OAKLAND COTYS

$100,000 COURT HOUSE

THE SITE QUESTION IS STILL A PROBLEM.

People Want It On a Square by Itself.

A well known taxpayer and business man of Oakland county in speaking to the Record relative to the proposed new $100,000 court house says that inasmuch as the new structure is to be built with a view of answering all demands for the next 100 years it should be located on a block by itself, convenient to business and yet far enough away from the frolic lines and pavements to prevent annoyance from the noise. Such a site he says can now be procured, speedy possession given and an unassailable title, within one-half a minute of present site, high and dry, natural gravel, drainage, no damp basements and void of quicksand.

Our informant furnishes us with the following authentic information direct from best and solely accurate sources, concerning site, and buildings of numerous recently constructed court houses in Michigan and from three other cities near our state line in Ohio. The county seats our correspondent has just heard from are Toledo, Bowling Green and Warren, Ohio, and those in Michigan are Ann Arbor, Marshall, Kalamazoo, St. Joseph, Hillsdale, Hastings, Corvallis, Flint, Mason, Ithaca, Alhambra, Charlotte, Adrian, Monroe, Coldwater and Paw Paw.

The queries propounded and answers received were as follows:

1. Q—Is your court house located in its own block or square, amid its own grounds and without alienation? A—All say "yes," no alienation.

2. Q—How many entrances? A—None less than 2, some 4 and 6.

3. Q—How far is it from your main business center of thoroughfare? A—Very near and convenient. Many one and two blocks away.

4. Q—Is it surrounded by wide streets and can it be approached from any one or all sides for plumb work, drainage, gas, sewer and electric light wiring? A—All say "yes."

5. Q—Is it near to or remote from steam and trolley car lines, also from the city and limits of ordinary business? A—Not too far from trolley cars. Not near steam cars in quiet place, but not far from business.

This information, our correspondent spent time to procure correctly from headquarters in order that certain statements heretofore published as to sites, basements, entrances, etc. may be better understood by the people generally in Oakland county, and that the public at large may know what other important counties and up to date localities are at this moment doing where new court houses have recently been built and are in process of erection.

Rev. J. M. Shank Comes Back.

As was expected Rev. J. M. Shank has been returned to Northville by the annual conference held at Flint last and this week. The church society is not only pleased but the people in general are also delighted for they are all very fond of Pastor Shank and wife.

Going to Make a Change.

Over twenty-five years I have catered to the Grocery trade of this vicinity, and during that time have given almost unlimited credit. I have always endeavored to serve my patrons fairly, honestly and well, with never a desire to wrong any one who favored me with their patronage and have built up a good prosperous business.

Now for the Change.

I have never lost a wink of sleep over your account, and in truth, most of my book accounts are as good as gold. But in these days of sharp competition when it becomes necessary for us to hand out the hard cash in order to secure rock bottom prices, it places us at a disadvantage. Goods can be bought much lower if bought for cash and a merchant can sell on a closer margin if he sells for cash. He can do better by every customer—likely better than you imagine.

Therefore, after October 1st, I shall do business on a cash basis, requiring only such accounts as can and will be paid weekly, and about half a dozen of my old stand-by customers who can pay monthly. I have taken this stand to stay, and hereafter cash basis will be my way of doing business.

TRIED TO HOLD HIM UP.

Swift Milne Up Against a Highwayman Last Week.

Some one tried to hold up Swift Milne on Center street near Mill street one night last week. Milne made a quick dash for liberty and without asking any questions he was soon under cover of the Swift residence. Milne was unable to describe the fellow, who tried to grab him by the throat. It is very dark at this point and the need of a street light is apparent.

Mrs. Roxanna Smith Dead.

After a long and suffering illness, Mrs. Roxanna Smith died at her home on Randolph street Monday night, aged 73 years and 11 months. Deceased was born in New York state May 10, 1830, and for many years had been a respected resident of this village, being tenderly cared for in her latter years by her sister, Mrs. L. A. Robinson, who resided with her.

Mrs. Smith had been twice married. She became the wife of Truman Harvey in 1851. Their only child, a son, died in 1865. In 1861 she was again married to Calvin Smith, a well known resident of Novi, who also died many years ago. She leaves three sisters, Miss Robinson of this place, Mrs. Dennis of Cherry Hill and Mrs. Haley of Toledo.

The funeral occurred from the late home yesterday, Rev. J. M. Shank officiating. The interment was at Novi.

New O. E. S. Officers.

BENTON AGAINST

AUD'R CHRISTIAN.

SAYS ANY SUPERVISOR IN PREFERENCE TO HIM.

Undecided Yet Whether to Enter the Race Himself.

Supervisor Benton says he has falsely been credited by some Detroit papers as being a tool to further the interests of County Auditor Travels Christian for another term and to receive a reward and appointment from the county auditors. "I will say at this time," says Mr. Benton, "I have not fully decided to become a candidate for the responsible position of county auditor at the coming primaries, believing there is ample time yet for such announcement. If I am not a candidate I assure my friends I will not betray their confidence and will support my supervisor in preference to Mr. Christian."

Wants to See the Hole.

Mayor Johnson has called the council's attention to the unsightly and unsanitary condition of the street front of Mrs. Souds' place on Center st. The gutter is not paved there and the horses hitched to posts there dig out huge holes, which fill with water and refuse, and which, because of heavy shade refuse to dry out. —Northville Record.

We refuse to believe that a horse can dig out a hole. If he could dig it out what would become of it? A horse that can paw out a hole, must be a holy terror from Paw Paw. We see no reason why refuse in such a hole would not be hole some. We do not desire to put the Record writer in hole, but as the Court says to a witness, "we want the truth the whole truth." That's the whole situation.—Adrian Press.

In other words the Press now wants to see the hole after it is dug out.

King's Daughters' Play.

The King's Daughters are busily engaged in the preparation of their play, "Dot, The Miner's Daughter," which is to be put on in the Opera House Oct. 9. Well known local talent is to compose the cast, and there is no doubt the play will be well rendered and very enjoyable. Northville people are proverbially unanimous in their patronage of home entertainments, and this one will probably be even more than usually popular, as the object is a worthy one, and the order one of the best in the world.

'Twas the City Council Did It.

Jackson owes $85,000 that comes due next year. The legislature tinkered the city charter last winter, and gives no authority to raise this debt by any kind of bond issue, and the tax levy limit will not provide much more than cash enough to run the city.—Adrian Press.

And it may be interesting to the Press to know that that tinkering was all done by the Jackson city council a majority of whom are democrats. That body brought a charter to Lansing and it was passed by the legislature upon its presentation by the representative from that city.

PUPILS IN RIOTS.

Scholars of Detroit's Schools Strike and Commit Criminal Acts.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 23.—The idea to strike for one's demands has gone so far as to seize the minds of the pupils of Detroit's schools, and not only this, but they have gone so far as to ape their elders to the extent that actual riots have ensued.

The trouble began several days since, when Eugene C. Whitney, teacher in the Cass school, was dismissed by the board of education on minor charges. But with his pupils he was a favorite, they considered the charges unjust and refused to attend school until he was reinstated. This occurred Monday morning.

The "strike" fever began to spread. The pupils of Cass school yesterday became imbued with the idea that they were putting in more hours than was necessary and taking some studies that might as well be cut out, so when the bell rang yesterday afternoon about fifty boys and a dozen girls from the rooms of the grades between "B fifth" and "A eighth" refused to go inside until things are changed to suit them. What will satisfy them is a reduction of the hours of study from six to four and a half, the same as the high school has, and the elimination of drawing and painting from the curriculum.

But the worst came last night and the residents of the semi-fashionable district of Cass park were treated to a full exhibition of rowdism.

Laurelman Charles Palmer was injured by a flying brick fence, were torn down and burned attempts were made to burn the fence surrounding the school, street cars and rigs were held up and altogether there was one and a half hours of the worst confusion and carried on by youngsters between the ages of 12 and 20. A meeting was to take place at which plans were to be discussed whereby the desired ends could be attained. But summary action on the part of the police put a stop to the acts of rowdism.

Michigan Inventors.

Washington D. C. Sept. 23.—Michigan patents were granted Tuesday as follows: William H. Byhr, West Point, Va. grower, John P. Byrne, Detroit, planter, Charles A. Callen, Kalamazoo, joint brooking device for crabs, etc., Alfred W. A. Finch, Detroit, plan for marking device, Frank Fontaine, Charlevoix, trap door lifter, Cochrane Hamilton, Plymouth, Br. alarm, George Hargreaves, Jr., Detroit, rolling mill, James C. Hatch, Grand Rapids, box lid support, William H. H. Hutton, Jr., Detroit, card or picture mount, Alfred P. Oakes, Detroit, bolt, Charles T. Prich, Ludington, grease for, Frank J. and Alexander I. Reddick, Detroit, ice cutting machine, Robert I. Thompson, Grand Rapids, glove Edward K. Warren, The Oaks, a machine for manufacturing fencing material also stenciling cap or tape, Frederick A. Wagner, Detroit, coffee or tea injector and strainer, Henry P. White and L. E. Payne, Kalamazoo, cone pulley structure, James B. Wilson, Lansing, wire mattress stretcher, John S. Woodbridge, Detroit, paper box machine.

Capturing a Bad Man.

Gardner Mas, Sept. 23.—Chief of Police Warren Allen has captured Tom Stacy, who escaped from the Louisiana State Penitentiary at Baton Rouge. The man admitted his identity. When searched at the station he had a revolver fully loaded in his belt. He said he would be used it on his captor if he had a chance. Stacy was sent to the Penitentiary January 27, 1901, on a three year sentence for burglary and larceny. He escaped with two negroes July 5th and has since been free.

Conference Delegates Arriving.

Jackson, Mich., Sept. 23.—Ministers belonging to the Michigan conference of the Methodist church are arriving about 200 were in the city when the first meeting was opened last night in the form of a reception at the First M. E. church, with Pleading Elder P. J. Maveer, of the Alton district, as leader. Ex-Mayor A. J. Weatherway, Deacon G. W. Austin and Rev. R. E. McDuff delivered addresses of welcome and the response were by Rev. D. F. Barnes of Charlotte and Rev. W. L. Laufman of Traverse City.

Michigan Postmasters.

Washington, Sept. 23.—Postmasters appointed Tuesday: Alpena, Mich., Albert Eckert, vice Andrew Langstaff, resigned; Balcon, Lake county, Willis L. Messenger, vice Emory C. Herendeen, resigned; Jerome A. Bridges has been appointed rural carrier to fill a vacancy at Rochester, and Lena M. Bridges, substitute.

A WOMAN OF GENIUS.

Versatility of Mrs. Young, Poet, Actress and Playwright.

Mrs. Rida Johnson Young, the actress and playwright, who has recently won the praises of the literary world with her exquisite verse, is as versatile as she is accomplished. Her work has also included that of theatrical press agent and the management of the publicity department of a New York music publishing house.

Mrs. Young, who is the wife of James Young, the Shakespearean actor, was formerly a member of Charles Coghlan's company and was also with E. H. Sothern, playing leading roles. One of her plays, "Lord Byron" and "The Girl of the Year," have been successful. She has also written several plays, and has been successful in the theatre.

In her capacity as press agent Mrs. Young has had some success. She has been successful in securing the rights to several plays, and has been successful in securing the rights to several plays.

When the carpenter had cut the hole in the stone into which the first grave-digger jumped it was found that it had no bottom until the ground was reached about fifteen feet below. This discovery was a great surprise to the men who were working on the tomb.

Mrs. Young is a native of Baltimore, and is a member of the Southern Railway. She has been successful in securing the rights to several plays, and has been successful in securing the rights to several plays.

PASSING OF A PRINCESS

How Louise of Saxony Became the Countess of Montenegro.

Louise Antoinette, former crown princess of Saxony, who was recently divorced by her husband, Prince Frederick, heir to the Saxon throne, at her own request has had the title Countess of Montenegro conferred upon her by King George of Saxony.

Since the divorce of Louise from Prince Frederick, following her escape from the French tutor, she has been practically nameless. King George doubtless conferred the new title upon her in order to provide the mother of his grandchildren with a name.

Countess Louise is the daughter of Grand Duke Frederick IV. of Tuscany. Twelve years ago, when twenty-one, she was married to the Saxon prince. When she fled with Giron she left five children behind her, the youngest scarcely more than a year old.

WHEN LABOR STRIKES WILL CEASE

By JOHN MITCHELL, President United Mine Workers of America

LABOR strikes will never cease until men reach that amiable spirit wherein there can be no dispute about anything. I believe that the majority of the disputes between labor and capital can be settled by what we call the trades agreement—that is, the AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE EMPLOYER AND THE EMPLOYEE. They are the parties deeply interested, and if they are reasonable and sensible I cannot see why they cannot settle their differences. I believe that in nine out of ten cases if each party to a dispute arising from labor matters would evince a mutual desire to be fair and seek a reasonable solution of the problem presented there would be fewer strikes. And even if this rule was applied to strikes they would end sooner, and to the credit and advantage of all concerned.

BUT WHEN IT COMES TO THE POINT WHERE THERE IS NO HOPE OF A SETTLEMENT BETWEEN THE DISPUTANTS THEN ARBITRATION IS THE ONLY COURSE. I believe that President Roosevelt acted wisely and for the best interests of all concerned when he appointed the commission that undertook the settlement of the anthracite coal strike.

In such a crisis as that such treatment of the subject was a necessity. But, as I have heretofore remarked, if my idea of the trades agreement settlement had prevailed at the outset there would have been no necessity for arbitration.

Judge Gray says that the solution of the struggle between capital and labor is along lines of humanity, common sense and arbitration. In a general way he is right. But in place of arbitration I should put the trades agreement.

SUCH A SYSTEM WILL SETTLE STRIKES UNTIL THE EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYEE REACH THAT CONDITION OF MENTALITY WHERE THEY WILL REGARD MUTUAL INTERESTS.

THE PERFECT LOVE OF MAN AND WOMAN

By PAOLO MANTEGAZZA, President of the Italian Anthropological Society

PERFECT love must be born of the contemplation of the adoration of all the varieties of beauty of the beloved one, and then one of these forms pales moral beauty will shine in all its brilliance, and later still the beauty of thought will appear in all its magnificence, just as when one star disappears another glows in the firmament.

IF A WOMAN IS NOT ONLY A BEAUTIFUL PERSON, BUT A COLLECTION OF GRACES AND OF MENTAL PERFECTIONS, FOR THE LIMIT OF OLD AGE SOME NEW CONQUEST REMAINS FOR HER SWEETHEART TO MAKE.

THE SUBLINE TRIUMPH OF HUMAN NATURE IS IN LOVE WHICH PREVAILS OVER THE SENSES AND OVER THE ATTRACTIVE OF PHYSICAL BEAUTY AND IN WHICH A WARM RAY OF LIGHT SHINES UPON THE SHIVERED HEADS OF TWO OLD PEOPLE WHO STILL LOVE BECAUSE THEY FEEL AN ETERNAL SPARK.

Perfect love, pure, ideal love, is preserved pure, like a diamond in the dark. Few persons attain it, but many can approach it. It even suffices for the happiness of humanity to perceive it at a distance, like the promised land which the poet said "is always beyond the mountains."

CIVIC ART AS AN ECONOMIC PRINCIPLE

By WILLIAM ORDWAY PARTRIDGE, Sculptor

It would seem that the only way to appeal to the purely rich and to the civic authorities is to prove conclusively that the cultivation of beauty in public buildings and statues is AN ECONOMIC PRINCIPLE and that European states and municipalities regard it as an essential matter of political economy to beautify their cities.

When the American gets this thought firmly fastened in his mind he will surely use our iron and our granite to much better advantage than a present.

There is certainly nothing "wonderful" in a building like the Flatiron, in New York. The mere clamping of one girder of steel to another and fixing the whole structure with granite is telling an artistic lie in stone. But, on the other hand, a wonderful thing is wrought—aye, miracle for civilization—whenever an artist, architect or sculptor allowed to place in a public square a monument, building or statue which is a true product of the genius of this American people, and it behooves us to remember an adage as old as Athens—the BEAUTIFUL HAS ITS ORIGIN IN THE USEFUL.

WOMEN VERSUS MEN AS EMPLOYEES

By United States Senator M. A. HANNA

Making employment a young man should not be as a machine, working so many hours per day, but if he is to carve out a future for himself he should work as energetically as though the business were his own, for, indeed, if he is on a pay roll HE IS WORKING FOR HIMSELF, and it is a mistake to think that the employer is not watching his development and appreciating his service if he is energetic.

With men there are always things to be taken advantage of; THE WOMEN MAKE THEIR OWN OPPORTUNITIES.

It is an encouraging sign in our development that the young women find vocations suitable to them. Why, if my wife would allow me, I would have a young woman filling every position of stenographer in my office. I plead guilty, I admire them.

I HAVE MORE CONFIDENCE IN WOMEN THAN IN THE BOYS. THEY ARE MORE INDUSTRIOUS, MORE EFFICIENT AND A GOOD DEAL SAFER.

Gave Up Preaching For Two Years.

Dr. Miles' Nerve Put Me On Active List.

Are you well? Do you sleep well? Do you get up rested, fresh and vigorous? Is your mind clear and active? If not read the following. See what another has suffered and how he recovered.

Some years ago I was afflicted with sun stroke which left me with a shattered nervous system and exceedingly poor health. I suffered terribly with pain in my head, the top of my head would feel hot. I could not study, and after trying for two years to wear the trouble off, I was compelled to give up my pastoral labor and retire to my farm where I spent nearly two years trying to recover. It was all of no avail. Physicians' treatment and patent medicines failed to relieve me. I was exceedingly nervous and irritable and sometimes would shake terribly. I could not bear any noise. At the least excitement the blood would rush to my face and head. Two years ago I was induced to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve. After using one bottle I could see improvement in my condition so I continued taking it for nearly a year. I am happy to say I no longer have those pains in my head or nervous spells. My appetite is good and I am able to preach three times on Sunday without fatigue. I consider Dr. Miles' Nerve the most wonderful medicine ever discovered. — Rev. D. A. L. Homan, Pastor U. B. Church, Marion, Ind.

Bicycles in France.

The number of bicycles in France last year was 1,200,000, or ten times more than in 1895. Roughly speaking, the number of bicycles has increased by 125,000 yearly for some years. The last census showed 6,000 automobiles.

Over His Life to a Neighbor's Kindness.

Mr. D. P. Dugan, well known throughout Merced and Summit counties, W. Va., most likely owes his life to the kindness of a neighbor. He was almost hopelessly afflicted with diphtheria, was attended by two physicians who gave him little, if any, relief, when a neighbor learning of his serious condition brought him a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and Chamberlain's Kidney Pills, which cured him in less than twenty-four hours.

Making Steel by Electrical Heat.

The first effort to make steel by using electrical heat was that by Siemens in 1879. He designed for this purpose an electric arc lamp furnace, in which the arc was formed between coal and the metal contained in a crucible of graphite as electrodes.

What Is Life?

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even slightly and results in ruin. Irregular living means derangement of the organs, resulting in Constipation, Headache or Liver trouble. Dr. King's New Life Pills quickly readjust this. It's gentle, yet thorough. Only 25c at Geo. C. SUTTON PAYS THE FINE

SENTENCED TO PAY $2,000 OR SERVE TWO YEARS IN JAIL.

COULD NOT ENDURE LIFE HE LED IN MEXICO.

JUDGE REPRIMANDED HIM IN PRONOUNCING SENTENCE.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 24.—Colonel Eli R. Sutton at 6 o'clock last night, after having been in conference three and one-half hours with Circuit Judge West, paid the penalty decreed by the court for his participation with General Will White, General A. F. Marsh and others in the state military board conspiracy during the Spanish-American war period to defraud the state out of $50,000 in the military clothing deal. It was the same charge upon which he was acquitted by a jury in June, 1900, but which acquitted he six hours before the sentence saved in open court.

The sentence was that he pay a fine of $2,000 or stand committed to the county jail for two years. He handed the money to the clerk of the court within half an hour after sentence was pronounced. Then, with Professor Curtis, who is a friend of his wife's family in Sudus, N. Y., and who arrived here in the morning with him, he left the courtroom, went to a hotel and got his baggage and took a train to his father-in-law's home at Sudus, where his wife and child are.

Sutton's Trying Day.

Just before leaving the court Sutton said:

"It has been a trying day for me and I'm glad it's over. I feel now like a new man, but a poor one. I am $2,000 worse off than nothing, but I will try to redeem myself. As to what I will do, I do not know yet. The life I was leading in Mexico was more than I cared to endure. An unmarried man might be respected to it, but not a man with a family and that family in the United States. I go from here without hard feelings against a single person except Will White. He lied to many very about me." (It was Will White who said Sutton was the head of the military board conspiracy.)

In pronouncing sentence Judge West said in part:

"You thwarted public justice. You are yet to answer to the charge of perjury, and except for your voluntary waiver of the previous acquittal justice would have to be met with that prosecution. Yet you have come back to that court wherein there is recorded a life that you are innocent, and have returned to justice the unworthy garment of immunity stolen by perjury, that its records may be purged of this infamous prostitution and your shoulders no longer galled by a cloak so heavy to carry, yet so thin as to leave bare to the world all of your wickedness. You are yet a young man. You have family ties. Probably no man of your generation had greater advantages than you have had. You have received from the people of this state military honor and high civil honors. You have held almost the power of a political dictator in Michigan, but you sacrificed all everything, when you entered into this deliberate scheme to plunder the state of Michigan."

Blew Postoffice Safe Open.

Brown City, Mich., Sept. 24.—Burglars forced the side entrance to the postoffice here early in the morning between 3 and 4 o'clock, knocked out the dial plate and blew the safe door into a dozen pieces by the use of nitroglycerine. Forty dollars in money order funds were taken and also $1.25 in change from the till. In their haste to escape the gang overlooked another drawer containing $65. Several hundred dollars in stamps also escaped their notice.

Militia Men in Trouble.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 24.—Some of the members of Company I of the city are between the devil and the deep sea. Captain Petrie has received orders to be ready to move his men Sept. 30 for the national camp in Kentucky. It is reported that seven of them have been notified by their employers that if they go they will lose their positions.

To Cost $5,500.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 24.—The Andersonville monument commission organized here by ex-Gov. B. S. Jameson, Grand Rapids, president, George W. Stone, Lansing, secretary, Mrs. M. Jennie Carpenter, Saginaw, treasurer. A design submitted by Lloyd Bros. of Toledo was selected and the contract will be let today. The contract price will be $5,500.

Captured and Confessed.

West Bay City, Mich., Sept. 24.—Harry Albach, suspected of having a part in the Standard Oil company's office Monday night, was arrested on an outgoing freight train and has confessed to the chief of police, but would not give up the name of his confederate.

MICHIGAN CONFERENCE

Opens With a Lord's Supper, Conducted by Bishop Foss.

Jackson, Mich., Sept. 24.—The Lord's supper was the opening feature of the Michigan conference of the M. E. church in this city Wednesday morning. It was conducted by Bishop Foss. The bishop, in concluding the service, gave an address upon the welfare of the church, declaring that methodism was prosperous.

Rev. E. A. Armstrong of Cadillac and Rev. G. S. Robinson of Quincy are the secretaries of the conference; Rev. W. F. Kendrick, treasurer; Rev. J. R. Wooten, press secretary.

The presiding elders made their reports, and Dr. Graham, who retires from the Grand Rapids district, was presented with a handsome chair by the ministers of the district.

The case of Rev. J. F. Orwick, the former chaplain of the state prison, who was dismissed upon serious charges, found to be insane and sent to the Kalamazoo asylum, but is now out and cured, was brought up in the morning and was referred to the committee on conference relations. The matter of C. M. Welch of Nashville was also referred to this committee. To a special committee of inquiry was referred the case of Rev. Charles Otis of Saranac.

There was a large attendance at the anniversary meeting of the Woman's Foreign Mission society at 2 p. m. Mrs. H. J. Felker presided. Rev. J. F. Götcher D. D. president of the Baltimore Woman's college, gave a stirring address on the conditions prevailing in foreign fields.

Mrs. Hathaway of Grand Rapids presided at the woman's home missionary service.

Tragedy at Bessinger.

Bessinger, Mich., Sept. 24.—Anna Woznak age 24, was shot twice and instantly killed by Ed Milecki in front of her mother's home, opposite the Northwestern depot. Anna had been visiting her sister at Ironwood and came home on the evening train. Milecki was with her, and it is said they quarreled on the train. She went around by a water tank to cut across the street unobserved to her mother's house. Milecki headed her off and fired two shots in quick succession. She fell on her mother's doorstep and he then turned the revolver on himself, the bullet entering the stomach. Milecki then ran to the prostrate girl and fell over her. The girl is dead but Milecki still lives, though recovery is doubtful.

Striking Scholars Return.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 24.—The strike at the Cass school in over. When the bell began ringing at 8 o'clock, the day morning and while the janitor was making the American flag, a crowd of about twenty to thirty scholars headed by President Lannan walked slowly down from the park, marched into the school and took the accustomed place. It was a sorrowful little crowd and to the disappointment was marked on every face. The immediate cause of their surrender was the riot last night, which they felt had injured their cause.

Crushed in an Elevator.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 24.—A stop plug too close to the door of an elevator cage in the Chamber of Commerce, an unidentified man was instantly killed shortly after 5 o'clock last night. The elevator was descending at the time and had just left the second story being in charge of Elevatorman Henry Tracy. Mr. Tracy had his back to the passenger at the time and is unable to explain why the man should have made the mistake. The body was found to be practically in a pulp. One side of the man's head was completely torn away and the major part of his large bones crushed. The right leg was almost severed above the ankle.

Gross Irregularities.

St. Joseph, Mich., Sept. 24.—The report of the expert auditors who have examined the city records was made public Wednesday and surprised people by bringing to light evidence of wholesale negligence, disregard of business principles and other alleged irregularities. Auditors Gleason and Parks have worked three months in examining the records and find many important documents missing. It is alleged that former City Clerk Leland Townsend accepted water taxes, then credited smaller amounts on the books and that thousands of dollars which should have been in the city treasury are not accounted for. The treasurer's books are said to be in good condition.

Had No Faith in Banks.

Albion, Mich., Sept. 24.—James W. Peabody, an Albion pioneer, died Wednesday at the age of 74 years, after an illness of about a year. When about 21 years old Mr. Peabody went to California, driving clear through and remaining there four years. He then returned to Albion with a bride and considerable wealth. Since his return, over forty years ago he has given his entire attention to the care of the small fortune. He had no faith in banks and is said to have always kept his money in hiding.

Davis Mine to Be Sold.

Bessemer, Mich., Sept. 24.—The Davis mine, in early days known as the First National, is to be sold by the United States marshal from the city hall steps at Ironwood Nov. 2. The property is now in the hands of the Wisconsin Manganese Ore company, of which the absconded Henry Hermann of Milwaukee was the leading spirit, but has laid idle since last winter.

SUTTON HAS RETURNED

TO CONFESS CRIMES OF WHICH HE WAS ACQUITTED.

WILL TESTIFY AGAINST OTHERS CHARGED WITH BRIBERY.

RETURNS UNDER AGREEMENT WITH THE PROSECUTOR.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 23.—Eli R. Sutton, who while a regent of the University of Michigan and a power in the then administration of state affairs, was in 1900 indicted by an Ingham county grand jury for conspiring with other state officers to defraud the state out of some $50,000 in the famous military clothing frauds, but acquitted, and who fled to Mexico one year ago to dodge a warrant charging him with perjury while testifying in his own defense at his trial, is no longer a fugitive from justice. For more than a week he has, with full knowledge of the Ingham authorities, who are still on the trail of some gentlemen accused of wrongdoing indirectly in connection with the military frauds, been at the home of his father-in-law in Sudus, N. Y. He has left for Lansing under a complete understanding with the authorities here.

Today Sutton will present the extraordinary spectacle of a man who for more than three years has stood acquitted of a felony appearing voluntarily before the bar of the court and acquitted him, and before the same judge pleading that the jury did wrong when it pronounced him not guilty, and accepting a sentence for an offense the jury declared he did not commit. And he will pay the penalty the court names.

To Betray His Fellow.

Still more extraordinary will be the spectacle of him then accepting the service of a subpoena, issued at the instance of the county prosecutor, to go into court next month and give testimony that may send to the penitentiary some persons who are either already openly accused, or who are accused of having been parties to corrupting the jury so it would acquit him.

Former State Senator John Holbrook is accused and will be brought on trial at the October term of the Ingham circuit court on a charge of having defrauded $260 to Arthur H. Phillips, a farmer in Algonquin township, who was subpoenaed as a witness to give on the Sutton jury but was excused. The subpoena to be served on Sutton will be to testify against Holbrook.

It develops that Sutton has returned from Mexico under an agreement with Prosecutor McArthur whereby he is to plead to the charge of conspiracy to defraud the state in connection with the military clothing deal, and receive the same punishment meted out to others who pleaded guilty to the same charge. This was a fine of $2,000. The perjury charge is to be dismissed as in the other cases.

Seized by United States Marshal.

Holly, Mich., Sept. 23.—Deputy United States Marshal Cash Taylor of Detroit seized the Holly Wagon company on bankruptcy proceedings started in the United States courts by Kelly, Maus & Co. and two other Chicago creditors. The Detroit Trust company was appointed temporary receiver, and hearing set for Sept. 29. The company was organized last year with $50,000 capital, all held by Holly people. Under-capitalization is given as the cause of the financial troubles.

Two Fatalities.

Houghton, Mich., Sept. 23.—Through the accidental discharge of a gun Alexander McArthur, the government watchman at Portage Entry, was instantly killed. He was 38 years old and leaves a widow and two children. Hancock, Mich., Sept. 23.—William Cowling, vice-president of the local lodge of the International Longshoremen's association, suffered fatal injuries by falling into the hold of the steamer Osceola.

Wants $10,000 for Broken Arm.

Battle Creek, Mich., Sept. 23.—Frank Coon, a professional nurse, will sue the Michigan Traction company for $10,000 damages because he was recently thrown from a local street car and his arm broken in three places. Coon charges that the conductor did not give him time to get on the car.

Safecrackers at Howard City.

Howard City, Mich., Sept. 23.—Robbers broke open the postoffice here in the morning early and attempted to blow the safe. The first charge blew the outside rim and combination off. They put in another charge to blow the door off but were scared away before they finished it. It is thought to be the work of amateurs.

Sold Adulterated Milk.

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Sept. 23.—Adolph Fisher of Richmond township, Cornell Lewis and David Clark of Berlin township, St. Clair county, pleaded guilty before Justice Lyons of this city of selling milk adulterated with water to the Armada creamery and were fined $10 each and costs.

A Remarkable Record.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for over thirty years, during which time many millions of bottles have been sold and used. It has long been the standard and main reliance in the treatment of "croup" in thousands of homes, yet during all this time no case has ever been reported to the manufacturers in which it failed to effect a cure. When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even as soon as the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack. It is pleasant to take, many children like it. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult.

THE NEED OF ITALY.

One Thing in Which the United States Was Ahead.

Last week a gentleman residing in West Forty-fifth street, New York, invited a distinguished native of sunny Italy to a reception at his home. Of course, every one present believed his statement that he was a count and treated him with much consideration. His hostess' husband is a well-known architect, and the member from Italy took up architecture as a subject for conversation.

"I do not like the American country house," he said. "You have not the porte-cochere and must alight from your carriage in the storm. In Italy every house, even the cottage, has a porte-cochere—you are very much backward here."

The host, somewhat nettled, made the retort courteous, after surveying the noble son of Italy.

"We go in more for bathrooms in America," he said. "I hear in Italy they are almost unknown."

STRONG ON FINANCE.

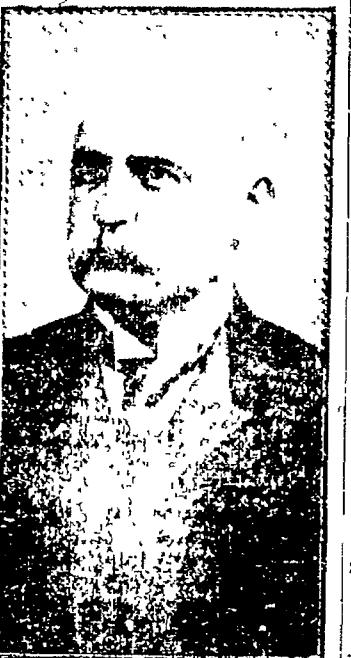

THE MONEY QUESTION IS SENATOR ALDRICH'S LONG SUIT.

Even as a Youth He Was Noted For Business Acumen—Expected Result of the Summer Session of the Senate Finance Committee.

Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island, chairman of the senate finance committee, which is to meet at his summer home at Warwick Neck on Aug. 10 to prepare a new currency bill, is one of the most influential men in congress and is considered a strong probability for the Republican vice presidential nomination. Nelson Wilmarth Aldrich is a native of Rhode Island and is nearly sixty-three years of age. He attended public school and early in life displayed an aptitude for mathematics. He was one of those men who want to know the "why and wherefore" of things. This characteristic has remained with him throughout his career. When he was sixteen he entered the academy at East Greenwich, R. I.

After graduating from the academy he went to Providence and entered the employ of a large wholesale house. Describing his clerk in later years, a partner said: "Aldrich had a knack of smoothing over debtors better than any one I ever had experience with. A customer behind in his accounts would be informed that immediate payment was necessary. He would come to the office in an excited state of mind and would perhaps threaten to pay up and cease, all dealing with us. Aldrich would take him in hand and the two would talk together a few minutes. The young clerk would never descend to cheap cajolery or flattery, but in simple language would explain the firm's position and pour out its necessities. Before long the customer would shake hands and go away satisfied, and we would have his business as before. Aldrich was a born financier and always a student."

Mr. Aldrich's first political office was membership in the Providence city council, and later he became president of the board. Then he went to the state legislature and served as speaker of the house in 1876. Three years later he was elected to the Forty-sixth congress and was re-elected to the Forty-seventh.

SENATOR NELSON W. ALDRICH

seventh, resigning during the session to succeed General Burnside. Since then he has been regularly re-elected, his present term expiring in March, 1905. Senator Aldrich is known in Rhode Island as a rich man. In the early days in the senate he used to say: "I cannot afford to remain in public life. I must earn money for my family." The opportunity came when his attention was directed to the Union Street railway of Providence, a small affair with horses. With several associates he secured possession of the road, and the investment proved a gold mine.

There are dozens of finer residences in Providence than the old colonial home of the senator but his country seat on Warwick Neck, ten miles down the Providence river, at the point of its junction with Narragansett bay, extends along the edge of the bay for nearly half a mile. The grounds are beautifully laid out, and there are miles of drives and footpaths. A quiver clock and watch tower over 150 feet in height rises above the stone stables. The residence is the old fashioned wooden house occupied by a former governor of the state. It is soon to be replaced by a new one more in keeping with the elegant surroundings. On the water front are a long private landing pier and a large building of stone and wood, with balconies, exterior galleries and other picturesque devices of architecture. This is the tea house, where guests and visitors are entertained and where the festivities attendant on the wedding of Senator Aldrich's daughter to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., took place a couple of years ago.

In early life Senator Aldrich married a Miss Greene, the daughter of an old time Providence merchant who was connected with the family of the Revolutionary hero, General Nathaniel Greene. There are eight children. Mrs. Aldrich cares little for society, is domestic in her tastes and is devoted to the welfare of her large family. When the conference of the senate finance committee ends it is expected that the final draft of the currency bill will be ready for presentation to the special session of congress in November.

Somewhat incongruous. "Holy Joe" Dennett, the restaurant man, who once ran a place in Chicago and who now operates a number of eating houses in New York, is going to take down his "Watch Your Hat" signs. All the biblical quotations will remain, but since the supreme court decision relieves the proprietors from response "they he is going to yield the point which has subjected him to so much good-natured raillery. Many Chicagoans will remember the "Holy Joe" signs. One of them reads, "Trust in the Lord and be of good cheer," while directly underneath appeared another, "Watch your hat."—Chicago Chronicle.

Whitney's Opera House—Detroit.

Lincoln J. Carver's latest melodrama, "Too proud to Beg," will be seen at the Whitney Theater all next week, beginning Sept. 27, afternoon. The story is an interesting one, consistent in every respect, with high feeling and pathos blended into its finely constructed plot, and running through are explosive bits of comedy, wit and satire that are in the hands of some clever players. Indeed, the cast is far better than the average. Matinees daily except Wednesday.

Lycium Theater—Detroit.

Ward & Vokes will bring their new musical farce, "A Pair of Plinks," to the Lycium Theater for a week's engagement, beginning Sept. 27. Theater-goers are familiar with the style of the productions offered by this duo of comedians and the big company of players, with which they are always surrounded, so that it is only necessary to say that the new piece is one of the same general character. The supporting company numbers fifty-five people, mostly girls. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

SUFFERED 25 YEARS With Catarrh of the Stomach—Pe-ru-na Cured.

Congressman Botkin of Winfield, Kan.

In a recent letter to Dr. Hartman, Congressman Botkin says:

"My Dear Doctor—It gives me pleasure to certify to the excellent curative qualities of your medicine—Peruna and Manahan. I have been afflicted more or less for a quarter of a century with catarrh of the stomach and constipation. A residence in Washington has increased these troubles. A few bottles of your medicine have given me almost complete relief, and I am sure that a continuation of them will effect a permanent cure."—J. D. Botkin.

Mr. L. F. Verdery, a prominent real estate agent, of Augusta, Ga., writes: "I have been a great sufferer from catarrh of the stomach. I tried many physicians, visited a good many springs, but I believe Peruna has done more for me than all of the above put together. I feel like a new person."—L. F. Verdery.

The most common form of summer catarrh is catarrh of the stomach. This is generally known as dyspepsia. Peruna cures these cases like magic. If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Methodist Church Notes.

(By the Pastor.)

The Junior Epworth League will be organized again soon.

The pastor and wife are very grateful for not having to move this fall and for the pleasure of living in Northville another year.

The subject of the sermon for next Sunday morning will be, "The work of our church in Northville for the coming year. In the evening an address to the Northville Bible Reading club and re-organization of the work for the coming year."

The Harvest Home Festival Reunion which was postponed from the former date, Sept. 14, will be given next Tuesday evening, Sept. 22. A program consisting of music by a male quartet, Messrs. Collins, Fry, Gurr and Clark, and Miss Sanford's paper-son. Our church history for last year, the pastor's prophecy for the coming year, and other features, will close with a demonstration of "Blest be the Tie that Binds." After this the men of our board of stewards will serve refreshments and conduct a social hour. Admission free to all.

Presbyterian Church Notes.

(By the Pastor.)

Remember the "stocking social" next Wednesday evening at Mrs. Swift's.

The preparatory lecture will be held next Thursday evening, and the Lord's Supper and reception of members Sunday, Oct. 4.

The sermon next Sunday morning will be on "Michigan, My Michigan" and the annual offering will be taken for Home Mission work in the state. It is hoped that there will be a full attendance.

Next Sunday will be observed as Rally Day, and we hope to see a full attendance at all our services. Mrs. Jerome especially desires the presence of all present and former members of her bible class.

The pastor and Elder H. M. White attended the meeting of the Presbyterian at Ann Arbor Tuesday. Mr. Jerome was appointed chairman of the Presbyterian committee on church erection, and also on the committee to visit the church of the Covenant, Detroit.

BLACK-DRAUGHT STOCK and POULTRY MEDICINE

Stock and poultry have few troubles which are not bowel and liver irregularities. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine is a bowel and liver remedy for stock. It puts the organs of digestion in a perfect condition. Prominent American breeders and farmers keep their herds and flocks healthy by giving them an occasional dose of Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine in their food. Any stock raiser may buy a 25-cent half-pound airtight can of this medicine from his dealer and keep his stock in vigorous health for weeks. Dealers generally keep Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine. If you do not, send 25 cents for a sample can to the manufacturers. The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

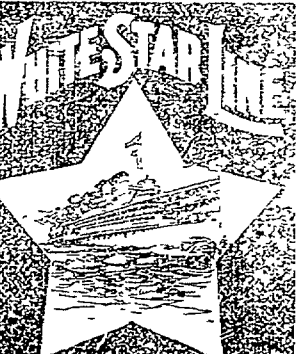

ROCKFORD, ILL., Jan. 30, 1902.
Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine is the best I ever tried. Our stock was looking bad when you sent me the medicine and now they are getting so fat. They are looking 20 per cent better.
S. P. BROCKINGTON.

Puts Comfort Before Looks.
Secretary of War Root is a firm believer in the idea that a soldier should look the soldier when engaged in military work but he also realizes that in very hot weather some measure of smart appearance must give way to comfort, so he has practically said "Bother your uniforms; dress as you please." Indeed, he has set the example for his bareheaded chiefs at the war department by stripping off coat and waistcoat and making himself as nearly comfortable as possible in a becoming colored shirt waist.

Early Monday morning the residents of the eastern part of the village were awakened by the firing of a gun and the yelping of a dog.
Soon after the dog was seen lying in the street moaning and examination showed it had been wounded. It was recognized as belonging to Wm.
Richardson, who took the suffering dog home. He says the person who shot the dog will be made to realize it, as it was a pet formerly owned

GRAUSTARK

By...
GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON

Copyright, 1901, by Herbert S. Stone

"A fitting night!" he muttered as he plunged into the driving rain, forcing his way across the courtyard toward the main gate. The little light in the gatekeeper's window was his guide, so, blinded by the torrents, blown by the winds, he soon found himself before the main barrier. Peering through the window, he saw the keeper dozing in his chair. By the light from within he selected from the bunch of keys he carried one that had a white string knotted in its ring. This was the key that was to open the big gate in case no one challenged him. In any other case he was to give the countersign, "Dangloss," and trust fortune to pass him through without question.

Luck was with him, and, finding the great lock, he softly inserted and turned the key. The wind blew the heavy gate open violently, and it required all of his strength to keep it from banging against the wall beyond. The most difficult task that he had encountered grew from his efforts to close the gate against the blast. He was about to give up in despair when a hand was laid on his shoulder and some one lisped in his startled ear.

"Sh! Not a word!" His legs almost went from under his body, so great was the shock and the fear. Two strong hands joined his own in the effort to pull the door into position, and he knew at once that they belonged to the man who was to meet him on the corner at the right of the prison wall. He undoubtedly had used of the delay and, feeling secure in the darkness of the storm, had come to meet his charge, the escaping prisoner. Their united efforts brought about the desired result and together they left the prison behind, striking out again into the storm in all its fury.

"You are late," called the stranger in his ear.

"Not too late, am I?" he cried back, clutching the other's arm.

"No, but we must hurry."

"Captain Quinnox, is it you?"

"Have a care!" The storm has ears and can hear names," cautioned the other. As rapidly as possible they made their way along the black street, almost a river with its sheet of water.

Lorry had lost his bearings and knew not which way to go, trusting to the guidance of his struggling companion. There seemed to be no end to their journey, and he was growing weak beneath the exertion and the excitement.

"How far do we go?" he cried at last.

"But a few rods. The carriage is at the next corner."

"Where is the carriage to take me?" he demanded.

"I am not at liberty to say."

"Am I to see her before I go?"

"That is something I cannot answer sir. My instructions are to place you in the carriage and ride beside the driver until our destination is reached."

"Is it the castle?" cried the other joyously.

"It is not the castle," was the disappointing answer.

At that moment they came upon a great dark bulk and heard the stamping of horses' hoofs close at hand. It was so dark they could scarcely discern the shape of the carriage, although they could touch its side with their hands.

A soldier stood in the shelter of the vehicle and opened the door for the American.

"Hurry! Get in!" exclaimed Quinnox.

"I wish to know if this is liable to get her into trouble," demanded Lorry, passing with one foot on the steps.

"Get in!" commanded the soldier who was holding the door, pushing him forward uneasily. He floundered into the carriage, where all was dry and clean. In his hand he still carried the keys and the lantern, the slide of which he had closed before leaving the prison yard. He could not see, but he knew that the trappings of the vehicle were superior. Outside he heard the soldier, who was preparing to enter, say:

"This carriage travels on most urgent business for her royal highness, captain. It is not to be stopped."

"It is very rare," came the brief reply.

"Devilish uncommunicative," thought Lorry. After a moment he asked, "How far do we travel tonight?"

"A number of miles."

"Then I'm going to take off this wet coat. It weighs a ton. Won't you remove yours?" He jerked off the big rain coat and threw it across to the opposite seat, with the keys and the lantern. There was a moment's hesitation on the part of his companion, and then a second wet coat followed the first. Their rain helmets were also tossed aside. "Makes a fellow feel more comfortable."

After this, there was a longer silence than at any time before. The soldier drew himself into the corner of the seat, an action which repelled further discussion. It seemed to Lorry, so he leaned back in the opposite corner and allowed his mind to wander far from the interior of that black, stuffy carriage. Where was he going? When was he to leave Graustark? Was he to see her soon?

Soon the carriage left the smooth streets of Edelweiss and he could tell by the jolting and careering that they were in the country, facing over a rough, rocky road. It reminded him of an overland trip he had taken in West Virginia some months before, with the fairest girl in all the world as his companion. Now he was riding in her carriage, but with a surly, untalkative soldier of the guard. The more he allowed his thoughts to revel in the American tale and its delights the more uncontrollable became his desire to see the one who had whirled with him in Light Horse Jerry's coach.

"I wish to know how soon I am to see your mistress," he exclaimed impulsively, sitting up and striking his companion's arm by way of emphasis.

In his surprise, the hand was dashed away and he distinctly heard the soldier whisper, "I beg your pardon!" he cried, fearing that he had given pain with his eager strength.

"You startled me. I was half asleep," stammered the other apologetically. "Whom do you mean by my mistress?"

"Her royal highness, of course," said Lorry bluntly.

"I cannot say when you are to see the princess," said his companion after a while so long that Lorry felt like kicking him.

"Will you see me, my friend, do you know why I agreed to leave that place back there?" said Lorry, looking away from Graustark until he had seen her. If you follow as I am, it will be away—kidding me, as it were—I want to tell you I won't leave it at all. I must know right now where we are going in this awful storm!"

"I have orders to tell you nothing," said the soldier stanchly.

"Orders, eh? From whom?"

"That is my affair, sir."

"I guess I'm about as much interested in that as anybody, and I insist on knowing our destination. I jumped into this thing blindly, but I'm going to see my way out of it before we go much farther. Where are we going?"

"You—you will learn that soon enough," insisted the other.

"Am I to see her soon? That's what I want to know."

"You must not insist!" cried the soldier. "Why are you so anxious to see her?" he asked suddenly.

"Don't be so blamed inquisitive," said Lorry angrily, impatiently.

"We are going or I'll put you out of the carriage!" Drawing his revolver, he leaned over, grasped the American by the shoulder and moved the carriage forward with his breast.

"For God's sake, be calm! You would not kill me for obeying orders! I am serving one you love. Are you mad? I shall scream if you keep pressing that horrid thing against my side!" Lorry felt him tremble and was at once filled with compunction. How could he expect a loyal fellow to disobey orders?

"I beg your pardon a thousand times," he cried, jamming the pistol into his pocket. "You are a brave gentleman and I am a fool. Take me where you will. I'll go like a lamb. You'll admit, however, that it is exasperating to be going in the dark like this."

It is a very good thing that it is dark," said the soldier quickly. "The darkness is very kind to us. No one can see us, and we can see no one."

"I should say so. I haven't the faintest idea what you look like. Have I seen you at the castle?"

"Yes, frequently."

"Will you tell me your name?"

"You would not know me by name."

"Are you an officer?"

"No. I am new to the service."

"Then I'll see that you are promoted. I like your stanchness. How old are you?"

"I am—er—twenty-two."

"Of the nobility?"

"My father was of noble birth."

"Then you must be too. I hope you'll forgive my rudeness. I'm a bit nervous, you know."

"I forgive you gladly."

"Devilish rough road this."

"Devilish. It is a mountain road."

"That's where we were too."

"Where were you?"

"Oh, a young lady and I some time ago. I just happened to think of it."

"It could not have been pleasant."

"You never made a bigger mistake in your life."

"Oh, she must have been pretty, then."

"You are right this time. She is glorious."

"Dardon me. They usually are in such adventures."

"By Jove, you're a clever one!"

"Does she live in America?"

"That's none of your affair."

"Oh!" And then there was silence between them.

"Inquisitive fool!" muttered Gren to himself.

For some time they bumped along over the rough road, jostling against each other frequently, both enduring stoically and silently. Suddenly Lorry remembered the lantern. It was still lit with the slide closed, when he threw it on the seat. Perhaps it still burned and could relieve the oppressive darkness it but for a short time. He might at least satisfy his curiosity and look upon the face of his companion. Learning forward, he tumbled among the traps on the opposite seat.

"I think I'll see if the lantern is lighted. Let's have it a little more cheerful in here," he said. There was a sharp exclamation, and two vigorous hands grasped him by the shoulder, jerking him back unceremoniously.

"No, no! You will ruin all! There must be no light!" cried the soldier, his voice high and shrill.

"But we are out of the city."

"I know! I know! But I will not permit you to have a light. Against orders. We have not passed the outpost," expostulated the other nervously.

"What's the matter with your voice?" demanded Lorry, struck by the change in it.

"My voice?" asked the other, the tones natural again. "It's changing. Don't it embarrass you when your voice broke like that?" went on the questioner breathlessly. Lorry was now leaning back in the seat, quite a little mystified.

"I don't believe mine ever broke like that," he said speculatively. There was no response, and he sat silent for some time, regretting more and more that it was so dark.

Gradually he became conscious of a strange, uncomfortable presence in that dark cab. He could feel a change coming over him. He could not tell why, but he was sure that some one else was beside him, some one who was not the soldier. Something soft and delicate and sweet came into existence, permeating the darkness with its undeniable presence. A queer power seemed drawing him toward the other end of the seat. The most delightful sensations took possession of him. His heart fluttered oddly. His head began to reel under the spell.

"Who are you?" he cried in a sort of ecstasy. There was no answer. He remembered his watch safe and with trembling, eager fingers drew it from the pocket of the coat he was wearing. The next instant he was scratching a match, but as it flared the body of his companion was hurled against his and a ruthless mouth blew out the feeble blaze.

"Oh, why do you persist?" was cried in his ears.

"I am determined to see your face," he answered sharply, and with a jaw as firm as the other occupant of the carriage fell back in the corner. The next match drove away the darkness and the mystery. With blinking eyes he saw the third soldier huddling in the corner, one arm covering his face, the other hand vainly striving to pull the skirt of a military coat over a pair of red trouser legs. Behind the arm that hid the eyes and nose he saw parted lips and a beardless, dainty chin, above long dark tresses strayed in condemning confusion. The least beneath the blue coat heaved convulsively.

The match dropped from his fingers, and as darkness fell again it hid the soldier in the strong arms of the furniture—not a soldier bold, but a gasping, blushing, unresisting coward. The little form quivered and then became motionless.

"You are to stay there."

"What do you mean? I thought I was to leave Graustark."

"You are to leave—later on. Until the excitement is over the abbey is to be your hiding place. I have arranged everything, and it is the only safe place on earth for you at this time. No one will think of looking for you up there."

"I would to God I could stay there forever, living above you," he said dreamily.

"Your window looks down upon the castle, mine looks up to yours. The lights that burn in those two windows will send out beams of love and life for one of us at least."

"For both of us, my sweetheart," he corrected fondly. "You say I will be safe there. Can you trust these men who are aiding you?"

"With my life!" Quinnox carried a message to the abbot yesterday, and he grants you a temporary home there, secure and as secret as the tomb. He promises me this, and he is my best friend. Now, let me tell you why I am with you, masquerading so shamefully."

"Adorably!" he protested.

"It is because the abbot insisted that I bring you to him personally. He will not receive you except from my hands. There was nothing else for me to do, then, was there, Lorry? I was compelled to come, and I could not come as the princess—a woman. Discovery would have meant degradation from which I could not have hoped to recover. The military garments were my only safeguard."

"And how many people know of your deception?"

"Three besides yourself—Dagmar, Quinnox, and Captain Dangloss. The abbot will know later on, and I shiver as I think of it. The driver and the man who went to your cell. Osgood, know of the escape, but do not know I am here."

"Allo—do you remember, then, as our driver?"

"Allo—do you remember, then, as our driver?"

"Allo—do you remember, then, as our driver?"

"Allo—do you remember, then, as our driver?"

"Allo—do you remember, then, as our driver?"

thought; but see how weak I am! You dominate me; you own me, body and soul, in spite of everything—against my will. I love you, I love you. I love you!"

"I have won against the princes and the potentates! I was losing hope, my queen—losing hope. You were so far away, so unattainable. I would brave a thousand deaths rather than lose this single minute of my life! It makes me the richest man in all the world. How brave you are! This night you have given up everything for my sake. You are dealing with me away from all that has been dear to you."

"No, no; you must not be deluded. It is only for tonight, only till you are safe from pursuit. I shall go back. You must not hope for more than this hour of weakness, sweet as it is to me!" she cried.

"You are going back and not with me?" he cried, his heart chilling.

"You know I cannot. That is why I hoped you would never know how much I care for you. Alas, you have found me out! My love was made rash by fear. You could never have escaped the vengeance of Asphina. I could not have shielded you. This was the only course, and I dared not hesitate. I should have died with terror had you gone to trial, knowing what I knew. You will not think me unwomanly for coming with you as I am. It was necessary—really it was! No one else could have— But he smothered the wail in kisses.

"Unwomanly!" he exclaimed. "It was by divine inspiration. But you will come with me, away from Graustark, away from every one. Say that you will!"

"I cannot bear to hear you plead, and it breaks my heart to go back there. But I cannot leave Graustark—I cannot. It would be heinous to go with you to the end of the world, but I have others besides myself to consider. You are my god, my idol. I can worship you from my unhappy throne, from my chamber, from the cell into which my heart is to retreat. But I cannot, I will not, desert Graustark—not even for you!"

He was silent, impressed by her nobility, her loyalty. Although the joy ebbed from his craving heart, he saw the justice of her self sacrifice.

"I would give my soul to see your eyes now. Judge. Your soul is in your eyes. I can feel it. Why did you not let me stay in prison, meet death, and so end all? It would have been better for both of us. I cannot live without you."

"We can live for each other, die for each other—quit. Distance will not lessen my love. You know that it exists. It has been betrayed to you. Can you not be satisfied—just a little—with that knowledge?" she pleaded.

"But I want you in reality, not in my dreamy imagination."

"Ach! We must not talk like this! There is no alternative. You are to go, I am to stay. The future is before us. We know what it may bring to us. Perhaps it may be good enough to give us happiness, my knight. Do not plead with me. I cannot endure it. Let me be strong again! You will not be so cruel as to battle against me now that I am weak. It would only mean my destruction. You do not see that?"

His soul, his honor, the greatest reverence he had ever known were in the kiss that touched her brow.

"I shall love you as you command—without hope," he said sadly.

"Without hope for either," she sobbed.

"My poor little soldier," he whispered lovingly as her body arched under the storm of tears.

"I wish—I wish—a soldier," she said. He comforted her as best he could, and said she was quiet—oh so quiet! Her head was on his shoulder, her hands in his.

"How far do we drive?" he asked at last.

"To the monastery. We are nearly there," she answered in tones far away.

"The monastery? Why do we go there?" he cried.

"You are to stay there."

"What do you mean? I thought I was to leave Graustark."

"You are to leave—later on. Until the excitement is over the abbey is to be your hiding place. I have arranged everything, and it is the only safe place on earth for you at this time. No one will think of looking for you up there."

"I would to God I could stay there forever, living above you," he said dreamily.

"Your window looks down upon the castle, mine looks up to yours. The lights that burn in those two windows will send out beams of love and life for one of us at least."

"For both of us, my sweetheart," he corrected fondly. "You say I will be safe there. Can you trust these men who are aiding you?"

"With my life!" Quinnox carried a message to the abbot yesterday, and he grants you a temporary home there, secure and as secret as the tomb. He promises me this, and he is my best friend. Now, let me tell you why I am with you, masquerading so shamefully."

"Adorably!" he protested.

"It is because the abbot insisted that I bring you to him personally. He will not receive you except from my hands. There was nothing else for me to do, then, was there, Lorry? I was compelled to come, and I could not come as the princess—a woman. Discovery would have meant degradation from which I could not have hoped to recover. The military garments were my only safeguard."

"And how many people know of your deception?"

"Three besides yourself—Dagmar, Quinnox, and Captain Dangloss. The abbot will know later on, and I shiver as I think of it. The driver and the man who went to your cell. Osgood, know of the escape, but do not know I am here."

Says Women Should Study Alone. Prof. Ludwig Stieda, probably the most famous anatomist in Germany, recently published a powerful protest against the movement among the professors of medical faculties in German universities for permitting women to attend medical lectures in the same classroom with men. He expresses the opinion that the presence of women must have an injurious effect both on the professors and on the women themselves. Prof. Stieda will not exclude women from medical study, but it is absolutely necessary, he says that they be instructed in anatomy in separate classrooms.

Case of Jär. In China a jar placed on the roof of a house with the bottom end toward the street indicates that the daughter of the house is not yet of age to marry. As soon as she has developed into a marriageable maiden the jar is turned with its mouth toward the street. When the young lady gets married the jar is removed altogether. Wouldn't that jar rot?

Simply Forced to It. The found out why St. Paul was so concerned. He told himself, "He did it. Well, that's refreshing. Yes, he said he spent half his life trying to make people think well of him—without success. Then he decided the only way to get a thing done is to do it yourself."

First Swollen to Immense Size. I had hemorrhoids so bad that I could not work," says J. T. Cox, of Valley View, Ky. "My feet were swollen to immense size and I was confined to my bed and physicians were unable to give me any relief. My doctor finally prescribed Doan's Kidney Cure, which made a well man of me." Lots of Work for Idle Hands. Loud and urgent are the calls from western farms and orchards for scores of thousands of wage earners for the harvesting of the crops and the gathering of the fruits. But too many idlers, tramps and beggars in our cities, and in the country regions also, turn deaf ears to such appeals and refuse tempting opportunities to earn honest and comfortable livings. The vagrant, spirit, the "dead-beat" desire to get along without working, is too conspicuous everywhere.—New York Tribune.
