THE COUNTRY TO BE SOAKED

THAT'S ONE IDEA OF THE TAX COMMISSION.

Want to Drive Factories Out of the Smaller Towns.

"Soak the country! Let the big fish go—it's so much easier to catch the little ones." That seems to be the motto of the tax commission if we are to judge by the following news item from the Detroit Free Press of last Sunday:

"When the state board of equalization two years ago fixed the sums upon which the various counties of the state should pay state taxes, investigations indicated that while the city of Detroit was assessed at practically cash value, many of the townships of Wayne county lying outside of the city were much under-assessed, and this fact did much to hurt the country. The present work of the tax commission in boosting values in the townships may make the country, as a whole, pay a greater proportion of the state taxes, but this extra burden will fall upon the townships, as the heavy raises are being made on the townships, while the city is being left practically alone, and this will probably result in making the townships pay not only a greater proportion of the state taxes, but of the county expenditures as well.

"It has been found that not only has politics had something to do with the work of supervisors in holding down their figures, but they have also been lenient with manufacturers, with the idea that if taxes to these concerns were made light, it would encourage people to erect their plants outside the city limits, rather than within the lines of the city of Detroit. The commission says that their work in raising valuations on plants outside of Detroit is not only right, according to law, but likely to help the city to get plants which might go to outside districts if the supervisors were allowed to continue holding down valuations on industrial concerns."

The city of Detroit was never assessed for 100 per cent of its value and never will be. The Free Press knows better than that, and so does every intelligent citizen of that city and the whole fell is simply to bleed the country part of Wayne county to benefit the city. The small property owner in the city is undoubtedly assessed like they are in the country for nearly its face value. But what about property in Detroit worth $10,000 upwards? It is safe to say it is not on the rolls for 60 per cent of its value. Not long ago a property owner in Detroit showed a flat he owned which he said was worth $12,000 and also said it was on the tax roll at $6,500.

The commission says their work in raising valuations outside Detroit is likely to help the city get plants which might go to the country otherwise, says the Free Press.

That's the idea. Kill off the country in the same way. Boost their valuations and force the factories to go to the cities. But the fact that erection of a factory building and the cost of a site in the country is materially different seems to be lost sight of.

"This," says the F. P., "will probably result in making the township pay a greater proportion of state and county expenditures."

This is the key note. The annual meeting of the board of supervisors is approaching and the old cry of making the country pay one-fifth of the county taxes instead of one-sixth as at present will again be raised. It comes up every year. As a matter of fact the country ought not to pay more than one-eighth of the taxes nor would it do so if Detroit were fair in the matter.

The tax commission is a great thing for the rich people and the big corporations and big cities, but when it comes to benefiting the common people—the laborer, the farmer and the mechanic—we fail to see it. It may have performed a duty in the past, but its usefulness is now over and it ought to be abolished—and the Record believes the next legislature will be called upon to do it.

THE ELOPEMENT A DOUBLE ONE

TWO VERY YOUNG COUPLES THIS TIME.

That the elopement fad is still growing in popularity in this vicinity is evidenced by the double one which took place from here Friday night when two young ladies, Charlie Hamilton of Novi township and Albert Sessions of near Salem, accompanied by Martha Lorenz of So. Lyon and Edwin Lawrence of this place, left on a late D. & M. car for parts unknown. The youngsters, who range in ages from fifteen to seventeen or thereabouts, supposedly intended to go to Windsor to get married, but their parents failed to locate the runaways until last night.

The fathers of the two little girls were in Detroit Tuesday and officers were put on the case and a thorough search was made for the precocious quartette of youngsters, who are all evidently in need of a course of sprouts.

Late yesterday afternoon a telephone message was received from the hotel keeper at Kinde, Huron county, that the quartette arrived at his hotel Tuesday night and stayed all night, the boys occupying one room and the girls another. The next day they obtained work at a farm home three miles from the village, where they were still at work, the two boys and one girl at one place and the other girl at a nearby neighbor's.

The parents, Frank Hamilton, Mr. Lawrence of South Lyon left for Detroit last night and after consulting with the police department in that city they will either go on after the youngsters or send an officer to bring them home.

The Kinde hotel keepers says they evidently were not married and so far as he was able to judge they were well behaved. Kinde is up in the Thumb near Port Austin.

Young Hamilton is a son of Frank Hamilton, a well known Novi farmer, and the Sessions boy is the son of Jerry Sessions, formerly of Novi, who is a farmer in Salem township. The Lawrence family live in Robert Yerkes' tenant house. Emma assisted Mrs. Yerkes with her work, and the Lorenz girl who had been employed for a short time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Becker, is from South Lyon.

It is stated that the Hamilton boy intended to take another girl with him but that her mother discovered the plan in time to frustrate it, so the young irrepressible procured a substitute and went right along just the same.

Maude Matteson Dead.

Miss Maude Matteson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Matteson, who live on the Hart farm southwest of town, died Tuesday afternoon of typhoid pneumonia. Rev. O. M. Thrasher officiated at the funeral held yesterday afternoon from the home. Deceased was a bright young lady of 17 years and was much thought of by all who knew her.

PROSPEROUS CONDITION

Northville Loan Association's Annual Meeting.

The Northville Loan & Building association held its annual meeting last week Friday night and elected the following officers for the ensuing year. J. A. Dubuar, president; E. K. Simonds vice president; I. E. Van Atta, secretary; T. A. Miller, treasurer. The secretary's report showed the association to be in a very flourishing condition with a membership of over sixty, representing 510 shares of stock. Stock one year old has paid 6 1/2 per cent interest and that nine years old has paid over 10 per cent during the past year. The association was organized in 1887 and has so far paid up fifteen matured series.

The directors of the association are J. A. Dubuar, I. K. Simonds, I. E. Van Atta, T. A. Miller, C. C. Yerkes, F. S. Neel, Spencer Clark, W. H. Cattermole, R. H. Purdy, R. A. Wheeler, C. A. Sessions and Roy G. Clark.

A person paying in 25 cents per week at the end of 92 years draws out $200; 60 cents equals $400 and $1.00 equals $800, etc. Money can be drawn out at any time the same as a saving bank and the interest paid in such cases is 8 per cent per annum.

Northville Gun Club.

The Northville Gun club recently met in the Exchange hotel parlors and elected the following officers: President, M. F. Stanley, secretary and treasurer, Dr. T. B. Henry.

Preparations are being made for the State Trap Shoot, which will be held in Northville in the early part of September. As this shoot is attended by the best marksmen of this and other states, Northville may well feel proud of the honor. The membership this year will cost only a half dollar as the club is in a flourishing condition and it is hoped that every sportsman will take an active interest in this line and encourage the home team. The club has taken active measures in the propagation and protection of our song and game birds and is well worthy of the loyal support of the citizens of Northville.

A Newspaper of '50.

Francis Terrill has a copy of "The Pennsular Freeman" bearing date of August 20, 1850, which is an interesting souvenir of Detroit journalism of half a century ago.

The paper, Vol. 1, No. 46, devotes six long columns of the first of its four big pages to the "speech of Mr. Benton of Missouri in the senate of the U. S. July 13, 1850, against ceding 70,000 square miles of New Mexico to Texas." The whole of the second and part of the third page is given to the constitution of Michigan then just revised, among the signatures to which appears that of Elias S. Woodman formerly of this place. In the advertising the literary predominates.

Governor Combinations.

While some newspapers are running guessing contests on the combines that will be made on the governor question next year it should not be forgotten that Fred Warner also has a combine made. Fred's combine is with the people and in 1904 the people will have something to say as to who will be the nominee.

NOT CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

ATTY. GENL. BLAIR DECLINES TO BE SWITCHED.

Friends Say He Will Be in Supreme Judge Race

Atty. Genl. Charles A. Blair says he is not, and will not be, a candidate for governor next year. Close friends of the genial attorney say he will be a candidate for one of the three new places on the supreme court bench and they also say that Mr. Blair would like that berth very much and that if his friends who are trying to switch him into the gubernatorial scrap would use an equal effort in this direction it would be very pleasing indeed and might bear fruit that could be gathered from the tree.

In the meantime Mr. Blair says he shall continue to perform his duties as attorney general to the best of his ability.

HIS COMMITTEE

Congressman Townsend Entertained 'Em Last Week.

The members of the second district congressional committee and their wives were guests last Thursday evening at the home of Congressman Charles E. Townsend in Jackson. After an elegant six o'clock dinner the visitors were delightfully entertained with an exceptionally fine musical program by local talent.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Horace G. Prettyman of Ann Arbor, Senator and Mrs. Frank Glazier of Chelsea, Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Neel of Northville, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Glasgow, Attorney General and Mrs. Charles A. Blair, Warden Vincent of Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Daffey of Adrian.

"Rio Grande" Next Friday Night.

Next Friday evening, August 14, is the date of the presentation of the thrilling melodrama "Rio Grande" at the opera house by local talent under the auspices of the IOTM. Besides the play, which is to be one of the best things of the kind ever put on here, there are to be specialties by such well known vaudeville artists as T. E. Pattison of Detroit, H. C. Robinson of Plymouth and C. A. Gardner of this place. The admission prices are 15c and 25c, and seats will be reserved by applying at Munk's store. Tickets on sale Wednesday.

Manners of East New York.

A woman dropped her catelaine bag in a lower East Side street the other day. A nicely dressed young man started forward and stooped to pick it up. While he was in this defenseless position the woman brought down her umbrella on the back of his neck. A policeman rushed up, and the woman accused the gallant young man of attempted larceny. With great difficulty the young man succeeded in pacifying her and explaining to the policeman, who let him go with this reprimand. "Them manners don't go down here, young feller. Just keep yer hat on an' blow smoke in the ladies' faces an' you'll be all right."—New York Sun

Rockefeller's Fortune.

The Journal of the Knights of Labor estimates Mr. John D. Rockefeller's present fortune at $800,000,000, bringing him the snug little income of $48,000,000 a year. At the rate of increase of the last four years, it is estimated that it will amount to $3,276,800,000,000 in 1927.

Turbine Engines.

Faith in the new steam turbine engines is shown in the fact that two manufacturers have contracts to furnish in the aggregate, approximately 540,000 horse-power capacity of them.

Fond of Milk.

Bishop Coleman, of Delaware, takes a long walking trip every summer. Usually he goes alone, but on one occasion several gentlemen accompanied him. The party toured the White Mountains. On an August afternoon they strolled over a farm and thence, at a farmhouse and bought several quarts of milk. When now, though, they were unsatisfied, so the farmer's wife fetched from the spring house no less than three gallons of milk in a pail. Setting this before them she said: "One could think, gentlemen, that you had never been weaned!"—Detroit News Tribune.

Watches World's Money Markets.

They tell in New York of a man named King who travels in Europe visits all the capitals, knows all the big wigs, is at home on all the boulevards and generally knows all of whatever is going on in the money markets. He cables daily to the Standard Oil Company and some of the big life insurance companies. His cables are kept secret. They are full of most interesting information of the Rockefeller and other affairs are based upon his news. He receives a salary of $25,000 a year.

Puts Comfort Before Looks.

Secretary of War Root is a firm believer in the idea that a soldier should look the soldier when engaged in military work, but he also realizes that in very hot weather some measure of smart appearance must give way to comfort, so he has practically said: "Butter your uniforms, dress as you please." Indeed he has set the example for his bureau chiefs at the war department by stripping off coat and waistcoat and making himself as nearly comfortable as possible in a becoming and smart way.

Jewels Require a Rest.

Many jewels are made on an occasional sleep so to speak in order to retain their lustre. Diamonds, rubies and sapphires are among the number. They should be put away in total darkness every now and then. The usual velvet or satin-lined cases are the correct receptacles. It is best to wrap gems in jeweler's tissue paper then pack in wool and lay in airtight compartments. A number of stones are seriously affected by fumes from furnaces, sewer gas, moisture and sea air.

Less Noise on the Fourth.

There are many symptoms of a growing desire on the part of adult Americans for a reformed observance of the Fourth. The feeling is quite general that juvenile America has been a crowd to exaggerate the explosive features of our great national festival and that something may be well done to celebrate the day in ways that mean more and sound less.—New York World.

Coran Doyle's Summer Plans.

Among the notable cottagers at Montauk Point, L. I., this summer will be S. A. Coran Doyle, the famous author who created "Sherlock Holmes." Doyle has rented the third house on the contemplated securing of the best section so essential to a successful literary production. The reason will be occupied in writing a new detective story.

Priest and Painter.

Rev. A. B. Shells, rector of the Church of the Redeemer, Boston, is an artist as well as a priest. He earned enough money painting the past winter to afford a summer in the galleries of the old world and sails for Europe to paint in the national gallery of London, in the Louvre and Luxembourg galleries during his vacation season.

"For action," prints the Philadelphia Inquirer "read Homer and Scott, for imagination, read Shakespeare and Job." But whom did Homer and Shakespeare read? And, alas, whom shall we read for originality?

The South and the Negro Problem

By CLARK HOWELL, Editor of the Atlanta Constitution

THE PEOPLE OF THE NORTH DEVOTED THEMSELVES AS ANXIOUSLY TO GETTING WORK FOR THE NEGRO AS THEY DO TO GETTING HIM THE BALLOT THEY WOULD SOLVE THE NEGRO QUESTION AT ONCE.

JUST LET US ALONE; THAT IS THE WHOLE STORY. Let us alone to settle this matter ourselves without interference, and the best interest of the whites and the blacks will be taken care of. BY LETTING US ALONE I MEAN, FOR INSTANCE, THAT THERE SHOULD BE NO APPOINTMENT OF NEGROES TO ANY IMPORTANT FEDERAL POSITION IN WHITE COMMUNITIES.

There is no possible objection to the colored man going into subordinate positions in the civil service, like letter carriers. He is fitted for that kind of work, but he is not fitted for the important places to which he is appointed by Republican presidents.

Remove the fear of legal domination, and the southern states will at once split up on ordinary economic lines, and several of them will surely go Republican. When the people of the north understand this situation the so called negro question will be disposed of and not before.

THE PEOPLE OF GEORGIA HAVE AT NO TIME BEEN AFRAID OF AN INTELLIGENT NEGRO VOTE. IT IS THE RULE OF THE IGNORANT AND THE VICIOUS WE FEAR.

The best thought of the south, the men who are in the forefront of its modern progress, know it is not best to have only one party.

Feeling, however, that the negro question is the paramount issue, we settle all of our political fights in the white primary, so that the actual vote cast at an election is but a fraction of that put into the ballot of the primary, and the result is that the white voters of Georgia form a single political party. The negroes know this, and hence they make no attempt to vote. The negro makes an excellent artisan, and by supplying him with work for which he is adapted we are doing the proper thing to solve the so called negro question, which is not a race question so much as one of the adjustment of social differences.

THE PEOPLE OF THE SOUTH GENERALLY ARE IN HEARTY ACCORD WITH BOOKER WASHINGTON AND HIS EFFORT FOR THE SETTLEMENT OF THE NEGRO QUESTION. THEY BELIEVE HE HAS STRUCK THE KEYNOTE, AND THE SOUTHERN PEOPLE WILL GIVE HIM A HEARTY SUPPORT IN HIS EFFORTS TO KEEP THE NEGRO OUT OF POLITICS AND BUILD UP THE INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION OF HIS RACE.

Booker Washington's lesson is what the people of the north need most to learn. Not only here, but there, the negro who has mixed in politics in any way will meet the salvation of the race can be achieved only through the ballot box. These men are antagonizing Booker Washington instead of supporting him, and it is this antagonism which is encouraged and, in fact, endorsed by the appointment of negroes to important political positions in the southern states.

EXTEND THE BALLOT TO WOMAN

By Dr. WALTER ALLEN, Champion of Woman Suffrage

IN this glorious land of the free and home of the brave all may have the right of suffrage but the human, the convict, the Chinese, the Indian not taxed and the woman.

BROTHER, HOW DO YOU RELISH THE IDEA OF SEEING YOUR SWEETHEARTS, YOUR WIVES, YOUR MOTHERS, YOUR SISTERS AND YOUR DAUGHTERS TROT IN THAT CLASS?

We make women amenable to our laws, and why should she not have a hand in making them? To woman we look for all the virtues of humanity, and we are less liable to disappointment than when we look for them in a man. They are better citizens, as in the larger cities the proportion of arrests is one woman to seven men, and the proportion is still less in the rural districts, and we seldom ever see a female tramp.

There is no one gifted with ordinary intelligence and observation who will deny for a moment that the average woman, given a chance and encouragement, would be as capable of casting an intelligent vote as the average negro, the average foreigner reared among the monarchies of the old world or even the average American, and yet we invite all these to come and take part in our government WHILE WE DENY THAT RIGHT TO OUR MARTHA WASHINGTONS, OUR GRACE DARLINGS, OUR CLARA BARTONS AND HELEN GOULDS.

The Lord help them if they are any more ignorant than thousands of the Lord's creation who spatter away learnedly about politics all through the campaign and then march up to the polls and cast their ballots for heaven knows what.

THE BEST SOLDIERS ARE THOSE WHO LEAVE ALCOHOL ALONE

By Count Von HAESELER, Lately Commander of the Sixteenth Army Corps of Germany.

THE SOLDIER WHO ABSTAINS FROM ALCOHOLIC DRINKS ALTOGETHER IS THE BEST MAN. HE CAN ACCOMPLISH MORE, CAN MARCH BETTER AND IS A BETTER SOLDIER THAN THE MAN WHO DRINKS EVEN MODERATELY.

Mentally and physically he is better. Brandy is the worst poison of all. Next to it comes beer. Each limits the capacity and lowers mind, body and soul. STRONG DRINK TIRES, AND ONLY INCREASES THIRST. FOR SOLDIERS WATER, COFFEE, AND, ABOVE ALL, TEA.

CHICAGO MAN'S HEAD BIGGEST.

How the Sizes Vary in Different Sections of the United States. A hatter had just finished selling a hat to an Irishman.

"The Irish," he said, "have heads of a graceful shape; long and oval, and very large. The American has a head shaped very much like the Irishman's, only it is smaller and slightly rounder."

"The German has a square head; flat on top and very wide between the ears. A German's hat always looks too big for him. It looks so because it is so. In order that it may encompass the head's great breadth it must be bought a little too loose in its other dimensions. Some Germans, who are particular, have their hats made to order on this account."

"I sell hats all over the United States, and I find that heads run bigger West than anywhere else."

The Chicago man has the biggest head in America. The Southerner has the smallest. We Easterners—Philadelphians, New Yorkers and Bostonians—all have heads about the same size. That size is on the average 7. The Westerner's size is 7 1/2. The Southerner's is 6 1/2.—Philadelphia Record.

New York's Tall Buildings.

The tallest buildings in New York are: The Park Row building, 29 stories, or 332 feet high; the St. Paul building, 26 stories, 308 feet; the Manhattan Life, 22 stories, 348 feet; the American Surety, 23 stories, 296.1 feet; the American Tract, 23 stories, 206 feet; the Empire, 20 stories, 293 feet; the Home Life, 16 stories, 280 feet; the Washington Life, 19 stories, 273 feet; the Glendower, 16 stories, 273 feet; the Bowling Green, 19 stories, 272.6 feet; the Bank of Commerce, 20 stories, 270 feet; the New York Life, 12 stories, 270 feet; the Standard Oil, 15 stories, 263 feet, and the Commercial Cable, 21 stories, 255 feet.

Diseases Caused by Measles.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Tonic and Nervine Cured After Thirty-one Years.

"I was a perfectly healthy young man up to February 1867. When my regiment was sent to the front I was taken sick with the measles and I did not enjoy good health up to the time I used Dr. Miles' Restorative Tonic and Nervine in 1896. Doctors have told me it came from inactivity of the liver. I cannot say how many physicians did treat me but have had all kinds. Diets, purgatives, blood-purifiers, attacks of headache, rheumatism, nasal catarrh, hay fever, asthma, and chronic diarrhoea; they have taken their turn with me. Thanks to the Nervine and Tonic I am completely restored to health. I have also used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills with good results and I think that the Dr. Miles Remedies are perfect."—Rev. Hiram Bender, Sparta, Wis.

"I want to say a few good words for Dr. Miles' Restorative Tonic. I have been troubled very much with indigestion since I made the change to the new paper and on account of this have tried various remedies without relief. I was finally induced by a wholesale druggist, a personal friend of mine, to try Nervine. I can assure you it has done me a lot of good. I do not need it every day but I use it regularly now but occasionally when I find that I am excessively nervous and restless I again take it up as I always keep a supply on hand. It has never failed to give me the desired relief."—A. H. Huggins, Publisher "Daily Free-Press," Milwaukee, Wis.

Great Depot.

The Pennsylvania terminal to be erected in Manhattan will be the biggest railroad station in the world, with accommodations for handling 200,000 passengers a day, or about 70,000,300 or 80,000,000 a year. From sixty to ninety trains will enter and leave it hourly. The tunnels will be lighted and trains moved through them by electricity.

Mrs. Mattie Allen, of South Park, Ky., says she has prevented attacks of cholera morbus by taking Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets when she felt an attack coming on. Such attacks are usually caused by indigestion and these tablets not only what is needed to cleanse the stomach and ward off the approaching attack. Attacks of cholera morbus can be prevented in the same way. For sale by Geo. C. Houston.

Simply Forced to It.

"I've found out why Snobbery is so common. He told me himself. He did? Well that's refreshing. Yes, he said he spent half his life trying to make people think well of him—without success. Then he decided the only way to get a thing done is to do it yourself."

POPE PIUS X

Cardinal Sarto Unanimous Choice of the Conclave.

THE PATRIARCH OF VENICE

A Man of Simple Origin—Associated With No Factions—Broke Down With Emotion When Final Ballot Came.

Rome, Aug. 3.—The conclave, after being in session for four days, Monday elected Giuseppe Sarto, patriarch of Venice, as pope to succeed Leo XIII., and he now reigns at the Vatican and over the Catholic world as Pius X. Last night all Rome was illumined in his honor.

His election and the assumption of his holy office were marked by a striking demonstration and impressive ceremonies at the Vatican. Today the new pope, clad in his full pontifical robes and with all the ritualistic ceremony, received the members of the diplomatic corps, the cardinals and the bishops, who then offered their official homage, this notwithstanding the fact that twice yesterday the cardinals and many high officials of the Vatican went through a similar ceremony. The date upon which the coronation of Pius X. will occur has not yet been officially decided, but the impression prevails that it will occur August 9. Although the election was over at 11 o'clock in the morning and was announced to the world forty-five minutes later by the appearance of the new pope at the window of St. Peter's, the conclave was not formally dissolved until 3:30 in the afternoon.

The election of the patriarch of Venice was unanimous. After Monday's ballots it was a foregone conclusion that he was the only candidate sufficiently acceptable to all to secure the necessary two-thirds which the laws of the church require. One of the cardinals said to the representative of the Associated Press last night that he believed Pius X. would follow the broad lines of Leo's policy, although not likely to accentuate it. This voices the general feeling here, which is one of satisfaction.

Frequently Mentioned.

The new pontiff is a man of simple origin and, although not a very prominent candidate, he had been frequently mentioned as one of the many cardinals who might be taken up as a compromise. In several respects he resembles his venerable predecessor, notably in his reputation for culture and piety.

Having been associated with no factions this fact alone won him much favor from foreign cardinals who were without an especial candidate. Pius X. was humorously described as "a country mouse who could not possibly find his way about Rome."

Venetians who know the new pope well say that he will soon be as much beloved as pontiff as he was as the beloved patriarch of the poor of the Adriatic. In appearance Pius X. is a very handsome man. He has a fine, erect figure despite his 68 years, his face greatly resembling that of the late Phillips Brooks, the eminent Boston divine.

All the members of the sacred college declare that they are very well satisfied with the election of Cardinal Sarto but the anti-Rampolla party consider it as their special victory. When the first ballot was taken it showed that the sacred college was divided into two groups, the stronger one for Rampolla and another not quite so strong for Serafini Vannutelli. The other votes were scattered, but included four for Sarto.

On the subsequent ballots while the two principal parties were losing ground, Sarto gradually gained, drawing strength from both sides as well as from the neutrals until the ballot on Monday afternoon, when his vote had increased to 37, within six of the necessary two-thirds.

Overcome With Emotion.

When the result of this ballot was announced in the conclave Cardinal Sarto was so overcome with emotion and so touched by the unlooked for confidence reposed in him that he could no longer control his feelings, and, to the surprise of all, he broke down, declaring that such responsibility and honor were not for him and that he must refuse if offered. Tears rolled down his cheeks and he seemed firm in his determination to refuse the dignity. He was so palpably sincere that consternation reigned in the conclave and the cardinals spent the whole evening, and far into the night in convincing him that his election was the will of Providence and that he must accept Cardinal Sarto's lips trembled so that he could hardly articulate, but after a visible effort he said:

"If this cup cannot pass from me—There he paused, but the cardinals around him insisted that it was necessary for him to answer "yes" or "no." Thereupon he replied firmly, "I accept."

There is much speculation regarding the political attitude of the new pope inasmuch as he has not participated in the general affairs of the church during his career. The general opinion, however, is that he will make no change in the relations between the Vatican and the quibral.

One of his first steps certainly will be to ameliorate the relations of the Vatican and France and try to prevent a similar struggle against the congregations in Spain. He is not credited with being particularly favorable to Austria, as he still remembers how much his fatherland suffered under the domination of that country.

Pius X. admires the progress of Catholicism in America and considers the United States a most fertile field for religion. The cardinals mentioned as likely to be appointed secretary of state are Ferrata, prefect of the congregation of bishops; Cavignani and Vincenzo Vannutelli, bishop of Palesina.

STORY OF HIS LIFE.

Honored For His Purity and Strict Uprightness.

Giuseppe Sarto was born in Riese, diocese of Treviso, June 2, 1835, and was created cardinal by Leo XIII. at the consistory of June 12, 1893, receiving the title of S. Barnardo delle Terme. He is also Patriarch of Venice since June 1893, and Bishop of Mantua. He belongs to the ecclesiastical congregations of bishops and regulars, sacred rites, indulgences and sacred relics.

Cardinal Sarto enjoys great popularity in his diocese, and is honored by all for his purity, for the strict uprightness of his life, and for his ideas. He is a modest and agreeable man, highly cultivated, very kindhearted, still strong and robust in spite of his 68 years. He has never taken great part in the political and public life of the church, but divided his time between study and good works. Although most faithful to the Holy See he was presented to the King and Queen of Italy in Venice. He may be considered among the more liberal members of the Italian episcopate and sacred college. He is rather timid in expressing an opinion. It is said that Leo XIII. always thought very highly of him, and sided with him on one occasion when Sarto disapproved of Rampolla's policy.

The new pope is modest, energetic, a good administrator and organizer, a patron of the arts, and his seriousness always has been proverbial.

Early in April Pope Leo, in a conversation with Fr. Perotti, an Italian composer, said in speaking of Cardinal Sarto:

"Hold him very dear, Perotti, as in the future he will be able to do much for you. We firmly believe he will be our successor."

He has been known for many years as one of the greatest preachers in the church.

"Sarto" in Italian means "tailor" and Pius X., when a young seminarian, being rather elegant in his priestly robes, his companions used to joke saying that he evidently knew the business. He began his education at a seminary at Treviso and continued it at Padua, the seat of the famous university, one of the best known in the world. Pius X. was only 23 when he was consecrated a priest at Caster Franco, the birthplace of the great master, Giorgione acting afterwards for nine years as coadjutor to the parish priest of Tombolo, province of Padua, a small village of 2,950 people who were the first to appreciate his virtues. His kindness was untiring. In 1867 he was appointed parish priest at Salzano, which was considered an important decision, being a village of 3,341 souls. He distinguished himself so much at Salzano that he was only kept there two years, which is remarkable in the career of an Italian parish priest. In 1875 he was elected chan cellor of the bishopric of Treviso, then spiritual director of that seminary, judge of the ecclesiastical tribunal and finally vicar general.

Pope Leo, who had highly appreciated his cleverness, piety and modesty, appointed him in November, 1884 at the age of 49 years, bishop of Mantua, where he remained nine years until 1893, when he was made a cardinal and appointed patriarch of Venice. He there distinguished himself as a thorough reformer, suppressing all abuses, restoring the dignity of the clergy and the earnestness of religion. To him is due the revival of a Gregorian chant in the beautiful churches overlooking the lagoons, and to him is due the strict liturgical rules. Sarto became the idol of the Venetians. When his gondola went through the canals, kneeling and saluting, the women exclaiming "God bless the patriarch."

Advices from Riese, the birthplace of Pius X., and a village of 4,000 inhabitants, state that the pope's mother, now dead, when living there, occupied a small peasant's house; having in her humility always refused to live with her son, Giuseppe, as even his modest establishment was considered by her to be too luxurious in comparison with what she was accustomed to. The elder brother of the pope, Angelo, lives in the village of Delle Grazie, province of Mantua, being the postman of the district.

MAY PAROLE C. F. ANDREWS

FRIENDS THINK THEY HAVE THE GOVERNOR WON-OVER

TO RELEASE DETROIT'S NOTED BANK WRECKER.

THEY ARGUE THAT HE WILL PAY HIS DEBTS.

Saginaw, Mich., Aug. 6.—Men who have been working up sentiment among the victims of the Detroit City Savings bank, which Frank C. Andrews wrecked, have so far succeeded that they have been able to gather together a number of requests to the governor for his release. The governor himself, having rewarded Thomas J. Navin with a seat on the state prison board of control, has apparently been induced to grant this last favor to Navin's comrade and coworker at once.

"Unless our plans miscarry," said this man, "Governor Bliss will sign Andrews' parole before the week expires. Andrews' friends hope and believe that Governor Bliss will stand by his promise this time."

As far as can be learned, the advisory board in the matter of pardons has not taken any action on the matter. The achievement lies with the governor acting singly and alone. It is this directness of responsibility that causes the Andrews clientele to fear, and yet it is their only hope.

A straight pardon, it is stated, might leave Andrews liable to trial on another charge, while a parole will leave him more serenely his own master and avoid the possibility of confusion or worse, that might arise over the absolute release of a prisoner who has not served half his sentence.

The argument is used that as a free man he will be able to straighten out the affairs of the institution he ruined and make more adequate restitution to the depositors than can any other man or men. The considerations that have been urged on the governor are something like these:

"It is Andrews' desire to pay all his creditors every dollar he owes them and that the bank owes them, and if he is given a chance he will do so. He wants to clear his name for his son's sake, and if he is kept in prison and his property confiscated he will be a total wreck when his term expires. His residence in Detroit was sold for $26,000 and the rents realized out of the property amounted to $19,000 a year. His farm was sold for much less than it cost to plant the shrubbery."

Frank C. Andrews was committed to state's prison at Jackson on Nov. 17, 1903, to serve a fifteen-year sentence for the wreck of the City Savings bank of Detroit. During his incarceration he has been allowed all the privileges that could be given him. He was so pleased with his treatment that he gave Warren Vincent his personal endorsement as a first class official.

Wants Tobacco Confiscated.

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 6.—Claiming that the conditions under which cigars are made at Marquette prison threaten the public health, Deputy Labor Commissioner McLeod of Detroit asks power to confiscate the product, and will consult the attorney-general, with the consent of Commissioner Griswold. McLeod watched the convicts at their work on a recent visit of inspection and says it is the invariable practice to moisten the tips in the mouth before winding the wrapper down. Some of the prisoners are plainly diseased, and he believes the filthy practice endangers the health of smokers.

For Monument at Andersonville.

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 6.—The members of the Andersonville monument commission met with Governor Bliss Wednesday and decided to call for designs for the monument to be submitted at a meeting here September 21. It is the purpose of the commission to make an early selection of a design so that the contract can be executed in time to permit the monument to be dedicated next Memorial day.

New Church Organ Burned.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 6.—Fire broke out in the organ loft of the Central Christian church, at the corner of Second avenue and Ledyard street, shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday noon, and the fine new instrument, which was valued at about $2,500, was almost totally destroyed. What the flames did not lick up the firemen and water finished.

Killed After Celebrating.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 6.—James Tolliver, colored, of Battle Creek, who celebrated emancipation day here, attempted to board a train for home yesterday, and was instantly killed by falling under the wheels. He pushed through the gates after the train was in motion. Tolliver is said to have been under the influence of liquor.

Crushed to Death.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 6.—Chas. Patton, aged 55, trucking a ten-ton load of machinery to the freight depot, got caught between his load and a fence Wednesday afternoon and his life was crushed out. He leaves a widow and four children.

THE PROPERTIES OF MUSK.

In One Sense It is as Powerful as Radium. Radium was the subject under discussion, and a lawyer said: "I don't see anything so very wonderful in radium." Admit that it does glow in light and heat in a kind of perpetual motion without any loss of weight or energy—well, won't a grain of musk do the same thing? One single grain of musk (this has been demonstrated) will scent for several years a room twelve feet square, and in the end the grain will still remain entire. Consider what this means. A room twelve feet-square containing 2,985,584 cubic inches, and each one-tenth cubic inch at least must have 1-1000th mole-cule of musk, or otherwise all the air would not be perfumed. One grain of musk, that is to say, will radiate millions and millions of musk fragments, for years, and still it will remain whole. Can radium beat that?"

Before Rome Was Found.

In one of the tombs recently excavated in the Roman Forum a was discovered, the inscription of which show that it belongs to a twelfth century before Christ or 4 years before the reputed date of founding of Rome. Samuel E. B. director of the excavations, believed the tomb to be a relic of a city which existed and had disappeared before Rome was founded.

Two of Them.

A man who had just finished a comfortable meal at a restaurant the other evening suddenly rose from his chair, caught up his hat and an umbrella that stood against the wall, and rushed out of the building.

"Stop him!" exclaimed the proprietor. "That fellow went out without paying!"

"I'll stop him!" said a determined looking man, who rose up hastily from a table near where the other had sat. "He took my gold-headed umbrella!"

"I'll stop him, and I'll bring him back in charge of a police officer, the second!"

Without a moment's pause he dashed out of the house in hot pursuit of the conscienceless villain. And the proprietor, a cold, hard, unsympathetic man, began to suspect that neither of them would ever come back.

Bird Vengeance.

A naturalist recently witnessed an encounter between a large swan and a little brown duck. The duck had apparently insulted the swan by trying to cross its path, for it was suddenly seized by the swan and held under the water until he was sure it would be drowned. But at last the swan let it go and sailed majestically away. The duck, after taking breath, looked around to see where its enemy was, and seeing it rose into the air and deliberately came down, flapping its wings, on the astonished swan's back. The swan fled in terror, and the duck, apparently satisfied, quietly swam away.—Pearson's Weekly.

There is no law to prevent a citizen from asking for an injunction, but there is also no law compelling a judge to issue such a writ.

You wouldn't think to look around you that the national dressmakers' association declared this spring that the shirt waist must go.

Carriers have been appointed to fill vacancies as follows: Gagetown, Fred A. Reid, Ira K. Reed (substitute); Oxford, Harry A. Cudler, Ed Siles (substitute); St. Louis, C. D. Perrine, D. Curtis (substitute).

The postoffice department established during the month of July 2,455 rural free delivery routes. The total number of routes established for the entire fiscal year ended June 30, 1933, was 5,664. It is announced at the department that there is remaining unallotted of the appropriation for the present fiscal year a sufficient sum to establish about 4,600 additional routes.

VICTIMS OF LIGHTNING.

Boy Killed Near Hillsdale and Woman Struck Down Near Battle Creek.

Hillsdale, Mich., Aug. 6.—Herbert Cox, aged 11 years, was killed by lightning while standing in the door of a large barn owned by John Brown, five miles northwest of this city. Wednesday morning Mr. Brown was struck and seriously injured but will recover. The barn was totally destroyed.

Battle Creek, Mich., Aug. 6.—Mrs. John Morley, residing three miles east, was struck by lightning Wednesday morning and instantly killed. Herself and husband went out to the barn at 8:30 o'clock to hitch up, preparatory to coming to this city. A heavy storm came up and a bolt of lightning struck the barn the ball coming down into the tall where Mr. and Mrs. Morley were standing. Both were thrown to the floor, as was the horse.

When Mr. Morley recovered from the shock he found his wife dead with her clothing burned off.

Nipped Elopement in Bud.

Port Huron, Mich., Aug. 6.—Carina Joseph, the beautiful Swedish woman who eloped some time ago with George Zula, the Beau Brummel of the colony, and is suing her husband, Peter Joseph, for a divorce was the heroine in another elopement which was nipped in the bud. There is a capias out for George for alienating Carina's affection from her husband and to his located in Sarnia. He took two Indians into his confidence and they were to come to the Harrington hotel and Carina was to meet them and flee with them in a boat across the St. Clair river. Sheriff Davidson heard of the plot and nipped it in the bud. The Indians, who belong to the Sarnia reservation, skipped out in time to avoid arrest. Carina is still at work and George, her lover, is waiting on the shores of Canada for another opportunity to come.

To Sacrifice Her Babe.

Corunna, Mich., Aug. 6.—Mrs. Edward Hath of Perry has been adjudged insane in the probate court and was taken to the asylum at Pontiac. Mrs. Hath is 38 years of age and has a babe 18 months old. She was not allowed to take the child, as she recently declared "the Lord has commanded me to kill my daughter as a sacrifice. The woman is insane over religion."

Honor and Temperance.

Calamet, Mich., Aug. 6.—The supreme council of the Temple of Honor and Temperance convened here Wednesday and will be in session until Friday night. The gathering is the largest of the kind ever assembled in this city. Visitors are here from temples in Canada, England and Sweden, as well as from all parts of the United States.

GREAT REDUCTIONS IN PRICES AT TRAVER'S

This is the time when profits go a glimmering. We are satisfied to have it that way, stocks must be cleaned up slick and clean and the only way to do it is by reducing prices.

Newness is as essential as quality and unless we meet each season with clean counters we can't guarantee you that newness—the best and newest for the least money is what we want you to expect here—that's why we are now letting profits and part of the costs go.

$13.50, $16.50 for our Finest Suits for Men
$3.85 for Boys' $5 and $6 Sailor Suits
$5.45 for Boys' $7-50, $8, $9 Sailor Suits
Half Price for any Straw Hat
Either Men's, Boys' or Children's

Such chances to save money should bring you this week—if you can't come try a mail order. Money back if you're not satisfied but we know you will be.

NORTHVILLE.

The City in Brief.

Mrs. Fred Fry is again convalescent.

County fair advertising has made its appearance.

"Rio Grande" at opera house Friday, Aug. 14.

Miss Bessie Galbraith is the new clerk at Frasier's bakery.

Chas. Gardner was on the sick list a part of last and this week.

Trade dollars, worth only 60 cents, are showing up in nearby towns.

Mrs. John Palmer has been quite ill for a week or so but is now much better.

The W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs. VanZile Tuesday, Aug. 11, at three o'clock.

The ladies of the Baptist church will hold a bake sale in the Kellogg block Saturday, Aug. 8th.

Mrs. N. H. Baker and daughter of Morend have been entertained this week at the home of the former's son Geo. Baker east of town.

Bear in mind the union excursion to Tashmoor Park August 18. It is under the auspices of the Northville Masons and the Plymouth band.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Myers of Bowling Green, Ohio, are the parents of a new daughter. Mrs. Myers was formerly Miss Jessie Ely of this place.

Don't forget the play Aug. 14 at the opera house.

The early varieties of grapes are beginning to color.

Miss Jennie Ledbetter, who has been quite ill, is some better.

A card from Vern Calkins tells his friends of his safe arrival in Kearney, N. J.

Ed. Perrin has succeeded Abe Rich as clerk at Hinkley & Tinham's cigar store.

The village is putting in new cement cross walks on Dunlap and High streets.

A new cement walk is being placed in front of Merritt Stanley's property on Main street.

The little babe at George McFarland's which has been very sick with cholera infantum is better.

The Northville Condensing company erected a large new smoke stack at their factory this week.

The street commission has been doing some excellent and much needed grading on south Wing street.

A. W. Olde now holds the championship stroke record on the Northville golf links, having made the rounds in 35 strokes.

"Do not neglect cutting" those weeds any longer" says an exchange. No, they are decidedly long enough now. Cut them shorter if you cut them at all.

Mamie Huff was pleasantly surprised by a number of her young friends Monday night, the occasion being her birthday. She received some very nice presents.

The Plymouth band will give another concert on the public square here Saturday night and will play the two new popular airs "Peaceful Henry" and "Simple Simon."

Clayton Deake has distanced his own huckleberry picking record mentioned last week and now holds that of having "clawed off" in a swamp in Green Oak four bushels of the berries in six hours.

Visitors to Northville are enthusiastic in their praises of the beauty of our little city, which certainly does look very pretty with its abundance of trees and summer flowers and its neatly kept lawns.

The council has made arrangements with the Ely Dowd Co. to remove the watering place at the latter's factory to the opposite side of the street, where it will be much more conveniently located for the public.

Miss McCall won the Avenue theatre tickets this week by guessing within 54 of the correct number.

Bear in mind the Record gives out two tickets free of charge each week. Send guesses in no later than Friday of each week.

Leonard Chatter is full up with a badly cut leg as the result of the unskillful use of a scythe in the hands of an Italian laborer with whom he was working on the E. M. section. Mr. Chatter came near bleeding to death before he could reach home.

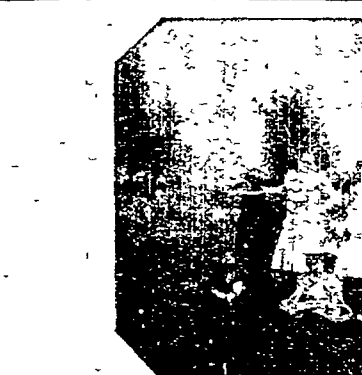

Some doubt has been expressed as to the proper pronunciation of the word "humble," as applied to the man employed to run a motor car. It is a French word and means "humbler," and is pronounced very much as if spelled "so-far," with the accent on the last syllable.

Next week Friday evening all roads will lead to Northville and all the sidewalks in town will lead to the Opera House and Rio Grande. The "Bees" are making the effort of their lives in the amusement line and from present indications are likely to have a record breaking attendance.

Mrs. A. K. Carpenter was surprised Monday evening by a party of about thirty of her friends who suddenly appeared at her home with the announcement that they had come to help her celebrate her birthday. Of course it goes without saying that everybody had a delightful time.

The members of the W. C. T. U. feel very grateful to all who assisted in their union service Sunday evening especially to Rev. W. G. Stevens of Plymouth for his helpful, enthusiastic address, and to Miss Stroud for so kindly coming to their aid. The ladies have many good words for her and hope to see and hear her in Northville again.

Hard coal at Ambler & Co.'s. Lots of it at right prices.

Scene at Tashmoor Park where the Northville Masons and the Plymouth Band goes on August 18th.

Fred Cook is very ill with typhoid pneumonia.

Services as usual in the Baptist church Sunday morning.

This can well go on record as a comparatively cool summer.

There were 169 tickets sold here for the Woodmen's excursion this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Davis passed their 27th wedding anniversary last Wednesday.

M. S. Ambler states that the Ambler pond at "Lovers Lane" will be rebuilt and that his company will go into the ice business again as usual this winter.

A game of ball is to be played at Wheeler's Nottside park between the Northville F. & A. M. and the firemen tomorrow afternoon at 3:30. Firemen's wives and ladies of the O. E. S. are especially invited, and comfortable seats will be provided. Admission 10 cents. Ladies free.

A blue rock trophy tournament under the auspices of the Northville Shooting club is in progress here today. Among the prizes are a silver cup donated by the Peters Cartridge Co. and a handsome air rifle from the J. A. DuBois Co. There are ten events on the list and all the clubs in Oakland, Washtenaw, Livingston, Macomb and Wayne counties may participate.

The program for "Fresh Air Mission Day" at Mrs. Little's Tuesday was much enjoyed. Most of it was by invited guests. We were pleased to have Mrs. Fry, professor of music, with us to assist. Miss Stroud of Detroit gave a very pathetic recitation, followed by a humorous one. She surely understands the art of pleasing. The supper, which followed, was enjoyed by the young people in old fashioned picnic style.

The Graphophone in Science.

From The Youth's Companion

An attempt is being made by the Academy of Science of Vienna to turn the graphophone to account as an important registering instrument for scientific investigation in the study of various languages and dialects which are now in the course of development or of extinction. Three scientific expeditions recently sent out by the Academy have been equipped with graphophones specially designed for this purpose. In order to secure permanent records, the wax tablets are metal-plated and a matrix is made from which fresh wax plates may be cast at any time.

The graphophone has been used for ethnological purposes in Borneo by Prof. Haddon; in Uganda by Sir Harry Johnston, and in Northern Siberia by two explorers from the Smithsonian Institution.

Methodist Church Notes.

[By the Pastor.]

The pastor will be home from his vacation at Mackinac Island and Bay View this evening, coming to Detroit via the steamer City of Mackinac. He is to occupy the pulpit next Sunday and the themes will be: Morning, "Vacation at Bay View, or a Gospel for the Heart;" evening, "Vacation at Mackinac Island, or a Gospel for the Liver." The Northville Methodist will be distributed in the morning.

Avenue Theatre, Detroit.

People who like to laugh—and the cynic who doesn't enjoys no pleasure in life—will find special delight at the Avenue theatre next week. Manager Lamkin has taken particular pains to book an all-comedy show. Each act on the bill will be a strong comedy turn.

Whitney's Opera House—Detroit.

"The Eleventh Hour," Lincoln J. Carter's successful melodrama, will be the attraction at the Whitney Theatre next week. It is full of intensely thrilling situations and the heavy man and hero come into frequent conflict. The finish of the final act is something extremely exciting. A rough and tumble fight between the villain and hero and their friends is indulged in in a millionaire's room, accompanied by the crashing glass of the handsome decorations. In reality considerable property is destroyed in the act but it has the appearance of being much more destructive than it is.

Why Nations Wear Colors

Did it ever occur to you that the bunch of colored ribbons you wear in your buttonhole or pinned on your dress if you are a girl—at commencement, or at a baseball or football game, is really a flag? asks a writer in St. Nicholas. It tells to what class or school or college you belong, or which of these, for the time, has your interest and sympathy. And for some what similar reasons do nations wear their colors. At first, maybe, it was to tell one another apart, but after awhile the colors—the flag—came to represent the nation itself, and the way the people acted toward the nation's flag was supposed to show the way they felt toward the nation.

CHAPTER VIII.

THE ABDUCTION OF A PRINCESS.

THAT afternoon they went to the palace grounds and inquired for the chief steward. After a few moments they were shown to his office in a small dwelling house just inside the gates. The steward was a red faced little man, pleasant and accommodating. He could speak German—in fact, he was a German by birth—and they had no difficulty in presenting their request. Mr. Fraasch-Jacob Fraasch—was at first dubious, but their frank, eager faces soon gained for them his consent to see that part of the great park open to the public. Beyond certain lines they were not to trespass. Anguish asked how they could be expected to distinguish these lines, being unacquainted, and the steward grimly informed them that the members of the royal guard would establish the lines so plainly that it would be quite clear.

He then wrote for them a pass to the grounds of the royal palace of Graustark, affixing his seal. In giving this pass to them he found occasion to say that the princess had instructed him to extend every courtesy possible to an American citizen. It was then that Anguish asked if he might be permitted to use his camera. There was an instant and emphatic refusal, and they were told that the pass would be rescinded if they did not leave the camera outside the gates. Reluctantly Anguish deposited his luckless box in the steward's office, and they passed into the broad avenue which led toward the palace.

A guard, who served also as a guide, stopped to their side before they had taken ten paces. Where he came from they never knew, so instantaneous was his appearance. He remained with them during the two hours spent in the wonderful park.

The palace stood in the northwestern part of the grounds, possibly a half mile from the base of the mountain. Its front faced the mountain side. The visitors were not permitted to go closer than a quarter of a mile from the structure, but attained a position from which it could be seen in all its massive, ancient splendor. Anguish, who had studied churches and old structures, painted the castles on the Rhine and was something of a connoisseur in architecture, was of the opinion that it had been standing for more than 500 years. It was a vast, medieval ruin, of stone, covered with moss and ivy, with towers, turrets and battlements.

The park was probably a mile square, and was surrounded by a high wall, on the top of which were little guard-houses and several masked cannon. When they had completed their tour of inspection, their guide rapidly led the way to the wall that encircled the grounds, reaching it at a point not far from the castle itself. Here was situated another large gate, through which they did not pass. Instead they ascended some steps and came out upon the high wall. The top of this wall was several feet wide, and walking was comparatively safe. They soon understood the guide's design. The object was to walk along this wall until they reached the main gate. Why this peculiar course was to be taken they could not imagine at first. Anguish's fertile brain came to the rescue. He saw a number of women in a distant part of the grounds, and remembering their guide's haste in conducting them to the wall, rightly conjectured that it was against custom for visitors to meet and gaze upon members of the royal household. The men and women, none of whom could be plainly distinguished from the faraway wall, were undoubtedly a part of the castle's family and were not to be subjected to the curious gaze of sightseers. Perhaps her royal highness the Princess of Graustark was among them.

They reached the main gate and descended, Anguish securing his camera, after which they thanked the steward and turned to see the guide. But he had disappeared as if the ground had swallowed him.

"Well, it's a fair Vesuvius," observed Anguish, as they walked down the street, glancing back at the frowning mountain.

"It goes to make me wonder why in the name of Heaven we have never heard of this land of Graustark," said Lorry, still thinking of the castle's grandeur.

"My boy, there are lots of things we don't know. We're too busy. Don't you remember that but one life the world knows how the other half lives? I'll wager there are not twenty-five people in the United States who know there is such a country as Graustark."

"I don't believe that a single soul over there is heard of the place," retorted Lorry, very truthfully.

"I'll accept the amendment," said Anguish. Then he proceeded to take a big bag that he had listeners other than the man to whom he spoke.

A dark figure shot across the roadway, and, almost before the Americans were aware of it, the party numbered three.

"Ah, Geddos, you are punctual," "I have found it ever a virtue," responded the newcomer.

"Have you secured your men?" "I have, your—"

red, some black, some blue, but all in solid colors. Beneath these robes were baggy trousers and blouses among the men, short skirts among the women. All wore low boots and a sort of fur-ban. These costumes, of course, were confined to the native civilians. At the hotel the garb of the aristocrats was vastly different. The women were gowned after the latest Viennese patterns, and the men, except those of the army, wore clothes almost as smart as those which covered the Americans. Miss Guggenlocker—or whatever her name might be—had her carriage companion as an exquisitely gowned lady, who was to be seen on the boulevards or in Hyde park of an afternoon.

It was late in the afternoon when they returned to the hotel. After dinner, during which they were again objects of interest, they strolled off toward the castle, smoking their cigars and enjoying the glorious air. Being a stranger in a strange land, Lorry acted on the romantic painter's advice and also stuck a revolver in his pocket. He laughed at the suggestion that there might be use for the weapon in such a quiet, model, well regulated town, but Anguish insisted.

"I've seen a lot of these fellows around town who look like genuine brigands and cutthroats, and I think it just as well that we be prepared," asserted he positively, and his friend grumbled what he called a whim.

At 10 o'clock the slender moon dropped behind the mountain, and the valley, which had been touched with its tender light, gradually took on the somberness and stillness of a starlit night. The town slumbered at 11, and there were few lights to be seen in the streets or in the houses. Here and there strolled the white uniformed police guards, occasionally soldiers hurriedly backtracked, now and then belated citizens moved through the dense shadows on the sidewalks, but the Americans saw still life in its reality.

Retreating from their stroll beside the castle walls far to the west of where they had entered the grounds that afternoon, they paused in the middle of Castle avenue near the main gate and looked down the dark, deserted street. A ray could be seen the faint light from their hotel. One or two street lamps burned in the business part of the city. Aside from these evidences of life there was nothing but darkness, silence, peacefulness, about them everywhere.

"Think of Paris or New York at 11 o'clock," said Lorry, a trifle awed by the solitude of the sleeping city. "It's as dead as a piece of plaster," said his friend. "And it makes me sleepy to look down that street. It's a mile to the hotel, too, Lorry. We'd better move along."

"Let's lie down near the hedge, smoke another cigar and wait till midnight. It is too glorious a night to be lost in sleep," urged Lorry, whose heart was light over the joys of the day to come. "I can dream just as well here, looking at that dark old castle, with its one little tower light, as I could if I tried to sleep in a hard bed down at the hotel."

Anguish, who was more or less of a dreamer himself, consented, and after lighting fresh cigars they threw themselves on the soft, dry grass near the tall hedge that fenced the avenue, as it neared the castle grounds. For half an hour they talked by fits and starts, one thinking of the face he had seen, the other picturing in his artist eye the painting he had vowed to create from the moonlit castle of an hour ago.

"Some one coming," murmured the painter, half rising to his elbow attentively.

"Soldiers," said the other briefly. "They'll not disturb us."

"They'll not even see us, I should say. It's as dark as Egypt under this hedge. They'll pass if we keep quiet."

The figures of two men could be seen approaching from the city, dim and ghostly in the semiblackness of the night. Like two thieves the Americans waited for them to pass. To their exceeding discomfort, however, the pedestrians halted directly in front of their resting place and seated themselves leisurely upon a broad, flat stone at the roadside. It was too dark to see if they were soldiers, notwithstanding the fact that they were less than fifteen feet away.

"He should be here at 12," said one of the newcomers in a low voice and in fairly good English. The other merely grunted. There was a silence of some duration, broken by the first speaker.

"If this job fails, and you are caught, it will mean years of servitude."

"But in that case we are to have 10,000 gavoos apiece for each year we lie in prison. It's fair pay—not only for our failure, but for our silence," said the other, whose English was more difficult to understand.

Anguish's fingers gripped Lorry's leg, but there was no sound from either of the thoroughly aroused dreamers. "A plot, as I live," thought each, with a thrill.

"We must be careful to speak only in English. There are not twenty people in Edelweiss who understand it, but the night has ears. It is the only safe tongue. Geddos speaks it well. He should be here." It was the first speaker who uttered these words, little knowing snapshot of the castle from the middle of the street. He also secured a number of views of the mountain side, of some odd little dwelling houses and two or three interesting exposures of red robed children. Everybody, from the children to the men in armor, wore loose robes, some of which were loose robes, some of which were loose robes.

"St. Call me Michael, on your life. They are ready and willing to undertake the venture?" "Yes, but they do not understand the true conditions. I have told them that we are to rob the castle and carry the booty to Ganlook before morning."

"They do not know the real object of the raid, then. That is as I desired. Are they frisky and experienced men?"

"The best—or the worst—that I could find in Vienna. Not one understands our language, and they are so ignorant of our town that they are entirely dependent on me. They know nothing whatever of the princess, Michael, and will do only as they are told, realizing that if caught they will be guillotined. I have told them it is the royal palace we are to rifle. Ostrom here and I are the only ones except yourself and the men who will aid us inside the castle, who know the truth, sir."

"It cannot fail unless those inside prove false or unworthy," said the hoarse voiced Ostrom. Anguish's fingers were gripping Lorry's leg so fiercely that the blood was ready to burst out, but he did not feel the pain. Here, then, was some gigantic plot in which the person of the princess herself was to be considered. Was it an assassination?

"You have five of these Viennese?" "Yes, two to stand beneath the window to receive the booty as we lower it to the ground, one to stand guard at the west gate and two to attend the carriage and horses in the ravine beyond the castle."

"He should be here at 12."

"When did these men arrive?" "This morning. I kept them in my sister's home until an hour ago. They are now in the ravine awaiting Ostrom and myself. Are you sure, Michael, that the guards and the cook have been made to understand every detail? The faintest slip will mean ruin."

"They are to be trusted fully. Their pay is to be high enough to make it an object to be infallible. The guard, Dushan, will leave the gate unwatched, and you will chloroform him, with his consent, of course. You will enter, as I have explained before, and crawl along in the dark shadow of the wall until you reach the arbor that leads to the kitchen and scullery. Here another guard, Hubbo, known to Ostrom as a comrade in her royal highness's service not more than a year ago, will be encountered. He will be bound and gagged without the least noise or struggle. Just as the clock strikes 2 the cook will walk past the scullery window in the basement thrice, carrying a lighted candle. You will see this light through the window and will know that all is well inside the castle. Ostrom, you will then lead the two Viennese to a place directly beneath the third window in the princess's sleeping apartment. There are several clumps of shrubbery there, and under these they will hide, protected from the gaze of any watchman who is not with us. You and Geddos will be admitted to the scullery by the cook, who will conduct you to the hall leading to her highness's bedroom. The man who guards her door is called Dannox. He will not be at his post, but will accompany you when you leave the castle. You will understand how carefully you must enter her room and how deeply she must be chloroformed. In the adjoining room her lady in waiting, the Countess Dagmar, sleeps. If her door is ajar, you are to creep in and chloroform her, leaving her undisturbed. Then the princess is to be wrapped in the cloth you take with you and lowered from the window to the men below. They are to remain in hiding until you have left the castle and have reached their side. It will not be difficult, if caution is observed, for you to get outside of the wall and to the carriage in the ravine. I have given you this plan of action before, I know, but I desire to impress it firmly upon your minds. There must not be the slightest deviation. The precision of clockwork is necessary."

The man named Michael blessed the foregoing into the ears of his companions, the pained Americans hearing every word distinctly. They scarcely breathed, so tremendous was the restraint imposed upon their nerves. A crime so huge, so daring as the abduction of a princess, the actual invasion of a castle to commit the theft of a human being just as an ordinary burglar would steal in and make way with the contents of a silver chest, was beyond their power of comprehension.

"We understand fully how it is to be done, and we shall get her to Ganlook on time," said Geddos confidently.

"Not a hair of her head must be harmed," cautioned the arch conspirator. "In four days I shall meet you at Ganlook. You will keep her in close confinement until you hear from me. Have you the guard's uniforms that you are to wear tonight?"

"They are with the carriage in the ravine. Ostrom and I will meet them before going to the castle. In case we are seen they will throw observers off the track long enough for us to secure a good start in our flight."

"Remember, there is to be no failure. This may mean death to you, certainly a long prison term, if you are apprehended. I know it is a daring deed, but it is just of the kind that succeeds. Who would dream that mortal man could find the courage to steal a princess of the realm from her bed and spirit her away from under the very noses of her vaunted guardsmen? It is the bold, the impossible plan that wins."

"We cannot fail if your men on the inside do their work well," said Geddos, repeating what Ostrom had said. "All depends on their faithfulness."

"They will not be found wanting. Your cutthroats must be sent on to Calas with the empty carriage after you have reached Ganlook in safety. You will need them no more. Ostrom will pay them, and they are to leave the country as quickly as possible. At Calas they will be able to join a pack train that will carry them to the Great Northern railroad. From there they will have no trouble in reaching Vienna. You will explain to them, Geddos. All we need them for, as you know, is to prove by their mere presence in case of capture that the attempt was no more than a case of burglary conceived by a band of Viennese robbers. There will be no danger of capture if you once get her outside the walls. You can be half way to Ganlook before she is missed from the castle. Nor can she be found at Ganlook if you follow the instructions I gave last night. It is now nearly 1 o'clock, and in half an hour the night will be as dark as Erebus. Go, men; you have no more time to lose, for this must be accomplished slowly, carefully, deliberately. There must be no haste until you are ready for the race to Ganlook. Go, but for God's sake, do not harm her! And do not fail!"

"Failure means more to us than to you, Michael," half whispered the hoarse Ostrom. "Failure means everything to me! I must have her!"

Already the two hirelings were moving off toward the road that ran west of the castle grounds. Michael watched them for a moment and then started swiftly in the direction of the city. The watchers had not been able to distinguish the faces of the conspirators, but they could never forget the calm, cold voice of Michael, with its quiet, jerky English.

"What shall we do?" whispered Anguish when the men were out of hearing.

"God knows," answered Lorry. "This is the most damnable thing I ever heard of. Are we dreaming? Did we really see and hear those men? He had risen to his feet, his companion sitting weakly before him.

"There's no question about it! It's a case of abduction, and we have it in our power to avenge the whole job. My god, but this is luck, Great! Anguish was quivering with excitement as he rose to his feet. "Shall we notify old Dannox or alarm the steward? There's no time to be lost if we want to trap these fellows. The chief devil is bound to escape, for we can't get him and the others too, and they won't peach on him. Come, we must be lively! What are you standing there for? The trap must be set."

"Wait! Why not do the whole job ourselves?" "How—what do you mean?" "Why should we alarm anybody? We know the plans as well as these scoundrels themselves. Why not follow them right into the castle, capture them red handed, and then do the alarming? I'm in for saving the Princess of Graustark with our own hands and right under the noses of her vaunted guardsmen, as Michael says. Lorry was thrilled by the spirit of adventure. His hand gripped his friend's arm and his face was close to his ear. "It is the grandest opportunity two human beings ever had to distinguish themselves!"

"Great heaven, man! We can't do such a thing!" gasped Anguish. "It's the easiest thing in the world. Besides, if we fail, we have nothing to lose. If we succeed, see what we've done! Don't hesitate, old man! Come on! Come on! We'll take 'em ourselves, as sure as fate. Have you no nerve? What kind of an American are you? This chance won't come in ten lifetimes! Are we not equal to those two scoundrels?"

"Two! There are at least ten of them!" "You fool! The three guards are disposed of in advance, two of the Viennese are left with the horses, two are chucked off under the princess's window, and one stands at the gate. We can slug the man at the gate, the fellows under the window are harmless, and that leaves but our two friends and the cook. We have every advantage in the world. Can't you see?"

"You are right! Come on! I'll risk it with you! We will save the Princess of Graustark!"

"Don't you see it will be just as easy for us to enter the castle as for these robbers? The way will be clear and will be kept clear. Jove, man, we need not be more than thirty seconds behind them. Is your pistol all right?"

By this time the two men were speeding along the grassy stretch toward the road that ran beside the wall. They looked to their pistols and placed them carefully in outside coat pockets.

"We must throw away these heavy canes," whispered the painter to his friend, who was a pace or so ahead.

"Keep it! We'll need one of them to crack that fellow's head at the gate. Gad, it's dark along here."

"How the devil are we to know where to go?"

"We'll stop when we come to the gate where we climbed up the wall-to-day. That is the only entrance I saw along the west wall, and it is near the castle. Just as soon as the gang enters that gate we'll crawl up and get rid of the fellow who stands watch."

"It was so dark that they could barely see the roadway, and they found it necessary to cease talking as they slunk along beside the wall. Occasionally they paused to listen, fearing that they might draw too close upon the men who had gone before. At last they came to a big gate and halted.

"Is this the gate?" whispered Anguish.

"Sh! Yes; I'm quite sure. We are undoubtedly near the castle, judging of the distance we have come. Let us cross the road and lie directly opposite. Be careful!"

"Like panthers they stole across the road, and down a short grassy embankment. At Anguish's suggestion Lorry wrapped his handkerchief tightly about the heavy end of his cane, preparing in that way to deaden the sound of the blow that was to fall upon the Vienna man's head. Then they threw aside their hats, buttoned their coats tightly and sank down to wait, with bounding hearts and tingling nerves, the arrival of the abductors, mutely praying that they were at the right gate."

As he approached next week.

Queered. Constituent—Mr. Pünman, I have read that speech you delivered the other day on the question of public ownership, and there's one thing I can't understand about it. What did you say so much about aluminum for? You spoke about it fifty times in the course of your remarks, and I couldn't see that it had any connection with the rest of the speech.

Eminent Citizen (mortified and indignant)—Aluminum? Good heavens! The ignoramus that copied the speech for publication must have got it wrong. The word I used so much was "Altruism!"—Chicago Tribune.

An advertiser in the Farmington Enterprise of last week says: "Why not get a new buggy for the 4th? Maybe somebody will hit the spring crops turn out well next year."

The Oxford Leader appropriately mentions a young physician formerly of that vicinity as "carving his way to success." The young man referred to may, however, feel somewhat cut up about the term if he sees the item.

Milford's business men's base ball team had no business with Plymouth's dummies last week. They were discouraged down there by a score of 1 to 2, and you can't make one of 'em believe now that Boston is an unbeatable number.

The Adrian Press recently mentioned something about a "widow lady" and we were going to imagine some woman who had a widow gentleman when a girl happened to think that occasionally there are widows who don't die.

According to the Orion Review the mayor of Adrian is an ex-convict. However, the title is obviously only a matter of the typographical error. A. Adrian never was known to have anything in that line in the mayor's office. And there aren't likely to be any in it either, according to precedent.

An Oakland county wife of a year and a half has brought suit for divorce on grounds that are unique, to say the least. "The man with the hoe" discovered a new use for that celebrated implement over in Southfield the other day. He began a strenuous cultivation of his wife's physical geography with it but was not eminently successful in "hoing" her down as the neighbors promptly compelled him to dig out of town assisting him by vigorous kicks. He will have a hard row to hoe if he ever goes back there.

A "remarkable coincidence" occurred the other day near Wyandotte when the wife of a Detroit milk dealer was carried away in her boat and stranded on Oak Island. It probably is not unusual in the experience of the family that water should cause trouble, but it was very like the irony of fate that the wife of that particular woman's husband should be cast away on an island with a woman as that.

LONG CHASE FINALLY ENDED.

Truant Officer at Last Succeeds in Capturing Sterling Price.

"I have a war story that beats all records," said Truant Officer S. B. Clements yesterday afternoon, "for this morning I got a man named Sterling Price, and I have been hunting Sterling Price for forty-two years. I landed him in police court, ending a chase that started in Missouri in 1861."

"When the war broke out I was a young shaver living in Missouri, and I enlisted in the union army. There were warm times in Missouri then and a whole lot of guerrilla fighting. The regiment I was with went after a guerrilla named Sterling Price. We hunted him up hill and down dale, but we didn't get him, and I was always a little disappointed at the failure."

"Well, now comes the old part of the story. This week I decided to go after the father of a boy named Price because the youngster wasn't being sent to school. I went early in the morning, and I looked him up and down, and you can believe it or not, but the man I found was Sterling Price. That's the end of that forty-two years of hunting."

"Is it a true story?" Mr. Clements was asked by some dabbles on.

"Why certainly," said Mr. Clements, "and the man you met was the same rebel general you heard of in 1861."

"Oh, no; indeed, I didn't say that. I told you a true story, and if I had said that it wouldn't have been true."

And then Mr. Clements felt very much hurt because one of the fifteen men told him it was too bad that he didn't get him during the war—Clement's Commercial Tribune.

Oldest Joke on Record

It will be difficult to discover an older prehistoric joke than that of the copper-smith and the maker of images for the temple of Osiris, which is embodied in Egyptian inscriptions, dating from the reign of Nemes found of Memphis, who reigned over 7,000 years ago.

According to ancient records there dwelt, between the two craftsmen, a quiet man whose desire was for peace, and who was sadly disturbed by the noisy occupations carried on by his busy neighbors.

He therefore asked each of them to say for what sum they would change their dwellings. This they did, each calculated the amount required, and he, being satisfied, paid it over to them.

"Now," he asked of the copper-smith, "where is your new dwelling?"

"I have taken that of the maker of images," was the reply.

"And you?" queried the quiet man of the latter, "whether good or bad?"

"To the house of the copper-smith."

This is one of many tales, told in all ages, which are woven into myth and legend, and differ only in local color.

Stray Stories.

Cheerfulness Counts.

The Cosmopolitan says the longevity of the medical man is materially less than that of workers of other professions. Only those with a sound physique, other things being equal, can win a struggle for success. The sick look to a confidence to the well. They demand the hearty dogmatism that comes from the overflowing of animal spirits. They enjoy the cheerful optimism that comes from a good digestion. They lean upon the doctor in their weakness and yield willing obedience to his kindly influence. Much of the power possessed for good may be outside of pills or potions, correct theories or sound deductions—American Medicine.

His Task Too Hard.

The Austrian treasury was in a deplorable condition when the war with France broke out in 1859, and when Baron Bruck, who had charge of the national finances at the time, was called up to respond to the toast, "May God defend the army," the minister replied that his "fervent prayer was that God would, for he himself would not be able to do so much longer." The baron found his task even more difficult, evidently, than he expected, for he took his own life before the war was over.

AMERICA'S CUP CONTEST

Why the New York Yacht Club Is Confident of Retaining the Trophy

AS the time draws near for the third effort of Sir Thomas Lipton to lift the America's cup increased public interest in the coming contest is made manifest by the eagerness with which every detail of design and equipment of the contesting yachts is compared and discussed. The unanimous selection of the Reliance to try conclusions with Shamrock III, was a foregone conclusion, her superiority over the Constitu-

OLIVER ISELIN, Managing Owner of Reliance.

Con and Columbia having been evident about from the start. Only a short time now remains for the final finishing and a voyage to the first race being scheduled for Aug. 24.

The schedule laid for five races, to be sailed on alternate days, Sundays excepted, off Sandy Hook. To capture the cup, without question the world's greatest yachting trophy, the victor must three times be returned a winner. The distance to be sailed in each race is thirty miles, a windward and leeward reef of fifteen miles and return, alternating with a triangular course of ten miles to each leg. The time limit is five hours, "no contest" being declared if neither of the yachts crosses the finish line within the prescribed time.

That the members of the New York Yacht club are confident of retaining the trophy which has been in their possession for more than half a century is beyond question. It is true that the trials of Shamrock III have shown that she is a exceedingly dangerous vessel, but under almost any weather conditions, but the American public, and the yachting ships have become so accustomed to victory by the club's defenders that the possibility of defeat rarely enters into their calculations.

In the coming contest, however, there is enough of the element of uncertainty to arouse more than the usual deep interest in the contest, and although the triumph of the general Sir Thomas is not considered probable, such a result would cause nothing short of a sensation and would be regarded as a national calamity.

Mr. C. Oliver Iselin, managing owner of the Reliance, to whose skill as an amateur skipper and all around yachtsman the successful defense of the cup has been left, is now new hand on a cup defender. It was he who, as a member of the Vigilant syndicate in 1893 and again in 1895 on the Defender brought the boat up to the line in splendid racing fettle and successfully defended the "blue ribbon of the seas" against Lord Dufferin's Valkyrie II, and Valkyrie III. He repeated his previous victories in 1899 with the Columbia when Sir Thomas Lipton brought over his Shamrock I, to make his first try at lifting the cup.

Mr. Iselin has been an enthusiastic yachtsman since his boyhood days, and nearly all the members of his family are identified in some way with yachting. It is no exaggeration to say that the Iselins are the greatest family of yachtsmen in America.

It is said by Mr. Iselin's friends that he has never put much money in the big racing yachts which have defended the cup, but has matched his skill against the capital of others. His father, however, put $20,000 in the Defender, which defeated Valkyrie III, and was broken up for junk a year or two ago. Cup yachts are of little value after they have performed their glorious mission.

The old time boatmen of New Rochelle, Mr. Iselin's home town, who were his early tutors and claim the honor of having taught him the rudiments of sailing, are sure the Reliance will win. What C. Oliver Iselin and his sailing master, Captain Charles Barr, don't know about handling a boat, these old salts say, can never be learned by any one either in this country or on the other side of the ocean.

Captain Charles Barr, skipper of the Reliance, is a Scotchman by birth, but swore allegiance to Uncle Sam a number of years ago. Few skippers have had such wide experience in craft of all kinds. In 1893 he commanded the Navahoe, owned by Royal Phelps Carroll. Next he was engaged by George Gould to bring back the Vigilant from England. He had charge of her during her trials with Defender in the preparatory races of 1903 and put up the best possible fight, developing every inch of speed that was in her.

Captain Barr has a clean and honorable record. He can inspire enthusiasm and confidence in a crew, is a good disciplinarian and is full of tact and Scotch cannyism. Barr is the only skipper alive who has won two races for the America's cup with the same boat, having sailed the Columbia in 1890 and 1901 against Shamrock I, and II. Captain Barr is thirty-nine years old.

Shamrock III, Sir Thomas Lipton's latest candidate for cup honors, is said to be the swiftest yacht ever sent over to lift the historic mug, and Sir Thomas is the pluckiest and most popular yachtsman who has ever striven to secure the prize. Shamrock III was designed by William Lyle and built in Dumbarton, Scotland. In her preliminary races she has shown remarkable speed, and Sir Thomas and his skipper, Captain Robert Wringe, profess supreme confidence in her ability to show her heels to the Reliance.

Captain Wringe succeeded his fellow townsman, Captain Sycamore, who sailed the second Shamrock. He has had considerable experience in American waters and was with Captain Hogarth on Shamrock I, when she raced against the Columbia. Should Captain Wringe succeed in taking back the trophy he will be the most popular skipper in all England and may safely count on being elected mayor of Brightlingsea, an honor which has already been bestowed on Captain Sycamore.

While few if any on this side of the Atlantic look for the success of Sir Thomas, so good an authority as Captain Hank Haff predicts that the coming contests will be the closest ever sailed for the historic cup. Should Shamrock III win the result would not be altogether displeasing to many loyal Americans and especially to sportsmen, who like to see the gage of battle first on one side and then on the other. Selfishness is not characteristic of the sport loving American, and he would like to see the gallant Sir Thomas win the trophy—if he can.
