hasn't got sense enough to take good care of himself he won't have sense enough to take good care of me!—Puck.

The Limit.

"I can stand the health food craze," said the wife, wearily. "I have eaten prepared cereals and health biscuits and taken imitation coffee without a murmur, but James has a phase of it just now which is dreadfully trying." "And that is?" "His doctor told him he ought not to smoke and he has taken to sweet fern cigarettes."—Washington Times.

Sure to Fail.

Hicks—There's a kind of mine, a bustling young fellow who is thinking of opening a high-class restaurant in Chicago making a specialty of Italian dishes. Wicks—I'm afraid it wouldn't be a "go." It's almost impossible to eat spaghetti with a knife.—Catholic Standard and Times.

The Bright Side.

When the man discovered it was his wife he had kissed and not the cool, he was extremely cast down. It was like the brave little woman to try to comfort him. "Cheer up, dear," said she. "Only think how much better it is than if you had mistaken the cook for me and spoken harshly to her!"—N. Y. Sun.

The Chronic Growler.

"Kraukley should be happy now." "Not at all. He's more unhappy than ever." "Why he's making barrels of money." "Yes, and it keeps him so busy he doesn't get time to kick about anything."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Where They Flourish.

Crawford—If you're not going out to buy a new hat, but merely to look at them, what do you want with a dollar? Mrs. Crawford—Why, you can't get a decent seat at the manure for less than a dollar.—Town Topics.

Illustrating the Difference.

"Is he a statesman or a politician?" "Oh a statesman, beyond question." "Are you sure?" "Positive. Why, you couldn't shake him with money; you'd have to show that you could deliver political influence."—Brooklyn Eagle.

The Song.

"I'm going back, I'm going back," "The singer sweetly sang; Her voice was beautiful, her voice in rich, soft, low tones rang. "I'm going back," she sang, and then some base, "collected clown" Up in the gallery's holier. "When you get there please set your."—Chicago Record Herald.

BACH MAY TO HIS CALLING.

Mr. Commercial—I am a business representative you know. I represent artistic wall papers. Second Commercial—How funny! I represent artistic furniture—Chippendale, and that sort of thing, you know.—Ally Sloper.

Superior in Every Respect.

May—Daisy is an unusually gifted girl. Maud—Yes, indeed. Why, she has more ways of making you feel inferior than any other girl I know.—Town Topics.

Explains Some Failures.

"To what do you attribute his failure in life?" "Why, he has devoted so much time to looking for 'good things' that he hasn't been able to develop any of them."—Chicago Post.

He Won Out.

She—Poor fellow! So you loved and lost, did you? He—No, I can't say that I lost anything. She returned all my presents.—Chicago Daily News.

PROMISING YOUNG MAN.

Earl of Lytton Attracts Attention by His Speech Seconding King Edward's Address.

If there is anything in heredity, a young man who has just come into public notice for the first time ought to do something worth while. He is the earl of Lytton, who was selected for the heavy function of seconding the king's address at the recent opening of the house of lords. As the mover and seconder of the address from the throne is not expected to say anything in particular, it has been the custom to choose, for the seconder of the address at least, some young legislator who has not ventured previously to open his mouth. The resulting speeches are not ordinarily brilliant, but on this occasion the youthful earl really did well. "It is my deliberate judgment," said Lord Rosebery in the house of lords afterward—"having heard many movers and seconders of addresses in this house that his speech stands out as by far the best that has ever been delivered in my hearing on such an occasion." Coming from the finest orator among the peers, that was praise worth having.

The earl who is only 26 years old, is the son of Owen Meredith, whose "Fuefue" was the most popular poetry of its day, and grandson of Bulwer Lytton, the novelist-statesman, who was made a baron for his work as an ambassador. The second Bulwer Lytton, who was made an earl died a few years ago. The present earl was born in India, and is a handsome, modest fellow, who has not yet followed his father and grandfather into the field of literature. He is rich, has a fine old mansion and would be a splendid catch for some American girl.

SAIL WASTES NO WIND.

It Enables the Skillful Yachtsman to Utilize to the Utmost Even the Slightest Breeze.

A novel sail has just been invented. It is composed of independent sections, each of which is separated from but overlaps the adjoining one, the result being that each section spills the wind away from the one next to it.

Furthermore, the upper ends of each section are secured to a gaff and one corner of the lower end of each to a boom. Finally, a pair of independent sheets or ropes are connected to the after corner of the lower end of each section and there are guiding leads for these ropes.

SOMETHING NEW IN SAILS.
(Enables Yachtsmen to Make Use of the Slightest Breeze.)

A mainsail constructed in this fashion has been tested recently, and it is said that it proved more serviceable on various respects than an old-fashioned mainsail. The main advantage claimed for this new sail, however, is said to be in the fact that it enables a yachtsman to utilize to the utmost even a slight breeze.

Canaries in Red Plumage. A canary breeder, M. Bournez, has found a method of producing red canaries, which he does by feeding parent birds on finely ground cayenne pepper. This has the effect of gradually causing a change in the color of the feathers. So far the magician has only managed to produce a reddish orange-colored canary, but he hopes by perseverance to achieve a brilliant red in time.

Heroic Scheme of Dieting. Headaches, nervousness and indigestion troubled Rev. John J. Eberlie until he was 37 years of age. At that time, in 1860, he began a system of dieting, eating only one meal a day, and that in the evening. For breakfast and lunch he drank a glass or two of water, sometimes adding a little sugar. His health became perfect under this system, and he lived to the age of 73. He died recently at Petroltown, Pa.

Industrious New York Hen.

A peculiar hen was at one time possessed by William Fanning, of Cornwall, N. Y. Each of its eggs invariably had two yolks. Twelve of these he put under a setting hen, and the result was that one of the eggs failed to hatch, while the remaining 11 each produced two chicks.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

Summer Hangings.

The newest draperies for the summer cottage are boldly effective and very original. There are Algerian rugs made of hemp and decorated with the most eccentric patterns showing green dragons on blue grounds, giant flowers of brilliant red against a background of soft brown and other odd but striking and decorative emblems. These hangings are heavy in weight and well suited to ward off the too cool breeze from a drafty doorway or exposed corner of the veranda, but as they are not soft or woolly they do not attract every particle of dust in the vicinity to find lodgment in their meshes.

Some of the new madras are in most artistic designs. One of white is divided into squares by lines of gold, and some of these squares frame a conventionalized dragon in dull, soft colors. When this stuff is held up to the light, it has the effect of a stained glass window. Another madras is in shades of rose, light brown and green in a design suggestive of the Beauvais tapestry.

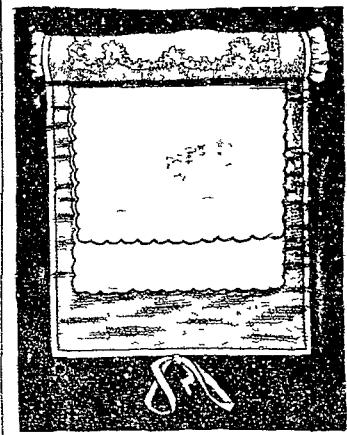

Walter Crane patterns in these diaphanous hangings show the decorative though often grotesque fancies of this artist, with which we have become familiar within the last five years. A design of conventionalized pumpkins and squashes in shades of yellow from pale gold to deep orange, with green stems and stems to relieve the glow of color, is characteristic of his work in this line.

The Fad in Sash Curtains.

White muslin, fishnet, curly and rennaissance lace sash curtains will soon have to go. It is one of the prevailing fads to replace them with sash curtains of India silk of the daintiest, palest shades. Strong, vivid hues are considered bad style. Mrs. Clarence Mackay, who has just had completed a handsome country residence at Roslyn, on Long Island, has every window in the house beautifully draped in sash curtains of pale pink India silk tied back with bands and bows of old rose satin ribbon. The effect is delightful. Another woman, who is rather a rival of Mrs. Mackay's in matters of good taste, has copied her fad and has obtained her entire country house with sash curtains of yellow silk. She, however, has chosen rather a heavy ribbed silk. The curtains are unlaced and are of pale canary color. They are tied back with silver cords and tassels.

For Filmy Vells.

The Ladies' Home Journal gives the illustration and description of a case in which vells may be kept in perfect order, which is here reproduced. It is not hard to make and is a very useful article.

THE VELL CASE.

Make the cover of the vell case of 10 layers of white silk inside 10 by 15 inches and 10 by 15 inches. Use two yards and a half of silk tape for binding and strings and two yards and three-quarters of lace for trimming. A case like this will be found most convenient for carrying vells when traveling. The case makes a very small package when rolled and tied with the ribbons.

The Science of Milk Puddings.

The largest amount of farinaceous grains and powders to be used in one quart of milk equals two ounces.

If too large a proportion is used, the starch grains have not room to swell. Powders such as cornstarch and ground rice must be mixed to a thin paste before adding the milk.

Powders and small grains such as semolina and small sago, are boiled till clear in the milk before putting in the baking dish.

Farinaceous pudding must be cooked slowly, so that the starch grains will have time to swell and thus thicken the milk better.

Large grains, such as rice, are best cooked without the addition of eggs.

Small grains, such as semolina, and powders are improved by adding eggs. Eggs must not be added till the grains have been boiled in the milk; also not till the mixture has cooled or the eggs will curdle.

The surface should only be lightly browned and the use of nutmeg be sparing.

Skim milk may be used if a little piece of butter or dripping is put in with the milk to replace the cream or fat of milk which has been removed.

If you do not wish the pudding to boil while in the oven, stand the dish in a baking pan containing water.

A tiny pinch of bicarbonate of soda will often prevent the milk from curdling in the puddings in hot weather.

Scent Powder For Linen.

An ounce camellier, an ounce orris root, an ounce rose leaves, an ounce aromatic calamus, two ounces lavender flowers, a quarter dram rhodium wood, five grains musk. Mix all well together, reduce to a coarse powder and place in muslin bags. Excellent.

A Hard Fall.

Don't Start Wrong.

Don't start the summer with a lingering cough or cold. We all know what a "summer cold" is. It's the ugliest kind to cure. Often it "hangs on" through the entire season. A few doses of One Minute Cough Cure will set you right. Sure cure for coughs, colds and croup, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung troubles. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. Children like it. "One Minute Cough Cure is the best cough medicine I ever used," says J. H. Bowles, Groverton, N. H. "I never found anything else that acted so safely and quickly."—Murdoch Bros.

French Language in Canada.

French has been made the official language of the Quebec legislature, the city council and the board of trade. English-speaking members will be allowed to use their own language, of course, but all the records are to be kept in French. The change is due to the growth of the French element in the three bodies named.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured.

Local deafness, as it is called, cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional medicine. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When the tube gets inflamed, it has a rambling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is completely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be lost forever; nine cases out of ten are cured by catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous lining.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for particulars, free.

The high tension to which the nervous system is constantly subjected, has a depressing effect, and soon headache, backache, neuralgia, rheumatism, sciatica, etc., develop in severe form. Such was the case of Mail Carrier S. F. Schweinhart, of Huntsville, Ala., he says:

"An attack of pneumonia left me with muscular rheumatism, headache, and pains that seemed to be all over me. I was scarcely able to move for about a month when I decided to give Dr. Miles' Pain Pills

VERY LONG DEBATE

Pottawatomie Indians Held a Three Day Session.

ON THEIR CHICAGO PROPERTY

The Debate Was Continuous—Carried on in Their Own Tongue—Believed They Have Lost Their Hold by Selling the Power of Attorney.

Hartford, Mich., May 8.—The Pokagon band of Pottawatomie Indians has just closed a three-day council, and now all the bucks of the band are enjoying the sleep of a tired debater. Over 200 braves of the tribe were in attendance and the council was continued without cessation day or night.

The matter up for consideration was the payment of the $270,000, by the Chicago syndicate which some time ago purchased the treaty rights of the Indians to the Chicago lake front property. The Indians first decided away a power of attorney, for which they received a small compensation, the understanding being that the syndicate would immediately start suit for the recovery of the property. When the property was recovered, the aborigines were to get the rest.

The Indians have awaited in vain news of the beginning of the suit, and have now come to the conclusion that they simply decided their power of attorney to a middle party, who sold it to the present owners of the property, thereby confirming the latter in their title.

For three days and two nights the Indian eloquence rose and fell. Every one of the 200 bucks made his speech, and many of them made several. According to ancient custom, debate was not limited, and nobody ever thought of raising the previous question. Occasionally some brave would slide out for a hurried lunch, but would soon return and silently resume his place about the council's chairman. No one slept, as this would have been a pronounced insult to the speaker.

No vote was taken at the conclusion of the council, and the matter was left where it was taken up. The diversity of opinion was so marked that any decision would have been practically impossible.

All the debates were carried on in the Indian tongue, and white people were perfectly welcome to listen in the outer circle. Although practically none of the visitors understood what was going on, they were many of them fascinated by the Indian eloquence and grace of gesture. No interruptions of approval or disagreement ever occurred, and each speaker finished and took his seat, only to be followed by the next in order.

It is probable that another council will follow as soon as the tribe's committee, now in Chicago, shall return. It is thought very improbable by the chiefs of the tribe that any agreement can be reached in the present state of affairs, the continued attitude of most of the bucks being an apparent willingness to be convinced that they are in the wrong, coupled with a stolid firmness in their present opinions.

A JURY AT LAST.

McGarry's Trial at Allegan Begins—Cameron Testifies.

Allegan, Mich., May 8.—A jury was secured to try T. F. McGarry of Grand Rapids on a charge of bribery and conspiracy in connection with the recent Lake Michigan water scandal in that city. During the forenoon yesterday and the formal trial of the case was begun.

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Ward, in his opening statement, gave a resume of the case, which differed little from those of the Salisbury and McLeod cases.

During the statement Mr. Ward was frequently interrupted by the defense, who stated that they would object strenuously to the introduction of any evidence showing the movements of any of the alleged parties to the deal, after July 7, except those of the man who is on trial. The court ruled that this evidence would be admitted only in as much as it showed the facts of the conspiracy charge.

Robert Cameron, the star witness of the prosecution, then took the stand. His story contained very few new features and a large part of it consisted of the reading of telegrams which passed between the witness and Garman, who was managing the deal in New York.

McGarry's spring brook trip, the delivery of the $100,000 to MacLeod and the alleged turning over of $25,000 to the promoters to McGarry were all brought out fully in the testimony and court was adjourned to meet today.

More of Carrie's Tricks.

Durand, Mich., May 8.—Carrie Nation passed through here Wednesday morning, and during the half hour stop held a public reception. As the train pulled out she held up a vial and said it contained her hatchet.

Strike Question Not Settled Yet.

Scranton, Pa., May 8.—The executive boards of the United Mine Workers of America for the three districts comprising the anthracite coal region met here at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning to consider the report of a special committee which had been in conference with the presidents of the coal carrying railroads and to decide whether the men are to remain at work or go on strike for increased pay, a shortened day's work and an insistence that the coal shall be weighed at the mines. Nothing was done of which any definite knowledge would be given the public. When the meeting adjourned President Mitchell gave out the following meagre and indefinite response to a request for an account of what had been done:

"The committee is canvassing the situation very carefully. No decision has as yet been reached. The committee will meet again today. When asked if anything had been heard from the operators, Mr. Mitchell said: 'I have heard nothing from the operators. No concessions have been granted, and I know nothing of any movement to secure concessions.'"

Schurman Refuses to Serve.

Ithaca, N. Y., May 8.—It has been learned here that President Schurman of Cornell university has written Carl Schurz, declining membership on the committee appointed to investigate the alleged Philippine atrocities. He did not attend the meeting in New York, at which the committee, consisting of Carl Schurz, Charles Francis Adams, Andrew Carnegie, Wayne McVeagh, Edwin Burritt Smith and Herbert Welch were appointed. Mr. Schurz when asked by the Associated Press representative, said he feels that the conduct of the investigation and the vindication of the honor of the army may safely be left in the hand of President Roosevelt, who, in his order on the subject, has nobly voiced the sentiments and determination of the American people.

ALMOST A CYCLONE

Wind, Rain and Lightning in Southern Michigan.

CAUSED HOVAC EVERYWHERE

Clinton County Suffered Greatly—

Lightning Strikes Hotel in Owosso—Fenton Newspaper Office Blown into River—Factory Demolished.

Maple Rapids, Mich., May 7.—The most destructive gale in the history of Clinton county struck the section lying about two miles northeast of this place Tuesday afternoon and did damage to the amount of at least $10,000. Five buildings, three of them residences, were unroofed and fences were flattened and valuable fruit trees were blown down.

Two men were injured by the collapse of the barn and one of them, Charles Barnhart, a well-known farmer and owner of the barn, may die from his injuries.

The cyclone seemed to traverse a path of about a mile and a half in length. Not a building in the strip passed through unscathed, although in some cases broken windows were the only damage inflicted.

A considerable number of cattle and stock in the destroyed barns were also lost.

Owosso, Mich., May 7.—A bolt of lightning struck the electric light wire at the Wildermuth house during the storm Tuesday. It evidently divided, as shocks were felt by guests and others all over the house.

Miss Ethel Van Zant, a dining-room girl who was working in the kitchen, received a shock from the fluid which followed the gas pipe. She was unconscious for several hours, but is out of danger.

In Corunna a bolt struck the house and barn of Charles Wilkinson simultaneously. Mrs. Wilkinson received a shock and may not recover, the doctors say.

Penton, Mich., May 7.—Fenton was visited by a tornado at 2 p. m. yesterday. Chimneys, outbuildings and trees were blown down, sidewalks torn up, and a great amount of damage done. Part of the roofing of the A. J. Phillips factory was taken off, damaging the building about $200.

J. H. Jennings of the Fenton Independent and a small outbuilding were blown into the Shiawassee river. He escaped with severe bruises.

Many barns and outbuildings in the country were damaged. At the Hillman school, about five miles south west, sheds were blown down and a man who had driven in was roughly handled.

Tekonsha, Mich., May 7.—A destructive cyclone passed over this section Tuesday afternoon, spreading havoc in its wake. Two large barns belonging to L. M. Batt were blown down. Three men in one of the barns escaped with slight injuries. Ten hogs, two cattle and a number of sheep were killed.

Union City, Mich., May 7.—The plant of the Peerless Portland Cement Co. was badly damaged by a wind storm yesterday afternoon. The big rotary kiln building was partially destroyed, entailing a loss of $4,000. Numerous buildings in this vicinity were damaged by the wind and lightning.

Fell to His Death.

Kalamazoo, Mich., May 7.—The body of George Deer, aged 56, night watchman at the Plant Ring paper mill, now in process of construction was found in a cellar Tuesday morning. It is believed he went to sleep on the second floor of the building, where his lantern was found, was partly awakened and peering down the shaft, fell headlong.

Can't Get a Jury.

Allegan, Mich., May 7.—The trial of T. F. McGarry was taken up in the circuit court here yesterday and an effort was begun to secure a jury. The attorneys made short work of the regular panel of 24 jurors and Judge Wolcott was forced to adjourn court for the day, pending the arrival of a special venire of talesmen.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

Fire destroyed the printing office of the Boyne Falls Arena Tuesday morning.

Central City tent, K. O. T. M., of Jackson have declared themselves for expansion.

Willow tent, 823, K. O. T. M., at Willow, has elected Wm. H. Hamilton as delegate to attend the Maccabee convention at Marquette in June. The tent instructed their delegate to vote against the expansion propositions.

Irene, the 5-year-old daughter of Mrs. Kenny, McDougall avenue, Detroit, was kidnapped from school Tuesday morning. The perpetrator is believed to be the child's father. The police are investigating.

Charles J. West, the private sleuth from Detroit who worked up the case against the Copenish raiders has been convicted in circuit court at Flint of furnishing liquors to minors in his effort to ascertain what part the Blues had in the affair. West was released on his own recognizance, and will appeal the case to the supreme court.

German Imports of Tobacco.

The Dutch colonies of Java and Sumatra furnish Germany with more tobacco than any other country. In 1899 the empire imported 58,173 tons raw, amounting in value to $21,420,000. Nearly 26,000 tons came from the Dutch colonies and 10,452 tons from the United States. During the past year seventy-three tons of raw tobacco were shipped from the Philippines to Germany.

Like a Drowning Man.

"Five years ago a disease the doctors called dyspepsia took such a hold of me that I could scarcely go," writes Geo. S. Marsh, well-known attorney of Nocona, Tex. "I took quantities of pepsin and other medicines but nothing helped me. As a drowning man grabs at a straw I grabbed at Kodol. I felt an improvement at once and after a few bottles am sound and well." Kodol is the only preparation which exactly reproduces the natural digestive juices and consequently is the only one which digests any good food and cures any form of stomach trouble. Murdock Bros.

A Farmer Straightened Out.

"A man living on a farm near here came in a short time ago completely doubled up with rheumatism. I handed him a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and told him to use it freely and if not satisfied after using it he need not pay a cent for it," says O. P. Rayder, of Patters Mills, N. Y. "A few days later he walked into the store as straight as a string and handed me a dollar, saying, 'give me another bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I want it in the house all the time for it cured me.'" For sale by George C. Hueston.

Anachronisms in Painting.

In a painting in a country church in Germany, intended for the Sacrifice of Isaac, is represented Abraham with a blunderbuss in his hand, ready to shoot his son, and an angel suddenly coming down from heaven, is pouring a certain water on the pan. In a painting at Windsor, by Antonio Verrio, he has introduced himself, Sir Godfrey Kneller and Bap May, surveyor of the works. In long periwigs, as spectators of Christ healing the sick.

A MINISTER'S BUSY WIFE.

Pe-ru-na a Prompt and Permanent Cure for Nervousness.

Mrs. Anna B. Fleharty, Galesburg, Ill.

Mrs. Anna B. Fleharty, recent superintendent of the W. C. T. U. headquarters at Galesburg, Ill., was for ten years one of the leading women there. Her husband, when living, was first President of the Nebraska Wesleyan University, at Lincoln, Neb.

In a letter written from 401 Sixty-Seventh street, W., Chicago, Ill., Mrs. Fleharty says the following in regard to Peruna:

"Having lived a very active life as wife and working partner of a busy minister, my health failed me a few years ago. I lost my husband about the same time, and gradually I seemed to lose health and spirit. My daughter is a confirmed invalid, and we both felt great need of an invigorator.

"One of my neighbors advised me to try Peruna. A bottle was immediately secured and a great change took place in my daughter's, as well as in my own health. Our appetites improved very greatly, the digestion seemed much helped, and restful sleep soon improved us, so that we seemed like new women.

"I would not be without Peruna for ten times its cost."—MRS. ANNA B. FLEHARTY.

Peruna never fails to prevent nervous prostration if taken in time.

School Notes.

[By the Superintendent.]

Motto: "The darkest hour in the life of any young man is when he sits down to study how to get money without honestly earning it."—Horace Greeley.

Abundance of flowers which suggest the love for the beautiful in nature are being brought by the pupils.

Prof. J. Henry Smith has recently composed and set to music a very pretty song for the Northville schools.

Hezekiah Butterworth's charming book, "True to His Home," is being read in the high-school during morning exercises.

The third grade pupils look with pride upon the Ocean Steam Boat and Burlington train No. 1, which they assisted their teacher to mount.

Recently grades one and two went on an excursion looking for frogs' eggs. As a result of that trip several hundred tadpoles are being hatched out at the school laboratory.

As a result of Arbor Day decorations all grades below the high-school now have neatly arranged flower beds and each grade is taking great interest in the care and cultivation of flowers.

The teachers' institute held in Detroit last Thursday, Friday and Saturday was a grand success. Nearly every school in the county was closed for the occasion and the teachers who heard a fair portion of the work will return to their schools worth much more than before. It is really unfortunate that school officers and parents fail to attend these meetings.

They certainly are more than welcome at such times, and very often would be far better fitted to work with teachers in bringing about the best state of conditions for the schools if they could hear some of the excellent things said at these meetings. The state of Michigan is rich in having among its number some of the foremost educators of times, among whom may be mentioned Hon. H. R. Pattengill of Lansing. No teacher can come within his magnetic influence without being inspired to nobler and better work.

We trust every young person will avail themselves of every opportunity of hearing this man. He will be remembered in Michigan history as one of the great benefactors of educational interests of our state.

All those who attended the Field Day sports at Plymouth last Saturday were justly proud of the boys who took part. Most of the boys from Plymouth and Northville had never taken part in such an event before. The Wayne boys had the advantage because of the fact that some of their boys had, in previous years, been trained for the events and had earned distinction in the interscholastic meet at Ann Arbor. With this great advantage it was easy for Wayne to gain the greatest number of points. The Northville and Plymouth boys did surprisingly well and next year will be a better match for the boys from Wayne. Our boys captured first place in one of the events and second in several others, their record standing as follows: Punting foot ball, Arthur Phillips, 1st; relay race, Ray Holcomb, 2nd, 1/4 mile dash, Holcomb, 2nd; shot put, Ray Richardson, 2nd; mile run, Floyd Perkins, 2nd; 100-yard dash, Richardson, 3rd; Ed. Perrin, 4th; hammer throw, Richardson, 3rd; pole vault, Perkins, 3rd; half mile run, Roy Terrill, 3rd; running high jump, Ross Ball, 3rd; Lynn Northrop, 4th, 1/2 mile run, Phillips, 3rd; Richardson, 4th, running broad jump, Richardson 3rd, Perkins, 4th. The totals were Wayne, 79 points, Northville, 38 1/2, Plymouth, 16, the latter tying with Northville in two instances.

IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW

What a Heap of Happiness It Would Bring to Northville Homes.

Hard to do housework with an aching back. Hours of misery at leisure or at work. If women only knew the cause. Backache pains come from sick kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills will cure it. Northville people endorse this.

Mrs. Henry Garfield of 62 Randolph street says: "I suffered for a long time from pain in the back and joints sometimes exceedingly severe. At different times I tried medicines which were recommended to me, but got little or no benefit from them. Noticing Doan's Kidney Pills endorsed by so many people I concluded to try them and got a box at Murdock Bros' drug store. They turned out exactly as represented. They gave me perfect relief in a very short time. I cannot express my high appreciation of Doan's Kidney Pills." Price, 50c per box. For sale by all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no substitute.

Vice of Camphor Smoking.

The vice of camphor smoking, which is said to be on the increase abroad, soon enslaves those who indulge in it. While the results of its use are not so dire as those of cocaine, ether or morphine, apathy, muscular weakness and sleeplessness are always experienced.

Say Croker Will Return.

It has been declared over and over that Richard Croker has expatriated himself for good, but officials of the New York Democratic Club say that the ex-Tammany boss will return in September and will take a hand in the fall campaign as usual.

Reveals a Great Secret.

It is often asked how such startling cures that puzzle the best physicians are effected by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Here is the secret. It cuts out the phlegm and germ infected mucus, and lets the life giving oxygen enrich and vitalize the blood. It heals the inflamed cough worn throat and lungs. Hard colds and stubborn coughs soon yield to Dr. King's New Discovery, the most infallible remedy for all throat and lung diseases. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Geo. C. Hueston's.

Unique Provision for Poor.

Cephalonia, which is one of the Ionian islands, is going to be rich twenty years from now. Mr. Panaghi Athanasius Vaghiano, a native of the island, became rich as a Greek merchant in London, and died recently at the age of 84 years, leaving nearly $15,000,000. Of this, $2,500,000 are to be put at interest for twenty years, after which the interest is to be used for charitable institutions in Cephalonia.

Stops the Cough and Works Off the Cold.

Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No Cure, No Pay. Price 25 cents.

Humane Work in Porto Rico.

One of the natural results of the introduction of American authority in Porto Rico appears in an active movement for the prevention of cruelty to animals. In San Juan, Ponce and smaller communities the beating of horses has been vigorously discouraged, and the last measure enacted at the recent session of the legislative assembly was an act to prohibit cock fighting.

Mother, Yes one package makes two quarts of baby medicine. See directions. There is nothing just as good for babies and children as Rocky Mountain Tea. 5c. Murdock Bros.

All Ho Was Enjoying.

A musician of Baltimore, who was very averse to attending social affairs of any kind, was persuaded by a friend to attend a concert one evening, where, unfortunately, the music was very poorly conducted. Late in the evening his friend found him in a corner, with a doleful look upon his face. "You don't seem to be enjoying yourself this evening," said his friend. "On the contrary," he replied, "that's all I am enjoying."

TRAVER'S—DETROIT'S LARGEST CLOTHING STORE.

IT'S THIS WAY:

We never over-estimate values at this store—rather have you surprised than disappointed that's why—it's more satisfactory to you.

When we tell you a garment is worth fifteen dollars, it is worth that—we never say eighteen dollar values for fifteen unless we've made a reduction in price and then it's a bona-fine one.

But some people are always doubting—can't be convinced no matter what arguments are advanced and to those we say, make a comparison—take our $15 Suits for Men as a standard and try and find their equal for less or the same price. You can't do it and besides here you've such a pleasing variety to choose from—every sort a man wants and in sizes to insure a perfect fit. Remember: Your money buys the most worth at Traver's every time.

Wouldn't that Jar You

"Well, I'll be gol darned," said Uncle Silas, as a big snouted porker scooted between his underpinning, and 'upshot' him, "reckon I'd better stop in at M. S. Ambler's and get a few boards and put them tarnation hogs where they'll not be causing so much trouble."

All right, Uncle Si, we're fixed for you. We've got all kinds of boards—common ones for hog pens, sheds, etc., and the best that's made for fine work. Best of all, our prices are right.

Everything in lumber and building material.

The music of the lawn mower now mingles with the other sounds of industry and pleasure which are to be heard about town.

The band gave a fine concert on the street Saturday night and pleased a large crowd. They will repeat the operation again tomorrow (Saturday) night.

Notice—Northville camp M. W. A. is to exemplify the work of the order at Wayne next Monday evening, May 12, and members are requested to meet at Murdock's store at 7 o'clock sharp to take the 7:15 car. V. C.

Miss Robertson who sings at the concert at the Opera House May 16 will be remembered as the contralto who sang at the Ladies' club entertainment. All who had the pleasure of hearing her on that occasion wish to hear her again.

Dr. Claude Burgess of this place graduated from the Detroit College of Medicine last evening and was among those who received the highest honors of his class. A number from here attended the exercises which were held in the Light Guard Armory.

The Second District Congressional convention is called at Adrian for May 25th and the Wayne county convention will be held at Trenton May 26. For some reason Wayne is allowed but twelve delegates this time when the vote polled really entitled it to fourteen.

That one of the new postage stamps is to have a woman's picture on it is evidence that Uncle Sam's officials of that department are fully alive to the good influence woman can exert on the mails when they let her. The only trouble is she has an inherent antipathy to being licked which might lead to complications.

Merritt Stanley was quite badly hurt a few days ago while attempting to throw off a swiftly moving belt at the DuBarre factory. He was thrown violently several feet and severely cut and bruised about the head and face, but by what seemed to the lookers on almost a miracle, escaped fatal or dangerous injuries.

A good many people were considerably frightened Tuesday at the very alarming appearance of the clouds which heralded the two storms in the afternoon, and the accounts in next morning's papers of the devastation wrought in not distant parts of the state were evidence that the anxiety was not entirely without excuse.

Northville kids "have it in" for Capt. Dunlap, living or dead. He it was who introduced the willow trees around Northville, bringing the twigs from Ovid, N. Y., in 1836. Every school teacher in Northville knows where to find willow trees, and willow twigs find the spot every time, as an executive and corrective influence.—Adrian Press.

The Library association has now over 160 subscribers. The reduction of the fee to fifty cents a year has brought many new patrons and they keep coming. The library is greatly appreciated, but a great many more of our citizens ought to share its advantages. A number of the card holders live out of town, some as far away as Novi. All who come are made welcome to the privileges of the organization.

John, Tom and Will Harris of near Mead's Mills were brought before Justice Webster Monday on complaint of Wm. Miller for the alleged theft of some chickens, but as even the testimony of the fowls themselves was indisputably in favor of the defendants a verdict of no cause of action was rendered.

A Northville crockery dealer, dead in bread. He couldn't loaf away his time, selling plates, lamps and dishes, as the emmell would drive him to his cups, so rolls in the bread, and gets a crumb of comfort in knowing that he secures a slice of the bakers business. Wait till he sees salt rising, and then hear him explain that everything is booming under republican rule and that he must have his share of the dough.—Adrian Press.

One of the most thrilling episodes in the annals of Northville sportsmen occurred Monday night at Straits lake, when a marine monster was captured, almost at the risk of their lives, by Burleigh Randall, Will Lanning et al. It was a bill fish of such dimensions and temper that it nearly bit off Lanning's leg, at the close of the wild struggle which resulted in its capture. The "craythur" was four feet in length and weighed less than twenty pounds. It was placed on exhibition at Stark Brothers' store to save the captors' reputations for veracity from complete annihilation.

King Edward's First Speech.

The first speech ever made by King Edward was delivered when he was 10 years of age, and was visiting Newcastle with his mother. A member of the city corporation, from which Lady Queen Victoria was receiving an address, presented Albert Edward with a handsome paper cutter, and at a hint from the queen the prince faced the municipal wise men and delivered a speech of thanks, which was not recorded. His first "official" speech as prince of Wales was made as he was setting out, a youth of 18, on his tour in this country.

Most Beautiful City.

Now Baltimore is the most beautiful city, not even barring London, Paris, Vienna, Berlin or cities of China or Japan. How inspiring it is to come into the city at sunset and look at the beautiful vista down Charles street, the large monument pointing heavenward as a national finger post to holiness. Fifth avenue, New York, is a shabby and half-foreign street. Here there is uniform cleanliness and an atmosphere of pride. Druid Hill park is one of the best in the world.—Baltimore Sun.

Stuart Robson's Reminiscence.

Stuart Robson spoke in happy vein before the curtain at the Hyperion Theater, New Haven, a few evenings ago. He said: "Just forty-three years ago, the first time I appeared before a New Haven audience, I was arrested by the sheriff of this city because I didn't have money enough to pay my theatrical license, which was $20. It was a $15 house. In those days Yale University discriminated in favor of the crowd, which only had to pay a license of $5."

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

Most opportunities are talked into idle dreams.
Children are a necessity that is as expensive as luxuries.
Great men look into other people's mirrors; small men into their own.
When you have it, it's prosperity; when the other fellow has it, it's luck.
About the time a man gets used to being a husband he has to begin to get used to being a father.
Women don't worry so much about how the other half lives as home the better half lives away from home.
A little life may be sacrificed to an attack of crump, if you don't have Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil on hand for the emergency.

Relief of Roman Art.

At Mentalto, in the Province of Genoa, in tearing down an old church, a small underground room was found full of art objects of the Roman time, chiefly chiseled silver amphoras and vases filled with gold and silver coins.

Pay of Missouri Teachers.

In Missouri, taking the entire state as the basis of calculation, the average annual salary of male teachers in the public schools is $396 a year and of female teachers $306 a year.

Beware of a Cough.

Now is the time to get rid of that cough, for if you let it hang on no one can tell what the result may be. Others have been cured of their coughs very quickly by using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mrs. A. J. Da Costa, of Gainesville, Fla., says: "A friend of mine a painter of this town, who was nearly dead with a cough, was cured by one bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He also recommended it to a lady here, who was suffering from gripple and a severe cough. She gratified him by trying it and was cured by one small bottle." This remedy is for sale by George C. Hueston.

Cost of British General Election.

Parliamentary life is an expensive hobby for the general election of 1900, according to a return just issued, cost the candidates as much as $777,429.08. There were 1,103 candidates (for 670 vacancies), so that each man's bill averaged rather more than $700. The reward for this outlay was a total of 3,169,345 votes. The cost of a parliamentary vote, therefore may be reckoned as averaging 4s. 4d.

Traveling Is Dangerous.

Constant motion jars the kidneys, which are kept in place in the body by delicate attachments. This is the reason that travelers, tramping street car men, teamsters and all who drive very much suffer from kidney disease in some form. Foley's Kidney Cure strengthens the kidneys and cures all forms of kidney and bladder disease. Geo. H. Hansen, locomotive engineer, Lima, Ohio, writes: "Constant vibration of the engine caused me a great deal of trouble with my kidneys, and I got no relief until I used Foley's Kidney Cure." The man who has figured it out that hades is just below the surface of the earth must base his conclusions upon the great amount of it that crops out above ground all over the land.

Saving in Automobiles.

After a two years' test of an automobile for army use in Austria there was a saving of $2,915 over the conveyance drawn by horses.

Dangerous If Neglected.

Burns, cuts and other wounds often fail to heal properly if neglected and become troublesome sores. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve prevents such consequences. Even where delay has aggravated the injury DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve effects a cure. "I had a running sore on my leg thirty years," says H. C. Hartley, Yankeetown, Ind. "After using many remedies, I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes healed the sore." Cures all skin diseases. Piles yield to it at once. Beware of counterfeits. Murdock Bros.

Useful Bullet-Proof Coat.

Only the steel bullets of the Austrian Mannlicher rifle, it has been found, can pierce the bullet-proof coat of finely textured silk recently invented by M. Szczepanik. Against revolver bullets, as well as saber cuts and thrusts, the garment affords perfect protection.

Children's Fertilizer.

That's a good name for Scott's Emulsion. Children are like young plants. Some will grow in ordinary soil. Others need fertilizers.

The nature of some children prevents them from thriving on ordinary food. Such children grow right if treated right. All they need is a little fertilizer--a little extra richness. Scott's Emulsion is the right treatment.

Fertilizers make things grow. That's just what Scott's Emulsion does. It makes children grow in flesh, grow in strength, grow rich blood, grow in mind, grow happy. That's what we make it for.

THE STRANGER AND THE PRINCESS

BY SEWARD W. HOPKINS

CHAPTER II.

THE PLOT OF THE ANARCHISTS.

It was late in the day when Buckford Wallace awoke from the deep and refreshing sleep he had found after his strange and exciting experiences of the night. His eyes opened to see, bending over him, the same wolflike person who had offered him the use of the room and bed.

"Come, my young friend," said his host, "what seemed to be intended for a friendly smile, 'you have enjoyed a good sleep. That is well, but there are other things to think of, eh?'"

For one brief moment Wallace wondered where he was and what had brought him there. Then it all came back to him, and he sprang from the bed. "His smiling, handsome face gave no indication to the animal eyes of the other that this young American might prove to be the deadliest foe he and his fellow conspirators could meet."

While Buckford dressed, his host sat silently watching.

"My friend," he said, "you amaze me. You are young, handsome, brave. Why should you wish to die?"

Wallace's lips opened to say that he was far from wishing to die when he remembered that his usefulness to the conspirators depended on his supposed weakness of life.

"What is life after all?" he asked, with a good attempt at a gesture of despair. "Last week I had money, friends, everything. Today I have nothing. Death is preferable to a life of poverty."

"Yes, yes, that is so. But you had chosen an ignoble way of finding it."

Wallace wanted to laugh. His thoughts while standing on the bridge had been bitter enough. Who at his age, suddenly finding himself penniless and with no plans for the future, would not have had morbid and bitter thoughts? But Wallace was too brave a youth to seek death as a means of escape from poverty. The sting over, he would go to work like a man and earn his living. But in the first hours of his disappointment he knew not how to start.

"Well," he replied, "that is all a matter of taste. I don't see what difference it makes how we go."

"But there is a nobler use for life. Think of the wrongs that are heaped upon the heads of more than half the world. Think of the crimes and tyrannies of the rich. Think of the monstrous wrong in the usurpation of power by those born to thrones."

"Well, but I'm an American."

"Do you think that is a reason why you should be deaf to the cries of humanity? Rather it is a reason why you should sympathize with men of less fortunate nations—the down-trodden ones of earth."

Wallace knew that this was merely preliminary sparring. He knew the wily conspirator was leading up to the matter of importance—the plot against the prince.

"Oh, what's the use theorizing?" he grumbled. "That man of your brotherhood met me on the bridge. I came here with him. He said something about my being of service. Now, why not come out with it at once?"

"The other hesitated. 'Are you sure that you are ready, that you feel sure of yourself? Is there no doubt of your inclination to work for humanity at the cost of your life?'"

Wallace looked out of the little unwashed window. "I am as ready," he said slowly, "to lose my life in the interest of humanity as I was to end it in the Seine last night."

His examiner sprang from his chair. He did not notice any reservation in Wallace's speech. Men do throw themselves into the Seine for various reasons. There was no doubt in the minds of any of the regular habitués at Jacques' that Wallace had been on the brink of death when snatched from it by the gentleman of the cloak.

"Make me one promise," said the owner of the room. "Promise me you will not attempt your life before this evening."

Buckford could scarcely restrain his desire to laugh.

"I promise," he said sulkily. "But it is long. I have nothing."

"Oh, as to that! Take this." A purse was put into his hand.

"It makes the matter easier," said Wallace. "A day without a sou! Ah, it was promising too much!"

"My young friend," said the other, "I feel for you. Suddenly plunged into poverty, unable to find work, unable to beg or steal, nothing but starvation seems before you. But, listen! After I have stated your case to my certain persons who are interested, it is possible that you will receive a commission to perform a certain piece of work in the interests of humanity that is very dangerous. If you accept and perform this service faithfully, you may find at once that long rest which seems so desirable. If you escape with your life, you will no longer be suffering for money. You will have more than you know what to do with. Come! An opportunity is before you—an opportunity that would be eagerly embraced by any of a hundred I know, but from whom it is withheld because they have not your gentlemanlike appearance."

"What do you wish me to do today?" asked Wallace.

"Keep your promise and return to this place by 9 o'clock tonight."

"I will."

"You need breakfast. Come with me."

They descended into the not over-fitting dining room of the inn of M. Jacques, and breakfast was ordered.

"By the way," said Wallace carelessly, "if I return and do not find you, for whom shall I ask?"

A quick startled look came into the eyes of the conspirator.

"Now, now," he said, "you must not be too inquisitive. One would think you were of the bureau of safety. When you return, if I am not in sight, go simply to M. Jacques and ask for the person in whose room you slept last night."

"Very well," said Wallace. He regretted that he had said anything to arouse suspicion.

While they were eating, another sauntered in and whispered to Wallace's companion. Buckford could hear now and then a portion of a whispered sentence.

"Arrived—this hotel—and the prince—incognito?"

"Excuse me. I will see you again tonight," said the man rising abruptly from his unheeded breakfast.

"I will be here," said Buckford. The American took his time and made a good meal. He then called for a cigar, lit it and sauntered carelessly from the place.

As the gaze of Buckford roved up and down the somewhat squalid quarter he seemed to feel new emotions, new sensations of life, that were vastly different from the careless and even reckless boyishness of former days. He seemed filled with a sense of responsibility and duty. He felt that he had in his keeping the safety and well-being of several people, all of exalted station and all perhaps of noble nature. He alone, with the exception of the conspirators, knew that an attempt was to be made to destroy a family.

The interest he felt, the impulse that was so strong upon him to save this princely family from the assassin's drove from his mind all bitterness concerning his own affairs. It was Buckford's nature to throw his whole being into an interesting project. Therefore he had no affairs now save the protection of the three persons whose photographs he had seen in the conspirators' valise.

His poverty was forgotten. His many disappointments and failures faded into nothing. He was alert, strong and ready for the fray. He felt capable of grasping the weapons of craft and grappling the mystery before him. Curious eyes followed him from the cafe, but he did not see them. He would not have cared if he had seen them. He walked with a light tread. He felt himself a conqueror.

After this little exhilaration had passed the stern realities and necessities of the case forced themselves upon him.

He did not know the name of one of the persons whose champion he had become. He had heard the name Marie Alexia, it was true. He had also heard the name Princess Margaret. But he had also heard the whispered word "incognito."

This little word brought disquieting thoughts. It proved two things. One was that the persons involved were of higher degree than he had supposed, for only princes of royal or ruling houses traveled incognito. Surely this prince was of a powerful house or was a man of exalted position and great wealth and sought freedom from annoyance and attacks by the use of an adopted name. The other thing proved was that the matter of protecting or warning this prince was going to be no light or easy matter.

One can go to Brown, Jones or Robinson and say: "Beware! An enemy is on your track." But when one approaches the person of a prince he is as likely to be arrested as to have an opportunity to give his warning. And when the prince is incognito the difficulty of finding him is added.

Buckford thought all these things out as he walked along.

"Well, if I expect to accomplish anything I must make a beginning," he said to himself. "The way to begin is to begin. Now, what shall I do first?"

He had pondered this question but a moment when another idea struck him. "It is a good scheme to know your resources," he said. "I will count my money."

He withdrew into a secluded place and counted the money in the purse the conspirator had given him.

"Good!" he said. "Money must come easy to those fellows. There is enough here to keep me a week. Now let's see. If these people are already in Paris, their names must be on the hotel register at police headquarters. If they are incognito, I could never find them. I must go to the police."

This seemed not to please him, for a rueful look came on his handsome face. "I don't like that, either," he said. "I'll never see that lovely princess."

Then again:

"But what the mischief has a lovely princess to do with you, Buckford Wallace? Go to the police, tell your story, let them take measures to protect the prince and his family, and then you go about your business of finding a way to earn your living."

It would be folly for him to study the registers of the hotels. Even if the prince had come in his own name, Buckford did not know what that name was, and there were a good many princes of one stripe or another in Paris.

The more he studied the more it seemed certain that his only course was to go to the police.

And so he went there. He called a cab, and ordered the driver to take him to the prefecture de police.

He was ushered with considerable ceremony into the presence of the prefect.

The prefect of the department of the Seine sees a good many people in the course of a day and hears a good many strange stories, a few of them being true. He has little time to spend on unimportant matters. He cultivates a brusque demeanor which has the effect of cutting off bores and bringing out the salient points of a story quickly.

"Well, monsieur, what can I do for you?" he asked when Buckford came in.

"Buckford could tell a story in few words. The prefect seemed pleased at the manner in which the young man plunged into his subject.

"Come!" he said to himself. "Here is a fellow who knows how to talk."

With as little delay as possible, in clear, concise language, Wallace told just what had happened to him. As he talked on the eyes of the prefect dilated. He scented a great mystery or crime. He would win the friendship of this young American. He would unravel the mystery himself. Whatever honor and reward was forthcoming he would reap himself.

This was a laudable ambition in the prefect. Promotion and honor in the police service the world over comes from success. One cannot succeed unless he does something. He cannot do anything if he lets others do it all.

Buckford spoke on, and then came suddenly to a stop.

"Then what?" put in the prefect.

"That's all. I left the inn and came here to tell you. I do not consider myself capable of combating all the criminals in Paris. I discovered the plot by accident, and now give you the facts so that you can protect this family."

A blank look of dismay and disappointment came on the face of the prefect. He twined his thumbs, he stared at Buckford, he coughed. A tinge of red showed on his bronzed cheek.

"I regret—very much regret, monsieur," said the prefect, "that your story ended so abruptly and so weakly. It was interesting—very interesting, as far as it went. But you see yourself it amounts to nothing."

"Nothing! Is it nothing when a band of nihilists or socialists or anarchists or something plot to kill a man in Paris?"

"It is something, surely, when we know the man. We can then do something for his protection. But to act on the meager information you have given me would be simply to endeavor to protect every man in Paris not personally known to us. Every man whose name might be other than the one he bears would need two police officers. The force at my disposal will not stretch to that extent."

"But surely the police know when a prince visits Paris incognito?"

"True! That whittles the thing down somewhat," said the prefect, looking as though he had made a blunder.

"There are at present, to the best of my knowledge, 43 persons, all of more or less exalted station, in Paris incognito."

"But they are not all princes?"

"All but two. They are English dukes."

"But is there no Princess Margaret?"

"Ah! That is something. I will look that up, certainly."

"And a Princess Marie Alexia?"

"Another Jew. I really think after all I may do something."

"And you certainly know where M. Jacques has his inn. That cannot run away. Why not arrest the gang?"

"Now you are getting reckless, my young friend. To arrest them and fail to prove that such a plot exists would be very awkward."

"But not as awkward as to have a prince dynamited in Paris."

The prefect shrugged his shoulders.

"I scarcely fear any such crime. However, there is time. You say those rascals spoke as if they were going to give you the work to do."

"Yes, that seemed to be their intention. They wanted a man of good appearance who was tired of life. That proves the contemplated act to be of great violence."

"It seems so. But since you are to do it there is time. You can, if you will, act with the police in this matter."

"I am willing. What shall I do?"

"You already have the entrée to this inn. You are already welcome among the conspirators. If I send a man there, he must first find a way to enter. He might be suspected. He might even be killed. Now, you obviate those difficulties. You can go, listen and report. What do you say?"

"I am ready. The thing is a bit dangerous, however, and you might lend me a pistol. I am unarmed."

"Certainly, with pleasure."

Wallace slipped a loaded pistol in his pocket.

"And now, my young friend, I will admit that I know who your prince and princesses are. They are persons of very high degree, though but little known in Paris."

"They must be connected with some ruling family?"

"Flush! I cannot at this time take you into my confidence. When this

"Excuse me, I will see you again tonight," said the man, rising abruptly.

affair is all over and they have left Paris, I will tell you who they are."

"But suppose I find it necessary to go to the prince at once. I ought at least to know his incognito."

"Oh, no; come to me," said the prefect. "What! Go direct to the prince and get all the credit? Not in the department of the Seine! Not if the prefect knew his business, and he thought he did."

A few matters of detail having been arranged, details that brought Buckford into rather intimate relations with police business, he left the prefecture and found that he had more than half a day still on his hands.

The strain was partly lifted from his mind. The responsibility of the safety of the princely family was now shifted to the shoulders of the prefect of police.

Buckford had time enough and money enough to enjoy himself a bit and to make whatever arrangements he needed to make in regard to his lodgings.

He went there first.

"I must give up my rooms and take cheaper lodgings," he said to the concierge. "I owe you something—about what this furniture will bring sold at a loss. Will you take the furniture for the debt?"

"If monsieur is so distressed for money,"

"I am in a bad fix. If you are still my creditor after the stuff is sold, I will endeavor to make it good."

"Oh, I have always found monsieur trustworthy."

"I shall not find so accommodating a concierge again."

"Thank you, monsieur. And about the address?"

"I do not know where I shall find lodgings. It depends upon what business I take up. I may leave Paris."

"Monsieur will perhaps return to America and enter mercantile life?"

Buckford laughed.

"I must earn the money first."

He spent the remainder of the day haunting the parts of Paris where he hoped to see the manly face of the prince or the lovely one of Princess Marie. He rode in cabs on the boulevards. He looked into carriages. He spent hours in a fruitless and ridiculous search. He did not find those he sought.

He returned to the Rue de Mont-Rouge. He entered the inn of M. Jacques. He found his unknown friend—the wolflike owner of the room—in the cafe. This man greeted Buckford warmly.

"Ah, ha, my friend! You are not weary of us yet. I am glad."

"I always keep my promises, monsieur," replied Buckford.

He ate supper with his mysterious friend. He of the wolf's face was very sociable. He strove to make Wallace feel at ease.

"We will smoke," he said. "At 9 you will meet our brothers—and learn what is expected of you."

The evening passed.

"Come," said the unknown. "We will be in time."

They left the inn of M. Jacques and walked together into a still more respectable quarter.

"It sometimes happens that when we meet for a sociable time the police interrupt us. We need to defend ourselves at times. Are you armed?"

"I never carry firearms," said Buckford, with the prefect's pistol hitting his side.

They turned into what purported to be a hairdresser's shop. A grinning artist of the shears bowed them in and past him. They entered then a large room where several men were gathered.

"Ah! You have arrived," said one. "M. le President wishes to see you."

"Indeed," replied Buckford's guide. "I will take my friend to meet M. le President."

Fenton has its first automobile, and feels correspondingly elated at such indication of citylike fastness.

The school-ma'am supply shows a deficiency as vs. demand over in Oakland again this spring. The matrimonial market, however, continues lively, as evidenced by the license-lists.

Orion's post-office will become a third-classer July 1st next, with a $1,000 per annum salary attachment. This is considered evidence that the town is on the boom. Glad of it. Letter-boom.

A recent luer in a Detroit evening paper called for "A boy to run an elevator sixteen years old." An elevator as old as that must be thoroughly posted on the ups and downs of the business.

The annual convention of the Oakland county Sunday-school association is scheduled for Pontiac next fall, and preparations are already in progress for the event, which is sure to be a high class occasion.

Under its "Social and Personal" caption the Fenton Independent last week stated that "Howell will have only eight saloons this year." There's no denying that the possibilities indicated by the item are applicable to both titles.

Carleton's cheese factory has opened up for business and announces that the highest prices will be paid for milk, which of course pleases the people more than anything else that has a card. The proprietors will no doubt "runnet" successfully if they keep right on that way.

A member of the Birmingham Eccentric force got into Pontiac jail last week and after he got out tried to turn it off by writing up the indignation in a flattering manner. For the honor of the "profesh" we would not have mentioned it if the "offender" hadn't told of it himself.

A new and dangerous epidemic has struck Flat Rock. The school base ball organizations, when in need of spring supplies conceived the idea of making a collecting tour of the business places of the village, and the merchants established a doubtful precedent by responding to the requests. Hereafter they are liable to be held up on all sorts of pretexts.

Pontiac partakers of befuddling beverages can't pay take to the dulcet strains of m.o.e or less entrancing melody any more. A recently passed city ordinance forbids any sort of music being "kept, played or permitted to be played" anywhere that intoxicating liquors are manipulated within the municipal jurisdiction. What a wholesale falling off in harmony this must mean in Pontiac!

The latest and most sensible "trust" talked of is a proposed combination of Ypsilanti society women against the long walking skirt which is scheduled by Dame Fashion to replace the comfortable, sensible and hygienic short skirt which was woman's dearly prized heritage from the bicycle craze of a few years ago. Those Ypsi ladies are all right, and we trust their trust will be a (non) sweeping success.

"Do sheep ever drink?" is a question lately discussed in the New York Sun, and sentiment seems about equally divided. What do farmers in this section say about it? We shall be glad to publish both sides of the question.—Ypsilantian.

It is very unfortunate for the sheep in a place where such a discussion could be a possibility that the uncomplaining quadrupeds in question could not take part in the controversy. While it is true that sheep will exist for a long time without water while in fresh pastures, it is no less a fact that farmers in this enlightened section are as careful to provide their flocks with water when on dry feed as they are to do like service for their herds. Those city paper agriculturists who imagine there are two sides to such a question could soon end all controversy by a practical demonstration with a thirsty sheep and a pair

Wonderland Temple Theatre—Detroit.

Wincherman's performing bears and monkeys will provide one of the wonderful attractions at Wonderland and Temple theatre, Detroit, next week. These animals and particularly the bears accomplish tricks that it would not seem possible that animals could be taught. Chas. E. Grapewin and Anna Chance will again play the funniest one-act piece ever written, "Above the Limit," and our old friend, Arthur Deming, the black-face entertainer formerly of Vogel and Deming's minstrels will be there to make you laugh. Blanche King, the sweet singer, and Latina, a marvelous and beautiful contortionist, will be among the headliners.

Whitney's Opera House—Detroit.

The sensational melodrama, "Kidnapped in New York," which is in its third successful season, will be presented next week at the Whitney Opera House. The play is much above the average. Not only is the plot carefully drawn but the company is of remarkable quality. The story turns on the kidnapping of Marion Clark in New York a few years ago. The clever character actor, Barney Gumore is the star, in the role of "Dooley," the detective, supported by the well-known players Miss Rigana Donnelly, as Mary Newton the governess, George Leslie, the popular eccentric comedian, "Baby" Verina, the child actress, a tot of four years, who plays her part with the skill of a veteran, and she is as natural as can be.

Lyceum Theatre—Detroit.

Next week beginning with the performance in the evening May 11th the Pike Theatre company will present at the Lyceum a splendid scenic and costume production of Victorien Sardou's superb spectacle "Mme Sans Gene," which has hitherto been presented only by Sir Henry Irvine, Ellen Terry, Mme Rejane and one or two other noted stars. There have been few plays written with the wonderful strength of this comedy drama of the First Empire, with its pictures of Napoleon's court and his times. The scenes of this play will form a series of magnificent stage pictures, in which nearly seventy five persons will take part. The costumes have been designed especially for the production. "Mme Sans Gene" will be the Pike Theatre company's "biggest" offering this season.

Grand Opera at Detroit Opera House.

No such opportunity to become acquainted with the best masterpieces of the composers of all schools has ever been afforded music lovers of our city as that offered by the Castle Square season of English grand opera, which the Castle Square Opera Company will shortly inaugurate at the Detroit Opera House. For the first time in the musical history of the west, a company superior both in numerical strength and artistic merit to any other English-singing organization in the world, will devote two entire weeks to the production of strictly "grand" opera. As it is now constituted, the Castle Square Opera Company is easily the foremost English singing organization in the world. It is admirably equipped for the production of the best operas in a manner exceeding in excellence even the high standard hitherto set by this same organization. The forthcoming season in Detroit, which begins on Monday night, May 19th, will enlist the services of the following imposing array of artists: Misses Adelaide Norwood, Gertrude Rennyson, Marion Ivel, Ethel Houston, Du Fre, Maude Ranney, Formosa Henderson and Messrs. Joseph F. Sheehan, Miro Delamotta, Reginald Roberts, Edwin A. Clark, Wintred Goff, Francis J. Boyle, Frank Ranney, J. P. Coombs and Francis Carrier. The scale of prices is one that thoroughly appeals to lovers of music, because of the fact that it is within the reach of every income, really less than regular theatre prices, is the scale adopted. The sale of seats begins at the Detroit Opera House, Thursday, May 15th, and mail orders, when accompanied by cash or money order, will receive attention in the order received.

You never heard of any one using Poley's Honey and Tar not being satisfied. Murdock Bros.

The grand encampment decided to meet in Detroit for the fifty-fifth annual session the first Tuesday in May, 1903.

Want Murderer Hawley Discharged.

Detroit, Mich., May 7.—James B. Hawley, charged with the murder of his brother, Ed T. Hawley, had his examination before Judge Sellers in the police court Tuesday afternoon, and as a result of the evidence brought out by Attorney George F. Monaghan in his cross-examination of the witness, it is possible that Jim Hawley will be cleared of the charge and be discharged without having to stand trial in the recorder's court. Attorney Monaghan argued that there never was a better case of self defense, and he urged the court to discharge Hawley at once.

One Town Must Suffer.

Washington, May 7.—Senator Burrows has introduced in the senate an amendment to the public building bill for enlarging the Kalamazoo postoffice building, at a cost of $60,000. The house refused to vote anything for the Kalamazoo building, but allowed $80,000 for a new building at Battle Creek, which is in the same district. As it is not customary for two towns in one district during a single session, one of the two towns named is fated to be left.

Attempted Suicide.

Detroit, Mich., May 7.—Despondency, caused by not being able to get a position with the street car company, was the probable cause of an effort at self-destruction by shooting of W. H. Brunner, of Muncie, Ind., who was stopping at a Fort street rooming house. He committed the act some time Monday night and was discovered the following morning. He was taken to a hospital, but his chances of recovery are very slight.

Detroit Laborers Strike.

Detroit, Mich., May 7.—Several hundred laborers went on a strike Tuesday for a raise of wages from 22 cents an hour to 25 cents. Contractors had no notice of the move and may be inconvenienced temporarily, though they believe the men will go back to work soon.

Michigan Postmasters.

Washington, May 7.—The president Tuesday sent the following nominations to the senate: James Buckley, Petoskey, Frank B. Watson, Three Rivers.

Boiling Slag Engulfed Eight Men.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 7.—Five men dead and five seriously injured is the record of an accident Monday night at the open hearth steel department of the Pennsylvania steel works at Steelton. The disaster was caused by the boiling over of a ladle of hot slag at a furnace, its fiery contents engulfing eight men in a pit, whence they were powerless to escape. The victims were all Austrian laborers.

State Republican Convention.

Washington, May 7.—Chairman Diekmann, of the republican state committee, has decided definitely to have the committee meet at Grand Rapids May 30, to fix the time and place for the state convention. Word has been received from enough members of the committee to indicate that the convention is likely to be held about the end of June or early in July, in Detroit.

As a clergyman and lecturer he has met with marked success in the leading cities of the United States.

Jimmie Garfield.

Jimmie Garfield, to whom President Roosevelt has offered the position of civil service commissioner to succeed Commissioner Rodenberg, is said to possess many of the characteristics of his distinguished father. He began in public life where his father did, the state senate of Ohio.

In that body he served two terms and was then a hustling candidate for the nomination for representative, being defeated by Representative Jacob A. Reider. Jimmie Garfield has an extensive law practice in Cleveland. He married a daughter of the late John Newell, who was for years president of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railroad. Mrs. Garfield is said to be worth $1,000,000 in her own name, inherited from her father's estate.

Jimmie Garfield lives at Lawnsfield, Mentor, the home of the late president. The house has been enlarged since the former president's death. The little frame building which was his father's study adjoins the residence. All the books and papers of the late president are kept here, and they are in the same position as when he left them to enter the White House. The son has been for years a pronounced civil service reformer.

Paderewski Proud of His Neck!

Paderewski, possibly to inure himself to the rigors of all climates or possibly because he was brought up a hardy youth in a cold country, wears low cut shirts and waistcoats. Russian furs may protect the artistic chest and hands, but the neck is left bare in the severest weather. The pianist's rubicund and fair skin resembles that of a woman. The neck also is like a woman's. This suggests that perhaps Paderewski wears low cut garments because he is proud of his neck.

The King of Spain.

The crowning of Alfonso XIII or May 17 makes him the king of Spain at the age of sixteen. Since he has been old enough to observe Alfonso has witnessed turbulent happenings under the regency in the land over which he is now to actually reign. The situation is improved at present, and the young king takes up the scepter at a time of comparative quietude—that is, it is quiet for Spain. Alfonso's mettle is not known. The stories concerning him are very conflicting. However, it is believed that under the training of his mother he has developed his better parts, and with her to guide him it is expected that he will get along without any great trouble for awhile. As a boy he has been very fond of outdoor sports, and the experience he has thus gained will not be a drawback to him in the more serious game he now takes a hand in.
