—From Detroit Journal

MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVANCES HERE

HON. SAM'L J. LAWRENCE WILL ORATE.

Memorial Sermon.—School Exercises.—Northville Cornet Band.

Arrangements for the appropriate observance of the day of tribute to the memory of the Nation's dead have been completed, and the people of Northville and vicinity will unite as usual in the various exercises of commemoration and patriotic instruction.

On Friday afternoon, May 30th, at two o'clock, the address of the day will be given in Princess rink by Hon. Samuel J. Lawrence of Glenwood, whose ability as a speaker insures an excellent and interesting presentation of his subject, which will no doubt be listened to by the customary large audience.

Details to decorate soldiers' graves in the outlying cemeteries will be at the Briggs cemetery at 3:30 a. m., at Meads Mills at 9; Thayer cemetery at 10, Yerkes, 3:30, Knapp, 9, and Nov at 10.

Soldiers of the Spanish-American war will act as escort and as firing party in the ceremonies at the cemeteries. The music for the day will be furnished by the Northville band.

Next Sunday evening Rev. W. H. Lloyd will preach the Memorial sermon in the Methodist church at the usual hour of service, and the G. A. R. Post especially request that all veterans of the 60's and of the war of '98, members of the Woman's Relief Corps and S. of V. join with them in attending this service.

Thursday afternoon patriotic exercises will be held in the Methodist church by the Northville schools at three o'clock.

Death of Mr. Vickery.

The funeral of Mr. Vickery, father of Mrs. Merritt Stanley and Mrs. E. J. Bradner, and whose death was briefly mentioned in last week's Record, was held at Mr. Bradner's home in this village Saturday, Rev. O. M. Thrasher of the Baptist church conducting the services. Mr. Vickery was 92 years of age and had lived here and in Plymouth since his youth. He was much respected, being spoken of in the highest terms by those who knew him. He left two sons and one daughter besides those living in Northville. The burial was at Plymouth.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank the societies and friends for the beautiful flowers and kind words of sympathy given during our recent bereavement.—Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Bradner and family, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Stanley and family.

GIRL OR WOMAN WANTED—For general housework on farm. No milk to care for. Apply to Jacob Wood's on Chas. Yerkes farm, Base line.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

A Largely Attended One Held Here Saturday.

At a largely attended republican caucus held here Saturday, Frank N. Clark was chosen chairman and W. P. Johnson secretary, and a solid Bliss delegation was elected.—Wm. Ely, E. C. Hinkley and H. M. White. Fred Penn, Henry Fry and E. H. Lapham go as Bacon delegates to the congressional-county convention, and M. H. Sloan, C. L. Dubuar and W. H. Safford to the representative convention as delegates for Mr. Neal, who was honored by his townsmen with unanimously passed resolutions indorsing his candidacy and pledging him loyal support. The six township caucuses so far held have all elected delegates for Mr. Neal, who won out by a large majority in a very warmly contested contest at Plymouth Tuesday.

Less Cases of Smallpox.

Lansing, Mich., May 22.—Reports to the state board of health from representative physicians in active general practice in various sections of the state indicate that rheumatism, neuritis, tonsillitis, bronchitis and influenza, in the order named, caused the most sickness in Michigan during the past week. Meningitis was reported present at 7 places, whooping cough at 17, diphtheria at 21, typhoid fever at 35, measles at 76, scarlet fever at 52, smallpox at 93, and consumption at 227. The decrease in the number of places where smallpox exists is especially marked in comparison with last year.

Grand Ledge Farmer Kills Himself. Grand Ledge, Mich., May 22.—Solomon Potter, aged 35 years, who lived three miles from town, was found dead in his home Tuesday night at 8 o'clock. He had brought his wife and child to town in the morning, then slipped away to his home to kill himself with a revolver. It is claimed he was in trouble with the woman whose farm he worked over a dispute as to how the eggs should be divided.

Eighth Mich. Cavalry Reunion. Clyde, Mich., May 22.—The Eighth Michigan Cavalry will hold its thirty-first annual reunion at Pontiac June 11 and 12, at the time of the state encampment of the G. A. R.

Joke Proved Fatal.

Junction City, Kan., May 22.—Mrs. W. G. Snook, wife of Corporal Snook of the Ninth artillery band, stationed at Fort Riley, Kan., died at her home here yesterday of burns received as the result of a joke perpetrated by her husband. Mrs. Snook had hidden in an out-building and, in a spirit of fun, locked her husband out. Snook poured some gasoline on the stone steps and lit it, intending to frighten her. The flames were drawn in under the door and enveloped Mrs. Snook, who died several hours later in great agony.

Ball Game at Plymouth May 30.

The Vinewood Ball club of Detroit, last years Macabees League champions, will play the Plymouth club at Plymouth on Decoration Day, and as neither team has yet lost a game this year an exceedingly warm one may be looked for. Game called at 3:30; admission, gents 15c, ladies 10c. Take 3:15 car out of Northville.

BANNER SALVE,
the most healing ointment in the world.

IT LOOKS EASY NOW FOR BLISS

HAS ABOUT EVERY TOWN IN WAYNE THUS FAR.

Seems to Be Something Wrong
With Stearns' Machinery.

Something seems to have gone wrong with Stearns' machinery in Wayne county, at least the results of the caucuses thus far held have not borne out the assertions made by certain Wayne lieutenants that the sentiment in this county was unanimously for the man from Ludington for governor. Thus far Bliss delegates have been elected in every town in Wayne excepting Dearborn, where the Bliss people say no effort was made to get them, and it begins to look like a walk-away for the governor. The towns will have 67 delegates, the city of Wyandotte 9 and the city of Detroit 121. If Bliss goes into the city with 73 delegates from the townships he will only require 25 of the 121 from Detroit to control the convention. Each side claims it will have the city, but it is generally conceded that the Bliss end of it has the advantage of a far better organization.

The only township caucus yet to be held is at Livonia. That will be pulled off tomorrow afternoon and it is conceded that Bliss delegates will be elected there very easily.

Chairman Kennedy says that he has every reason to believe that enough counties will elect delegates for Bliss to clinch the nomination long before the Wayne convention is held, but that he proposes to go right on lining up Bliss delegates just the same.

County Clerk McGregor, who started in to take such an active part in the Stearns movement, has lost interest in that matter and is just looking after his third-term boom. Mr. Gully, who is a candidate for register of deeds, has been keeping out of the scrap of late so that Chairman Homer Warren has been practically deserted by his old time war horses. Mr. Warren is the prince of good fellows, but for once his workers are nearly all on the other side.

Just how the scrap will affect the county ticket this fall remains to be seen, but that it will affect it is generally conceded. There will be a lot of sore spots left after this battle is over that the short time intervening before the November election will hardly suffice to heal. It will be neat for the democratic party and they will not be slow in taking advantage of it. While they have been jabbing a knife into this one and that one for the past two or three months, republican office seekers in Detroit have apparently overlooked the fact that this fall they will need every vote they can get hold of.

WANTED—Strong boy to work in laundry. Apply at Star Laundry.

TWO MICHIGAN MEN

Appointed by Gov. Taft to Fill Philippine Vacancies.

Washington, May 22.—Before the departure of Gov. Taft he made several appointments to vacancies in the judiciary of the Philippine islands. These appointments have been accepted by the following as judges of the courts of first instance, who will be assigned on their arrival in Manila to their several judicial districts, with salaries varying from $3,000 to $4,500 per annum.

Herbert J. Davis, Chicago, Capt. J. S. Powell, Newnan, Ga.; Wm. H. Pope, Santa Fe, N. M., Adolph Wislizenus, St. Louis, and Charles Smith, Jackson, Mich., have accepted positions as prosecuting attorney and assistant attorney general. J. W. Bonner, Nashville, Tenn., has been tendered a position as judge of the court of first instance. James W. Beardsley, Detroit, Mich., has been appointed city engineer of Manila and consulting engineer of the Philippine commission.

CONSOLIDATION OF SCHOOLS.

Supreme Court Decides in Its Favor in the Howell Case.

Owosso, Mich., May 22.—The fact that his children were forced to walk a half mile further to school than before a change in schools was made, has cost Thomas J. Howell of Fairfield township several hundred dollars, and the county a few thousand. The consolidation of two small district schools moved both buildings to the center of the township three years ago, taking one school from Howell's neighborhood.

He brought suit against the school inspectors to compel them to undo the consolidation. The circuit court sustained the inspectors and the supreme court has just confirmed that opinion.

SOLD TO A SYNDICATE.

Ann Arbor Railroad—President Burt Confirms It.

Saginaw, Mich., May 22.—President W. R. Burt of the Ann Arbor railroad arrived home from Toledo last evening. He said that the Ann Arbor has been sold to a syndicate closely allied with the Gould interest. The Wabash is not the purchaser.

New York, May 22.—President Ramsey of the Wabash railroad, says that the Ann Arbor road had not been sold to the Wabash system, but to a syndicate in close touch with that system. He said the effect of the change would be an expansion of the business and that a large share of the traffic would be diverted from the Grand Trunk railway, and would go to Buffalo.

Michigan Inventors.

Washington, May 22.—Joseph Audette, Detroit, grinding attachment for carding machines, James Barker, Detroit, loose leaf ledger; J. S. Barnes, Detroit, mold for collar buttons; Richard A. F. Bellfuss, Lansing, speed regulator for explosive engines, Joseph Curville, Detroit, self-playing attachment for musical instruments; George W. Halstead, Leslie, horseshoe calk sharpener; Frank Hoover, Detroit, tone regulating tool; Eli W. Moore, Ann Arbor, haypress; Charles Munz, Detroit, extension table; Horace B. Murdock, Detroit, plow attachment; Elijah H. Finney and E. S. Jones, Cass City, animal poke; Leverett A. Pratt, Bay City, post; Orlean R. Smith and F. T. Bisbee, Athens, fence post; Charles G. Strubler, Detroit, scale; John Torrent, Muskegon, vehicle; Wm. D. Vandecar, Grand Rapids, electric railway signal.

NORTHVILLE, MICH., MAY 23, 02

Mr. McGregor's Figures.

County Clerk McGregor recently looking over his record in the last campaign. He discovers that while he had a majority of only 200 he carried the county by a 9,000 majority. County Treasurer Lubber's majority was 4,700—Peter at the rate. Mr. McGregor forgets that it takes a mighty good man to beat his honor, Mayor Maybury, et al in Wayne County. It is not so very long ago that the doughty Mayor scalped upon at least two occasions, the best republican that could be mustered in the city by minorities ranging from 500 to 2,000. Seemingly then Gov Bliss was a whirlwind to even come out 200 ahead. Another thing that should be taken into consideration in comparing Mr. Buhner's majority with Mr. McGregor's is that while the latter was pitted against the weakest man on the whole ticket Mr. Buhner was up against the strongest one of them all.

"Never give up" is a good motto for people who don't pay their debts.

Mark of Eve's Teeth.

A fruit supposed to bear the mark of Eve's teeth is one of the many botanical curiosities of Ceylon. The tree on which it grows is known by the significant name of the "forbidden fruit," or "Eve's apple tree." The blossom has a very pleasant scent but the really remarkable feature of the tree is the one to which it owes its name is the fruit. It is beautiful, and hangs from the tree in a peculiar manner. Orange on the outside and deep crimson within, each fruit has the appearance of having had a piece taken out of it. This fact, together with its poisonous quality, led the Mohammedans to represent it as the forbidden fruit of the Garden of Eden and to warn men against its noxious propensities.

Deserved Rebuke.

A newspaper man who desired to interview Mr. Arthur J. Balfour, was, by a servant's error, shown into Mr. Balfour's study while another visitor was with him. Writes an exchange: "With a foolishman want of tact the reporter tried to induce the leader of the house of commons to talk while this third person was still in the room. 'Will you,' replied Mr. Balfour to a query of the newspaper man, in his sweetest, gentlest manner, 'be so kind as to go outside the door and close it.'"

Anachronism in Painting.

In a painting in a country church in Germany, intended for the sacrifice of Isaac, is represented a Hebrew with a blunderbuss in his hand ready to shoot his son and an angel suddenly coming down from heaven pouring a certain water on the father. In a painting at Windsor, by Antonio Verrio, he has introduced himself. Sir Geoffrey Kneller and Bap May, surveyor of the works, in long periwigs, as spectators of Christ healing the sick.

Missing Opportunity.

The automobile had broken down, and the chauffeur was busy trying to discover the trouble. The impatient owner of the machine at last broke out. "Harry up, Felix, there are a lot of people crossing the street that we are missing"—Yonkers Statesman.

Melba to Sing Coronation Ode.

Dr. Edgar of London, it is understood, will compose an ode for the coronation in June which is to be heard for the first time at the state performance at the opera, when the solo will be entrusted to Mme. Melba, the vocal representative of the colonies.

Some Doubt About It.

"Do you think your father is pleased with your engagement to me?" he asked. "I'm just a little uncertain as to that," she replied. "Has he said anything about it?" "Not directly, but after your interview with him the other evening he looked at me a long time very solemnly and then said: 'And I always thought you were a girl of reasonably good judgment, too.'"—Chicago Post.

Ample Proof.

Judge (in breach-of-promise case): "You claim to have been temporarily insane when you proposed to the plaintiff?" Defendant—Yes, your honor. Judge—Can you prove it? Defendant—I can your honor, if you will cause the plaintiff to remove her veil so the jury can see her face. —Chicago Daily News.

A General Countenance.

Upton—So you've been to see Jollyboy, the comedian. What a funny fellow he is! Downton—Ha, ha, ha! His very face sets one laughing. What a magnificent bill collector he would make. Everybody he called on would think he had dropped in to lend them money.—N. Y. Weekly.

Boodle All Gone.

Detective—We have trailed your absconding clerk to a Florida winter resort. He has been there about two weeks. Banker—Two weeks? Then don't bother about him. The money he has embezzled must be all gone by this time.—Town Topics.

True Ingenuity.

"But there is no evidence to support your theory," protested the attorney. "My dear sir," was the answer, "that fact is what shows my superior ability as a detective. Anybody can get up a theory if he has a whole lot of evidence to work with."—Washington Star.

Between Feminine Friends.

"The suppler the gown," some one had said, "the prettier a really beautiful woman appears." They all nodded, and presently one dear thing leaned over to another dear thing and remarked quite casually: "What an elaborate gown you have on, dear."—Chicago Post.

A Close Race.

"You say you go to market at six o'clock every morning?" "Yes," answered the very prudent man. "I buy early. Every now and then you get your meat and vegetables before news reaches the dealers that the price has been increased."—Washington Star.

Highly Improbable.

"I think he's a vegetarian." "Nonsense! he's a colored man." "Well, can't a colored man be a vegetarian? That isn't impossible." "No, but it's improbable. Chicken isn't a vegetable, you know."—Philadelphia Press.

Would Not Be Noticed.

Applicant—Yes, madam, I wish to secure board, but I must inform you that I am a vegetarian, madam. Mrs. Slimdick—Oh, that will be all right. You will not be expected to eat the meat. None of the others ever do. —N. Y. Weekly.

The Rose.

I sent a white rose and a red. To her I loved and wrote. If I may hope I pray you wait to-night. The rose that I put in your hand and white. Or if you will, my love to take. And if you love another, wait. The red rose I sent and did not. My love my sorrow and forget. And try to love again, sweetheart. That right she smiled. I hoped to see. The white rose I had called my own. A dark rose as she was passing me. So now a yellow rose, I love. —Chicago Record-Herald.

A TECHNICAL TERM.

"I guess it's almost time those poor players fed the kitty." —Chicago American.

There's the Rab.

"The French sergeant isn't here. Must be right next to command it. The trouble is that I don't understand it." —Philadelphia Press.

Short and Sweet.

He—I love you, Ethel, do you love me? Ethel (after thinking, not too long)—Well, suppose we say "Yes?" —N. Y. Times.

His Joke Fell Flat.

Mr. Pessimist—Now I suppose you want me to look pleasant? Photographer (politely)—Unless you prefer to look natural.—Tit-Bits.

Wanted to Talk Business.

"How much do I owe you, doctor?" "Eighty-nine dollars and nineteen cents, but if you have a relapse I'll give you a discount."—Judge.

Just What He Meant.

Mrs. Crumplehead—Did you say he is a man of stable habits? Mr. Crumplehead—Yes, he looks like a mule.—Yonkers Statesman.

An Urgent Case.

When the doctor's telephone rang late one night he went to the instrument himself, and received an urgent appeal from two fellow practitioners to come down to the club for a quiet game. "Emphatically," he said, turning to his wife, "I am called out again, and it appears to be a very serious case, for there are two doctors already in attendance."—N. Y. Times.

The Classical Cannibal.

"But why," asked the subchief of the Cannibal Isles, "do you insist upon having the man who fell while leading the charge against us served up at the banquet this evening. He seems to be hard as nails." "Huh!" answered the chief of the Cannibal Isles. "I read in a book of poetry left by our last meal that the bravest are the tenderest."—Baltimore American.

Alas! Yes.

Full many a flower is born to blush unseen. And waste its sweetness on the desert air. And many a social bud so fresh and green. Will waste her sweetness on a millionaire. —Philadelphia Press.

HANDICAPPED.

"George Washington must have had a blighted right better hatchet than this dinky thing or else a smaller tree." —N. Y. World.

Happy, Nevertheless.

Oh, he was a trusted employee. With a life in obscurity spent. He found it was his lot. To be wholly forgot. 'Cause he never embezzled a cent. —Washington Star.

A Danger Signal.

"I'm sorry, but I shall have to insist that your bond with the guaranteed company be doubled." "I—I—what is the matter, sir?" "Well, it has just come to my knowledge that your neighbors out in Suburbanville call you 'Honest John.'"—N. Y. Press.

Wherein He Differed.

Clara—So you are really going to be married to Mr. Commoner? Maude—Yes, I am, because he is so unlike the men we meet in society. Clara—Naturally. The mere fact that he proposed to you proves it. —Chicago Daily News.

Up to Papa.

"Children," said the father, facing the ordeal manfully, "this is your new mamma." "Was that the best you could do, papa?" asked the youngest, casting a critical eye on the new member of the family. —Chicago Tribune.

Without Advertising, Too.

"Ah, good morning!" said the early bird to the worm. "Looking for a job?" "That's what. Anything I can do for you?" "Yes, you'll about fill the bill, I think."—Harlem Life.

Nevermore.

"Do the birds come and pick up the breadcrumbs from your hotel lawn?" "They used to before my wife began to make her own bread."—Judge.

Assurance.

"And she has the assurance to speak concerning matters of art?" "Assurance? Say, I don't believe that girl would be afraid to pronounce renaissance before anybody!" —Town Topics.

The Old Man Talks Back.

Mrs. Styles—John, do you keep an account of the money you spend foolishly? Mr. Styles—Yes, dear; I've got all your millinery bills in my safe.—Yonkers Statesman.

Looking for Cause.

Wigg—That dizzy blonde over there claims to be a daughter of the Revolution. Wigg—Do you suppose it's the pretention that made her dizzy? —Philadelphia Record.

Star-Gazing.

"Jack?" "Yes, dear?" "How do you suppose astronomers ever found out the names of the stars?" —Town Topics.

Does All the Talking.

"She enjoys conversation, I believe." "She thinks she does, but as a matter of fact she doesn't know the difference between conversation and a monologue."—Chicago Post.

Placing Him.

"He doesn't amount to much," said the girl from the Kansas corn belt. "Pardon me," said the girl from Boston, "but it seems to me that he really isn't on an equality with a full of beans."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Variety.

"They say she has been very successful in her married life." "Yes. It has been nothing but a succession of honeymoons."—Detroit Free Press.

HOW "THE KID" FOUND A HOME

By Callie Bonney Marble

(Copyright, 1902, by Callie Bonney Marble.)

SHORTY, the newsboy, had disposed of his papers and with the aid of a successful business man was going home.

"Shorty! Oh, Shorty!" called a shrill voice as the newsboy passed the asylum gate, where he caught sight of the flutter of a blue gingham apron and some stubby shoes showing between the rounds. Both belonging to a diminutive boy of four, with big, wide-awake gray eyes and a shock of yellow hair.

"What you want, Kid?" asked the newsboy, with a patronizing air.

"Oh, Shorty," cried the wee orphan gleefully, "tomorrow's Decoration day, and see what I've got!" And he drew out from a hole under the gate a wonderful combination bouquet of his own fashioning, which consisted of two faded pinks, an artificial rosebud dropped from somebody's bonnet, some celery leaves a pine twig and a full assortment of the weeds which grew about the asylum yard. "Isn't it beautiful?" And tomorrow when the soldiers march by I'm going to put it on some graves, if I can run'd away. If I can't, I'll take it to the soldiers and they can give it to the dead man for me." And the baby, who knew nothing of war and death, smiled gleefully.

"You're going to be in it, ain't you, Kid?" Shorty said, answering the baby's smile in almost a fatherly way. "You're a good boy to think of the dead folks, and here's a penny to buy you a popcorn ball."

The happy orphan ran back to the asylum after having deposited his precious penny in the hole under the gate, where he reposed his Memorial day bouquet, and that night he was favored with a boy's happiest dream, for soldiers and guns and popcorn were in delightful evidence.

The next morning the Kid was awake long before the going sounded to arouse the orphans, and after he had disposed of his bowl of mush and milk and secured his treasures he started down the dusty road as fast as his diminutive legs could carry him. He had not gone far before he heard music and the tramp of men and horses.

"The soldiers! The soldiers!" he cried as he hurried onward and finally stumbled and fell just as the captain on the big black horse, spied him and suddenly drew rein, for a temporary halt had been called.

"What is your name, sonny?" he asked kindly, bending over the boy in the blue gingham apron, who scrambled hastily to his feet, still determined not to be left behind, his eyes glistening with joy and admiration as he surveyed the captain.

"It used to be Robert, but now I live at the 'asylum it's Bob and the Kid," promptly replied the youngster. Then, fearing that the captain would ride away and leave his mission unaccomplished, he plunged right into the subject at heart, and, holding up his withered bouquet, he said proudly:

"I've got some flowers, too, and I'm going to take 'em to the dead men. Do they live a good way from here?"

"That is a fine bouquet you have," the captain replied turning his head to hide a smile. "But the cemetery is too far away for a small boy like you to walk."

"Oh, I do want to go so bad," the Kid said plaintively "and I saved these flowers ever since yesterday."

"WHAT'S YOUR NAME, SONNY?"

still gazing admiringly at his very unique bouquet, which had tumbled when he did and looked worse than ever.

The kind hearted captain, thinking perhaps of another little boy whom he sadly missed, wheeled about and spoke a few words to his wife, who was driving in a carriage a little to one side of the soldiers, after which he returned to the child, who stood with quivering lips and brimming eyes where he had left him.

"No, my boy, you can't walk there, but here is a lady who says you may ride with her. Would you like to?"

Would he like to? It was as though heaven had opened to the disappointed boy.

"So this is the little man who is to ride with me?" said the captain's pretty wife. "Sit here, dear, on this little seat, where there is room, too, for your flowers. And to whom do you belong, little boy?" she asked.

Stuart Robson's Eminence.

Stuart Robson spoke in happy vein before the curtain at the Hyperion Theater, New Haven, a few evenings ago. He said: "Just forty-three years ago, the first time I appeared before a New Haven audience, I was arrested by the sheriff of this city because I didn't have money enough to pay my theatrical license, which was $20. It was a $15 house. In those days Yale University discriminated in favor of the circus, which only had to pay a license of $5."

Blind Letter Carrier.

Arnold Scott of Barnardsboro, Mass., who has been blind for fifty years, for the past twenty-five years has served the town as letter carrier and is said to be particularly efficient in both the collecting and delivering of mail.

Whisky in Scotch Stores.

There were 109,260,190 proof gallons of whisky in bond in Scotch stores a month ago. Of the total quantity 89,046,511 gallons were under lock and key for distillers and the balance for the "trade" generally.

Marquis Ito's Caution.

When Marquis Ito, the Japanese statesman, was in this country the manager of a certain western railway sent him a pass over his line. The pass was returned with this polite note: "I have no claim on your esteemed company. I should not feel right in traveling over your most excellent road without paying for the great pleasure."

Don't Start Wrong.

Don't start the summer with a lingering cough or cold. We all know what a summer cold is. It's the likeliest kind to cure. Often it hangs on through the entire season. A few doses of One Minute Cough Cure will set you right. Sure cure for coughs, colds and croup, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung troubles. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. Children like it. "One Minute Cough Cure is the best cough medicine I ever used," says J. H. Bowles, Groverton, N. H. "I never found anything else that acted so safely and quickly."—Murdoch Bros.

Stamps Valued at $200 Each.

Henry J. Crocker, the San Francisco capitalist, has 100 rare stamps that are valued at $200,000. His rarest stamp is the 20-cent label issued in 1845 by the St. Louis post office, before there were any regular United States stamps.

A Much-Traveled Sailor.

Horatio McKay, the trans-Atlantic captain who recently retired from active duty on the Lucania, has crossed the ocean 550 times and traveled altogether by sea a distance of 2,550,000 miles.

Foley's Honey and Tar is peculiarly adapted for asthma, bronchitis and hoarseness. —Murdoch Bros.

For Best Behaved Children.

The gold medal offered by the Paris council for the most numerous and best behaved family of children has been won by a couple named Gallez, parents of thirteen youngsters.

Doing Away with Prairie Dogs.

The Kansas Agricultural College is sending out $1,300 worth of prairie dog poison a month and is unable to supply the demand.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; none, cases out of ten are cured by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that can be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A Medicine for Old People.

Rev. Geo. Gay, Greenwich, Kas., is past 83 years of age, yet he says: "I am enjoying excellent health for a man of my age, due entirely to the rejuvenating influences of Dr. Miles' Nervine. It brings sleep and rest when nothing else will, and gives strength and vitality even to one of my old age."

"I am an old soldier," writes Mr. Geo. Watson, of Newton, Ia., "and I have been a great sufferer from nervousness, vertigo and spinal trouble. Have spent considerable money for medicine and doctors, but with little benefit. I was so bad my mind showed signs of weakness. I began taking Dr. Miles' Nervine, and I know it saved my life."

Dr. Miles' Nervine

Saved me from the insane asylum," Mrs. A. M. Herford, of Jerico Springs, Mo., writes. "I was so nervous that I could scarcely control myself, could not sleep, nor rest, could even forget the names of my own children at times. I commenced using Dr. Miles' Nervine and it helped me from the first, and now I am perfectly well."

Paris' Driving Police.

The formation of a body of "driving police" in Paris was received with much banter, but it must not be supposed that this body has no usefulness. The Society of Parisian Anglers has shown its sympathy toward the corps by handing over 400 francs to the inspector, to be divided between the men who have been instrumental in the repression of fish poaching.

Weak?

"I suffered terribly and was extremely weak for 12 years. The doctors said my blood was all turning to water. At last I tried Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and was soon feeling all right again."

Mrs. J. W. Fiala, Hadlyme, Ct.

No matter how long you have been ill, nor how poorly you may be today, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine you can take for purifying and enriching the blood.

Don't doubt it, put your whole trust in it, throw away everything else.

Ask your doctor what he thinks of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He knows all about this grand old family medicine. Follow his advice, and we will be satisfied.

CALL A NAT'L CONVENTION

MICHIGAN MINERS DECLARE IN FAVOR OF IT.

REQUEST FOR ONE WAS MADE TO PRESIDENT MITCHELL.

BELIEVE GENERAL STRIKE WILL GAIN THEM GREAT DEAL.

Bay City, Mich., May 22.—Michigan district, United Mine Workers of America, has decided to join with the three anthracite districts of Pennsylvania in a request to President Mitchell for a national convention of anthracite and bituminous miners to discuss a general strike of all miners in the country.

This action was taken at a meeting of the executive board of the Michigan district, held in Saginaw Monday, the request being sent by telegraph to President Mitchell.

The fact that such request was made was closely guarded. President Williams of the Michigan district refused to affirm or deny the report that such action had been taken, but other state officials and members of the executive board who were here attending a mass meeting of the miners, admitted that President Mitchell had received the sanction of the Michigan district.

President Williams did say, however, that the Michigan miners would gain a great deal by a general strike.

Call to be issued soon.

Both he and Secretary Corven of the state organization said that they expected the call for a general convention would be issued very soon. At a mass meeting of miners held in this city Wednesday the men were informed what the delegates and leaders had endeavored to accomplish and what they stood out for in their recent conference with the operators. "National Vice-President Lewis was at this meeting and made an explanation along the same line.

Michigan Pensioners.

Washington, May 22.—Michigan pensioners were granted Wednesday as follows: Increase—John P. Hiles, Farmington, $8; Charles J. Smith, Scottville, $8; Thomas J. Davis, Wauzata, $24; Harrison Harding, Remus, $10; Philo Collins, Detroit, $10; Joseph Bramhall, Three Oaks, $17; Martin Luther, White Pigeon, $8; Obediah Johnson, Marshall, $10; Wm. H. Galloway, Grand Rapids, $4; Widows—Laura E. O'Dell, Eureka, $8; Sarah Varney, Coats Grove, $12; Christina Steiger, Clinton, $12; Mary Kendall, Emmett, $12; Rose Little, Northville, $12; Catherine Derry, Owosso, $8; War with Spain—Sarah Elliott (mother) Sanilac Center, $12; Frances C. Seck, Detroit, $15; Sophia Endres, Mt. Clemens, $12.

Robbers Made Him Confess.

Hudson, Mich., May 22.—George Wagner, a prominent farmer, 55 years old, residing three miles southwest, was held up and robbed at his home. The robbers tortured Mr. Wagner until he told where his money was hidden. They took all the money they could find in the house and left their victim in a badly bruised condition and about as near dead as alive.

Charged With Criminal Assault.

Marshall, Mich., May 22.—Wilber Page of Lee township was arrested Wednesday charged with criminal assault on Bessie Wagner, the 14-year-old daughter of Frank Wagner. He pleaded not guilty before Justice Merrill and his examination has been set for May 26. He furnished bail.

Michigan Postmasters.

Washington, May 22.—Michigan postmasters were appointed Wednesday as follows: Banfield, Barry county, E. L. Edmunds; vice L. N. Mosher, resigned; Rattle Run, St. Clair county, J. H. Parkin, vice John Wagner, resigned.

Man Killed by Lightning.

Kalamazoo, Mich., May 22.—John Van Beek, 19, was struck by lightning while working on a frame house and instantly killed. M. Remynse, who was at the other end of a cross-cue saw with Van Beek, was knocked senseless, but will recover.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

Carnegie's Offer Accepted.—Andrew Carnegie's offer to give Escanaba a $20,000 library has been accepted by the city council.

Medican Examiner Candidate.—Dr. John W. Kirtland of Lakeview has become a candidate for great medical examiner of the Michigan Macabees.

Fell From His Train.—Fred Hayden, a Grand Trunk Western brakeman, fell from the top of a freight car at Lansing and was severely injured. A wrist was fractured and he was hurt internally. He was taken to his home in Battle Creek.

Big Timber Deal.—Merrill Rigg & Co., of Saginaw, are interested in a deal to purchase the lands of the American Lumber Co. in Humboldt county, California, familiarly known as the Scotch syndicate lands. They include between 35,000 and 36,000 acres of very valuable redwood timber.

Poisoned By Rhubarb Leaves.—Joseph St. Aubin's family, residing near Carleton, had a close call. Some one told them that rhubarb leaves made fine greens to eat, so they thought they would try them. The stuff made them deathly sick, and had it not been for the timely arrival of a physician all would have died.

Foul Play Suspected.—The body of Louis H. Cronenwett, who disappeared Dec. 8, 1901, was discovered in the Detroit river by two boys Wednesday afternoon. The body was badly decayed and had without doubt been in the water all winter. Cronenwett was a well-known Detroit business man. His brother identified the body, and is of the opinion that he met with foul play.

DETROIT GETS ONE OF THEM.

France Sends Three Beautiful Paintings to This Country.

Washington, May 21.—The French ambassador, M. Cambon, received from Paris Tuesday three superb oil paintings, which are to be one of the incidents in the present exchanges of international amity between the United States and France in connection with the Rochambeau exercises. One of the paintings shows Louis XIV. in the audience chamber of the palace receiving Chevalier de Cadillac and delivering to him the royal ordinance creating the city of Detroit. The painting is of massive proportions and is executed with the brilliant characteristic of French art. The king is surrounded by the distinguished court figures of that day, while in the center of the group Cadillac, in rich green velvet court dress, bends to receive the papers which founded Detroit. After remaining at the embassy for a time the painting is to be sent to Detroit, where it is to occupy a post of honor in the city hall, a gift of the French government to one of the earliest French cities in America.

The other paintings are portraits of Rochambeau and Lafayette, showing these officers in the uniforms worn at the time they came to the aid of the struggling American colonists. The paintings also, after remaining at the embassy for a time, will take a prominent place in some of the notable official collections in this country.

Michigan's Share Is $446,500.

Washington, May 21.—In the omnibus public building bill, reported yesterday by Senator Fairbanks's committee on public buildings to the senate, Michigan appropriations foot up $446,500. The items are: For post office buildings at Flint, $75,000; increase of $15,000 over bill passed by house; Muskegon, $75,000; increase $5,000; Grand Haven, $50,000; Adrian, $40,000; Owosso, $35,000; Battle Creek, $110,000; Kalamazoo, $60,000. Like Battle Creek, the house did not approve the Kalamazoo item. For completing Menominee building $1,000 is allowed. The senate bill carries $14,500 more for Michigan than the house bill.

With the Corporations.

Lansing, Mich., May 21.—Articles of association were filed Tuesday by the Angle Steel Sled Co. of Kalamazoo, capital $100,000, Reverse Beach Scenery Co. of Detroit, to operate at Reverse, Mass., $25,000; Pneumatic Horse Collar Manufacturing Co. of Holland, $20,000, Grayling Mercantile Co., Grayling, $8,000. The Valley City Gold Mining Co., Grand Rapids, has increased its capital from $30,000 to $50,000.

Went Wild Over Madame Homer.

Saginaw, Mich., May 21.—Saginaw's second annual May festival closed last night with a concert, at which Louise Homer was the stellar attraction. The audience went wild over her, and recalled her again and again. Gwilym Miles, Glenn Hall and Madame Kuleski were the other soloists. Gounod's "Galla" was sung by the chorus. The festival has been a brilliant success.

Bennett's Record Cleared.

Ypsilanti, Mich., May 21.—W. C. Bennett, the Bad Axe student who was expelled from the Normal last spring for an alleged attempt to steal a hotel blanket at the intercollegiate field meet at Hillsdale, was reinstated yesterday by the faculty council. He does not expect to re-enter the Normal, but wished to have his record cleared.

Arrested Under a House.

Flint, Mich., May 21.—For several days the police have been looking for Hartwell Newberry on the charge of using bad language. Three policemen went to the house of his brother to arrest him. Newberry tried to escape by pulling up a floor board and crawling under the house, but a policeman crawled after him and arrested him.

Looking for His Wife.

Mt. Clemens, Mich., May 21.—Willam boriso, living at the Woodmere postoffice, near Detroit was in the city yesterday looking for his 16-year-old wife, who, he says, mysteriously disappeared from home last Saturday.

Exposed 600 School Children.

Escanaba, Mich., May 21.—Smallpox broke out on two children attending the Washington school Tuesday, and 600 children were exposed. The school has been closed until next Tuesday.

MINOR TELEGRAMS.

The Pekin correspondent of the Japanese papers at Victoria, B. C. assert that Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese minister to Washington, has requested his government to recall him on account of his unpopularity resulting from his efforts against the Chinese exclusion law.

James L. Gates of Chippewa Falls, Wis., has closed a deal for the purchase of all the Cornell university lands remaining in Wisconsin, aggregating 56,000 acres, located principally in Chippewa, Gates, Sawyer, Prince and Taylor counties. The price was $250,000. The president is about to issue a proclamation creating additions of several million acres to the Yellowstone and Teton forest reserves in Wyoming. With the additions thus created, the total area of the Yellowstone forest reserve will be 1,893,280 acres, and the area of the Teton forest reserve will be 4,127,360 acres. The house committee on military affairs has reported bills providing for a national trophy and prizes for rifle competitions; appropriating $100,000 for a home for aged and infirm colored people, and providing for the care of the confederate mound in Oakwood cemetery, Chicago. The 34th annual convention of the American Society of Civil Engineers opened in Washington Tuesday. The senate committee on isthmian canals has decided to report adversely Senator Hear's bill placing the matter of the selection of an interoceanic canal route in the hands of the president. The measure was especially opposed by the supporters of the Nicaragua route. Sufficient food supplies are arriving at Fort de France, but linen clothing, bedding and disinfectants are needed. The refugees are without work, and money is needed for their support.

MISSPELLED THE WORD

AND OLD WOMEN ARE OUT SEVERAL THOUSAND DOLLARS.

MUSKEGON MAN MADE A WILL IN THEIR FAVOR.

BUT WRONG SPELLING OF "INDIGENT" MAKES IT VOID.

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 21.—E. L. McDonnell of Muskegon, who died in this city on the date he was to have married Miss Virginia Platt of Cincinnati, in his will left $50,000 to establish a home for indigent old women at Fairmount, Ind.

An examination of the will shows that, instead of "indigent" old women he wrote "indignant" old women, and this error in spelling may invalidate the testament.

According to the will as originally drafted, he left $5,000 to Flora M. Newton of Syracuse, N. Y., to whom he was formerly engaged. He scratched her name out and substituted that of Miss Platt when the change came over his affections, and only one of the witnesses to the will was apprised of the change, which was equivalent to making a new will. The instrument will be attacked by Miss Newton and Mr. McDonnell's relatives.

Prof. Miller Pleads Innocent.

Jackson, Mich., May 21.—"I never killed Carrie Tennent," said Prof. Joseph M. Miller to a reporter at the prison yesterday. "I am as innocent as you are. There was something the matter with me when I made the confession. I wasn't right for two or three days after I reached the prison. I am willing to stay here till I rot unless I am given an opportunity to prove my innocence, but I never killed the poor girl." Prof. Miller, in a low, hesitating voice, with many pauses to recall names and circumstances, gravely asserted that when he made the confession of a murder which he says he never committed, that he had been mesmerized or placed under some influence which compelled him to do just what was expected of him.

Looks Like Foul Play.

Muskegon, Mich., May 21.—The body of an unidentified man was found floating in Muskegon lake near the North Muskegon ferry dock yesterday. The remains had evidently been in the water for several days, and the only article found in the clothes was a German bible with the inscription on the fly leaf, "Joseph Meyer, Aus Bieren, Ger. many." The man's age was about 60 years, and in one hand was gripped a coked handled cane. It is thought death may have resulted from foul means, as there is a deep gash over one eye and the right temple is caved in, as it from a violent blow.

Squeezed His Eyes Out.

Port Huron, Mich., May 21.—Samuel O. Aikman, manager of the Aikman Cracker Co. met with a painful and peculiar accident. He was on his stomach in the elevator shaft trying to repair the machinery when some one started the elevator, allowing the weight to drop on his head. His eyes were forced out of their sockets, but Mr. Aikman extricated himself and with his hands forced the eyes back. It is not thought that his sight will be impaired.

Victims Probably Number 80.

Adrian, Mich., May 21.—Attorneys and friends of the ill-fated Italian immigrants in the wreck of Nov. 27, at Seneca, near this city, are gradually compiling a list of the victims. Attorney John Bird has actually commenced suit in but eight cases, but the list of names now numbers 76—with prospects that it will reach 80. The railroad officials admit the number of deaths reached but 27.

Three Years for Manslaughter.

Detroit, Mich., May 21.—Charles Jonfski, convicted of the manslaughter of Fred Joekofski, at Taylor Center last January, was sentenced by Judge Donovan to serve three years in Jackson.

Bliss Grants Him Pardon.

Lansing, Mich., May 21.—Gov. Bliss has pardoned Arthur H. Swarthout who was sent from Saginaw in March 1899 to Jackson prison for four years for embezzlement.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

Rev. Fr. Peter J. Andre of St. Anthony's church, Detroit, is dead. Burglar's entered the residence of Prof. C. E. Marshall, bacteriologist at the agricultural college, and stole a quantity of silverware and jewelry.

The strike of coal miners in Pennsylvania has already had its effect in Kalamazoo. Monday night at a meeting of the retail coal dealers the price of anthracite coal was advanced from $6.75 to $7.50 per ton.

Albert Kellar, a prominent farmer near Niles, who was married April 30, has disappeared without giving any cause or clue. The opinion of foul play is entertained, as there is no known reason why he should desert his bride of two weeks.

Mrs. Anna Dillere, a frequenter of the justice courts of Flint on charges of drunkenness, attempted to drown herself in a spring. Neighbors heard the plunge and pulled her out. She was intoxicated at the time, and gave as her reason that no one cared for her save herself.

Three months ago Benton Harbor wage-earners organized into a score of different unions, and last night the organization won its first victory. One hundred and fifty members appeared before the common council and asked that the city reduce the hours on street work from ten to nine hours a day at same pay, $1.50 per day, and the request was granted.

Like a Drowning Man.

"Five years ago a disease the doctors called dyspepsia took such a hold of me that I could scarcely go," writes Geo. S. Marsh, well-known attorney of Nocona, Tex. "I took quantities of pepsin and other medicines but nothing helped me. As a drowning man grabs at a straw I grabbed at Kodol. I felt an improvement at once and after a few bottles am sound and well." Kodol is the only preparation which exactly reproduces the natural digestive juices and consequently is the only one which digests any good food and cures any form of stomach trouble. —Murdoch Bros.

Irish-Speaking Negroes.

The Irish language is spoken in the Bahamas among the mixed descendants of the Hibernian patriots banished long ago by Cromwell to the West Indies. One can occasionally hear negro sailors in the east end of London who cannot speak a word of English talking Irish to the old Irish apple-women who gather around the docks.

Foley's Honey and Tar contains no opiates and can safely be given to children. —Murdoch Bros.

Dangerous Not to Laugh.

Sometimes when the Turkish sultan attends a play in his private theater he hands in to the comedian an original joke or two of his own make. The actor gives these humorous efforts the fullest possible effect, of course, and perhaps that is why they are invariably received with great laughter.

A Farmer Straightened Out.

A man living on a farm near here came in a short time ago completely doubled up with rheumatism. I handed him a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and told him to use it freely and if not satisfied after using it he need not pay a cent for it," says C. P. Rayder, of Paines Mills, N. Y. A few days later he walked into the store as straight as a string and handed me a dollar saying, "give me another bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I want it in the house all the time for it cured me." For sale by George C. Hueston.

New Year's Mass in Paris.

Paris gave up this New Year's, after many centuries, the Red Mass in the Sainte Chapelle for the judges of the higher courts. This was done by order of the Minister of Justice on account of the intermeddling with political affairs of the religious orders. The ardent Catholic judges and lawyers attended instead a mass celebrated by Cardinal Richard in the Church of St. Germain L'Auxerrois, opposite the Louvre, whose bells gave the signal for the massacre of St. Bartholomew.

What Thin Folks Need

Is a greater power of assimilating and digesting food. For them Dr. King's New Life Pills work wonders. They tone and regulate the digestive organs, gently expel all poisons from the system, enrich the blood, improve appetite, make healthy flesh. Only 25c at Geo. C. Hueston's.

MRS. BARBARA McDONALD

JULIA V. TELLER

MRS. MARY HARDY

MRS. CATHERINE R. BERTOT

MRS. BARBARA McDONALD, President of the St. Louis Blue Ribbon Club, writes the following letter concerning Peruna from 2347 Dayton street, St. Louis, Mo.:

"It is with feelings of gratitude for benefits derived from the use of Peruna that I desire to proclaim to human-kind my experience, hoping that it will benefit some unfortunate sufferer like myself."

"Suffering for years with what appeared to be an incurable malady, and after a great expense incurred consulting physicians without any benefit, I was recommended to try Peruna. As a last expedient I purchased a bottle, and before one-half of the contents were used I felt the beneficial results. I am continuing to use same, and might say I am entirely well. My disease seemed to be catarrh of the stomach, and the nauseating sensation, and the heavy, languid, tired-out feelings with which I suffered, especially after eating, have entirely left me, and my digestive organs are in splendid condition, all of which I owe to the use of Peruna."

MRS. BARBARA McDONALD.

Miss Julia V. Teller, of 2518 Prairie street, Milwaukee, Wis., is President of the German Young Woman's Union. Her opinion of Peruna is given in the following words:

"Our German Young Woman's Union has nothing but praise for Peruna. Three of our members have been most wonderfully helped. One of them had the lassitude incident to spring weather is especially trying to women. Ailments peculiar to the sex of many varieties are especially prone to aggravation. All this class of affections are fitly described by the term 'peptic catarrh.'"

Any woman wishing to be placed on the list of Dr. Hartman's patients for free home treatment and advice should immediately send name and symptoms, duration of disease and treatment already tried. Directions for the first month's treatment will be promptly mailed free of charge. No free medicine will be supplied by the doctor, but all necessary directions will be furnished.

Read what the above ladies have to say of Peruna as a cure for these cases.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

almost constant headache for the last year. The other two suffered from catarrh of the head and throat.

"I have used it after a most unpleasant experience with an attack of la grippe, and found that three bottles completely restored me to health."—Julia V. Teller.

Mrs. Mary Hardy, of 503 W. Polk street, Chicago, Ill., writes:

"I find it necessary each spring to take some kind of a tonic and have tried a great many but have found none of such value as Peruna."

"After taking a few doses I feel the good effects and seldom need to take more than one bottle as a spring medicine."—Mrs. Mary Hardy.

Mrs. Catherine R. Bertot, 803 N. Elm street, Centralia, Ill., writes:

"I have found Peruna the most satisfying medicine I ever tried in my life. I suffered for years with catarrh of the stomach, which became aggravated every time I caught a slight cold. My food did not digest properly, and life lost its best charm until I tried Peruna. It made a new woman of me. It took eight bottles to effect a complete cure, but I would not be back in the former condition for a thousand dollars. I am most grateful for being cured completely and feel better than I have done for years."—Catherine R. Bertot.

Methodist Church Notes.

[By the Pastor.]

The Epworth League will sell baked goods at Fry Bros. store Saturday, May 31st.

The West Livonia Sunday-school was formally organized last Sunday with an enrollment of about fifty.

Two things pleased us very much last Sunday morning, viz: There were more people present at the beginning of the service than usual and there were more children than usual present throughout the service. Our thanks to the choir for their own excellent music and also for those two enjoyable solos.

Baptist Church Notes.

[By the Pastor.]

Our regular monthly covenant meeting next Thursday evening.

Don't forget the homemade-baking sale this week-Saturday.

The choir is progressively nicely under the leadership of Mrs. Long.

There were nearly as many present as usual last Sunday evening regardless of the inclement weather.

Subjects to be treated next Sunday-Morning, "Christ and the Church;" evening, "The Three Foes."

The Gleaners have made quite an addition to the amount in their treasury as a result of the entertainment given in the Opera House last week. They propose to improve the interior of the church. That's good, we hope some of our other classes or societies will be provoked to good works.

School Notes.

[By the Superintendent.]

Motto: Promptness, politeness and perseverance—the young man who minds these three will soon learn a fourth—prosperity.—Selected.

Sam and Paul Penfield exhibited their pet alligator last week in their rooms much to the appreciation of the other pupils.

The senior class has about completed the year's work in geometry and as a dessert are being given a taste of plane trigonometry.

At last the High-school has succeeded in passing one week without a tardy mark. We mention this because it is the first time during the year they have had a clear record in that regard.

The physics class is negotiating with Prof. F. A. Osborn of Olivet college to deliver in this village his illustrated lecture on "Wireless Telegraphy." A definite announcement will be made in next week's paper.

The Northville schools will present a Memorial Day program at the Methodist church next Thursday afternoon at 3-15. The pupils will leave the school building at 3 o'clock and march east on Main to Center, to Dunlap, to church. On account of the lecture, decoration of graves, etc., which usually occupy most of the time on Memorial Day, it was thought best to arrange a special school program to be given the day before in the church. We trust many will find it convenient to be present.

Don't Put Your Foot In It.

The fellow who goes prowling around the house at midnight, without a light, is dead sure to find trouble laying for him at every step. He doesn't realize it, though, till he puts his foot into it—or stubs his big toe against it.

And the man who buys a new wagon or carriage without seeing our stock and getting our prices, will also "put his foot in it." We have, without question, the best line of Wagons and Carriages in the town, and you'll miss it if you don't see us. Now don't put your foot in it, this ad is your lamp. It says buy here.

And don't forget we are headquarters for lumber and building material, too. Best grades—lowest prices.

The ball game at Starkweather park between the shoe factory nine and the moulders resulted in a victory for the shoe men, 22 to 12. Fisk and Smith were the batteries for the factory "fellers" and Brockett, Pickell and Lanning for the moulders.

Judging from the difficulty reported in getting sufficient help to operate them, Northville's factories are evidently doing a thriving business. The Globe factory is especially bothered to get enough men to do the work required to keep things going.

Postmaster Hutton announces that during the summer months he will open the postoffice at six o'clock standard time in order to accommodate patrons from the country who come early to the milk factory. He also hopes to have the R. F. D. service in operation soon.

The attention of the Record has several times been called to the practice of the throwing about of paper bags and other papers which results in so much disfigurement of our pretty streets and lawns. If these things must be thrown away it takes but a second to crumple them up tightly and toss them into the gutter where they will not so easily get upon someone's lawn or fall around to frighten horses as they so frequently do.

Dr. Henry, assisted by Drs. Turner and Burgess, performed an operation for appendicitis on Luther Greene of Mead's Mills Wednesday, but unavoidable complications rendered the young man's recovery impossible. He died yesterday afternoon, death being due, the doctors think, to an affection of the heart which was unusually excited as a result of the operation. He was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace F. Greene and was much thought of by everyone.

The editor of the Northville Record has two more guesses coming. When he spoke about the "blushing editor of the Farmington Enterprise" he had better guess again and blush at his mistake and when he stated that the editor had probably gone off to get married he was surely mistaken. Strange what is uppermost in some men's minds.—Farmington Enterprise.

The Record didn't mean to make B. G. Filkins come home from Alpena twice last week, as in reality he only came once, but mistakes will occur even in the best regulated printing offices.

Some very "foxy" new delivery wagons have appeared around town lately. Will Ambler has a particularly swell dairy rig and the Ambler Company is doing a very fine new ice wagon.

Homer Shepard, formerly of this place, has been appointed to the lucrative and responsible position of captain of Station 3 of the Battle Creek fire department. His station is directly across the street from the famous new sanitarium in process of erection there.

The May number of the Delray High School Bulletin has come to the Record table and is an elegant specimen of what the Delray Times plant can do in the way of getting out something especially fine in the newspaper line.

Prof. J. H. Loeffler has been very successful in his work in Detroit and as an evidence of their appreciation of his good work the school board have engaged him for another year, with an increase of salary which will be written with four figures, $1,000.

Much correspondence was necessarily abbreviated this week because of its late arrival. The Record's friends are earnestly requested to send in their letters at least one mail earlier, or even sooner than that if possible, in order to insure the use of the material.

Through her attorney, Justice Webster, Mrs. Rosa Little has been granted a pension of $12 per month. Only five months have elapsed since the application was presented, which is getting the business done with a rapidity unprecedented in the records of those things here.

B. Tenfel and Chas. Curtis of Grass Lake were in town last week buying horses to ship to New York. They purchased five head and Messrs. Starkweather & White helped fill their order. Hopkins Williams of Plymouth sold them his pair of chestnuts, five year old geldings, for $350 cash.

George Stanley is now the sole proprietor of the Fish gold medal having won it for the necessary third time by smashing 21 out of 25 blue rocks in the shoot here Tuesday. Mr. Stanley also made the record of hitting 101 out of 105 rocks in another of the events. Merritt Stanley carried off second honors.

Representative F. S. Neal, of the Northville Record with a party of friends, including E. C. Hineley, manager of the Northville band, were welcome visitors at the School recently. Mr. Neal is a favorite with the boys and is known as the "Butter-Man" on account of the work done by him in our behalf at the session of 1901. The Band played several selections for them—Lansing Industrial School Enterprise.

The Modern Woodmen of America initiated a class of applicants for introduction into the mysteries of Woodcraft at their regular meeting on Monday evening last, and a degree team of the order from Northville took charge of the camp and did the work of initiation, which was very artistically performed. Many visitors from Plymouth, Northville and other places were present.—Wayne Review.

Condemned in Missouri and Confiscated in New York.

Judge Clarke of St. Louis has convicted and fined heavily a number of grocers for selling baking powder containing alum.

The week before the Health Department of New York seized a quantity of stuff being sold for baking powder which they found was made from alum mixed with ground rock, and dumped it into the river.

The Health Authorities are thus taking effective means to prevent the introduction into our markets of injurious substitutes in place of wholesome baking powders.

As alum costs only two cents a pound, there is a great temptation for those manufacturers who make substitutes and imitation goods, to use it. Alum baking powders can be detected by the health authorities by chemical analysis, but the ordinary housekeeper, whose assistance in protecting the health of the people is important, cannot make a chemical examination. She may easily know the alum powders, however, from the fact that they are sold at from ten to twenty cents for a pound can, or that some prize—like a spoon, or glass, or piece of crockery, or wooden ware—is given with the powder as an inducement.

As the people continue to realize the importance of this subject and consumers insist on having baking powder of established name and character, and as the health authorities continue their vigorous crusades, the alum danger will, it is hoped, finally driven from our homes.

A Lost Lieutenant.

Since Second Lieutenant Paul D. Stockly, Twenty-first Infantry, disappeared in a Philippine forest, on Jan. 12, 1901, nothing has been heard from him. The war department has continued his name on the army register, but has now decided to drop it shortly. Had not a block in the promotion of second lieutenants occurred it is said that Stockly's name would have been dropped before this, at present it is No. 14 on the list.

Letters for the following persons are advertised at the postoffice this week:

Romain Gilbert
Benjamin Smith
Frank Allen
John McGraw
Thomas Vrusnicen-Vruwic

The many friends here of Chas. H. Dobbins of Buffalo will regret to hear that he died the 18th inst. He was a former resident of Northville and there are many left here whose remembrances of Mr. Dobbins embrace most sincere esteem for his many excellent traits of character. Mrs. Cass Sanford of Northville, a sister of deceased.

The Record is in receipt of an initial copy of the Wayne News Letter, which is a neat artistically arranged paper, chock full of local and general news. It is published by the News Letter company and its managing editorship is in the hands of C. F. Gee, formerly of the Inlay City Times, whose brother, Prof. Gee of the Wayne schools, is associated with him in the conduct of the paper.

There was a good turnout at the entertainment in the Opera House last Friday night and the frequent encores indicated that the audience was thoroughly appreciative. Chas. Gardner, in particular, getting them at both ends of his appearances on the stage, testifying anew to his well known popularity with Northville audiences. Charlie's German makeup and dialect were peculiarly "fetching" and illustrated his versatility along a new line of stage business.

Thanks from Gleaner Class.

The "Gleaner Class" wish to thank all those who so kindly assisted in making their entertainment a success.

Wonder if it was the same bird that carried off Bert Stanbro's canned fruit? Bert lives pretty near north of Denton and it was the same Sunday night too.

Shotgun Quarantine Against Johnnies.

The authorities of the East Mississippi Female College at Jackson, have taken drastic steps toward keeping the young lady students of the institution from flirting with the boys of the town. They have established a shotgun quarantine around the building and none of the boys are allowed to come around so they can make "goo-goo eyes" at the girls.

Vermonters in the Cabinet.

Vermont has had less than its proportionate share of representation in the cabinet. In 1849 Jacob Collamer of Vermont was for one year postmaster general, and in the Harrison administration, from 1889 to 1891, Redfield Proctor, now one of the Vermont senators, was secretary of war. These are the two cases in which Vermont has received recognition in the cabinet.--New York Sun.

Boston Doctors are Friendly.

The Boston doctors work together in the Suffolk Dispensary in giving free aid to the worthy poor and while using Athlo-phoros have noticed such wonderful effects in relieving and curing rheumatism that they are prescribing Athlo-phoros in their private practice. The doctors are slow to recommend advertised remedies, and will never do so, unless the remedy has very great merit. Athlo-phoros will relieve any case of rheumatism and can be bought of any druggist or of the Company direct.

Cities of Equal Population.

The two cities of Manchester in England and Boston in the United States are almost exactly equal in population, while Birmingham and Baltimore are also very nearly alike.

First Rhine Steamer.

The first steamer on the Rhine--a Dutch one--was in 1822, fifteen years after Fulton had started a steamer service on the Hudson.

Wants Others to Know.

"I have used Dr. Wilt's Little Early Risers for constipation and torpid liver and they are all right. I am glad to endorse them for I think when we find a good thing we ought to let others know it," writes Alfred Heinze, Quincy, Ill. They never gripe or distress. Sure, safe pills. Murdock Bros.

A Country of Gates.

A curious feature to travelers in the high roads of Norway is the great number of gates--upwards of 10,000 in the whole country--which have to be opened. These gates, which either mark the boundaries of the farms or separate the home fields from the waste lands, constitute a considerable inconvenience and delay to the traveler, who has to stop his vehicle and get down to open them.

Great, If It Doesn't Explode.

"I consider the oil discovery in Texas as the greatest thing of its kind ever known to the world," said a man from the Lone Star state recently. "Heretofore no oil has been discovered in Texas as it is down there, and my only fear is that some day there will be a terrific explosion, which will tear open the whole side of the world at that point and put an end to the oil business, Beaumont, everybody in town, and a good sized piece of Texas."

Traveling Is Dangerous.

Constant motion jars the kidneys, which are kept in place in the body by delicate attach. This is the reason that travelers, tralumen, street car men, teamsters and all who drive very much suffer from kidney disease in some form. Foley's Kidney Cure strengthens the kidneys and cures all forms of kidney and bladder disease. Geo. H. Hansen, locomotive engineer, Lima, Ohio, writes: "Constant vibration of the engine caused me a great deal of trouble with my kidneys, and I got no relief until I used Foley's Kidney Cure." Murdock Bros.

Joke Was on Comedian.
Southern, the comedian, was extremely sensitive to interruption of any sort. Seeing a man in the act of leaving his box during the delivery of one of the actor's best speeches, he shouted out:
"Hi, you, sir; do you know there is another act?"

The offender was equal to the occasion, however; he turned to the actor and answered, cheerfully:
"Oh, yes--that's why I'm going!"

Depends on Circumstances.
"Do you think I ought to attempt to reply to those charges?" asked the candidate for office.
"Well, that depends on circumstances," answered the politician. "If they are false, you certainly ought to reply; but if there is anything of truth in them, of course it would be beneath your dignity to notice them."--Chicago Post.

Oral Advertising.
The latest plague to afflict New York city is the "oral advertiser." He has made his appearance on street cars and on ferry boats, and usually advertises some remedy which will cure almost any disease. Passengers in an uptown elevated train were startled by hearing a man cry in a loud voice that "Mothers-in-law are not cranky--they are sick and in need"--then he cried out the merits of a well-known remedy and had disappeared into the next car before the passengers gained their breath and composure.

Too Great a Risk.
In almost every neighborhood some one has died from an attack of cholera or cholera morbus, often before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. A reliable remedy for these diseases should be kept at hand. The risk is too great for anyone to take Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has undoubtedly saved the lives of more people and relieved more pain and suffering than any other medicine in use. It can always be depended upon. For sale by George C. Hueston.

Holds Up a Congressman.

Who Pays the Printer?

When you go around from printer to printer getting bids on a job and then giving it to the lowest bidder, you get an indifferently good job—one with no particularly good points—one that sells no goods for you, then who pays the printer?

YOU DO.

When you pick out a good printer, giving him all your work, educating him to an idea of your needs, and paying a fair price for the work you get, your printer (when secured at the Record Printery) necessarily creates a favorable impression for you and for what you offer, and becomes a factor in selling your goods. Then who pays the printer? Your customer.

THE STRANGER AND THE PRINCESS

BY SEWARD W. HOPKINS

Copyright, 1902, by Seward W. Hopkins

They hurried away, leaving the watchman much relieved.

But now he was in a terrible stew. Not only had he lost his leather jacket and his hat, but his keys were gone. There was no doubt in his now half-sobered mind that the rascal had paid him 5 francs for no other purpose than to obtain his keys and go through the buildings under his care.

"Mon Dieu! Mon Dieu! M. de Bullion!" he groaned.

With all sorts of horrors coming up before his mind, the watchman started out to intercept a policeman. He cried out as he ran and at a nearby corner almost stumbled into the arms of a sleepy guardian of the peace who was almost ready to club the watchman for disturbing his calm and happy meditations.

"Oh, come with me!" wailed the forlorn watchman. "A thief has robbed me of my leather jacket, my slouch hat and my bunch of keys!"

"Well, that is a loss indeed!" growled the officer. "Did this successful thief take a shoe lace as well, or perhaps a buckle from your waistcoat?"

"Oh, indeed this is no jesting matter!" groaned the poor despoiled watchman. "He is a rascal, and with the keys can go through all the new houses of M. de Bullion. Even M. de Bullion himself is in danger, for he sleeps in his office tonight with money to pay his workmen tomorrow."

The police officer was no longer asleep, nor did he feel like joking. He sprang at once into alertness and agility. He blew a whistle and then started on a run for the new buildings, with the watchman puffing in agony at his heels.

"First to the rooms of M. de Bullion!" said the officer.

"Here, here!" groaned the watchman. "Up these stairs!"

A horse's hoofs were heard. A mounted officer had heard the whistle and galloped to the scene. The three excited men swarmed up the stairs.

"This door—this door!" said the watchman.

They tried the door. It was locked. "M. de Bullion, M. de Bullion!" shouted the horse gendarme. "Open this door."

There was no answer.

"Mon Dieu! He is already murdered!" wailed the watchman.

The two officers and the watchman put their shoulders to the door and with a mighty push burst it open. The dingy lamp stood again on the shelf. It was not needed this time. A police bullseye sent a gleam of light into the farthest corners.

"Here! In here!" cried the frenzied watchman.

They followed him into the office of M. de Bullion. They heard him scream. They saw what he had discovered—M. de Bullion dead in his chair.

"Oh! Ha!" shouted the policeman who had been first met by the watchman. "Help here! This door just moved!"

The two sprang toward a closet door. They tore it open. They dragged forth into the light of their police lamps a grungy wretch in a leather jacket and slouch hat, with blood stains on his face and hands.

"The murderer!" they shouted. "And caught almost in the very act! Come, M. le Couturier! You are wanted at the headquarters of the police!"

CHAPTER IV.

BOSSO DUVALLY, CAPTAIN OF THE GUARD.

O Buckford Wallace, who had expected to see a mob of his enemies and to whom the sight of two uniformed police officers was most welcome, the words of the gendarme carried no special significance. He saw at once the mistake that had been made. Instead of the agent of the prefect of police he was looked upon as the murderer of M. de Bullion. He even smiled as he thought of the naturalness of the error.

"You are mistaken," he said, coming forward from his hiding place without fear. "I have done nothing to cause my arrest. I came in here to escape a mob of rascals who were trying to murder me. I found this man sitting dead in his chair."

"Oh, that is a lie!" shouted the excited watchman. "He came to me with a story like that. I, like a fool, loaned him my leather jacket, my slouch hat, my keys. I even told him which door the big brass key unlocked. Oh, oh!"

"I think myself the story is absurd," said the mounted officer. "One does not unlock private doors with stolen keys to escape murderers. One comes to the police for protection."

"In my opinion," said the watchman, "the men he was running away from wanted him for another crime like this."

"Well, it will do no good to stand here and argue," said the officer on the beat. "We must take the fellow to the depot. Let him tell his story there."

"If you feel it to be your duty to place me under arrest," said Buckford, "and I do not blame you in the least, take me at once to the prefecture. My adventures tonight happened while acting under instructions from the prefect of police. He can understand the whole thing."

"Oh, if that's the case, it can soon be settled," said the officer. "Come with me."

"And I," said the other policeman, "will remain until the arrival of the commissaire. You will of course make the report."

"I will attend to that. Now come, my fine fellow, to the prefect. I am anxious to see whether you tell the truth or not."

"But stay!" cried the watchman. "My leather jacket and my slouch hat!"

"Well, what about them?"

"I want them."

"Oh, indeed! Well, what are you, an accomplice of this fellow?"

"The good God forbid! But I want what belongs to me."

"You will get them after we are through using them. A pretty watchman you are! You are as guilty of M. de Bullion's death as his murderer. Your neglect made it possible."

The watchman and one officer remained on the scene while Buckford, in the custody of the other officer, left for the prefecture.

It was nearly midnight when they arrived, and the prefect was not to be seen till morning. The officer made his report, and the prisoner, against his vigorous protest, was thrust into a cell to wait till morning.

He spent a most wretched night and as the weary hours dragged themselves along the humor of his situation died away. He now felt that he was in a most difficult situation. A thousand questions crowded into his busy brain. Suppose the prefect did not recall his face! Suppose the prefect did not believe his story! All depended on the prefect.

In the morning he was taken into the office of the prefect. He found there, beside the prefect of police, the chief of the detective service and a commissaire.

The three looked at him with cold, condemning eyes as he entered. He also saw, standing a little apart, the policeman who had arrested him the night before.

"Is this the man?" asked the prefect of police.

"That is the man," replied the policeman.

"Relate the circumstances of his arrest and explain why he was held to see me personally instead of being sent to the depot of detention."

"I was detrolling my regular post when I was accosted by a very excited man," said the policeman. "He was, it seemed, a watchman employed by M. de Bullion, who was building the large apartment houses in that district. He told me that a man had taken his leather jacket and hat and keys; that he had gone away with them; that he was now undoubtedly trying to rob the houses to which the keys belonged. I will explain that some of these houses are already erected, while of the others only the foundations are up. I whistled for assistance and accompanied the watchman to the office of M. de Bullion. It seems that this M. de Bullion is a peculiar man, who"

"Never mind that. It will all be told at the investigation. What we want now are the facts concerning this man."

"Well, we found M. de Bullion dead in his chair at his desk. This fellow was hiding in a closet. I arrested him. He said he had not killed M. de Bullion, but had gone into the place to escape some enemies of his own who had tried to kill him. He also stated that he had been acting under direct orders from you, M. le Prefect."

The chief of the detectives and the commissaire looked at the prefect with interrogative eyes. The prefect looked sternly and scrutinizingly at Buckford.

"What orders have I ever given you?" he asked.

"Why, don't you remember me? I was here yesterday morning and told you about the conspiracy against the prince who is in Paris incognito."

"Are you that fellow? Well, I must say you have changed in appearance. But, after all, perhaps if you took off that leather jacket and washed your face I could recognize you."

"I would be glad of the chance," replied Wallace.

"I will give you orders to that effect. Now tell us how you came to be in the office of M. de Bullion."

"Why, I went back to M. Jacques' inn last night, as you instructed me. The conspirators had tracked me, it seems, and knew that I had betrayed them to you. They did not, however, let me see this at first. I was invited to meet the president of the order. I was taken to a room back of a bar-dresser's in another square. Here three of the scoundrels attacked me, and I shot two of them. In defending myself I leaned against a door. It opened, and I was precipitated into a cellar. From this I made my way to the rear street. I heard searching parties after me. I saw the watchman sitting near the new buildings. I gave him 5 francs for the use of this jacket and hat. He took the money and was about to go when he returned to get the keys. I kept them to complete the illusion that I was the real watchman. He told me the big brass key was to the door of M. de Bullion's floor and that M. de Bullion did not like to be disturbed. I had no idea then of disturbing M. de Bullion, but the rascals who wanted my life still hung about, and while four of them were there I saw the watchman returning, drunk. I knew he would betray me and hurried away. I thought of M. de Bullion. I resolved to wake him and ask his protection. I knocked on his door, but received no answer. I opened the door with the brass key and found M. de Bullion dead. Then the police came, and I was arrested."

"Remarkable! A remarkable combination of circumstances!" exclaimed the prefect. "Do you not think so, messieurs?"

"I could reply better if I understood this peculiar commission you gave him," said the chief of detectives.

"What was it?"

The professional jealousy of the chief was aroused. He smelled a rat. It was clear that the prefect had attempted to carry on an important case that should properly come under his hand.

"I simply did that to satisfy the man," said the prefect. "He came to me, as he says, with a strange story of a plot against a certain prince now visiting in Paris. I did not believe the yarn, because the prince is neither French nor Russian and could not have so many enemies in Paris. However, I allowed him to continue the investigation, and he was to report to me. This ending of the affair was entirely unexpected."

"To you and to him also, I imagine," said the commissaire dryly.

"The question is," said the chief of detectives, "if he did not murder M. de Bullion, who did murder him? It was done for robbery, no doubt."

"Certainly, for robbery. Commissaire Perrand of that district is making the examination of the premises. I expect him in at any moment."

"I must go there myself," said the chief of detectives. "I have already sent two men, but this case seems destined to become celebrated. It involves the liberty of an American. I will take charge of it myself."

"Is there anything further to be done with this man? What do you think of his story?"

"Well, you yourself corroborate a portion of it. But he should certainly be held pending the investigation. And, as in all other cases, it would be wise to examine his person now."

Buckford was ordered to take off the leather jacket. This revealed his own neat fitting coat, slightly wrinkled from the jacket.

"I will see what he has in his pockets," said the chief of detectives.

A few letters were brought to light and turned over to the prefect. His watch and chain were scrutinized. They were not particularly valuable. A pocketknife, a small bunch of keys, a handkerchief, a fountain pen and some loose change followed.

"Well, you don't carry all your money in one pocket, then," said the detective as he brought out the pocket book that the conspirator had given Buckford the previous day.

"That pocketbook was given to me by the man I met at M. Jacques'."

The detective said nothing, but took the pocketbook to a table and turned out its contents.

"Here is a pretty sum of money—115 francs," he said. "And here are some more papers—what—what is this? Ha, messieurs, we have the murderer of M. de Bullion!"

The commissaire and the prefect sprang to their feet.

"See this!" exclaimed the chief of detectives, handing them two folded papers. They opened them. They were receipted bills! They bore the name of Alphonse de Bullion.

"Well, so instead of being interested in deterring crime, you commit it!" said the prefect. "Now I believe your story was a hoax all the way through. Remove this man to the depot. The judge's instruction will have to take up this case. I am through with it."

Without ceremony poor Buckford was hustled away and in a very short time was locked in a cell in the detention bureau of the Palais de Justice.

Certainly his interest in protecting an unknown prince had led him into a pretty scrape.

The affair became known in the city. The name of M. de Bullion was well known for his wealth and eccentric ways. A murder with so much of the mysterious element in it was a novelty even in Paris, where one breathes mystery with the microbes in the street.

The investigating magistrate was M. Senecal. His interest in his work was supreme. He strived at all times to take up a case absolutely without prejudice. His name was synonymous with fair play. It seemed to be the one fortunate thing of Buckford's misadventure that M. Senecal had charge of the case. It insured a rigid and impartial investigation.

Different magistrates have different ways of going to work. Many would, believing it to be in the interest of justice, have had an interview with the prisoner first. Others would have learned the known facts from the police records.

M. Senecal did neither of these. His experience had shown him that the police records at that stage of the case, or of any case, were almost certain to be incorrect in some important details.

"Well, you don't carry all your money in one pocket, then," said the detective as he brought out the pocket book that the conspirator had given Buckford the previous day.

"That pocketbook was given to me by the man I met at M. Jacques'."

The detective said nothing, but took the pocketbook to a table and turned out its contents.

"Here is a pretty sum of money—115 francs," he said. "And here are some more papers—what—what is this? Ha, messieurs, we have the murderer of M. de Bullion!"

The commissaire and the prefect sprang to their feet.

"See this!" exclaimed the chief of detectives, handing them two folded papers. They opened them. They were receipted bills! They bore the name of Alphonse de Bullion.

"Well, so instead of being interested in deterring crime, you commit it!" said the prefect. "Now I believe your story was a hoax all the way through. Remove this man to the depot. The judge's instruction will have to take up this case. I am through with it."

Without ceremony poor Buckford was hustled away and in a very short time was locked in a cell in the detention bureau of the Palais de Justice.

Certainly his interest in protecting an unknown prince had led him into a pretty scrape.

The affair became known in the city. The name of M. de Bullion was well known for his wealth and eccentric ways. A murder with so much of the mysterious element in it was a novelty even in Paris, where one breathes mystery with the microbes in the street.

The investigating magistrate was M. Senecal. His interest in his work was supreme. He strived at all times to take up a case absolutely without prejudice. His name was synonymous with fair play. It seemed to be the one fortunate thing of Buckford's misadventure that M. Senecal had charge of the case. It insured a rigid and impartial investigation.

Different magistrates have different ways of going to work. Many would, believing it to be in the interest of justice, have had an interview with the prisoner first. Others would have learned the known facts from the police records.

M. Senecal did neither of these. His experience had shown him that the police records at that stage of the case, or of any case, were almost certain to be incorrect in some important details.

and having learned a thing which proved to be false, he then had the difficulty to unlearn it and begin over again. He also had discovered that a prisoner examined in the first heat of his capture invariably made statements that were contrived at the regular examination.

M. Senecal's motto was, "Let them all get their wind, and then I can tell who is lying the most."

This method of M. Senecal's was responsible for a couple of very bad days for poor Wallace. He remained in the depot, fretting, chafing at what he considered an injustice and wondering if the investigation would ever take place and what the result of it would be, for if the police still refused to believe that he had received the purse from the plotter, he saw no way of escaping the charge of murdering M. de Bullion.

Now it so happened that this delay was a good thing in more ways than one for Buckford. On the afternoon of the second day, while he was sitting in his cell, a visitor had come to see M. Senecal.

This visitor was evidently a person of some importance, for he arrived before M. Senecal's door in a fine carriage, drawn by a pair of splendid horses. An obsequious footman bowed him out of the carriage and to the very door of M. Senecal's residence.

But this visitor seemed not to be one who needed a footman either for assistance or for show. He was a young man not more than 24, of rugged build, somewhat tall, well knit and broad-shouldered. He walked with a firm and manly tread and with military erectness.

The card he sent in to M. Senecal meant nothing to that gentleman.

"Boss! Duvally!" said the magistrate, turning the card over in his hand. "What a peculiar name! Not French, I think, but perhaps—yes. Admit him."

The young man entered the presence of the magistrate with a show of good breeding combined with manly independence that pleased the impartial old judge.

"Be seated, M. Duvally," said M. Senecal. "I have not the honor of your acquaintance. I do not even recall your name. To what do I owe the unexpected honor of your visit?"

"To the important fact," said the young man easily, "that you are the investigating magistrate in this case of the American who is under arrest for the murder of M. de Bullion."

"Ah, indeed! Then you are able, perhaps, to shed some light upon the case."

"Unfortunately not. But I wish to do some investigating myself. There are many curious stories about concerning this case, and one of them touches those who are very close to me and who have commanded me to come to you."

"Ah! I am ready to assist you in any way I can, provided, of course, you ask nothing that will defeat the ends of justice."

"No, to serve them rather. But I will not ask you to do anything in the dark. I will be frank with you. You have perhaps heard the name of Count Rockmerville?"

M. Senecal started.

"I have indeed. And the count—as that illustrious person interested in this small affair?"

"He must be, since the story has been told that the young American became entangled in this mystery through his desire to save us—the count and his family—from annoyance and perhaps attack."

Ann Arbor will sound $600,000 in improvements this year besides those on the minds of the students at the university.

Fifteen hundred people were present at the laying of the corner stone of the German Evangelical church at Farmington last week Sunday.

Holly Woodmen have organized a base ball club and expect to prove before the season is over that they are not wood men by any means.

Kalamazoo bakers have struck. They want more yeast in the pay roll, so as to have the labor fight and the wages rise—Adrian Press.

Well, they knead it, don't they?

A 3x100 fish was caught in Detroit river by a Trenton man last week. It was a specimen of the first mentioned length and the latter in avoidance of it narrowly escaped being a whale—else the story did.

Camden's base ball team, which are now organized for the season, and ready to play the whole sphere, are named respectively the Sluggers and the Tigers. There's a good deal in a name, after all.

The base balling business out at Pontiac that it is dangerous to try to knock them on the head, but that it is dangerous to let them play. The Pontiac water is better than the Detroit water, and the Pontiac water is better than the Detroit water.

Pontiac has a back lane, but that fact won't let the building boom which is on over that way. There are only five factories that Pontiac has let go off at present which might be induced to locate there.

Editor T. M. Sherill of the Trenton Times has taken a partner of the type he thought best suited for that position and we hope he will have plenty of proof that he has made a good selection. It is a case that calls for good wishes and here are ours.

Wayne's municipal dads are having their periodical struggle with the problem of street lighting, and are tentatively monkeying with the idea of acetylene illumination, as a substitute for the primitive and apologetic glimmer of kerosene which has so long illustrated the necessity of having something better.

Wyandotte barbers have formed a combination, but it's "no trust." All the shops are to close Thursday nights—presumably so all hands can go to prayer meeting, as all the good Wyandotte folks do—and a uniform scale of prices has been adopted. If any member is so particular as to try to cut the rates it will have to do so it would be a pity to attempt it.

Oxford expects to have a grand time on Memorial day, and among the other attractions promised is a free dinner at the Oxford House for all veterans present. The name of the giver of the dinner is not disclosed, but it is said to say there will be a good turnout of candidates for the honor. The veterans have a good thing of that kind when they can get it as well as they did in the 60's when they had to work harder for it.

Plymouth's Brotherhood of St. Paul might have been excusable if it had anything but feelings of brotherly love one evening recently. An elegant banquet and entertainment was gotten up in honor of some candidates who were to be received into the organization, but the prospective member failed to put in an appearance. The brothers weren't to be cheated out of their dispensation of hospitality that way, so they went out in the highways and bade to their feast the village fire company which was in session. The invite was accepted with the promptitude which characterizes firemen the world over when a call is sent in, and nobody stayed away because he didn't have on his best hose either. They ate like plazes and the slighted banquet was consumed in short order, while the lads wished they could have such a practice every week.

Dangerous If Neglected.

Burns, cuts and other wounds often fail to heal properly if neglected and become troublesome sores. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve prevents such consequences. Even where delay has aggravated the injury DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve effects a cure. "I had a burning sore on my leg thirty years," says H. C. Hartley, Yanketown, Ind. "After using many remedies, I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes healed the sore." Cures all skin diseases. Piles yield to it at once. Beware of counterfeits. Murdock Bros.

Whitney's Opera House.—Detroit.

George Klint and Alma Hearn will appear at the Whitney Opera House next week in the new original love story play called "The James Boys in Missouri," which although possessing a somewhat lurid title is really a dramatic surprise as well as a scenic treat. There is nothing of the cheap melodrama about this production.

Lyceum Theatre.—Detroit.

In the Pike Theatre company's big production of "Under Two Flags" at the Lyceum next week the company will offer its most melodramatic and spectacular play. More than 50 persons are required in the ensemble. The sand storm in this act is the greatest piece of realism ever put into a play. Cigarette's wild ride up the mountain side in full view of the audience the terrific hurricane and the sensational finish make it one of the greatest in any modern play.

Seeking American Motormen.

Manager Davis of the British Electric Traction Trust has sailed for America to secure motormen to work the English street cars. The trust recently secured control of the tram lines in the chief towns of Great Britain, but finds it is unable to operate the lines successfully because of the lack of skilled English workers. The Americans who will be introduced will instruct the Englishmen in American methods.

The Graphophone in Church Work.

To the Rev. Charles Steltze, of the Marham Memorial Mission St. Louis belongs the credit of introducing the graphophone in the field of serious church work, with opportunities and possibilities that are limitless.

Says the St. Louis Chronicle: "A graphophone played a striking part in the services of the Marham Memorial Presbyterian Church Sunday evening. The machine rested on the pulpit and from its mouth came the words of the 23rd Psalm. It was as though from past ages David himself spoke. 'The Lord is my Shepherd, I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; He leadeth me beside the still waters.' The words came as from out of eternity."

Thus in our modern work-a-day world has been wrought a thing that in other days would have been regarded as a miracle, for, through the medium of the graphophone and its waxen cylinders, the words and voices of the world's greatest preachers and teachers may be heard throughout the land. To the smallest and poorest of congregations, to the struggling mission and the most obscure country church words of light and comfort will be brought.

Hard to Tell Chinaman's Age.

How old is a Chinaman? Can you give a good guess? It is harder to tell than the age of a negro. The Chinaman has no beard and his hair is of a jet and glossy blackness, which turns gray only at an extreme age, when a Caucasian head would be either snow white or bald.

Then, again, the Chinese have the most perfect nervous system of any people in the world and do not wrinkle up with age. They can stand any amount of opium smoking without material injury that would send a white man to his grave or an insane asylum. So you have little to go by.

A Chinaman will look 30 when he is 20 and when he is 50. If you ask him his age he will place it at least 10 years ahead, for he holds old age to be honorable, and among his people he will be respected and looked up to by all his juniors.—Washington Post.

His Phonetic Understanding.

"The gravity which is supposed to attend all court proceedings was seriously disturbed in a New York courtroom one day last week," said a young lawyer who had just returned from a business trip to that city. "I was present at the trial of a case before one of the municipal judges—a case in which I was interested because it had to do with automobiles. One of the witnesses was a German, and gave his testimony through an interpreter. In the course of the examination he said he had driven an automobile to Cedarhurst."

"What's that?" asked the judge. "To Cedarhurst," replied the interpreter. "His honor looked puzzled. 'What did he want to see the hearse for?' he asked."

Women Students and Marriage.

President M. Carey Thomas of Bryn Mawr college, in a published letter on the subject of higher education, shows that there are now more than 21,000 women studying in colleges, and that these constitute 27.4 per cent of all college students. Relative to marriage, she says: "College women, like other women, are dependent on men for marriage and the college presidents who enjoin upon us to teach women womanly virtues and educate them to be come wives and mothers should begin by educating their own college men to become husbands."

Cottonseed Has Value.

In 1900 cottonseed added 1.14 cents to the value of each pound of cotton, or $54,000,000 to the wealth of cotton-raisers. The return would have been $80,000,000 if all the seed had been crushed for oil.

Gutta Percha From Peat.

Advices from Germany are to the effect that a very satisfactory artificial gutta percha has been derived from peat, and great things are expected to result from the discovery in cheapening the cost of insulating ocean cables. Gutta percha is the only substance thus far discovered for protecting a wire against the corrosive action of salt water, and the product is not only limited, but is controlled by an English firm of cable manufacturers, who own the forests in the East Indies from which the gutta percha is obtained.

All He Was Enjoying.

A musician of Baltimore, who was very averse to attending social affairs of any kind, was persuaded by a friend to attend a concert one evening, where, unfortunately, the music was very poorly conducted. Late in the evening his friend found him in a corner, with a doleful look upon his face. "You don't seem to be enjoying yourself this evening," said his friend. "On the contrary," he replied, "that is all I am enjoying."

Every Claim Is Backed by Local Testimony.

If the reader wants stronger proof than the following statement and experience of a citizen here at home what can it be? Mrs. I. E. Vanatta, husband bookkeeper in the Dubuay Factory, and living at 66 Randolph St. says: "I most assuredly think Doan's Kidney Pills a remedy of great merit. I was bothered for some time with a dull aching miserable feeling in my back which to say the least was very annoying. In some way Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my notice and thinking if they did not do me any good they would not do me any harm I procured a box at Murdock Bros. drug store and began the treatment. I will cheerfully say this, I derived more benefit from them than any other remedy I ever used."

Fleets Pilgrims.

At this time one catches a passing glimpse of the Indians from the mountains or the interior of the republic, who enter the capital but once a year. They come many miles on foot, carrying their children and family belongings on their backs, and after a brief visit to the shrine at Guadalupe fill their bottles at the holy spring, and are off swiftly and silently as they came.—Mexican Herald.

"Lifting the King."

One of the picturesque English coronation ceremonies which have been discontinued is that of "lifting the king." In the old days the monarch always slept at the palace of Westminster on the night before the coronation. The regalia, which is still, technically speaking, in the possession of the dean and chapter of Westminster, were brought to Westminster Hall in preparation for the ceremony. These were arranged on a long table, the crown, the scepter, the spurs, and so on. The king, when he descended from the palace to Westminster Hall, was lifted by his nobles on a marble chair, which, by the way, perished in the ruins of the houses of parliament when they were burned sixty or seventy years ago.

The lifting of the king into this chair was a survival of the old Saxon custom of carrying the king on his shield. The custom survived up to the time of the coronation of George IV. When the monarch was seated in the chair he at once directed by pointing his finger which one of his nobles should carry the various parts of the regalia to the abbey, and the procession began.

Artificial Island.

A scheme is on foot to create an island in the center of the Lake of Neuchatel, in Switzerland. In the middle of the lake there is a submerged mountain six or seven feet below the water, and it is on this mountain that the island will be constructed. A large hotel will be constructed on the island. The capital, which is already subscribed, will come from England and America.

Beware of a Cough.

Now is the time to get rid of that cough, for if you let it hang on no one can tell what the result may be. Others have been cured of their coughs very quickly by using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mrs. A. J. Da Costa, of Gainesville, Fla. says: "A friend of mine a painter of this town, who was nearly dead with a cough, was cured by one bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He also recommended it to a lady here who was suffering from a severe cough. She gratified him by trying it and was cured by one small bottle." This remedy is for sale by George C. Hueston.

Horses in French Capital.

Last year there were in Paris 96,698 horses susceptible of being requisitioned in time of war. This was the average number for the last few years, but this year the total has suddenly been reduced to 90,296. The decrease of 6,402 horses—sufficient to furnish several cavalry regiments—is entirely attributed to the great progress made by mechanical means of traction.

Humane Work in Porto Rico.

One of the natural results of the introduction of American authority in Porto Rico appears in an active movement for the prevention of cruelty to animals.
