COUNTY POLITICS BEGINNING TO SIZZLE

LOTS OF CANDIDATES ALREADY POPPIN' UP.

Said to 'Be Five—Republicans for County Treasurer.

It is unusual for county politics to begin sizzling so early in the season, but it is to be presumed that the early and vigorous rains which have brought out so many mosquitoes have had a like effect on political aspirants. There's from two to six mentioned for some of the offices and the entries are by no means yet all closed.

For county clerk W. H. McGregor will probably be nearly alone, although there has been talk of Schmidt and others. But "Billy" is pretty foxy and it is conceded that his opposition will not be of a distinguishable size. Ald. Atkinson, it is said, will be his democratic opponent.

Sheriff Dickerson is promised by George Berk a little opposition in the primaries and the democrats will put up Hartz or Burns to go against the winner.

For treasurer there are so far but six republican candidates mentioned. Holmes, Marschner, Haarer, Grant, Wildman and Bauman. The democrats will bank on ex-Ald. Snow to do the business for them.

For register the republican aspirants thus far are Orin P. Gully of Dearborn and "Dick" Lynch of Wyandotte. Seward Treland of Brownstown has also been talked of. The democrats are talking Tromblay of Grosse Pointe and Ayte of Sumpter.

The republican entries for circuit court commissioner, Corlette and May, will find no opposition.

It is conceded that up to date it is a little early to attempt to pick a winner though the races are being carefully watched as they continue to score down the back stretches. A primary election will be held in October and the delegates will then meet and ratify the result of the primary vote.

Chairman Warren of the city committee has not yet called a meeting of his committee to take action on the primary question such as has been done by the county committee, but no doubt he will do so in ample time. The democratic county committee has not yet taken any action on the McLeod primary election question and the probabilities are they will nominate by the usual convention system.

The republican candidates are all in favor of the new primary scheme whereby the voters shall nominate directly and they are all perfectly willing to take their chances with the people.

Advance of the Sparrow.

The much-hated and sometimes maligned English sparrow is gradually making its way all through the western part of the country. It has been seen for some time past in the north-eastern part of New Mexico, and has recently been noticed at Albuquerque. Thus it seems to be spreading south and southwest, and may be expected all over the more temperate part of the western region.

Little Countries in Danger.

They are already talking in Europe of the possibility of Belgium being absorbed by France as the outcome of the socialistic troubles in the former country, and of the temptation that this would be to Germany to annex the Netherlands. In this era of mergers it is just as difficult for the small countries to maintain themselves as it is for the small business concerns.

The Craze for Young Men.

The craze for young men is got to such a stage that advertisements for help read as follows: "Wanted—Young man not over 25, of great experience; permanent employment to right party." Such a youth must have gotten his "great experience" through metempsychosis. He must be the reincarnation of some departed captain of industry.—New York Press.

George Washington's Map.

The original map made by George Washington in 1775 of the lands on the Great Kanawha river, West Virginia, granted to him by the British government in 1763, for his services in the Braddock expedition, is now in the possession of the Library of Congress. The map is about two by five feet, and is entirely in the handwriting of Washington.

ARE LOOKING FOR A LEADER

THE DEMOCRATS DIVIDED ON THE GOVERNORSHIP.

Threats of Bolting Just Like the Republicans.

To date the favorite candidate for governor mentioned by the democrats is Judge Durand of Flint, a law partner of Speaker John J. Carton of the House of Representatives. Durand probably comes nearer being the strongest candidate for that party as a whole than any of the others mentioned unless it would be Peter White of Marquette. Durand is a jurist of no small reputation, was a former Michigan supreme court judge and his ability and integrity are beyond question. He might not be able to secure the election, but that makes it none the less the duty of the democratic party in Michigan to select the best man possible to head that ticket. Judge Durand is a gold democrat, but that ought to make him all the stronger as a candidate. The silver democrats, if they ever hope to win, will have to unite on that kind of a fusion. Mayor Maybury of Detroit is also mentioned as a candidate, but it is generally conceded his strength outside his own city would be no greater than two years ago.

The bosses will probably insist, however, that the nomination shall go to Justin R. Whiting, though Rep. Hemans of Mason and Senator Helme of Adrian are also in the race to the finish.

If Durand is nominated Stearns of the Adrian Press says he will bolt and work and vote for Bliss and so it goes. It sounds for all the world just like the before-the-caucus talk of some of the republicans who were going to jump the race course fence if their favorite was not allowed to be the first under the wire.

Suburban News.

Plymouth is tentatively talking sewer system.

The Pontiac Gazette speaks of a man having assaulted another in an "outrageous" manner. Probably hit 'im in the i.

F. A. Bush, the poet of the Oakland Excelsior has been elected a justice of the peace, but he can continue to court the muse justice well.

The Oakland County Supervisors' picnic has been dated for August 20 and will as usual be the "most successful in the history of the organization." It isn't yet decided where it's going to be, however.

Only thirty aspirants for pedagogical honors aspired at the June examinations in Monroe county, instead of seventy-two last June, and at the March examination there were thirty-seven less than at the same time last year. The Monroe Record ascribes this falling off in the young idea industry to the continued decrease in wages and seems to fear that unless an advance is made in compensation there is going to be a school man famine in this part of the country before many years, as so many other vocations pay better.

The mail boy is now full of circus talk.—Holly Advertiser

That may be true of the Holly youngsters but according to the prevailing newspaper accounts the average s. b. is much oftener to be found full of powder just at this time of the year.

Rev. Lloyd of Northville preached excellent sermons at the Methodist church last Sunday morning and evening.—Orion Review.

Probably thought by the looks of the crowd that it was a hopeless task to preach at the people. It was pretty careless, though, to let the reverend gentleman deliver one of his strong discourses "at" a wooden building like that. And he's used to a brick church, too.

Plymouth recently received a proposition from Detroit parties to light the village with thirty arc lights at $75 per arc, per annum, with a few other little items thrown in by the lighters, such as a fifteen year franchise, exemption from taxation and from competition with the moon, etc., etc., but the corporation daddies decided not to go into the arc. They Noah thing or two, evidently.

Trenton had a Fourth of July celebration and a prize was offered for the two best calthumpian get-ups. Only two contestants for the honor appeared and the prize money—$30—was equally divided between them.

Now a whole lot of folks feel like calthumpian a thump on 'em because they didn't read the local paper and find out about the chance to get that cash for fixing up a little and "joining the process."

The 'Slant' correspondent of the Ann Arbor Courier-Register remarks that "nothing but noise was heard in Ypsilanti the Fourth." It will perhaps occur to reflective persons to wonder if anything but noise was ever heard anywhere on any day. But then our friends the scientific fellows tell us that there isn't any such thing as noise where there are no tympanums for the sound waves to wave against, so maybe that's only a delicate way of saying there was a big crowd at Ypsi that day.

That good old annual item about the highway overseer and his liability to a fine of twenty-five plunks if weeds and things go to seed along the roadside has commenced its periodical round of the state papers. It is suggested, no doubt by the familiar and flourishing crops of the taboored vegetation all over the country, which bear evidence of how rigidly (?) the law was enforced last year. And the same profusion of disreputable botanical specimens will go right on perpetuating themselves same's ever, probably, in spite of the efforts of the country press. Ever hear of one of those fines being collected?

Increase—John Mock, Springport, $12; Hiram G. Webster, Lacey, $12; Abraham Crampton, Northville, $10; Aaron Bryant, Detroit, $10; Moses P. Parker, Sugar Grove, $8; Frank Dunn, Perry, $10; James A. Gardner, Romeo, $14; Burton H. Snell, London, $8; Hanford R. Injured in the Mills.
Alpena, Mich., July 17.—Joseph O'Brien, one of Alpena's best known millmen, was probably fatally injured by a breaking belt at the Masters mill Wednesday afternoon. His skull is crushed, his leg broken and internal injuries were also sustained. Clyde Fleeger, an engineer at the Alpena cement factory, while working in one of the big engines late yesterday afternoon in some unaccountable manner got his head between two cogwheels. His skull was fractured, his scalp torn off and an arm broken in the attempt to save himself. No hopes are held out for his recovery.

After the Oleo Offenders.
Lansing, Mich., July 17.—The officers of the dairy and food department are preparing to swoop down on the violators of the anti-colored oleomargarine law. Many prosecutions commenced in various counties are pending in the circuit courts pending the verdict of the supreme tribunal on the case appealed to it. Copies of the decision of the supreme court holding the law constitutional are being placed in the hands of all dealers, who will be considered wilful violators of the law if they persist in selling the prohibited article.

Panel Secured at Last.
Detroit, Mich., July 17.—After exhausting three panels, the first having been "exhausted" by Judge Murphy himself with one swoop of his judicial authority, and exhausting a fourth with the exception of one man, twelve men have been secured to try Frank C. Andrews on the charge of misappropriation of funds of the City Savings bank. There remains a question still over one man who has a relative who is ill and may interfere in his serving.

Found Dead on the Track.
Lapeer, Mich., July 17.—The remains of an unknown man were found about four miles west of Lapeer on the Grand Trunk Western track Wednesday. A train had passed over with a body, which was gathered up with a shovel and placed in a box and brought here for burial. He was about thirty years of age, had dark hair and a swarthy complexion. There was nothing by which he could be identified.

Shot Himself Instead of Cat.
Hartford, Mich., July 17.—Leonard Lee, colored, was accidentally shot and killed while attempting to kill a cat at his home here yesterday. He was chasing the animal across the yard with an old musket passing under a peach tree the gun hammer caught on a limb, the charge entering his right breast. Death was almost instantaneous.

$25,000 Fire at Port Huron.
Port Huron, Mich., July 17.—Fire last night destroyed the warehouse of Lovejoy & Allen and twelve boxes owned by the Grand Trunk system in the Pere Marquette yards, entailing a loss of $25,000. The warehouse was owned by Henry Morrison and is insured.

Fell Off a Log—Drowned.
Traverse City, Mich., July 17.—Reginald Loverman, nine years old, fell off a log at Boardman's lake Tuesday night while fishing and was drowned.

Negro Assaulter Burned at Stake.
Clayton, Miss., July 17.—William Ody, a negro who last night attempted to assault Miss Virginia Tucker of this place, was burned at the stake at midnight. The assault was most brutal. The young lady was hiding in the country when he was attacked and was so violently pulled from a buggy by the negro that both of her legs were broken. The negro was captured and was held by a posse. Miss Tucker is highly connected in this vicinity. She is at the point of death as a result of her injuries.

Stole Turkish Crown.
San Francisco, July 17.—A porch-climber entered the residence of French Consul-General De Lemagne and got away with diamond and jewelry worth $3,500. Altogether eighty-three pieces of jewelry were stolen. The robber took the green crown of Turkey, a gold and enamel emblem with which M. De Lemagne had been decorated. This decoration is merely loaned, and upon death of the recipient is to be returned to the sultan. This was a heavy piece, worth as gold $400.

Their Monument Destroyed.
Butler, Pa., July 17.—Like the Bidle brothers themselves, the monument erected by unknown hands to their memory on the spot where the two notorious criminals fell victims of a posse's bullets in Franklin township, this county, is no more. Industrious relic hunters have backed and chopped the stone until today nothing remains.

Story of a Stick.

The reformers who hold up the German army as a pattern to be admired will perhaps allow that even its excellent discipline has some drawbacks. Among the many regulations of the military code is one which forbids any body to present himself before a recruiting officer with a cane in his hand. Some days ago a recruit so far forgot himself as to enter the office of a recruiting sergeant major accompanied by his walking stick. For this heinous offense the unfortunate recruit was promptly court-martialed and sentenced to ten weeks' imprisonment for insubordination.

Live in Extinct Crater.

There is no more interesting or curious sight on this earth than the interior of the extinct crater. Also San, about thirty miles from the city of Kumamoto, in Japan. It is inhabited by 20,000 people who live and prosper within its vertical wall 800 feet high. The inhabitants rarely make a journey into the outer world but form, as it were, a little nation by themselves.

Ping-Pong in Paris.

Ping pong has arrived in Paris, and society men cannot go anywhere without being lassoed into a game of ping-pong, so they have formed an anti-ping-pong league. The members wear a distinctive button so that the ladies cannot feel offended when members refuse to play since they have sworn never to participate in this foolish, unmanly English pastime.

Squaw's Indian Dress.

A dress owned by a Kiowa Indian squaw was sold in El Reno, Okla., for $1,000, and the purchaser thinks he was lucky to get it at that price. It is lavishly decorated with elk teeth, which are becoming almost as valuable as pearls, and the squaw, like many of her paleface sisters, thought that $1,000 was altogether too much money to be invested in one dress.

AROUND THE CIRCLE

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TO TOUR THE COUNTRY NEXT FALL

Will Visit Nearly Every State East of the Rockies—Previous Tours of Chief Executives—Presidents Who Liked to Travel.

When President Roosevelt starts out next fall to make his projected swing around the circle, he will be following the example set by many of his illustrious predecessors. The president has received many invitations to visit various sections of the country during the summer and fall, and if he finds time to fulfill his engagements he will before November have visited nearly every state in the Union except those in the Rocky mountains and on the Pacific slope.

Plans already made contemplate the most important swing around the circle made by a president in many years. The real beginning of Mr. Roosevelt's peregrinations will be in late August, when he will visit Maine and Vermont, where elections are held in early September.

The president is expected to make two speeches in Maine and one or two in Vermont. Following the New England tour, the president will start late in September for the northwest. He has accepted invitations to speak in Detroit, Minneapolis, Illinois, Missouri and Iowa.

Late in October the president will start on a long trip through the south west and will probably go as far as San Antonio. On the way he will enjoy a big bear hunt in the swamps of Mississippi. Altogether the president has planned a very busy fall, and in every city and town in the Union does not see him and hear his voice before next November it will not be because they have not invited him.

The custom of taking long excursions through the country by presidents is much older than is generally believed. Washington had seen nearly all of the Union north of the Carolinas before he became president, and both of the Adamses were great travelers in their time.

President Monroe was the first to conceive the idea of making a extensive journey through the states while president. During one of his vacations he undertook to travel in his carriage northward through New England and then westward as far as Ohio. It was a tedious journey. No special invitations were extended anywhere, but he was cordially received everywhere. The sight of a president was rare in those days.

Andrew Johnson was the first of recent presidents to make a long journey through the country. He delivered speeches from an open carriage in which he was driven through many large towns.

Johnson left Washington in September, 1865, to attend the laying of the cornerstone for the Stephen A. Douglass monument in Chicago. On his outward trip he stopped, among other places, at Baltimore, Philadelphia, Albany, Cleveland and Detroit. He returned by way of Louisville and Cincinnati, taking three weeks for the trip.

President Hayes traveled through the south soon after his plan of reconstruction was adopted. Garfield was starting on a trip when he was shot.

President Harrison made more trips than any of his predecessors. In 1891 he made his trip across the continent, taking thirty days. He traveled almost 10,000 miles and made 110 addresses.

In April 1901, the late President McKinley made a trip extending over 15,000 miles, going to the Pacific coast by way of the south. He made speeches in the principal cities.

The trains on which presidents travel in these days are marvels of equipment and mechanical perfection. Everything is done to make the journey as comfortable as possible. Besides the invited guests of the president a corps of newspaper correspondents are provided with quarters, and these are the busiest men on the train. Whenever the president makes a speech these alert newsgatherers are on hand to telegraph his words all over the country.

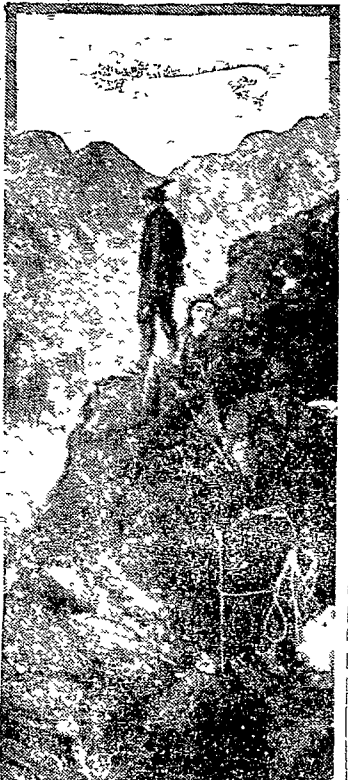

Every move of the president is known to the world from the time the wheels first begin to turn until the traveler returns to Washington.

Perils of the Alps.

Large Increase of Death Roll in Recent Years

THE Alpine mountain climbing season opened this year with an early tragedy in which two lives were lost. In spite of all precautions on the part of the Swiss authorities it is quite probable that other accidents will follow.

Climbing the Alps is still a dangerous pastime, it seems. It is perilous fun, at least for those who are physically unfit. Yet each summer scores of tourists, among them many Americans, nonchalantly risk their lives every day simply because it is considered "the proper thing" to have scaled an Alpine peak. Hundreds more would take the same risk were it not for the fact that Alpine guides have a high regard for the safety of their own necks and often decline the task of plotting over dizzy ledges stout, foolish, middle-aged gentlemen with more dollars than sense, more money than muscle.

A successful, level-headed business man would hardly be induced to climb out of his attic window, "shine" up the edge of a slate roof and walk the length of the ridgepole. But let him get into Switzerland, let him listen to tourists' yarns, allow him to contract the Alpine climbing fever and he is willing to attempt feats which would make walking a ridgepole seem tame indeed.

Notwithstanding the number of accidents that attest to the danger of climbing the Alps the number of climbers is constantly increasing. The report of the French Alpine club shows that 119 persons lost their lives during 1901 while climbing the Alps, more than double the number for the previous year.

Most of the accidents occurred in the neighborhood of Chamounix and were due to the foolishness and inexperience of tourists. The number of accidents suffered by experienced climbers was comparatively small. The increase of fatalities would seem, therefore, to be not so much a question of danger as of inexperience and folly.

Switzerland and the Tyrol are becoming the holiday ground for more and more people every year. From every part of the world the tourists come, enthusiastic to hunt the place of "the white death," the terrible name that clings about the glaciers and precipices of the Alpine passes.

During the year 1901 more than 2,000,000 sightseers registered in the Alpine districts of Switzerland. In view of this great influx of visitors the increased number of accidents is exactly what might have been expected.

Where one tourist attempted to scale a rocky mountain side or a glacier ten years ago there are twenty or perhaps fifty nowadays. It is estimated that 50 per cent of the accidents last year occurred to persons who were in Switzerland for the first time. With the delusion that anybody with an alpenstock and a pair of hobnailed boots can scale a precipice, these inexperienced climbers are so confident of their own ability that they often will not take the precaution to hire a competent guide.

The last recorded death of an American was on Aug. 23, 1901. Miss Wickham Smith of Brooklyn had started for a trip over the Furka pass. She longed to see the great ice cavern rising in a majestic blue arch above a rushing stream of the river Rhone. In this instance the accident that led to death was a novice due to the carelessness of the climber. It is frequent in its happening in the Alps. It came up for discussion at the entrance of the grotto she was struck by a huge falling sheet of ice. The force of the blow was tremendous, felling her instantly.

Dr. W. M. Crook of England, secretary of an Alpine club and a man of long experience in climbing, slipped on a glacier of the Matterhorn last August and fell down a crevasse in which the snow was sixty feet deep. He was completely buried and lay there helpless for four hours until rescued by his companions. He lived only a few days.

About the same time Herr Huthaler, president of an Alpine club in Vienna, fell over a precipice on the Fithaler Weg, which was named after him during the last ten years. He was instantly killed. The same day two members of the club, an artist named Spotel and an official named Meizer, started up the Kurwandelgebirge and never returned. The mountains were thoroughly searched, but no traces of their bodies were found.

The number of people who are missing is extraordinary. Tourists start off cheerfully and recklessly and are never seen again. Of the 119 fatalities last year only about one third of the bodies were recovered.

The large number of fatalities last year roused the Alpine Rescue society to introduce new measures to protect amateur mountain climbers in spite of themselves. The Swiss Alpine club is also taking measures in the same direction. Cabins are being erected in dangerous places, and signboards warning against hidden crevasses have been set up.

Since 1860 the fatal accidents that have occurred upon the Swiss mountains up to the end of the century made a total of nearly 200. The last two seasons have about equaled that number, so it is imperative that the tourist be guarded against the consequences of his own folly.

Oberammergau's Visitors.

Oberammergau used to be deserted by tourists, except in the years of the Passion performances. It is now becoming a regular summer resort, about five hundred persons having spent the hot months there this year.

Mother Always Keeps It Handy.

"My mother suffered a long time from distressing pains and general ill health due primarily to indigestion," says L. W. Spaulding, Verona, Mo. "Two years ago I got her to try Kodol. ## A Good Hearted Man, or in other words, men with good sound hearts, are not very numerous. The increasing number of sudden deaths from heart disease, daily chronicled by the press, is proof of the alarming prevalence of this dangerous complaint, and as no one can foretell just when a fatal collapse will occur, the danger of neglecting treatment is certainly a very risky matter. If you are short of breath, have pain in left side, smothering spells, palpitation, unable to lie on side, especially the left, you should begin taking

Rev. Thomas B. Hyde of Cincinnati urges women to take into their own hands the matter of proposing matrimony, holding that many more marriages would result from such a course. ### Senator Depew's Change of Heart.

At the dinner given at the Montauk club, Brooklyn, to celebrate the 61st birthday of Senator Depew, the senator said: "When I was 21-I thought a man of 40 very old and that he ought to retire. When I was 40 I thought a man of 60 had grown senile and worthless. When I got to be 60 I reversed my opinion and thought that 50 and 40 and 30 and 20 knew little of the pleasures of existence and the utilization of cultivated power."

Unfortunately, she—Then a corner results from people selling stocks they haven't got? The "amb"—Yes, and it results in their losing money they haven't got.—Brooklyn Life.

Long Hair

DIDN'T PAY AS ASSESSED

M. C. R. R. PAID LESS TAXES THAN COMPUTED.

INSIST CHARTER OF 1846 IS CORRECT ONE TO FIGURE UNDER.

BALANCE IN STATE TREASURY AT HIGHEST POINT IN HISTORY.

Lansing, Mich., July 17.—The Michigan Central Wednesday paid the state $385,425 in taxes on the main and leased lines for the current year, based on last year's earnings. This is $27,942 more than the company paid last year. This payment makes the state treasury balance $4,197,451, several hundred thousand dollars in excess of any previous high mark.

As compared with last year, the total of the Michigan Central taxes is $37,947.53 greater; the taxes on main line earnings, $25,850.99 greater, and the taxes on leased lines $10,866.24 greater.

In his certification to the auditor-general of the taxes due, Railroad Commissioner Osborne computed the tax on the main line under the general law and made it $282,593.61 instead of $225,136.89, the amount paid yesterday.

On this point the company advised the auditor-general as follows:

"With respect to the Michigan Central Railroad company, the commissioner of railroads appears to have made his computation in accordance with the provisions of act No. 228 of the public acts of 1897. It is respectfully submitted that the Michigan Central company is not subject to the provisions of said act or liable to taxation thereunder; and said company insists that the only lawful basis for computing the taxes payable by it is as provided by section 33 of its charter act No. 42 of the laws of 1846, as amended by act No. 179 of the public acts of 1893, and that the sum of $225,136.89 is the correct amount payable by said company."

"The commissioner of railroads probably made his computation under the act of 1897, because the Michigan Central company paid taxes for that year in accordance with the provisions of that act, but at the time said payment was made, said company notified the state treasurer in writing that it did not thereby concede that it was subject to said act of 1897, and insisted that the legal basis for computing taxes payable by it was said section 33 of its charter as amended, and that it did not waive the right to insist that said section 33 of its charter so amended was in full force and effect."

"In view of the subsequent litigation and legislation this company feels compelled, in due protection of its interests, to pay only such taxes as are required by law."

BLIND-RHYMIC THE WINNER.

Carried Off the M. & M. $10,000 Stake at Blue Ribbon Races.

Detroit, Mich., July 16.—By trotting true as a die, the blind stallion Rhythmic yesterday joined the select list of winners of the Merchants and Manufacturers' $10,000 "Stake" race. There was no semblance of a contest to it, nothing but three distinct announcements by Mr. Hayt repeating the name of the winner of the heats. It was the thirteenth renewal of the classic, and for that reason, perhaps, it was about the worst one that has ever been given to a crowded stand and lawn.

An ideal day, a card of nine races with some of the best horses in the world in each event, the deciding heat of the Chamber of Commerce stake and the great $10,000 M. & M. stake race all combined yesterday to make a new record for the Detroit Driving park.

The 2:15 trot was the first event Silver Sign carried away the purse. The final heat of the Chamber of Commerce stake came next, with Direct Hal an easy winner. Dick Benson's gelding, The Roman, was settled upon as the winner of the 2:19 trot, which was the third event. Chimes carrier away honors of the 2:07 pace. Greenline won the 2:20 pace. The starters numbered eighteen in the 2:11 pace. Dick See was the winner. Only one heat of the 2:11 trot was run. "Palm Leaf" and "Knap" McCarthy qualified.

Spiritualists in Camp.

Holland, Mich., July 16.—Hundreds of people are daily flocking out to the spiritualistic camp on the banks of Black river where a convention of the brethren is now in progress and where seances are held twice a day. Similar assemblies are being held in different states. A. A. Carpenter of Detroit, who is in camp here, is authority for the statement that the adherents of his religion in Michigan have grown from 1,600 ten years ago to 100,000 at the present time. The sincerity and enthusiasm of the members is the wonder of all visitors to the camp.

Hanged in a Boxcar.

Muskegon, Mich., July 16.—An unknown man, about fifty-five years old was found hanging in a boxcar near Fairport Junction. ## WAS BADLY DISABLED

VETERAN WARSHIP MICHIGAN IN A COLLISION.

STRUCK BY BIG FREIGHTER AT HER DOCK IN ERIE, PA.

WILL NOT INTERFERE WITH THE CRUISE OF NAVAL RESERVES.

Erie, Pa., July 16.—An accident happened to the United States steamer Michigan at 10:30 Tuesday that was quite serious.

The Michigan was laying at her dock when the freighter M. B. Grover, hove in from the Pittsburgh dock. While under full headway, full for the Michigan, the captain of the Grover, evidently lost control of his boat, for she stove into the Michigan, driving her down the bay fully 150 feet.

The crash was a terrific one. The nose of the Grover ploughed into the Michigan, tearing her from her fastenings and held her in front while the Grover carried her all that distance. There was great excitement aboard the war vessel. The collision was unexpected, and naturally enough the crew were demoralized by the abruptness of the thrilling event. Splinters flew and threshed about and the air was full of debris.

Commander Winder of the Michigan estimates the loss at $10,000. This includes the rubbing of two six-pound Drugg Schroeder rapid fire guns of an improved pattern and a whaleboat valued at $400.

Commander Winder at once wired the navy department at Washington of the accident, and says the ship will be out of commission several months while undergoing repairs.

The accident to the Michigan will prevent the annual cruise of the naval cadets at Detroit, and she will be unable to carry the special committee appointed to select a site for a naval training station on the great lakes.

Captain C. R. Baker of the Grover, it is said, places the blame on Second Engineer James Murray. The boat was moving toward a fuel dock near the Michigan berth, and he signalled to reverse the engines. Instead Murray gave full speed ahead.

Detroit, Mich., July 16.—Lieutenant Bingley R. Fales of the Detroit Naval Reserves, in the absence of Commander Hendrie at Grand Rapids, stated last night that there had been a misapprehension as to the cruise of the reserve. The cruise has been the custom will be taken on the Yantic and the accident to the Michigan will not affect the summer cruise; beginning on Aug. 11.

Commander Winder of the Michigan was to accompany the Yantic on the trip to Mackinac, as he is usually detailed for government inspection. Lieutenant Fales said "The Detroit reserves were to have their target practice on board the Michigan in the Straits of Mackinac. Perhaps that detail will be altered and the practice will be taken on board our own boat but in no other way will our cruise be interfered with."

Taken Away by Cholera.

Menominee, Mich., July 16.—A cablegram has been received from the Philippines by Mr. and Mrs. Anton Leanna telling of the death of their son Ephie, who was bugler in Company F Twenty-eighth infantry U. S. Regulars. A letter was received from Ephie at the same time as the cablegram saying that the cholera had been all wiped out in his regiment and that he was in the best of health. When word of his death was received at the same time as the letter in his own handwriting, it gave a great shock to his mother, from which she has not yet fully recovered. The deceased was twenty years old and enlisted four teen months ago on April 11. He still had twenty-two months to serve.

Clearly Gets Three Years.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 16.—In the superior court yesterday, James Clearly was sentenced to three years in Jackson for burglary. Clearly is 46 years old. Dr. McGee saw the inconsistency and now signs W. J. McGee.

Lost the Lord's Nickel.

A little boy who goes to Sunday school every Sunday always receives a nickel from his father to place in the collection plate. Last Sunday his father gave him two nickels, saying, "One is for the Lord and the other is for yourself." As it was for early to start for Sunday school the little boy sat on the porch steps in the warm sunshine playing with the two nickels. After a while he dropped one of them and it disappeared down a crack. Without a moment's hesitation and still clutching the remaining coin in his clenched fist, he looked up at his father exclaiming, "Oh, pop! There goes the Lord's nickel!"

The J. L. Hudson Co.,

DETROIT.

“THE BIG STORE.”

MICHIGAN.

Kind Words from the Press of Wayne County.

[Ed Detroit Journal, June 1, '02.] Representative Frank S. Neal was renominated at Northville on a platform pledging him to primary election reform. Representative Neal was a valuable member of the last legislature and voted for the Colby primary election law.

[Wayne News-Letter, June 20, '02.] The platform on which Representative Frank S. Neal was nominated at Northville Monday is good enough for anyone. It pledged him to primary election reform. He was a valuable member of the last legislature and there isn't a doubt of his reelection as he is popular with all classes.

[Trenton Times, June 20 '02]

F. S. Neal was renominated upon the first ballot. This is a deserved compliment to Mr. Neal, and one that will be emphatically emphasized at the polls next fall. There are but few of the members of the last legislature that should be returned, and Mr. Neal is one of that few, for he has a clear head on his shoulders and has the purpose to serve faithfully his constituents.

[Plymouth Mail, June 20, '02]

Rep. Neal was two years ago given a majority in the district of 855 perhaps the largest ever given in the district to a republican candidate. There is no reason to suppose that his majority will be any less this year, unless the republicans stay at home in the off year. His work in the legislature was in the interest of the people and not the interest of lobbyists and politicians.

[Detroit Free Press, June 17, '02]

Representative Neal was elected two years ago by one of the very largest majorities ever conceded to a candidate for legislative honors in this district. He served with credit all through the term and was honored by being made a member of the ways and means committee, something unusual for a new member. He has been the successful publisher of the Northville Record for nearly a dozen years.

Where Minerals Are Plenty.

Terra del Fuego is full of minerals, among which is no small proportion of gold. That there is to be a boom in mining down in that part of the world there is no doubt. When the discoveries shall be made which will accomplish this result no one can predict, but there are in movement operations which at any time may result in such discoveries as will attract attention.

Beginning and End.

A certain gilded youth, seriously smitten by the charm and grace of a demure-looking country damsel, ventured to remark: “How I wish you would give me that ring upon your finger. It exactly resembles my love for you—it has no end.” “Excuse me, sir,” replied the fair one, “I think I will keep it, for it is also emblematic of my love for you—it has no beginning.”

NORTHVILLE.

The City in Brief.

Regular meeting of Orient chapter No 77, O. E. S. this Friday evening. William H. Ambler has been very sick this week, but is now somewhat better.

The Democratic township caucus is announced for Thursday, July 24, in the village hall.

The Knights Templar will not hold any meetings until the regular in September. By order E. C. C. M. Joslin.

The L. O. T. M. are to give a party in Princess rink this Friday evening. Tunham's orchestra will furnish the music. The bill is half a dollar.

Harry German, while entertaining a number of guests July 4th, lit a roman candle at the wrong end. His pitching arm is now on the sick list—Carleton Times.

Greig Taft was quite badly hurt Monday by a fall from a bicycle while having a race down Dunlap street with one of his young companions. He is now out again.

It seems that our agricultural reporter didn't see straight last week in reporting Mr. Christensen's wheat field being ready for the gleaner. Charles Yerkes cut a nice field last week and was probably the first man in this vicinity to get a harvest at work this year.

A Northville reckless merchant offers 1,000 matches for five cents. Seems funny. There are a dozen fair ladies there just ready to take the old maid's degree in the Sorority, who would give fifty dollars each just for one real good match and they'd pay spot cash in a twinkling.—Adrian Press.

This season's pillow tops one-half price at Miss Bovee's.

Rounds out the hollow places; smooths out lines that creep about one's face; wools roses back to faded cheeks. That's what Rocky Mountain Tea does. 35 cts. Murdock Bros.

The Northville Foresters will join in a big rally with the Pontiac lodge on August 14th.

Judge Webster has secured a pension of $12 a month for Mrs. Castarah Guthrie, widow of John Guthrie.

Lost—Maltese cross gold plated watch chain. K. P. on one side. K. O. T. M. on other. Was lost Saturday near opera house. Finder please leave at Record office and get reward.

David Goodale died Sunday at the home of James Smith, where he had been a boarder for some time. He was born in England 51 years ago. The funeral was held at the home of his son near Northrop's corners, Rev. W. H. Lloyd officiating.

Northville has a new base ball team recently organized and the boys are confident that they will be able to do some good playing when they get the chance. The nine is lined up as follows. Forrest Kator, captain, Mark Willis, 1b, Fred Kohler, 2b; Forrest Kator, 3b; Len Kimmel, s s; Ernest Crocker, r f, Elmer Armitage, c. f, Albert Armitage, l f; Earl Brockett, pitcher; Louis Lanning, catcher.

While waiting for the afternoon P. M. train at Holly Monday on his way home from Genesee county, Harry Harmon of this place was the first to make the ghastly discovery of the mutilated body of Daniel Springer on the pilot of the engine. A severe storm was raging and the engineer knew nothing of the accident until arriving at Holly. Springer was 80 years old and slightly deaf. He was visiting in Holly, his home being in New York state. One of his legs was found near the track half a mile back from the depot. That was probably the place where he was struck by the engine.

The wet season and the recent hot spell have produced one vigorous crop, whatever has been done to the rest of the growing things. The oldest inhabitant can scarcely give any pointers on telling mosquito stories this summer. The pests have never been so numerous and industrious in Michigan since the early days of undrained swamps and "fever" ager. The bloodthirsty little beasts are so indefatigable and ubiquitous that for people to sit out on porches or lawns in the evening is practically out of the question without the old fashioned "smudge," which used to keep the insects at bay previous to the advent of window and door screens. It's a question of being devoured or of putting out your eyes with smoke.

Allen, the stove repairer, had a rather exciting as well as somewhat expensive experience one day last week while plying his vocation out on the base line west of town. He was doing some work which required using the gasoline burner in his wagon, when the horse became uneasy on account of the fumes and started up, tipping the inflammable fluid over in the wagon which was instantly in a blaze. The horse immediately wanted to get away of course and ran wildly down the pike with its flaming freight, with the owner in hot pursuit of his not out fit. Miss Millie Wilkinson saw the lively conflagration coming and was heroic enough to run out and catch the frightened animal and hold it until Mr. Allen reached the scene and succeeded in untackling. The wagon was damaged to the tune of $35. No insurance.

"I suffered for months from sore throat. Electric Oil cured me in twenty-four hours." M. S. Gist, Hawesville, Ky.

A number of Northville people attended the Blue Ribbon races in Detroit this week.

Special communication of Northville lodge, No. 186, F. & A. M. Monday evening, July 21. Work M. M. degree. Ice cream and cake at close of work.

Contractor Bovee is putting up a big brick store for S. W. Kingsley at Romulus. Herb Hughes of this place and E. Brigham of Plymouth are helping him.

The Dubuair factory nine got away with the shoemen in great shape in the ball game Saturday afternoon and in the evening the victors were treated to ice cream soda by J. A. Dubuair.

A jolly picnic party of ten or a dozen Northville people visited at the Wheeler cottage at Walled Lake Tuesday, and it is superfluous to remark that they had a pleasant time.

But very few people from the country attended the Elk's Carnival or the Pompeii fireworks at Detroit this week, undoubtedly owing to the fact that the attractions were not advertised in the country press.

Vern Calkins is developing some rare talent as a sketch and letter artist. His work in filling out the diplomas for the class of '02 was equal to a copper plate engraving. He is also very adept in portrait work.

In connection with the garbage question a well known Northville citizen calls attention to the fact that a little earth sprinkled on the refuse from the kitchen as it is piled in the back yard will remove all the bad effects.

Howard Hills of Lansing, formerly of this place, is making quite a name as an inventor, while still pursuing his trade as a barber. Patents for improved hair clippers and one or two varieties of lanterns are among those he has secured.

The W. R. C. held a special meeting Monday evening for the initiation of three new members. Ice cream and cake were served after the work and a pleasant social time enjoyed. The organization is in a very flourishing condition.

Charlie Blackburn has been carrying around a bad black eye as the result of an encounter with a trolley pole while leaning from the running board of an open electric car. He would very likely have been killed had it not been for the prompt action of F. J. Perkins, who happened to be where he could seize hold of him and save him from being thrown off the car. It happened Sunday afternoon.

A young lady visited a cooking school recently and her attention was divided between a dress worn by a friend and directions for making cake. So when she undertook to write the recipe for her mother, the old lady was paralyzed to read the following. "Take two pounds of flour, three rows of plating down the front, the whites of two eggs cut bias, a pint of milk ruffled round the neck, half pound currants, with seven yards of head trimming, grated lemon peel with lace fillet, stir well and add a semi-fitting pafetot with visite sleeves, garnish with icing and passermenterie. Bake in a moderately hot oven until the skirt is tacked from the waist down on either side, and finish with large satin rosettes."

Grandnephew of Savarin. Among the candidates for office in the coming French elections is a grand-nephew of that Brillat Savarin, the famous epicure, who wrote a classic on cookery. His relative is opposing the re-election of Baudin, the French minister of public works. Brillat-Savarin was a great lawyer as well as a past master in the culinary art, and all his family have been lawyers.

Wise Postoffice Rules. One of the strict rules of the Post Office Department is that the names of the following states and territories shall never be abbreviated in the directing of a letter: Alaska, Hawaii, Idaho, Iowa, Ohio, Oregon, Samoa and Utah. The reason is obvious, Ala. might be mistaken for Alabama, Id. for Indiana, O for either Ohio, Oregon or Oklahoma, Io for Idaho, etc.

To All Whom It May Concern.

I have no agents canvassing the country for Water Color, Crayon and India Ink enlargements or other work, and am not connected in any way, am glad to say, with a firm who claim headquarters at Brown's old studio and various other places in Northville. I do make enlarged portraits in Water Color, India Ink, etc., at living prices. No cheap work done here. Will be pleased to show you samples at my studio, 70 Center St., Northville. D. G. Barnour.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome left Thursday for Orleans, N. Y. Rev. D. McNair of Wayne will preach for the next two Sundays.

Mrs. Jerome's Bible class held a very pleasant picnic at W. H. Yekes' on Saturday afternoon. Croquet and ping-pong occupied the attention of the company and a photograph was taken by Mr. Hueston.

Methodist Church Notes.

[By the Pastor.]

The Epworth League will give an ice cream social on the parsonage lawn Saturday evening of this week.

Pastor Lloyd will preach Sunday morning on "Gospel Reflectors," and Rev. Jas. McGee, who is visiting his people in Farmington, will preach in the evening. Mr. McGee is rapidly gaining a wide-spread reputation as a pulpit orator of uncommon ability, and we are confident that Northville people will appreciate this opportunity of hearing him.

There were but two members of the official board present besides the pastor last Monday evening, and as no business was transacted it becomes necessary to call another meeting for next Monday evening. It is important that every member of the board be present. The end of the conference year is approaching and there is business demanding attention. Let every official of the church if possible be in his place at the meeting Monday evening.

The official board has kindly granted the pastor a four weeks vacation this year and the parsonage will be left in solemn silence about the middle of next week, a silence that will remain unbroken, with the exception of the melancholy song of the hungry mosquito, together with the clatter of the printing presses across the street, for the next three or four weeks. The pulpit will be supplied Sunday mornings, while the League will take charge of the evening service. Prayer meeting will be held as usual. Notices for the pulpit or word for the pastor may be left with Bro. W. H. Hutton.

The business men of this town can attract out-of-town trade as readily as the big establishments of the cities attract it.

It is simply a matter of advertising.

This paper goes into the homes not only of those who live in the thickly settled community but it is a welcome guest in almost every farm house for miles around. It reaches the homes in all near-by villages and some that are far removed. It will draw trade from wherever it circulates if its advertising columns are intelligently used.

COURAGE OF AMERICANS

By Not Giving in to Rheumatism They Find Relief from Pain.

Americans do not sit down and cry over their troubles, but look around for a way out; that was the way Athlophoros was created—to drive the Uric acid from the blood—the cause of Rheumatism.

Uric acid in the blood is likened to floating ice in a river—we all know how ice congests commerce and retards progress—Uric acid is the same—it prevents proper circulation of the blood, besides poisoning it, and brings on complications with the stomach, kidneys and heart.

Many people think they have Dyspepsia, Bright's Disease and Heart Trouble, whereas on rid of the Uric acid they are freed from all, as well as their Rheumatism. Athlophoros goes to the seat of the trouble and quickly forces out the Uric acid—improvement is noted at once and the cure is sure—one bottle will prove if you are being helped—it only costs you the price of one bottle to test it—All druggists sell it—if not, send $1 to The Athlophoros Co., New Haven, Conn. ## Who Pays the Printer?

YOU DO.

When you pick out a good printer, giving him all your work, educating him to an idea of your needs, and paying a fair price for the work you get, your printer matter (when secured at the Record Plant) necessarily creates a favorable impression for you and for what you offer, and becomes a factor in selling your goods. # THE STRANGER AND THE PRINCESS

BY SEWARD W. HOPKINS

Copyright, 1902, by Seward W. Hopkins.

While waiting for the cure the farmer Debbsik, he found, was shot through the jaw. His wound, though terrible to look at and disfiguring in its probable results, was not necessarily fatal. Volner soon had his wife and daughter attending the man. He then applied himself to Buckford.

He found that a pistol ball had entered the young man's side from behind, had glanced on a rib, gone in an upward direction and was now lodged somewhere in or near the chest cavity. By a miracle it had not touched the heart.

There were also severe bruises on the white forehead, which had bled considerably.

"Here, Adria," called Volner. "Come to me. This one needs your tender hand much more than Debbsik."

And in an instant the pretty Adria was bending over Buckford.

The cure came. He was a gentle old man, skilled not only in what comforted the soul, but in what soothed the aching brow or healed the crimson wound.

"This man, my son," he said to Volner as he stood over Debbsik, "is not in danger. His wound will be painful, but there is no danger. It is strange that he is so slow in recovering consciousness—ah he moves his eyelids now. Yes, in a short time he will be awake. But this other, this poor youth, whom I believe to be an Englishman, an American, is sorely near to death. I think we had need of the surgeon in this. Send for him at once."

I will father. And now I will leave these two in your hands while I take some time to the ravine. The rascals who did the work are there."

"No," cried Volner and Adria together, throwing their arms around the farmer's bulky neck. "You shall not risk your life. You have not told us who the rascals are, but we know they must be formidable foes, for they have wounded our powerful Debbsik."

"Formidable foes?" growled the farmer as he gently pushed them away. "Formidable foes! Three scoundrel wolves that dare not strike except at a man's back! Formidable foes! With the hands on this farm I could whip an army of them."

He would not stay, but took two men with him, armed and searched in the ravine and vicinity for the three Frenchmen. But those wretches, having had enough of Farmer Volner's ready strength, had disappeared.

As the good cure had said, Debbsik recovered more rapidly than the ugliness of his wound had promised, but Buckford lingered long in the land of unconsciousness.

The surgeon came, examined him and announced that the cure was competent to manage the case.

And the cure, relinquishing again other duties, took charge of the interesting and mysterious patient.

But, splendid as were the efforts of the cure the nursing of Adria Volner deserved as much praise. She was ever at the bedside. Her touch, was cooling to the fevered brow. She was gentle. She was thoughtful.

"He looks like a brave young man," she said. "Suppose it was my Bosso, brave, reckless, loyal Bosso Duvally, who was wounded in a strange land and I will do for him what I would wish others would do for Bosso. Is it not right, mother?"

"Quite right, my daughter. And now we may hope to see Bosso in a short time. The news has come that the prince has been stopping in Berlin for a few days and will reach Denesia by way of Ontro."

"Oh, I must see Bosso at the village. Will the royal coaches pass this way, do you think, mother?"

"I do not know. There are but two roads from Ontro to Trolle, and the road by the Green forest is the shortest and best. It is likely the coaches will pass this way."

"Then I will see Bosso," said Adria. "Dear Bosso! I wonder if that wicked Paris has changed any?"

"No, Bosso cannot change," said Mme. Volner. "He is made of oak. It stands the changing winds of the evil world."

Adria smiled. She loved to hear her lover praised, and she knew how well he deserved it. Had he not saved the life of the prince more than once by his courage and shrewdness?

And still Buckford lingered. The bullet was probed for and found. But, though the wound seemed inclined to heal, the stunned brain refused to resume its functions.

And while the good people in Volner's house nursed him so tenderly four rascals were holding a secret conference in the castle of Casparin at the edge of the Green forest, not far away.

"This is most unfortunate, what you tell me," Casparin was saying. "You should not have taken up the pursuit. We could have round the fool with less trouble. Now undoubtedly he has told his story to Volner. And Volner is a strong adherent of my brother, though a tenant of myself. Ha! I have an idea! Volner owes me considerable land tax. He is so far behind that I threatened him but a day or two since. Now I will issue orders not to allow a single member of his household to leave the farm. I will have the place surrounded, and any one attempting to get away I will cause to be arrested and brought here. It can appear that I suspect them of an attempt to rob me of my dues, for he has no goods, this Volner, upon which I can seize.

"In this way, even if the American does tell the story, we can keep it from getting out till we know what is to be done. If this report is true and my brother intends entering Denesia by way of Ontro, then all is easy as play. The road they will take leads past the Green forest, where almost anything could happen. I, of course, must not be suspected. I shall meet them with my men handily mounted. A feast shall be prepared, for the prince will undoubtedly stop at my castle. You, disguised and with the best horses awaiting you in the Green forest, will do your part and at once mount and get across the border. I will give you money, and when I have been seated securely upon the throne you shall return and claim the other rewards I promised."

"It was strange though, that it should be the father of the girl you suggest for my bride who met us at the ravine," said Vandal.

"Yes, was it not?" said Casparin, with a laugh. "How do you like Papa Volner? He is a host in himself. Have you seen the daughter yet?"

"No, I have not been near the place." "It would be rash. But you shall see her soon enough. This Duvally, who stands like a tiger between my brother and his foes shall be among the first to meet his fate."

It was on the following day that the cure while riding his sleepy and well fed horse toward Volner's farm, was stopped on the road by two of the bailiffs from Casparin's official household.

"Whither goest thou, father?" asked they.

"Whither goest, my son, but to nurse the wounded. Hast thou not heard of the poor young gentleman who lies wounded at Volner's farm?"

"We know naught of that father, but we have received orders from Prince Casparin, our master, to allow no one to enter Volner's or one of Volner's people to come out."

"Is that so?" queried the priest in surprise. "I knew that Volner was behind in his rents, but what has he done to merit this?"

"It has become known that he is planning to step out and leave the place and the prince in the lurch."

"Nonsense! Volner was talking with me but yesterday about his plans for the coming year."

"And has been visiting to land agents in England to obtain a farm for this very month," said the bailiff, with a ready lie.

"Is it possible? Is it possible?" said the gentle cure. "I did not suspect that of Volner. Then I am even forbidden to attend the wounded at Volner's house?"

"You are not to enter, or any one father."

The priest, shaking his head sadly turned his horse and rode homeward.

"Here's a pretty pass!" cried one of the farm hands, who had started for the village to make purchases, to Volner when he had been sent back. "I was stopped at the gate by the bailiffs of Prince Casparin, who informed me that no one of us was to be allowed to leave the place nor another enter."

"My God! Has Casparin resolved thus to crowd me to death? What plan has he by which he can squeeze money from the stones on this farm, whether people go or come?"

"Well, it seems there is a rascally story that you have planned to leave Denesia, rob him of his due and seek a home and fortune elsewhere."

"My God, my God!" groaned Volner, sinking into a chair. "If they say that, they have lied. And if they have sunk so low as to lie about me, they are plotting something worse. Ah! This wounded lad! He is the center of this attack, I am sure. Oh, that he could speak and tell!"

"Father, come quick!" cried Adria just then, bursting in upon him. "Come at once! May heaven be with us now, for we need God's power to help. Our young man is talking, and the cure is not arrived. Oh, come and hear these terrible whisperings! I know not if they be the ramblings of the delirious or the words of awful truth!"

CHAPTER XII. ADRIA GIVES WARNING. VOLNER followed his daughter into the room where the wounded American lay with his white expectant face turned toward the door.

The farmer stepped quickly to the side of the bed and looked down into the upturned eyes. He saw at once that the delirium had passed. Whatever this man said now was said with full possession of his reason.

"You sent for me," said Volner. "What is it you wish to say?"

"You are Volner?" whispered Buckford, using his voice only enough to carry the faint words to Volner's lowered ear.

"That is my name," was the answer. "Do you know me?"

"She is to be the wife of Bosso Duvally, the captain of the prince's guard?"

"Yes, that is what these young people are planning."

"Are you—are you for or against the prince?"

"What! I! For or against the best and noblest prince in Europe? Count the drops of blood in my veins, and every drop is his."

"Good! Now listen. I am an American and have lived some time in Paris. One night I stood on a bridge over the Seine, feeling dejected and low-spirited, because things had not gone well with me. I was accosted by a Frenchman who thought I was going to commit suicide. He spoke of a plot, and I, being somewhat of an adventurous nature, allowed him to lead me into it to see what it really was and if I could not prevent a crime."

"I learned of a plot against a prince who was then in Paris incognito. In a room in an inn I saw the photographs of this prince, his wife and his sister."

"You sent for me," said Volner. "What is it you wish to say?"

I knew that his wife was called the Princess Margaret and his sister the Princess Marie Alexia.

"I was so attracted by the beautiful face of the Princess Marie that I resolved to penetrate still further into the plot and protect the princess and her relatives."

"I made a visit to the residence of the prince and to the place where I had heard of a plot, and I was carried back and forth by a dogged my steps, and since then my life has been more than once in jeopardy."

"I was arrested for the murder of a rich Frenchman and lodged in jail. From there I escaped by the assistance of another American, but we were caught in another trap and my friend was killed. While lying in a house where I was supposed to be dead I heard the details of the entire conspiracy."

"The plot had failed in Paris because I had aroused the police, and the publicity of the thing had warned the prince. But the plotters were not discouraged. They were simply to remove the theater of their evil operations from Paris to Denesia. The chief of the plotters was Casparin, the brother of the prince. The object of the plot was to place Casparin upon the throne of Denesia before the prince had an heir to succeed him."

"But there are other objects involved. Casparin found tools ready for the work in Frenchmen where the Denesians failed him. The men he has bribed by offers of big rewards are the three who attacked me where you found me at the edge of your farm."

Your daughter has told me how you found me in a ravine and the road.

When I made my escape from the house where I had been confined in Paris, I learned that the prince and his entire suit and family had left Paris for Denesia. I resolved to reach this country before the plotters to warn the prince. At Ontro I found that the three Frenchmen were at the same inn as I was. At that inn I was robbed of what money I had with me, and for some reason or other the innkeeper made an attempt on my life in the night. I escaped, set his inn on fire, stole a horse and set out, followed by the three Frenchmen who had discovered my presence there."

"One of these Frenchmen, a man named Vandal, is to receive for his reward in this matter a large sum of money, a place of honor when Casparin comes to the throne and the hand of your daughter Adria. Duvally is to be killed. The Princess Marie is to be married to a powerful Russian prince to obtain Russian protection in the policy Casparin has at heart."

"All this I learned in Paris. I do not, of course, know what has been done here. The prince is no doubt safe in his palace at Trolle."

As the hurried whisper stopped, Volner clasped his hands in excitement and paced up and down the room.

"No! That is the worst of it," he said, with a groan. "If the prince had come direct from Paris, he would now be safely surrounded by his faithful people. But he lingered in Berlin, and now, worse the luck could never be, he comes by way of Ontro, and Casparin is strong only in the region of the Green forest, past which the prince must go to reach Trolle."

"And here am I, with all my household, penned up by an order of Casparin, whose tenant in arrears I am so unfortunate as to be."

"Ha! I see through the plot now as through a window glass. Casparin is not strong enough here to attempt open violence in my house. There are friends of Prince Charles in these parts. But for that, my brave American friend, you would undoubtedly have been killed while you were unconscious and unable to tell the story of perfidy."

"But now Casparin, using only such authority as he possesses as my land lord, holds us all within the confines of our farm while he and his crime stained comrades plan to slay the prince. Then, when Casparin is at preme, we may be sacrificed as he wills—my daughter to this French scoundrel and I perhaps to death and you certainly."

"By heaven! I will get out! I will saddle my horse and fly to meet the prince beyond Ontro. There I will warn him and—"

"You will do no such thing," said Adria, planting herself firmly before her father. "A fine plan that would be. And what would become of my mother, of me and of our guest here with you, our defender, away?"

"But the prince must be warned, my daughter! Think! Would you have me sit idly in the house, afraid to stir, while our noble prince and his lovely princess are perhaps shot down in cold blood."

"The prince shall be warned in time," said Adria firmly. "I insist, however, that you remain. Suppose you succeed in dashing past the bailiff guards. What then? The news goes to Casparin. He understands that the plot is exposed and the prince will be warned. In revenge he will come here in force and slay us all."

"Yes, yes, there is truth in what you say," groaned Volner, with increasing agitation. "But what can we do?"

"I shall warn the prince," said Volner, stopped short and looked agnost at his pretty daughter.

"I shall warn the prince. Is there one near here who can outride me on the black mare? With the fleetest horse in Casparin's stables thundering at her heels the black mare will reach Ontro safely."

"But you could not get away. How would you pass the bailiffs?"

"That I must leave till I reach them. Trust me, father. This brave American has already taught us a lesson. He has placed his life a dozen times in danger for a prince he does not know. And now should we do less for that same prince who is a friend and protector to all that is good in Denesia?"

"No," said Volner, with a tremor. "No, we cannot do less than the stranger. But I dread, oh, how I dread, to have you make this attempt!"

She did not wait to listen further. Buckford, exhausted by the effort of making so long a speech, had sunk into a deep slumber.

Adria spoke to her mother, gave directions concerning the care of the American and quietly slipped away.

In a short time she reappeared clad in a neat fitting riding habit.

"Saddle my black mare," she said to one of the stablemen.

"But, Miss Adria, you cannot leave the place," was the reply.

"Saddle the mare, and we will see," said Adria.

So the mare was saddled, and a pretty picture made Adria as she cantered along the smooth road to the principal gate of the farm.

"Why does she choose the gate?" queried Volner, watching from a window. "I would have tried a weaker force. There are four men there."

But Adria rode on till the bridge of her mare was taken in hand by one of the guards at the gate.

"Sorry, Miss Adria," he said. "It is against our orders. His highness Prince Casparin has instructed us to allow no one to leave the farm."

"Not even to ride to see Casparin himself?" asked Adria.

"Oh—ah—that is something different! I suppose that could be done. But an escort must go with you."

"I agree to that, certainly," said Adria. "Two or three of you should be able to protect the country from receding harm at my hands."

He laughed—an abashed, snarled sort of laugh—and said:

"I trust you will pardon us. We are but obeying orders. I will accompany you to the castle. You will not be annoyed."

"I thank you," said Adria.

The man mounted his own horse, which was tethered near, and the two set off.

In a few hours we should meet the prince on the road to Ontro," said the talkative bailiff. "He rides with full company to meet his brother, our generous Prince of Denesia, who comes by way of Ontro from Berlin. Word has been received that the train in which our prince and his family ride will reach Ontro late today."

"Late today?" answered Adria, as though it was a small matter. "It is late already."

"Yes. In a few hours—perhaps two or three—the prince will be at Ontro."

They rode on for about a half mile to a spot where the road ran through a bit of woods and where none of Casparin's men were stationed.

"No one was to be seen. The roads were deserted, all of the tenantry being engaged in getting ready to ride with Casparin to meet the prince."

Suddenly Adria's mare came to a standstill, while the accompanying bailiff was looking another way.

Adria slid to the ground.

"My mare limped," she said. "I think she has picked up a stone. This is a bad bad for horses."

The man, to be chivalrous, dismounted and stepped to her side.

"Let me see," he said, stooping to lift the mare's hoof.

In an instant his own horse received a cut with a whip that sent it off at a cantering pace. He roared out an oath, forgetting the young lady's presence, and ran a short distance after his flying steed.

The sound of hoofs brought him to a halt, and he saw with dismay the daughter of the farmer, on her black mare, flying in the other direction—toward Ontro.

Partially True.
A person of an investigating turn of mind had taken the trouble to run down one of the miraculous cures. "Is it true," he asked, "that you have been a sufferer from neuralgia for 17 years?" "Yes, sir," replied the man. "Is it true that you have been cured of it by taking six bottles of Dr. Rybold's celebrated Extract of Umpty-gump?" "Well, that's partly true. I've taken the six bottles."—Chicago Tribune.

Young Was Nominated.
Marquette, Mich., July 17.—H. O. Young of Ishpeming was nominated on the seventeenth ballot in the Republican convention for the twelfth congressional district last night after it looked as though a prolonged deadlock would occur. In the interest of harmony in the party and to prevent what threatened to be a disastrous split, the mining men conceded Baraga county to Sheldon in the contest before the committee on credentials and thus entered the convention with one vote short of election, the committee having decided against the anti-Sheldon contestants from Chippewa and the Sheldon delegation from Schoolcraft.

Treat Your Kidneys for Rheumatism.
When you are suffering from rheumatism the kidneys must be attended to at once so that they will eliminate the uric acid from the blood. Foley's Kidney Cure is the most effective remedy for this purpose. R. T. Hopkins, of Polar Wisc., says: "After unsuccessfully doctoring three years for rheumatism with the best doctors, I tried Foley's Kidney Cure and it cured me. I cannot speak too highly of this great medicine." Sold by Murdock Bros.

North Carolina boasts of a grapevine with a history. It is on the farm of B. F. Meekins, Roanoke Island, not far from the site of Fort Raleigh, and near the birthplace of Virginia Dare. CASE AFTER CASE.
Plenty More Like This in Northville.

Scores of Northville people can tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills. Many a happy citizen makes a public statement of his experience. Here is a case of it. What better proof of merit can be had than such endorsement?

Mrs. Henry Priest, husband a moulder, living at 23 Mill St., says: "I most certainly think well of Doan's Kidney Pills. I am adverse to notoriety and I only permit publication of this statement because I feel grateful to Doan's Kidney Pills for the good they did me. Before going to Murdock Bros' drug store and getting them I had a dull aching pain in my back and I was also troubled with rheumatism which had annoyed me for quite a while. Before I had taken half the box I found my condition greatly improved. Finally the pain in my back left and my rheumatism vanished. For sale by all dealers; price 50c. Foster-McLure Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute."

This is Private John Allen's last. At a campfire a stranger arose and told of his prowess in two great battles. Whereupon a little man arose and called attention to the fact that the two battles were fought on the same day, 1,500 miles apart. "Comrades," shouted the stranger, "there is a traitor in our midst. Throw him out!" And they did.

Poisoning the System.
It is through the bowels that the body is cleansed of impurities. Constipation causes headache, dizziness and melancholia at first, then unsightly eruptions and finally serious illness unless a remedy is applied. Doan's Little Early Risers prevent this by stimulating the liver and promote easy, healthy action of the bowels. These little pills do not act violently but by strengthening the bowels enable them to perform their own work. Never gripe or distress. Murdock Bros.
